Moveable chalkboard walls invite visitors to the University Art Gallery to record their thoughts and observations.

UAG Highlander Libraries Installation: a Busy Place

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

"When you make something with someone, it's almost like you've known them for years," said professor of sculpture and video Greg Pond. "That's why the arts were so important at Highlander Folk School—photography, film, plays, dancing, music." To recreate that magic, Pond transformed the University Art Gallery into a "social sculpture." The Highlander Library installation invites visitors to make art by interacting with the space physically, intellectually, and emotionally.

Founded in 1932, Highlander Folk School in nearby Monteagle taught local mountain people literacy and financial skills and how to unionize to lobby for better wages and working conditions. In the 1950s, the school's mission evolved into training up and coming civil rights leaders such as Rosa Parks and Martin Luther King Jr. in strategies of nonviolent protest.

Pond furnished the space with re-sizable circular tables to emulate "Highlander's non-hierarchical meeting practices." Moveable chalkboard walls and a huge blank book invite visitors to record their thoughts and observations, and a map offers visitors an opportunity to mark sites of personal significance.

One wall features a poem by children's-book author and educator May Justus, who volunteered as Highlander's secretary-treasurer. Her church expelled her for her affiliation with the school.

Highlander founder Miles Horton introduces Justus' poem with a quotation: "An idea cannot be padlocked."

Following a middle of the night police raid, the school's doors were padlocked, and the state ultimately revoked Highlander's charter. Because the installation is primarily a library, select social justice titles encourage browsing. The shelves are sparsely populated, a nod to the past.

"In 1961, when the school was shut down, the books were disappeared for the most part," Pond said. "Another way the public can engage with the project is by loaning books to the library to fill the gaps in the shelves."

The inspiration for the Highlander Libraries installation came from Pond's community engagement class last fall where students investigated Highlander Folk School by interacting with the Grundy County community. One student played and recorded music with Dennis Marlow, whose mother was a cook at Highlander. Another student created a video documenting her weekly breakfast with a retired Grundy County teacher.

In conjunction with the class, Pond and the students visited Highlander Research and Education Center in New Market, Tenn., where the legacy of Highlander Folk School lives on.

Pond will fill some of the empty shelf space with a handmade book featuring excerpts from student conversations with Highlander Center directors.

Other handmade books will come from the bookmaking workshops hosted by Pond. "I'd love to help people scan their photos and news clippings and turn them into a book." The workshops are free and open to the public.

The Highlander Library installation promises to be a busy place

SUD Commissioner Voting Continues

Three area residents are vying for a soon-to-be-vacated seat on the board of commissioners of the Seawanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion counties. Beeler Brush, Doug Cameron, and WJ "Railroad Bill" Crescenzo are seeking election to the commissioner seat currently held by Art Hanson. Hanson is term-limited and cannot seek re-election. Voting continues through Jan. 28 at the SUD office, 150 Sherwood Rd., during regular business hours. SUD customers are eligible to vote. Call the office, 598-5611, for more information.

Frame Gallery Celebrates Two Years in Business

Harriet Runkle opened Frame Gallery Custom Frames and Art on Jan. 22, 2018, with a vision of continuing the tradition of having a custom frame shop in Seawanee and to provide gallery space for local artists to exhibit their work.

"It has been so rewarding to meet the variety of gifted artists in our community and also to meet so many art patrons here. Every day is an adventure as we never know who and what will come in the door."

In addition to traditional framing of posters and prints, the Frame Gallery has framed team jerseys, portraits and certificates for the University, and shadowboxes for medals, ribbons, medical equipment and puzzles for other customers. They also have painted and framed coat of arms, marriage certificates, baby announcements, and diplomas, among others.

"We are always up for a challenge. We haven't had to turn a customer away yet," Runkle said. "Rea Ching Mingeva does most of the specialty work and intricate and time-consuming projects. Since she is an artist and craftsperson, we are able to touch up paintings and restore frames and build just about anything to frame a picture. She is a magician! I am so fortunate to have her on board," Runkle said.

Frame Gallery has had 16 exhibits of local artists in the past two years. The shop added a retail component by having a Holiday Pop-Up Shop during the holidays. Frame Gallery also sells icons, and represents and obtains commissions for an icon writer living and working in Romania.

As for year three? "We will keep building on what we have done so far," Runkle said. "We are so grateful for the many customers who trust us with their treasures and for the artists in our community who enrich us with their creativity and passion."

Frame Gallery celebrated their two-year anniversary last Wednesday with an all-day party including door prizes and refreshments.

MOUNTAIN TOP TOURNAMENT THANKS

To the Editor:

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School hosted the 39th Annual Mountain Top Wrestling Tournament on Saturday, Jan. 18, 2020. The event brought 15 teams and 180 wrestlers, including 20 individual girls, to the school's Wood-Alligood Gymnasium for a day of high-level competition.

An event of this magnitude requires a lot of support. The school would like to thank alumnus and former SAS coach and parent Dan Barry for organizing the tournament year after year. SAS offers gratitude to the following for their contributions:

Dan Barry, StA '72, Tournament Coordinator/Organizer; volunteers: Arlene Barry, Jason Barry '00, Ty Burnette, Erin and Ryan Cassell, Seth Corriveau, Brandon and Mae Anne Hale, Ananda Janke '19, Beth McLean, Dan Pate '96, Sonya Robinson, Kiki Sherrill, Alyssa Sumpter, Michelle Val, Nate and Jess Wilson, and dozens of SAS students; donors: Dan and Arlene Barry, Jim Oliver's Smoke House, Manchester Area Youth Council (Beth McLean), Mid-State Towing and Repair (Tammy and Pat Williams), Mountain Valley Bank (Lee McFarland), Subway (Winchester location), and the many SAS parents who provided food for the Hospitality Room.

