Wilson to Lead Spiritual Learning Workshop

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

A new workshop at St. Mary's Sewanee will focus on providing participants with the language to talk about spiritual learning.

This Spiritual Learning Workshop will begin at 5 p.m., Sunday, June 9, and will run until 2 p.m., Tuesday, June 11. The workshop was borne from the work of Larry Todd Wilson, owner and founder of Knowledge Harvesting. Wilson has worked for more than 25 years drawing out information and insight from experts in their fields. Wilson will lead the workshop alongside Leslee Anne Terpay, who has extensive experience in spiritual direction and centering prayer.

Wilson said the catalyst for the beginning of his work was a personal need.

"After I finished an undergraduate degree, I was wondering what would happen with my career. I had a realization that if I learn everything I could learn about learning, I would not have to be concerned about jobs. It originated as a personal need, and then that became a research topic, which then became a product and a service," he said.

Now, this is used as a tool for spiritual learning around the country. Alongside the pilot workshop in Sewanee, spiritual leaders have collaborated with Wilson, using his work and presenting it in their own ways around the country to further the reach of spiritual learning.

Spiritual learning is a set of learnable skills aimed at making meaning of individual and collective spiritual transformation. During the workshop, participants will have the opportunity to learn how to have conversations that illuminate personal stories and the stories of others in the context of relationship and prayer.

In concert with spiritual leaders and his own mentors, Wilson developed the workshop to offer an opportunity to explore spiritual transformation in community.

"The main thing that an experience like this provides, especially at a place like St. Mary's, is a freedom and a sense of space to explore your story. When you invite someone to respond to a question, and you genuinely listen and honor what you're hearing, that becomes a real gift," Wilson said. "The workshop takes a topic that we may be curious about such as 'how does my growth occur.'"

Budget, Inadequate Policy Dilemmas Confront School Board

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the May 6 working session, the Franklin County School Board discussed concerns raised by the proposed 2019-20 budget. The board also took up a dilemma caused by students requesting to attend kindergarten at a school out of their zone and assessed possible liability issues resulting when parents drove students to school events. Neither of these circumstances is covered by school policy.

The budget includes no raises whatsoever, only degree advancement and step salary increases for certified employees based on years of service. At the end of the current school year, $4,622,506 will remain in the fund balance reserve, but under the proposed budget the fund balance will drop to $2,482,803 at the end of the 2019-20 school year.

"At the beginning of the year Governor Bill Lee promised a two and half percent increase in Basic Education Program (BEP) funding, but we haven't heard anything else," said Director of Schools Stanley Bean.

County Deputy Finance Director Cindy Latham said the schools wouldn't receive any additional property tax revenue because the county hasn't experienced any growth.

Complicating matters further, the school system is mandated by law under BEP requirements to devote $295,000 in "new money" for instructional salaries, according to Assistant Superintendent Linda Foster. The step increases approved by the board in February allocate $154,000 in new money for salary increases. The budget includes this amount. The budget does not include the remaining $140,000 necessary to meet the $295,000 target.

Foster proposed several possible scenarios for allocating the remaining $140,000: a 1 percent increase for all instructional employees, a 2 percent increase for all instructional employees, a graduated increase beginning at six years of service, and a graduated increasing beginning at 11 years of service.

"We compare well to other systems in the state for starting teachers," Foster said, "but we don't fare well as teachers' years of service increase." As a result, Franklin County teachers' salaries are $1,300 below the state average.

The board favored the graduated increase beginning at the sixth year of service. The cost of the increase, $166,000, would just slightly exceed the $140,000 necessary to meet the BEP requirement. Since it was a work session meeting, no vote was taken.

The board doesn't expect to receive information about the increase in BEP funding from the state until after the regular board meeting May 13. Bean said a special called meeting would probably be needed to approve the budget.

Taking up the dilemma proposed by students wanting to attend kindergarten at a school different from their zoned school, Bean asked for the board's advice.

New Bookstore Highlights

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the May 7 Sewanee Village update meeting Sarah Boykin presented an overview of the features of the new bookstore soon to be constructed on the lot between Tower Bank and the post office. As University Director of Planning, Design, and Construction, Boykin has shepherded the project from the beginning.

