

'Home' Photo Art Work Wanted

All levels of photographers are invited to submit their work by Oct. 20, reflecting the theme "home" to the Historic Downtown Tracy City Window Gallery's Second Exhibition.

Photographers of all ages and experience from Grundy, Franklin and Marion counties are eligible to submit. The theme is open to a variety of interpretations. Photographers' exploration of the theme may include, but is not limited to, locale, symbols, memory, buildings, objects, nostalgia and people. The photographs entered may answer the question, what is your notion of "home" and what best represents it. A holiday event will be held in conjunction with this exhibition in December.

Entries will be accepted until Oct. 20, and the selected works will be on view in the windows of downtown Tracy City from Nov. 17–Feb. 28.

The exhibition is made possible by Tennessee Arts Commission and hosted by local businesses in the windows of Depot Emporium, Annex Cafe, Grundy County Historical Society Museum, Citizens Tri-County Bank and Dutch Maid Bakery.

Send entries in jpeg format to <grundyareaarts council@gmail.com>. Contact Emily Partin at (931) 235-5576 with questions.

MES students pose with an edition of The Hornet Nation newsletter.

MES Response to Intervention

Each school in the state is following a mandate called Response to Intervention (RTI). This is a time for all students to get the support they need whether it be remediation on a specific skill or enrichment for students that are already working on grade-level.

Seventh and eighth graders at Monteagle Elementary School (MES) are working on project-based learning during their RTI time each day. These students are becoming journalists for the school newsletter. They have support and guidance from their teacher, but they lead their own group work, learning how to work independently and constructively with partners.

This year, these two classes will be writing, editing and printing the school's newsletter, which they have named The Hornet Nation. They also write a separate newsletter for the younger students in grades Pre-K through fourth grade called Hornet Nation, Jr. So far the seventh grade has put out two issues and soon the eighth grade will be taking over for two issues.

The students choose their own topics and do research and interviews to gather information. Topics so far have included hurricane relief, the Mountain Goat Trail, local sports teams, school events, Bluegrass Underground, and many more. They are learning about writing to specific audiences and for specific purposes. The young journalists along with fellow students and staff of MES are extremely proud of the hard work they are putting into their articles.

The Places Project

by Bailey Basham
Messenger Staff Writer

The way mountain folk are often portrayed in the media can be anything but kind. Margo Shea, a Connecticut-born, Massachusetts-bred Mellon fellow with the Sewanee-Yale Collaborative for Southern Appalachian Studies, was all too familiar with the stereotypes. And, these are the standards she hoped to reshape with her work.

"The focus of a lot of mountain communities is on what's wrong with them, and I wanted to change that story. I wanted to showcase the things people in Sewanee are most proud of, and what defines them, made into this beautiful map," she said. "All of the communities on the Mountain are really characterized by long-standing roots. Sewanee families are legacies. There are people who are the great grandchildren of alumni. I wanted to let people highlight that," Shea said.

From her work as a Mellon Fellow with the collaborative came "The Places Project: A Crowd-Sourced People's Map of the South Cumberland Plateau," which is fueled by the stories of locals about their most-loved "places" around the Mountain.

"I just realized as soon as I arrived that people's relationships to their places went really deep on the Mountain. I am really interested in getting people to participate in the construction of the identities of their communities, and I hadn't seen anything like it before," she said. "I was really intrigued and inspired by people's connections to their communities. They talked about great grandparents and cemeteries and when they look around their landscape, they see traces of their family. To be able to map, name and

Fire Hall Community Potluck

The Jump Off Fire Hall will celebrate fire safety week with a community potluck and clean-up day on Saturday, Oct. 14, from 3–5 p.m. The Fire hall will supply main dishes and beverages —bring a side dish or dessert and bring a friend. This is a great chance to see your neighbors and support your first responders.

Sewanee Review Publishes 500th Issue

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

The Sewanee Review has published one issue, four times each year, for 125 years, and with this fall's issue, the nation's longest running quarterly literary magazine, rolled out its 500th edition.

To commemorate the milestone, the Review will host a public reception on Oct. 26 at Convocation Hall featuring a reading by fiction writer Ben Fountain, a National Book Award finalist and National Book Critics Circle Award winner. The event starts at 8 p.m. and will also boast readings by authors Sidik Fofana, Justin Taylor and Elizabeth Weld, in addition to Sewanee faculty and staff.

"The 500th reading is a great chance for people to hear not only an interesting mix of writers, but also, Ben Fountain; he's a big deal," said Review editor Adam Ross. "We're lucky he's coming."

Starting in early 2017, The Sewanee Review launched a new design and altered its direction under the leadership of Ross, a novelist and former journalist in Nashville. The revamp garnered fresh attention for a literary magazine that some saw as waning and a June article in The New York Times, "New Life for a 125-Year-Old Literary Journal," gave the Review a significant boost in subscriptions and public interest.

"The New York Times article had an instrumental impact on us," Ross said. "In terms of subscriptions it was bar none."

The publicist for best-selling novelist James Patterson contacted the Review the day the article came out and Patterson made a sizeable donation to the Review, a practice the author is known for to promote reading.

Review managing editor Alec Hill added that because of the publicity from The New York Times article, the magazine had to reprint its spring issue and upped its print run for summer.

Since Ross assumed the helm, the magazine's individual subscriptions have greatly increased and total subscribers are at about 1,200 people and 300 institutions.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A PEDIATRICIAN

by Amy Evans, M.D.

WE OWE THANKS

To the Editor:

Our community and University owe a big thanks to the first responders from Grundy County, South Pittsburg and Sewanee after the horrific wreck on Jump Off Road near Franklin Forest a couple of weeks ago. They saved 11 young lives with their efforts. Special kudos to Doug Cameron and crew for clearing a landing zone for the four brave chopper pilots who came from Vanderbilt, Murfreesboro and Chattanooga, in order to fly the injured to area hospitals. Thanks to the efforts of all, no lives were lost. We are very grateful.

