Carl Phillips

Phillips Winner of the Aiken Taylor Award

The winner of the Seawanee Review's 2019 Aiken Taylor Award for Modern American Poetry is Carl Phillips. Phillips has authored 14 books of poetry, including "Wild is the Wind" (2018) and "Reconnaisance" (2015), as well as two books of criticism: "The Art of Daring: Risk, Restlessness, Imagination," and "Coin of the Realm: Essays on the Life and Art of Poetry." He has received numerous literary honors, including the Kingsley Tufts Poetry Award, the Los Angeles Times Book Prize, and was a finalist for the National Book Award.

The 33rd Aiken Taylor celebration will take place Feb. 26 and 27. University Vice-Chancellor John McCardell and Seawanee Review editor Adam Ross will present Phillips with the award at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 27, in Convocation Hall, after which Phillips will read from his body of work. On Tuesday, Feb. 26 at 4:30 p.m., poet, novelist, and critic Garth Greenwell will lecture on Phillips' poetry in the McGriff Alumni House. Greenwell is the author of "What Belongs to You," and is currently the John & Renee Grisham Writer in Residence at the University of Mississippi.

Phillips' poems reveal a searching intelligence, and a curiosity about the world at its most elemental. In his poem, "Sky Coming Forward," from his National Book Award-nominated collection Double Shadow, he asks, "What if, between this one and the one / we hoped for, there's a third life, taking its own / slow, dreamlike hold, even now—blooming, in spite of us?" Such questions of impermanence suffuse his work, and encourage us to approach the poems (and, perhaps, our own experiences) with the same ineffable wonder. As Garth Greenwell explains, "Phillips has fashioned himself as our great searching poet of ambivalence—ambivalence conceived not (as we sometimes use the word) as signifying vague or unformed feelings, but instead opposing desires held in suspension, exactly measured and found to be of equal weight."

Monteagle Approves $400,000 for Fire Hall

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At a special called meeting Feb. 12, the Monteagle City Council approved spending up to $400,000 for a new fire hall.

"We met with St. John Engineering, and we have a preliminary site plan," said Vice Mayor Tony Gilliam.

The design calls for locating the 88 foot by 65 foot metal building on the lot where the former fire hall was located, at the corner of College Street and North Central Avenue. Interior specifics include a day room with a warming kitchen, training room, laundry, and a 53 foot by 65 foot three bay apparatus room with three 12-foot-high glass doors. Faux stone veneer would cover the lower three feet of the exterior.

"The aesthetics need to fit in with what's around it," Gilliam said.

"With a few minor changes it's about what we envisioned," said Fire Chief Mike Holmes. Holmes suggested several design modifications that "would make the building more functional to us as a department, but wouldn't affect the footprint."

Holmes recommended increasing the apparatus doors' height to 14 feet. "Decherd Fire Department recently got a new ladder truck and had to notch their building and increase the door height to get the truck inside. So much goes on a truck now, and you can't make them any wider so they need to get taller."

School Board Authorizes Wage Scale Changes; Middle School Update

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Feb. 11 meeting, the Franklin County School Board authorized several wage scale changes recommended by Assistant Superintendent Linda Foster. The board also heard an update on roofing materials for the new middle schools.

Foster proposed changing the salary scale for certified employees with a doctorate degree and those with a master's degree plus 30 accredited semester hours to allow for yearly salary increases. In 2015, the school system adopted the state recommended step-increase practice, where educators in those two categories only received raises every several years.

Foster said no teachers were impacted by the step-increase practice since it was implemented, but that would change in the coming year. "We have three teachers getting their doctorate degree, and if we can't pay them, they may not stay. I don't think the step-increase practice has been to our advantage."

School board member Sara Liechty concurred. "We know

current employees didn't lose any money, but we don't know how many teachers didn't come to us because of the salary scale."

The board also approved Foster's recommendation for adopting a salary range based on years of service for the director of maintenance and director of nutrition positions, with experience and education also taken into account. Foster explained that if a need should arise to replace the employees now in these positions, the school system might not want to pay the current rate to the new hire.

Similarly, the board approved Foster's recommendation to create a wage scale for new hire technical specialists based on skill level and experience.

To address the problem of chronic absenteeism, the board approved creating a new position to join attendance supervisor Delinda McDonald in visiting parents and to serve as a liaison between the schools and courts.

SCA Activities Update; Cultivating Happiness Tips

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

How to survive the winter fog blues? The Community Chest fundraising update and a call for person of the year nominations at the Feb. 7 Seawanee Civic Association dinner meeting illustrated one of the key strategies for happiness recommended by the evening's speaker: practice gratitude.