Discussion on design began over a year ago. The gable structure building has a spacious front porch with a wheelchair accessible ramp. Just inside the front door a transaction counter will offer light refreshments like coffee and pastry. The event area just beyond will accommodate book signings and comfortable lounging in a living room like space. Floor to ceiling bookshelves will line the wall on the Tower Bank side. The bookstore will also include a children's area.

Although Barnes and Noble will operated the facility, Boykin stressed, "This will be a small town bookstore about books, a place for readers and writers." While only two-thirds the size of the former

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School seniors display the mugs given to them as part of their induction into the school's Alumni Association.

SAS Class of 2019 Inducted into Alumni Association

The 37 members of the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Class of 2019 were welcomed to the SAS Alumni Association on May 3 during what is referred to as the "Senior Mugging," so named because each senior receives a mug with the names of all the members of the class on it as a gift from the Alumni Association.

This year's speaker was Dean of Students Laura Clay who told the seniors, "Our biggest dreams and most desired goals might just take a little more time to achieve than we want. A symphony, sweet seniors, is written one note at a time." She then led the seniors in a chorus of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," the traditional hymn of departure at SAS.

The Class of 2019 graduates on Sunday, May 19, following a weekend of year-end celebrations.

Community Project to Preserve Sewanee's Black History

This summer the Sewanee Black History Initiative is inviting all persons with roots in Sewanee's black neighborhoods to participate in our community's first-ever digitization fairs, which will be devoted to recovering, recording, and preserving the history of African-Americans on the Mountain. The fairs will be held on Memorial Day (Monday, May 27) and Friday, July 5, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days, at the St. Mark's Community Center on Alabama Avenue in Sewanee.

Digitization fairs offer several ways to preserve the historical record in digital form. We invite all persons with roots in Sewanee's black community to bring with them their memories, stories, and personal keepsakes—photographs, scrapbooks, postcards and letters, family Bibles, school records and yearbooks, trophies and diplomas—anything that reflects life in Sewanee in years past.

A team of present and former residents, university students, and staff will use scanners and cameras to make digital copies of their collections. Participants will not lose possession of their personal keepsakes. In fact, they get to keep their original materials and receive a free digital copy of them on a USB drive, which will be theirs to share with anyone they wish.

There will also be an oral history booth where participants can share their Sewanee stories about their grandparents, parents, siblings, and others and preserve those stories for generations to come. The Initiative team members will lead walks through the St. Mark's neighborhood and lunch will be served to all participants.

Finally, participants also can ensure that future generations will remember Sewanee's African-American history by donating a digital copy of their historic memorabilia to a new community digital archive dedicated to collecting, preserving, and honoring the history of the African-Americans who helped to make Sewanee a thriving and prosperous community.

For many generations the black residents of the Mountain were centrally important members of this community. They worked in the buildings of the University of

COMMUNITY CHEST THANK-YOU

To the Editor:

As of April 15 the Sewanee Community Chest wrapped up the 2018-19 fundraising cycle. While we fell just short of the $110,643 goal, which was established to support 25 local organizations this year, please know that we, as well as our grantees, are truly grateful for your generosity. Overall your donations totaled to $103,169, which is 93 percent of the established goal. Going directly to nonprofit groups that make this a better place to live, money raised this year will provide $47,045 for Community Aid, $37,400 for Children, $10,974 for Quality of Life, and $7,750 for Beyond Sewanee. Regardless of goal amounts, every dollar of your donation truly matters.

Since 1908 the Sewanee Civic Association has been raising funds to meet needs within our small town, and is the acting steward to the Sewanee Community Chest. The Community Chest has worked to raise money to support local organizations and projects that have benefited virtually everyone. It is not too late to make a gift to the Sewanee Community Chest. All money raised will go directly to our supported organizations. In years past additional monies raised in between funding cycles have been used for emergency requests as they arise; they will always go to support the mission to aid this community.

