Winter Convocation to Be Held Jan. 18

The University of the South's Winter Convocation will be held at 4 p.m., Friday, Jan. 18, in All Saints' Chapel. Honorary degrees will be presented and more than 100 new members will be inducted into the Order of the Gown. During the service, the Rt. Rev. Robert Skirving will be installed as chancellor of the University.

Ellen Lehman, the founding president of the Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee, will give the Convocation address and will receive an honorary degree. Honorary degrees also will be conferred upon François Clemmons, a professionally trained operatic tenor and founder of the Harlem Spiritual Ensemble; the Rt. Rev. Brian Cole, bishop of the Diocese of East Tennessee; internationally acclaimed and Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Paul Muldoon; and Alice Parker, a renowned composer, conductor and teacher.

The Rt. Rev. Robert Skirving

The Rt. Rev. Robert Skirving, bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina, was elected the 25th chancellor of the University of the South on Oct. 12, 2018. He will be installed during the Convocation. A native of Ontario, Canada, Bishop Skirving was ordained and consecrated as East Carolina's eighth bishop in 2014. He has been a member of Sewanee's Board of Trustees since 2014 and of the Board of Regents since 2017.

Several special events around Convocation will feature some of the honorees. (See page 7)

François Clemmons

François Clemmons is a professionally trained operatic tenor perhaps best known for the role of Officer Clemmons, a friendly police officer on the television show "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood." He learned traditional spirituals from his mother, who sang as she worked around the house. He played more than 70 classical and opera roles around the world as a member of the company of the Metropolitan Opera Studio. Clemmons has performed his favorite role, Sportin' Life in "Porgy and Bess," more than 200 times, earning a Grammy award for his recording of the role. He founded the Harlem Spiritual Ensemble to showcase, preserve, and sustain American spirituals, and performs regularly in America, Europe and Asia to support this effort.

The Rt. Rev. Brian Cole

The Rt. Rev. Brian Cole was ordained and consecrated as the fifth bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of East Tennessee in 2017. He previously served as the vicar of Church of the Advocate, a worshipping community for the homeless in downtown Asheville, N.C., as sub-dean at the Cathedral of All Souls in Asheville, and as rector of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd in Lexington, Ky. He served on the Executive Council of the Episcopal Church from 2006 to 2012.

Ellen Lehman

Ellen Lehman is the founding president of the Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee. A graduate of Nashville's public schools and Harvard University, she earned master's degrees from both the London School of Economics and Harvard Business School, a background that uniquely prepared her for her current role. Since 1991, the Community Foundation has grown from an idea to an organization that oversees more than 1,200 charitable funds. In the past 27 years, the foundation has made grants totaling more than $926 million to nonprofits. Lehman encourages those around her to address old needs with new creativity and a new approach.

Paul Muldoon is an acclaimed poet who has been awarded both the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry and the T.S. Eliot Prize. He is the Howard B. Clark Professor at Princeton University and founding chair of the Peter B. Lewis Center for the

St. Olaf Choir to Perform at All Saints' Chapel

For more than a century, the world-renowned St. Olaf Choir has set a gold standard for choral singing, and the ensemble's 75 singers and conductor Anton Armstrong will travel from Sioux Falls, S.D., to Miami, Fla., during their 13-city 2019 Winter Tour. The St. Olaf Choir's National Winter Tour includes a concert at All Saints' Chapel in Sewanee, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31.

General admission tickets, priced at $30 for adults and $10 for students, are available at <stolaf.edu/tickets> or by calling 800-363-5487 (a $5 transaction fee will be added to all phone orders).

Over the span of 99 years, touring has played an important role in the life of the St. Olaf Choir, sharing its artistry and beauty of sound with audiences across the United States and around the world.

"Hearing the St. Olaf Choir in concert is more than just a musical experience," says Anton Armstrong. "Our singers, performing at the highest artistic level, convey a message of hope. Our music provides a bridge to what can unite us at a time when the world is so divided."

Armstrong said, "We often hear from concertgoers who tell us they are not only struck by the sound and uniformity of the St. Olaf Choir, but also by the earnestness of what comes through the voices of our young singers. The St. Olaf Choir performs at the highest artistic level, focusing on body, mind, spirit and voice. Our singers touch the hearts and souls of listeners, and our audiences leave transformed."

Founded 107 years ago by F. Melius Christiansen at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., the St. Olaf Choir is internationally recognized as a creative force behind America's a cappella choral tradition.

Now in his 29th year as conductor of the St. Olaf Choir, Armstrong is only the fourth conductor in the ensemble's history, beginning his tenure in 1990. In addition to his role as a professor of music at St. Olaf College, he is in demand in the international choral scene as a guest conductor and lecturer.

Joining the St. Olaf Choir and Armstrong on their tour is organist Catherine Rodland, whose playing has been described as "transcendent" (The American Organist). She is Artist in Residence at St. Olaf College. She is a prizewinner in several competitions including the 1994 and 1998 American Guild of Organists Young Artists Competition, the 1994 Calgary International Organ Competition, and the 1988 International Organ Competition at the University of Michigan for which she received first prize. She concertizes throughout the United States and Canada.

Grundy County Clothes Bank's Housing Woes

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

Three months ago, Grundy County Clothes Bank coordinator Ruth Alexander learned the clothes bank's home and base of operations had been condemned.

"Everything had been running smoothly," said Alexander, who, 13 years ago assumed responsibility for coordinating collection and distribution of the clothes and assorted housewares offered by the clothes bank.

For the last three months the clothes bank, officially Grundy County Clothes, has been closed.

To resolve the charity's need for a building, the town of Tracy City agreed to let the clothes bank operate out of a house located behind the old Grundy County High School on property the city purchased from Grundy County. At the previous site, then owned by the county, the county paid the water and electric bills.

Alexander asked Tracy City for help paying utilities at the new site, but the city lacked funds to assist the charity.

Worse still, all the wiring had been stripped from the house the city offered to let the clothes bank use.

"We worked ourselves near to

Village Update: Housing Hot Topic

*by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer*

Frank Gladu, who oversees implementation of the Sewanee Village Plan, opened the Jan. 8 update meeting inviting questions from those attending. The plan encompasses 45-acres in the downtown Sewanee vicinity. Housing, one of five priority projects, dominated much of the discussion.

