Ward to Present 'Stiff' at the Tennessee Williams Center

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

In 2015, Sherry Ward sat in a neurologist's office, the third one in the past few months, hopeful that she would finally have some answers.

She'd been experiencing tremors, severe pain and her legs would give out on her. She and the two neurologists who saw her before were stumped. She was almost ready to throw in the towel. However, with two kids at home and an acting career she was not ready to leave, she knew something had to give.

During that third visit, Ward was tested for a rare, degenerative disease, Stiff Person Syndrome. Results came back positive. Since then, she and her family have settled into a new normal.

Stiff Person's Syndrome (SPS), which affects twice as many women as it does men, is characterized by

Response to Lake Cheston Cell Tower Site

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

During the community discussion about the proposed Lake Cheston cell tower site, two points of general agreement surfaced: one, the need for improved cell phone service in Sewanee; two, approval for locating a cell tower near the former dump/convenience center adjacent the golf course.

The discussion followed a demonstration at Lake Cheston where a drone illustrated the proposed tower's height. Eric Hartman, director of risk management and University liaison for the project, fielded questions and offered insight.

Documenting the need for better cell phone service, community members said inadequate and unreliable service from AT&T impeded law enforcement and interaction with health care providers. From the University's perspective, Hartman acknowledged poor cell service hampered recruiting students and attracting visitors. William Shealy, University superintendent of landscape planning & operations, added that most contractors employed by the University had no cell service in Sewanee.

"Verizon is the primary provider in the country," Hartman said. Asked if a repeater tower could be used to transmit the signal from the Verizon tower in Monteagle, Hartman explained the decreased signal strength would not penetrate stone buildings in Sewanee.

Resident Bob Benson objected to the aesthetic impact of a 240-foot lit tower at the Lake Cheston site, arguing the University spent large sums refurbishing Lake Cheston. Benson noted his home and two other residences were within 600 feet of the site, with dormitories only 1,000 feet away and Emerald Hodgson Hospital, likewise, nearby.

"Cell towers haven't been around long enough to determine the long-term health effects," Benson said. He proposed an antenna on a building to solve the cell service problem.

Hartman noted that due to the stone buildings, several antennae would be needed for adequate propagation community wide, and Verizon objected to the multiple-antennae expense.

Reiterating concerns about the 290-foot lit water tower site proposed in September, Hartman said, the community objected to the height and wanted the tower better hidden in the topography.

"The water tower site is as far out as Verizon wants to go," Hartman stressed. With distance, the signal strength decreases, limiting propagation.

Under the current strategy, the University is identifying potential locations and presenting them to Verizon to review for propagation suitability.

Locations rejected for inadequate propagation due to height

Council Considers Concerns about Fiber Optic Cost

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Jan. 13 meeting, the Sewanee Community Council revisited a discussion about how to apportion the expense of installing fiber optic infrastructure on the Domain. Much of the meeting was also devoted to discussing possible cell tower locations (see "Council Debates Another Cell Tower Location" on page 5). In addition, the council approved two Funding Project recommendations and appointed a new council representative.

In October, several council members suggested non-residents pay for a greater percentage of the fiber optic infrastructure installation. The project is a joint venture undertaken by Ben Lomand Connect, Duck River Electric, and the University. The University's portion of the cost is $725,000. The University plans to pay for 15 percent of that based on the University's ownership of 15 percent of the 555 leaseholds. The remaining cost will be assessed to the other leaseholders.

Superintendent of Leases Sallie Green researched the legality of charging non-residents more. "All charges must be proportional," Green said referencing University counsel Lucy Singer. Non-residents cannot be charged a higher percentage based on their non-resident status. The lease-fee increase to pay for the infrastructure "will be proportional to the improvement value of your home," Green explained.

Council representative Theresa Shackelford observed some residents might not be able to afford the lease fee increase. The median average increase will be $2,000 during a 10-year period, Shackelford said.

"Has everyone been told about this?" community resident Barbara Schlichting asked. "It will hit some residents hard."

Shackelford suggested a portion of the Sewanee Community Funding Project monies be set aside to assist low-income residents.

The council will revisit the discussion at a future meeting. Information on the fiber optic project is available at <fiberforsewanee.com>.

The council approved two requests for Funding Project monies: $3,500 to the Sewanee Community Ballfield to restore the ballfield and $800 to the Parks Committee on behalf of Youth Soccer for soccer field markers.

Funding Project Chair Kate Reed said 11 proposals were still under consideration, with $15,700 remaining in the fund. Funds are earmarked "for physical improvements and amenities for the Domain."

The council also approved the appointment of Paul Schutz to finish out the term of elected council representative Charles Whitmer. Vice-Chancellor McCordell welcomed Karen Singer, who will finish out the term of appointed representative Austin Oakes.

The council set the Arthur Knoll Community Clean Up for April 11.

The council meets next March 23.

Hatcher to Present at ALLL

At Sewanee for 15 years now, she teaches courses in American political institutions—Congress, the presidency, and the courts (including a series on constitutional law). Her senior seminar, Religion and American Politics, was instrumental in shaping her ongoing research agenda about British Evangelicals. She has published The Political and Religious Identities of British Evangelicals, and is currently researching the politics of the black majority church in the UK.

Her presentation is titled "The Electoral College: A Masterpiece of Political Improvisation." The Electoral College is held in esteem by some people and contempt by others. Council Debates Another Cell Tower Location

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Jan. 13 meeting, the Sewanee Community Council and residents debated yet another possible cell tower location in addition to the Lake Cheston site and other sites discussed at the Jan. 8 community forum (see “Response to Lake Cheston Cell Tower Site” on page 1).

