County Commissioners Change Votes, Budget Approved

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Aug. 19 special called meeting, the Franklin County Commission approved the 2019-20 budget and the 20.5 cent property tax increase needed to support county expenses. Three weeks before, at the July 29 special called meeting, the commission rejected the same budget. Three commissioners changed their votes, giving the proposed budget the majority needed to pass.

On July 29, the commission voted to reduce expenses by $358,000. This reduced the tax increase needed from 24 cents to 20.5 cents. The budget still failed to receive enough votes.

On Aug. 5, the Finance Committee reviewed the budget and decided to return it to the commission unchanged from the July 29 version.

On Aug. 19, three commissioners who voted against the budget on July 29 changed their votes—Gene Snead, Lydia Curtis Johnson, and Carolyn Wiseman.

Prior to the vote, Snead said, “We received a letter today from the state comptroller stressing the necessity of and our responsibility to pass a budget so we can provide services to the citizens of the county.” If the county had failed to pass a budget by Aug. 31, the state would have intervened.

“The budgeting process has been arduous,” Snead said. Among controversial issues were the raises received by all county employees except school system employees. Snead suggested going forward, all county employees should receive raises. He also argued the percentage basis for

Rotaract Club in Action

*by Bailey Basham
Messenger Staff Writer*

Last year, the Rotaract Club of Sewanee had a goal of raising $20,000 for the American Cancer Society. After working for months to prepare for the event, the group was able to donate more than $37,000. Planning is currently underway for the second annual Relay for Life, which is scheduled for Oct. 26 on Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium, Sewanee.

The Relay for Life honors those who have passed from or are battling cancer, cancer survivors and their caregivers. Though the club prioritizes planning for the relay, they are busy year-round working to raise money and awareness for other causes as well.

Last year, the club partnered with the Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary Club to support the work of the Hunger Walk. This raised more than $25,000 for the Community Action Committee (CAC) in Sewanee and the Morton Memorial UMC Food Ministry in Monteagle.

Jenna Land, who serves as the community service chair for the Rotaract Club, works to bridge the gap between the Sewanee community and those on campus. One of the projects she found to be a success is Treats for Troops.

Caroline Sweetin, president of the Rotaract club, said in the past, the club has raised money for Global Health Charities, which works to prevent deaths that occur in mothers and newborns who do not have access to hospitals, health-care resources and clean supplies.

“I think it’s really important for younger generations to know the effects that cancer has on our families and friends and our communities. In a community as tightly-knit as Sewanee, it seems that it has a farther reach. They’re placing the

SUPPORT LOCAL FIRST

To the Editor:

I would like to add my testimony to the latest conversations regarding the need, or not, of having a whole foods store in Sewanee.

As a 25-year resident of this marvelous, close knit community, I would like to add that being on a very restricted, non-additive diet, I had little access to natural foods with no chemicals, until Mooney's opened their doors. Now, I go there weekly to buy organic foods, coffees, teas, and toiletry items (such as toothpaste, soap, etc.) as well as delicious, locally grown organic fruits and vegetables, even plants, flowers, and gifts for all ages. Where else could you buy a cantaloupe the size of a watermelon for only $3? Or the wonderful flowers they have in their greenhouse every spring? If someone wants meats or poultry which are not carried by Mooney's, they simply have to sign up with the South Cumberland Farmers' Market, place their order on-line, and pick it up at the Community Center. We should support our local businesses first and foremost rather than bringing in another business that does the same thing, potentially hurting what is already working so well.

Not only do I not see the need for a whole foods store in downtown Sewanee, but I feel we should support Mooney's. We are a unique village in that we care greatly for one another and we should support our wonderful, local community first.

SNAKE AND TAPE

To the Editor:

Today while flattening boxes for a trip to the Dump, what should appear but a small grey snake with a red head; a kind often found in our garden. The snake was stuck onto plastic sticky tape sent by Amazon.

All my life I've been squeamish about snakes—poisonous or not. Growing up in Mobile, coral snakes were familiar to me; small, with red, yellow, and black bands. Boy Scouts knew "Red and yellow kill a fellow. Red and black friend of Jack." Adjacent red and black bands meant a harmless King Snake; red and yellow meant a poisonous coral snake.

