Civic Assn. Approves Elliott Park Agreement

$21,000 Remains to be Raised before Sept. 30

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the special called meeting on Aug. 26, the Sewanee Civic Association (SCA) overwhelmingly voted to approve the memorandum of understanding (MOU) between the Civic Association and the University of the South for the Elliott Park playground. Recognizing the need for renovation of the Elliott Park playground, the Civic Association Parks Committee identified the project as a community priority in early 2013. The park, which had a long history of community support, had fallen into disrepair.

Located on University Avenue in the center of campus near All Saints' Chapel and the University Book and Supply Store, the new Elliott park playground will include a balance beam, bridge, climbing structures, swing sets, spinning elements and a musical component. The park will be accessible for all children and will incorporate local and natural materials.

"This is an important partnership between the SCA and the University of the South to benefit the community," said Kiki Beavers, SCA president. "The five-year MOU clearly identifies the separate responsibilities of the Civic Association and the University."

The Civic Association will secure funding for the purchase of the playground equipment and installation; inspect the boundary and notify physical plant services if action is needed; be the point of contact for complaints; secure and maintain safety certificates with GameTime, the playground equipment manufacturer; and under GameTime's supervision, oversee the community build portion of the construction and installation.

The University will be responsible for site preparation and drainage; accessibility and improving parking facilities; and the cost of moving and or replacing the playground equipment if the site is needed for other purposes.

In response to a question about the location of the playground, Provost John Swallow said, "Yes, there is a planning document that shows a new library in that location. But since that building has a $50 million price tag, I don't see it happening any time soon."

Tracy City Gets Funds to Make New Paths

For Pedestrians and Bicyclists Through Downtown

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Development State Director Bobby Goode announced a $70,000 grant and $180,000 loan to help the town of Tracy City make downtown more accessible, in a statement issued on Aug. 24.

"Accessible facilities and downtown infrastructure make it a lot easier for people to come together for the good of the community," Goode said. "USDA's Strike Force for Rural Growth and Opportunity initiative aims to increase investments in rural communities through intensive outreach and strong partnerships. Today we see the benefit of engaging with local leaders and community members to develop long-term economic plans to leverage limited resources through close collaboration with state and federal partners."

The Community Facilities Direct Loan and Grant program funds will be used to provide a multi-modal transportation path for pedestrians and bicyclists through the heart of downtown Tracy City, connecting with Tracy City Elementary School (and the proposed location of the Mountain Goat Trail pathway from Monteagle to Tracy City) to the north side of downtown at the intersection of Highway 41 and Nathurst Street. The path is a combination of approximately 1.2 miles of sidewalks and walkways. American with Disabilities Act-compliant trailhead parking will be created downtown at the intersection of Railroad Avenue and Highway 41.

USDA Rural Development is making investments in rural America with housing, business and infrastructure loans and grants to create jobs and strengthen rural economies with an emphasis to assist areas of persistent poverty. Since 2009, the agency has assisted more than 1.5 million Tennessee families and businesses in 230 communities in all 95 counties of Tennessee, investing more than $5.4 billion through affordable loans, loan guarantees and grants. For more information call (423) 756.2239 or go online to <www.rd.usda.gov/TN>.

Fulford Hall Will Continue to Stand on Sewanee Campus

Sewanee Vice-Chancellor John McCardell announced during the Aug. 25 "Launching of a New Year" event that Fulford Hall will be renovated and will continue to stand on the University of the South campus. McCardell made the announcement following consultation with the University chancellor and the chair of the board of regents.

"We undertook an evaluation of the safety and soundness of Fulford Hall. The evaluation comprehensively examined the condition of Fulford, its possible future uses, and whether the costs, respectively, of replacement, renovation, or relocation were justified. Further, we conducted the study with an open mind, prepared, in the best tradition of the University, to let evidence inform conclusions rather than the other way around," said McCardell.

"We have just received a draft of the report. Based on its findings, I am now able to announce that the option of taking down Fulford Hall is off the table. The regents will continue to consider the best long-term use of Fulford, but it is now safe to say that the building can and will, at reasonable cost, be renovated to serve the University for many years to come."

During the summer, a study of the University Avenue corridor from Georgia Avenue to Tennessee Avenue was conducted. The study also included the structural assessment of Fulford Hall, following the opinion of the fire chief that Fulford Hall in its current condition may pose a safety risk. The University hopes to make the final version of the report available soon after it has been received.

Marie Eldridge and Tony Gilliam with the new patrol vehicle

Sewanee Police Department Wins New Patrol Vehicle

The Sewanee Police Department partners with the Tennessee Governor's Highway Safety Office each year to step up DUI enforcement on the days surrounding the Labor Day holiday. This year, the dates are Aug. 19 to Sept. 7. Because of this collaborative work in the past, the Sewanee Police Department was awarded a new Ford Focus patrol car in late August.

Sewanee Police Chief Marie Eldridge cited officer Tony Gilliam's careful work in this effort. Gilliam "has kept track of all the department's participation in such activities as roadblock DUI checks, seatbelt checks and the "Booze It or Lose It" program," Eldridge said. The patrol vehicle was one of three awarded by the Governor's Highway Safety Office in a random drawing of all participating departments.

Tennessee experienced 6,645 known alcohol-related crashes in 2014, which means an average of 18 people each day get behind the wheel after they have been drinking and cause an accident.

A single DUI conviction can cost an individual $5,000 or more, in addition to jail time. Offenders could also be required to attend drug and alcohol treatment or to install an ignition interlock device in their vehicle.

"Too many people think their actions don't affect anyone else," Eldridge said. "They know it's illegal. They know it's wrong. But they do it anyway; they make decisions as if those statistics just can't happen to them."

The "Booze It and Lose It" campaign is part of a national effort to prevent drunk driving. Increased state and national messaging about the dangers of driving drunk aim to reduce the toll of drunk driving. For more information visit <www.tntrafficsafety.org>.

AngelFest Set for Sept. 25

The fifth annual AngelFest will take place on Friday, Sept. 25, in the Angel Park in Sewanee. Family-friendly activities will begin at 4:30 p.m.; this year's plans include face-painting, inflatables, hands-on building projects and wild animal presentations.

For adults, there will be the opportunity to purchase a "beer flight" or a "liquor flight" with samples of the adult beverages at some of the downtown area restaurants.

Singer Jason Eskridge and his band will provide the music, beginning at 7:30 p.m. He is a native of Tennessee and is known for his soul-acoustic-folk music. Later this year Eskridge will be touring with the Zac Brown Band.

AngelFest is organized and sponsored by Joseph's Remodeling Solutions. For the full schedule of activities go to <www.sewaneeangelfest.blogspot.com>. The Angel Park and Pavilion were created by the Sewanee Business Alliance, which is committed to developing the downtown area as a center for families, businesses and nonprofits to enjoy the lifestyle Sewanee offers and to build relationships throughout the community.