The Seawanee Community Chest supports 25 initiatives that enhance the quality of life in Seawanee and the surrounding vicinity, Blue Monarch addiction services, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, the Seawanee Elementary School and the Seawanee Senior Citizens Center, to name only a few. Member-at-large Jade Barry announced the Community Chest had raised $80,958 toward its goal, with $24,414 still needed. Barry urged community members to donate now. The campaign ends March 31. Mail donations to P.O. Box 99, Seawanee, TN 37375 or donate online by visiting <www.sewaneecivic.org>. To track the campaign and learn more about funding recipients, visit the thermometer display outside the post office.

President Theresa Shackelford called for nominations for SCA's annual award. Now in the 36th year, the Person of the Year Award honors a community member for outstanding volunteer work. Send nominations to P.O. Box 222, Seawanee, TN 37375 or email account <sewaneecomunitychest@gmail.com>. The deadline for making nominations is March 15. Please include a brief narrative explaining why the nominee deserves recognition.

Speaker John K. Coffey, assistant professor of psychology at the University of the South, specializes in positive developmental psychology. His research investigating "happiness" from infancy through adulthood often spans three or more decades.

To measure happiness researchers track the frequency of positive emotions, the frequency of negative emotions, and a person's degree of life satisfaction, Coffey said.

According to Coffey, "Research shows how happy an infant is at 18 months predicts how far the child will go in college." Coffey cited a correlation between a high degree of happiness and community involvement, skill at relationship building, better health and longevity, a productive, lucrative work life, and activity in the brain's prefrontal cortex where problem solving and other complex thinking occurs.

Climate has relatively little effect on happiness, Coffey noted. Scandinavian countries with cold climates and low levels of daylight in the

CONCERT THANK-YOU

To the Editor:

Bravo to the Side-by-Side concert Feb. 9, at Guerry Auditorium. What a musical delight to have the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra (SSO) and the Chattanooga Symphony and Opera (CSO) collaborate on a 75-minute production of masterpieces like Carmen, Opus 34 from Rimsky-Korsokov and more. Peter Povey's performance on the violin was especially noteworthy.

Many thanks to the Dean of the College and conductors César Leal of the SSO and Kayoko Dan of the CSO in enabling and executing this fine, joint performance. Another credit is due to John Kilkenny, Artistic Director of the SSMF, who got the ball rolling 2 years ago by fostering a partnership between the SSMF and the CSO youth orchestra.

The community is looking forward to more musical performances this calendar year from the SSO and the Sewanee Summer Music Festival. In the interim, the Ralston Listening Room is offering weekly pieces as varied as Handel, Bossa Nova and the Beastie Boys. The sound quality there excels.

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace continues tonight at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Mary Margaret Murdock, a senior in the college, will be sharing her reflections with us. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members, featuring student-led acoustic music, a different guest speaker each week, and Holy Communion. This semester, each of our speakers will meditate on the theme of Moving Mountains. Inspired by Matthew 17:20, “...if you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move; and nothing will be impossible for you.” Our speakers will consider when they have witnessed God move mountains. Together, we will reflect on times that our own mustard seed-sized faiths have been catalysts for growth, gratitude, and love in our communities and within ourselves.

The Catechumenate will meet this Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 7 p.m. in the Women’s Center. Based around fellowship, study, openness, and conversation, the Catechumenate serves as a foundational piece for the Christian faith, as well as a forum for discussion for people of all backgrounds. This week we will begin a series on ways of prayer, starting with lectio divina. All are welcome!

Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

Mark your calendar for a service of Choral Evensong, which will be sung on Sunday, Feb. 24, at 4 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. The university choir will present pieces by Batten, Howells, Leighton, and Gardiner. Repertoire performed for this service will also be featured on the choir’s upcoming tour. The choir will be conducted by Geoffrey Ward, university organist and choirmaster and accompanied by Zachary Zwahlen, assistant university organist.

Christ Church

Christ Church keeps an old season called Pre-Lent. The first of these Sundays is called by a Latin name, so are the others. It is approximately 70 days before Easter Day so the word is septuagesima. There is a great relatively modern, but now already dated hymn, which has “Then three Sundays to prepare for the time of fast and prayer, that with hearts made penitent we may keep a faithful Lent.”

At the Adult Forum on Sunday, Feb. 17, at 9:45 a.m., Robert A. MacSwain, associate professor of Theology at the School of Theology, will give speak about C. S. Lewis’s continuing appeal. More than 50 years after his death, C. S. Lewis remains one of the most popular authors in the world, with work spanning Christian apologetics and theology, science fiction, and children’s fantasy fiction. MacSwain, a principal scholarly commentator on Lewis’s achievement, suggests that one reason for Lewis’s continuing appeal is his combination of both reason and imagination in a typically Anglican manner. Questions and discussion are welcome. Coffee and tea will be provided. The Forum meets in St. Mark’s Hall of the Parish House at Otey Parish in Sewanee. All are welcome.