Eric Hartman, director of risk management and University liaison for the cell tower project, said Verizon rejected locating a tower near the former landfill site, a solution largely favored at the Jan. 8 forum. Verizon objected to toxic refuse in the landfill and close proximity to the airport, which limited tower height and successful propagation.

Hartman reviewed the three site options approved by Verizon: the water tower field, 800 feet from residences, lit, three-sided 290-foot tower, possibly requiring a supplemental antennae on a building for adequate propagation; Lake Cheston, 600 feet from residences, lit, three-sided 240-foot tower, good propagation; football field, 280 feet from residences, 185-foot monopole eight feet in diameter, unlit since under 200 feet tall, best propagation.

Hartman said Verizon recently proposed a modification to the football field site. They suggested replacing one of the four football field lights with a monopole and mounting the field lights on that pole. The infrastructure could be partly concealed beneath the bleachers. Verizon favored replacing the light pole beyond the concession stand. The proximity to homes would decrease.

Community resident Leslie Richardson objected, saying the chain-link fencing, generator, and infrastructure would be disruptive to the area used for tailgate parties.

Her husband, Dale Richardson, said the University conveyed they would not pursue locating a tower at the football field site due to concerns expressed by the State Historic Preservation Office. “I feel disappointed and misinformed.”

The Richardsons hold the lease on property adjoining the original football field site. The modified plan moved the monopole further from their home.

Hartman acknowledged that he told Verizon, “I don’t think the community will go for this.”

Asked about Verizon using an antenna mounted on a building to transmit the signal, Hartman said there was no building tall enough. He added “a tower is Verizon’s strategy. Verizon wants to invest in a single tower solution. Vogue Tower is the only tower company we could get interested in the project.”

Asked about approaching other cell service providers, Hartman said, “We need Verizon’s connectivity. Verizon is the leading provider. Without them, there is no project.”

Vice-Chancellor John McCauley asked if anyone wanted to speak in favor of any of the three sites, no one responded.

Resident Mayur Malde said he preferred multiple-antennas on buildings, noting that for adequate propagation, “repeater antennas will be needed anyway.”

Resident Emily Puckette observed a lighted tower “would be a presence for a long time and disruptive to wildlife flight.”

Council representative Theresa Shackleford asked to see a sketch of the infrastructure layout at the new football field site. Hartman replied, “Verizon will only invest in layout design if they think this is the preferred site.”

Leslie Richardson said she thought Verizon was being “unreasonable.”

Hartman pointed out Verizon had reviewed 11 sites, “a lot for a small community.”

Council representative Phil White said, “Every day we delay we put lives of community members in danger. Some things are more important than aesthetics and tradition.”

restrictions and other issues include sites near the Facilities Management building, the Tennessee Williams Center, and the McCrary and Ayres parking lots.

Former Domain Manager Richard Winslow noted a tower was erected in 2006 at the site of the former landfill and convenience center adjacent to the golf course. Verizon rejected the site when a core sample showed evidence of the toxic chemical benzene.

The low-visibility tower, less than 200 feet tall and thus unlit, was removed. Winslow suggested Verizon consider a nearby location which might not pose the same environmental issues. Many community members attending voiced support for a site near the former landfill.

Hartman said he would propose the site to Verizon, but stressed Verizon refused to reconsider the landfill site. “I’m not optimistic.”

Asked if the University was willing to help fund a multiple-antennae solution, Hartman said, “We’re trying to find a partner. We’re not investing in the project.”

Hartman said there was not an active contract with partnering entities Vogue Towers, who would erect the structure, and Verizon who would provide the equipment and service. For propagation reasons, Verizon still preferred the football field site objected to by the State Historic Preservation office. The University chose not to challenge the ruling. “Most people push through regulatory issues, but we didn’t want to do that.”

Questioned about the internet service from Ben Lomand improving cell phone service, Harman said it would facilitate Wi-Fi calling from within people’s homes, but not outside them.

“My hope is to have a cell tower by the end of 2020,” he said.

‘Mine 21’ to Broadcast on PBS

“Mine 21” is a short documentary about the fatal coal mine explosion in Marion County. A 15-minute version of the film was screened in the communities affected by the Mine 21 disaster in 2018. In 2019, this 15-minute version was awarded the prestigious Erikson Prize for Excellence in Mental Health Media by the Austen Riggs Center due to its sensitive depiction of trauma.

And now, “Mine 21” will be broadcast on PBS.

The documentary is directed by University of the South alumnus Stephen Garrett, C’01, and produced by Sewanee Classics Professor Chris McDonough. It tells the story of a deadly 1981 coal mine explosion in Whitwell, Tenn., by following two Sewanee students—Kelsey Arbuckle, C’19, and Alexa Fults, C’21—as they learn more about the disaster. Arbuckle’s grandfather, Charles Myers, was one of the miners killed in the explosion. Her grandmother, Barbara Myers, testified before Congress in the 1987 federal lawsuit.

The East Tennessee PBS station, located in Knoxville, Tenn., will air “Mine 21” at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 30, in a program titled “Appalachian Shorts: Coal Miners.” Also featured will be “Harlan County: Scenes from the Black Jewel Miner Blockade,” where filmmaker Sarah Moyer explores the perspectives of coal miners and their allies who are determined to receive back pay by seizing a trainload of coal. To view the trailer for “Appalachian Shorts: Coal Miners,” visit <<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9ionEJlyblQ>>. A second showing has been scheduled for Feb. 6, at 8:30 p.m. Go to <<http://www.easttennesseepbs.org/home/>> for more information.