SAS is also grateful to all the coaches and wrestlers who made this a great day and to SAS coaches Dan Monahan, Ray Val and Michael Schaerer '16; athletic trainer Amanda Skrzeczkoski; games administrator Doug Burns; and photographer David Andrews for their hard work to make the day a success.

GO VOTE

To the Editor:

I have been blessed to be an American Citizen for 92 years, and America has been involved in a number of wars during that time.

More than 70 Sewanee citizens served in World War I. My father, William Cecil Myers was among those. My uncle, Ernest Campbell, and his friend, Albert Bonholzer, were killed and are buried in the American Cemetery in the Argonne Forest in France. After WWII, our American Legion Post was named Bonholzer-Campbell Post 51 in honor of them.

Although I was not living during WWI, I had the pleasure of knowing many of those who returned. More than 250 of our young men and women served in WWII and others served in the Red Cross. Thirteen of those were killed and many others returned with serious injuries.

Then there were the Korean and Vietnam Wars and those that have occurred since. When war occurs, young people from all areas of our country, from cities, small towns, and rural areas, answer the call to preserve our freedom and our country. Some will not return.

We must not take their sacrifice lightly. It is our responsibility to fight on the home front by electing representatives who will fight to preserve our way of life. That is the least we can do.

On March 3, there will be an election in Franklin County. Many of you have not registered to vote and many have registered, but will not go to the polls. The first year that I was old enough to vote, there was a $2 poll tax, which you had to pay in order to vote. I voted that year and have voted in every election since. I am no longer able to go to the polls. However, it is very easy for me to vote absentee by mail.

Lest we forget the blessings that we have in America, let's all vote this year, to show the soldiers that their sacrifices are not in vain. Your vote is very important. Make it count!

Hatcher to Present at ALLL

On Monday, Feb. 3, the Academy for Lifelong Learning at Sewanee will hear a presentation given by Andrea Hatcher. Hatcher earned her Ph.D. at Vanderbilt University, where her dissertation was the first published analysis of U.S. Senate Majority Leaders, the multiple roles they fill, and the constraints that pull at their power. At Sewanee for 15 years now, she teaches courses in American political institutions—Congress, the presidency, and the courts (including a series on constitutional law). Her senior seminar, Religion and American Politics, was instrumental in shaping her ongoing research agenda about British Evangelicals. She has published "The Political and Religious Identities of British Evangelicals," and is currently researching the politics of the black majority church in the UK.

The Academy meets from noon to 1 p.m., in Lower Cravens at 439 Kentucky Ave., Sewanee. There is ample parking in the parking lot adjacent to Cravens. All Saints’ Chapel Growing in Grace continues Sunday, Jan. 26, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members, featuring student-led acoustic music, a different guest speaker each week, and Holy Communion. This semester, each of our speakers will address our theme, “The Stranger as God.” Together, we will explore how we see God in the stranger, drawing wisdom from Hebrews 3:2—“Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for by doing that some have entertained angels without knowing it.” Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep if you have any questions.

The Catechumenate is at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 29, in the Women’s Center. A catered meal will be provided. Based around fellowship, study, openness, and conversation, the Catechumenate serves as a foundational piece for the Christian faith, as well as a forum for discussion for people of all backgrounds. This week we will reorient ourselves in this new semester and will explore the Creeds of the Church. All are welcome! For more information, please contact Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu>.

On Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p.m., the School of Theology’s Schola will sing “Dove, Seek him that maketh the seven stars Howells, Nunc dimittis from the Gloucester Service.”

The Beecken Center invites the entire community to attend a special worship service, created by Mishkhah founder Kate Eaton, that will use the arts, music, movement, and interaction. This worship event, deeply rooted in the Anglican tradition, is designed to reveal the mystery of Christ by stirring the senses and opening the heart. The Mishkhah worship service will be at 7 p.m., Friday, Jan. 31, in All Saints’ Chapel.

The purpose of the group is to study and discuss aspects of Celtic Christian spirituality, and to support and encourage one another to live faithful Christian lives that are aware of and responsive to the presence of God in all of creation. The group welcomes people who are seeking to honor and serve Christ in all persons and creatures. Presently, the group is reading and discussing “The Universal Christ” by Richard Rohr.

For more information, contact Stephen Eichler at (423) 619-3328 or by email to <stepheneichler@hotmail.com>.

Beecken Center Offers Continuing Education Opportunity

The Beecken Center of the School of Theology at the University of the South is offering a new continuing education opportunity for clergy and lay persons of all denominations. Engaging Ministry: Practices of Prayer, Worship, and Community will explore two aspects of congregational vitality: cultivating practices that invite Christ's indwelling presence in both ordained leaders and in communities, and processes for creating dynamic and transformative worship that stirs the senses and opens the heart.

This two-part workshop will be held Jan. 30–Feb. 1, on the University's campus in Sewanee. Participants will leave refreshed, inspired, and better equipped to form faith communities that are spiritually vital and alive, and with ideas and tools for creating non-traditional worship.

Part 1, The Heart of Ministry: Deepening Practice, Deepening Community, will be led by the Rev. Stuart Higginbotham, rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Gainesville, Georgia, and will focus on how practices of prayer can nurture leadership and help communities listen more deeply to the Spirit's indwelling presence.

Part 2, Entering the Mystery: Planning Non-Traditional Worship, will be facilitated by Kate Eaton, president and founder of Mishkhah, an organization devoted to inspiring new visions for worship through the arts, music, movement, and interaction. Kate will lead participants through a four-phase process for creating engaging worship on an on-going basis that is life-giving for a group of people responsible for carrying out the service week to week.

Participants may register for one or both segments. For more information and to register, visit <http://bit.ly/em-2020>.

