Chernicky's Sculpture Selected for the Old Roundhouse Park Competition

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

Jamey Chernicky has lived in the area for what seems like forever. He went to the James K. Shook School in Tracy City, and has lived on the Mountain for 50 years.

In March, the Grundy Area Arts Council (GAAC) and Mountain Goat Trail Alliance announced that Chernicky's submission for the Old Roundhouse Park & Mountain Goat Trail Sculpture Competition had been selected for construction.

The "Forged Track Park Bench" will be fabricated from railroad track from the Tracy City park area and weathered-treated lumber. The contour of the seat and back were traced from a pre-1890 school desk onto plywood to begin the concept drawing.

Chernicky said his inspiration came from his roots—the history of his home and what he was taught by his family.

"I was taught from an early age not to waste and to repurpose materials when possible," he said. "That, and using materials and techniques that I haven't seen before are the main inspirations for this sculpture design."

Chernicky began metal sculpting in 1996 and was invited to sell his creations at Cheekwood in Bloom.

Christi Teasley of the GAAC said it is important to the council for the community to be involved.

"Any time you're working with public art, you're going to want to have some stakeholders involved with the decision making so they have some ownership," she said. "We're hoping to do sculptures throughout the trail in the future."

The unveiling of the sculpture is scheduled for June of this year, and Chernicky said he's well on his way. He had a third of the sculpture completed before the application was even sent.

"The rail iron is split with an acetylene torch, heated red hot and pulled mechanically around the jig which was created specifically for this project. There will be 48 individual bends, all of which have to match," he said. "A lot of thought and effort goes into everything I do, and I'm honored to have the chance to be a part of such great effort to improve our Mountain and to share our heritage."

This is the first piece of the bench Jamey Chernicky made before he sent his application to the sculpture contest.

Village Updates

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

Two years ago Frank Gladu who oversees the Sewanee Village project made a promise "not to cut my beard until we build something." Gladu will soon get to cut his beard. At the April 2 Sewanee Village update meeting, Gladu announced the long-awaited groundbreaking for the new bookstore along with reviewing other high momentum initiatives, narrowing U.S. Hwy. 41A and construction of a mixed-use grocery and apartment building.

"The bookstore underwent a redesign to conform to the budget," Gladu said. Abandoning the double-gable design, the smaller footprint building is L-shaped with two stories, which saved money by avoiding dealing with the drop off in back, according to Gladu. The site will offer 12 parking spaces.

The bookstore groundbreaking is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., April 13. "Groundbreaking isn't building, though," Gladu pointed out. He'll wait to cut his beard until the foundation is poured.

Turning to other Village initiatives, Gladu said the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) has finalized the design for narrowing U.S. Hwy. 41A for the half-mile stretch between Kennerly Road and Kentucky Avenue. A recent development in the highway project resulted in TDOT incorporating the Mountain Goat Trail into the design. The Mountain Goat Trail Alliance lobbied TDOT, citing state legislation that provided for including multimodal trails in highway projects. The trail will be extended for several blocks through the center of the Village.

Asked about the inspiration for narrowing the highway Gladu explained, "We want to make it less of a highway and more of a city street by calming traffic."

"Narrowing the highway worked to calm traffic in Monteagle," observed longtime resident Lynn Stubblefield.

Narrowing the highway will allow for six-foot sidewalks and six-foot planting strips on both sides. There will also be a pedestrian activated crosswalk. The University will bear financial responsibility for the actual plantings, any additional lighting needed, and relocating utilities, if necessary.

The highway will continue to have two left turn lanes, and the right turn lane coming from Monteagle at the downtown intersection will be eliminated, Gladu said. The University hopes TDOT will decide to lower the speed limit from 35 mph to 25 mph. TDOT will hold a public meeting on the design after it is presented to the county.

"The problem with change is it's hard for drivers to keep up with," insisted a concerned resident, who objected to eliminating turn lanes and the lower speed limit.

Two Different Contractors Will Build Middle Schools

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the March 29 meeting, the Franklin County School Board selected Biscan Construction to build the new North Middle School and Southland Constructors to build South Middle School. Of the five contractors bidding, three bid on both schools, Southland among them. The bids by R. G. Anderson and Barton Malow Construction offered a discounted price if awarded the contract for both schools. The combined bid from the contractors selected, $40,588,200, was nearly a million dollars less than the next lowest bidder, Barton Malow, even after taking the discount into account.

Biscan's $20,258,500 bid includes HVAC for the Huntland School gym, as requested in the bid package. The County Commission allocated $48 million for construction of the middle schools.

"It's good not to be up against the wall," said Construction Manager Gary Clardy who pointed out unforeseen costs could arise. Clardy also noted the bids didn't include $1.8 million for the design and $4 million earmarked for technology.

Rosanne Cash in Concert

The eldest daughter of country music icon Johnny Cash, Rosanne Cash carries on the family legacy in the best way possible: with her own unique voice and approach, and a timeless and supremely poetic mixture of country, folk, gospel, pop, blues, Americana and jazz. Along with husband and songwriting partner John Leventhal, Cash summons the spirit of the American South in all its rich history, heartache, joy, and humanity.

Cash and John Leventhal will perform at the University of the South at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 5, in Guerry Auditorium. Advance tickets are available from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. weekdays in Guerry Hall, room 129. Tickets for the public are $20; payment can be by cash or check made out to the Sewanee Performing Arts Series. Tickets are free for University students, faculty, and staff with Sewanee ID. Please call (931) 598-1225 with questions about tickets.

Cash's newest album, "She Remembers Everything," is a poetic and soulful collection of songs that reckon with a flawed and fragile world. It follows Cash's triple-Grammy winning 2014 album The River & the Thread and marks a return to more personal songwriting after a trio of albums that explored her southern roots and family heritage. "There is a woman's real life, complex experiences and layered understanding in these songs," Cash said. "I could not have written them 10 years ago—not even close. Time is shorter, I have more to say."

The concert is possible thanks to funding from the Performing Arts Series and the Stowe Family Endowment for Traditional Music.