McDonough and Garrett have expanded the 15-minute documentary into a standard broadcast length format of 30 minutes. In addition to telling the original story, the longer version includes interviews with mine safety experts, labor historians, and community trauma researchers.

They had approached East Tennessee PBS about the possibility of airing the long version at some point. But the program director suggested they could pair Moyer’s video with the shorter version of “Mine 21” and call it “Appalachian Shorts: Coal Miners.”

In the meantime, the half-hour version is currently being considered by film festivals across the country this spring. “We are hoping to share this important story in places outside of the area,” said McDonough. “Festivals are a great way to bring attention to a film that audiences and distributors might not otherwise come across.”

“Definitely, we will show the longer version here,” he added. McDonough notes that a local screening sometime in the early summer seems likely.

extreme muscle stiffness, rigidity and painful spasms in the trunk and limbs, severely impairing mobility.

Part of the new normal has been getting back to the work she loves. After the encouragement of a friend, she put her story down on paper.

“Once I got sick, I thought there goes my acting career,” she said. “I had lunch with a dear friend, René Moreno, who passed away a couple years ago. He was the director of the August Osage County production I acted in. He was in a wheelchair from a spinal cord injury. He took me out to lunch, and we compared stories. He told me, ‘You’re going to find a way to express this dramatically.’ He is one of those people I respect so much. He is just one of those people, you do what he says. So, I got to work.”

Next Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 22 and 23, Ward will present her solo, autobiographical play, “Stiff,” which details her experience navigating her diagnosis. “Stiff” has been an award-winning audience favorite at festivals, conferences and theatres across the country.

“Taking René’s advice, I started writing things down. I’m not a natural journal-keeper...but I was determined to create a show around my experience with doctors and with how it’s affected my acting work,” Ward said. “I was determined to write a show, but I didn’t just want to write about a sick lady. I wouldn’t want to see that, and I don’t want to put my friends through that. I was determined to make it funny.”

Jim Crawford, associate professor of theatre at the University, performed in “August: Osage County” with Ward a few years ago, and he said working with her then was an unforgettable experience.

“I was dazzled by her even then,” he said. “She was one of the best actors I’d ever worked with. I heard about this show she was developing, but I moved away from Dallas. When I finally got to see parts of the show, I was blown away,” he said. “She is somebody who has taken this difficult turn in life and turned it into such a funny, moving piece of art.”

Moreover, in a community of writers and artists, Crawford said he hopes this show will be especially inspirational.

“One of the things I love about the show is she did not turn things into an after school special. She has a really great, biting sense of humor, and that is so intact in this piece,” he said. “We have so many theatre artists, and I think it is a great example of someone taking something that happened to them and unexpectedly turning it into a piece of theatre. Take your broken heart and turn it into art.”

Ward will perform “Stiff” on Jan. 22 and 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Tennessee Williams Center. The show is free and best suited for mature audiences.

Get Financially Fit

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

What made it to your list of New Year's resolutions this year? In January 2019, Inc., a magazine aimed at helping small businesses grow, reported saving more and spending less money were among the top five most popular resolutions.

Inc. also reported that achieving financial health is among the most commonly failed resolutions.

The mission team at the Morton Memorial United Methodist Church (MMUMC) is hoping to help with that by offering a free one-day workshop on financial health on Sunday, Jan. 26, from 1–2:30 p.m. A light lunch will be served for all workshop attendees before the event.

Established in 2018 after a VISTA project, BetterFi is a nonprofit economic justice enterprise that works to alleviate poverty by providing more affordable routes out of dependence on predatory loans. Founder Spike Hosch will lead the workshop and offer advice on financial planning, budget making, and saving.

Karen Noffsinger said the mission team at MMUMC has been talking about offering a series of outreach programs for the last year, and as part of the expansion, the team will be offering the first of the series on Sunday, Jan. 26.

"People often report that most of their personal stress come from money worries, and we can all relate to this, no matter where we are in life. I believe education is power, and if people are able to gain some basic money management tools, that can reduce a lot of stress," she said.

Noffsinger said spots are still available, and the event is free to attend. Childcare is available for those who need it.

"A lot of folks are burdened by a lot of debt and have no clue how to pay things off and gain freedom from the burden of worrying about money," Noffsinger said. "We live in a world that encourages spending money, but doesn't teach us the skills to handle money. There are management tools out there if people want to learn, and we want to help with that if we can."

South Cumberland State Park Ranger Ryan Harris installs infrared tracking devices near Denny Cove in the South Cumberland State Park. The trackers, obtained by the Friends of South Cumberland through a grant from The Access Fund, will count climbers visiting both the Denny Cove and Foster Falls sections of the park.

Infrared Trail Counters at the SCSP

Rangers and volunteers at the South Cumberland State Park (SCSP) have embarked on a project to track the number of visitors to sections of the park most popular with rock climbers.

An Access Fund grant awarded to the Friends of South Cumberland (FSC) will provide infrared trail counters to collect data on the number of rock climbers at the Denny Cove and Foster Falls sections of the park. The FSC worked with park rangers to install the counters at these two locations, which are popular with both hikers and climbers.

The data collected from the counters will give the park a better idea of the number of climbers accessing these two locations and will allow the park and the FSC to better advocate for climber resources in the park, according to FSC Board Vice President Trae Moore.

"The initial trail count project will be limited to Denny Cove and Foster Falls, but if the project is successful, the Friends hope to expand the use of the trail counters throughout the park," Moore said.

The counters work by using an infrared beam to detect when a person passes by the counter. It then stores this information until the rangers retrieve the data. The counters are positioned in locations to best tally all visitors to these locations.

Through direct observation, FSC volunteers will also verify the accuracy of the counters and develop ratios of climbers versus hikers in order to obtain more accurate data on the number of climbers, according to Moore, while also collecting raw data on all users of the trails.