Marketplace Consignment Celebrates 25th Anniversary

Marketplace Consignment Sale celebrates its 25th anniversary this spring. What started as a simple goal of providing a way for families to make and save money (thus their long time motto "Outfitting Families for Less"), has grown into a mission to also enable families "for more." By hosting this twice-a-year event where people can clear and sell their gently used but no longer needed items, Marketplace helps folks help themselves as they are spreading blessings to many others in the community and beyond. After each sale, local charities benefit from generous donations from Marketplace consignors, spreading the blessings yet farther.

"For years, I heard grandmothers coming to Marketplace exclaiming how they sure wished there had been something like this when they were raising their children," said Gina Moore, owner of Marketplace Consignment Sale. "And, we all know grandmothers are wise and can recognize a good thing," Moore said. "Now, we've been around so long that we're getting to serve the second generation in many families, which is so cool! Each sale is like a reunion, getting to see so many families, catching up on their kids and grandkids, and just enjoying the fellowship when we come together. While participants are different in many ways, we each share the common bonds of loving, caring, and providing for our families, and celebrating that is probably my favorite part of the sale. This has kept me doing the sale for 25 years," said Moore. "I realize I get to be part of something much bigger than just my efforts, and that's truly special."

Moore said she often hears from parents how much the sale has helped them raise their families, from the baby years through teen years. "One young mother called the sale 'an amazing shopping and selling experience right here in our own community, wallet friendly, and an opportunity too good to pass up,'" said Moore.

To find out how you can become a part of the 25th annual Spring Marketplace Consignment Sale, just check out all the details at <www.marketplaceconsignment.com>. Drop off is scheduled for March 29-April 2, and public sale dates are April 6-13 (closed on Sundays), at Monterey Station, 104 Monterey St., Cowan.

Lecture by Sewanee Graduate and Google Engineering Leader

Katharina Probst, C'00, a senior engineer manager at Google will be the Babson Center's Graham Executive-in-Residence for the Easter semester. She will share her journey from computer science major at Sewanee to leadership positions in Netflix and Google.

Probst will deliver a presentation, "Sewanee to Silicon Valley: Lessons in Leadership and Change," at 4:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 18, in the Torian Room of duPont Library. All are welcome.

One of the first women to graduate with a computer science major from Sewanee, Probst was a visionary in her field when the program was in its infancy. She attended programming competitions and received grants for women in computing. Linda Lankewicz remembers Probst being a part of a "talented group of students who energized us with their enthusiasm" and "did far more than the normal load for a course." For a CREW (Collaborative Research Experience for Women) grant, Lankewicz recalls, "The three of us worked many hours on a project involving the use of neural networks for data mining."

Probst continued her pursuit of computer science at Carnegie Mellon University, receiving a Ph.D. in 2005. She began her career at Google in Atlanta as a software engineer, developing new features in Gmail and "having a lot of fun and learning a lot." Seven years later, she relocated to San Francisco and was an Engineer Manager responsible for Google Cloud Platform and Google Compute Engine.

As her career soared, Probst realized that she wanted to move into a leadership position and manage teams, merging her two passions: leadership and technology, her "sweet spot." Using her interpersonal skills (soft skills) that she learned at Sewanee, Probst said that she could make a positive impact by bringing people together. Harkening back to her psychology classes at Sewanee, Probst said, "I do have a lot of interest in that, and I do think back to that a lot. People at my company have technical depth, which is great, but they have not focused so much on psychology and that is what a lot of this is really about, because my job is about people as much as it is about tech."

Netflix, Inc., an online streaming, media-services provider with 139 million paid users world-wide, took notice of Probst talent. As Director of Engineering, she navigated the engineering cultures of bottom-up innovation that prevails at Netflix and Google—teams creating ideas and initiatives. By inspiring and motivating team members at every level to act like leaders, Probst realized that teams could have a transformative impact on their organizations.

Probst returned to Google last October as an Engineering Leader for Google Kubernetes Engine. She has used her leadership skills to smash the glass ceiling for women at Google and in the technology field. Google's 2017 diversity data for their global workforce revealed that 31 percent of all employees were women, 20 percent were technology workers, and 25 percent held a leadership role.

At Sewanee, Probst will share her insights with students and classes on how her liberal arts education provided the foundation to chart a successful career at Netflix and Google. This visit is cosponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce, Women's and Gender Studies, and the Department of Computer Science. The Graham Executive-in-Residence program is made possible by a generous gift from Diane and Henry H. Graham Jr.

Program for Arts and Higher Education in Prison Talk Feb. 19

Kyes Stevens, the director of the Prison Arts + Education Project at Auburn University, will speak on "Education for Incarcerated People: Shifting Access to Learning and Quality of Life" at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 19, in Convocation Hall on the University of the South campus. All are invited.

Kyes Stevens is the founder of the Alabama Prison Arts + Education Project. She has designed and built an innovative and sustainable program for education on the inside, and works with others across the U.S. to develop strategies for arts and higher education in prison programs. Her work began with a 2001 National Endowment for the Arts fellowship to teach poetry at the Talladega Federal Prison.