THREE GREAT WOMEN

To the Editor:

During the past few months, Sewanee has lost three of its most influential and beloved women: Georgie Short, Eileen Degen and Jean Yeatman. They were so much a part of our community and will be greatly missed.

Of the three, I knew Georgie Short the best. It seemed as if she knew everyone she met during her walks around campus or her coffee breaks at the Blue Chair. She would always greet them with that fantastic smile—asking about their family, their lives. She and her husband, Bob, loved to entertain, and their door was always open for a glass of wine and “nibbles” with friends, friends of friends, and endless visitors from their beloved Mississippi. She could often be found, too, sitting on her front porch reading or visiting with a neighbor.

I knew Eileen Degen from her volunteering at the Thurmond Library. She was the epitome of the British country lady, even though she had lived in the United States since the 1940s. She exuded a calmness and an intellect that always produced quiet results, no matter what the challenge appeared to be. I can only imagine what a delightful teacher she was.

I only met Jean Yeatman twice, but I felt that I knew her from the “Nature Notes” that she and her husband, Harry, wrote for years in the Sewanee Mountain Messenger. Accounts of their treks to various nature sanctuaries in the area entertained and educated us each week. After Harry’s death, Jean continued to write the column until her retirement last year. We have so much greater appreciation for our natural environment because of her efforts.

The passing of these three extraordinary ladies leaves a big hole in our Sewanee heart.

TEACH CHAIREXERCISE:

To the Editor:

For many years, Monday and Thursday mornings were special to my mom. She looked forward to going to the Sewanee Senior Center and doing the chair exercises that were offered. It was a chance not only to keep moving, but also a social outlet. There were many community members who came at 10:30 a.m. on those days and spent a very productive 45 minutes moving together.

It’s now time to find a person or two who can help keep this program going and grow the group. The program is spelled out on paper. It takes approximately 30–45 minutes to lead the class. You do not need prior experience, but if you know anything about keeping people moving, we would be grateful to have you volunteer.

I know how important these are to my mom. I am sure there are many other seniors who would find these classes beneficial. Can you help? If so, please call me at (954) 830-4760. Thank you. I know that we can do this in Sewanee!

GRATITUDE TO COMMUNITY

To the Editor:

I can’t begin to express my gratitude to the Sewanee community for the outpouring of sorrow and affection at the untimely death of our beloved husband and father, Joi Johannsson.

August 24 would have been his 62nd birthday, and we were planning to have an “It’s a Wonderful Life” party, so he could hear all the things that were written and spoken about him, but we were a few weeks too late. His time was shorter than we knew.

The memorial service in All Saints’ Chapel was a moving and humbling experience, and we would like to extend special thanks to Tom Macfie, Vicki Sells, the Sewanee Chorale, John and Bonnie McCardell and everyone who came out, or wrote or spoke their words of comfort and love.

Joi will be missed by more people than he ever realized. Thank you all.

ELLIOTT PARKE EVENT

To the Editor:

Thank you to everyone involved for making the Aug. 22 lemonade stand and bake sale fund-raiser for Elliott Park a success! When we first had the idea, it was a way to help our children be involved with the community—and, as the results show, their involvement paid off.

While raising $1,671.26 surely made us all feel good, the sense of community in planning and holding the event made the day a different sort of success as well. The Sewanee Mountain Messenger and Sewanee Elementary School principal Kim Tucker helped us to get the word out—and it worked! The Community Center loaned us the tables and chairs, Charles Whitmer and the CCJP loaned us a tent (to keep both treats and helpers from melting!), and the University and the Sewanee Civic Association both provided support.

Making this event happen on such short notice took the time and efforts of many others as well, and I am grateful to everyone who participated, including the coordinators, but also the bakers and lemonade makers, the table decorators and sign makers, the face painter and table workers, the sign holders and instrument shakers, and everyone who donated money (or time) in one way or another. Thanks, especially, to all of the children—a lemonade stand just wouldn’t make sense without them!

This may have been the perfect small-town event, with sunshine, happy children, mingling adults and sugar enough for everyone. To make the ending even sweeter: if you haven’t already done so, consider donating to the cause online at <gofundme.com/fortheParks>. We look forward to seeing you on the playground. Thank you, everyone!

Obituaries

Roberta J. Bogart

Roberta J. "Robbie" Bogart, age 66, died on Aug. 17, 2015. She was born on May 12, 1949, in New Haven, Conn., to Robert Louis Bogart and Mabel Anna Crosby. She spent her summers in Monteagle, where she volunteered at Animal Alliance-South Cumberland. She was a member of the Tennessee Trails Association and enjoyed hiking and kayaking. She was a U.S. Air Force veteran and a former sheriff's deputy.

She is survived by two children, Gregory Calkins and Cheryl Mandizha; her sister, Pam MacFarlane; and four grandchildren.

Military funeral services will be Aug. 28 at the National Cemetery in Bushnell, Fla. In lieu of flowers the family wishes donations be made to local spay and neuter clinics. For complete obituary go to <www.beckfamilyfuneral.com>.

Jean Anderson Yeatman

Jean Anderson Yeatman, age 87 of Sewanee, died on August 20, 2015, at her residence. A beloved naturalist, she and her husband wrote "Nature Notes" for the Sewanee Mountain Messenger from 1985 until 2014.

She was born on July 28, 1928, in Augusta, Ga., to Hansford and Marjorie Anderson. During World War II, she was a proud member of the Victory Corps, planting a Victory Garden at her family's home. She graduated from University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill with a bachelor's degree in botany. In 1950 she moved to Sewanee when her husband, Harry C. Yeatman, began teaching biology at the University of the South.

She taught horseback riding at St. Mary's School from 1951 to 1966. She shared her love of nature with children by leading Cub Scouts, Brownies and Girl Scouts on hiking, canoeing and caving adventures. Active in sports throughout her life, she taught physical education at St. Andrew's School in the 1970s.

Along with her husband, she was the first recipient of the Trails & Trilliums' Yeatman Environmental Education Award established in their honor in 2007. They were also presented the State Naturalist Award by the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation in 2009. She was preceded in death by her husband.

She is survived by her son, Clay (Paula) Yeatman of Lilburn, Ga.; daughter, Jean H. Yeatman (Claude dePamphilis) of State College, Pa.; sister, Ann Anderson (Becky Davenport) of Augusta, Ga.; and two grandsons, Walker and Harry.

An interment service will be at 11 a.m., Oct. 24, at St. John's Church, Ashwood, Tenn. A memorial service is planned for Oct. 25, in St. Mark's Hall, at Otey Parish in Sewanee.

The family requests that memorial donations be made to Friends of South Cumberland State Park, P.O. Box 816, Sewanee, TN 37375 or online at <www.friendsofscra.org>.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Lucinda Howard Hawks

A memorial celebration of the life of Lucinda Howard Hawks, who died on July 22, 2015, will be at noon, Saturday, Aug. 29, at St. James Episcopal Church, Midway. A reception will follow in the parish hall.