Coral snake venom is toxic, but fortunately, coral snakes have no fangs, just small teeth. This stuck snake was for certain harmless. It would die if I did nothing and might die, if in trying to unstick it, I killed it. With a paper towel I gently pried it loose. The snake slid under the porch.

Poor little creature, poor us, in a world of crap made for our convenience.

Oehmig to Lead Labyrinth Retreat at St. Mary's Sewanee

"When external events compel us to look outward, it is precisely the time when we need to look inward," according to Margy Oehmig, who will lead the retreat, "A Labyrinth Journey: Connecting Your Creativity through Walking and Writing," Sept. 6-8, at St. Mary's Sewanee. Joining her to lead the retreat will be Terry Price.

Through a blend of walking the St. Mary's Sewanee labyrinth, creative writing and journaling, and time for quiet and reflection, the retreat will help participants learn new ways to incorporate the labyrinth into their life. Although no writing experience is necessary, seasoned writers will learn how the labyrinth can enhance their practice.

The labyrinth is a meditative tool, Oehmig said, that offers healing and transformation within its path toward integration and wholeness. Unlike a maze which is designed to block the way and cause confusion, the labyrinth has a single, circuitous path that leads to the center and back out. A metaphor for life and the spiritual journey, it is full of twists and turns as it, time after time, winds its way close to the middle before returning to the outer perimeter.

This retreat is a chance to "come together with others of like mind, to get away in an idyllic setting, away from the routine, the requirements, the numbing repetition of existence, to find and reclaim our art and, therefore, ultimately our lives," Price said.

Oehmig, who lives in Chattanooga, received her training as a labyrinth facilitator at Chartres Cathedral under the tutelage of Lauren Artress, author of "Walking a Sacred Path." She has long been drawn to the labyrinth as a contemplative tool and uses it in combination with her Centering Prayer practice to quiet the mind, still the body, and listen to the quiet voice within. She holds a master's in fine arts in art history.

Price is a writer, photographer, and labyrinth facilitator who holds a master's in fine arts in writing from Spalding University in Louisville. His writing has appeared in many publications including The Trunk, The Tennessee Writer, the Timber Creek Review, New Southerner, The Best of New Southerner and 2nd & Church. His essays have been nominated twice for the Pushcart Prize.

"A Labyrinth Journey" begins at 5 p.m., Friday, Sept. 6 and ends at 11 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 8. For more information or to make reservations, call St. Mary's Sewanee at (931) 598-5342, email <reservations@stmarys-sewanee.org>, or go online to <www.stmaryssewanee.org>.

Christ Church

On Sunday, Aug. 25, at Christ Church Monteagle, Bishop William Millsaps will explain the meaning of Church Concordats over the centuries. This is a follow-up to the visit and signing of a Concordat between The Anglican Church in North America and The Episcopal Missionary Church, which was proposed and signed in June of this year. It is also in anticipation of the upcoming visit of Bishop David Simpson and Bishop David Epps of The Charismatic Episcopal Church. In 1994, the new and rapidly growing CEC responded to an invitation to meet with The Episcopal Missionary Church and engage in mutual ministry, even though the two church bodies were quite different in terms of liturgy and music. This relationship has grown stronger, and The Charismatic Episcopal Church has spread to Latvia and the Philippines and many other nations.

The liturgy on Sunday at Christ Church begins around 10:30 a.m. and a lunch always follows. We are trying to be very careful in terms of safety during our construction work. It is best to park in the parking lot and then come up the front sidewalk.

We also play host to various activities on Saturday and if you see cars there, you can always come in for a bottle of water or a soft drink.

Barbara Mann Goodson

Barbara Mann Goodson, age 85, died on Aug. 13, 2019, in Buda, Texas. She spent her childhood in Marshall, Texas, attended Hollins College and the University of Texas, where she met Mercer, a student at the Episcopal Seminary of the Southwest. After graduation, they married in 1954, and she began her role as the wife of an Episcopal priest, active in multiple roles—Sunday School teacher, prayer shawl ministry, choir member, Community of Hope—in the parishes in Texas and Louisiana where they served together. They retired and moved to Austin in 1992, where she was a dedicated member of St. Elizabeth Episcopal Church in Buda.

When in Sewanee, she was lovingly welcomed by Otey Parish Church. She loved tennis, knitting prayer shawls, and games of all kinds. She was also proud of having passed the CPA exam after her children had left the nest.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Jack and Mary Mann; her husband, The Rev. Mercer-Logan Goodson; and her brother, Jack Mann, all of Marshall and Longview, Texas.