There are several simple ways to contribute: mail a check today to P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375; donate via PayPal at <www.sewaneecciv.org>; enroll in a payroll deduction if you are an employee of the University of the South; shop AmazonSmile and make the Sewanee Community Chest the beneficiary.

For more information about how you can make a difference in your community, or to read about the organizations supported, go to <www.sewaneecciv.org>.

IONA THANK-YOU

To the Editor:

At IONA's Spring Festival, from Naomi Buck Palagi's immigration poem: what I cannot say, "here in this time, in this country, safety is not/ reaching a wall, a fence, an invisible/ line, hoping to cross it and hoping/ to be arrested."

David Baker's: "When I can't bear the truth of incarcerated children,/ my brain works its magic and morphs each unique/ child into a fact, a noun, an idea I can quantize,/ theorize, mythologize, iconize, then multiply/ by x thousand, so I can bear their presence/ when I turn off the bedside lamp.// I do not know what freedom is,/ but they do."

Mary O'Neill introduced her art metaphorically: "blue - her skin drowned in an ocean of tears, storm after storm, each wave wracked her body. ... Her sorrow painted the depths of her, unseen to those who had not genuinely looked into her eyes."

Russell Fielding author of "The Wake of the Whale": "... the large amount of kelp fragments in the water gave the waves a green hue. Today the waves were red. Seeing these color-wheel opposites in the same water brought to mind the indifference of the ocean. ... The green kelp was replaced with red blood."

Adam Latham's on the sorcery of love: "I've taken to deer hunting out of season. I don't even bring my rifle. I just carry novels up my deer stand to sit in the hickories for peace of mind. ... I study passion scenes as if they might contain the secret to saving our relationship."

Edward Carlos, Sewanee

All Saints' Chapel

Sunday, May 12, the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. in St. Luke's Chapel, due to Commencement. On Sunday, May 19, the 8 a.m. service will resume in All Saints' Chapel. The 11 a.m. service resumes on Sunday, June 9.

Mother's Day at Christ Church

Just as Christ Church keeps two Easters, it also keeps two Mothers Days. The old Mothering Sunday always occurs in Lent, and the American Mothers Day always occurs in May. For many years, only Protestants made a big attempt to have special events and celebrations, but just as the day seemed to decline in popularity in some circles, it has been taken up by others. No one doubts that it has been a commercial success, but the beauty of the celebration, and the sweet history requires some study, and perhaps even prayer. So often, even local history is lost. The late A.J. Robinson, who was the long time Postmaster in Sherwood, enjoyed telling how the men in the Armed Services of the United States gathered in England to sing a song called M O T H E R. The late Howell Peebles of Tullahoma verified that the same thing happened in France, where he served. So Christ Church Montecagle honors mothers of all ages and will do so on Sunday, May 12. The sermon will reference some of the history of this day in the history of the United States.

We always have a kind of "agape meal" following the service on Sunday morning, and on special days this is especially festive. The service begins around 10:30 a.m. and always concludes before noon. We wish everyone a blessed day.

Register for SUMMA

SUMMA Student Theological Debate Society is inviting high school students entering grades 9-12 in the fall of 2019 to apply for SUMMA Debate Camp, held July 16-24 at the University of the South. SUMMA Camp is a unique opportunity for students to explore their faith through intellectual channels, meet lifelong friends, and have a lot of fun on one of the most beautiful college campuses in the country.

At SUMMA Camp, students learn valuable skills for debate, public speaking, and theological reflection. Camp is open to youth of any faith tradition who would like to understand and better articulate the Christian faith. No previous debate experience or formal theological study is necessary. Campers have a true collegiate experience, but camp is not all work. There is plenty of time left over to swim, play sports, watch movies, and have lots of great, summer fun!

For all students, the cost of SUMMA is partially defrayed through donations, grants, and an endowment. The cost to parents is $750, which includes room, all meals, and all materials.

A limited number of scholarships are available for students with demonstrated financial need.

For more information and to apply, visit <summa.sewanee.edu>, or contact recruitment specialist Walker Adams at <hwadams@sewanee.edu>.