Among other awards, Stevens has been recognized as an AL.com "Woman Who Shapes the State," and a 2016 "Southerner of the Year" by Southern Living. She was the 2014 Literary Arts Fellowship recipient from the Alabama State Council on the Arts, and in 2018 Auburn University honored her with the Faculty Excellence in Outreach Award.

Stevens' talk is sponsored by the Offices of the Dean of the College, Dean of Students, and Civic Engagement; the Departments of English, Education, Politics, and Art, Art History, and Visual Studies; and the Common Book Program, Creative Writing Program, and Pre-Law Program.

Register for New Lifelong Learning Courses

The Center of Lifelong Learning at the University of the South is excited to announce our new courses. Please contact Dan Backlund at <lifelong@sewanee.edu> for further information and to register for these exciting classes before they are full. The enrollment fee for each course is only $60 and includes six hours of formal learning time.

"Third Time's the Charm: Three Scripts, Three Discussions, and Three Designs," Instructor, Dan Backlund, Professor of Theatre, 2-4 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 20, 27, March 6 and 13. This course will explore scripts and produced scenic designs for three different productions, "Crimes of the Heart" by Beth Henley, "Proof" by David Auburn, and "The Rimers of Eldritch" by Lanford Wilson. We will read each script, discuss the play, and then discuss a realized production design in the Tennessee Williams Center.

"Literary Wizards and Enchantresses, From Merlin and Morgan Le Fay to Gandalf and Galadriel (and beyond)," Instructor, Robin Bates, Professor of English, 2-4 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 19, 26, March 5 and TBD. British and American literary fantasy have long been fascinated with wizards (also known as magicians, sorcerers, necromancers, magi) and enchantresses (also known as sorceresses, witches, wise old women). In this course we will look at why these figures have so captured the public imagination, whether it was because of medieval tensions between Christianity and Celtic fertility cults, the rise of Renaissance science, or the crisis of modernism (especially as experienced by J. R. R. Tolkien, C. S. Lewis and those who came after). The meaning of fantasy and the symbolic significance of magic will be a key focus, and special attention will be devoted to some of your own favorite characters.

"Thinking BIG About Open Spaces," Instructor, Daniel Carter, Professor of Environmental Studies, 2-4 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 14, 21, and March 7. Participants in this course will discuss the complicated dilemma of balancing growth and development with natural resource protection in the local region. The Chattanooga region is expected to grow in population by a minimum of 400,000 people in the next 40 years. How can we think "BIG" about conservation without preventing quality growth and development? This course will cover environmental issues associated with rural and urban sprawl, agriculture policy and working landscapes, and the role of resource protection as a community development strategy.

LOOKSATBOOKS

by Pat Wiser for Friends of duPont Library

One Graphic Novel: A (Slight) Shift in Opinion

My first “Looks at Books” column, on Feb. 14, 2001, began, “As we celebrate Black History Month, why not share a good book about Tennessee’s history with a child? A good choice: ‘Goin’ Someplace Special’ by Nashville author Patricia McKissack.” I still recommend this story of a child’s perseverance through segregation’s indignities on her way to the Nashville Public Library with its message, “All are welcome.” Eighteen years later, when we see today’s wider recognition of black history and literature as indication that a Black History Month is outdated, another incident (or more) reminds us that there is much left to do.

After a lukewarm reaction (bordering on disapproval) to graphic novels for young readers, I am impressed by “March,” by Georgia Congressman John Lewis and Andrew Aydin, illustrated by Nate Powell. Co-writer and illustrator are white southerners born after the 1960s civil rights era. Both grew up on stories of marches and sit-ins; both viewed them as abstract history. Policy director Aydin’s conversations with his boss elicited a trove of historic detail, which illustrator Powell transformed into the award winning trilogy. I have read Book 1.

As Lewis shares memories with visitors on their way to President Obama’s inauguration ceremony, readers follow his childhood on sharecropped land through student years at Nashville’s Baptist Theological Seminary. There Lewis became part of the Nashville Student Movement which resulted in the 1960 integration of lunch counters in stores which allowed everyone to shop, but only whites to eat or use restrooms.

First we meet a quiet child caring for the family’s chickens. Their self-appointed spiritual guardian baptized (with occasional near-drownings), preached, held funerals, and boycotted Sunday chicken dinners. Drawings of his literal flock, cocked heads taking in his sermon on the Beatitudes, are equally poignant and hilarious.

Soon we see Lewis and other students absorbing the history and philosophical underpinnings of non-violent resistance. We view tests of their ability to remain disciplined and forgiving through blows, spitting, and name calling. Some were unable to continue.