SEWANEE NO MORE

To the Editor:

Being a true Sewanee native I have seen many changes over the years to Sewanee and the University. These changes have been both good and bad. One recent change and two upcoming changes fall into the latter. The natural beauty of Green's View has been destroyed by the construction of an island surrounded by massive rocks placed in the middle of the parking lot. One can no longer drive up to the edge of the view and enjoy it from the confines of their auto. The wooden fence interferes with the view and even blocks the view from one of the stone benches which has been there for decades. On Parents' Weekend kids were sitting on top of the fence, which is just an accident waiting to happen.

The construction of the cell tower at the stadium will be an eyesore and a safety issue due to the radiation. It doesn't belong at the South's oldest football stadium.

The last upcoming change is extremely personal and upsetting, the destruction of the house next to the post office. It was my grandmother's home and was built in the late 1920s or early 1930s. I have many fond memories as a kid playing in and around the house. I have been on numerous campuses and the bookstores were always in the middle of campus. That is where this one should remain.

Earlier plans even called for the construction of a building in front of the American Legion Hall. That was so disrespectful to all veterans. Fortunately it was stopped by a concerned member of the Women's Auxiliary.

The lower part of Sewanee has always been called downtown, not the village. I despise that term. These changes are being made by people I refer to as outsiders. In a few years people won't even recognize Sewanee. Sewanee will truly be no more.

Stephen Cardwell,
Sewanee

LIFELONG LEARNING THANK-YOU

To the Editor:

Although we offered our thanks personally, the Program Committee at Sewanee Seminars-Lifelong Learning wish to offer additional thanks to Russell Fielding who spoke to a large gathering at Lower Cravens on March 7. He spoke on "The Wake of the Whale: Hunter Societies in the Caribbean and the North Atlantic." Although the subject was not in everyone's daily vernacular, the talk drew a large audience. They were not disappointed. Fielding illustrated his research (now a Harvard Press book) with wonderful graphics of his travels (many with Sewanee students) to St. Vincent and the Faroe Islands along with recounts of difficulties melding into these cultures for an "on the ground" capture of this long standing hunter societies. A multitude of questions followed the lecture. Fielding left soon thereafter on a lecture tour at universities in England and Ireland, highlighting this particular subject. He, in my opinion, is an excellent embodiment of a Sewanee academic ambassador.

Lifelong Learning has featured almost 100 speakers during the last 9 years and this talk (and delivery technique) stands out as truly exemplary.

Sewanee Fourth of July Call for Volunteers

Planning begins for the best Fourth of July yet. The theme for 2019 is "Peace, Love, and Fireworks," so get your tie-dye and peace signs ready for a groovy celebration.

It takes many volunteers to pull off the day of festivities, and we have a few committee openings available. A parade committee member is needed to help the current committee members with planning and day-of hands-on assistance with organizing parade entrants. The second volunteer opportunity is to coordinate and run the children's games, and this person will need many helpers. Both positions come with support and guidance from current and past committee members. Contact Jade Barry at <jademcbee@gmail.com> for more information.

The planning meetings will be at 5:30 p.m., Mondays, April 29, May 13, June 3, 10, 17, and 24, and July 1, at the Sewanee Senior Citizens' Center. Join us to plan the best day of the year in Sewanee.

"We selected the lowest and best bidders," said Director of Schools Stanley Bean.

Both companies are experienced and reputable, according to Clardy who has an extensive background in school construction. "We're confident they're good contractors and manageable; we can manage them."

Bean credited his staff for the project being a month ahead of schedule. He thanked Assistant Superintendent Linda Foster, Primary Supervisor Jenny Crabtree, and Secondary Supervisor Diane Spaulding—"They've taken care of a lot for me"—freeing him up to collaborate with Clardy and the designers.

In regular business, the board reviewed three policy changes recommended by the Tennessee School Board Association (TSBA). The board approved amending the Tobacco Free Schools Policy to strengthen the language forbidding electronic cigarettes and amending the Promotion and Retention Policy to strengthen the parent notification protocol in instances of retention.

The revised Promotion and Retention Policy stipulates parents must be notified by February 1. The policy allows exceptions to the notification deadline due to enrollment date, assessment, medical and other pertinent circumstances.

The board took issue with some of the provisions of the new Alternative Credit Options Policy, which would allow students to earn high school credit for online courses offered by other institutions.

The policy stipulates the state will provide a list of approved Course Access Programs. "For any courses we don't offer, a student can take as many courses as they want from the list. The schools system will be required to pay for the first two courses," explained Board Chair Cleijo Walker. She expressed concern about the expense.

The policy also stipulates students can substitute online courses for classroom courses if they have a scheduling conflict.

"The scheduling conflict criterion leaves us wide open," observed Sara Liechty, school board member. "We need stronger parameters."

The board deferred voting on the policy. Foster will request more information from the TSBA.

Board Member Christine Hopkins announced the budget for the Winchester Tennessee College of Applied Technology had $15 million in unallocated funds that could be used for additional certification programs. The top picks of the students and parents surveyed were X-ray technician and auto mechanics.

"The Shelbyville TCAT auto mechanics program has a years waiting list," Hopkins observed. A decision on how to spend the extra funds is pending.

The board will meet May 6 for a working session to discuss the 2020-2021 budget. The board's next regular meeting is May 13.

Education Savings Account Bill Troubles School Policy Makers

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

On March 27, the Tennessee legislature House Education Committee voted 14-9 to advance the Education Savings Account bill, Governor Bill Lee's school voucher program that would allocate up to $7,300 annually to qualifying students who enroll in private schools. The speaker of the house attended the meeting and exercised his option to cast a ballot, voting yes.

"This is the first time a voucher bill has made it out of committee," said Franklin County School Board Member Sara Liechty. "Students can get the money even if they don't attend a failing school and aren't from low-income families. A family of five earning $76,492 qualifies."

According to the Tennessee School Board Association (TSBA), a student attending a high-performing school is eligible for the program as long as the student lives in a district with three or more low performing schools. Davidson, Shelby, Hamilton, Madison and Knox counties qualify, all of which have some excellent schools. The TSBA also notes the family income ceiling at 200 percent free-lunch eligibility makes the program available to middle income families, even though it purports to serve the economically disadvantaged.