School (from page 1)

Bean has received a number of requests which, if granted, would require an additional teacher at Sewanee and one less teacher at Clark Memorial.

"In the past if it did not affect the number of teachers, we've honored the request," said Board Chair Cleijo Walker.

Bean said in some cases refusing the request would create a hardship. He cited as "legitimate" out-of-zone requests by students who had a sibling at the school or a parent who worked there. He viewed less favorably requests based on not liking the teachers at the in-zone school.

"It's at your discretion since there's no policy," said Vice-Chair Lance Williams.

Like any skill, you never get it in a few hours. If it is something you want to deepen, you need a chance to practice and deepen your own skills. What I've learned by sitting and engaging my elders and people I respect is learning experience is also all about relationships."

Participants will experiment with proven techniques for evoking spiritual insights. They will increase awareness of spiritual growth, especially as a form of celebration to deepen joy, hope and trust. There will be small group participation with plenty of support and feedback. They will consider options to carry spiritual learning back home, build it into their own life in ways that expand and enrich, and share within the community.

To develop the workshop, Wilson said the process and his own ways of thinking about spiritual learning benefited greatly from the perspectives of others, specifically from Regan Schutz, director of programming at St. Mary's Sewanee.

"Regan really shaped how this workshop has emerged. Because she is clergy and on staff and is familiar with how the seminary views formation, she is excited about the potential," Wilson said.

"It's rewarding because I see how this moves things along and makes them more authentic. My hunch is that she will be instrumental in helping us figure out next steps."

Protect will be leading a conversation on next steps to give the workshop attendees an idea of how to apply what they learn when they leave.

"Anyone in ministry needs to know how to help hold up the mirror and help guide people to their deeper truths. People are inherently spiritual and inherently belong in community. We think we know ourselves, but we don't, and this is why religion and spirituality takes community," she said.

For more information go to <<https://www.stmaryssewanee.org/events/spiritual-learning-workshop/>>. The deadline to register is June 2.

Bean also called the board's attention to possible liability from parents driving students to school events, citing the upcoming cheer-leading camp in Florida.

"I have concerns about the cars," Bean said, "but we don't have anything in terms of policy that says, 'no.' If there's an accident, we'll get sued."

The only limitation on the practice, according to Bean, is the schools' insurance policy, which requires parents transporting students to carry high liability insurance. But Bean stressed, "If it's a school sanctioned event, we're liable regardless, whether the students travel by school bus, a rented van, or parents' cars."

Guerry Auditorium Update

The Sewanee Police Department is continuing to investigate the vandalism that occurred in Guerry Auditorium on April 27 or 28. The university offered a reward for information leading to the identification of the person(s) responsible, and SPD has received some tips since then. You are encouraged to come forward if you think you have information that might be relevant to the investigation. Anyone having information should contact the Sewanee Police Department (931) 598-1111. SPD Investigator Jody Bray will continue to follow every lead received.

The damage was significant, and it took several days to determine its full extent and develop a plan for remediation. Following determined clean-up efforts, Guerry Auditorium will be available for use this weekend as overflow and back-up space during Commencement events.

Facilities Management will continue the repair and remediation process following Commencement. It is still too early to give a timetable for completion; more information will follow as repairs are made.

Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive at Local Post Offices

The National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) will conduct its 27th annual national food drive on Saturday, May 11. The Stamp Out Hunger® Food Drive, the country's largest single-day food collection event, provides residents with an easy way to donate food to those in need in the community.

Customers simply leave their donation of non-perishable goods next to their mailbox before the delivery of the mail on Saturday, May 11. Letter carriers will collect these food donations on that day as they deliver mail along their postal routes. In Middle and West Tennessee, the donated food will be distributed to Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee and its network of Partner Agencies throughout 46-counties, ensuring that all donated food remains in the county in which it is donated.

People are encouraged to leave a sturdy bag – paper or plastic – containing non-perishable foods such as peanut butter, canned chicken or tuna and canned fruits or vegetables. Interested individuals can contact their local post office for participation information.