Although we lack photos of his beloved chicks, Lewis’s civil rights history is well documented in photograph and print. We need material such as David Halberstam’s “The Children,” an in-depth chronicle of the students’ crusade for equal rights. We also need newer formats to bring history alive to young readers. “March” panels show onlookers viciously attacking students waiting quietly at a lunch counter. A drawing of a young face filled with terror illustrates the text, “Paul Laprad drew particular attention for being white.” The next frame is filled by a large foot poised above his crouching body. The graphic leaves a more memorable impression than photographs of the scene in “The Children.” Similarly, the simple sketch of Mayor Ben West’s uneasy face as he utters, “yes,” to students asking his support for integrated facilities presents the historic scene more vividly than “The Children’s” photo.

A reviewer close to home, Charity Troyer, creative and thorough home-school mom of four, used Book I in her 8th grader’s history course. She prefers first-hand accounts for teaching history, and likes the depiction of the students’ “fear, frustrations, bravery and heart.” Jack reports that “March” showed him what real people endured. With warnings about language and violence, they recommend it for middle school and up and have ordered Book 2.

Books 2 and 3 present the freedom rides protesting segregated interstate transportation and the Selma to Montgomery march for voting rights in 1965. While Colorado friends joined the 45,000 at the Alabama Capitol to welcome and honor the marchers, I stayed behind to finish a paper on Emily Dickinson. My memory of the paper is vague. Their memories of pride and celebration are enduring.

The duPont Library has all three volumes of “March.” Volume 1 is available through the Tennessee R.E.A.D.S digital library.

American Watercolor Society 151st Annual Exhibition

Beginning March 3, fans of watercolor will be able to view 40 paintings from one of the premiere watercolor exhibits in the world at the Tullahoma Art Center. The center was selected as one of only six national venues for the American Watercolor Society's 151st annual Traveling Exhibition.

The works were chosen from a field of 150 water media masterpieces, which were selected from more than 1,100 entries.

"This is a big deal for us, the work that will be on display is truly the cream of the crop," said Tina Shang, director of the Tullahoma Art Center. "We feel blessed to be one of the stops on the tour, an honor that has been credited to the efforts of the late Lucy Hollis, former director who long ago acquired it."

The American Watercolor Society is one of the oldest and most prestigious art societies in the world, and election to the society as a signature member is one of the most sought-after honors in the painting world.

The opening reception will be on March 3 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Tullahoma Art Center. The cost is $10 for members and $20 for non-members. The Art Center is located at 401 S. Jackson St., Tullahoma. Gallery hours are Friday, 1–5 p.m. and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

RALSTON ROOMNOTES

by Isaac Sligh

This week I'd like to depart from tradition and, in place of a biography, focus on one particular piece. To being with, just a bit of biography: our featured composer this week, Luigi Boccherini, was born in Italy in 1743. He was encouraged by his musician father to become a cellist from a young age. Boccherini soon proved to be an exceptional prodigy on the instrument, eventually coming to the attention of the King of Spain's brother, Infante (Prince) Luis Antonio in 1769, who hired him as his court composer. When the king exiled Luis Antonio to Ávila province, a remote region of Spain, Boccherini accompanied him. It was here that my favourite piece by Boccherini, the quintet "Night Music from the Street of Madrid," Op. 30 No. 6 (G. 324), was composed. This quintet is a unique, folksy, at times almost impressionistic set of musings by a composer almost entirely isolated from the broader musical movements of his time. These are Boccherini's memories of a city he was forced to leave behind and its vibrant, eclectic goings on at nighttime. I encourage you to look up Jordi Savall's excellent recording of this piece and follow along with me.

The quintet consists of seven individual passages usually grouped into five movements. The first of these is "Le Campanone de l'Ave Maria" ("the bells of the Ave Maria"), a brief pizzicato piece modeled after the ringing of bells at a local church. With its sharp, arresting stabs on the violin, "Il Tamburo dei Soldati" represents the beat of the drums of the military night watch, and "Minuetto dei Ciechi" depicts a minuet dance of Madrid's blind beggars, in triple time in accordance with the minuet style. The full quintet joins in for this minuet, and continues with "Il Rosario" ("the Rosary"), a slow, prayerful piece which acts as a middle point for the quintet.

After "Il Rosario" concludes, the bright, immediately recognizable opening chords of the "Passa Calle" spring forth—this is the most widely known of the movements. Boccherini meant for it to be a cunning satire of Madrid street singers—los Manolos, as they were called. The passa calle or passacaglia style imitated here consists of music to be sung as one walks along on an evening stroll through town ("passa calle" meaning "to pass along in the street"). This movement is effervescent and sprightly, providing a climax for the whole work. "Il Tamburo" ("the drum") follows, serving as a very brief reprisal of the military drum motif on solo violin from earlier on, heralding the return of the military watch. The soldiers sound the "Ritirata" ("retreat") for the final movement, putting an end to the proceedings as the curfew is announced. The entire string quintet joins in for a stately finish, perhaps the most stylistically typical movement of an extremely varied and unorthodox set of music.