"What will be available to non-employees?" asked John Greeter, a former resident who hoped to move back to Sewanee.

Gladu said a request for proposals issued to developers specified "single and multi-family homes that can be sold, but there's no decision yet on who can buy them."

The decision fell to the University, Gladu said, but he speculated the developer-built residences would be offered first to employees and, if not purchased, offered to full-time residents. Although University policy stipulates only

Highlander Folk School Restoration

*by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer*

Restoration underway at one of Grundy County's most important historical resources will soon make Highlander Folks School eligible for the National Registrar of Historic Places.

"Highlander Folk School is a 'Who's Who' of civil rights movement leaders before they became legends," said restoration project coordinator David Currey. Rosa Parks, John Lewis, Andrew Young, Diane Nash, and Martin Luther King Jr. all spent time at Highlander.

The question "Who is democracy for?" underscored Miles Horton's founding the school in 1932. In the early days, Highlander focused on teaching local mountain people literacy and financial management skills and training them to unionize to lobby for better wages, job site safety, and a better standard of living. Highlander even offered a nursery school providing childcare while parents worked.

In 1954, Horton hired recent

THANK-YOU FROM ST. MARY'S SEWANEE

To the Editor:

On behalf of everyone who attended the St. Mary's Sewanee Crèche Open House on Dec. 22, I want to thank the people who generously shared their beautiful nativity scenes with us: Tippy Anderson, Nancy and Steve Burnett, Vickie Davis, Connie Divens, Pixie Dozier, Yolande and Robin Gottfried, Lisa and Tom Howick, Sally Hubbard, Karen Keele, Morgan and Walter Merrill, Ann Oliver, Jim Pappas, Anne Marie Pender, Cindy and Bran Potter, Lane and Julian Price, Sister Elizabeth and the Sisters of St. Mary, Carol and Craig Stubblebine, and McLeod Turner.

This event draws people from across the Plateau and from around the region for a festive opportunity to see how different cultures and artists interpret the birth of Jesus. If you missed it in 2018, I hope you'll plan on participating with a crèche or attending in 2019.

CAREGIVER SUPPORT GROUP

To the Editor:

In 2011, Kathleen O'Donohue of Folks at Home began a Caregiver

Support Group for the Sewanee Community. The first facilitator of the group was the Rev. Joe Porter. Joe ran the group for its first year with positive and encouraging energy. The space Joe created was one of acceptance for all the topics and feelings that came up in the context of caring for chronically and terminally ill loved ones, and attention to the importance of taking care of the caregiver. Among those present in that first year was Sally Hubbard who was caring for her 80-year-old husband. After the death of her husband Sally continued to attend, eventually transitioning into being the group facilitator. Sally held this role from 2013 to the present and brought her own wisdom and sensitivities to the group.

In 2019, the Rev. Linda Hutton will be assuming the facilitator role for the Support Group. Linda comes to us as a retiring priest at St. James and as a retiring Board Member of Folks at Home. She is a kind and compassionate person who brings a vast background of experience as a pastor and group leader to this new role.

Folks at Home would like to thank both Sally and Linda for their commitment. Sally's five years of volunteer service created an invaluable network of support for many community members facing the challenges of being a caregiver. It would be no exaggeration to say that Sally and the support group have been a life saver for several participants in the group over the years.

If you are in a caregiver role and would like to join the group or just see if it is a good fit for you, we would like to invite you to the weekly meeting on Thursdays from

1-2:30 p.m. in Otey Parish Hall. For more information, contact Folks at Home at 598-0303.

Wall Wofford, Folks at Home

MIDDLE SCHOOL FUNDING

To the Editor:

Our middle schools are deteriorating because they have ill-conceived roofs made of adjacent domes that catch rainwater instead of shedding it, and leaks have plagued the buildings ever since they were built almost 50 years ago. Your school board members have spent the last 2 years carefully researching and considering the pros and cons of three options: renovate the two existing schools, rebuild the two existing schools on site, or consolidate them into one new school in a new location. After taking into consideration the will of the parents, the cost, a possibly disruptive transition period, the limitations of the existing schools, the asbestos, locating a new site with the proper utilities and infrastructure, they came to the conclusion to rebuild the two schools on their current sites finally, after realizing that their original decision to consolidate wasn't as feasible as they thought. The county commission then released $1.8 million to have the architectural plans drafted. These drafts were presented at several meetings and have been met with approval from the stakeholders.

Now, because this will result in a small property tax increase, certain county commissioners and our new mayor want to start this whole process over again. We understand that nobody wants to pay higher taxes and that we all work hard for our money, but the increase amounts to an additional $27/year for every $100,000 of property. For that small annual fee, our kids can remain in their nearby communities, can have 21st century infrastructure and technology, can have windows, can be free of mold, leaks, etc. If we start this whole process over again, it is as if the last 2 years of hard work by our school board has been a waste of time.

In the interest of long range planning and being prudent with tax dollars, they would like to wait until we know more about the jail and solid waste needs, but there will always be other pressing needs arising. The county is never going to get to a place where everything is all taken care of, and we can just coast.

This project needed to be done over 10 years ago. It's disgraceful that we've waited this long. Through a combination of wise stewardship and growth, Franklin County has gotten a new Judicial Center, a new high school, an expanded jail, all without raising your taxes in over 10 years. Unfortunately, it is time to do it now, and we need brave leaders who will do what needs to be done.

Price Changes at the Post Office, Jan. 27

The United States Postal Service filed notice with the Postal Regulatory Commission (PRC) of price changes to take effect Jan. 27.

The proposed prices would raise Mailing Services product prices approximately 2.5 percent. Shipping Services price increases vary by product. For example, Priority Mail Express will increase 3.9 percent and Priority Mail will increase 5.9 percent. Although Mailing Services price increases are based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI), Shipping Services prices are primarily adjusted according to market conditions.

The new prices will include a 5-cent increase in the price of a First-Class Mail Forever stamp, from 50 cents to 55 cents. The single-piece additional ounce price will be reduced to 15 cents, so a 2-ounce stamped letter, such as a typical wedding invitation, will cost less to mail, decreasing from 71 cents to 70 cents.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

employees can build, Gladu cited the exception of Parson's Green where a full-time resident can build, and a similar standard for lots recently released by the University. If unclaimed by employees by April 1, the recently released lots will be open for lease and building by full-time residents. Several of the lots are within the Village boundary.