The bill caps student participation at 5,000 the first year, increasing by 2,500 students per year for the next four years. The governor plans to budget $25 million per year to fund the program.

"All the tax payers in the state will be paying for children to attend private schools," Liechty said.

Board Chair Cleijo Walker expressed concern about loss of revenue to schools. Schools will lose Basic Education Program (BEP) funding for each student they lose. "The bill proposes to give the schools who lose students compensation for loss of BEP funding, but only for the first three years. Then what?" Likewise unsettling, the compensatory grant can only be used for school improvements, not curriculum or instructional enhancements.

Walker also pointed out that private schools choose who to admit. "They aren't required to take special education kids," Walker stressed, arguing that this segment of the student population, which cost more to educate, would remain in the public schools.

Responding to voucher criticism, Lee's plan eliminated spending the funds on homeschooling, but the TSBA noted that the student receiving ESA money must enroll in a private school, the money doesn't need to be spent on tuition. Other uses include depositing unspent funds in a savings account for the student's college education.

The TSBA expressed concern about the ESA money being allocated pre-expense, rather than on a reimbursement basis. "Other states with ESA programs have experienced rampant fraud," said TSBA attorney Garrett Knisley.

Currently, five states allow some sort of ESA: Arizona, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and North Carolina. In Tennessee, the existing program is fairly small, allocating a maximum of $6,000, and is available only to parents of students with certain disabilities.

Disputing the lack of academic accountability, Liechty said, "ESA students will only be tested in math and English, not science, social studies, and civics." Testing in all five areas is required for public school children.

Walker worries the program is poised to expand since several districts are on the cusp of qualifying for inclusion by meeting the three-low-performing schools standard. Anderson, Bedford, and Sumner counties each have one low performing school. Fayette and Maury counties already have two low performing schools.

Walker's prescription for improving low performing schools—"Children need to know you care about them."

"Don't skim off some of the kids and leave the rest in failing school," Liechty insisted. "This is a bad direction for the state of Tennessee."

If the ESA bill becomes law, almost one-third of the state's 1,822 schools will be eligible for the program.

struction, Gladu said the 10,000 square footprint structure proposed in the initial village plan would likely be reduced to 7,000 square feet and have two stories instead of three.

After carefully considering the project, BP decided it would be less expensive to build a smaller building and easier to fill the units, Gladu explained. The developers are working on a design with six studio apartments and six single-bedroom apartments on the second floor, a 5,000 square foot food market on the ground floor, and several other retail units.

Gladu anticipates the food market will be two and half to three times the size of the current market. "The food market will offer produce, meat, dairy, everything a regular grocery store has," he said.

"University employees are the intended residents for the rental apartments," Gladu said. Gladu pointed out that the only reason the University was involved in offering campus rental units was to assist incoming employees in transitioning to the area.

"BP is pricing out the project to determine their ability to rent and lease the space. They won't build until they have at least 70 percent of the space leased," said Gladu.

Gladu said BP would hold a commercial lease with the University like all other Sewanee businesses. Lease holders must provide the Lease Office with information over prospective subleases, Gladu noted, giving the Lease Office some say about tenants.

45th Annual Sewanee Medieval Colloquium

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

The 45th annual Sewanee Medieval Colloquium will be hosted on April 12 and 13 on the campus of the University of the South.

Founded in 1974, the the two-day event is centered around bringing medieval scholars from across the country to engage in conversation about the field, share ideas and test new work.

The organizing committee for the Sewanee Medieval Colloquium received more than 80 papers, exploring afterlives in their local and global contexts.

Academicians will gather on the Mountain to discuss the theme "Lives and Afterlives." Cynthia Hahn, a professor of Art History at the City University of New York Graduate Center will give the Edward King plenary address. Marjorie Woods, a professor of English Literature at the University of Texas, Austin, will give the Brinley Rhys plenary lecture. Sewanee Professor of English William Engel teaches the Medieval Colloquium Seminar, which will coordinate with the Colloquium.

Matthew Irvin, who serves as director of the Sewanee Medieval Colloquium, said the event aims to gather scholars from different disciplines to discuss medieval languages, literature, philosophy, history and art.

"There are two big meetings in the medieval studies discipline, one in Michigan and one in Leeds, England, where roughly 3,000 people attend. I study a particular author from the late 14th century, and typically, over the 5 days of the conference, I'm going to go to talks about that particular subject. I talk to people who study the same things," Irvin said. "I'm not going to talk to people about 11th century Iraq or 19th century Spain. The Sewanee Medieval Colloquium is a way for people to interact across disciplines."

SCC Ferns Fundraiser

Support the Sewanee Children's Center (SCC) and beautify your home with a fern in a hanging basket. There are two options available for $15 each: Kimberly Queen ferns to keep out in the sun, and Boston ferns, which prefer shade. Please complete an order form with cash or checks made payable to Sewanee Children's Center by Wednesday, April 10. SCC will contact all supporters with the pickup date and time.

To request an order form, or if you have any questions, contact Sandy Glacet at (931) 598-5928 or <sewaneechildrenscenter@gmail.com>.

NASA's Clean Air Study documented that the Boston Fern removes toxins from the air. Although the study looked only at the Boston fern, it seems very reasonable that other Boston-type ferns have similar properties to make your home or office a safer and healthier place. Plus, its calming vibes will make your office seem less stressful and your home more relaxing.

SCC is supported by Otey Parish and the Sewanee Community Chest.

April 5, 2019—100th Anniversary of the Burning of Hoffman Hall

On April 5, 1919 Hoffman Hall was destroyed by fire. The following is from the April 11, 1919 issue of the Sewanee Purple.

Historic Old Hoffman Hall Totally Destroyed by Fire

Principal Dormitory of the University, Valued at Ninety Thousand Dollars. Fire of Unknown Origin Breaks Out on Monday at 4:45 p.m. Explosions of Boilers Demolish Walls. Many Students Heavy Losers in Personal Effects.

