Sewanee Elementary School held its annual Peace Pole assembly on Oct. 8. This year's assembly was dedicated to a former music teacher, Teresa Brown. Mrs. Brown was a dedicated, talented, loving music teacher at Sewanee Elementary School for many years. The musical selection played by our fifth-grade students was one of her favorites, and the instruments used were ones she acquired for the school. Fourth-grade students, above, helped lead the assembly and taught the whole school how to sign "May Peace Prevail on Earth" in American Sign Language. The Peace Pole ceremony is always scheduled between International Peace Day and United Nations Day and provides an opportunity for the school community to gather and focus on world peace for a day.

The 213-A Scholars Program

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

Last month, a little bit of Little Rock, Ark., and a lot of Civil Rights history found their way to Sewanee.

In September of 1957, Minnie Jean Brown-Trickey walked with her classmates to the entrance of Little Rock Central High School (LRCHS). Together, they were the Little Rock Nine, a group of nine black students who enrolled at the formerly all-white high school. Their enrollment was met with racist abuse from both classmates and their families.

Sixty-three years to the month after Brown-Trickey enrolled at LRCHS, she spoke to the University's 213-A scholars about her early education, her experience living in the Jim Crow south and about her work following her education.

"The 213-A Scholars program was launched last year to cultivate leaders who are able to drive positive change in their lives and world. The program rightly honors the legacy of Houston Roberson, Sewanee's first African-American professor. He was an exemplary historian and a mentor to students and colleagues alike. In his honor, 213-A Scholars provides students from diverse backgrounds with a platform for rigorous educational advancement, professional development and deep exploration of their personal commitment to civic action and social justice," said Karen Proctor, special assistant to the University provost and cofounder of The 213-A Leaders Program.

As a part of the 213-A program, students are given the opportunity to go on a pilgrimage — one that is grounded in the history of social justice and civil rights history and aimed at providing context and guidance for present-day issues.

"We recognize that history matters. It provides context for our present challenges, and quite frankly, it humbles us when we consider the sacrifices and courageous acts that paved the way. This fall, our pilgrimage is virtual. It features reflective conversations with social justice leaders, past and present, and our aim is still the same — to glean from their experiences and reflections. We're putting ourselves in sacred spaces with living legends to whom we are indebted," Proctor said.

Laura Botros, a freshman at the University and a 213-A Scholar, said she left the discussion feeling empowered.

"There was something about hearing from her that we are capable of changing things that felt different. When she said it, it came from someone who took that and put it into action. She was brave and stood up to all of the forces at play. It was empowering to hear it from someone with the kind of experience she has," Botros said.

Hellen Wainaina, class of 2018 and assistant editor of the Sewanee Review, is over the Sewanee Literary Society, which is a component of the 213-A scholars program focused on literacy, said the conversation was aimed at illuminating for the students the parts of themselves that can be tapped into for leadership.

"This conversation was a great opportunity for the students to gain insight on leadership and get really engaged in ways that they haven't quite figured out yet. Not everybody can be Martin Luther King Jr. or Angela Davis. We all have our channels and we can be advocates and work toward bettering our society in whatever channel we're in," she said.

School Board Vote: FCHS Rebel Mascot Prevails

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the Oct. 12 meeting, the Franklin County School Board voted 5 to 3 to reject a motion by board member Linda Jones "to change the [Franklin County High School] mascot, do away with the Confederate flag, do away with 'Dixie,' and do away with our Southern gentleman." Prior to the vote, seven speakers voiced opinions on the appeal to change the Rebel mascot, a debate that began over four months ago.

A poll at Franklin County High School (FCHS) showed 19.2 percent of students and 28.9 percent of faculty and staff in favor of changing the mascot. Almost equal numbers of both groups had no opinion, 16.8 percent of students and 17.8 percent of faculty and staff.

Speaking on behalf of changing the mascot, Chris Colane said, "The public does not vote on special education classes or whether classes for the minority of students with special needs is desirable... These issues are mandated by legislation just as federal prohibition of discrimination is federally mandated... the Rebel mascot is indeed discriminatory."

Tanya Hill cited her family genealogy, "I'm English, Irish, Native American, and who knows what other nationalities... There's never

Community Chest Sets Goal

The Sewanee Community Chest has announced its goal for 2020-21. Sponsored by the Sewanee Civic Association, the Community Chest raises money yearly for local charitable organizations serving the area. This year's goal of $98,390 will help 19 organizations that have requested basic needs funding for quality of life, community aid, children's programs, and those who are beyond Sewanee but still serve our entire community. A number of organizations did not submit their annual request this year due to their inability to operate at this time. A total of $104,085 in funds were requested this year.

Now more than ever, these organizations will rely heavily on the annual funding from the Community Chest.