She is survived by her children, Liz Goodson Russell of Los Angeles, Calif., John (Melissa) Goodson of Sewanee, and Steve (Paula) Goodson of Buda, Texas; sister, Mary Ann Armstrong of Baton Rouge, La.; five grandchildren, and numerous nieces and nephews.

The family appreciates the amazing love-givers at Sodalis, Austin Geriatric Specialists, Red Bud Home Care, and Magnolia Hospice.

A memorial service in celebration of her life will be at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, Aug. 29 at St. Elizabeth Episcopal Church, 725 FM 967, Buda, Texas. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations be made in her memory to: St. Elizabeth Episcopal Church, P.O. Box 292, Buda, Texas 78610, or a charity of your choice.

Imagination Library Continues to Improve Children's Reading Skills

As of August, 78.53 percent of children in Grundy County who are age 0 to 5 are receiving an Imagination Library book every month. This number is much higher than the statewide average of 70 percent. One year of enrollment in the program with 12 books mailed to a child's home costs $26 per child. The Governor's Books from Birth Foundation pays 50 percent of the cost and the remaining 50 percent is funded by donations to the Rotary Club's Imagination Library Program by local citizens, businesses, and charitable foundations. Tax-deductible donations to the Grundy County Imagination Library may be made to the Grundy Rotary Service Fund, P.O. Box 1903, Tracy City, TN 37387. To donate online, go to <GovernorsFoundation.org/Give>. Be sure to designate Grundy County for the donation. Your donation of $13 provides one child with 12 books for one year. A $65 donation provides a child with the entire program of books until age five.

Eighty percent of the brain development of a child occurs before age three. Learning to read during this period increases the chances of success for the child in later life. Reading with the child increases parent involvement with the child which results in better family relationships and less behavioral problems for the child. Children who have been engaged in the program also have better relations with classmates when they start school. A child who is read to by a parent three or more times a week is twice as likely to achieve reading scores in the top 25 percent of students. Teachers praise the program, saying the reading skills with which children are beginning school are substantially better. Children who have gotten these books read better in higher grades and also seem to get along better with classmates. Reading skills are essential to the success of individuals, regardless of trade or career choice. Nearly one-half of correctional facility inmates cannot read or write and 85 percent of juvenile offenders have reading problems.

How can you help support this outstanding program?

If you know of a child age 0-5 who is not enrolled, ask the parent or grandparent to drop the Grundy County Rotary Club a line at P.O. Box 1903, Tracy City, TN 37387. Children can be enrolled online at <<https://www.governorsfoundation.org>> or locally at the Grundy County Health Department. Our children need to get these wonderful, age-appropriate books each month. The Rotary Club of Grundy County must raise approximately $8,000 a year to fund this outstanding program. Your donations will help us keep these books coming to the children.

Wilson Named CEO of STRHS Winchester and Sewanee Campuses

Southern Tennessee Regional Health System (STRHS) today announced that Cliff Wilson has been named chief executive officer (CEO) of its Winchester and Sewanee campuses, effective Aug. 26. Wilson, who has served as the hospitals' chief operating officer (COO) and ethics and compliance officer since April 2017, replaces retiring CEO Russ Spray.

"Cliff is a highly experienced healthcare leader who has proven himself to be a key champion for operational excellence and enhancing quality and patient safety," said Robert Wampler, president of LifePoint Health's Mountain Division, of which STRHS is a part. "He has been an integral part of the STRHS leadership team since he joined in 2017, and we are confident in his ability to continue to accelerate the hospitals' momentum in the years ahead."

In addition to his most recent role as COO, Wilson also served as interim CEO of the STRHS-Lawrenceburg campus from November 2018 to March 2019. A long-time leader within LifePoint Health, Wilson served in several roles at Rockdale Medical Center, a former LifePoint facility in Conyers, Ga., prior to his time at STRHS, including as assistant administrator; senior director, physician services; group practice administrator and regional director. Before that, he was director of professional recruitment and development for Southeastern Integrated Medical, PL in Gainesville, Fla., and market manager for HCA Physician Services in Gainesville.