'How Then Shall We Eat' Program, Jan. 28

The Sewanee Food Literacy Project and the Dialogue Across Difference Program is sponsoring a “How Then Shall We Eat?” event 6–7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 28, at Convocation Hall. This is free and open to the public, with dinner provided.

Students, staff, faculty and community members are invited to join Sewanee Dining for a plant-based dinner, a panel and table discussions about our personal food values and how they connect to the future of the food system at Sewanee Dining.

Cassie Meyer will lead a small group dialogue to have everyone reflect on what's important to us. The information we collect will then be used to shape the next three conversations. As we move forward, we know that it is not just students that we serve, but also the greater community.

with Sewanee Praise performing Thursday, Feb. 20, documentary film screenings every Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday at noon, and philosophy, religion, and playwriting classes meeting there.

“How will interactions with the space influence student playwrights’ scripts?” Pond wondered, thinking aloud. “Socially engaged art starts with a conversation. What you bring to the table and what others bring to the table—insecurities, mutual vulnerabilities.”

The Sewanee-Yale University Collaborative for Southern Appalachian Studies and the University Office of Community Engagement co-sponsored the project. Other activities planned for the installation include a bible study class, voter registration drives, oral histories in conjunction with the Sewanee Black History initiative, and Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation events.

“In socially engaged art each person brings a unique perspective,” Pond said. “They create the project together.”

The first bookmaking workshop is scheduled for 9 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 1. To register contact Pond at <gpond@sewanee.edu>. To loan a book to the installation drop it off during gallery hours Tuesday–Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday–Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. Books will be cataloged to ensure their return. The Highlander Library installation runs through April 8.

group last year. An alumnus of the Sewanee Summer Music Festival, he said his time on the Mountain was transformative.

“My parents are both music lovers, and my mom started me on violin when I was four. I was home sick from kindergarten one day, and I saw Yo-Yo Ma playing on ‘Mister Rogers’ Neighborhood.’ I asked my mom if I could learn to play the cello, and the rest is history,” he said. “It was during my summers in Sewanee when I decided I really wanted to take the cello seriously and pursue a career in music. Being in Sewanee at 13 or 14 somewhat coincided with the time when I needed to own my musicianship and get serious about it. I still think of it as the springboard to my being serious about the cello.”

PUBLIQuartet’s Grammy-nominated new album, “Freedom and Faith,” features women artists whose music represents resilience, resistance and subversion. Composers, including Nina Simone, Ella Fitzgerald, Jessica Meyer and Hildegard Von Bingen, highlight the diversity and legacy of women in music during the last millennium.

“We like to call attention to composers and great pieces of music that traditionally have not been performed as much,” he said. Composers such as George Walker, an American pianist and organist who was the first African-American to have won the Pulitzer Prize for Music.

“On this program, one of the pieces you’ll hear is kind of a reinvention of a piece by Dvorak. The question that we started with these improvisations is, ‘What is American?’ Dvorak was a Czech guy who ended up coming over to teach at a music school in New York, and he was inspired by American music,” he said. “His assistant, Harry T. Burleigh, was an African-American baritone. I think through him and others, Dvorak discovered African-American traditions and spirituals and the blues. This music was really the predecessor of jazz and rock and hip hop, and our improvisations weave in all those styles and put them up against excerpts of the original.”

PUBLIQuartet will perform at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 29, in Guerry Auditorium. University of the South ID holders may pick up one free ticket per ID in Guerry 129 the week of the concert, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tickets can be purchased for $20 at <www.eventbrite.com/e/publiquartet-concert-tickets-89899177861>.

New Website Designed to Bolster Environmental Education

The Friends of South Cumberland (FSC) has launched a new website that chronicles and celebrates the work of Tennessee State Naturalist Emeritus Mack Prichard.

The free website, <MackPrichard.org>, serves as a repository for Prichard’s decades of work with the state, including his presentations, photos and writings. The website has been designed to assist environmental education in the state.

In 2014, the FSC began working with Prichard to preserve part of his vast collection of photographs taken during his nearly 5-decade career with the State of Tennessee, according to FSC’s Rick Dreves. More than 5,000 photographs, more than a dozen videos of Prichard’s presentations, and additional digitized materials are now online, chronicling the evolution of environmental protection across the state, and showing many places and events that led to the creation of new state natural areas and state parks.

“The objective of the project was to share Prichard’s experiences and knowledge online, both as a record of his work, and to inspire and inform environmental educators, researchers and the broader public,” Dreves said.

The project gained momentum when the FSC received a grant from the Tennessee Federation of Garden Clubs (TFGC) to support the purchase of scanning equipment, data storage, web services and, most recently, funding for a student assistant to help accelerate the scanning of slide images from Prichard’s collection.

“Work to augment the online resources will be ongoing, as both Prichard’s archives and knowledge are deep and of great value to environmental education in Tennessee,” Dreves said.

Prichard has had a long association with both organizations. He was instrumental in persuading then-governor Winfield Dunn to advocate for creation of South Cumberland State Park in 1978, and for the establishment of FSC in the 1990s. For years, Prichard was a speaker at TFGC’s summer camp sessions, showing slides and speaking about conservation topics from across the state. The TFGC gave Mack the nickname, “Mr. Conservation,” and established its Conservation Education Fund to help preserve his collection.

The FSC is coordinating efforts with a parallel effort being undertaken in Nashville, where the Friends of Tennessee State Parks (FTSP) have provided a separate grant to scan other slides from Prichard’s collection. FSC hopes to add those images to the new website, when they become available.

For more information about Prichard and these organizations, visit <MackPrichard.org>, <FriendsOfSouthCumberland.org>, <TFGCOnline.org> and <FriendsOfTennesseeStateParks.org>.

An Entrepreneur's View on Investing in Internet Startups, Jan. 29

Gillian Munson, a partner at Union Square Ventures in New York, will be the Babson Center's 2020 Bryan Viewpoints Speaker for the Easter semester. She will share insights into her success as a business leader and investor in the rapidly evolving technology industry.