Otey Memorial Parish

At 10 a.m., Sunday, Aug. 30, Adult Forum at Otey Parish will kick off a year-long series on "Witnesses to the Faith." The opening presentation, "William S. Claiborne and the Mission of Otey Parish," will be given by John Bratton, a lifelong member of Otey and a member of the Sewanee Trust for Historic Preservation, with assistance from Nathan Stewart, a senior in the College. Archdeacon Claiborne, for whom the parish hall is named, was ordained as rector of Otey Parish while still in seminary.

Children ages 3–11 can attend Godly Play at 10 a.m.; both classes meet on the first floor of Claiborne House. Nursery care is available for children 6 weeks old to 4 years old from 8:30 a.m. until after the coffee hour following the second service.

The annual Welcome Back Picnic will be at 5 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 30. The parish will provide burgers, hotdogs, and the fixings. Please bring a side dish or dessert to share.

This is a great opportunity to see friends who have been away during the summer, meet new families and learn more about Otey Parish. There will be activities for people of all ages.

DuBose Lectures in September

The DuBose Lectures, hosted by the Sewanee School of Theology, will be Sept. 23–24. Sarah Coakley, the Norris-Hulse Professor of Divinity at Murray Edwards College, University of Cambridge, will be the speaker. Coakley will give three lectures under the theme "Return to Sacrifice: Reconsidering Sacrifice in Systematic Perspective."

Coakley previously held positions at the Universities of Lancaster, Oxford and Harvard, and a visiting professorship at Princeton. In 2012 she delivered the Gifford Lectures in Aberdeen on the topic "Sacrifice Regained: Evolution, Cooperation and God."

The DuBose Lectures memorialize William Porcher DuBose, second dean of the School of Theology.

MEET YOUR NEIGHBOR

by Kevin Cummings
Messenger Staff Writer

What good is it for a man to gain the whole world, and yet lose or forfeit his very self? — Luke 9:25

Kenny Green is a bearded young guy, fashionably dressed, easy-going and personable. Mid-morning July, we sit outside along University Avenue, and he's about to tell a story of his father's suicide, Kenny's days as a drug dealer and his redemptive passion for Christ and people.

Over in Monteagle, construction is continuing on a new storefront site for New Beginnings Church, which Kenny pastors.

"These have been the greatest years of my life by far," he says with a big smile.

You see, he met his wife, Kayla, while earning a degree in pastoral ministry at Tennessee Temple University, and married her about three-and-a-half years ago, not long after graduation. Around the same time, he became pastor of Jump Off Baptist Church (now New Beginnings Church). Currently he's spearheading the church's move to a 5,000-square-foot facility on a busy stretch of Highway 41A adjacent to Fred's.

Kenny, 30, is fortunate not to be dead or locked up. Kicked out of school at 17, in and out of jail, he started selling drugs between Woodstock, Ga., and Atlanta. Life was good for a season, as he made plenty of cash, enough for a nice car, apartment and TV, things he had dreamed of having.

"There came a time that I was getting so deep into it that I was worried I was going to get robbed or shot or go to prison," he says. "That constant anxiety and stress just wasn't fun anymore. What was really fun in the beginning wasn't fulfilling or satisfying. It was a desperate time in my life, for sure."

Kenny says an informant and a desperate prayer changed all that.

But to understand his immersion in the drug world, you have to look back to his childhood, which was something of a nightmare.

"Childhood was difficult," he says. "I saw a lot of things that a young child shouldn't see—large amounts of drugs in the house."

Kenny's dad was a drug dealer and user, and his parents would fight constantly over the collision of his dad's addiction and family life. A mounting fear, spurred by rumors that rival dealers were going to kill his dad or the entire family, forced Kenny's mom to file for divorce and move with her son from Missouri to Georgia.

After getting out of jail on drug charges, Kenny's dad had lost everything. He had a daughter addicted to drugs, he'd lost his wife and son, and with a mind and soul riddled by drug abuse, he killed himself. At 13, Kenny was fatherless. The man who taught him to throw a football and how to hunt was gone. He and his mom waded through those tragic days with support from the people at First Baptist Church of Woodstock.

A standout basketball player and tailback in football at Etowah High School, Kenny liked to party and in a short time, he was walking his dad's path selling drugs. In 2005, Kenny, then 20, prayed to God for a way out of that life. Two weeks later, after an informant tip, police raided his apartment and arrested him.

"I knew it was God answering my prayer and giving me a way out. The God of this universe is reaching out to me, he's speaking to me and at that moment, I had the faith to believe that He was real. That night I got on my knees in the jail cell and surrendered my life to Jesus."

Kenny preached during his six months in jail, sharing the Gospel with murderers and thieves, and giving them a message that God would forgive anything they'd done. Faith-based rehab helped Kenny continue his recovery and instilled a passion for ministering to people recovering from substance abuse. Kenny is a staff member for the 12th District Drug Court Foundation, and a number of recovering addicts attend New Beginnings Church, which is now non-denominational and has grown from seven parishioners to more than 100 each Sunday.

"We changed our ministry philosophy and became an outward-focused church rather than an inward-focused church," he says. "We just wanted to do our ministry the way we saw Jesus doing ministry in the Bible. One thing that Jesus did was he came to seek and to save that which was lost. People who normally wouldn't come to church, we want them to come to our church to feel welcome, feel the love of Christ."

The church demographic is varied; it includes drug caseworkers, students, professors, homemakers and blue collar workers. The new church building is slated to open in October, and Kenny says the church has a goal of further expansion, including satellite locations.

"We have such a big vision at New Beginnings, because we serve a big God," he says.

As for individual goals, Kayla, a nanny, and intern at the 12th District Drug Court Foundation, is pursuing a psychology degree and plans to counsel people recovering from addiction. Kenny has started classes for his master's degree, and the couple is currently trying to have a baby.

"We're praying to have a family soon, and I just want to always be a better husband and a great father to our children one day," he says.

The issue of insurance, Beavers said, was still under discussion, but was important to both the Civic Association and the University.

The Civic Association must raise $21,241 by Sept. 30 for the playground. To date, $43,759 of the playground's cost of $65,000 has been raised. Major funders include the South Cumberland Community Fund, the Sewanee Community Council Funding Project, the Kaj Krogstad Memorial Fund, the Joel and Trudy Cunningham Charitable Fund, and donations through a designated fund with the Sewanee Community Chest.

"If everyone living in Sewanee gave $10, we'd be finished," Beavers said, encouraging community members to step forward and make a contribution to a project that will benefit Sewanee residents.

The Civic Association has a number of grant proposals pending. Beavers said other possible sources of support for the final funds are the Community Chest Opportunity Fund and financing through GameTime. Civic Association attorneys are still reviewing the MOU. The vote of approval granted Beavers power to approve the final document at her discretion.

Site preparation is slated to begin in September. Organizers hope that the playground will be delivered in mid-October. There will be time during this process for community participation in the playground's installation.