"Aside from the just released lots, is there any provision in the Village for owner-developed lots where a resident could hire their own contractor?" asked Sewanee architect and resident Patton Watkins.

"We don't have that situation currently," Gladu said. "We're trying to identify sites that could create more than one house. We're looking for developers to build two, three, four, eight, 10 units on a site."

"Is that what the market wants?" Watkins asked. "Usually market forces dictate inventory. There's a man here who wants to build a house and can't. It seems like the Village Plan isn't addressing the current need."

Gladu pointed to the Provost's housing study group that recommended smaller, more affordable housing to meet employees' needs and a market demand study that projected a need for 20-30 single-family units.

"Most people want a small bungalow, single-family detached home, but I think we should also pursue creating an inventory of townhouses and duplexes because it fits the affordability and makes other living spaces available," said Gladu.

"A house that would cost $100,000 anywhere else costs $350,000 here," observed Melissa Watkins, a Monteagle resident with longtime Sewanee connections.

In his update on the other priority projects, Gladu said progress on the new bookstore was "lagging."

"The hold up is selecting a contractor that can produce a building within the budget framework of the University," Gladu said.

"This kind of thing happens all the time," said architect and Sewanee resident Clayton Rogers. "You either change the design to fit the budget or increase the budget."

Gladu agreed. "University Director of Design and Construction Sarah Boykin is in the process of reevaluating the project."

Addressing the proposal to narrow Highway 41A to calm traffic, Gladu said the recently completed Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) right-of-way plan called for narrowing the highway to two lanes between Kentucky Avenue and Kennerly Road with turn lanes in the middle. Gladu anticipates TDOT will host public meetings to provide more information.

In discussing the mixed-use specialty food market and apartment building proposed for the corner of Lake O'Donnell Road and Highway 41A, Gladu said the site had some water and fill issues and the cost of addressing these would fall to the developer.

Rogers speculated that would result in "high rent" for the apartment units.

"Could be," Gladu said, "but right now Sewanee has no new apartment inventory."

For the Tuesday, Feb. 5 village update, Gladu will host both 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. sessions.

Arts. A former producer for the BBC in Belfast, he is the author of more than a dozen collections of poetry including Moy Sand and Gravel, for which he won the 2003 Pulitzer Prize. Other awards include the 2003 Griffin International Prize for Excellence in Poetry, the 2004 Shakespeare Prize, and the 2006 European Prize for Poetry. In the New York Times Book Review, Roger Rosenblatt described Muldoon as "one of the great poets of the past hundred years."

Alice Parker, a renowned composer, conductor, and teacher, studied composition and conducting at Smith College and the Juilliard School, where she began her long association with Robert Shaw. The many Parker/Shaw settings of American folksongs, hymns, and spirituals from that period form an enduring repertoire for choruses around the world. Her list of published compositions includes more than 500 operas, song cycles, cantatas, choral suites, and individual anthems. In 2013, she received the Robert Shaw Award from the American Choral Directors Association and earlier was named Composer of the Year by the American Guild of Organists.

GAAC Sculpture Competition for the Old Roundhouse & Mountain Goat Trail

The Grundy Area Arts Council (GAAC) and the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance (MGTA) are pleased to announce the Old Roundhouse Park & Mountain Goat Trail Sculpture Competition for 2019. The GAAC and the MGTA seek proposals for site specific sculpture from Tennessee and regional artists. The goal is to provide an opportunity for regional artists to create a public work and to enhance the trail with sculpture of exceptional quality and innovation.

The Mountain Goat Trail is a rail-to-trail community outdoor recreation project to convert an abandoned railroad right-of-way into a multi-use recreational corridor between Grundy and Franklin Counties on the Cumberland Plateau in Middle Tennessee.

The Mountain Goat Railroad was constructed in 1853, as a spur of the Nashville & Chattanooga Railroad. It carried coal from the mines of the Mountain, beginning in Sewanee and then extending to Tracy City, Coalmont, Gruetli-Laager, and Palmer. It also functioned as a passenger railroad. The Mountain Goat was decommissioned in 1985. The Mountain Goat earned its name in part due to the climb up onto the Cumberland Plateau from Cowan. This was at the time the steepest slope in the world for a railroad line.

The location for the sculpture will be visible from the Mountain Goat Trail in the newly developing Old Roundhouse Park. The 2019 approved site will be central to the proposed completed trail. Works can be in any media, must be suitable for outdoors, must be "sit-able" and should be permanent. Entries should incorporate elements of the story and culture of the Mountain Goat and the Plateau region it served. The selected work will be announced in March 2019 and the finished work will be celebrated in June 2019.

This project is made possible with an Arts Builds Community Grant from the Tennessee Arts Commission. Details and the full application can be found at <<https://www.mountaingoattrail.org/2019-sculpture-competition/>>. For more information email <grundyareaarts@gmail.com>.

death scrubbing and painting," said the 74-year-old Alexander. Alston Sanders donated his services rewiring the building. For the building to pass inspection, though, a volunteer is needed to install the breaker box recently donated to the charity.

Alexander and the two volunteers who assist her also need help moving the many racks of clothing and other items to the new site.

The clothes bank doesn't screen clients. "We welcome everybody and anybody," Alexander said. "We tell people 'Take what you can use.'" But Alexander stressed, "It's not for your yard sale," scolding those who might consider reselling clothes bank offerings.

In addition to clothes, the charity distributes dishes, silverware, food, and even a few furniture items. Normal hours of operation are 8 a.m. to noon, Thursday and Friday.

Joyce Parsons assists Alexander with sorting and racking, and Bill Brooks helps with maintenance. Teen Challenge, a local youth group, distributes off-season clothes to individuals in need when the inventory exceeds the space available.

"We have a donation box," Alexander said, "but we're lucky if we get $10 a month. People begged me to get the clothes bank open again before Christmas."

Alexander is a fighter who has survived breast cancer and lovingly welcomes the challenges of raising her five-year-old granddaughter. She's offered to pay the clothes bank's utilities bills herself to get the effort up and running again, but the unresolved electrical concerns need to be tackled first.

Grundy County Clothes could also benefit from help in addressing nonprofit status issues.

"We don't have a bank account," Alexander said. "We're not a business. We're just two old women and an old man giving back."