While on campus, Munson will be a guest lecturer for corporate finance classes, meet with Green's View Club student investment club members, and deliver a campus presentation, "Venture Capital Today: The Fascinating Ride of an Internet Entrepreneur and Investor," at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 29, in the Torian Room at duPont Library. All are welcome.

One of the largest private equity firms, Union Square Ventures (USV) was an early investor in numerous prominent consumer technology companies including Twitter, FourSquare, Etsy, and Kickstarter. Following a thesis-driven strategy, USV invests in innovative companies that create more access to valuable services on the internet, including health and wellness, education, and financial services.

Acknowledging a climate crisis, particularly with the raging fires in Australia, USV expanded their investment approach to include environmental sustainability. Last week, they announced investments in two climate-related companies, Leap and Wren. Leap is a renewable energy startup that connects smart devices to the energy market in order to balance the grid with financial incentives. Wren offsets carbon footprints by participating in a carbon offset project, including a tree program in Africa.

Prior to working at USV, Munson was Chief Financial Officer of the XO Group, Inc., an internet and media company that provides services for clients experiencing life changes: marriage (The Knot), new home (The Nest), or a baby (The Bump). She has witnessed the evolution and explosion of startup companies in the online and mobile industries since the dot-com bubble of the late 1990s, as well as the visual tech and artificial intelligence (AI) growth happening now.

Along the way, Munson has employed leadership skills, persistence, and focus to become a mentor in her field and attributes much of her success in business to building and maintaining personal relationships. Her guiding principles are to "embrace the fun parts of your identity, cultivate a good team, take note of your wins, become a mentor, and seek out a great company culture."

In addition to her work at USV, Munson serves on several boards including Sweet Briar College, St. Regis Foundation, and Duolingo, and is passionate about mentoring and funding female entrepreneurs. Munson received a Bachelor's degree in Political Science and Economics from Colorado College, where she also played ultimate frisbee.

The Bryan Viewpoints Speaker Series is sponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce and is made possible by a generous gift from Peggy and J.F. Bryan IV, C'65.

New Center of Lifelong Learning Courses

The Center of Lifelong Learning at the University of the South is excited to announce our new courses. Please contact Dan Backlund at <lifelong@sewanee.edu> for further information and to register for these exciting classes before they are full. The enrollment fee for each course is only $60 and includes six hours of formal learning time.

The Supernatural Gothic in American Fiction

American fantasy has always been defined by two strains, the light (epitomized by L. Frank Baum and Walt Disney), and the dark. It appears that the can-do optimism of Baum's Dorothy must be counterbalanced by a fascination with horror. Many of America's foremost authors, both high and low, have tapped into the dark strain, including Washington Irving, Edgar Allan Poe, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Herman Melville, Louisa May Alcott, Henry James, H. P. Lovecraft, Stephen King, Joyce Carol Oates, Anne Rice, and Toni Morrison. We will also take a side glance at the Southern Gothic tradition which, while usually not supernatural, nevertheless partakes of some of the same energies. What does it say about us that we are so drawn to these fictions?

Instructor: Robin Bates, English; Mondays from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 3, 10, 17, and 24.

A Close Reading of Anthony Trollope's Barchester Towers: A Literary Winter Vacation

Reading Anthony Trollope's Barchester Towers is the best way I know of leaving a winter world behind and exchanging it for the delights of a fictional Victorian cathedral town. The surprise comes in discovering that Barchester in the 19th century bears startling resemblance to Sewanee in the 21st: this novel which can seem initially to be merely amusing and diverting actually provides a profound imaginative projection of a theocentric universe charged with the same irony and moral perspective we find in Dante's Comedia or Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. I hope that this class will serve as the incentive to enter Trollope's vast fictional world again and again as his fifty published novels allow one to do. But certainly it will allow an engaging and amusing alternative to the often bleak days of winter in contemporary Tennessee.

The text will be Barchester Towers, by Anthony Trollope [ed. Robin Gilmour, Penguin Paperback, ISBN-13: 978-0-140-43203-9].

Instructor: John Reishman, Professor Emeritus of English; Tuesdays, 9–11 a.m., Feb. 4, 11, 18, and 25.

Did You Order the Kit? – Wait – Where Does Scenery Really Come From?

We will explore the fascinating process of performance design from the first reading of the script to a realized performance. The Department of Theatre and Dance is producing "Ugly Lies the Bone" by Lindsey Ferrentino in celebration of 50 Years of Women at Sewanee. Over our four meetings we will discuss script analysis, internal and external research, idea generation, design creation, working drawing creation, and finally, design execution. We will be able to see the scenery being built, painted, and installed, culminating in seeing a performance of the show that runs from March 5–8, 2020.

Instructor: Dan Backlund, Theatre and Dance; Wednesdays, from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 5, 12, 19, and 26.

Japanese Prints: Beautiful People and Famous Places

This course will introduce the topic of 18th–20th century Japanese prints. We will discuss how prints impacted the time and place in which they were made, as well as how they were created. We will have the opportunity to view 19th century Japanese prints in the University Archives collection.

Instructor: Alison Miller, Art History and Visual Studies; Thursdays from 2–4 p.m., Feb. 20, 27, and March 5.

Modern Astronomy: From the Moon to the Multiverse

The three classes will cover the major topics in Astronomy today.

Topic 1: Our Solar System, we will discuss the latest findings regarding the planets (major and minor) and their moons, the Sun's structure and the effects of 'solar weather' on the Earth, and finally, the most likely places for the existence of extraterrestrial life will be considered.

Topic 2: Our Galaxy, we will examine the structure of the Milky Way and how dark matter and the large black hole at its center determine it. The various evolutionary paths of stars, especially, the Sun, will be discussed. Finally, the possibility of life on extra-solar planets will be investigated.