Tommy Hewitt, Sewanee

WHAT PRICE PEACE?

To the Editor:

More than 58,000 American lives were lost some years ago in a God-forsaken place halfway around the world called Vietnam.

Now comes a madman to take 58 civilian lives on American soil. Where does it end?

It is my firm belief that as long as a widespread/global lust for power and money prevail, the killing and human misery will continue and increase.

No amount of gun control and legislation will forestall that.

Lies, confusion and deception all lead to the same place as do incivility, intolerance and man's inhumanity to man. These are givens borne out by history.

Only love can change a heart(s).

Don Shannonhouse, Monteagle

I recently saw a 7-year-old who had received an allergy shot in my office and complained of a sore throat, had a facial rash, and a large local reaction at the site of injection. I was immediately concerned about the possibility of an anaphylactic reaction and examined her in the hallway in my office. The mom was in the reception area and I asked my nurse to bring her to a room so I could get further history about her child's sore throat and rash.

The child's mom, whom I have known for over 10 years, did not want to come to a room. So, in the hallway, I asked her questions about the sore throat and rash. The first thing this mom told me was "I have a huge deductible and already owe $1,000 to my doctor and I cannot afford a copay." My mind was completely focused on the possibility of an emerging anaphylactic reaction, and this comment was completely disorienting. I told the mom, "forget the deductible and co-pay, I won't charge for this." The child had a sore throat for several days and the facial redness was an exacerbation of eczema in this very allergic child. Fortunately, the child was not having an anaphylactic reaction. However, it took my time and expertise to determine this. And, I did not charge for this service.

The next day I called the mom to learn more about her situation. She recently decided to stay at home with her three children and the family relies on her husband's income and health insurance through his employer. The insurance plan they chose has a very high deductible, so they essentially pay for their health care out-of-pocket, while the insurance company takes their monthly premium as potential profit.

When the words "deductible" and "co-pay" even enter a parent's mind when they have a sick child, it shows that the USA does not have the best health care in the world. Let's not kid ourselves. Our current health care system often fails the children and families that I see. Reform is needed if we are to change the current profit-driven disease management system that influences our day-to-day interactions in providing "health care." We should consider all proposals that would propel us towards universal health coverage, whether that be a single payer system or overhauling existing programs.

The recent attempts to take coverage away from millions and the failure to reauthorize vital children's health programs like the Children's Helath Insurance Program (CHIP) are the opposite of what my patients need. We must continue working to protect the coverage that exists and make access and affordability a reality for everyone.

Amy Evans, M.D. FAAP, is Associate Clinical Professor of Pediatrics, Vanderbilt School of Medicine; Clinical Instructor, Primary Care Clerkship, Yale School of Medicine; and a pediatrician at Sewanee Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine.

Curbside Recycling

Residential curbside recycling pickup in Sewanee is on the first and third Friday of each month. Friday, Oct. 20, will be a pickup day.

Recyclable materials must be separated by type and placed in blue bags by the side of the road no later than 7:30 a.m. Please do not put out general household trash on this day. Blue bags may be picked up in the University Lease and Community Relations Office, 400 University Ave. (the Blue House) or at the Physical Plant Services office on Georgia Ave.

Josh and Anne Thomas are celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary on Oct. 13. In May 1947, they met at a church in Crisfield, Md., pastored by Anne's father, after Josh had been discharged from the Army. It was love at first sight, and they married six months later. They moved to Cleveland, Tenn., so Josh could attend Lee College, and lived there for 68 years. They moved to Monteagle to be closer to their daughter, Joan, in 2015. They chose Oct. 13 as their wedding day because it was Josh's day off.

Fifth Annual Fannie Moffitt Autumn Stomp in Altamont

The fifth annual Fannie Moffitt Autumn Stomp (FMAS) in Altamont is Saturday, Oct. 14. This year the community is celebrating their Native American heritage with a program by The Red Road Ministry of Franklin, Tenn. The performers will be demonstrating and teaching various ceremonial dances, have artifacts to tell about and give a history of the Native American Culture. The tribe will perform at 1:30 p.m. in front of the Grundy County Courthouse on Cumberland Street in Altamont.

The day will begin with the Fannie Moffitt 5k Fun Run. Registration will begin at 7 a.m. at the Altamont Church of Christ on Fitchtown Road (also called Beersheba Street on Google) with the run beginning at 8 a.m. Entry fee is $20 for adults and children are free. If the children want a T-shirt, the price is $10. For information about registration or the run please contact Dee Dee Hawk at (931) 235-3417.

All other festivities begin at 10 a.m. The arts, crafts, food, cruise in, museum, quilt display and Little Fannie Land will be open all day. Moffitt Manor will be open all day and the quilt display is in the Woodlee House. Both buildings are on the Historical Register.

Another feature that brings great interest is the Fannie Moffitt Hat Contest. Registration is from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. with the participants gathering at the gazebo in the Altamont Veterans' Memorial Park (old Courthouse square) for the hat parade that goes down Cumberland Street and ends at the Florence Scruggs Auditorium, where Wayne Rollins a.k.a., Burt Parks of the Fannie Hat Contest, will chat with contestants and announce the winners. There are four categories for this competition: most Eccentric (colorful, flashy, peculiar and flamboyant) $100 prize, Most Classic (Traditional and timeless) $75 prize, Most Original (creative and inventive) $50 prize and new this year, best child's hat (creative, fun, and made by the child without a lot of adult intervention) $25.

One very special feature of the FMAS is at noon, everything will shut down to observe our patriotic program. We will all gather around the courthouse, say the pledge, Grace Spicer will sing the National Anthem and there will be a brief honoring of the fallen soldiers.

For a complete schedule of events, go to <https://www.facebook.com/FannieMoffittAutumnStomp/>.