Denny Cove, one of the park's newest sections, was added in July, 2016 when The Access Fund, a climbing advocacy group, and Southeast Climbers' Coalition (SCC), with help from the FSC, purchased the 685-acre tract. It was dedicated and officially opened to the public in March of 2017. Previously held by a Brazilian timber company, Denny Cove is described as "a nearly pristine parcel with outstanding cliff-lines, making it a priority acquisition for climbing enthusiasts."

More than 150 world-class climbing routes have already been identified on the bluffs at Denny Cove, located just off U.S. Hwy. 41, two miles south of the entrance to Foster Falls.

The mission of the Access Fund is to advocate for climbers on a national level. To learn more, visit <www.accessfund.org>. To learn more about the FSC, visit <www.friendsofsouthcumberland.org>.

The South Cumberland State Park is located within four Tennessee counties: Grundy, Franklin, Marion and Sequatchie. The park is composed of approximately 30,845 acres in nine separate areas and boasts some of the best hiking and backcountry camping in the region. It is the largest state park in Tennessee.

Beecken Center Offers Continuing Education Opportunity

The Beecken Center of the School of Theology at the University of the South is offering a new continuing education opportunity for clergy and lay persons of all denominations. Engaging Ministry: Practices of Prayer, Worship, and Community will explore two aspects of congregational vitality: cultivating practices that invite Christ's indwelling presence in both ordained leaders and in communities, and processes for creating dynamic and transformative worship that stirs the senses and opens the heart.

This two-part workshop will be held Jan. 30–Feb. 1, on the University's campus in Sewanee, Tennessee. Participants will leave refreshed, inspired, and better equipped to form faith communities that are spiritually vital and alive, and with ideas and tools for creating non-traditional worship.

Part 1, The Heart of Ministry: Deepening Practice, Deepening Community, will be led by the Rev. Stuart Higginbotham, rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Gainesville, Georgia, and will focus on how practices of prayer can nurture leadership and help communities listen more deeply to the Spirit's indwelling presence.

Part 2, Entering the Mystery: Planning Non-Traditional Worship, will be facilitated by Kate Eaton, president and founder of Mishkha, an organization devoted to inspiring new visions for worship through the arts, music, movement, and interaction. Kate will lead participants through a four-phase process for creating engaging worship on an on-going basis that is life-giving for a group of people responsible for carrying out the service week to week.

"We may live in a time when we see a decline in religious affiliation," says Beecken Center Executive Director Sheri Kling, "but those churches that are growing seem to share several characteristics: they are described as 'spiritually vital and alive' and worship is experienced as 'joyful' and 'vibrant.' We offer this Engaging Ministry event in the hope that we can help clergy and lay leaders create such communities."

Participants may register for one or both segments. For more information and to register, visit <<http://bit.ly/em-2020>>.

New Center of Lifelong Learning Classes

The Center of Lifelong Learning at the University of the South is excited to announce our new courses. Please contact Dan Backlund at <lifelong@sewanee.edu> for further information and to register for these exciting classes before they are full. The enrollment fee for each course is only $60 and includes six hours of formal learning time.

The Supernatural Gothic in American Fiction

American fantasy has always been defined by two strains, the light (epitomized by L. Frank Baum and Walt Disney), and the dark. It appears that the can-do optimism of Baum's Dorothy must be counterbalanced by a fascination with horror. Many of America's foremost authors, both high and low, have tapped into the dark strain, including Washington Irving, Edgar Allan Poe, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Herman Melville, Louisa May Alcott, Henry James, H. P. Lovecraft, Stephen King, Joyce Carol Oates, Anne Rice, and Toni Morrison. We will also take a side glance at the Southern Gothic tradition which, while usually not supernatural, nevertheless partakes of some of the same energies. What does it say about us that we are so drawn to these fictions?

Instructor: Robin Bates, English; Mondays from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 3, 10, 17, and 24.

A Close Reading of Anthony Trollope's Barchester Towers: A Literary Winter Vacation

Reading Anthony Trollope's Barchester Towers is the best way I know of leaving a winter world behind and exchanging it for the delights of a fictional Victorian cathedral town. The surprise comes in discovering that Barchester in the 19th century bears startling resemblance to Sewanee in the 21st: this novel which can seem initially to be merely amusing and diverting actually provides a profound imaginative projection of a theocentric universe charged with the same irony and moral perspective we find in Dante's Comedia or Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. I hope that this class will serve as the incentive to enter Trollope's vast fictional world again and again as his fifty published novels allow one to do. But certainly it will allow an engaging and amusing alternative to the often bleak days of winter in contemporary Tennessee.

The text will be Barchester Towers, by Anthony Trollope [ed. Robin Gilmour, Penguin Paperback, ISBN-13: 978-0-140-43203-9]

Instructor: John Reishman, Professor Emeritus of English; Tuesdays, 9–11 a.m., Feb. 4, 11, 18, and 25.

Did You Order the Kit? – Wait – Where Does Scenery Really Come From?

We will explore the fascinating process of performance design from the first reading of the script to a realized performance. The Department of Theatre and Dance is producing "Ugly Lies the Bone" by Lindsey Ferrentino in celebration of 50 Years of Women at Sewanee. Over our four meetings we will discuss script analysis, internal and external research, idea generation, design creation, working drawing creation, and finally, design execution. We will be able to see the scenery being built, painted, and installed, culminating in seeing a performance of the show that runs from March 5 – 8, 2020.

Instructor: Dan Backlund, Theatre and Dance; Wednesdays, from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 5, 12, 19, and 26.