Topic 3: Our Universe, we will cover the large-scale structure of the Universe, in particular, its origin and evolution. Special attention will be given to the Cosmic Microwave Background, gravitational waves and dark energy. Finally, we will consider the anthropomorphism/multiverse debate.

Topic 4: New Developments
Instructor: Frank Hart, Professor Emeritus of Physics and Astronomy; Tuesdays, 3–5 p.m., March 10, 17, 24 and 31.

Reconstruction: The Unfinished Story

Description: The era of Reconstruction has been variously defined and dated by generation after generation of historians. This class will examine the essential elements of "political Reconstruction" (1865–1877), the "strange career of Jim Crow" (1877–1908), and the legacy of Reconstruction that persists down to our own time.

Instructor: John McCardell, History and Vice-Chancellor; Tuesdays, 7:30–9:30 a.m., March 24, 31, and April 7.

Spring Flora of the South Cumberland Plateau

This class provides a great opportunity to increase your familiarity with the spring flora of this area, with emphasis on wildflowers of Shakerag Hollow. Weather permitting, we will spend two class periods in Shakerag to watch the woodland wildflower community develop and during the other two, we will explore resources, both print and online, visit the herbarium, learn about the collection, and possibly use dissecting microscopes and do a little sketching.

Instructor: Mary Priestley, 598-0157 <mpriestl@sewanee.edu>; Mondays from 2–4 p.m., March 30 and April 6, 13.

Crime Scene Chemistry

A wide array of laboratory techniques and instrumentation is used in forensic studies. The knowledge of and technology associated with crime scene chemistry is one of the most important advances in criminal investigation. Investigations often begin at the end of the story. In many instances, information about the final event and the starting event is known reasonably well but information about what occurred between these bookends is often unclear, confusing, and perhaps contradictory. The application of scientific principles to criminal and civil laws within a criminal justice system is the heart of forensic science. The opportunity to perform trace evidence analysis will be provided and basic serology or drug analysis experiments can be performed if there is sufficient interest.

Instructor: Bethel Seballos, Wednesdays from 2–4 p.m., April 1, 8, 15, and 22.

Tennessee Highland Rim Scottish Society's Annual Tribute to Robert Burns

A "Highland Welcome" awaits guests on the Highland Rim in Middle Tennessee at the Annual Tribute to Scotland's National Bard, Robert Burns. This gala event, hosted by the Highland Rim Scottish Society (HRSS), is open to all. The celebration will be held Saturday, Feb. 1, in the Saint Barnabas Episcopal Church, 110 East Lincoln St., in Tullahoma. The gathering and silent auction will start at 5:30 p.m., with HRSS welcome, dinner and entertainment starting at 6:00 p.m.

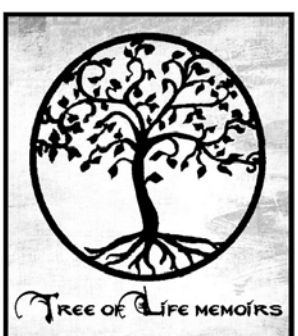

The HRSS, a not-for-profit organization, hosts this annual community event to remember and celebrate Scotland's poet laureate, Robert "Rabbie" Burns—this year honoring his 261st birthday! If you love Scottish heritage, Scottish traditions, Scottish food and Scottish music, then make your reservations quickly as seating is limited. The HRSS welcomes anyone with an interest in Scottish culture to join the society.

Attendees can expect a traditional Scottish dinner as well as a Scottish delicacy known as haggis. Diners have their choice of prime rib of beef, fillet of salmon, or stuffed portabella mushrooms. Accompanying their entrée will be salad, "mushy peas," "tatties & neeps," dinner rolls and iced tea. Dinner will finish with a Scottish trifle, and tea or coffee.

Attendees can witness Rabbie's "Address to the Haggis," performed by Chuck Lawson, the Immortal Memory, poetry from Burns, and Flowers of the Forest—a tribute for those who have departed this realm. The silent auction of Scottish memorabilia will conclude at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds go to support the HRSS Heritage Scholarships that promote the continuance of Scottish history, crafts and music.

Piper for the evening will be Andrew McRady. A professor at the Webb School, he is an accomplished musician on the Highland bagpipes, and is well versed on the Lowland pipes and other types of bagpipes. Jason Simpson will deliver the Immortal Memory.

Reservations are limited to the first 125 requests received by 5 p.m., Friday, Jan. 24, and may be made by contacting Denise Smith at The Celtic Cup (931) 563-7733 or <denise.thecelticcup@lighttubenet>, or by mailing your reservation form and $35 per person to: Highland Rim Scottish Society's Burns Night 2020, P.O. Box 1701, Tullahoma, TN 37388. Tickets are prepaid and non-refundable. Checks should be made out to HRSS. For more information, contact Alan Clark at (931) 691-1452.

SAS Ethics Bowl Team Wins Second State Championship

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Ethics Bowl won their second consecutive state championship on Jan. 18 in Knoxville, Tenn. Team members include Sarah Beth Hobby, Gabriel Pongdee, Erin Mattingly, Jayla McLaurin, and Justine Rogers. Mac Croom is an alternate to the team. The team is coached by SAS Interim Dean of Students and History Department Chair Geoffrey Smith.

The National High School Ethics Bowl (NHSEB) is a program that promotes respectful, supportive, and in-depth discussion of ethics among high school students. By engaging high school students in intensive ethical inquiry, the NHSEB fosters constructive dialogue and furthers the next generation's ability to make sound ethical decisions. Our collaborative model rewards students for the depth of their thought, their ability to think carefully and analytically about complex issues, and the respect they show to the diverse perspectives of their peers. As a result, it enables students to practice and build the virtues central to democratic citizenship, thus preparing them to navigate challenging moral issues in a rigorous, systematic, and open-minded way. As of 2019, the NHSEB involved more than 4,000 students from more than 500 teams representing 327 schools.