All Saints' Chapel

Growing in Grace will continue Sunday evening, Oct. 15, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints' Chapel. Melanie Rowell, a senior in the School of Theology, will be the speaker. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members with student-led acoustic music, guest speakers, and Holy Communion. This Advent semester, our Growing in Grace speakers will address the times in life in which we are compelled to take "The Long Road." What pushes us to take the more arduous path when a shortcut is readily available? What do we encounter when we take a "scenic route" on our journey? We hope to explore these questions and many more this semester at Growing in Grace. Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> with any questions or more information. We hope to see you there.

The Catechumenate continues Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Bairnwick Women's Center. Dessert and coffee will be provided. Catechumenate, from a Greek word meaning "learning and exploring," is a place where we explore what it means to be a human being and what it means to be a person of faith in our community. This is a great place to meet new people and build relationships. Food, prayer, questions, and conversation power this process. Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

All Saints' Chapel Fall Break Schedule—Next Sunday, Oct. 22, we will only celebrate the eucharist at 8 a.m. in All Saints' Chapel, while the University is on fall break. Morning and evening prayer will also be suspended during this time and will resume Wednesday, Oct. 25, beginning with morning prayer at 8:30 a.m. in St. Augustine's Chapel.

Christ the King Anglican

Christ the King Anglican Church invites everyone to attend its Fall Fest and Craft Sale at 9 a.m.–2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 28. The event will be at 1231 Cumberland St., in Decherd, across from the co-op. There will be arts and crafts, bake sale, a treasury of books table, botanical offerings and the CtK Cafe. Ninety percent of the proceeds will benefit the Christ the King building fund. The other 10 percent will be tithed to a nonprofit group in Franklin County.

Otey Parish

In Christian Formation at 10 a.m., Sunday, Oct. 8, the Lectionary Class will explore Sunday's gospel in the Adult Education Room. Children ages 3–11 are invited to meet their friends for Godly Play. Youth Sunday School will meet in Brooks Hall. Infants 6 weeks to children 4 years old are invited to the nursery beginning at 8:30 a.m. until after the second service. At the Adult Forum on Sunday, the Rev. Rob Lamborn will facilitate a reflection on stewardship.

On the day of this interview, the staff at the magazine was anticipating the arrival of the 500th issue, which is currently online. This magazine includes another cover created by acclaimed designers Peter Mendelsund and Oliver Munday and is one of the longer issues in Review history.

"It may be at the Post Office, we're dying to get our hands on it," Ross said.

The Review has broadened its variety of writers and content, including more female writers and people of different ethnicities. That expansion is displayed in the 500th issue, which also includes historical photos and copy.

"We tried to toggle a little between not only re-echoing some of the changes that we made, but also nod a little bit to history," Ross said.

The issue includes photos of past covers and historical artifacts like pay ledgers for famous authors Ezra Pound, Cecil Day-Lewis and Sir Frank Kermode, and a table of contents that lists authors like Merrill Joan Gerber and legendary Southern writer Flannery O'Connor.

The Review has published the works of a slew of literary legends, a few include T.S. Eliot, William Faulkner, Sylvia Plath and Eudora Welty.

A photo of Allen Tate's first cover from the 1940s is also included in the new magazine. Tate, along with managing editor Andrew Lytle, are credited with boosting the Review's prestige in the 1940s with a stable of acclaimed writers.

As part of its current incarnation under Ross, who took over after long-time editor George Core retired, The Sewanee Review has returned to bookstores. Three new editorial assistants at the magazine, all 2017 Sewanee graduates, have been busy contacting bookstores across the country.

The new assistants said working for the Review is a tremendous opportunity to immerse themselves in the literary world and advance their own writing and careers. Spencer Hupp, who writes poetry and hails from Little Rock, Ark., is among the three new employees.

"This publication and its reputation is the reason I came to Sewanee," Hupp said. "I wanted a place with an established literary culture and the Review is sort of the genesis of that literary culture in Sewanee."

In addition to poring through submissions and editing, the editorial assistants also perform interviews, write blog posts and act as talent scouts, keeping their eye out for burgeoning authors to add to the magazine.

Editorial assistant Anne Adams, who hails from San Antonio, Texas, and writes fiction, said she enjoys reading work from writers that she admires. She recently interviewed one of her favorite authors, Alice McDermott.

The third new staff member, Walt Evans, who is from Birmingham, Ala., and also writes fiction, was recently able to review Jennifer Egan's new book, "Manhattan Beach."

"Getting that advanced copy, which was really cool, kind of made me feel like an insider because I've been reading her for a long time," Evans said. "Her last novel was one of the ones that really inspired me when I was getting my degree."

The practice of hiring new Sewanee graduates and promoting from within is something Ross said he would like to continue as long as possible. Hill, a 2016 graduate and now managing editor, was promoted after joining the staff last year. He also has a nonfiction piece slated to appear in the magazine in 2018.

William Peterfield Trent, a literary critic who taught at Sewanee and later was an English professor at Columbia University, founded The Sewanee Review in 1892.

place fishing holes and favorite walks really invited folks to rethink their own perspective on what it means to connect to natural beauty."

Shea's work was focused around giving locals the chance to tell their own stories—to remove themselves from the narratives written by others and to instead pick up the pen for themselves.

"There is something about being from a small town that makes you very visible and people think they know everything about you. Having the opportunity to narrate your story on your terms to someone who isn't going to say 'That's not how it happened' is special. A guy told me a story about proposing to his wife at Vespers point and someone said 'which wife?' That's something I didn't throw in his face because I didn't know, not being from there. A lot of times people say you can't do community engagement if you don't know a community really well," she said. "I contend that not knowing can also work in your favor as long as you come in knowing you don't know."

Anna Summer Noonan, class of 2017, joined the project in its early stages after taking a class with Shea.