Japanese Prints: Beautiful People and Famous Places

This course will introduce the topic of 18th-20th century Japanese prints. We will discuss how prints impacted the time and place in which they were made, as well as how they were created. We will have the opportunity to view 19th century Japanese prints in the University Archives collection.

Instructor: Alison Miller, Art History and Visual Studies; Thursdays from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 20, 27, and March 5.

Modern Astronomy: From the Moon to the Multiverse

The three classes will cover the major topics in Astronomy today.

Topic 1: Our Solar System, we will discuss the latest findings regarding the planets (major and minor) and their moons, the Sun's structure and the effects of 'solar weather' on the Earth, and finally, the most likely places for the existence of extraterrestrial life will be considered.

Topic 2: Our Galaxy, we will examine the structure of the Milky Way and how dark matter and the large black hole at its center determine it. The various evolutionary paths of stars, especially, the Sun, will be discussed. Finally, the possibility of life on extra-solar planets will be investigated.

Topic 3: Our Universe, we will cover the large-scale structure of the Universe, in particular, its origin and evolution. Special attention will be given to the Cosmic Microwave Background, gravitational waves and dark energy. Finally, we will consider the anthropomorphism/multiverse debate.

Topic 4: New Developments
Instructor: Frank Hart, Professor Emeritus of Physics and Astronomy; Tuesdays, 3–5 p.m., March 10, 17, 24 and 31.

Reconstruction: The Unfinished Story

Description: The era of Reconstruction has been variously defined and dated by generation after generation of historians. This class will examine the essential elements of "political Reconstruction" (1865-1877), the "strange career of Jim Crow" (1877-1908), and the legacy of Reconstruction that persists down to our own time.

Instructor: John McCardell, History and Vice-Chancellor; Tuesdays, 7:30–9:30 a.m., March 24, 31, and April 7.

Spring Flora of the South Cumberland Plateau

This class provides a great opportunity to increase your familiarity with the spring flora of this area, with emphasis on wildflowers of Shakerag Hollow. Weather permitting, we will spend two class periods in Shakerag to watch the woodland wildflower community develop and during the other two, we will explore resources, both print and online, visit the herbarium, learn about the collection, and possibly use dissecting microscopes and do a little sketching.

Instructor: Mary Priestley, 598-0157 <mpriestl@sewanee.edu>; Mondays from 2–4 p.m., March 30 and April 6, 13.

Crime Scene Chemistry

A wide array of laboratory techniques and instrumentation is used in forensic studies. The knowledge of and technology associated with crime scene chemistry is one of the most important advances in criminal investigation. Investigations often begin at the end of the story. In many instances, information about the final event and the starting event is known reasonably well but information about what occurred between these bookends is often unclear, confusing, and perhaps contradictory. The application of scientific principles to criminal and civil laws within a criminal justice system is the heart of forensic science. The opportunity to perform trace evidence analysis will be provided and basic serology or drug analysis experiments can be performed if there is sufficient interest.

Instructor: Bethel Seballos, Wednesdays from 2–4 p.m., April 1, 8, 15, and 22.

SAS Celebrates the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will be celebrating the life and work of Martin Luther King Jr. on Sunday, Jan. 19 and Monday, Jan. 20. Activities include special Chapel services, faculty presentations, and a special meal.

On Sunday, Jan. 19, at 7:05 p.m., the school's weekly Compline service in St. Andrew's Chapel will include readings and music to mark the holiday. The community is invited to this short service.

Monday, Jan. 20 will be chockful of educational opportunities to learn more about the life, work, and legacy of Dr. King as the school fulfills the goal of making Martin Luther King Jr. Day "a day on, not a day off." The day begins with a special Holy Eucharist service in St. Andrew's Chapel at 8 a.m. Student Jayla McLaurin of Las Vegas, Nevada will deliver her Senior Chapel Talk as part of the service. Following the service, a series of presentations will be offered by the SAS faculty in the school's Agee Library:

9 a.m., "The Beloved Community" led by Chaplain Molly Short;

9:45 a.m., "Art and the Civil Rights Movement" led by librarian and art teacher Julie Jones;

11 a.m., "Reconstruction Amendments" led by English and history teacher David Prehn;

11:45 a.m., "Music and the Civil Rights Movement" led by history teacher Chris Monahan;

1:30 p.m., "The Mountaintop" led by English teacher John Wheeler;

2:15 p.m., "Exploring Reparations" led by SAS Adjunct Chaplain, the Rev. Regan Schurz.

There will be a break at 10:30 a.m. at which participants are welcome to enjoy refreshments and student artwork in Simmonds Hall. At 12:30 p.m., SAGE Dining will offer Martin Luther King Jr.'s favorite meal in the Robinson Dining.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is the successor to one of the first Southern boarding schools to integrate, St. Andrew's School. The school integrated in September of 1965 at the request of the Order of the Holy Cross, the Episcopal order that founded the school to "break that cycle of poverty through education grounded in a Christian world-view." Throughout its history the school has remained committed to providing a boarding school education for students for whom such experiences might not otherwise be available. In addition to a generous financial aid program, in 2019 the school announced the Hubbard Scholarships, a program that provides full scholarships for students from Shelby County, Tenn.

Monday, Jan. 20 is also the school's Admission Shadow-a-Student Day, an opportunity for prospective students to enjoy a day on the SAS campus. For more information or to register your child for the next Shadow Day, Feb. 17, go to <sasweb.org/admission>. Registration is not necessary for the Martin Luther King Jr. Day events.

Collect Box Tops to Help Sewanee Elementary

There is an easy way to support Sewanee Elementary School. Take a few minutes and clip the "Box Tops for Education" from many of the groceries you already buy at the store. You can drop the box tops off at SES or in the box in the entry area of the Sewanee Post Office.