The SAS team will make their second national championship appearance in April at UNC-Chapel Hill.

American Shakespeare Center Returns to Sewanee with Two Plays

The American Shakespeare Center (ASC) will be back on the Sewanee campus from Thursday through Saturday, Feb. 6-8. The visit will include two public performances in Guerry Auditorium as well as theater workshops with Sewanee students.

Thursday evening, Feb. 6, will feature their production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (pre-show music at 7 p.m., play at 7:30 p.m.); Saturday, Feb. 8, will feature their production of "Imogen" (ASC's retitled "Cymbeline"), once again with pre-show music at 7 p.m. and the play at 7:30 p.m. Both performances are free and open to the public.

On Friday morning, ASC will engage students (grades six and up) from Franklin and Grundy County schools with a special 90-minute production of "Dream."

ASC's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" wades into a bayou of masked hobgoblins, enchanting nymphs, and imps who sing the blues. Featuring the oblivious Bottom, plucky Helena, and mischievous Puck, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" boasts some of Shakespeare's most beloved and iconic characters. The production was inspired by 1930s New Orleans.

"Imogen" is a tale of romance and adventure perhaps best known as "Shakespeare's fairytale." King Cymbeline promises to marry his daughter Imogen to his stepson Cloten, while Imogen has secretly eloped with her best friend, Posthumus. Disguises, mistaken identity, a missing head, and nefarious plots complicate this tale of love and purity. In the production of Imogen, contemporary culture clashes with a world of kings, queens, and princesses.

The American Shakespeare Center's actor-musicians play live music before the show and during intermission, covering modern classics that riff on the themes of each play. ASC's productions are intimate in scale, utilizing Shakespeare's staging conditions (universal lighting, minimal sets, actors playing multiple roles, cross-gender casting, and live music) to blend Shakespeare's stagecraft with a modern sensibility.

The University of the South is a charter member of American Shakespeare Center's academic leadership consortium. The partnership brings the company's national tour to the University each year, and ASC hosts Sewanee students and scholars at its home theater, Blackfriars Playhouse in Staunton, Va.

Tennessee State Museum Closes 'Let's Eat!' Exhibition

The Tennessee State Museum will mark the closing of its exhibition, "Let's Eat! Origins and Evolutions of Tennessee Food," on Sunday, Feb. 2, at 2 p.m. with a special "In Conversation" event featuring mother and daughter, Alice Randall and Caroline Randall Williams, authors of "Soul Food Love" (Clarkson Potter, 2015). The event in the Museum's Digital Learning Center is free and open to the public.

In "Soul Food Love," novelist and "Let's Eat!" exhibition scholar Alice Randall and her daughter, Caroline Randall Williams, reclaim and redefine soul food by mining the traditions of four generations of black women and creating 80 healthy recipes to help everyone live longer and stronger. They worked together to overhaul the foods they love to cook and eat. They've updated the recipes and traditions handed down by their mothers and grandmothers into easy, affordable, and healthy—but still delicious—dishes, like peanut chicken stew, red bean and brown rice creole salad, fiery green beans, and sinless sweet potato pie.

Let's Eat! Origins and Evolutions of Tennessee Food, which opened in August 2019 and closes on Feb. 2, explores the rich and diverse history of Tennessee's food. Whether barbecued, fried, roasted, pickled, or chilled, the food of Tennessee, and the southern United States, is a meeting of Southeastern Indian, West European, and West African cultural groups. Many cooks, who were primarily women, took the proteins, vegetables, and cooking traditions of each group, then experimented, taste-tested, and created delicious meals. The evolution of Tennessee food continues as foreign-born recent arrivals inspire new flavors. The exhibition is presented through eight sections that trace the state's food from its Southeastern Indian origins to contemporary food festival celebrations. All are complemented by artifacts from the Museum's collection, digital storytelling, graphics, and location photography.

The Tennessee State Museum, on the corner of Rosa L. Parks Blvd. and Jefferson Street at Bicentennial Capitol Mall State Park, is home to 13,000 years of Tennessee art and history. Through six permanent exhibitions titled Natural History, First Peoples, Forging a Nation, The Civil War and Reconstruction, Change and Challenge and Tennessee Transforms, the Museum takes visitors on a journey – through artifacts, films, interactive displays, events and educational programming – from the state's geological beginnings to the present day. Additional temporary exhibitions explore significant periods and individuals in history, along with art and cultural movements. The Museum is free and open to the public Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 10 a.m.–5 p.m., Thursdays from 10 a.m.–8 p.m. and Sundays from 1–5 p.m. For more information on exhibitions and events, please visit <tnnmuseum.org>.

Highlander Libraries at University Art Gallery

The University Art Gallery (UAG) is proud to present Highlander Libraries, on view through April 8. This collaborative, community-oriented project transforms the UAG to recall the Highlander Research and Education Center's original library—a renowned meeting place for people working towards social, economic, and environmental justice—as it existed in nearby Summerfield, Tenn., from 1932 to 1961, when Highlander was known as the Highlander Folk School.

On Friday, Jan. 24, at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall, artist and project leader Greg Pond, and co-executive directors of the Highlander Research and Education Center, Ash-Lee Woodard Henderson and Rev. Allyn Maxfield-Steele will speak about creative practice and social change. Reception to follow.

The installation invites consideration of the role of arts and cultural production in the work of creating social change. It is a bridge, connecting Highlander's first library with the soon-to-be-completed Septima Clark Learning Center in New Market, Tenn., where Highlander has operated since 1971.