"It was after this experience that Dr. Shea reached out to a couple of students and me about the chance to continue working on the project throughout spring semester as an independent study. One aspect of the Places Project that I was really drawn to was the ultimate goal of taking the research back into the community from which it came," she said. "This is such an important project because it creates a space where all stories of the places around the South Cumberland Plateau can be heard and valued. I am excited to see the permanent exhibit on display and to see the online platform being utilized by community groups and schools."

Shea said one of her biggest takeaways is noting that special Sewanee magic that seems to be in the air.

"It's a rare and beautiful thing to be in a place where you feel really confident and sure that if you need help, you will be helped, if you are lonely, you will find someone to be with. It's not perfect, but I think people step up for each other in a really unique way," she said.

The Places Project, according to Shea, was designed with its evolution mind—people in the community can add to the map to continue the story.

Boost Your Brain and Memory Course

Folks at Home, in partnership with Mather LifeWays Institute on Aging and the National Village to Village Network, is offering the greater community the opportunity to participate in the "Boost Your Brain and Memory" (BYBAM) program. Thanks to funding from the Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee and Serving Our Seniors Tennessee, we are able to provide an eight-week session of the BYBAM course in Sewanee. The session meets each Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a.m., Oct. 24–Nov. 16. The course will meet in the Sewanee Community Center. Typically this program is offered at a cost to participants, but thanks to the grants listed above, there is no cost for the sessions. Participants may contribute a $10 donation for their BYBAM course workbook.

This group will meet twice weekly for an hour. In each session, a new topic on brain health is introduced. Sessions are comprised of a review of the previous week's content and goals, a short video with discussion, memory activities, and goal setting for the week ahead. Subjects covered include healthy eating, physical activity, social engagement, stress alleviation, mindfulness and memory strategy activities. "Promoting lifestyles that encourage health, fitness and community engagement is part of the Folks at Home mission," states Kathleen O'Donohue, F@H Director.

To register online, use this Google Form link <<https://goo.gl/forms/Bm24yqmuvxDR4DbQ2>>, or by phone at (931) 598-0303. Preregistration is required.

For more information, please call Folks at Home at (931) 598-0303, or website <folksathome.org>.

University Announces New Legal Counsel

University of the South Vice-Chancellor John McCardell has announced the appointment of Lucy Singer as legal counsel to the University, effective Nov. 1.

As legal counsel, Singer will be responsible for advising University administrators on a wide variety of legal matters, including compliance with university policies and applicable laws, and identifying and minimizing the University's legal risks. She has been at the University of Vermont (UVM) since 2005, and has served as deputy general counsel there since 2016.

At UVM, Singer has provided legal services on a wide variety of higher education legal issues, including human resources and employment, student affairs, contracts, and statutory and regulatory issues, including Title IX. Her previous experience includes service at Southern Illinois University as well as with a law firm focused on education and employment law.

Lucy Singer has a bachelor's degree from Southwest Missouri State University, an MSW from Washington University in St. Louis, and a JD from St. Louis University School of Law.

"I want to thank Provost Nancy Berner and the members of the Search Advisory Committee who assisted me in the challenging task of finding a successor to Donna Pierce, who will retire in December," said McCardell. "We have reached a very favorable outcome."

DREMC DIY Workshops

Have you ever wanted to learn how to make your home more energy efficient by caulking, weather stripping or applying foam insulation?

DREMC, in conjunction with TVA, will be offering Do-It-Yourself workshops offering hands-on training to members who want to lower their energy use. Led by DREMC Energy Advisor Pat Garrett, these workshops will offer participants an opportunity to not only learn about, but to actually practice using various energy-saving tools.

All workshops begin at 6 p.m. and will last approximately one and a half hours with light refreshments being served. The workshops are free, but space is limited. Participants must register by calling (931) 680-5883 or emailing <hblanton@dremc.com>.

Scheduled workshops include:

- Oct. 17, DREMC Manchester Office, 209 E. Fort St., Manchester;
- Oct. 18, DREMC Decherd Office, 1738 Decherd Blvd., Decherd;
- Oct. 19, DREMC Columbia Office, 798 New Lewisburg Hwy., Columbia;
- Oct. 24, Church Street Church of Christ Annex, 305 West Church St., Lewisburg;
- Oct. 25, DREMC Shelbyville Office, 1411 Madison St., Shelbyville;
- Oct. 26, Lynchburg Masonic Lodge, 101 Main St., Lynchburg.

Official groundbreaking ceremonies will take place on Monday, Oct. 23, for the downtown Tracy City portion of the Mountain Goat Trail. The ceremonies will begin at 4:30 p.m. in downtown Tracy City, across from the Grundy County Historical Society. The 1.2-mile section of the Mountain Goat Trail will extend from Tracy City Elementary School to the town city hall. It is the first of three sections of the trail which have been funded for construction, and which will connect Tracy City to Monteagle with a combined 6.2 miles of paved trail.

Grundy County's Nonprofit Arts and Culture Industry Mean Business

A recently released statewide report by the The Tennessee Arts Commission, working with 10 participating nonprofit arts and cultural organizations including the Grundy Area Arts Council, states that the nonprofit arts and culture sector is a significant industry in Grundy County, generating $1 million in annual economic activity.

The report, The Arts & Economic Prosperity 5 (AEP5), shows that Tennessee's nonprofit arts and culture industry generates $1.17 billion in annual economic activity, supporting 38,482 full-time equivalent jobs and generating $837.8 million in household income plus $135.9 million in local and state government revenues.

Data collected from 642 participating nonprofit organizations across the state included 14,915 audience participation surveys. In Grundy County, the 10 participating organizations collected 440 audience surveys from event attendees that indicated there were 16,920 arts and culture visitors to Grundy County in 2015.

When the nonresident survey respondents were asked about the purpose of their trip, 86.3 percent said the primary purpose of their visit to Grundy County was "specifically to attend this arts/cultural event." In Grundy County, cultural attendees spent an average of $37.79 per person, per event, as a direct result of their event attendance.