If all of this has piqued your interest, please consider joining me Monday, Feb. 18, at 3 p.m. in the Ralston Library to listen to the entire piece. Thanks very much for reading and see you next week.

Isaac Sligh lives in Sewanee and works as the Head Curator at the William Ralston Listening Library. The hi-fi listening room is open for visits 3-9 p.m., Monday-Thursday, 3-6 p.m., Friday, and 6-8 p.m., Sunday.

'Olio' Art Show Opening March 1 at Artisan Depot

Franklin County Arts Guild member Kim Phillips will exhibit her work from March 1 through April 14 at the Artisan Depot in Cowan. The public is invited to the opening reception on Friday, March 1, at 5 p.m.

The theme of the show, "Olio," refers to the fact that the exhibit includes many objects that are unlike: paintings, graphite, clay, mosaic and pastels, to name a few. "Most professional artists stick to one medium, and for over a dozen years, I did only paper cut art. But there are so many things that capture my attention and plenty of good teachers to inspire me," Phillips said. Teachers are, in fact, given special mention in this art show.

Promoting the arts in Franklin County and beyond is a primary mission of the Franklin County Arts Guild. Phillips, as the Guild's workshop coordinator, is aware of the influence teachers can have on artists.

Phillips, a Nashville native, moved to the Cowan area about three years ago. "What was so surprising to me," she said, "is how many artists live and work in this area. While our arts guild may be small compared to some, it's mighty."

The Artisan Depot is located at 204 Cumberland St. East, Cowan. More information is available at <www.franklincoarts.org>.

SAS Swim Season Ends After Record-Setting State Championship

On Feb. 8-9, four St. Andrew's-Sewanee swimmers competed at the Tennessee state championship. While competing against the most talented swimmers in the state, senior Randy Paul, junior Aidan Smith, and sophomores Zolon Knoll and Porter Neubauer all gave impressive performances that set a number of personal and school records. Their time of 1:33.25 in the men's 200 yard freestyle relay was a new school record, besting their own previous record by two full seconds. Knoll's time of 51.10 in the men's 100 yard freestyle was also a personal best. Finally, in the last event of his high school career, Paul finished with a 59.19 100 yard backstroke, beating his previous personal best by a full second.

This final competition marks the end of the SAS swim season. The amount of effort and hard work these athletes dedicated to improving in the pool cannot be overstated, and the program has a promising future ahead of it. With three of the four state competitors returning next season and the potential addition of several others, the Mountain Lions will look to continue to compete at a high level next season.

Women's Basketball Unable to Hold Off Oglethorpe

Sewanee's Bella Taylor passed Kim Fauls Parlett for third all-time in scoring, but it was not enough. The Tigers, despite a first quarter lead of 21-9, fell to the Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe, 69-56, Feb. 10, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

Sewanee limited the visitors to 3-of-13 from the floor as they sprinted out to a 21-9 lead after 10 minutes of play. Sewanee shot 7-of-13 from the field.

Oglethorpe responded in the second quarter, but it was the Tigers who took a 33-27 halftime lead.

The Petrels took their first lead of the game with less than 30 seconds left in the third quarter and never gave the Tigers the lead back. OU used a 23-13 third period and a 42-23 second half to seal the victory.

With two successful free throws with 1:35 left in the first quarter, senior Bella Taylor surpassed Kim Fauls Parlett (C'97) for third all-time on the Sewanee Women's Basketball scoring list. Finishing with 13 on the afternoon, the Sparta, Tenn. native has 1,569 for her career, and she needs 21 to surpass Sophie Brawner for second all-time.

Sue Kim, with seven assists on Sunday, is inside single digits of tying Kayla Goodwin (C'02) for the most assists in school history. Currently with 365, she needs just six more to tie Goodwin.

Kinsley Logan finished the game with 11 points, while Ellie Treanton added six points and nine boards.

Katie Roth drained three triples for nine points off the bench.

Tigers Hold Back Oglethorpe

The Sewanee men's basketball team survived a second half threat by Oglethorpe, as the Tigers defeated the Stormy Petrels, 60-57, Feb. 10, inside Juhan Gymnasium.

Through the first nine minutes of play, the two teams played a closely-knit contest. Leading 12-9 with 10:30 to go, Sewanee's Ryan Starr drained two triples to push the lead to nine, 18-9.

Sewanee extended the lead to double digits with a 7-0 run. Sewanee made it an 11-point affair, 25-14 with 4:40 left in the opening half.

The Petrels responded with a 16-5 run the rest of the half to cut the deficit to four points, 30-26, at the intermission.

OU started the second half on a 9-2 run to take its first lead in the second half, 35-32, with 15 minutes left in regulation.

The teams went back-and-forth from there, but with less than three minutes remaining and trailing by one, Sewanee went on a 7-3 run to finish the contest.

The Tigers reclaimed the lead on a Cam Caldwell dunk and padded the lead with a Jordan Warlick trey.