The library of the Highlander Folk School is evoked with shelving resembling that of the original library, and with a collection of books. Space left on the shelves represents the books lost when the State of Tennessee tried to close Highlander in 1961, confiscating books along with the rest of the property. The empty spaces ask to be filled, and visitors are invited to loan books to the shelves that speak to current conversations about social justice. Project leader Greg Pond will lead regular book-making workshops during the installation to work towards repopulating the shelves.

Most importantly, Highlander Libraries offers an active space for learning, reflection, and action. Specially-designed furniture on a circular module invites use and conversation, and can be rearranged at will. Highlander Libraries is open for use by performers, classes, community members, and organizations. Please contact Shelley MacLaren at <sjmacclar@sewanee.edu> if Highlander Libraries would be helpful to you or your organization, for a performance, event, meeting, or gathering.

Highlander Libraries activates memory of Highlander as it was in its first home, the space invites use and participation, and participants bring the memory to life.

On Feb. 20, at 7 p.m. Sewanee Praise will perform in the UAG.

Bring your lunch! Documentaries about social justice and Appalachia will screen every Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday at noon. Other lectures, meetings, and workshops will be announced.

The gallery is open 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. Visit <gallery.sewanee.edu> for more information. Please note that the University Art Gallery is closed for academic breaks, including Spring Break, from March 12 through March 22.

Sewanee Herbarium Show Celebrates Nature

The Sewanee Herbarium's All Things Bright and Beautiful exhibit is now showing at Stirling's Coffee House in Sewanee. The show ushers in this year's 50th anniversary of Earth Day. It incorporates botanical illustrations by the Biology Department's Plant Evolution and Systematics class and works by the herbarium's nature journaling group.

The students' precise botanical illustrations are the result of careful observation of herbarium specimens, combined with research on the plants themselves -- their ecology, morphology, interactions with humans, and so forth. The nature journalers' more informal works are displayed with the quotations from poets, artists, and environmentalists that inspired them.

In Sewanee, as around the world, Earth Day, April 22, 2020, will be an action day in which everyone can participate. This year, we are more aware than ever of the beauty and fragility of this planet on which we and all other species — and our descendants — depend. As we look forward to celebrating 50 years of Earth Day, this exhibit is a reminder of our connections with the natural world around us. The nature journaling group meets Thursday, 9–11 a.m. All are invited to drop in. For more information, contact Mary Priestley at <mpriestley0150@gmail.com>.

Tiger Tennis Nationally Ranked

Announced on Jan. 16 by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA), the Sewanee men's and women's tennis teams will enter the 2020 season ranked nationally in the Oracle/ITA Division III Preseason Rankings.

The men's team will enter the campaign with a No. 22 pre-season ranking. The Tigers are coming off a 37-win performance at the ITA Regional Championships back in September.

On the 2020 schedule, the Tigers will play eight teams with a national ranking, led with top-ranked and defending national champion in Emory (Ga.) on April 1. Other ranked teams include No. 2 Claremont-Mudd-Scripps (Calif.), No. 15 Mary Washington (Va.), No. 17 Tufts (Mass.), No. 25 Johns Hopkins (Md.), No. 26 Denison (Ohio), No. 31 Stevens (N.J.) and No. 33 Swarthmore (Pa.).

The Tigers represent the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) in the national rankings.

In the regional rankings, both Sewanee (No. 5) and Rhodes (No. 10) are the members from the SAA.

Sewanee will be seeking its eighth regular season and tournament championship this season as the Tigers came off a 21-win season in 2019.

The women's team will begin 2020 ranked 31st in the preseason poll. Sewanee posted a 33-16 record in singles and totaled 45 wins overall at the ITA Regional Championships in the fall.

A total of seven teams that Sewanee will face have a national ranking, including two teams that finished in the final four of the 2019 NCAA Women's Tennis Championships: No. 2 Claremont-Mudd-Scripps, who finished as a national finalist, and No. 3 Emory, who ended the campaign a year ago as a national semifinalist.

Other ranked teams the Tigers will battle include: No. 6 Amherst (Mass.), who finished in the quarterfinals of the NCAA Championships a year ago, No. 11 Bowdoin (Maine), No. 13 Williams (Mass.), No. 20 Washington-St. Louis (Mo.) and No. 23 Washington & Lee (Va.).

Similar to the men's squad, the women's program represents the SAA in the national poll.

The women's team is coming off a 17-win season and the team's seventh straight SAA Regular Season and Tournament Championship. Additionally, the team captured their 26th NCAA Tournament appearance.

In the regional rankings, the Tigers (No. 8) are joined by Centre (No. 9) and Rhodes (No. 10) from the league.

The 2020 season for Sewanee men's and women's tennis begins on Feb. 15 with a doubleheader against Piedmont (Ga.) and Hanover (Ind.) at the Bruton-Guerry Tennis Center.

Men's Basketball Drop Contest to Warriors

The Sewanee men's basketball team suffered an 88-79 defeat to the Warriors of Hendrix College on Jan. 19 from Juhan Gymnasium as the first half of the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) schedule concludes.

The Tigers started the game with a 13-0 run in the first 3:45 of the contest and had a 22-4 lead at the 13:30 mark in the opening half.

Hendrix would respond to cut the deficit to six points, 40-34 at the break.

The Warriors went on a 10-2 run to cut the Tigers' lead to one point, 45-44, at the 14:18 mark before the streak ended on a Jordan Warlick 3-point field goal.

Hendrix tied the game at 58 points apiece with 8:36 left in the contest, but the visitors took the lead with an Alex Conrad layup, 61-60, with seven minutes remaining.

Tied at 65, Hendrix made a layup and a 3-pointer on back-to-back trips to lead 70-65 to seal the contest.

Sewanee was able to get the deficit back to a one-possession game, 72-70 with 2:33, but Hendrix finished the game on a 16-9 run.