On Sunday, May 12, a Convocation for Conferring of Degrees will be held at 10 a.m. in All Saints' Chapel and on the Quad for the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Letters (tickets required). More than 400 students will graduate from the College, and 16 will receive master's degrees from the School of Letters. A luncheon honoring the Class of 2019 graduates will follow.

the South and its academy, cooked meals for its students, and kept the homes and children of the town's white residents. African-Americans built strong, family-centered neighborhoods and supported their own church and school. The African-American population in Sewanee once numbered in the hundreds. Sewanee—the university and the town—thrived because of their contributions. But today, as older residents have passed and younger generations have left for opportunities elsewhere, many fewer African-Americans live on the Mountain. The school, church, and many of their homes have been bulldozed. As a result, the record and memory of their lives and experiences and of how they helped shape the University and the community surrounding it are in danger of disappearing.

The members of the group organizing the events are: Shirley Taylor (Sewanee), James "Jimmy" Staten (Belvidere), Carl Hill (McMinnville), Sandra Davis Turner (Sewanee), Elmore Torbert, Jr. (Tullahoma), Jackie Duncan (Tullahoma), Doug Cameron (Sewanee), Tanner Potts (Sewanee), Robert Lamborn (Sewanee), Hannah Pommersheim (Sewanee), Nicky Hamilton (Sewanee), Sarah Sherwood (Sewanee), and Woody Register (Sewanee).

The Sewanee Black History events are sponsored by the Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation, a program launched by the University of the South to study and make known its historic entanglements with slavery and slavery's legacies. The digitization fairs are made possible by a Common Heritage grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Additional support comes from the university's Gerald Smith Experiential Learning Fund and the McCrickard Faculty Development Fund.

For more information, a Facebook page <<https://www.facebook.com/SewaneeBlackHistory/>> describes the activities. Community members can reach the Initiative by email <sewaneeblackhistory@gmail.com> or by phone (931) 598-1085.

bookstore, the 6,500 square foot facility will actually feature more shelving than the old bookstore where much of the space was underutilized.

The second floor will offer souvenir type items and textbook pickup for students, with only a small inventory of textbooks maintained onsite. Technology has streamlined the textbook ordering process, Boykin explained, with students books ordered automatically when they registered for a class.

Nine parking spaces on the post office side will serve the facility, as well as three spaces in front and bike racks.

Asked if the parking was adequate, Boykin said, "We can change the culture of driving and encourage and create a walkable community." She pointed out the ample parking at the former bookstore was largely used for events, not by bookstore patrons.

Boykin said the trend on college campuses was to locate the bookstore in the downtown area. "It will be interesting to see how it engages the community." Boykin predicted the bookstore would open by the end of the year.

Turning to other Sewanee Village news, Frank Gladu who oversees the project said the recent Tiger Tuesday fundraiser brought in $25,000. The resources are earmarked for the beautification of downtown, including amenities like chairs, landscaping, and lights. Commenting on the "cross-section of involvement" the fundraiser spurred, including quite a few student donors, Gladu said, "With the bookstore moving downtown, students have a more vested interest in the downtown area." The Sewanee Village advisory group includes a student representative.

Offering updates on the priority projects, Gladu said construction on the mixed-use food market and apartment building would begin when the developer had leased 60 percent of the apartment space and 60 percent of the retail space. The largest component of lower level of the 7,000 square foot building will be a food market with 12 apartments planned for the second floor, six studio apartments and six one bedroom apartments. The design also calls for an elevator serving the second level.

Asked about possible relocation of the Hair Depot located on the lot proposed for the mixed-use structure, Gladu said, "The Hair Depot is a vital activity area for the village. We want to retain their business and are working with the owner to identify a space for them."

In the arena of single-family housing, Gladu said Requests for Proposals for dwellings less than 2,000 square feet were under review. The Village Plan also calls for multi-family dwellings like duplexes and townhouses.

An ongoing concern regarding the Village Project has been how to deal with storm water. Providing an overview of the recently completed storm water study, Gladu said the recommendations for mediating storm water called for an "above ground approach where most of the features will be visible" rather than piping the water underground. The study can be viewed at the Sewanee Village website under the pull-down menu heading "Resources."