"The board is very excited about the appointment of Cliff Wilson as the next CEO of STRHS - Winchester and Sewanee," said Eric Hartman, chairperson of the board of trustees. "Cliff has already demonstrated his commitment to the well-being of our communities and to the medical staff and employees of Southern Tennessee Regional Health System. He recruited an effective administrative team as our COO, and he's had the benefit of working with a seasoned and effective CEO, Russ Spray. While we will miss Russ and greatly appreciate his steady leadership, it's easy to move forward knowing that Cliff will lead us. He is uniquely suited to carry on the hospitals' legacy of providing high quality care, and the board has full confidence in his leadership abilities."

Wilson earned a Master of Business Administration in Healthcare Management from Western Governors University in Salt Lake City, Utah, and a bachelor's degree in business administration from the Warrington College of Business at the University of Florida in Gainesville. He lives in Franklin County with his wife, Stephanie, and they have four children. He is a member of the Franklin County Chamber of Commerce and, along with his wife, a graduate of Leadership Franklin County.

"I am so thankful for Russ Spray and his tremendous leadership at STRHS. I am excited to have the opportunity to carry on his work and lead these campuses into the future," said Wilson. "We have an incredible team of employees, medical staff, volunteers and board members, and I look forward to continuing our work together to enhance patient safety and quality care for our neighbors and advance our mission of Making Communities Healthier."

allocating raises was unfair to "employees who make the least and have the most difficult time paying bills," and he proposed the county consider not replacing employees who retired or resigned, reducing the number of employees by relying on technological efficiency.

Prefacing her vote, Wiseman said, "Because I am an employee of a Franklin County Department, I have a conflict of interest in the proposal about to be voted on. However, I declare that my argument and my vote answer only to my conscience, and to my constituents, and to the citizens this body represents."

Commissioners Scottie Riddle and Chuck Stines, likewise county employees who voted for the budget, prefaced their votes with a similar conflict-of-interest statement.

Commissioners Johnny Hughes, Helen Stapleton, Barbara Finney, Doug Goodman, David Eldridge, and Dale Shultz also voted to approve the budget.

Commissioners Sam Hiles, Adam Casey, and Greg King voted, "no." Commissioner Angie Fuller passed.

Before the vote on the property tax increase, Commissioner David Eldridge, who serves on the Finance Committee, said, "Many commissioners were in favor of a sales tax increase rather than a property tax increase. A sales tax increase must be approved by a referendum. It is not off the table. It just wasn't an option we could look at."

The same commissioners who voted to approve the budget voted in favor of the 20.5 cent property tax increase, with Hiles, Casey, and King opposed and Fuller passing.

Property is taxed at 25 percent of assessed value. For a $100,000 home, 25 percent of assessed value is $25,000. For every $100 of that $25,000 the tax will increase 20.5 cents, for a total increase of $51.25.

Following the meeting Fuller, chair pro tempore, said she would have voted if necessary to achieve a majority. She stressed her constituents for the most part supported the 11 cents of the tax increase needed for the new middle schools and would have gone along with as much as a 15 cent increase, but 20 cents was too much. Citing objections to the budget, she pointed to $2 million being allocated to complete the new jail when only $700,000 was needed.

emphasis now on research and preventative measures just so we have that knowledge and we know how deadly of a disease this is," Sweetin said. "For us, being able to rally the community around work for the Relay for Life is huge."

This year's relay goal is $50,000.

This event will take place from 4 p.m.-8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 26, at the Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium. # Register for the Fifth Annual Hunger Walk Food insecurity exists in every county and congressional district in the United States. Food insecurity is defined as not having reliable access to adequate nutritious food. Those that experience food insecurity may not necessarily be insecure at all times during the year—often times families are forced to choose between paying bills or other expenses like buying medicine, and buying groceries to feed themselves and their families.

Hunger issues that people face are intertwined with many other prominent issues in this country. Hunger and access to healthy foods play a large roll in rates of chronic health problems such as diabetes and heart disease, as well as many more. Minorities, children, the elderly, and those living in rural areas are statistically more likely to suffer from food insecurity.

Seventeen percent of rural households are food insecure. Compared to an average of 15.4 percent food insecure nationwide overall, rural areas are more highly affected.

There are numerous organizations dedicated to addressing the problem of food insecurity in the community, including the Grundy County Food Bank, Morton Memorial Church and the Community Action Committee. Through a joint effort in the fifth annual Hunger Walk, the Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary Club and Grundy Rotary Club hope to raise awareness about these hunger issues as well as raise money to help end them.