The Sewanee Community Chest is made possible by contributions. All donations are tax deductible. Donations can be made by credit, debit, or PayPal Giving at Sewanee Community Chest, either one-time or recurring. Checks may be mailed to Sewanee Community Chest, P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375. He serves on the civic, community, and educational boards of the Newcomen Society of Alabama, the National Christian Foundation of Alabama, the University of Alabama President's Council and the Business School Board of Visitors. He previously served on the boards of the Birmingham Business Alliance and the Economic Development Partnership of Alabama. She is the former special assistant and director of protocol to the U.S. Secretary of Defense, and assistant chief of protocol, U.S. Department of State. She previously served as an executive at the United States Telecom Association and the Cellular Telecom Industry Association. She currently serves on the Board of Directors of the Military Child Education Coalition, the National Aeronautic Association, the Atlantic Council, and the Textron Charitable Trust. Mary Claire is the mother of Mary Carlton "M.C." Murphy, C'17, and Sarah Virginia "Ginnie" Murphy, C'21.

Meet the Candidate Tony Gilliam: Rising to the Challenges

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of interviews with some of the local candidates running for office. Tony Gilliam was interviewed on Oct. 1. The first Monteagle mayoral candidate interview is in the Oct. 9, 2020 issue.

Tony Gilliam joined the Monteagle City Council in November 2018. In January 2019, his fellow council members elected him vice mayor. How Gilliam grappled with the city's challenges underscores his mayoral candidacy. By February 2019 Gilliam had jump started the stalled firehall project and oversaw the design and construction process through to completion within budget, making the long awaited and desperately needed firehall a reality. During the same month, Gilliam guided the city through road repair and purchase of an access road to allow passage for the 70 Laurel Lake area homeowners trapped when heavy rainfall washed out a culvert. In the aftermath of the disaster, Gilliam arranged for Monteagle to sign on to Marion County's Hazzard Mitigation Plan so the city could more easily avail itself of FEMA assistance in the future.

"So much had been let go in Monteagle," Gilliam said. In his two years as vice-mayor, Gilliam took the lead in ushering in long overdue roof replacement at the post office, water plant, and library; insulation and heat for the town shop, which had only a wood stove; the purchase of utility trucks, computers for the water plant, and cardiac defibrillators for the police and fire departments; a technology grant for new computers for the library; signing off on a grant to enable a Mountain Goat Trail project to move forward; a cardboard compactor at the convenience center earning the city recycling revenue; and lighting upgrades at I-24 exits 134 and 135, saving the city $350,000-$400,000 by coming up with a plan for refurbishing the lights rather than doing a full replacement.

Careful monitoring of the city's finances is a top priority for Gilliam. "For the first time in Monteagle's history, the auditor had zero findings to report this past year," Gilliam said.

Gilliam's long career as an

NOTE OF THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Sewanee Civic Association and the Sewanee Business Alliance, we want to thank the entire Sewanee community for its support of the SCA/SBA joint effort "37375 Campaign" to raise funds for COVID-related health and safety products. This special one-time campaign was devoted to helping to make Sewanee's nonprofit organizations, daycare centers, small churches, schools, and SBA member businesses as safe as possible during this terrible pandemic. We all know that Sewanee is one of America's most wonderful small towns, but with this campaign, our aim was to also make Sewanee one of America's safest possible small towns. Together, we raised more than $21,000 to purchase safety and health improvements for these organizations.

Time and again, in bad times and good times, this community steps up and rises to the occasion when asked. We have so many people to thank for helping with this particular effort, but we can single out a few of the key people: Kiki Beavers is always the first to raise her hand to offer help whenever the community is challenged. Johnny Hughes and Sandy Smart dropped what they were doing to help us get the word out to everyone in 37383 and 37375. Aaron Welch of Big A Marketing got our printed materials together, on-time and on-budget. Joseph Sumpter, already swamped with the thousand details of packing up his life for a sabbatical with his family, managed to always make time to rally donors and spread the message. Frank Gladu of the University was his ever-reliable self, always quick with the right answer whenever we needed some guidance on a University matter. Stephen Burnett cheerfully took on a few key tasks when no one else could. From 900 miles away from his home in Boston, Matthew Costello, C'84, offered his various skills to lighten everyone's work load. Two other alums, also far off in Massachusetts, helped to design the Fourth of July-inspired red, white, and blue "Sewanee We" logo: Catherine (Currie) Adams, C'86 and Thatcher Adams, C'87. And when the checks started rolling into the Sewanee Community Chest, Community Chest treasurer Carol Ingle was always right on top of things, getting everything accounted for beautifully.

The 37375 Campaign is now moving into its next and final phase, and that is to get these funds spent wisely and quickly. Eligible organizations received a simple application form, and small committees of public health and community leaders on the Domain will convene and work together to meet everyone's needs as best as possible. In the great Sewanee tradition, a new round of people are now stepping up and stepping in to address this latest community challenge. We will be saluting them in a future thank you note to the community.

Thanks again, Sewanee. We are proud to be a part of such a special community—and we are now also proud to be a part of a safer community!