Bake Sale and Lemonade Raise $1,670 for Elliott Park

Tiny peanut butter cups were sailboats on brownie cupcake seas. Colorful ribboned bags cheerfully encased cookies. Sriracha cheddar angels flew above the assorted muffins, brownies, cookies, dog treats, cakes, lemonade and more, conferring a spicy version of the usual Sewanee protection.

At the lemonade stand and bake sale fund-raiser for Elliott Park on Aug. 22, the Sewanee angels did their job, and the special event raised $1,670. The bake sale brought in $620, an honor box for treats after the sale officially ended netted an extra $83, and generous on-the-spot donations contributed the additional $967.

With the organization of Jessica Anderson, Sarah Marhevsky, Viva Reynolds and Megan Roberts, and with help from Cameron Swallow, area parents hosted the fund-raiser in front of the University Book and Supply Store for the new playground. The event was a community effort: with the support of the University and the Sewanee Civic Association, more than 30 adults and at least 60 children participated in the event, and many more stopped by, brought treats and made donations to the project.

Children with signs and posters attracted customers with their exuberant presence and their shaking instruments. Shelley MacLaren's face-painting transformed kids into tigers, frogs and butterflies who greeted customers with good cheer.

The event was a success, but it was also a celebration of community and all that is best about life in this small town.

Community Chest Funding Applications Available

The Sewanee Community Chest Fund Drive announces the beginning of the 2015–16 fund-raising campaign. Sponsored by the Sewanee Civic Association, the Sewanee Community Chest raises funds for local organizations that serve the common good. Funding applications are now being accepted. The deadline for submission is Saturday, Sept. 12. Please contact <sewaneecommunitychest@gmail.com> to have an application either emailed or mailed to your organization.

A downloadable request for funds form is available at <https://sewanee-civic.wordpress.com/community-chest/funding-request/>.

Nonprofit organizations serving the Plateau are encouraged to apply. The Sewanee Community Chest does not allocate funds to those organizations discriminating on the basis of race, creed, sex, or national origin.

The volunteer-led Sewanee Community Chest has met the needs of the community since 1908, including the needs of those living in Franklin, Grundy and Marion counties. The Community Chest strives to fund organizations who help those caught in the cycle of poverty, who improve lives through outreach and community initiatives, and who provide support for children.

Through the generous commitment of the entire community last year, the Sewanee Community Chest was able to help 27 organizations and initiatives with a total of $101,400. The money raised in the community went directly to organizations that supported the following: community aid, $22,650; children, $36,500; quality of life, $35,000; and beyond sewanee, $7,250. Last year's recipients included Housing Sewanee, the Community Action Committee, Grundy Area Arts Council, the Sewanee Elementary Parent Organization, the Grundy County Food Bank and Folks at Home.

The Sewanee Civic Association encourages everyone who benefits from life in this community—whether you live, work, or visit—to give to the Community Chest. The Sewanee Community Chest is a 501(c)3 organization, and donations are tax-deductible.

Donations and pledges are accepted at any time at P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375. There are two online options to donate to the Sewanee Community Chest, through PayPal and AmazonSmile. For more information on how you can make a difference or to read about the organizations supported, go to <sewanee-civic.wordpress.com>.

Senior Center News

Aug. 31: Beef fajita, rice, refried beans, dessert.

Sept. 1: Liver and onions, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, roll, dessert.

Sept. 2: Hamburger gravy on toast, green beans, dessert.

Sept. 3: Cheeseburger, onion rings, dessert.

Sept. 4: Open-face turkey sandwiches, gravy, mashed potatoes, slaw, dessert.

Participation at the Center

The Sewanee Senior Center does not charge any membership fee. All persons 50 or older who take part in any of the activities are considered members. The center is located at 5 Ball Park Rd., behind the Sewanee Market. To reserve a meal or for more information, call 598-0771.

Area Ash Trees in Jeopardy

The University has received word from the Tennessee Department of Forestry that the emerald ash borer (EAB), an invasive insect that destroys ash trees, has arrived in Franklin County.

Insecticides are available to treat individual trees or small groups of trees. Unfortunately, if the EAB spreads, it will likely kill most of the ash trees in area forests. Tennessee now has 46 counties under state and federal EAB quarantine.

According to the Tennessee Department of Forestry, the adult insects are dark green, one-half inch in length and one-eighth inch wide, and fly only from April until September. Infested trees display "D" shaped holes in the bark, and trees typically start to lose leaves one or two years after infestation. For more information go to <www.tn.gov/agriculture/topic/ag-businesses-eab>.

Sewanee Elementary School students read for more than 46,000 minutes during the summer! Students were encouraged to record the number of minutes they read throughout the summer and log them, said Kathryn Bruce, SES librarian. Top Summer Super Readers were: Marcus Briggie (first grade), Eliot Sparacio (second grade), Mason Sparacio (kindergarten), Madison King (fifth grade), Anja Dombrowski (fourth grade) and Saida Thomas (third grade).

Liles Earns Phi Beta Kappa Internship

The Phi Beta Kappa Society is pleased to announce that Sewanee senior Lindsey Liles is the recipient of a 2015 Phi Beta Kappa Writing Internship. The internship period began in August and will continue through December 2015.

Lindsey is an English and biology double-major; she is interested in wildlife conservation, herpetology, reading and writing. Last summer she taught English as a second language in the Galápagos Islands of Ecuador. Her other interests include tennis, hiking, photography and embroidery. After graduation, Lindsey hopes to pursue a post-graduate degree in either English or biology.

Phi Beta Kappa's writing internships are for juniors and seniors majoring in the liberal arts or sciences who attend institutions where chapters are located.

Interns must make a five-month commitment to the program and prepare a minimum of six publishable articles for the Society's publication for news and alumni relations, The Key Reporter.

The program has two deadlines annually, for internships in the fall and spring of each academic year. Fifteen students are selected from a national pool in each round.

A student does not need to be a member of Phi Beta Kappa to serve as a writing intern, but they must be recommended by their institution's Phi Beta Kappa chapter to be considered for the program.

Green Club Forming

Green Club is a group of children and parents that started as an alternative to preschool in November 2014. It was originally intended for ages 4–6, but is now open to all children who are interested in learning and playing with younger and older children.

Last year, regular activities were music, yoga, arts and crafts, and hiking, walking and playing in nature. Meetings were three times a week for about three hours on Monday afternoons, and in the morning on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Coordinator Lucie Carlson said, "We had a wonderful first year. We did many things—played music together, made baskets and other crafts, learned about Japan and other countries, visited a farm to see baby goats, planted crocuses, and played outside in sunny and rainy weather.

"Now we are looking forward to new children and their families, including more community members, co-creating this program and experiencing more adventures together," she continued.

Green Club is a cooperative, so there is no "director." Parents and children make the program themselves. So far, there are three households hosting the club and making the program. Guests are always welcome, but a sustainable group of children who come regularly works best.