One of the biggest fires which has ever been witnessed on the Mountain destroyed the Hoffman Dormitory on Monday, April 5. It started in the north-west corner of the building and was first noticed about 4:45 p.m. by those returning from track practice at Hardee Field. The alarm quickly spread and when those nearest the building arrived on the scene they found the fire confined to one room and in the walls and ceiling between the third and fourth floors. Defective wiring probably started the blaze.

Despite the heroic efforts of the fighters the flames quickly spread and when they reached the fourth floor and the attic, hopes of saving the building had to be abandoned. Since the attic was the only one big vacant space with no partition walls, the east end of the building soon caught at the top floor.

The hottest part of the conflagration lasted about three hours and all possibility of salvaging or rebuilding the structure were obviated when the steam boilers exploded, sending a column of fire and debris into the air and causing one of the great chimneys to push over most of the walls.

Probably the belongings of most of the students were saved, but many lost heavily, both in the fire and in the confusion that resulted from so many rescuers.

A high wind was blowing from the southeast and nothing saved the houses north of Hoffman except the fact that they are built of stone and slate. Trees in the neighborhood caught fire from flying sparks, but by good work with the chemicals the danger was averted.

Hoffman Memorial Hall was valued at ninety thousand dollars according to present cost of material. It was built in 1899 by the benefaction of the heirs of the Rev. Charles Frederick Hoffman,

D.D., of New York, and was a five-story building with accommodations for upwards of sixty students. It was a brick-and-stone structure originally built for a hotel at Bridgeport, Alabama, and moved to Sewanee when it became property of the University.

The Dormitory was the center of student life for years. The late Rev. John B. Cannon was instrumental in having two of the first floor suites combined into a Common Room. The result was that many mass and rat meetings were held in it.

To the University it is a great loss which cannot be replaced because of the traditions attached to it. To Mrs. Preston and Mrs. King it means the loss of their home, since they lived there for years and regarded it as such. Especially is this true of Mrs. Preston, who had been matron since the opening of the Hall.

The residents of the Mountain responded nobly in the emergency and opened their homes to the boys. Half of Van Ness has been opened to accommodate part of the homeless ones, and many are settled in different places. A return to the old hall system is predicted.

Notes on the Fire

SMA cadets were stationed about the building as guards during the night. Many thanks are due to their watchfulness over the property which was strewn everywhere.

One boy was in the shower and had to go about clad in a bathrobe and raincoat.

Uncle Ben Holland, the janitor, was seriously injured on the head and hand by a falling piece of tin. He was rushed to the hospital and was reported to being (sic) doing nicely on Wednesday.

Classes were held the next day, but former Hoffman residents were excused and the professors failed to call their rolls.

The fire started in the bedroom of Jack Adoue and was first noticed by Freshman McMurray.

The contents of some of the chemical extinguishers were used with telling effect on the heads and faces of several firefighters.

A sandstorm was created for some distance on the windward site of the dormitory, making a little Vesuvius.

Strong-man feats were the order of the day. Trunks were carried out as though they were suitcases.

Rogers reports having lost a collar bottom in the fire. Same was gold-plated and can be identified if found.

As the fire began to extend over the lower floor and basement, many large furry animals were seen scurrying away. They proved to be Hoffman rats, run out of their holes at last.

An effort to obtain aid from the fire departments of the neighboring towns failed because transportation facilities were lacking.

The fire was visible to the people of Winchester and other towns.

Charley's Camp in the Horseshoe

Perhaps the earliest recorded transaction in the vicinity of Beersheba is an entry of 150 acres for William Dugan in 1826 "in the Horseshoe known as Charley's Camp" said to be on the south side of Little Laurel Creek of the Collins River. ⁽¹⁾ According to local tradition, William Dugan and his wife, with babe in arms, rode horseback from North Carolina to take up this land. ⁽²⁾ The name of the place seems to point to even earlier times when Charley had a camp there. But where was the Horseshoe and who was Charley?

We get a better clue of the location when, on January 10, 1838, William B. Smartt acquired from John Dugan, son of William, apparently the same 150 acres "about two and a half miles southwest of Beersheba." ⁽³⁾ The Horseshoe is thought to be a peculiar shaping of the ridges of the mountain simulating the appearance of a horseshoe. If we take Beersheba to mean the spring in front of the hotel, 2.5 straight line miles southwest brings us out in the Shady Valley Nursery property near the border with the state natural area, with nothing resembling a horseshoe either on the topographic map or to be seen by walking around the area. There are some U-shaped contour lines, but no striking topographical feature. If, however, we start walking from the observatory up Dalhgren Avenue to TN-56, along it to Hunter's Mill Road, then down it past the ballpark and off to the southwest along the old to the main road of the nursery, then south along this road to the lake created by damming (Little) Laurel Creek, and then imagine walking down the slope to the creek and up a short distance into one of the (now flooded) coves on the south side, we would have come 2.5 miles with a net direction of south southwest. The sides of the cove could have suggested a horseshoe. This location would also explain the particular relevance of "the south side of Little Laurel Creek."

Who was Charley? About 1.5 miles north of Main Street in McMinnville, there runs a stream called Charles Creek on modern topographic maps but Charley's Creek in older sources. Pleasant Henderson lived on its banks between 1806 and 1811. She recalled that when the first white settlers came to the area, they found a group of friendly Creeks camped near the confluence of this stream with the Collins. Their chief was Chuwallee, and the white man gave his name to the creek.

It became corrupted to Chalee, then to Charley, and now finally to Charles. ⁽⁴⁾ These Creeks continued to hunt in the area for a number of years without objection from the white man. Chuwallee River is also a well documented alternative name of Elk River. They may well be the Creeks who hunted on the mountain top and, to maximize game production, maintained it as a grassland by periodic burning. If so, our Charley could well be Chuwallee.

Walker began her television career working at Linda Ellerbee's NICK NEWS for Nickelodeon. During her time there, the show won the Peabody Award as well as several Emmys. Working her way up to senior segment producer, Meredith traveled to all 50 states to interview kids who had interesting stories to tell. This would become the foundation for her deepening interest in the lives of young people.