In operation nearly 20 years, Grundy County Clothes wish list is for folks to step forward and help the charity get back on its feet. To offer time and skills to the big-hearted effort, contact Alexander at (931) 924-2484 or (423) 260-2656.

Highlander student Septima Clark to direct literacy workshops. The workshops expanded into citizenship training offered throughout the South. African-Americans not only learned the skills needed to pass literacy tests so they could vote.; they also learned about their rights as citizens.

Clark's citizenship training evolved into Highlander's focus on training for non-violent protest. In 1961, fearing the growing momentum of the Civil Rights movement, the state revoked Highlander's charter, the first and only time in the state's history a school's charter has been revoked.

The state sold the property and buildings. The library, the primary structure, underwent significant alteration by subsequent owners. The alteration disqualified Highlander for recognition as a historic site.

A few years ago, Tennessee Preservation Trust (TPT) learned the property was again up for sale and decided to undertake the restoration challenge. Since 2013, TPT has acquired the library, several cabins, and most of the school property.

The library restoration requires removing an addition, replacing the roof, and reorienting entrance doors to their original 1950s location. The $1 million dollar project has attracted benefactors from Grundy County, Chattanooga and Nashville.

"We're half way there," Currey said. Major supporters include Carington Montague and Greg Vital from Chattanooga, Nashville music industry icon Pam Lewis, and Grundy County's Howell Adams.

The Gessell Trust funded by the estate of Sewanee social justice champion the Rev. Jack Gessell has assisted with financing property acquisition and removing the library addition.

Plans also call for cabin restoration, a walking trail, and a visitor and interpretive center. Currey estimates the final cost at $3-$4 million.

Other pro bono assistance has come from contractor Michael Lee who has significant preservation and restoration work experience. On three occasions Marine Corp and Army veterans have pitched in to help with clean up, erecting fences, and removing the library addition foundation.

When the state closed Highlander Folk School, the staff reincorporated as the Highlander Research and Education Center now located in New Market, Tenn. The Center has addressed health and safety in the coalfields of Appalachia, environmental issues, and the negative impact of globalization.

"By restoring Highlander Folk School we're helping to save the Center's history," Currey said.

Highlander founder Horton consulted with social reformer Jane Addams and modeled his program after Addams' work addressing the plight of the immigrant and poor population in the Chicago area in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

"Highlander is an important historical resource regardless of your politics," Currey stressed. "Highlander reminds us of who we once were. We need to know who we were to know where we're going."

Donations can be made to Tennessee Preservation Trust, P.O. Box 24373, Nashville, TN 37202. Please note Highlander Restoration in the memo line. For more information, contact Curry at <historichighlander@tennesseepreservationtrust.org> or (615) 423-9249.

Curry will host a tour at 9 a.m., Saturday, Jan. 19. The Highlander Folk School site is located on 120 Old Highlander Ln., just off Highway 41 between Monteagle and Tracy City. A historical marker on Highway 41 assists visitors in finding the location.

Special Events on Campus

Feature Convocation Honorees

The University of the South's Winter Convocation will be held on campus Jan. 18. Three events presented during the week—a film screening, a poetry reading, and a concert—will feature honorary degree recipients.

The film "Won't You Be My Neighbor?", a recent documentary about the life and guiding philosophy of Fred Rogers, will be shown at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 16, in Guerry Auditorium. Rogers was the host and creator of the Emmy and Peabody Award-winning children's television program "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," which debuted in 1968. The screening will be followed by a conversation with François Clemmons, known for his role of Officer Clemmons, the friendly police officer on the show. The film has just been nominated for best documentary by the Directors Guild of America. It was a New York Times Critic's Pick in June; the reviewer called it a "moving and illuminating new documentary" that felt like a gift.

Clemmons, a professionally trained operatic tenor, will also present a concert at 4 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 20, in Convocation Hall. He learned traditional spirituals from his mother, who sang as she worked around the house, then played more than 70 classical and opera roles around the world as a member of the company of the Metropolitan Opera Studio. Clemmons has performed his favorite role, Sportin' Life in Porgy and Bess, more than 200 times, earning a Grammy award for his recording of the role. He founded the Harlem Spiritual Ensemble, and performs regularly in America, Europe and Asia.

On Thursday, Jan. 17, poet and Princeton professor Paul Muldoon will give a reading at 4 p.m., in Convocation Hall. Muldoon is an acclaimed poet who has been awarded both the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry and the T.S. Eliot Prize. A former producer for the BBC in Belfast, he is the author of more than a dozen collections of poetry including Moy Sand and Gravel, for which he won the 2003 Pulitzer Prize. He has been described by The Times Literary Supplement as "the most significant English-language poet born since the second World War." In the New York Times Book Review, Roger Rosenblatt described Paul Muldoon as "one of the great poets of the past hundred years."

FROM THE HERITAGE CENTER

by Oliver Jervis, Grundy County Historical Society

One of the galleries at the Heritage Center is a mural of Beersheba Springs. It was the first white settlement on the Plateau. A chalybeate spring was discovered there in 1833 by Beersheba Cain of McMinnville, after following a trail up the Mountain from Tarleton Valley. She had accompanied her husband on a business trip to visit William Dugan who lived at the base of the Mountain and had acquired ownership of that part of the Plateau. While her husband and Dugan conferred, she ventured up the Mountain.

Believing the water to have medicinal value, a tavern was built in 1837 and several cabins were built on land deeded by Dugan to various McMinnville men, including John Cain, husband of Beersheba, Alfred Paine, Samuel Edmondson, George R. Smart and William (Buck) White. The cabins and tavern were patterned after the popular Virginia resorts. In 1839, the Beersheba Springs Company was incorporated; thus, tourism on the Plateau was born.

John Armfield, a retired slave trader, in 1854 purchased 1,000 acres, the original tavern, proprietor's room, a row of guest cottages and Buck White's residence. He proceeded to enlarge the tavern into a fashionable watering place hotel. He further built 20 cottages to the specifications of persons to whom he leased lots.

Armfield had been the younger partner with Isaac Franklin in the slave trading firm of Franklin and Armfield. Frederic Bancroft in "Slave Trading in the Old South" comments:

"Isaac Franklin and John Armfield at the height of their success, from 1830 to 1836, were not only in the lead of other traders in Maryland, Virginia and the District, but were, unequaled in the South. They had a positive genius for speculating in slaves."