The best way to support The Hunger Walk is to be a community partner through sponsorships. By donating $250, businesses and individuals can become a partner and have their logo/name featured on Hunger Walk posters and participant T-shirts.

Another way to help out is to walk, showing your support. Registration is free for children under 12, $15 for students and $25 for adults. Register to walk at <www.thehungerwalk.com>.

Registration may also be completed on the day of the walk, Saturday, Sept. 28, at Angel Park in Sewanee. Registration begins at 8 a.m. with the walk starting at 9 a.m. Each walker will receive a T-shirt and a “Hunger is not a Game” sticker.

For more information, go to <www.thehungerwalk.com> or <www.facebook.com/SewaneeHungerWalk/>.

Planning Underway for an Isaiah 117 House for Children

Plans are underway to create an Isaiah 117 House for Coffee, Franklin and Grundy counties said Susan Johnson, who works for Discover Together.

“Ronda Paulson, Executive Director and Founder of the Isaiah 117 House, started this project in Carter County, a little more than a year ago,” said Johnson. “When children are removed from their homes out of concern for their welfare, they are usually taken to the Department of Children’s Services (DCS) to await placement with a foster family. This wait can be several hours to nearly a full day.”

Johnson said “the Isaiah 117 House wants to provide a comforting home where these children can be brought to wait, in a place that is safe with friendly and loving volunteers who provide them with clean clothes, smiles, toys, and snugly blankets. This space will allow children to receive the comfort and care they need while DCS staff are able to do the necessary paperwork and identify a good foster placement.”

“In March, I heard Ronda Paulson speak at the Children’s Advocacy Day’s in Nashville, said Johnson. “I kept thinking that this doesn’t happen in Grundy County. I have always thought the children in our county go to extended family members; however, there is still a lot of work to be done by DCS staff to ensure that the placement is safe-family or not. It can take hours for a child to be placed with a family.”

“Ask yourself this question, ‘Where do children in Grundy County go while awaiting placement?’ Remember, Grundy doesn’t have a Department of Children’s Service office. Children in Grundy County sometimes are removed at the courthouse and are then taken into the room behind where the judge sits; driven off the mountain to a DCS office; or sometimes the children are taken to the county jail to sit with DCS staff while awaiting placement. DCS staff is with the child the entire time. DCS does everything that they can do to find the child a safe placement while watching the child,” she said.

“The Isaiah 117 House can help DCS staff and the child. The message that we want children to receive is they have done nothing wrong, and they are loved, all while reducing the trauma for the child,” she said.

The Isaiah 117 House will serve Grundy, Franklin, and Coffee counties. The first step in the approval process was having an official meeting with DCS to make sure that they wanted and needed these services. “I am excited to say that we have received approval from DCS to move forward with this project,” she said.

The Second Expansion Committee Meeting will be held at 10 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 7, in the Grundy County High School cafeteria. This meeting is open to everyone. If anyone has any questions and would like more information, contact Johnson at <susan@isaiah117house.com> or check out the Facebook for updates and information at Isaiah 117 House Coffee Franklin Grundy.

Exhibit at State Museum Examines Women's History

Between 1870 and 1945, Tennesseans struggled to find ways forward through economic upheavals, social changes and international conflicts.

Featured artifacts document the tremendous changes that occurred in how people lived and worked.

Exhibits highlight how African Americans resisted segregation and disenfranchisement, and Tennessee women fought for the right to vote.

Learn how Tennesseans shared the nation's challenges in World War I, the Great Depression, and World War II and see artifacts such as World War I hero Alvin C. York's Medal of Honor.

The Tennessee State Museum is located at 1000 Rosa L. Parks Blvd., in Nashville. There is no admission charge to the Tennessee State Museum's permanent and temporary exhibitions.

‘Our Own Hunger: Photographs of Kitchens’ and Workshop at SAS

The SAS Gallery at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will open the 2019-20 gallery season with photographs by Pradip Malde. Malde's show "Our Own Hunger: Photographs of Kitchens" will be in the SAS Gallery through September 30, with a public artist's reception from 4 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 5.