People from the community are invited to share/teach what they are passionate about, whether it's science, nature knowledge, art or anything else.

"Everyone who cares about nature and a healthy lifestyle, who is open-minded and likes to create, play and learn with friends is welcome," Carlson said. Contact her at 598-9852 or email <luce.carlson@gmail.com>.

AIDS Orphan Project Founder

Twesigye Jackson Kaguri, the founder of the Nyaka Aids Orphans Project, an organization that provides support for Ugandan children whose parents have died of HIV/AIDS, will give a public talk, "A School for my Village: A Promise to the Orphans of Nyaka," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 10, in Gailor Auditorium.

A reception will follow. The speech and reception are free and open to all.

The Nyaka Aids Orphans Project runs schools that provide free primary and secondary education, supports social entrepreneurship programs that assist grandparents who are raising orphans, and operates libraries, nutrition programs, clean water systems and a medical clinic. The organization provides support for an estimated 43,000 AIDS orphans.

According to United Nations estimates, approximately 7.2 percent of Uganda's population is infected with HIV/AIDS. Kaguri is a Ugandan native who rose from poverty and co-founded Human Rights Concern.

In 2001, Kaguri, who had emigrated to the United States, visited his village in Uganda with his wife, where they were confronted with the vast crisis of HIV/AIDS orphans.

Realizing the scope of the problem in his own village, he decided to start a school. Working at first with the money his family had set aside for a down payment on a house, he built the school and created an organization that in 2014 raised almost $1 million for HIV/AIDS orphans.

Until 2011, he was interim senior director of development in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at Michigan State University. He now works full-time for the Orphans Project.

Kaguri is the co-author of two books about the project. While here, he will also meet with students, faculty and staff. For more information about his visit, email <babsoncgc@sewanee.edu>.

Kaguri's visit to Sewanee is sponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce, the economics department, the International and Global Studies Program, the Mellon Globalization Forum, the politics department, the Social Entrepreneurship Education Program and the University Lectures Committee.

Nathan King of Sewanee recently attended Space Camp Robotics at the U.S. Space & Rocket Center in Huntsville, Ala. The week-long educational program promotes science, technology, engineering and math with hands-on activities and missions based on teamwork, leadership and decision-making. The Robotics Academy Program teaches trainees how engineers develop solutions using real-world technologies. Nathan is a seventh-grade student at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School; he is the son of Barbara and Isaac King of Sewanee.

Wells Joins Southern Tennessee Regional Health System

Southern Tennessee Regional Health System recently announced that Sara Wells, M.D., has joined its staff and will be offering urology services to patients throughout the Tennessee Valley. Wells brings more than five years of experience and expertise to Southern Tennessee Regional.

"Dr. Wells has years of experience in treating a range of complex conditions, and she is an excellent addition to our hospital team," said Jerry Dooley, interim CEO of Southern Tennessee Regional Health System.

Wells joins the system from Upper Cumberland Urology Associates. Before that, she was a resident urologist at the University of Louisville. Wells graduated from the University of Kansas in 2009.

Goldberg Honored for Distinguished Research

At the opening meeting of the new academic year at Middle Tennessee State University, Nancy Sloan Goldberg of Sewanee received the Foundation Award for Distinguished Research.

A professor of French at MTSU since 1988, Goldberg centers her research on the interconnectedness of literature and politics in early 20th-century France and specifically on fiction written during World War I.

She was honored for her two books, "En l'honneur de la juste parole: la poésie française contre la Grande Guerre" ["In Honor of the Righteous Word: French Poetry against the Great War"], with a preface written by the late Scott Bates, and "Woman, Your Hour is Sounding: Continuity and Change in French Women's Novels of the Great War," as well as more than 20 articles and book chapters published in peer-reviewed journals in France, England, Italy, Chile, Australia and the United States.

Her recent publications reflect the renewed global interest in World War I inspired by the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the conflict and include a radio interview on French war poetry for the BBC and an essay published in France, "Une grande âme n'est jamais seule: la réception poétique contemporaine d'Au-dessus de la mêlée" ["A Great Soul is Never Alone: The Contemporary Poetic Reception of 'Above the Battle'"] concerning the impact of dissident Romain Rolland on his fellow writers.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

Avengers: Age of Ultron

7:30 p.m., Friday–Sunday, Aug. 28–30
2015 • Rated PG-13 • 141 minutes

Despite the glut of superhero films in theatres lately, "Avengers: Age of Ultron" manages to balance a multitude of characters and still manage to succeed its predecessor. Joss Whedon, well-known for some of TV's classic fantasy shows such as "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," reprises as director. Whereas the first film's dialogue was chock-full of glib one-liners and character banter, the overall tone of this film is much more serious.

The most entertaining character is Ultron himself, a renegade Artificial Intelligence with malicious intentions voiced urbane by James Spader (well-known for playing black sheep roles throughout his 30-year career). Ultron is initially introduced into the world by Jarvis, the affable British program voiced by the wonderful Paul Bettany, who is Tony Stark's (aka Iron Man) virtual right-hand "man." Well-intentioned Jarvis explains that Ultron was created to be part of a peacekeeping enforcement to protect humans, but it becomes clear Ultron has no intention of being the good guy here. Jarvis gets quickly overtaken and Ultron, without the limitations of a fixed body, quickly begins leaving a global path of destruction.

There are a lot of chaotic action sequences, including a completely unnecessary Hulk rampage, where Stark is forced to bring his best friend Bruce Banner to heel, but there's no doubt they are filmed expertly. There's a hint of romance between Bruce and Black Widow, but not enough time to have it develop enough to be truly believable. What this sequel does have over its predecessor is a sense that these characters have become a family to one another, and there is an empathy toward these characters that I did not feel before, which I credit to better writing and character development. Rated PG-13 for intense sequences of sci-fi action and some suggestive comments, "Avengers" is appropriate for families of older children, as well as adults looking for a good popcorn film to put the finishing touch on summer.

The Departed

7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 2
2006 • Rated R • 151 minutes

"The Departed," directed by Martin Scorsese, was originally based on a thriller from Hong Kong titled "Infernal Affairs." Moving the setting from Asia to inner-city Boston, Scorsese gives us an intense tale of deception. The plot centers around the state police force trying to bring down an Irish-American crime ring led by Frank Costello (Jack Nicholson). Colin Sullivan (Matt Damon) appears to be a hardworking, straight-arrow cop, but he actually has a long-standing relationship with Costello. Enter Billy Costigan (Leonardo DiCaprio), an undercover cop assigned to be one of Costello's goons in an effort to dig up information on him for the police. A cloak-and-dagger plot ensues, as each man becomes psychologically entrenched in their deceptive roles. Mark Wahlberg, whose role in this film got him nominated for Best Supporting Actor in the 2007 Oscars, turns in a powerhouse performance as the foul-mouthed FBI agent Dignam, who is the first to suspect something rotten beneath Sullivan's squeaky clean exterior. This film also won the Oscar for Best Picture and gave Scorsese his well-deserved Oscar for Best Director. Rated R for graphic violence, strong language, sexual content and drug material, this one is definitely for older teens and adults only.