As a result of attending a cultural event, attendees often eat dinner in local restaurants, pay for parking, buy gifts and souvenirs, pay a babysitter, and often stay overnight in local lodgings. In Grundy County, these dollars support 16 full-time equivalent jobs and generate $105,000 in local and state government revenues.

"The AEP5 demonstrates that nonprofit arts and culture is a significant industry in Tennessee—a driver of employment and vibrant communities making Tennessee an attractive place to visit, work and live," said Anne B. Pope, Executive Director of the Tennessee Arts Commission.

Nationwide, the AEP5 reveals that the nonprofit arts and culture industry produces $166.3 billion in economic activity annually, as well as supporting 4.6 million full-time equivalent jobs and generating $96.07 billion in household income.

Mentors Needed to Work with TN Promise Students

With only seven weeks remaining, tnAchieves, the partnering organization that administers Governor Haslam's Tennessee Promise in 84 counties, needs 4,000 more mentors to meet its goal of providing every Tennessee Promise applicant from the Class of 2018 with a local support system.

Each Tennessee Promise applicant is assigned a volunteer mentor who assists the student in eliminating the barriers associated with post-secondary access and success. tnAchieves mentors support students as they navigate the college process and provide the nudges many need to earn a college credential.

"Tennessee Promise provides the platform to shift our culture in Tennessee," said Krissy DeAlejandro, Executive Director, tnAchieves. "Every student should have the opportunity to reach his/her potential by earning a college credential. Mentors help the student shift the mindset from 'if college is an option' to 'where I plan to graduate college.'" tnAchieves asks mentors to give one hour per month to high school seniors as they transition from high school to college. The organization provides training, a handbook and weekly communication to ensure the mentor is fully equipped to serve his/her students.

Franklin County needs 43 more mentors to meet student demand. The deadline to apply is Dec. 1. The application can be found at <www.tnachieves.org>.

"The heart of our program is mentorship, providing the student with someone from their community who serves as a resource and an encourager," said Graham Thomas, Deputy Director of Engagement and Partnerships, tnAchieves. "Many Tennessee Promise students are the first in their families to pursue college. This makes the mentor even more important to a student's success."

Launched in 2008, tnAchieves is a privately-funded scholarship and mentoring program that seeks to provide an opportunity for every Tennessee student to earn a post-secondary degree.

For information on tnAchieves, contact Graham Thomas at (615) 604-1306 or <graham@tnachieves.org>.

Diplomas Available for Veterans

For any World War II, Korean War-Era or Vietnam Veterans: If you did not receive your high school diploma due to entry into the Armed Forces of the United States, you may now be awarded a high school diploma by your local high school.

Tennessee state law allows for the awarding of high school diplomas to the honorable men and women who stepped forward to serve their country.

Veterans who fall into this category should contact their local school superintendent to register their name and to request the awarding of a high school diploma. You will have to present your military discharge papers.

If a veteran needs assistance, contact Sergeant Major Larry E. Williams at (931) 924-3000 or (931) 224-3226, email at <tennesseans2@blomand.net>.

FCAG Opens 'New Beginnings' Art Show

Franklin County Arts Guild (FCAG) brings a new show from one of the members of the Artisan Depot in Cowan. The Artisan Depot is an outreach of the Guild and provides a venue for local artists to exhibit and sell their work as well as a place for emerging artists of all ages to display their work. The reception is 5–7 p.m., today (Friday), Oct. 13, at the Artisan Depot. Everyone is invited and light refreshments will be provided.

This Member Show features the work of a retired teacher of two decades of High School Art, Gretchen McCance. Gretchen says, "The Arts Guild has been such a wonderful asset for me since moving here four years ago. A major adjustment, after moving to Georgia since the early 60s and in Atlanta since early 70s. I was active in an art guild and other art associations in the Atlanta area and was so happy when I learned about the Franklin County Arts Guild. The members not only have welcomed me but have encouraged me in so many ways to keep working on my art. In addition to teaching, I did portrait commissioned work, so I am now branching out into other subject matter. Hence: A New Beginning for both, moving and new subject direction."

Gretchen would like to thank the Arts Guild and their members for being there for her.

Gretchen maintains a studio in Winchester, and Blue Ridge, Ga. Although she has been drawing and painting since she was a child, she began her formal training at Augusta State University then graduated with a B.F.A. from The University of Georgia in Painting and drawing, and a Masters in Art Education from Georgia State University. Gretchen's broad knowledge of art and ability lets her portray any subject with striking accuracy, creating work powerful and sensitive to both beauty and design. She is also well known for her portrait work.

Past exhibits, awards and private collections include: The Macon Museum of Art (merit award), Augusta State University, University of Georgia, Georgia State University (merit award), Louisiana State University (National Juried Show), Agnes Scott College (merit award), Albany Museum of Art (purchase award), Days Inn Corporate Offices, Miller brewing company Corporate Offices, Game and Fish Publications, and more. Gretchen is married to artist/professor (retired) Don McCance and has one daughter, singer/songwriter Alisa McCance Bieck, son-in-law songwriter/recording producer Greg Bieck and two granddaughters.

The Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 204 Cumberland St. East, Cowan. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. Human Bondage after Emancipation

I enjoy taking looks at several books in one column, but Douglas Blackmon's writing made such a powerful impression that I chose to devote this space to his 2009 Pulitzer Prize book, "Slavery by Another Name: The Re-Enslavement of Black Americans from the Civil War to World War II."

The author, raised in the Mississippi Delta, was the Wall Street Journal's Atlanta Bureau Chief when he researched this well-written work. In straightforward prose, sometimes lyrical, often painfully harsh, we read how poor black men were routinely snatched up and tried on false charges by cooperative courts, assessed fines they could not afford, then sold for costs to farms or industry, the money going to various officials. The information is well documented by court records, deeds, newspaper articles, dissertations and interviews. My single complaint is that indexing is not as thorough as we need for re-checking details.