Malde's masterful photographs depict kitchens from Haiti, Jamaica, Cuba and Tanzania. As Malde explains, "Kitchens are the center of any home and can present indicators of economic and social position." These photographs are both lush and starkly beautiful. They honor the families whose nourishment grows from these kitchens, and yet they point to the injustices of systematic poverty within their communities. The work in this show invites the viewer to contemplate this disparity. St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Gallery is delighted to offer the first public viewing of this new and on-going body of work that Malde began in 2010.

Pradip Malde is a photographer and professor at the University of the South. Much of his work considers the experience of loss and how it serves as a catalyst for regeneration. He is currently working in rural communities in Haiti, Tanzania, and Tennessee, designing models for community development through photography. Works are held in the collections of the Museum of the Art Institute, Chicago; Princeton University Museum; Victoria & Albert Museum, London; Yale University Museum; and the Scottish National Portrait Gallery, Edinburgh, among others. He was won many awards including a Guggenheim Fellowship for the Creative Arts in 2018.

Malde was born in Arusha, Tanzania in 1957. His parents were the children of Indians who emigrated to East Africa, and after having established a privileged life in Tanzania, fled from the turmoil that spread through that region in the 1970s. Concerned about loss and belonging since then, he has come to think of artifacts as membranes, where what may be explicit and immutable begins to lead us into the realms of memory and meaning, and ultimately, understanding the experiences of others.

In conjunction with the SAS exhibit, Pradip Malde will offer a one-day public photography workshop, Photographic Vision: Bringing What We Imagine into an Image, on Saturday, Sept. 7, 9 a.m.–3 p.m. In the workshop, participants will consider the fundamental controls of photography and how a photograph can be made to be eloquent. One should bring a camera (smart phone or DSL) to use and all necessary connectors. The $25 fee includes lunch. For more information and to register, contact the SAS Gallery at <sasgallery@sasweb.org>.

SAS Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.–3 p.m., and by appointment. For more information about St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, visit <www.sasweb.org>.

This particular project is made available not just to the jail art classes but to a wider group of inmates. The goal is to have an art show featuring these works.

The SAS varsity girls' soccer team in action.

Girls' Varsity Soccer Team Falls to Community School

On Aug. 20, the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School girls' varsity soccer team lost to Community School 5-1.

The Mountain Lions goal was scored by Sarah Grace Burns on a penalty kick that was earned by a great run in the box from Verena Pate.

According to SAS Coach Camp, "The team worked hard and showed a lot of improvement throughout the game."

The team's next game will be Friday, Aug. 23, when they travel to The Chattanooga School for the Arts and Sciences.

Middle School Soccer Victorious on the Road

The SAS middle school girls' soccer team kicked off the season with a convincing win over Westwood on Aug. 20, in Manchester. While their overall balance and strategy helped them to control the game flow, there were several standout performances that put the Mountain Lions over the top as they emerged with a 3-0 victory.

Drew Delorme had two goals, both of which were assisted by Caroline Neubauer from the midfield, while Nailah Hamilton and Melanie Val did an excellent job of anchoring the defense to key the shutout. Elizabeth Perkins also scored an unassisted goal, and Sarah Brewster made several terrific runs for scoring opportunities in her debut at forward.

The Mountain Lions continue their season with another away tilt at Lincoln County before coming back for two home games the first week of September.

Swimming & Diving Announces 2019-20 Schedule

Announced by head coach Max Obermiller, the Sewanee men's and women's swimming and diving teams have released its 2019-20 schedule.

Sewanee will start the season on the road on Oct. 12 with a dual meet with Life University in Marietta, Ga.

At the end of October, the Tigers will host the Sewanee Invitational on the 25th and 26th.

Following a week off, Sewanee will remain at home facing Southern Athletic Association foe Berry in a dual on Nov. 9.

The next weekend, the Purple and Gold will be in the State of Kentucky. On Saturday, Nov. 16, the Tigers will tangle with the Colonels of Centre in a dual. The next day, they will take on Transylvania.

The Tigers return home for the final time in the Advent Semester the following weekend, Nov. 22-23, with the Igloo Invitational.

The semester action concludes on Dec. 7-8 with the Transylvania Invite.

Following Christmas break and the team's annual mid-season trip to Puerto Rico, Sewanee will have two duals in the month of January. The home slate concludes with a contest with Birmingham-Southern on Friday, Jan. 10.

The regular season concludes with a dual with cross-state rival Rhodes on Jan. 18.