There is a complete list of participating items online at <www.boxtops4education.com/products/participating-products>. For more information visit <www.btfe.com>.

Eventually the Box Tops program will become digital-only. Participating brands are starting to change their packaging from a traditional Box Tops clip to the new Box Top label.

If you see this label, use the new Box Tops app to scan your receipt. Box Tops are still worth 10 cents each for your school. The app will find participating products purchased at any store and instantly add cash to your school's earnings online.

No more clipping. No more sending Box Tops to school. All you need is your phone. Download the ALL-NEW Box Tops app, shop as you normally would, then simply scan your store receipts within 14 days of purchase to find participating products. The app will automatically credit your school's Box Tops earnings online.

Highlander Libraries at University Art Gallery

The University Art Gallery (UAG) is proud to present Highlander Libraries, on view from Jan. 17 through April 8. This collaborative, community-oriented project transforms the UAG to recall the Highlander Research and Education Center's original library—a renowned meeting place for people working towards social, economic, and environmental justice—as it existed in nearby Summerfield, Tenn., from 1932 to 1961, when Highlander was known as the Highlander Folk School.

The installation invites consideration of the role of arts and cultural production in the work of creating social change. It is a bridge, connecting Highlander's first library with the soon-to-be-completed Septima Clark Learning Center in New Market, Tenn., where Highlander has operated since 1971.

The library of the Highlander Folk School is evoked with shelving resembling that of the original library, and with a collection of books. Space left on the shelves represents the books lost when the State of Tennessee tried to close Highlander in 1961, confiscating books along with the rest of the property. The empty spaces ask to be filled, and visitors are invited to loan books to the shelves that speak to current conversations about social justice. Project leader Greg Pond will lead regular book-making workshops during the installation to work towards repopulating the shelves.

Most importantly, Highlander Libraries offers an active space for learning, reflection, and action. Specially-designed furniture on a circular module invites use and conversation, and can be rearranged at will. Highlander Libraries is open for use by performers, classes, community members, and organizations. Please contact Shelley MacLaren at <sjmaclar@sewanee.edu> if Highlander Libraries would be helpful to you or your organization, for a performance, event, meeting, or gathering.

Highlander Libraries activates memory of Highlander as it was in its first home, the space invites use and participation, and participants bring the memory to life.

Led by University of the South Professor of Art Greg Pond, Highlander Libraries is the fruit of a much larger collaboration with Harrell Fletcher (Director, Social Practice MFA Program, and Professor, Art & Social Practice, Portland State University), Molly Sherman (Assistant Professor of Communication Design, Texas State University), and Anna Craycroft (Critic, Yale University School of Art), under the auspices of the University of the South and Yale University Collaborative for Southern Appalachian Studies, and the Office of Community Engagement, the University of the South.

On Friday, Jan. 24, at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall, artist and project leader Greg Pond, and co-executive directors of the Highlander Research and Education Center, Ash-Lee Woodard Henderson and Rev. Allyn Maxfield-Steele will speak about creative practice and social change. Reception to follow.

On Feb. 20, at 7 p.m. Sewanee Praise will perform in the UAG. Bring your lunch! Documentaries about social justice and Appalachia will screen every Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday at noon. Other lectures, meetings, and workshops will be announced.

The gallery is open 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. Visit <gallery.sewanee.edu> for more information. Please note that the University Art Gallery is closed for academic breaks, including Spring Break, from March 12 through March 22, 2020.

Sewanee Herbarium Show Celebrates Nature

The Sewanee Herbarium's All Things Bright and Beautiful exhibit is now up at Stirling's Coffee House in Sewanee. The opening reception will be Thursday, Jan. 23, from 3:30-5 p.m. The show ushers in this year's 50th anniversary of Earth Day. It incorporates botanical illustrations by the Biology Department's Plant Evolution and Systematics class and works by the herbarium's nature journaling group.

The students' precise botanical illustrations are the result of careful observation of herbarium specimens, combined with research on the plants themselves -- their ecology, morphology, interactions with humans, and so forth. The nature journalers' more informal works are displayed with the quotations from poets, artists, and environmentalists that inspired them.

In Sewanee, as around the world, Earth Day, April 22, 2020, will be an action day in which everyone can participate. This year, we are more aware than ever of the beauty and fragility of this planet on which we and all other species -- and our descendants -- depend. As we look forward to celebrating 50 years of Earth Day, this exhibit is a reminder of our connections with the natural world around us. The nature journaling group meets Thursday, 9-11 a.m. All are invited to drop in. For more information, contact Mary Priestley at <mpriestley0150@gmail.com>.

The SAS girls' team continued their winning ways in their strongest finish yet. Five wrestlers medaled in the tournament, placing in the top four spots. Unfortunately, team points were not tallied for the girls tournament but had they been counted, the team would surely have placed in the top five. Verena Pate won the tournament at 112 lbs, Melanie Val finished in second place at 119 lbs, Riley Burnette finished in fourth place at 132 lbs, Iliana Pate finished in third place at 140 lbs, and Charlie Barron finished in third place at 150 lbs. SAS Swimmers Set New Team Records at Snowball Invitational

On Jan. 11, St. Andrew's-Sewanee swimmers hosted approximately 300 swimmers from 15 Tennessee high school swim teams for the annual Snowball Invitational Swim Meet.