Blackmon's account of re-emerging human bondage is grounded in one family's story. At Henry and Mary Cottenham's 1868 Bibb County, Alabama courthouse wedding, we feel their optimism that freedom will bring comfort and safety. Slaves had built Elisha Cottingham's plantation (the spelling of their master's name was modified by freed slaves), and Henry hoped some day to own a small portion of nearby land as a symbol of freedom and prosperity.

During the Civil War, Elisha's slaves and their descendents became part of the southern industrial world with his investment in Brierfield Iron Works, a profitable operation supplying material for ironclad ships. The Confederacy bought the property, including its slaves, rented 200 more and impressed others into service. Thousands became masons, blacksmiths, furnace workers and miners. Some expert laborers with specialized skills were leased for $500 per year.

Closer to home, in 1861 Arthur S. Colyar put slaves to work in his concern, Grundy County's Sewanee Mines. Blackmon reports 40 men; other sources cite more. Colyar's business was later sold to the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company (TCI). In 1908 that firm leased Green Cottenham, whose story closes his family's saga.

During Reconstruction and beyond, many slave laborers lost the limited protection previously afforded owners' private property. Workers were replaced via arrangements among sheriffs, judges and government. Chronicles of TCI's Alabama mines detail whippings, severed limbs, a deadly form of water boarding; the ubiquitous shackles were modified into instruments of torture.

President Theodore Roosevelt's promised "square deal for the negro {sic}" brought hope to African Americans, but political reality prevailed. He took Booker T. Washington's advice to appoint the moderate Thomas Goode Jones to a federal judgeship, but his White House meal with Washington elicited unprintable vitriol from politicians. Disappointingly, in 1906 Roosevelt pardoned John W. Pace, who had been tried several times for peonage (compelling work to pay off a debt). Court records showed Pace's cruelty to workers supplied over two decades by county government cronies for his Alabama farms, quarry and sawmill.

The Cottenham family story ends in 1908. Now a widow, Mary was a washerwoman living in a rented house in Shelby County, Alabama, site of the thriving mining industry. At 20, her unemployed son Green hung out at the railroad station shooting craps. On March 30, 1908, a deputy charged him with unlawfully riding a freight train and vagrancy. He was sentenced to 3 months hard labor and fined $38.40. Fines were paid by TCI in return for convict labor in their mines. Likely ill when he began, Green's name soon appeared in a misspelled company record: "August 15, 1908: Death of Green Cunningham {sic}." He was buried near the mine gates.

Blackmon documents the practice of forced servitude through the 1920s, 30s and early 40s until World War II. As Japan's propaganda urged blacks to solidarity with "the yellow race," the federal government demanded stronger law enforcement and anti-slavery statutes. In 1951, Congress passed explicit laws against any form of slavery.

In a memorable conclusion, Blackmon sternly takes specific individuals, industries and governments to task for an ignominious history. He asserts, "No one who reads this book can wonder as to the origins, depth, and visceral foundation of so many Africans' fundamental mistrust of our judicial processes." Proposing that "The Age of Neoslavery" replace the term, "Jim Crow Era," Blackmon declares, "The clock must be re-set."

This intriguing, challenging book is of interest to us all as we continue to review our community's past and our country's history of institutionalized slavery and its aftermath.

Deathtrap: A Thriller Comes to Manchester

Arriving on Friday the 13th and ending in time for Halloween, Millennium Repertory Company presents Deathtrap: A Thriller in Two Acts by Ira Levin. This suspenseful mystery runs Oct. 13-22, Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:00 p.m., at the Manchester Arts Center Theater, located at 128 East Main Street. Tickets, $15 for adults and $13 for students, military and seniors, are available at <millenniumrep.org> or by calling (931) 570-4489.

The "thriller about a thriller" is full of twists and turns, murder and deceit. Dark comedy and frightening action round out this production for an evening of true entertainment. When once-successful playwright Sidney Bruhl watches his latest play bomb on Broadway, he's ready to give up—until he receives an amazing (and unpublished) script from his former student, Clifford Anderson, titled "Deathtrap." Despite the urging of his wife Myra, Sidney decides to claim the script as his own. From beginning to end, "Deathtrap" begs the question of both the players and the audience: "Would you kill for success?" Contains language and some comical situations that may be unsuitable for some audiences.

'Childhood, Fairy Tales, and Folklore'

At 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 15, on the Guerry Auditorium stage, Jessica Usherwood, soprano, will present a faculty recital in collaboration with Bernadette Lo, piano.

Usherwood and Lo will present songs of childhood, fairy tales and folklore. The program will include selections from Charles Ives, Bernstein's "I Hate Music!," Poulenc's "La courte paille," Brahms' "Volks-Kinderlieder," and Wolf settings of "Mörrike and Goethe."

'Anton in Show Business' Continues

Theatre/Sewanee will present "Anton In Show Business," a comedy by Jane Martin, Oct. 13-14, at 7:30 p.m., in the Tennessee Williams Center.

"Anton in Show Business" is a madcap comedy which follows three actresses across the footlights, down the rabbit hole and into a strangely familiar wonderland that looks a lot like the American theatre. In the tradition of great backstage comedies, Anton conveys the joys, pains and absurdities of producing Chekhov's "The Three Sisters" in Texas.

A Sewanee soccer player controls the ball against Millsaps on Oct. 8.

Sewanee Nips Majors

The Sewanee women's soccer team defeated Millsaps in a Southern Athletic Association (SAA) contest on Oct. 8, downing the Majors 1-0 at Harper Davis Field in Birmingham.

The Tigers came out striking in the first half, taking six shots in the first 45 minutes.

In the 32nd minute, Doris Ellis found the back of the net for her first goal of the season.

Sewanee (5-6-1, 3-1-0) limited Millsaps (1-10-1, 0-4-0) to five shots in the contest, three on goal.