Offerings at St. Mary's Sewanee

On Saturday, May 18, St. Mary's Sewanee: The Ayres Center for Spiritual Development is hosting two interesting workshops and one very special free event.

June Mays, who has trained at the English Gardening School in London, will lead a day-long retreat about the "Grace in Gardens." She will talk about how to make your personal garden more spiritual, show examples of beautiful gardens she has visited, and talk about church gardens. After lunch, the group will tour area gardens, including her own beautiful garden at her Sewanee home.

A Centering Prayer Introduction, a one-day workshop, will be led by the Rev. Tom Ward. This is an opportunity for new and experienced practitioners of this ancient form of Christian silent meditation where one lets go of thoughts during periods of prayer typically lasting 20 minutes. The effect on those who practice it is an ever-increasing awareness of God's action and presence in the course of ordinary life. Ward is the retired university chaplain at the University of the South and now spends his days focusing on the contemplative dimension of the gospel, teaching Centering Prayer and leading retreats.

Both these workshops include lunch at St. Mary's Sewanee.

At 4 p.m., come share a special, spiritually uplifting experience as artist Tracy Sugg sculpts a Portrait of Christ in clay as we watch and learn. With inspirational music and remarkable skill, Sugg will create a unique sculpture of Jesus Christ in real-time. The event will be followed by a reception with light refreshments.

With an attention to detail that brings life to her portraiture and an immediacy to her figurative work, Sugg's work combines the classical beauty of the Baroque with the expression of the Impressionist. Her sculptures can be found from the United States Military Academy at West Point to a city park in Kosciusko, Miss., as well as in numerous churches, businesses, and private collections across the country and in Europe.

This event is free and made possible by underwriting from a generous donor. Reservations are requested as seating will be limited. Please call or email for details.

For more information about these events, including making reservations, call St. Mary's Sewanee at (931) 598-5342, email <reservations@stmaryssewanee.org>, or go online to <www.stmaryssewanee.org>.

Honor Flight Completes 21st Flight for Veterans

The Honor Flight of Middle Tennessee made its 21st Honor Flight on May 1. The group has now flown more than 600 veterans to Washington D.C. to see their war memorials at no cost to the veterans.

The group on this flight included World War II, Korean and Vietnam War veterans.

Twenty-seven veterans on the trip saw the World War II Memorial, where they were greeted by 200 children from a Virginia elementary school as well as being greeted by four members of the Tennessee Congressional delegation.

They went to the Korean War Memorial, the Vietnam Wall, the Air Force Memorial and saw the Changing of the Guard at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery.

The group had supper at the dining facility at Ft. Myer with the post commander. At the airport each veteran received letters from school children and loved ones in a mail call before boarding a Southwest airliner for their trip back to Tennessee.

The Honor Flight of Middle Tennessee was formed in 2008, initially as the Southern Tennessee Honor Flight. It was then incorporated as a Tennessee and IRS 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. All donations to the group are tax deductible.

Terminally ill military veterans from any conflict have top priority as long as their doctor clears them to make the trip. World War II veterans are the next in priority followed by Korean War veterans.

Honor Flight accepts applications from Vietnam veterans who are at least 70 percent disabled due to exposure to Agent Orange herbicide. Vietnam veterans then fill any open seats after World War II, Korea and terminally ill veterans on a space available basis.

A doctor and two nurses fly with the group on each Honor Flight. Wheel chairs are provided for veterans needing them. The chairs are provided for each flight by Middle Tennessee Respiratory in Decherd, Tenn.

Volunteer Guardians who fly with the veterans pay their own way. It costs about $450 per veteran to make the trip including airfare, charter bus and food. The group flies on Southwest Airlines, the official airlines of Honor Flight.

The next Honor Flight of Middle Tennessee will be in the fall of 2019. Veteran and Guardian applications are being accepted now for the fall flight.

Donations may be sent to: Honor Flight of Middle Tennessee at P O Box 1926, Tullahoma, TN 37388-1926. For more information and for Veterans and Guardian applications go to <https://honorflightmidtn.org>. For information on veterans applications call Sergeant Major (E-9) Larry E. SAS senior Bella Sun, shown here in the SAS art studio, recently received two national awards for her art.