Pitch Perfect 2

7:30 p.m., Thursday–Sunday, Sept. 3–6
2015 • PG-13 • 115 minutes

The eclectic all-female a cappella group The Bellas are back, and they are taking their voices global. When the Barden University group of talented gals find themselves humiliated at Lincoln Center, they decide they are going to come back even stronger by winning an international competition that no American team has ever won. The most entertaining part is watching how the vastly different personality types within the group riff off one another, with Australian actress Rebel Wilson continuing to steal the show as self-titled "Fat Amy," with her no-nonsense approach to her plus-size self. Elizabeth Banks, better known as Effie Trinket in the Hunger Games films, returns to direct. Her passion for boosting young women's self esteem by showing ladies of all shapes and personalities supporting each other is apparent. With energetic musical numbers and plenty of girl power to go around, it is a fun feature for tweens and adults alike. Rated PG-13 for innuendo and some strong language, it proves to be a strong second act.

Butler Opens Show of Photographs at Stirling's

Isabel Butler, a senior at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, has a photography exhibit, "Friends and Neighbors," now on display at Stirling's Coffee House in Sewanee.

"Until recently, my photography was almost exclusively focused on capturing candid moments from my life, taking an artistic look at everyday scenes," said Isabel. "Last spring, my photography teacher, Rachel Malde, challenged me to try a different approach, to slow down and work more deliberately. She suggested I take portraits and to think about them as a single project. The photos you see here are the result."

"I'm a senior at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, and I've spent the last eight years growing up in the unique community that is Sewanee, so it was easy to find subjects for portraits. You'll see some familiar faces here: college students, university employees, neighbors, local kids, my classmates and friends," she said.

"As a photographer, I feel a responsibility to the people who trust me to capture something meaningful about them in the instant that my camera's shutter is open. By taking my time, being purposeful, and working to find that essential moment, I hope I've done some of that with these photos," Isabel said. "Thank you so much to Mrs. Malde for being encouraging and supportive; to Katherine Evans and Stirling's for a place to hang my pictures; and, especially, to everyone who let me borrow their faces for this show."

Isabel, daughter of Sarah and Buck Butler of Sewanee, is an honors student at SAS. She has received Most Valuable Player awards in basketball and soccer. In addition to her academic and athletic talent, Isabel is a stellar photographer. She received the SAS Gallery Award for 2-D art at the last SAS Honors Day.

Multimedia Artist Daniel in Sewanee with Wray

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at University of the South is pleased to present "Slab City Bulletin Board" and "Tri-X-Noise," two exhibitions by multimedia artist Bill Daniel, now through Sept. 24.

The artist talk and opening reception is at 4:30 p.m., today (Friday), Aug. 28. There will be a musical performance by Wray, 5:30–7:30 p.m., today.

Known for his work as an experimental documentary film artist, cinematographer, photographer and curator, Daniel continues to experiment with survivalism and bricolage in his attempts to record and report on the various social margins he finds himself in.

"Slab City Bulletin Board" is a photo-based, static, 3-D installation that provides a site, context and "deployment metaphor" for a photography collage made of photographs and of photographic re-prints of found paper ephemera.

"Tri-X-Noise," a collection of black-and-white photographs, is a nonstop road trip across 34 years of counter-cultural participation, documentation and DIY dissemination. It represents a hybrid of documentary and personal photography as evidence that countless counterculture scenes are still happening.

Daniel's gallery talk will be followed with a musical performance by the three-piece rock band Wray from Birmingham, Ala. Wray's shimmering, headphone-ready tones owe much to Slowdive, My Bloody Valentine and The Cure, but without the crippling self-absorption.

Janice Grant with "At the Cross"

Visitors Select Community Arts Show Favorite

The Community Arts Show "Inspirations" closed on Aug. 1 at the Artisan Depot, and when all the votes of visitors to the gallery were counted, Janice Grant's stained glass art piece "At The Cross" was voted as the favorite.

To some visitors the many long, sharp edges of the glass used gives the piece a poignant "shattered" look. Grant explained that she used scraps of stained glass for the piece to achieve the look and incorporated pieces of glass that might not be used in other ways.

Members of the community are invited to vote for their favorite piece at each of the Franklin County Arts Guild's Community Shows.

The Franklin County Arts Guild invites original contributions from Franklin County artists of all ages in any media for inclusion in its next show, the theme of which is "Rust." Intake dates are Sept. 17-19.

All work must be submitted ready for display. All work must be submitted in person at the Artisan Depot in Cowan during the intake period, during business hours. Membership in the Guild and Gallery are not required for these shows.

The Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 201 Cumberland St. East in Cowan. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Readings by Mason and Yarbrough on Sept. 9

Authors Bobbie Ann Mason and Steve Yarbrough will read at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 9, in Gailor Auditorium. The Sewanee Writers' Conference Reading Series event will be followed by a book-signing and reception.

Bobbie Ann Mason received the Ernest Hemingway Award for her first book of fiction, "Shiloh and Other Stories." Other works include "In Country," "Spence + Lila," "Feather Crowns," "Clear Springs," "Elvis Presley," "Zigzagging Down A Wild Trail," "An Atomic Romance" and "Nancy Culpepper." Her new novel, "The Girl in the Blue Beret," is now out in paperback. She is the recipient of the Arts and Letters Award for Literature from the American Academy of Arts and Letters and a Guggenheim Fellowship. Steve Yarbrough is the author of three short-story collections, "Family Men," "Mississippi History" and "Veneer." He has also published six novels. "The Oxygen Man" won the Mississippi Authors Award, the California Book Award and an award from the Mississippi Institute of Arts and Letters. He has also published "Visible Spirits," "Prisoners of War," "The End of California," "Safe from the Neighbors" and "The Realm of Last Chances." He is the recipient of a fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts and a Pushcart Prize and was the winner of the 2010 Richard Wright Award for Literary Excellence.

Both authors are members of the Fellowship of Southern Writers. This reading is sponsored by the Sewanee Writers' Conference in conjunction with the department of English.

The Monteagle Sewanee Rotary Club meets at 8 a.m., Thursdays, at the Sewanee Inn

For Whom the Bells Toll?

By Marcia Mary Cook and Rachel Rodgers
Special to the Messenger

They toll for you. As the University's Advent term gets underway, so do extra-curricular activities. The Change Ringing Band has had a few weeks' hiatus, and the Breslin Tower Bentley Bells will begin chiming again. The band plays an important part in University and community life, ringing the Bentley Bells to call people to the 11 a.m. Sunday service at All Saints' Chapel Service and for processions at convocation and commencement.