Meredith's visit is made possible through The Bishop Reynolds Forum which brings a prominent speaker to the SAS campus each year to engage students and the community in a topic of current interest.

The Forum was established through an endowment in memory of the Rt. Rev. George Reynolds, the late Bishop of Tennessee. A graduate and former chaplain of the Sewanee Military Academy and a former trustee and past parent at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, Bishop Reynolds was engaged by and involved with the numerous personal and social issues confronting the individual, the Church, and the society he served.

Lincoln Lecture

James Cornelius, curator of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library in Springfield, Ill., will lecture on "What's New in Lincoln and Civil War Studies," at 4 p.m., Monday, April 15, in Gailor Auditorium.

During the 20th century, historians and society overall, shifted from looking at decisions and words by the high-profile figures such as presidents, generals, church leaders, leaders of Congress and the courts, to an interesting new focus on the lesser-known or unknown voices: sergeants, servants, slaves, farmers and tradesmen, and especially women. In the 21st century, good history combines these two strands, but we also benefit from the continuing discovery of long-lost original documents: letters by Mary Lincoln, statistical work on the numbers killed in the Civil War; overseas activity having to do with slavery and abolition. We've even finally learned what Lincoln thought of the Irish Potato Famine of 1845-48; what became of his dog; whether African-Americans had his permission to use the White House lawn; and perhaps most of all why (some people think) the Civil War was inevitable, and whether Lincoln's hopes for Reconstruction were realistic.

To get the most out of the class, participants should own a copy of the "Tennessee Native Plant Society's field guide: Wildflowers of Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, and the Southern Appalachians" by Horn, et al. A field notebook, 10x hand lens, and camera will also come in handy. Plan for some slow walking on somewhat challenging terrain for two of the sessions. Susie Latham Duggard Gudger 1890-1952

Susie was the daughter of George Duggard and Betsy Parker (she had Native American Blood). George was the grandson of Benjamin Franklin Duggard and his Cherokee wife. He was an associate of Joe Vann in the steamboat business out of Ross's Landing, now Chattanooga. Vann removed to the West, the Direction of Death in the Cherokee belief, and continued his business in steam boating on the Arkansas River, dying in 1844.

Many of the Native people slipped away into the hidden coves and hollows in this area and were not driven West. Susie was a young helper at the original St. Mary's, which had the Jabez Hayes property on the Bluff above Slope Wall's Cut. There was an attractive railroad stop in that area and steps off the Bluff.

Mary Ann Gudger McBee, my great aunt, told me she and her brother James Franklin Gudger took the buggy to St. Mary's and Frank and Susie ran away, with the Sisters in pursuit, and were married in Altamont in 1908. Susie and Frank raised eight children. Avver Elizabeth, called Ann, married Harry Jones and lived in Chattanooga. Thendoe, called Bud, married Catherine Garner and moved to Florida in the 1950s. Twins Hattie and Mattie (Boots) born at Tantallon in 1918. Hattie married Berry Gipson and stayed in Sewanee. Boots went to Florida to work at the ship yards during World War II and moved to Winter Haven, Fla. James Dilbert (J.D.) killed in World War II. Ethel Vivian Lucille married Richard Roden and moved to Missouri. Twins Calvin Andrew and Alvin Joseph moved to Florida. Joseph, called Joe, married Dorothy Robinson from Houma, La., and have sons Eric Gudger, Jeffrey Gudger, and twins Laura Gudger and Leah Gudger-Meder, who all live in Florida.

Tigers Don't Leave Tracks!

Tigers Don't Leave Tracks!—a program aimed at educating students about sustainability and helping them reduce their use of single-use plastics, continues at Sewanee Elementary.

Show your support by continuing to bring your reusable bags to the Piggly Wiggly, Mooney's, The Lemon Fair, Village Wine and Spirits and Monteagle Wine and Spirits who are making donations to the school every time you do.

The Piggly Wiggly is hosting a draw in support of the project. When you bring your own bags to The Pig, write the name of a teacher or a class on the back of your receipt (grade 2, Mrs. Camp's class, Principal's Choice, etc.) and put it in the Tigers Don't Leave Tracks! jar at the front of the store. Those receipts will be collected periodically and entered in prize draws. The winning classes will receive sturdy Klean Kanteen water bottles for everyone. Together, we can give reusable water bottles to all the children in the school and help them in their efforts.

Thank you for supporting Tigers Don't Leave Tracks! and Sewanee Elementary.

Tutoring at St. James

After-school tutoring for children in grades K–5, sponsored by the Community Action Committee of Otey Parish Church, continues on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m., at the Parish Hall of St. James Episcopal Church. There is no charge. All are welcome. Sessions will last until 5 p.m., when promptness in pickup of children will be greatly appreciated.

The tutoring schedule will follow the Franklin County School System's calendar, so if there is no school, there will be no tutoring.

UAG Exhibits Exploration of the Cakewalk

"This Ain't No Cakewalk," created by visual artist Thom Heyer and musicologist César Leal, considers the parallels between the cakewalk tradition of the late 19th and early 20th centuries and New York's Vogue Balls of the 1980s and early 1990s. The exhibit will be open through April 13.

Both cakewalk and voguing are based upon competitive performances of movement. Both are associated, in their origins, with the expression of identity and resistance. Both became broadly popular, and were appropriated and recontextualized for other performers and purposes. Both are charged with questions about race, identity and power, explored through artifice.

Juxtaposing sheet music and representations of performers, New York's drag balls and turn of the century cakewalks, Heyer's collages, costumes and multimedia pieces prompt us to consider the assertion of identity and community in dance and music, but also the appropriation and commodification of those performances, and of the bodies of the performers.

The Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Patient of the Month

"I got the shingles January 9, 2019. I went to my regular doctor on January 10, 2019. She gave me a pill for seven days, it didn't help a lot. My friend told me that a chiropractor will help the shingles. I went to Shull Chiropractic Clinic, PLLC on February 8, 2019. Dr. Shull told me the nerves had settled on my right side from the shingles and the hard work I had done for 31 years in a factory. I started taking chiropractic care and therapy from Dr. Shull. I have been going everyday since February 8. The care helped me so much and relieved my aches and pain. I recommend Shull Chiropractic Clinic, PLLC to anyone. He relieved my aches and pains and the staff was so friendly to me. My life in general has improved due to Shull Chiropractic Clinic. Barton Perkins: "Perkins' The Wave"

'Cheerful Nightmares' at Carlos Gallery

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at the University of the South is pleased to present Cheerful Nightmares, an exhibition of paintings by Art Honors candidate, Barton Perkins.

The exhibition, "Cheerful Nightmares," has a peculiar premise by building on the idea of false happiness. False happiness is the act "of putting on or inducing, a robust and cheerful front in the face of depression and despair," said Perkins, and explains that he conveys this feeling to the viewer through the use of traditionally 'innocent' and 'cheerful' materials such as glitter and crayons. Both these materials imply happiness or innocence. They are prolifically scattered throughout the paintings, bleeding through color spaces and across collaged objects and surfaces. But, despite the happy feelings the works evoke, there are darker undertones covered up by the glitter and other 'cheerful materials'. These darker undertones are beneath layers of resin, glitter, and bright colors, which are occluded but not hidden from the viewer.

The materials utilized in these works are primarily found objects.

They are interwoven into pieces, covered in glitter, coated in resin, and plastered with anachronistic photographs. With these alterations, and their incorporation into the work, the materials build a narrative in each piece, echoing the physical tensions of the work. Beneath the surface, we perceive darker tales, some taken from history and others from the artist's personal life. Each piece is built from a blueprint of sorts. These blueprints are drawn from masterworks of art by artists such as Van Gogh or Monet. Perkins said that "the original masterwork is deconstructed, taken apart, down to its most basic concepts and outline. Then it is rebuilt from the ground up, recreated as a piece that tells a story of false happiness. By doing this, each piece is as unsettling as it is timeless."

The opening reception will be Wednesday, April 10 at 5 p.m.

The Carlos Gallery is at 105 Kennerly Rd. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Perkins will deliver an artist talk on Friday, April 26 at 10 a.m. in Convocation Hall.

Perpetual Motion to Perform

Perpetual Motion is a student-run performing dance company whose goal is to include all levels of dance experience. This year's performances will feature 20 plus pieces of original student choreography, in styles from Afro-Caribbean and Irish to swing and ballet, and will include almost 100 dancers.

Performances are April 11, April 12 and April 13 at 7 p.m., in Guerry Auditorium.

Graffiti Gallery '19

Starting in the art gallery and spilling out into the halls and windows of the academic buildings, students and faculty of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will create a series of tape art images and murals using only blue painter's tape. The project will span six weeks.

The SAS Art Department was inspired by the vibrant culture springing up globally around tape art and murals through projects such as the city-wide Tape Over Berlin in Germany and the enormous tape mural on the exterior of The Brooks Museum in Memphis.

The public is invited to watch the work in progress between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday until April 26. There will be an artists' reception on Friday, April 26, from 11 a.m.-1 p.m.

The SAS Gallery is located in the center of Simmonds Building on the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School campus.

Stagings of the performance will be April 5 and 6 at 7 p.m.; April 7 at 2:30 p.m.; April 12 and 13 at 7 p.m. and April 14 at 2:30 p.m.

"Red Lips" by Brianna Young.

Senior Art Majors C'19 Present 'Reclamation'

The University Art Gallery presents "Reclamation," an exhibition of photography, sculpture, and collage by the University of the South's senior art majors: Ivey Dahlstrom, Violet Hoagland, Barton Perkins and Brianna Young. The exhibit will be on display from April 19-May 11.

With her photographs, Ivey Dahlstrom explores the profoundly ordinary and the experience, look and feel of home. Violet Hoagland honors the possibility of resiliency and healing in her sculpture, creating abstracted human bodies from discarded objects and materials. Barton Perkins builds eerie multimedia collages packed with found objects, glitter, crayon and resin. Presenting a manically cheerful front, his collages are haunted by dark stories and the echoes of familiar images. Brianna Young plays games – her collages shuffle and combine playing cards, advertisements and body parts to explore questions about the body, from objectification and body image, to the mental and physical games of hookup culture, to the physical games of athletics.

An opening reception will be held in the University Art Gallery on Friday, April 19 at 4:30 p.m. On Friday, April 26, beginning at 9 a.m. in Convocation Hall, the seniors will speak about their work as part of Scholarship Sewanee. From 1-3 p.m., Saturday, May 11, the UAG will host a closing reception, celebrating the senior art majors and the close of a successful exhibition season.

The Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Shackelford and Post teamed up to add one more win at No. 1 doubles (8-4).

On April 2, the varsity teams faced rival Webb Bell Buckle at home. The boys' team put forth a strong effort, but the Webb team proved too tough as the Mountain Lions fell 2-5. Nathan King and Finn Michler clinched a nail-biter at No. 1 doubles (9-8), and Tanner King secured a win at No. 3 singles due to default. The SAS girls dominated Webb Bell Buckle with a 7-0 victory. Tessa Shackelford, Anna Post, Jenna Black, Hannah Mullens, and Laura Crigger cruised through their singles matches at positions 1-5. Shackelford/Post and Black/Mullens added two more doubles wins, dropping only one game in the two matches. SAS added additional wins in exhibition matches from Saje Mangru (No. 6 singles) and Mangru/Crigger (No. 3 doubles). The boys' team is 1-2 and the girls' team is 3-0 for the season.

TigerSharks Summer Season

The Sewanee TigerSharks, the local summer league swim team for all area youth ages 4-18, is preparing for an exciting summer season. John Noffsinger returns in his third year as the TigerShark head coach, accompanied by returning assistant coaches Nan Long and Alyssa Summers.

Last summer, the team enjoyed a robust roster of 84 swimmers and hopes to have even more swimmers participating this summer. The Sewanee Tigersharks had a strong 2018 season, finishing second out of 10 teams at the RACE League Championships to the Manchester Makos, and they look to continue improving this summer.