In 1828, Franklin and Armfield had begun operations in Alexandria, Va., where Armfield's assignment was the buying of slaves and shipping them to the lower South, where they were received by Franklin and sold in Natchez, Miss. Armfield's position with a leading slave trade firm put him in contact with plantation owners in Mississippi and other parts of the lower South. When his partner died in 1846, Armfield became the executor of his estate that extended his relationships with plantation owners in the lower South where Franklin had owned several plantations.

After Armfield had acquired the properties in Beersheba Springs, it was not difficult for him to find plantation owners to lease lots to construct cottages principally for use in the summer. Mississippi, Louisiana, and other parts of the plantation region were infested with malaria during the hot months of the years, whereas the Plateau was malaria free. Beersheba Springs afforded the plantation owners the opportunity to move their families to the malaria free cooler climate of the Plateau. A thriving summer community developed.

Two of the cottages built by Armfield were given to Episcopal Bishops James Otey and Leonidas Polk in an effort to influence the selection of the Plateau as a site for the southern university envisioned by the bishops of the southern dioceses of the Episcopal Church. In this he was successful as well as in influencing Eugen Plumacher to recommend the Plateau as the site for a Swiss Colony at Gruetli.

The Civil War interrupted the fortunes of the southern plantations owners and the cottages acquired by them at Beersheba Springs were taken back by Armfield. Several of the cottages were later acquired by successful merchants and professionals from Nashville and other places in middle Tennessee. Many of their descendants own the cottages today. The hotel struggled after the Civil War and in 1941 was acquired by the Methodist Conference of Middle Tennessee, which operates it as a conference and retreat center.

Today, Beersheba Springs continues to be a major tourist destination. It has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Readers are invited to visit the Heritage Center Monday through Friday from 10 a.m.–4 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Heritage Center is located at 465 Railroad Ave., Tracy City. Go to <www.grundycountyhistory.org> for more information.

2019 Campaign for Balance

Folks at Home announces the 2019 Campaign for Balance. In collaboration with other members of the community including the talented Matter of Balance Team, Ruth Wendling's excellent chair exercise class, Kathleen O'Donohue's popular beginning and intermediate Tai Chi classes, and a capstone ballroom dancing class lead by Valerie and Philip Lorenz, Folks at Home and friends will provide plenty of opportunities throughout the year to ensure you remain faithful to your resolutions.

There will be opportunities to build up your confidence starting in January. Try attending Ruth Wendling's chair exercise class at the Sewanee Community Center in January and February. It is a great class and it will enhance your mobility, flexibility, range of motion and balance. (Space is limited so get your reservation in early.) Not into seated exercises? No problem. Folks at Home will be offering a six-week Walk with Ease class at the Fowler Center beginning Jan. 14. The Walk with Ease class, led by Canale Intern Sarah Cordell, will include stretching and walking and strengthening exercises.

Continue the journey to better balance with a new offering in March called "Tai Ji Quan Moving for Better Balance" (TJQMBB). TJQMBB is based on traditional Tai Chi but tailored specifically for balance enhancement. It was developed at the University of Oregon and has seen impressive results in balance improvement. TJQMBB is a six-month program that will meet twice a week for one hour at the Sewanee Community Center.

September will usher in SAIL, (Stay Active and Independent for Life), a Washington State program brought to you by Folks at Home and co-taught by Wall Wofford and Sarah Cordell. With your balance tuned up, you may be ready to join us for a four-week ballroom dance class to end the year in style. This class will be led by Valerie and Philip Lorenz in November.

Please call Folks at Home at 598-0303 or email <assistantfolk@sathome@gmail.com> for more information and to register.

Sewanee Chorale to Resume Rehearsals; Registration Required

The Sewanee Chorale launches a new semester of rehearsals with a slightly different approach. They are going back to class. That is, fundamentals of music class. Over the past few years, several members have expressed a desire to have a better grasp of the elements of pitch and rhythm to facilitate their singing, and so a four-week trial offering will provide a working knowledge of music theory. Ruth Cobb, director of the Chorale, said that the sessions will provide valuable time dedicated to learning music vocabulary and answering questions from those who need to either fill gaps or have a refresher course. "With only one 90-minute rehearsal each week, our rehearsal time is needed to learn and polish the repertoire," said Cobb. Many younger adults never had music lessons but enjoy singing. Statistics vary but approximately 20 percent of children study music while over 80 percent of adults wish they had learned to play an instrument. "I think it is an important part of the community choir's role; to inspire an interest in music making. The study of music theory is fascinating and and helps create an intelligent singer," she said.

Rehearsals begin at 6:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 14, Guerri Hall, room 220, to prepare for a concert on Friday, April 12, in All Saints' Chapel. The Chorale is known for presenting an eclectic repertoire in each concert and this is no exception. Music will include pieces of Gabriel Fauré and J.A.C. Redford, Gilbert and Sullivan, and a Broadway medley. Advanced registration is required for either the fundamentals class or participation in the Chorale. Further information is available by emailing <TheSewaneeChorale@gmail.com>.

Transcription Project

Friends of the Library members and all community residents have a special invitation from the Project on Slavery, Race and Reconciliation. They are utilizing a crowdsourced transcription website called FromThePage. FromThePage hosts a number of projects (from the University of Virginia, Stanford, and local historical societies) on its site and allows users to aid in the transcription of project documents. FromThePage, like the National Archive's "citizen archivist" program and the Smithsonian's "digital volunteers" project, seeks not only to digitize and transcribe documents, but also to lend transparency and accessibility to the history of a place.

The mission is to transcribe some documents from University Archives and Special Collections connected to the work of the Project. This transcription process is relatively simple. You make an account on the site, and navigate to the Sewanee Slavery Project's FromThePage project page, and can access documents from University Archives. By clicking on the document name, for example Fairbanks_Papers_Box_2_Document_1, then selecting the link to "help transcribe," you can begin your transcription. Remember to save changes. The page also offers a comment section at the bottom of the page. In your transcription, did any content, patterns, or irregularities stand out to you?

Tanner Potts, who works with the Project on Slavery, Race and Reconciliation has offered to host a training session for anyone interested in participating in the transcription project. The session at 10–11 a.m., Friday, Jan. 11, will be held in duPont Library in the PC Classroom (G10) on the ground floor. Please contact Penny Cowan <pcowan@sewanee.edu> to participate in this training session.