Change ringing is an English style of bell ringing that goes back to the early 1600s. This team activity is a great way to meet a diverse group of people and make new friends in Sewanee and beyond. Members of the band will often travel to other towers to participate in the fellowship of larger rings.

Anyone from the faculty, staff, community or student body who has an interest in learning to ring a bell and joining the Change Ringing Band is invited to attend a 6:30 p.m., Thursday practice to observe and learn more. For more information contact Gail Watson, tower captain, at <gwatson@sewanee.edu>. No musical experience is necessary. The ringing room is up the stairs at the top of Breslin Tower.

Mountain Lions Move to 2-0 in Volleyball

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School varsity volleyball team defeated Lincoln County on Aug. 24 by a tally of 25-22, 25-17 and 25-22.

After trailing 20-16 in the third, SAS was able to rally behind strong serving performances by Madison Gilliam and Skylar Moss. Moss finished the match with two straight aces.

Lexie Laurendine had an outstanding match at the net, recording 11 kills, five blocks, seven digs, six assists and four aces. Sierra Mushett had 14 aces; Sophie Swallow posted four kills; Carolyn Bruce had two kills and one block; Margaret Wilson had four digs; and Lydia Angus had two kills. SAS is 2-0.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee Girls' Soccer Team Ties Mt. Juliet

In a hard-fought match on Aug. 25 against Mt. Juliet Christian Academy, the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's varsity girls' soccer team finished in a 2-2 tie.

Seven minutes into an exciting first half, SAS senior Isabel Butler passed the ball to freshman Mariel Rink, who scored after a one-on-one showdown against the Mt. Juliet keeper.

As the first half came to a close, sophomore SAS keeper Rachel Alvarez faced a missed penalty kick. The half ended 1-0 with SAS ahead. Mt. Juliet came out strong in the second half, and their defensive player No. 10 scored after a cut up the middle of the field.

Alvarez continued to make diving saves, and sophomore Sarah Simmons almost had a goal after the ball rebounded off the Mt. Juliet goal post.

SAS managed another goal with 15 minutes left in the game, when freshman Kate Butler rocketed a shot over the keeper.

Finally, with five minutes left, Mt. Juliet responded with a rebound and goal off the crossbar. It was an exciting and energetic game.

SAS Drops Opener as Football Season Begins

The Mountain Lions opened the season at home with a tough loss to the Hendersonville Christian Academy Crusaders, 28-14.

SAS junior Kenneth Thomas broke away on an 80-yard run to score a touchdown, and senior Michael Schaerer fought his way into the end zone in the fourth quarter for the second touchdown.

Senior Seth Horton and junior Wyatt Lindlau led the Mountain Lions on defense.

SAS (0-1) will face the Tennessee Heat on the road Sept. 3 after a bye week. The Mountain Lions return to the mountain on Sept. 11 to face Franklin Christian Academy.

Grundy Golf Team Edges SAS

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee boys' golf team traveled to Fall Creek Falls State Park on Aug. 24 for a match with Grundy County High School and Bledsoe County High School.

SAS was edged out of first by Grundy County by three strokes, 190-187, but took second over Bledsoe County, which posted a 225.

SAS senior Tommy Oliver set the standard with an even par 36, with sophomore Aubrey Black carding a 46. Senior Jake Wiley and sophomore Gio Hui both posted 54.

William Yelverton, a Sewanee resident and music professor at Middle Tennessee State University, competes in the World Masters Athletics Competition in France.

Yelverton Wins Four World Track Championships in France

William Yelverton of Sewanee won four world championship medals at the World Masters Athletics Competition in Lyon, France, during the Aug. 4–16 track and field event.

Competing in the M55 (55–59) age group, he won two individual bronze medals in the 200-meter and 400m sprint events, and two gold in the 4x100 m and 4x400m relays. Yelverton's four medals are the most won by an American competitor in his age group at the World Championships. He also won the USA Track and Field Masters National Championship in the 400m M55 event in Jacksonville, Fla., on July 24 in a time of 55.29, and a bronze medal in the 200m dash with a personal best of 24.48. His season-best times in the 400m (55.11) and 200m (24.48) are both No. 3-ranked in the world for the M55 age group.

The 2015 World Masters Athletic Championships in Lyon hosted 8,052 athletes from 98 countries. It is a biennial event that brings together the world's best track and field athletes age 35 and up. Competitions for men and women are conducted in five-year age groups (M35, W35, M40, W40, etc.).

The event is governed by the IAAF, the worldwide governing body for the Olympics and international track and field competition.

Yelverton, age 55, is professor of music and director of guitar studies at Middle Tennessee State University.

Gordy to Lead Equestrian

Karine Gordy has been named Sewanee's new director of equestrian.

Gordy comes to Sewanee from Walnut Trace Farms in Nashville, Tenn., after serving as the head trainer from 2014 until present. During the same tenure at Walnut Trace, Gordy served as the sole proprietor at the Charhan Stables Training Facility in Lookout Mountain, Ga.

"I am thrilled to join the Sewanee family and have the opportunity to work with the riders," Gordy said. "I am one of those lucky enough to do what they love to do for a living."

Originally from the United Kingdom, Gordy began her career at Churchill Stables in the UK.

"Winston Churchill once said, 'the outside of a horse is good for the inside of a person.' Sewanee offers this type of good both inside and outside the arena," she said.

Gordy is a certified instructor for the British Horse Society and the United States Dressage Federation.

Yackey Named Sewanee Softball Coach

After an extensive search, Sewanee athletic director Mark Webb has announced that Merritt Yackey will become the new softball coach for the Tigers.

"Coach Yackey brings outstanding experience and enthusiasm to our softball program," Webb said. "I am confident that our softball team will make great strides under his leadership."

Yackey comes to Sewanee after spending the last seven seasons as the head softball coach at Lees-McRae College.

Yackey took the reins of the Bobcat softball program in summer 2009. In the last seven seasons, a number of players were selected as Conference Carolinas All-Conference Team. In 2011, Yackey was named Conference Carolinas Coach of the Year. During that season, the Bobcats finished second in the Conference Carolinas Tournament, losing 2-1 to Erskine College in the title contest.

Overall, during Yackey's tenure, Lees-McRae won 95 games.

"I am grateful to Sewanee, Mark Webb and the athletic department for the opportunity to serve as the next head softball coach," Yackey said. "My tenure at Lees-McRae has prepared me well for this new challenge. I look forward to coaching the young ladies on the roster and recruiting a new class to re-energize the softball program and work toward competing for a conference championship, as was accomplished a decade ago."

His 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015 teams were awarded the Sportsmanship Award. This award is given using a voting process implemented by Conference Carolinas athletic directors; it calls for a coach and student-athlete representative to vote together and evaluate the sportsmanship exhibited by opponents' players, coaches and fans during the regular season.

In April 2013, Yackey was awarded the Edgar Tufts Humanitarian Service Award for service in community and on campus at Lees-McRae.