The mission of the Sewanee Tigersharks is to provide a quality amateur competitive swimming experience for Sewanee and the surrounding areas. The team promotes good sportsmanship, individual health and safety through the development of quality swimming skills, self-esteem, and provides a strong community experience in all swimmers through an emphasis on individual progress, team unity, peer mentorship, and family participation.

All experience levels, from the complete beginner to the experienced year-round swimmer, are encouraged to participate. The only requirement is that a swimmer be able to swim 15-feet unaided. New swimmer, Rookie, and Junior evaluations will take place on Monday, May 20, at 3:15 p.m. at the University of the South Natatorium, with regular practices beginning Tuesday, May 21. All interested parents and swimmers should visit the Sewanee Tigersharks website at <www.sewaneetigersharks.com> or email the team representatives at <sewaneetigersharks@gmail.com>.

Sewanee Men's Lacrosse Rallies to OT Win Over BSC

The Sewanee men's lacrosse team used a seven-goal fourth quarter to rally from a 9-6 halftime deficit to defeat Birmingham-Southern (BSC), 15-14, in overtime March 31, at historic Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium.

Prior to face off, Sewanee men's lacrosse recognized its 10 seniors: Henry Burns, Grant Gilmore, Hayden Hunt, Thomas Lynde, Ian Marr, Cal Pearce, Will Pratt, Ryan Stubits, Tal Wharton and Bryce Womack.

After Sewanee scored the first goal of the game in 46 seconds by Will Pratt, Birmingham-Southern scored three straight to lead 3-1. The Tigers would tack on a second goal with five minutes left in the quarter, but they trailed 3-2 after 15 minutes of play.

Despite scoring four goals in the second quarter, the Tigers got the deficit as close as one goal with a Thomas Oliver goal with 10:48 left in the period. However, the visitors outscored the home team, 4-2, until the halftime horn sounded. BSC led 9-6 at the break.

After an offensive second stanza, the third one was a defensive one. BSC extended its lead with a goal at the 11:12 mark, but the Tigers recorded a man-up goal to make it a three-goal deficit once again, going into the fourth quarter.

BSC scored two of the first three goals of the fourth period to lead 12-8 with 9:22 left in regulation, but the Sewanee offense came to life. In the final nine minutes of the fourth quarter, the Purple and Gold outscored the Panthers, 6-2.

With three minutes remaining, thanks to a Birmingham-Southern penalty, Hayden Hunt evened the contest at 13 goals apiece with a man-up goal.

With 34 seconds remaining, BSC attempted to win the contest on a shot, but thanks to a Tal Wharton save, the Tigers successfully cleared the ball and Thomas Lynde found Cal Pearce for the goal with 19 seconds left to give the Purple and Gold the 14-13 advantage.

However, the Panthers won the face off and immediately went down to score the game-tying goal with 10 seconds left to force overtime.

In the overtime period, Tal Wharton saved two key shots. After a save by Wharton with 1:32 left, BSC turned the ball over.

After a successful clear and a Sewanee timeout, Hayden Hunt netted the game-winning goal with 34 seconds left to seal the victory.

Thomas Lynde recorded 10 points on his Senior Day with four goals and six assists. In the fourth quarter comeback, he scored six points, one goal and five assists, to help Sewanee recover from the halftime deficit.

Hayden Hunt and Drew Mullen each recorded a hat trick with three goals each.

Ryan Stubits has won 20-of-33 face offs and scooped up 13 ground balls.

Tal Wharton (2-1) saved five shots in 12 minutes between the pipes. Bryce Womack stopped 14 shots.

Sewanee Women's Lacrosse Routs Berry in SAA Victory

The Sewanee women's lacrosse team eclipsed the 10-win mark for the ninth time in the program's 12-year history with a 19-1 dominating win over the Vikings of Berry College, March 31 at Puert Field to conclude a month-long, 11-game homestand.

Sewanee scored the first eight goals of the contest in a 10-minute span before the Vikings broke the shutout.

The Purple and Gold made it a 15-1 contest at intermission thanks to a 68 shooting percentage (15-of-22) from the field.

Twelve different Tigers scored a point in the win over the Vikings, led by Kelly Thomsen and Hattie Fogarty who notched five points each. Thomsen scored once and assisted on four goals, while Fogarty scored twice and assisted three times.

Preston Cooper scored four times for the Tigers in the win. Grace Zechman added four points with one goal and three assists. Thomsen also won seven draws, while Fogarty scooped up six ground balls. The quarter of Caroline Roncalli (3-0), Molly Morris, Brianna Young and Amanda Jenkins limited the defense to four shots and saving three. As a team, the Tigers shot 19-of-30 (63 percent) on the day.

Sewanee Baseball Falters in Rubber Match Versus Lynx

The Sewanee baseball team captured a Saturday doubleheader split with a 15-4 win over the Lynx of Rhodes College in game one. In game two, the visitors defeated the Tigers, 8-6, from Montgomery Field.

Sewanee scored early and often in the first game of the twinbill, as the team posted a run in each inning but the sixth.

Jack Galanek brought the first run across on a bases loaded free pass, while Jake Woolard notched an RBI single to make it a 2-0 affair after one complete inning.

The Tigers tacked on a run in the second thanks to some help by the Lynx's defense. After Trey Akins flew out to center field, Riley Brandvold tagged to third, but because of a fielding error by the shortstop, Brandvold scored easily.

In the third, Woolard sent a fly ball over the right field wall to make it a 5-0 contest.

Sewanee put the game away in the fourth with a seven-run frame. Woolard and Chris McNulty each posted two-run base knocks to lead the offense in the frame.

In the second game of the series, the Lynx scored the first run of the contest in the top half of the opening inning, but the home team responded with a two-run bottom half to claim the lead. Chris McNulty recorded an RBI single, and he later scored thanks to a Rhodes throwing error.

After a scoreless second, the Lynx recorded a big inning of their own with a seven-run inning to make it an 8-2 contest.

Sewanee tacked on a run in the fourth with an RBI by Josh Roberts.