Grown-Up Show and Tell at SES

The children of Sewanee Elementary (SES) want to know more about their world beginning with their neighbors. If you have a special interest, passion, skill, or knowledge and would be willing to share it with the teachers and students of SES, email Sarah Marhevsky at <sesptoenews@gmail.com> or leave your name at the front desk of SES if you would be willing to share your own curious nature with some young explorers.

Teachers are hoping to use a directory of local speakers to supplement their curriculum, giving life to chapters in a textbook. Such a directory will be invaluable to the Parent Organization as it organizes two of its most popular programs: Wednesday Wonderings and Friday School.

Tutoring at St. James

After-school tutoring for children in grades K–5, sponsored by the Community Action Committee of Otey Parish Church, continues on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m., at the Parish Hall of St. James Episcopal Church. There is no charge. All are welcome. Sessions will last until 5 p.m., when promptness in pickup of children will be greatly appreciated.

The tutoring schedule will follow the Franklin County School System's calendar, so if there is no school, there will be no tutoring.

Martin Luther King Jr.'s favorite menu.

SAS Celebrates the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will be celebrating the life and work of Martin Luther King Jr. with three days of activities culminating with the Monday, Jan. 21 Martin Luther King Jr. Day. The three days include a movie, special Chapel services, teach-ins, and opportunities for community creativity and fellowship. The community is invited to attend all events except as noted.

The celebration kicks off on Saturday, Jan. 19, with a showing of "I Am Not Your Negro" in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts at 7 p.m. Filmmaker Raoul Peck envisions the book author James Baldwin never finished "Remember This House," a personal account of the lives and assassinations of Medgar Evers, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King Jr. A social gathering and dessert for SAS students precedes the movie.

Because SAS is in session on Monday, the school will celebrate its MLK Day of Service on Sunday, Jan. 20. SAS teacher David Prehn will lead a service project for all students interested in participating. Students will meet at Owen Student Union at 1 p.m. That evening, at 7:05 p.m., the school's weekly Compline service in St. Andrew's Chapel will include readings and music to mark the holiday. The community is invited to this short service.

Monday, Jan. 21, will be chockful of educational opportunities to learn more about the life, work, and legacy of Dr. King as the school fulfills the goal of making Martin Luther King Jr. Day "a day on, not a day off." All events are open to the public. The day begins with a holiday-themed Holy Eucharist in St. Andrew's Chapel at 8 a.m. Following the service, a series of teach-ins in the school's Agee Library will be offered:

9 a.m., "Religion and Civil Rights" led by SAS Chaplain Mother Short;

9:45 a.m., "Nashville Sit-ins" with SAS history teacher Christine Monahan;

11 a.m., "The Mountain and Civil Rights" with History Department chair Geoffrey Smith;

11:45 a.m., "Henrietta Lacks: An Immortal Life" with Academic Dean Kelley Black;

1:30 p.m., "African American Poetry" with English Department chair Malia Carlos;

2:15 p.m., "Asian Americans: The Model Minority Myth?" with Chinese teacher and International Student Coordinator Marcus Murphy.

There will be a break at 10:30 a.m. at which participants are welcome to enjoy refreshments and student artwork in Simmonds Hall. At 12:30 p.m., SAGE Dining will offer Martin Luther King Jr.'s favorite meal in the Robinson Dining Hall with creative activities facilitated by art teachers Osei Hill and Rachel Malde.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is the successor to one of the first Southern boarding schools to integrate, St. Andrew's School. The school integrated in September of 1965 at the request of the Order of the Holy Cross, the Episcopal order that founded the school to "break that cycle of poverty through education grounded in a Christian world-view." Throughout its history the school has remained committed to providing a boarding school education for students for whom such experiences might not otherwise be available.

Jiha Moon: 'Familiar Faces' at UAG

The University Art Gallery presents "Familiar Faces," an exhibition by Atlanta-based artist Jiha Moon. Freely combining imagery, techniques and materials from disparate places and cultural registers, Moon questions the value of origins. As she writes, "The world is so interconnected nowadays, how can one even tell where someone or something 'comes from' anymore?" She draws pictorial references from sources as seemingly distinct as Korean temple paintings and Walt Disney cartoons, synthesizing them into a visual language that is both strange and familiar. Her materials are equally synthetic and hard to pin down, acrylic paint applied to traditional Korean mulberry paper Hanji, or ceramics that reference multiple world traditions. Self-described as a "cartographer of cultures and an icon maker of fictive worlds," Moon "purposefully create(s) images whose origins are hard to identify." Identity is treated as slippery and shifting, impossible to pin to geographic location, citizenship, ethnicity, or race. The exhibit will be on display Jan. 15–March 11.

Please join us! On Friday, Jan. 25 at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall, Jiha Moon will speak about her work. Alison Miller of the department of art, art history and visual studies will lead the conversation to follow. The event is free and open to the public.

Jiha Moon (b. 1973) was born in DaeGu, Korea and lives and works in Atlanta, GA. She received an M.A. and M.F.A. from the University of Iowa, Iowa City in 2001 and 2002, and an M.F.A. from Ewha University, Seoul, Korea in 1999. Her awards include The MOCA GA Working Artist Project, The Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga., (2012–2013) and the Joan Mitchell Foundation's painter and sculptor's award (2011). Moon exhibits widely across the United States. Selected group exhibitions include Chaos and Awe: Painting for the 21st Century, Frist Art Museum, Nashville, (2018), Organic Matters, National Museum of Women in the Arts, Washington, D.C. (2015), The Hunter Invitational III, the Hunter Art Museum, Chattanooga, (2014) and Past Traditions/New Voices in Asian Art, Hofstra University Museum, Hempstead, N.Y. (2014). Moon's mid-career survey exhibition, Double Welcome: Most Everyone's Mad Here, organized by Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art and the Taubman Museum, toured multiple museum venues around the United States from 2015 to 2018.

The University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. The gallery is free, accessible, and open to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Please note that the UAG is closed during academic breaks. Call for Artists for the Tennessee Craft Fair

Local and regional craft artisans are invited to submit their artwork for the 48th annual Spring Tennessee Craft Fair by Feb. 15. This juried show presents around 200 of the region's finest craft artists on the lawn in Centennial Park, May 3, 4, and 5, 2019.