The 2020 SAA Championships will take place once again in Birmingham, Ala., at the CrossPlex Aquatic Center Feb. 12-15. With Millsaps officially adding swimming and diving as a varsity sport in 2019-20, seven of the eight SAA charter members will represent themselves at the conference meet.

Both the men's and women's teams finished in fifth place at last year's SAA Championship meet.

NATURENOTES

by Harry and Jean Yeatman

Green Heron

Kayak Journey

On Saturday, Aug. 20, Jean Yeatman made a four-hour kayak paddle from the base of Tim's Ford Lake to Farris Chapel Bridge. "While we were waiting to start," Jean said, "a little green heron flew up and started to fish. Then we looked up to see 90 or more tree swallows on a power line; they followed us down-river, flying low, catching insects. Later we also saw several kingfishers. There were also fly fishermen catching trout," she continued.

The group saw many watercress farms along the way, and "this may have caused the water weeds to cover the river bottom," surmised Jean, "as there were no mussels to be seen, because they need a gravel bottom."

The banks were covered with many flowers: Cardinal Lobelia, Joe Pyeweed, Ironweed, Green-headed Coneflowers, tal Pink Phlox, two kinds of Black-eyed Susans, Yellow Wingstem, Bindweed, Clematis and Goldenrod. "So it was a spectacular day," Jean concluded.

From the Aug. 26, 2011 issue, in Jean Yeatman's honor on the anniversary of her death this week, Aug. 20, 2015.

Registration Open for Tennessee Naturalist Program

The Friends of South Cumberland are now enrolling students in the 2019–20 Tennessee Naturalist Program (TNP), which begins in September.

TNP is a series of 10 four-hour classes, designed to introduce adult learners to the natural history of Tennessee. Graduates will join a group of volunteers who provide nature education, outreach and service to the South Cumberland State Park.

Classes are offered from September to November, and from February to May, and are usually held on Saturday mornings. Classwork is divided between lectures, hands-on activities and many hours of outdoor immersion. Topics include geology, forests, plants, mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians, aquatic ecosystems, trail building and interpretation. In addition to classwork, 40 hours of volunteer work are required to receive the Tennessee Naturalist certification. The fieldwork portion of the course can be physically demanding, with off-trail hikes on steep hills and rough terrain, and some night activities.

The class of 22 is expected to fill quickly. Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Cost of the program is $250 per person for current Friends members. Non-members may participate for $275, which includes a year's membership in the Friends. Participants receive a field notebook, hand lens, and a jump drive containing all class materials.

To learn more or to register, visit <https://www.friendsofsouthcumberland.org/tn-naturalist-program.html>.

Monk

Zenyatta

Pets of the Week Meet Monk & Zenyatta

Monk is a three-year-old pit mix. Monk got his name from his coat color and serious facial expressions! Monk is a very big boy, but just one big teddy bear that demands your love and attention. Animal Harbor staff recognizes huge potential in this very friendly, gentle dog. Monk has some skin sensitivities, and with regular maintenance and a quality diet, Monk will continue to thrive in the future. Monk would be a great fit for a wide variety of families willing to put the time and energy into his needs. He is great with other dogs and doesn't mind cats, but his large size and strength may not be well suited for a home with small children unless he is thoroughly trained to respect boundaries. Monk is fully vaccinated, heartworm-negative, microchipped, and neutered. Come see Monk today. He will certainly leave you with a big smile!

Zenyatta is a 10-week-old dilute calico kitten. Zenyatta is a small kitty with a lot of spunk. Named after a winning race-horse, we think she is destined for greatness. Zenyatta is a playful kitty that would love to go into a loving home with a family that will give her a second chance at life. Zenyatta is up-to-date on vaccinations, FIV/FeLV negative, and awaiting her spay and microchip procedure when she becomes old enough. Zenyatta is ready to go into our Foster to Adopt program. Ask us how you can start the process of adoption today!

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at www.animalharbor.org. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

A Weed next door
Lives happily Persuaded of
Her liberty

Each morning
When the sun is low
She says to herself
I choose to grow

Each evening
When the Moon is bright
She says to herself
I choose the night

Each time she bows
Before the Wind
She says to herself
I choose to bend

And when at last
She wilts and dies
I'm sure she'll choose
To fertilize

The Contented Weed, by Scott Bates