Sun Receives Gold and Silver Medals for Art

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School senior Bella Sun recently received the Gold Medal and Silver Medal for art submitted to the Alliance for Young Artists & Writers, the nonprofit organization that presents the Scholastic Art & Writing Awards. Bella received the Gold Medal in the Architecture and Design category for "A Breathable Flower shop" and the Silver Medal in Sculpture for "Rotate." Both pieces were created under the guidance of SAS art teacher Osei Hill. Bella, a boarding student from Shanghai, China, will attend the Rhode Island School of Design (RISD) in the fall. RISD is considered to be one of the top five art schools in the United States.

Nearly 340,000 works of art and writing were submitted to the 2019 Scholastic Awards. Bella's work was selected by some of the foremost leaders in the visual and literary arts for excellence in originality, technical skill, and the emergence of a personal voice or vision. Fewer than 1 percent of the submissions received recognition.

Since 1923, the Awards have celebrated teen artists and writers from across the country. Past award recipients have included artists Andy Warhol, Robert Indiana, and Kay WalkingStick; writers Sylvia Plath, Truman Capote, and Joyce Carol Oates; and filmmakers Lena Dunham and Ken Burns.

SAS Tennis Wraps Up Successful Seasons

The SAS varsity tennis teams wrapped up their regular season play with a victory against Riverside Christian Academy. The girls' team had a commanding 7-0 win, dropping only 6 games in the whole match. In addition, Brooklynn Nichols and Hannah Moss added one more win in exhibition doubles. In the 4-3 victory on the boys' side, the second half of the line-up carried the match with wins from our No. 2 doubles team of Tim Nelson and Tanner King, No. 3 singles Tanner King and No. 5 singles Alex Brewster. With the match tied at 3-3, No. 4 Tim Nelson earned the deciding point. In addition, Caleb Simmons had a victory at No. 6 singles in exhibition play, and Brewster and Van Carlton Shanahan contributed a win at No. 3 doubles.

On April 29 and 30, the SAS teams traveled to Chattanooga for the Division IIA District 2 Individual Tournament. Tim Nelson won his first-round match against a Chattanooga Christian Academy player before falling in the quarterfinal. The doubles team of Tessa Shackelford and Anna Post won their first round against a Collegedale Academy team and then upset the No. 2 seed from Notre Dame to advance to the final. Despite a great effort, the girls fell in the championship to the top team from Chattanooga Christian School. Shackelford and Post earned All-District honors and advanced to the East Region Individual Tournament in Sewanee on May 2 and 3. In their first-round match, they handled the team from Christian Academy of Knoxville with strong groundstrokes and precision play at the net but fell in the semi-final round to the No. 1 seed, and eventual champion, from Webb Knox.

As a team, the girls finished fourth in the District and advanced to the quarterfinal round of the East Region on May 7, where they faced a dominant, top-seeded Webb Knox team. The team put forth a great effort and made Webb Knox earn every point but came up short 0-4.

The girls' team finished the season 7-4, and the boys' team finished the season 4-7. Head Coach Kelley Black commented, "I am extremely proud of both teams this year. They worked hard to improve every practice and gave it their best effort in competition. With both teams returning all players to the court next year, the future looks strong for SAS tennis."

SAS Middle School Tennis Wrap-up

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school tennis team wrapped up a successful season with a full-squad match against the rival Webb School of Bell Buckle. Boys and girls teamed up, seeded 1-10 for four singles matches and three in doubles. The unique format produced some thrilling results, with No. 1 and No. 3 seeded Grayson Cleveland and Dylan Kiningham narrowly falling in separate tie breakers, 7-6, before Cameron Crawford and Aiden Tate evened up the match with a pair of 6-0 victories at No. 2 and No. 4 singles.

The action moved to doubles, where our mixed group of Madeline Sumpter and Dimitri Sherill lost a close match at No. 1 doubles, which left it up to No. 2 and No. 3 doubles to compete the comeback. Both doubles teams succeeded, as Alex Waldrop and Judah Gallman won 6-4, and Reagan Vaughan and Melanie Val clinched the match 6-2.