The Tennessee Craft Spring Fair is open to artists 18 years of age or older who are Tennessee residents, residents from neighboring states (no guild affiliation required!), as well as artists studying at Tennessee institutions. Contiguous states include Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, and Virginia. Also, any exhibitor who participated in the 2018 Spring Tennessee Craft Fair who moves out of Tennessee or its contiguous region may exhibit for this one year only following the screening procedure.

Tennessee Craft Fairs are the premier outdoor events for artists to showcase and sell their work by connecting to the community and demonstrating their craft knowledge. One of two signature fairs, held each spring and fall, the Tennessee Craft Spring Fair is the largest craft fair of its caliber in the region, serving approximately 45,000 visitors in Nashville's high-traffic midtown park.

The 48th annual Spring Tennessee Craft Fair offers cash awards including Best of Show ($1,000). Awards support Tennessee Craft's mission of encouraging artists in their work, developing their craft and elevating their career. For more information go to <tennesseecraft.org>.

'All Things Bright and Beautiful'

For the second year, the Sewanee Herbarium is sponsoring an exhibit at Stirling's Coffee House on the beauty of nature, titled "All Things Bright and Beautiful." This year, the show emphasizes the natural sciences and is co-sponsored by the Environmental Arts and Humanities Program and the Sewanee Natural History Society.

Members of the herbarium-sponsored nature journaling group arranged and hung the display. Exhibitors include scientists and naturalists, people who are captivated by different aspects of our physical world. The works will be on display Jan. 14 through the month of February. An artists' reception is planned for Thursday, Jan. 17, 4-6 p.m.

The arts and sciences share a deep appreciation for the beauty that can be found in symmetry, simplicity, and order—the sorts of things found in nature—as well as in the paintings, poems, graphs, and photos that communicate these natural phenomena.

Just as everyone can on some level be a scientist—following up on questions and making discoveries about the natural world—so can they all be artists. Coffee house patrons are invited to design a paper butterfly using one of the white "blanks" provided and add it to the kaleidoscope of those on the wall.

Stirling's Coffee House is located at 241 Georgia Ave., Sewanee. For more information contact the Stirling's manager at <jcstubbbl@sewanee.edu> or the herbarium curator at <mpriestley0150@gmail.com>.

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school boys' basketball team ended their home season on Jan. 7 in style, defeating the Coalmont Rebels 52-27. Kyler Cantrell dominated the middle on offense and defense both, scoring 23 points off nice dishes from guards Spears Askew, Cecil Rodgers and Aiden Tate. Ethan Hargis added nine points on 3-pointers in the first half that helped SAS break the game open. Askew had nine, Ryan Ostrowski had four, Robbie Johnston notched a trey on his first game of the season after coming off an injury, and two each were added by Raulston Barnett and Ethan Allen (another new player, transferred over the break), and Tate.

Hendrix Fends Off the Tigers in SAA Opener

A fourth quarter rally for Sewanee women's basketball came up short Jan. 4, as the Tigers were defeated by the Warriors of Hendrix College, 76-63, inside Juhan Gymnasium. This was the home opener in Southern Athletic Association (SAA) play.

The teams struggled on the floor during the opening quarter, with the first bucket of the game coming at the 6:32 mark on a Vinessa Daniel layup plus a free throw for the Warriors.

Sewanee evened the score a little over a minute later on an Ellie Treanton triple.

Near the end of the opening frame, after Sue Kim drained two shots from the charity stripe to give Sewanee an 11-10 lead with eight seconds left in the period. Vinessa Daniel ran up the floor for a fastbreak layup to give the Warriors a 12-11 lead after one quarter.

With less than six minutes left in the half, tied at 21, the Warriors went on a 12-0 run in about a five-minute span to secure the lead for good. The Tigers went into the locker room trailing 37-23.

The third quarter was much like the first quarter in terms of shooting. Both teams could not hit a rhythm, and the Warriors took a 49-32 lead into the final 10 minutes.

In the fourth quarter, Sewanee used a 32-27 period to attempt to get back in the contest, but the Tigers, who got the deficit as low as nine points, suffered the setback.

Ellie Treanton led all Sewanee scorers with 13 points and added nine rebounds.

Bella Taylor added 12 points, while Sue Kim posted 11 points, eight assists and four steals.

Women's Basketball Unable to Hold Off Rhodes

The Sewanee women's basketball team suffered a 64-57 defeat by Rhodes College Jan. 6, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

Despite a 7-0 setback in the first 1:13 of the contest, the Tigers responded with a 10-4 run to cut the deficit to a one-point affair, 11-10, with six minutes left in the opening quarter.

Trailing 16-15 with less than two minutes to go, Sewanee's Emily Carletello and Sue Kim hit back-to-back 3-pointers to go up 21-16 after 10 minutes of play.

The second quarter was a different story. The Lynx held the Tigers to six points and a 2-of-14 mark from the field. Rhodes took a 31-27 lead into the locker room.

The Tigers retook the lead with 4:37 left in the third with back-to-back triples from Katie Roth. Near the end of the quarter, Abby Young drained a shot from beyond the arc to even the score at 40 points apiece as the teams went to the fourth quarter.

The fourth quarter saw the Lynx drained 7-of-12 field goals and 9-of-13 free throws. On defense, the team swatted away five shots, despite the Tigers out-rebounding the Lynx, 12-7.

Knotted up at 44 with less than eight minutes remaining in regulation, the visitors went on a 6-2 run to seal the contest.

Sewanee would make it a one-point game again, 50-49, with a Bella Taylor triple, but that would be as close as the Tigers would get to retaking the lead.

Lakeisha Phillips led Sewanee with 12 points, while Katie Roth contributed 11 and four boards. Abby Young posted nine points and eight rebounds off the bench.

Sewanee Wins Conference Home Opener

The Sewanee men's basketball team improved to 12-1 on the season with a 78-70 victory in the conference home opener over Hendrix College Jan. 4, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

Sewanee sprinted out to an 11-2 lead in the first 4:30 of the contest and extended the lead to 21-5 with 11 minutes left in the opening half thanks to a 10-0 run.

Hendrix would make it an 11-point halftime deficit, but it was the Purple and Gold who took a 35-24 lead at intermission.

The Warriors came out strong in the second half. Trailing 44-29 with 17 minutes remaining in regulation, the visitors cut the deficit to five, 46-41, thanks to a 12-2 run in about a three-plus minute span.