Luke Smith dropped 21 points and five rebounds to lead the Tigers.

Matt Lee blocked three shots to go with six points and four boards.

Huntingdon Spoils Baseball's Attempt of Weekend Sweep

The Sewanee baseball team was unable to complete the weekend sweep at the Huntingdon Firehouse Classic, falling to the hosts, 6-1, Feb. 10, inside Riverwalk Stadium.

Huntingdon got on the board early and often in the third inning on five hits.

Trailing 5-0 in the sixth, the Tigers broke the shutout with an RBI groundout by Riley Brandvold.

Trey Akins recorded a multi-hit day with a 2-for-4 day at the plate.

Riley Brandvold drove in the lone RBI for Sewanee, as Chris McNulty was credited with the run scored.

Jared Demkowicz (0-1) tossed three innings and allowed four earned runs.

The Sewanee baseball team began the 2019 season on Feb. 8, with a 7-3 victory over the Quakers of Guilford College at the Huntingdon Firehouse Classic at Riverwalk Stadium, home of the Double-A Montgomery Biscuits.

On Feb. 9, six runs in the middle innings was the deciding factor for the Sewanee baseball team, as the Tigers downed the Mountaineers of Berea, 8-0, from Riverwalk Stadium on Day 2 of the Huntingdon Firehouse Classic.

Siena London won the Novice Flat event. Catherine Walthall finished in third in the event.

Aelin Hill posted second place finishes in the Open Fences and Open Flat.

Finishing as reserve high point honors for the day, the team competed with 11 other squads from the region.

On Feb. 10, Sarah Buchholz finished in second in the Novice Fences, while Walthall earned third place.

London took home wins in the Novice Flat event, followed by second place finishes by Virginia Klemens and Walthall.

Catherine Bratton and Caroline Greenhalgh finished second and third, respectively, in the Beginning Walk/Trot/Canter. Greenhalgh competed in her first competition this season.

Chin earned second place honors in the Beginning Walk/Trot.

The Tigers finished fourth overall on the day out of nine teams.

Softball Starts with Doubleheader at Wesleyan

The Sewanee softball team suffered a doubleheader sweep at Wesleyan College, falling 6-4 and 12-4, Feb. 10, to start the 2019 season.

The Tigers struck first thanks to two errors by the Wolves' defense. Rachel Hoffman reached on the second error of the inning, and Maggie Willis scored.

In the second, Sewanee added two more runs. Willis scored the first run of the frame by reaching base on Wesleyan's third error of the game. Emily Taylor, who was hit by a pitch earlier, scored. Taylor Wagner kept the line moving with a base knock to bring home Willis.

The Wolves responded in the bottom of the second and fourth innings to take a 4-3 lead.

Sewanee evened the score with a RBI single by Rachel Hoffman in the top half of the fifth.

In the bottom half, the Wolves regained the lead for good. After Sewanee gunned down Brianna Collender at the plate attempting to steal home, Jillian Crosby gave the home team the 5-4 advantage by reaching on a Sewanee error and seeing Yasnei Llavore score.

Wesleyan added an insurance run in the sixth to secure the 6-4 victory, despite the Tigers having the tying run at first base and the go-ahead run at the plate in the seventh.

In game 2, despite Sewanee striking first again in game two thanks to an RBI single by Hoffman, the Wolves scored six runs in the second and four runs in the fourth. The Wolves finished the contest in the fifth via mercy rule, 12-4.

Taylor Wagner finished the day with four hits, two in each game, with two runs scored and an RBI. Rachel Hoffman delivered three RBI on three base hits in the double-dip. Kendell Goodrum (0-1) went the distance for Sewanee in game one. Rowan Jordan (0-1) suffered the loss in the afternoon cap.

2019 Great Backyard Bird Count

This event is held Feb. 15-18 this year—all over the world! It began in 1998 by the Cornell Lab of Ornithology and the National Audubon Society. You can be a part of it. All you need to do is count the numbers and kinds of birds you see for at least 15 minutes on at least one of the days of the count and register online to record your checklist.

To register and to get more information about the project, visit <https://www.audubon.org/conservation/about-great-backyard-bird-count>. You don't need to be a bird expert. If you are familiar with the birds you see every day in your backyard, that's all you need.

The website explains how valuable this data is to scientific studies, which could never afford to accumulate this kind of information on this scale. The citizen-scientist has a real role to play in documenting dynamic bird populations. One example is the effect of warm weather patterns on the movements of birds.

Also, check out ebird.org for detailed information about bird counts in specific areas, like Franklin County with 244 species. And, our own Angus Pritchard, C'22, is one of the top 10 bird reporters in the county! If you find any noteworthy birds, send your observations to Nature Notes, too.