It was a season of impressive growth and improvement for all of our players, and we look forward to building upon our success next year, both for our returning players and for those joining the upper school and varsity teams next year.

Cacchione Cup Results

Competing in two phases on May 5, the senior scored identical 71 scores in both the Equitation Over Fences and in the Equitation Over Flat, as she finished in a tie for 15th place out of 24 riders.

The Mequon, Wis., native qualified for the Show with a second place finish in the Cacchione Cup Zone Championships at Auburn University. She won the Fences portion while placing second in the flat.

Hill was named a Regional Champion after being named the High Point Rider for Zone 5, Region 1. Additionally, she won the Open Individual Fences at Regionals.

Prior to her classes on Friday, she met Bob Cacchione, founder of the IHSA. He posed for a photo with Hill, along with Equestrian Coach Emily Cavender and Director of Equestrian Karine Gordy.

Hill becomes the fifth student-athlete from The University of the South to compete in the Cacchione Cup at the National Championships. She becomes the first since 2015 that a rider competed for the Cup.

NATURENOTES

by Yolande Gottfried

Trees Along the Road

We have returned from a trip involving much interstate travel in Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Tennessee, and the roads have been lined with black locust in abundant bloom. This appears to be a particularly heavy year for flowering of this tree, as has been observed in our area. Black locust is a native of the southern Appalachians and the Ozarks, but has been planted all over the country and spread widely into areas where it is sometimes considered to be invasive. It can spread by root suckers and form colonies that are hard to eradicate where it is not wanted. It is a tree of disturbed areas, which makes it abundant on roadsides. The flowers are a favorite of bees and very fragrant. As can be seen from the fruits, it is in the legume family and therefore nitrogen-fixing in the soil.

Another tree that was flowering heavily along our route was black cherry, notably under attack by tent caterpillars. These form a silken nest in the crotches of branches from which they emerge to feed on the leaves. They can defoliate an entire tree in a matter of weeks, and cherry and apple trees are their favorite food source. The adult is a small, brown, hairy moth.

Both the black cherry and the black locust are native trees, but occasionally we saw the princess-tree, Paulownia tomentosa, a native of China and Korea. It has become naturalized in the Mid-Atlantic and Appalachian regions in disturbed areas. The large upright clusters of purplish flowers are quite notable in the spring. The "princess" for which it is named is Anna Pavlovna of Russia, a queen consort of the Netherlands in the 1800's.

John McCardell reports, "On May 5, around dusk we spotted an albino skunk in the front yard of Chen Hall. We got close enough for photos but stayed far enough away to avoid risk."

Pets of the Week Meet Lucy Lou & Catalina

Lucy Lou is an eight-year-old Chihuahua/Dachshund mix (Chiweenie) with a sweet temperament and young spirit. Don't let her age fool you, she is in great health and still has a lot of life left in her. Chiweenies have a life expectancy of 16 years. Lucy is in the shelter due to her owner passing away- so she needs a place to go where she can feel secure and loved again. Lucy would do best in a single dog home without any large breed dogs. She would be a great addition to any family willing to take on a pet with a bit of age and maturity. Lucy is spayed, up-to-date on vaccinations, heartworm-negative, and ready to find a home she can live out her glory years.

Catalina is a one-year-old grey torbie (tortoiseshell-tabby) cat with a small body, but a big personality. Catalina is very friendly and demands your attention when you walk her way. She loves to rub on you and receive continuous petting. If you are looking for a cat that is going to be your loyal companion and snuggle buddy, we feel she fits the bill. Catalina is FIV/FeLV negative, up-to-date on vaccinations, spayed, microchipped, and ready to find her forever home. Come stop by the shelter and meet this sassy kitty; we are certain you won't regret it.

Graduation Weekend

There is a life-force
Within your soul,
seek that life.
There is a gem in the mountain of your body,
seek that mine.
O traveler, if you are in search of that,
don't look outside,
look inside yourself and seek That.