After recording his 1,000th career point two weeks ago at Birmingham-Southern, senior Adrian Thomas became the 19th player in Sewanee men's basketball history to record 500 rebounds. Needing one board for number 500, Thomas secured the board at the 18:46 mark in the first half.

Additionally, the Chattanooga, Tenn. native became the 13th player in the 95-plus year history of men's basketball at The University of the South to achieve 1,000 points and 500 rebounds.

Adrian Thomas led the Tigers with 22 points on 9-of-15 from the floor and six rebounds.

Jordan Warlick contributed 20 points on 7-of-13 with six boards. Ryan Starr added 18 points and seven assists.

Women's Basketball Finishes First Half of SAA Play with Win over Hendrix

The Sewanee women's basketball team, despite a 16-8 deficit after 10 minutes of play, used a strong second half to defeat the Warriors of Hendrix College, 63-47, Jan. 19, from Juhan Gymnasium.

The Tigers saw themselves down eight points, 16-8, at the end of the first quarter. The Tigers outscored the visitors, 20-10 in the second quarter, thanks to seven Hendrix turnovers and a 9-of-11 mark from the free throw line.

Sewanee took its first lead of the game thanks to a buzzer-beating 3-point field goal by Kinsley Logan at the end of the half, 28-26.

The Warriors came out with back-to-back 3-pointers to reclaim the lead, 32-28. However, Sewanee put the contest away thanks to a 12-2 run with 3:04 left in the third quarter.

Abby Young led the Tigers with 12 points and four rebounds.

Raquel Waller added 10 points, while Kinsley Logan and Camryn Broussard each contributed nine points.

Frost Flowers

When not much else is flowering, the cold weather this week brought us frost flowers. Conditions were just right—lots of moisture in the ground followed by freezing temperatures and clear night skies. White Crownbeard, a tall, fall-flowering perennial in the Composite or Aster Family, is also known as Frostweed for its ability to produce these frost flowers. It grows along roadsides, so I took a stroll down our road last Monday, trying to remember where I had seen the crownbeard last fall. To my delight, there was a whole patch of them. The hard freeze had forced water up through the remnants of the stem, producing curling ribbons of ice.

Diamond

Pets of the Week Meet Trusty & Diamond

Trusty is a two-year-old lab mix with a lot of spunk. He is very sweet, affectionate, and loving. He is just the right size dog that will be easy to travel with and to enjoy life's adventures along side. We think he would make a fabulous passenger to join you for rides around town, or even cross country! He would fit in well in a variety of homes, including those with children and other pets. Trusty deserves the best life can offer him, and we know his forever home is right around the corner! Trusty is up-to-date on vaccinations, heartworm-negative, and patiently awaiting his neuter and microchipping procedures so he can be adopted. Can you provide the security and love he deserves? Can sweet Trusty trust you with his heart?

Diamond's name couldn't be more fitting for her; for we feel she has grown to be one of the most prized and special cats at the shelter. Diamond came to us from a cat hoarding situation. It was soon discovered that she was pregnant, and she delivered three healthy and beautiful kittens (Onyx, Garnet, and Sapphire), that have since found their forever homes. Diamond has been at the shelter for a long time due to having being pregnant, raising kittens, and patiently awaiting her spay procedure. The stress of nursing kittens made her pull out her own hair, literally. We are so happy she will never have to go through that again. Diamond is very social with humans and other cats. We think she would thrive in a happy, loving home, which she has deeply desired and deserved for so long. Come meet this precious biscuit making sweetie—she will be sure to sweep you off your feet. Diamond is fully vaccinated, spayed, microchipped, and FIV/FeLV negative.

2020 Savage Gulf Marathon

There is a reason race spectators chant "You Survived the Savage Gulf Marathon!" once you cross the finish line. This marathon is known to be one of the toughest marathons in the Southeast. The marathon features two steep descents and climbs into and out of the Savage Gulf on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. Along the route you will encounter challenging terrain with a variety of beautiful scenery including large stone formations, waterfalls, historic sites, wildflowers and old growth forest. To qualify to participate in this race you must have completed a marathon or longer race, (this isn't your average trail run), with finishing times ranging between 4.5 hours to 8 hours.

Join us at the Savage Gulf Marathon at 8 a.m., March 21, for 26.2 miles of rugged terrain as you trek up and down the steep gorge known as Savage Gulf, cross several streams, and run along the edge of the bluff. This is an Ultra you don't want to miss.

This event is coordinated by the Tennessee Park Rangers Association. Proceeds are used for training scholarships available to State Park Rangers for professional development.

The course begins and ends at the Stone Door Ranger Station, with 26.2 miles of the most brutal, unforgiving, rocky, steep terrain you could imagine in between.

Race is limited to the first 100 registrations. To qualify, all entrants must have completed one marathon or longer race previously. Seasoned runners earn DNFs every year. This is not the place to break into the sport. Registration closes on March 9 or when all 100 registrations have been filled.

The registration fee is $85. For more information go to <https://tnstateparks.com/parks/event_details/southcumberland/#/?event=2020-savage-gulf-marathon>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

January brings the snow,
Makes your feet and fingers glow.

February’s ice and sleet,
Freeze the toes right off your feet.

Welcome, March, with wintry wind,
Would thou weren’t not so unkind.

April brings the sweet spring showers,
On and on for hours and hours.

Farmers fear unkindly May,
Frost by night and hail by day.

June just rains and never stops,
Thirty days and spoils the crops.

In July the sun is hot,
Is it shining?
No it’s not!

August, cold and dank and wet,
Brings more rain than any yet.

Bleak September’s mist and mud,
Is enough to chill the blood.

Then October adds a gale,
Wind and slush and rain and hail.

Dark November brings the fog,
Should not do it to a dog.

Freezing wet December, then...
Bloody January again!