The boys' 200 medley relay of AJ Clements, Will Hanger, Aidan Smith, and Zolon Knoll finished first overall with a time of 1:41.58, setting a new meet record as well as breaking the previous SAS team record of 1:43.70 set in 2019. Clements, Hanger, Smith, and Knoll also finished first and set a new team record in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:29.60, shattering the previous SAS record of 3:42.80 set in 2007 and the previous meet record of 3:42.21 set in 2019 by Oakland High School. Additional team records were set by Hanger, Knoll, and Smith in the 50 breaststroke, 100 Individual Medley, and 50 butterfly respectively. Hanger's time of 28.25 in the 50 breaststroke broke Ralph Long's time of 29.37 from 2006. Knoll's time of 58.43 in the 100 IM broke the previous best time of 1:03.20 set by Zach Blount in 2003, while Smith's time of 24.81 in the 50 butterfly broke Randy Paul's record of 25.27 set in 2018.

Significant time drops led to new MTHSSA Region Meet and TISCA State Meet qualifications for several swimmers. MTHSSA Region Championship Meet qualifiers include Libby Neubauer with new PR's in both the 50 freestyle (28.68/2.49 second drop) and 100 freestyle (1:05.15/4.39 second drop), and Porter Neubauer with new PR's in 50 freestyle (24.44/1.74 second drop) and 100 freestyle (54.90/8.79 second drop). TISCA High School State Championship Meet qualifiers include Aidan Smith with new PR's in the 100 butterfly (57.37/4.58 second drop) and 200 freestyle (1:58.68/8.52 second drop) and Zolon Knoll with a new PR in the 100 freestyle (49.70/1.40 second drop).

The SAS Mountain Lion swimmers dropped time in approximately 70 percent of their events overall. The girls' 200 freestyle relay of Kathleen Perkins, Namtso Norbu, Hannah Warmbrod, and Libby Neubauer dropped 1.91 seconds. Several swimmers had tremendous individual time improvements over their previous best times: Sanaya Cody dropped 5.87 seconds in the 50 freestyle and 19.13 seconds in the 100 backstroke; Ryan Eppenger dropped 8.19 second in the 100 freestyle; Chloe Fontenelle dropped 5.83 second in the 50 freestyle; Ivan Stoyanchev dropped 4.23 second on the 100 freestyle; Madeline Sumpter dropped 3.04 second on the 100 freestyle; Lex Taylor dropped 8.23 second on the 50 freestyle; Hannah Warmbrod dropped 6.26 on the 200 freestyle and 2.58 second on the 100 freestyle; and Annie Zhang dropped 4.36 second on the 100 freestyle.

The SAS Middle School and High School swim teams compete against Franklin County and Tullahoma on Thursday, Jan. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Fowler Center in their final regular season meet before moving into the championship meets.

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee boys' varsity basketball team lost to Silverdale Baptist Academy Jan. 14, 55-30. SAS was led by Bo Sain's 12 points and five rebounds. Spears Askew four points; George Meng five points; Cecil Rodgers, Kyler Cantrell, Nathan King, and Alvin Wong two points each. Cantrell and Meng were strong rebounders, recording five each. Women's Basketball Recap

The Sewanee women's basketball team faltered in a Southern Athletic Association (SAA) contest to the Vikings of Berry College, 61-52, from Juhan Gymnasium on Jan. 12.

The Tigers were able to cut a 10-point deficit in the second quarter to a five-point setback, 28-23 at the half.

The Vikings started the third quarter on a 15-5 run in a seven-plus minute span to push the lead to its high of 15 with 2:55 left in the period, 43-28.

The Tigers then went on a 14-1 from that moment until the nine-minute mark of the fourth quarter to cut the deficit to 44-41, the closest the Tigers would get before the visitors put the game away.

Lakeisha Phillips dropped 13 points in 17 bench minutes thanks to a 7-of-8 mark from the charity stripe.

Ellie Treanton led Sewanee with 14 points and added seven rebounds, while Abby Young contributed 10 points.

On Jan. 10, the Sewanee women's basketball team was able to bounce back from a 45-16 halftime deficit to outscore the 11th-ranked Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe in the second half, but ultimately the Petrels defeated the Tigers, 73-58, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

The Petrels held the Tigers to four points in the first quarter and 16 points by the intermission.

Despite the struggle with the hosts in the first 20 minutes, the Tigers came back strong in the second half, especially in the fourth quarter, as they outscored the visitors, 25-12.

In the fourth quarter, the Tigers shot 8-of-14 from the floor and forced 10 turnovers by the Petrels.

Oglethorpe is ranked 11th in the coaches poll administered by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA), and the team is receiving votes in the latest D3hoops.Com poll.

Ellie Treanton notched a double-double, finishing with 16 points and 10 rebounds. The sophomore posted a 5-of-10 mark from the field and a 6-of-9 performance from the charity stripe.

Kinsley Logan led the Tigers with 18 points and added six steals and three assists.

Gabby Acker won the 100-yard breaststroke (1:10.17) and the 200-yard breaststroke (2:31.78) to lead the Tigers on the women's side.

Olivia Durfee took home top honors on the one-meter diving board, scoring a season-best of 235.35 points. Additionally, on the three meters, the sophomore also collected a season-best of 213.60 points.

The Sewanee men's basketball team suffered a 77-75 defeat to the visiting Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe University in a Southern Athletic Association (SAA) contest Jan. 10 from Juhan Gymnasium.

The Tigers knocked down seven of the first eight shots as the team got out to an 18-11 advantage.