Savannah Williams (3-1-0) earned her second clean sheet, saving those three Majors shots on goal.

Sewanee returns to the Mountain to play against Hendrix today (Friday) at 5 p.m. at Puett Field.

In Nailbiter, Millsaps Gets Past Tiger Volleyball Team

The Sewanee-Millsaps volleyball season series went to a five-set battle for a second time this season, but the Majors prevailed again, defeating the Sewanee volleyball team in the Hangar Dome in Birmingham on Oct. 8.

Just as in the first chapter of the 2017 series, Millsaps got out to a 2-0 set lead thanks to 25-12 and 30-28 set victories.

In the thrilling second set, Sewanee (8-10, 2-7) rallied from an 18-13 deficit and went on a 9-4 run to tie the contest at 22 points apiece.

Millsaps (10-9, 5-4) earned the next two points on two kills by Shelby Marsh, but the Tigers rallied to tie the set again at 24 with an Olivia Nichols kill and a Millsaps attack error.

After the teams traded their 25th points of the set, the Tigers got the match to set point after a Destiny Stewart kill, but the Majors, following a timeout, knotted the score again at 26 after a Millsaps block.

Stewart gave the Tigers the set point again, but on the next rally, Millsaps tied it again at 27 off an attack error.

After the Majors made it 28-27, the Tigers' Stephanie Price posted a block to even the score at 28. However, the next two points belonged to the Majors, who won the set 30-28.

After the exciting second set, the momentum shifted to the Tigers, who took the third and fourth sets by identical 25-22 scores.

In the deciding fifth set, the Majors used a 13-3 rally en route to a 15-6 set and match victory.

Stewart led all teams with 22 kills and 17 digs for her sixth double-double of the season. In her 18 matches of the season, she has posted 17 double-digit kills and six matches with more than 20 kills.

Sewanee's Mason Gardella also had 10 kills, one solo block and four block assists. Peyton Parent finished with 29 digs, while Constance Connolly finished with 16 digs and 22 assists.

Elizabeth Gill had nine kills, while Olivia Nichols posted 10 digs.

Tigers' Field Hockey Wins on Senior Day

The Sewanee field hockey team opened Southern Athletic Association (SAA) play on Oct. 7 with a 6-1 win over Ferrum on Senior Day at Puett Field.

Prior to the start, seven Sewanee seniors were honored: Virginia Barry, Monica Bueso, Ellen Copper, Madison McAdams, Emily Sloan, Katya Waters and Katie Wilson.

Sewanee (5-3, 1-0) got the scoring going in the 12th minute with a Katie Wilson shot from Virginia Barry's penalty corner.

Ferrum (1-10, 0-3) would respond over a minute later, as Kiani Mohica struck for her fifth goal of the year to even the score at one goal apiece.

The Tigers was able to counter in the 26th minute, as Ceara Caffrey found Katie Wilson's pass for her eighth goal of the year to give the Purple and Gold the 2-1 advantage at the 35-minute mark.

After the assist in the first half, Barry was not done. She scored her third goal of the year off a Ferrum deflection 2:23 into the second half.

In the 60th minute, Wilson scored her second goal of the match and third of the 2017 campaign off an Alex Hornsby assist.

Sewanee Men Claim Soccer Win

The Sewanee men's soccer team was deadlocked after 45 minutes, but a second half goal gave the Tigers the win over the Majors of Millsaps, 3-2, on Oct. 8, in Jackson, Miss.

The two teams exchanged goals twice in the first half. The Majors (5-5-2, 1-2-1) netted the first goal of the game in the 14th minute, but almost seven minutes later, Ben Vaeth netted his second goal of the year to even the contest at one goal apiece.

Sewanee (6-6-0, 2-2-0) took the lead for the first time in the match on an Andile Tshuma goal from Vaeth, his second of the year, in the 41st minute.

The lead, however, would not last long. Thirty-six seconds later, after Will Merriman blocked a shot by Millsaps' Tore Schutt, Luca Kistner netted the ball into the goal for his second goal of the year, evening the matchup at two goals apiece.

In the 47th minute, Sewanee's Rhodes Hall netted the game-winner, his second goal of the year, off a pass from Alpo Sipilä.

Millsaps out-shot Sewanee 19-10 in the contest, including 11-3 in the second half, but the Sewanee defense held to earn the win.

SAS Cross Country Results

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School cross country team traveled to Grundy County for their last meet of the regular season on Oct. 5.

The teams ran hard and times continued to fall. In the girls' varsity race, SAS finished second and Carla Hof led the team with a personal best time of 24:23 (second out of 20 runners). She was followed by Sophia Patterson (eighth), Winnie Fang (11th), Jules French (12th) and Hannah Warmbrod (13th).

On the boy's side, Seth Walker led SAS (fifth out of 48) and was followed by Elijah Andrews (ninth), Michael Vaughan (12th), Richard Du (16th), Alvin Wong (23rd), Ryan Val (25th), Tao Huang (45th), Jimmy Shin (47th), and JT Jenkins (48th).

SAS next runs the region race in Knoxville on Oct. 26.

Waters Earns Second SAA Award

Katya Waters was named the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Defensive Player of the Week after her performance in goal on Oct. 7.

In Sewanee's 6-1 win over Ferrum, the Glen Ridge, N.J., native played all 70 minutes in goal, saving a conference-best 10 shots.

This season the senior leads the SAA in save percentage (.833/50-for-60) and is ranked 17th in all of NCAA Division III (out of 150 players ranked) in the same category.

Waters also earned SAA Defensive Player of the Week honors on Sept. 11.

Hornsby struck again, finding Emily Sloan's stick for her first goal of the year to make it 5-1.

In the 64th minute, Barry netted her second goal of the match and fourth of the season off a Caffrey assist.

Hornsby finished with two assists, while Wilson and Barry totalled two goals each for Sewanee.