The Tigers made it interesting in the seventh. Riley Brandvold led off the inning with a solo dinger to straightaway center field to make it 8-4.

Later in the inning, thanks to two wild pitches, McNulty cut the deficit to three runs, 8-5.

Jack Galanek made it an 8-6 contest with an RBI base hit, but the last two batters recorded outs to end the game.

The Sewanee baseball team was defeated by the Lynx of Rhodes College, 6-2, March 31 at Montgomery Field, in the rubber match of the three-game, Southern Athletic Association series.

Rhodes got the scoring going in the second inning with a two-run frame, led by Will Hertin's home run.

In the bottom half of the inning, Jake Woolard and Carter Huffman evened the score with back-to-back RBI singles.

The Lynx reclaimed the lead for good in the third thanks to a sacrifice fly before the visitors secured the victory with three more runs in the seventh.

Braxton Swanson, Jake Woolard, Carter Huffman and Jack Galanek each recorded a hit for Sewanee.

Woolard and Huffman each recorded an RBI in the contest.

With an 0-for-4 day at the plate on Sunday, Riley Brandvold's hitting streak was snapped at 15 games.

Trey Holland (3-2) tossed five innings in his start for the Tigers, allowing three runs on six hits.

Track and Field Sees New Personal Bests at Emory Classic

The Sewanee track and field teams were back in action after spring break at the Emory Classic in Atlanta over the weekend.

Clay McKnight ran to a new personal best time of 18:56.07 in the 5,000 meters, finishing in fifth overall. She is now ranked 23rd in the South/Southeast Region and seventh in the Southern Athletic Association.

Meredith Stuber earned a new personal mark in the long jump, clearing 4.85 meters. The mark is 34th in the region and 10th in the conference. Over the weekend, she also ran a 27.33-second mark in the 200 meters, missing her personal best by a hundredth of a second. She also recorded a 17.26-second time in the 100 hurdles.

Haven Watson missed her personal best mark in the 100 meters by 0.09 seconds with a 13.59-second sprint.

Kelsie Schiavone ran a 1:01.31 time in the 400 meters, finishing second among NCAA Division III runners.

Letherio Jones ran a personal best time of 51.05 seconds in the 400 meters for 23rd overall and seventh place among D-III competitors. With that run, he is currently 35th in the region and sixth in the conference.

Erbie Jennings ran a personal best in the 400 with a 53.02-second time. It is the 12th-fastest time in the SAA. He also sprinted to a 12.04-second mark in the 100.

Ash Midyett ran a 12th place finish of 1:59.30 in 800 meters.

Eastern Tiger Swallowtail butterfly

The Eastern Tiger Swallowtail butterfly is back in town. David Rowe reports seeing one in his butterfly garden last weekend. They generally show up around the beginning of April in our area and have a second brood in September-October. They have overwintered as a chrysalis on a twig or other support. We are fortunate in that they prefer deciduous woodlands and woodland edges, even flying high among trees in yards, and we have a lot of those habitats. Also, the major foodplants of the caterpillars are wild black cherry and tulip poplar, common in our area. Since the caterpillars feed at night high in the treetops, they are not usually seen, but they are similar to the caterpillar of the black swallowtail, which may be found feeding on parsley, carrots, or dill. The adult butterfly is easy to identify—very large, with the “swallowtail” tips to the hindwings and yellow forewings with black “tiger” stripes. Females have two color forms, the one just described and a black form, more common in the south. These black form females may be confused with other “black” swallowtails—Spicebush, Pipevine, and Black. Check a butterfly field guide for distinguishing features.

Freddie Tucker reports he saw a hummingbird at his hummingbird feeder on March 30, while he was out doing yard work.

Morticia

Smeagol

Pets of the Week

Meet Morticia & Smeagol

Morticia is a five-year-old black and white pit bull mix with a ton of spunk! Morticia had been at Animal Control for 4 and a half months, and she needed to be rescued. We pulled her since she has been there so long with very little attention. She is very playful here at the harbor and is enjoying her big kennel and being outside running and playing with all her toys and tennis balls. Morticia also loves attention and would be an ideal indoor dog for an active family. Morticia is up-to-date on her vaccinations, heartworm negative, and ready to be spayed.

Smeagol is a 10-month-old gray/blue cat with stunning golden eyes. Smeagol came in as a stray, but was super sweet and warmed up to the staff here rather quickly. Smeagol has a very funny habit of burrowing under his blankets and bedding. He is also very intuitive and responds well to new people, vying for the attention of anyone that walks in the door. Smeagol is very social with cats and loves his roommates in the cat suite. He is a bit indifferent about dogs, but may warm up to a laid back family dog. Smeagol is fully vaccinated, FIV/FeLV negative, neutered, and anticipating his adoption with a family that is ready for a snuggle buddy!

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for seniors and veterans. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at www.animalharbor.org. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

PUBLIC NOTICE

REPORT FOR PUBLICATION

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE OFFICE OF STATE AND LOCAL FINANCE

We have reviewed the budget submitted to our office by the Sewanee Utility District for fiscal year ending December 31, 2019, and it appears that its budgeted revenues will be sufficient to meet anticipated cash expenditures for the fiscal year; however, the District does not project revenues sufficient to produce a positive change in net position as defined by state statute.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Whan that Aprille with his shoures soote,
The droghte of March hath perced to the roote,
And bathed every veyne in swich licour
Of which vertú engendred is the flour;
Whan Zephirus eek with his swete breeth
Inspired hath in every holt and heeth
The tendre croppes, and the yonge sonne
Hath in the Ram his halfe cours y-ronne,
And smale foweles maken melodye,
That slepen al the nyght with open ye,
So priketh hem Nature in hir corages,
Thanne longen folk to goon on pilgrimages,
And palmeres for to seken straunge strondes,
To ferne halwes, kowthe in sondry londes;
And specially, from every shires ende
Of Engelond, to Caunterbury they wende,
The hooly blisful martir for to seke,
That hem hath holpen whan that they were seeke.

--Geoffrey Chaucer, Prologue to the Canterbury Tales