Early Signs of Spring

We are already seeing early signs of spring, even though we haven't really had winter yet. In Abbo's Alley, the honeysuckle shrub, sweet-breath-of-spring, is already in full bloom. Snowdrops there are also up and starting to open. Dandelions are in flower here and there in lawns and roadsides. None of these is a native plant to these parts. Snowdrops are from Europe, though they have been introduced in many other areas for centuries. Sweet-breath-of-spring is from China and has become an invasive plant in many areas. Dandelions are probably from Asia Minor but had spread through the Old World even before recorded history, due to their usefulness as a food and medicinal plant. It seems early for these to be blooming but they often bloom this early, at least in recent years. Not being native, they are not as attuned to day length and temperatures in the area as the native plants are.

Also in Abbo's Alley, the beech trees that have held on to their leaves all winter are starting to lose them now. Probably the expanding buds are pushing them off, but why were they retained in the first place? One theory is that it allows the nutrients in the leaves to be available to the tree as it begins growth in the spring since they remain near the tree and have not already decayed. There is definitely a carpet of them around the trees now.

If you are venturing into Abbo's Alley from the gates just beyond the Fowler Center, be sure to note the fine growth of tree moss there. It one of our largest mosses and is in fine shape with all this rain.

Chris Ellison

Pets of the Week

Meet Sienna & Chris Ellison

Sienna is a three-year-old chocolate lab mix with a huge personality including a ton of spunk, energy, and affection. Sienna was found dumped in bad health condition due to a flea infestation which caused an allergic reaction resulting in all-over hair loss. A good Samaritan was able to foster her during her medical treatment, and we are happy to report that she has regained her hair and is doing much better. Unfortunately, the shelter environment is very stressful for her and we would love to get her adopted as soon as possible. Sienna loves to play fetch and is always up for a good time. She is also up-to-date on vaccinations, heartworm-negative, spayed and microchipped. If you would like to meet Sienna and start the adoption process for this loving girl, please contact us!

Named after the Tennessee Vols, Chris Ellison is part of a litter of seven orange tabby kittens. This group of kittens came into the shelter in dire health conditions, but are well mended now and looking for forever homes. Chris unfortunately had to grow up in the shelter, but we are confident that soon he will be a wonderful addition to any family in need of a loving companion. He is well socialized with people and cats, so he would do well in a variety of homes. He has had all his vaccinations, is FIV/FelV negative, and has been neutered and microchipped. Come meet this sweet guy today, and ask us how you can start the adoption process for Chris and/or one of his remaining brothers!

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. 2020 Savage Gulf Marathon

There is a reason race spectators chant "You Survived the Savage Gulf Marathon!" once you cross the finish line. This marathon is known to be one of the toughest marathons in the Southeast. The marathon features two steep descents and climbs into and out of the Savage Gulf on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. Along the route you will encounter challenging terrain with a variety of beautiful scenery including large stone formations, waterfalls, historic sites, wildflowers and old growth forest. To qualify to participate in this race you must have completed a marathon or longer race, (this isn't your average trail run), with finishing times ranging between 4.5 hours to 8 hours.

Join us at the Savage Gulf Marathon at 8 a.m., March 21, for 26.2 miles of rugged terrain as you trek up and down the steep gorge known as Savage Gulf, cross several streams, and run along the edge of the bluff. This is an Ultra you don't want to miss.

This event is coordinated by the Tennessee Park Rangers Association. Proceeds are used for training scholarships available to State Park Rangers for professional development.

The course begins and ends at the Stone Door Ranger Station, with 26.2 miles of the most brutal, unforgiving, rocky, steep terrain you could imagine in between.

Race is limited to the first 100 registrations. To qualify, all entrants must have completed one marathon or longer race previously. Seasoned runners earn DNFs every year. This is not the place to break into the sport. Registration closes on March 9 or when all 100 registrations have been filled.

The registration fee is $85. For more information go to <https://tnstateparks.com/parks/event_details/south-cumberland/#/?event=2020-savage-gulf-marathon>.

Have you ever wondered what a park ranger's day-to-day duties are? Join Ranger Ryan Harris at 8 a.m. at the Visitors' Center, 11745 U.S. Hwy. 41, Monteagle, for a cup of joe and to find out what a ranger's job consists of, and stay up-to-date with what is happening at South Cumberland State Park. Coffee will be provided. Sherwood Forest Trailbuilding (free)—

Join other South Cumberland trailblazers at 1 p.m. at Sherwood Forest Parking Lot, (take Jump Off Road to Old CCC Camp Road, turn right, go just past Coyote Cove Lane) to continue creating this brand new loop trail. Bring water, snacks, wear sturdy shoes, and if you have favorite trailbuilding (hand) tools or gloves, please bring them. (Also at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 29).

Wednesday, Jan. 22

Winter Waterfall Hike ($10)—

Join Ranger Dan Wescoat at 8:30 a.m. CST at Grundy Forest Trailhead, 131 Fiery Gizzard Rd., Tracy City 37387, for a roughly 3-mile hike around Grundy Day Loop and to Sycamore Falls, past 3 waterfalls and traveling along creeks for long sections of the hike. The terrain is rocky and covered in tree roots, so strong, sturdy hiking shoes are strongly recommended. Bring along plenty of water and snacks, as well as plenty of layers for the cooler winter weather.

The South Cumberland State Park Visitors' Center is located on Highway 41 South between Monteagle and Tracy City and is open 8 a.m.—4:30 p.m. seven days a week. For more information call (931) 924-2980.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

I dream a world where man
No other man will scorn,
Where love will bless the earth
And peace its paths adorn
I dream a world where all
Will know sweet freedom's way,
Where greed no longer saps the soul
Nor avarice blights our day.
A world I dream where black or white,
Whatever race you be,
Will share the bounties of the earth
And every man is free,
Where wretchedness will hang its head
And joy, like a pearl,
Attends the needs of all mankind-
Of such I dream, my world!
—Langston Hughes, "I Dream a World"