CCC Camp Workdays

The final phase of the Friends of South Cumberland State Park effort has begun, to restore and interpret portions of the village that housed nearly 200 members of Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) Company 1475 at Grundy Forest, near Tracy City. On Saturday, March 2 and March 9, volunteers will be loading brush, hauling logs and putting the finishing touches on new trail at the CCC site, in preparation for its grand re-opening, later this spring. Meet at the Grundy Forest Trailhead in Tracy City at 9 a.m. Be sure to wear sturdy work shoes or boots, bring work gloves, water and lunch. Optionally, you're encouraged to bring a rigid garden rake and loppers or brush clippers. Be sure to put your name on your tools.

Also, make plans to tour the CCC site after it officially opens to the public during Trails and Trilliums weekend. There will be guided tours of the site offered several times each day on Saturday, April 13 and Sunday, April 14, as part of the Friends' 2019 Trails and Trilliums festival. Check the Trails and Trilliums website <https://www.trailsandtrilliums.org> for all the latest on tour times, and all of the other great activities planned for Trails and Trilliums weekend.

Herbarium Winter Events

Winter Trees—St. Mary's Sewanee, Sunday, March 3, 2 p.m., with Yolande Gottfried. Lovely large trees are silhouetted against the sky on the campus of St. Mary's Sewanee, giving us a great opportunity to observe branching, twigs, tree shape, bark and more before the leaves emerge. Meet in the main parking area for this easy one-hour stroll. See <https://www.stmaryssewanee.org> for directions.

Early Spring Wildflowers—Shakerag Hollow, Sunday, March 17, 1:30 p.m., with Yolande Gottfried. It's St. Patrick's Day, a good time to look for early "green" in Shakerag Hollow. If you don't get out about now you might miss the beginning of the big show—spring ephemerals bloom early and fade fast. Meet at Green's View for this moderate-to-strenuous 2-mile walk that may include a steep rocky section of the trail.

For more information on these events, call Yolande Gottfried at the Herbarium (931) 598-3346, or by email at ygottfri@sewanee.edu.

Bandit

Puffin

Pets of the Week

Meet Bandit & Puffin

Bandit is a senior dog, but don't let that deter you from adopting him. Bandit still has a lot of energy and spunk left in him. Bandit was a shelter dog at the Harbor originally, and unfortunately when his owner died, the family could not keep him and he ended up back at the shelter. Bandit is a healthy dog with some skin allergies, but that can be treated and controlled with quality food. He is a large dog, but don't let that intimidate you—he is a giant fur-ball of love. Bandit's favorite activities are running around outside, enjoying the sunshine, and getting lots of tummy rubs. Bandit is very well behaved and responds well to commands, even speaking on command. Bandit is a very vocal dog that uses his voice to communicate with you and others. Come meet him and find out what a sweet gentle giant he really is. Bandit is fully vaccinated, neutered and heartworm-negative. Bandit would love to live out the rest of his life basking in the sun of a fenced-in yard with a family to love and cherish him through his senior years.

Puffin is a 5-month-old black and white medium hair kitten. Puffin has a very characteristic white spot on the bridge of his nose, making him look adorable. Puffin has a sweet, bubbly personality. Puffin came to the Harbor with his three brothers, all beautiful black and white teenaged kittens named after black and white birds. Upon arrival the brothers were very shy and stacked atop each other in the back of the intake kennel. It took only a few days for them to come out of their shell once they were placed in the teenage cat suite where Puffin tends to rule the roost! Puffin loves to peer down and watch everything around him atop the cat tree. Puffin is FIV/FelV negative, neutered, fully vaccinated, and ready to find his forever home where he can be the most regal king of the house.

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for seniors and veterans. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at www.animalharbor.org. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Washington 2/22/1732 + Lincoln 2/12/1809 = Presidents' Day 2/15/19

We have memorized America, how it was born and who we have been and where.
In ceremonies and silence we say the words, telling the stories, singing the old songs.
We like the places they take us. Mostly we do.
The great and all the anonymous dead are there.
We know the sound of all the sounds we brought.
The rich taste of it is on our tongues.
But where are we going to be, and why, and who?
The disenfranchised dead want to know.
We mean to be the people we meant to be,
to keep on going where we meant to go.

But how do we fashion the future? Who can say how except in the minds of those who will call it Now?
The children. And how does our garden grow?
With waving hands—oh, rarely in a row—and flowering faces. And brambles, that we can no longer allow.

Who were many people coming together cannot become one people falling apart.
Who dreamed for every child an even chance cannot let luck alone turn doorknobs or not.
Whose law was never so much of the hand as the head cannot let chaos make its way to the heart.
Who have seen learning struggle from teacher to child cannot let ignorance spread itself like rot.
We know what we have done and what we have said,
and how we have grown, degree by slow degree, believing ourselves toward all we have tried to become—just and compassionate, equal, able, and free.

All this in the hands of children, eyes already set on a land we never can visit—it isn't there yet—but looking through their eyes, we can see what our long gift to them may come to be.
If we can truly remember, they will not forget.