In addition, Yackey has served as the associate director of athletics for the past five years. These duties include scheduling all athletic travel, personnel management, assistance with fundraising efforts and special projects within the Bobcat athletic department and its 17 intercollegiate sports.

Yackey brings more than 25 years of experience in higher education. He was director of development/special giving at Albion College from 1988 to 1993; director of development at Converse College from 1995 to 1996; director of major gifts and planned giving at Catawba College from 1997 to 2000; special assistant to the president/campaign director at Limestone College from 2000 to 2002; vice president for development at Mansfield University from 2002 to 2004; and vice president for advancement at Lees-McRae College from 2004 to 2007. Yackey also served as the head softball coach at Avery High

Merritt Yackey

School in 2008 and 2009.

Yackey is a graduate of Muskingum University in New Concord, Ohio.

Additionally, he earned a master's degree in educational leadership from Western Michigan University. He and his wife are the proud parents of three children, Millicent, Morgan and Brock, and one grandson, Mitt.

Tigers Gain New Players

Twenty new players are set to join the Sewanee Tigers baseball program this fall.

"While many of these student-athletes are highly decorated high school players, most of their successes came off the field," said head coach David Jenkins. "They are driven to reach their full potential both academically and athletically. All 20 of these incoming freshmen will have a chance to better our program. We look forward to working with them over the next four years."

Fall practice is scheduled to start Sept. 16 at Montgomery Field.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

SOUND ADVICE

Expect a period of adjustment. Remember, once you get your new hearing aids, you will need of period of several weeks to get used to the daily care and maintenance of them. More importantly the largest adjustment you will go through is, of course, listening with your new hearing aids. You will hear sounds you have not heard for a long, long time, and some of these will be good sounds such as birds or the voices of your children or grandchildren. Other sounds are the more annoying sounds that we need to hear for our safety or general knowledge of what is happening around us, and these include the refrigerator, the sound of our own footsteps or turning the pages of a newspaper. Be patient, it takes time for the brain to relearn all of these sounds.

Hearing aid technology has advanced enormously in the past five years. As a result, Audiologists are able to help persons with the "difficult-to-fit hearing loss". If you have questions about hearing loss and/or hearing aids, please feel free to contact us at Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center LLC. We are located at 705 NW Atlantic St., Suite B, Tullahoma. You can call us at 931-393-2051. You can also visit our website at www.thehearingcenterllc.com.

Cicada

Holes in the Ground?

Phil White asked a question on the Sewanee Civic Association's Classifieds email list recently that many of us on the Mountain also may have been wondering about, notes Harriet Runkle.

White wrote, "This year we have dozens of holes all over the yard. They are an inch-and-a-half or less in diameter and do not look like yellow jacket holes. Does anyone know what they are and how to prevent them?"

Runkle learned that they are likely made by cicada nymphs emerging from the ground. The holes are usually found near the root system of trees, as the nymphs feed off roots of trees while underground. Cicada chimneys, also known as turrets, are another sign that the nymphs are about to emerge. They build the structures out of soil above the spot where they will emerge. After spending between one and 17 years underground, they head up the closest tree. There they shed their exoskeleton. Their wings inflate with fluid, and their adult skin hardens. Then the cicadas begin their infamous song.

Right now, cicadas are in full chorus around the Plateau, and we are mostly hearing male cicadas singing as they look for a mate. They use special organs called tymbals, which are drum-like organs in their abdomens. They vibrate very quickly, and the sound is intensified by their mostly hollow abdomens. Some cicadas use their wings to make cracking and popping sounds, while other species flick their wings to make sound.

Cicadas have different life cycles. Some emerge every year, which are most common in our area and what we are likely seeing and hearing now. The Magicicada septendecim emerge in a 17- and 13-year periodic cycle and are often called locusts. According to the Magicicada Data Chart on the Cicada Mania website <www.cicadamania.com>, the last time we had 17-year Magicicadas in our area was in 2008 in Marion County, meaning we will have to wait until 2025 to see and hear that brood.

Ms. Snoot

Cali

Pets of the Week

Meet Ms. Snoot & Cali

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Ms. Snoot, a pot-bellied pig, was rescued in the Sherwood area, and Animal Harbor is searching for her owner. Until she is claimed, Ms. Snoot will enjoy sunbathing and playing in her swimming pool at the shelter. She may be reserved for adoption if her owner is not found by calling 962-4472.

Cali is a very sweet and unique-looking kitty. She has blue eyes that squint prettily when she is petted. Cali is quick to come up to people and ask for affection. She is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots, micro-chipped and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees are reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month.

Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians. Animal Harbor is now open at its new shelter at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road in Winchester. Call 962-4472 for information and check out other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending donations to Animal Harbor, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Animal Harbor Announces New Development Officer

Animal Harbor is pleased to announce that Caitlyn Barstad has joined its staff as the new development officer. Barstad will lead the organization's fundraising efforts in support of its mission to reduce pet overpopulation and improve the lives of homeless pets in Franklin County.

"I am thrilled to accept the development officer position with Animal Harbor," she said. "Not only do I have the opportunity to utilize my degree in an organization that I feel passionate about, but I also get to make an impact in the community I love and reside in. I am looking forward to contributing to the progress and development of Animal Harbor and interacting with Franklin County businesses, individuals and donors."

Barstad is a Franklin County native; she graduated from Franklin County High School in 2007. She has a degree in social work from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville and is a 2015 graduate of the University of Southern California, where she earned a master of social work degree with a concentration in community organization, planning and administration. She interned with the Center for Family Development in Shelbyville and Community Shares of Tennessee in Knoxville.

"Caitlyn brings an excitement and energy that is sure to enhance our development efforts," said Patricia Dover, president of Animal Harbor. "We are excited to have her join us."

Barstad resides in Decherd with her kitten, Cooper. In her spare time, she enjoys hiking and listening to live music.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Tenth Anniversary of Katrina - August 29

Prospero
Hast thou, spirit
Performed to point the tempest that I bade thee?

Ariel
To every article.
I boarded the king's ships; now on the beak,
Now in the waist, the deck, in every cabin,
I flamed amazement. Sometime I'd divide,
And burn in many places; on the topmast,
The yards and bowsprit, would I flame distinctly,
Then meet and join. Jove's lightnings, the precursors
O' the dreadful thunder-claps, more momentary
And sight-outunning were not. The fire and cracks
Of sulfurous roaring the most mighty Neptune
Seem to besiege and make his bold waves tremble,
Yea, his dread trident shake.

Prospero
My brave spirit!
Who was so firm, so constant, that this coil
Would not infect his reason?

Ariel
Not a soul
But felt a fever of the mad and played
Some tricks of desperation. All but mariners
Plunged in the foaming brine and quit the vessel,
Then all afire with me. The king's son, Ferdinand
With hair up-staring—then like reeds, not hair—
Was the first man that leaped, cried, "Hell is empty
And all the devils are here."

—from "The Tempest" by William Shakespeare