However, the Tigers, leading 49-44 with 12 minutes left in the contest, sealed the deal in a five-plus minute span with a 16-2 run to extend the lead to 65-46 to seal the lead for good, despite a failed comeback attempt by the Warriors.

Sewanee recorded an assist on 16 of the team's 26 field goals, and they recorded eight fastbreak points.

Hunter Buescher missed his career high by one point with a season-best 26 points on 9-of-10 shooting and 4-of-4 from downtown.

Luke Smith added 13 points thanks to a 6-of-6 mark from the free throw line, and he added six boards and five assists.

Jordan Warlick added 13 points and five rebounds, while Adrian Thomas contributed a double-double with 12 points and 10 boards.

Sewanee Extends Winning Streak to Six

The Sewanee men's basketball team took down in-state and conference rival Rhodes, 69-54, to extend its winning streak to six games, Jan. 6, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

It took some time for the Tigers offense to get rolling, as the Lynx evened the score at 12 points each with less than 11 minutes to go.

Leading 13-12, Sewanee, who missed its first seven 3-pointers, nailed a triple with 7:25 left in the opening half by Hunter Buescher.

That sparked a rally by the Tigers, as they went on a 17-5 run to push the lead to double figures, 29-19.

The Tigers led at the half, 37-21, and they did not stop entering the second half. Sewanee went on a 9-2 run to push the lead to 52-31 with 13 minutes remaining in regulation that helped seal the contest.

With the win Sunday, the Tigers have extended their win streak to six, one away from matching their season best of seven that started at the beginning of the season. In addition, the Tigers have won their 16th straight game at home.

Luke Smith led all scorers with 21 points on 7-of-10 shooting, five rebounds and four assists.

Cam Caldwell added 12 points and seven rebounds, while Adrian Thomas corralled nine rebounds and scored seven points.

Athletes Corner

"My name is Ashtyn Danley and I play travel softball and middle school basketball. Needless to say I have a very busy schedule with sports and school. Among my achievements include winning 10 & under and 12 & under PGF Nationals. I have also verbally committed to Florida State University for a softball scholarship. I sought chiropractic treatment with Dr. Shull for leg, ankle, and knee problems. I had issues with these problems for about 5 months. Things that I had tried in the past for relief included cryotherapy and I took time off from both sports for a month. Since getting treatment at Shull Chiropractic Clinic, I have been able to compete with minimal pain. I was playing with pain before. Dr. Shull did dry needling and ultrasound, which loosened soft tissue that was knotted. The swelling and level of pain has decreased. Since I plan on playing softball and basketball for many more years in high school and softball in college, I feel that the natural approach with chiropractic care, dry needling, ultrasound, etc. will keep me on the playing field with little down time. I want to continue with non-drug treatments to stay healthy."—Ashtyn Danley, and Brandi Danley, Mom

Bluebirds

A pair of Eastern Bluebirds was checking out our bluebird nesting box earlier this week. They have used this box almost every year since we put it up, around 10 years ago or so. Bluebirds are resident year-round in our area. They are members of the thrush family, as are robins. This relationship may be seen in the speckled breasts of juveniles of both bluebirds and robins. Besides their distinctive blue color and rusty-red breasts, they may be recognized by their hunched posture when perched in a conspicuous spot, ready to swoop down to the ground for insects. They may also catch insects on the wing. Berries are added to their diet in the fall and winter. Their song is soft, a kind of gurgle, which I think of as muttering to themselves.

There are two other bluebirds out West. The Western Bluebird is similar to the Eastern, but has an all-blue head and throat. The Mountain Bluebird is more slender and with an overall sky blue coloration. The Eastern Bluebird may interbreed or hybridize with each of these where their ranges overlap.

From the field: Leonard King reports several sightings of an adult bald eagle on Rainbow Lake around the first of the year. Rainbow Lake is located on Highway 156, near the intersection with Gudger Road.

Savage Gulf Marathon

Registration closes on March 9, or when all 100 registrations have been filled. Registration fee is $85.

Savage Gulf is a 14,357-acre State Natural Area that contains some of the most spectacular natural rock formations in Tennessee. Purchased by the state in 1973 to protect one of the last known stands of virgin timber in the Eastern United States, Savage Gulf has 55 miles of trails and 10 primitive campsites. The Savage Gulf Ranger Station is the eastern access point to the Savage Gulf-Stone Door trail system that traverses the most rugged and scenic areas of the South Cumberland complex. The Stone Door Ranger Station is within the Savage Gulf area and is accessible off State Highway 56 near Beersheba Springs.

Olaf

Arlene

Pets of the Week Meet Olaf & Arlene

Olaf is a 1.5-year-old white Husky mix with the most beautiful blue eyes you have ever seen. Olaf gets his name from the friendly, goofy snowman from the Disney film "Frozen." Olaf was very shy and afraid when he came into the shelter, but with lots of work with staff and with our special volunteer Barbara, he has come out of his shell and has learned to trust and love people. He now has a very friendly demeanor with a goofy side, like the Disney character. His one minor flaw is digging in the dirt. He needs a gentle hand for training. He is good with other dogs and doesn't seem to mind a cat one bit. He loves to run, so a large fenced yard would be ideal. He is up-to-date on shots, is heartworm-negative, and has been neutered. Olaf is just waiting for someone to fall in love with his gentle spirit.

Arlene is a beautiful 3-year-old orange tabby. Arlene was brought in after being removed from a very severe hoarding case. Arlene accepts and enjoys affection at any time, and she loves high perches and sitting in windows. She has grown very fond of the cat tree located in the adult cat community room, where she watches everything going on. She also frequently uses a cat door and enjoys time basking in the sun on our cat porch. We have recently found that Arlene interacts well with dogs so she would potentially fit in well in a home with other pets. She is spayed and up-to-date on all vaccinations. Arlene deserves a nice home with a loving family; make sure to drop in and see her!

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for seniors and veterans. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>. Enter the drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

When the song of the angels is stilled,
When the star in the sky is gone,
When the kings and the princes are home,
When the shepherds are back with their flock,
The work of Christmas begins:
To find the lost,
To heal the broken,
To feed the hungry,
To release the prisoner,
To rebuild nations,
To bring peace among brothers,
To make music in the heart.

The Work of Christmas, by Howard Thurman (1899-1991)