Katya Waters (4-3) saved 10 shots playing full time in goal.

The Tigers' five-match homestand continues on Oct. 14 when Concordia Wisconsin makes the trip to the Domain, beginning at noon.

Berry Darkens Sewanee's First-Ever Night Game

The Sewanee football team hosted its first night game in program history, but the 24th-ranked Berry Vikings spoiled the event, defeating the Tigers 48-10 on Oct. 7 in front of a packed house at historic Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium.

The Vikings led 21-0 after the opening quarter and took a 31-0 lead into the locker room.

Sewanee broke Berry's (6-0, 4-0) shutout attempt in the fourth quarter after a 27-yard field goal.

The Tigers (2-4, 1-3) found the endzone late in the contest thanks to a 27-yard pass from Sam Hearn to Sam Everette to make it 48-10.

The Vikings posted a new school record in total offense with 543 yards, while limiting Sewanee's offense to 246 yards.

Alex Darras posted 90 yards on a 12-for-22 night, while Hearn recorded 54 yards on 3-for-8 passing.

Mikey Plancher posted 49 yards on the ground on 16 carries, while Cyrus McCullough led the Purple and Gold in the air with 44 yards as eight different Tiger receivers were targeted in the contest.

William Phillips recorded another interception. The freshman has five interceptions this season. Lee Menefee led the Tigers defense with 10 tackles, 1.5 tackles for a loss.

The Tigers next hit the road to take on Birmingham-Southern. Kickoff is scheduled for 2 p.m. on Oct. 14.

Sewanee Falls 2-0 in Men's Soccer

Birmingham-Southern College blanked the Sewanee men's soccer team 2-0, on Oct. 6 in Birmingham.

No team was able to notch the back of the net in the first 66 minutes. However, in the 67th minute, BSC got on the board first thanks to a Jackson Lynn goal off a Brother Swagler cross.

The Panthers added an insurance goal in the 89th minute to put the contest away for the Tigers, who only mustered four shots in the final 45 minutes.

Birmingham-Southern Handles Tigers in Volleyball

The Sewanee volleyball team fell on Oct. 7 at Birmingham-Southern College in straight sets, 22-25, 21-25 and 19-25.

The Tigers made it a close battle with the Panthers, and while out-killing the opposition, 40-38, BSC limited their attacking errors to 12 compared to Sewanee's 22.

The Tigers' Destiny Stewart led all attackers in the match with 15 kills, nine digs and one block assist. Caroline Owens posted 11 kills and a .321 attack percentage, while Peyton Parent recorded 17 digs. Claire Crow added 20 assists and 12 digs for the Tigers. Emmy Kilgore led Birmingham-Southern with 10 kills.

NATURENOTES

Driving down the mountain toward Cowan earlier this week I noticed a great blue heron on the edge of the wide shallow pond on the right at the base of the plateau. It is always a delight to see these magnificent birds, our largest North American heron. We have seen them on our pond several times, disturbing them as we go out the back door. They are most likely after the numerous frogs there. Once during a cold winter when our pond froze, we saw one, presumably experiencing its first winter, completely mystified by the ice and unable to understand why it couldn't reach what was underneath.

These herons are easy to identify in flight, with their slow regular wingbeats, coiled neck with head pulled in, and long trailing legs. They are a beautiful blue-gray color, standing almost four feet tall when slowly wading or waiting in stillness for their prey, which they stab with lightning swiftness with their large, spear-like bills. They are year-round residents in our region. Usually solitary, they nest in colonies of up to several hundred birds during the breeding season. Lifespan is around 15 years, though one individual is recorded as having lived 24 years.

Backpacking Trail Meals—Join Ranger James Holland at 2:30 p.m. at Savage Gulf ranger station, 3177 S.R. 399, Palmer, (931) 779-3532, to learn how to prepare a variety of backpacking trail recipes. The focus will be on preparing homemade, lightweight meals that are simple, easy, and made with affordable ingredients. Feel free to bring your favorite backpacking stove.

Bark in the Park: Big Creek Rim/Laurel Trail—Bring your furry companions to meet Ranger Jessie and her fuzzy partner Zelda at 11 a.m. at Stone Door ranger station, 1183 Stone Door Rd., Beersheba Springs, (931) 692-3887, for a 7-mile, moderate hike around the Big Creek Rim and Laurel Trails. You will pass many overlooks along the Big Creek Rim trail and, with a little luck, will get to see some fall colors! Dogs must be on a leash at all times and if nature calls, please be ready to clean up after them. Don't forget to wear comfortable clothes and bring plenty of water for both you and your dog. Meet us at the Stone Door Ranger Station.

Sunday, Oct. 15

Sherwood Forest Trail—Join in with other South Cumberland trail blazers from 9 a.m.–2 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 15 and Wednesday, Oct. 18, to help create a brand new loop trail at the park. Go out Jump Off Road; take Old CCC Camp Road to just past Coyote Cove Lane. The Sherwood Forest is a brand new area that will be opening soon for a variety of public uses. Your help is needed to get the trails ready. Please be prepared with sturdy footwear and plenty of water and snacks. If you have favorite trail-building tools or pair of gloves, feel free to bring them. For more info call (931) 924-2980.

Friday, Oct. 20

Fall Color Hike—Meet Ranger Aaron at 2 p.m. at Stone Door parking lot for an easy 2-mile hike to see the beautiful Stone Door, 10 feet wide and 100 feet deep, which allowed early settlers to travel from the top of the plateau into the gorges below. It is one of the best places in Tennessee to see autumn colors. Wear sturdy shoes, bring a bottle of water, and don't forget your camera!

The South Cumberland State Park Visitors' Center is located on Highway 41 South between Monteagle and Tracy City and is open 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m. seven days a week. For more information call (931) 924-2980.

Don't walk under any ladders.
Don't break any mirrors.
Don't spill any salt.
And don't walk by any black cats.
Happy Friday the 13th!