Brandon Barry, President, Sewanee Civic Association, and Greg Maynard, President, Sewanee Business Alliance

Tennessee Secretary of State Launches 2020 Election FAQ Video Series

The Secretary of State released a new video series featuring members of the Division of Elections answering some of the most frequently asked questions about the 2020 election.

"Misinformation about the 2020 election is rampant. We must all be vigilant in ensuring that we are not only getting our information from trusted sources but also that we are not amplifying inaccurate information. There are many bad actors who want to sow discord and confusion among our citizens as well as erode confidence in our form of government. It is critical for voters to get accurate, trusted information directly from Tennessee's election experts. We created these videos so that all Tennesseans can easily hear the answers to our most commonly asked questions," said Secretary of State Tre Hargett.

Some of the topics covered in the series include how to register to vote in Tennessee, important election deadlines, how to vote absentee by-mail, becoming a poll official and the precautions being taken for in-person voting.

"We talk to voters everyday who have received information that is misleading or just plain wrong," said Coordinator of Elections Mark Goins. "Every Tennessean can help stop the spread of misinformation by making sure you only share election information from trusted sources like your local county election commission or our office."

The Secretary of State is sharing a new FAQ video daily on social media Twitter: @SecTreHargett, Facebook: Tennessee Secretary of State and Instagram: @tnsec-ofstate. Voters can also watch the entire 2020 election FAQ video series on the website, <sos.tn.gov/elections/2020-faqs>.

Visitors must wear a mask, have their temperature checked, be free of COVID related symptoms, and sit 6 feet apart from those outside their immediate family. Communion is distributed in one-kind only, and no congregational singing takes place during worship. At the 11 a.m. service, soloists and small vocal ensembles sing masked and with a minimum of 12 feet of distance between each other and between them and the congregation.

Weather permitting, Otey will have an outdoor service at 11 a.m. in the shaded area in front of Brooks Hall marked off into separate distanced areas for each individual or family.

In the Sunday Forum "St. Pauls & St. Mark's Missions" speaker is Prof. Woody Register of the Roberson Project on Slavery, Race & Reconciliation. The Forum is currently meeting via Zoom on Sundays, 9:45-10:45 a.m. The topic for the series this year, as Otey Parish celebrates its Sesquicentennial, is "Otey's Ministry & Witness: Past, Present, & Future." All are welcome.

St. Mary's Sewanee Online Programming

St. Mary's Sewanee has announced a full slate of programming for the remainder of 2020.

On Thursdays at noon, join via Zoom for a "spiritual lunch break." Bring your lunch, log in via Zoom, and enjoy a brief talk about spirituality and everyday life. The lunch break speakers are ordinary folks, who apply spiritual principles and practices in their lives. They share their personal stories and practical application of a spiritual way of life.

St. Mary's Sewanee hosts two Zoom-based Centering Prayer support groups. We invite all to participate with us and share the silence in a new way. The Tuesday group gathers at 3:30 p.m. (Central Time) each week. The Wednesday group meets at 3:30 p.m. (Central Time) each week. This is an opportunity for new and experienced practitioners to share time together, both in quiet conversation and in silence. We gather online, offer brief introductions/check-ins, listen to a Psalm, and then have a 30-minute sit. For log-in information and other details, please email <admin@stmaryssewanee.org>.

The Rev. Tom Ward and Rebecca Paluzzi are offering a full day of quiet, lectio divina, and worship on Oct. 24.

Rabbi Rami Shapiro brings One River Wisdom to us again on Oct. 24, when he will explore The Heart of Spiritual Living — One Teaching: Perennial Wisdom; One Practice: Be a Blessing. Using a blend of conversation and contemplation, this promises to be a session full of insights.

Coalmont Mayor Rick Rust and Lyn Wofford-Beightol at the Creighton Store Marker.

Coalmont Celebrates Historical Markers

The town of Coalmont celebrated its first two State Historical Markers on Oct. 3. Early fall weather was perfect for this very special outdoor event. The century-old sites being honored were the Coalmont United Methodist Church dating back to 1916 and the Creighton Store established between 1910 and 1920. Lyn Wofford-Beightol, whose family heritage is closely related to both buildings, presented the historical significance at both sites.

The first dedication and unveiling ceremony was at the 104-year old Methodist Church. The Sewanee Fuel and Iron Company conveyed one acre of land in 1916 and construction of the church was finished in 1917. Amazingly, some descendants of the original founders still proudly worship at Coalmont's oldest church. The current Pastor, Lee Don Myers, delivered the welcome and opening prayer for the event.

The second dedication and unveiling took place at Creighton & Sons General Store (now Sam's Corner Market and Barbeque Café). The store was owned and operated by three generations of Creighton men who were much more to the community and surrounding area than just storekeepers. The building was a Sear's Building, ordered from a catalog, delivered on the "Mountain Goat" Train and assembled on site. It is been hatred [within the family] over my ancestors killing one another... Why? Because you can't change it... The hatred before the board should not convince you to change our fight song."

"Black lives matter is not a civil rights organization, but a political one," insisted Candice Jenkins referring Dr. Carol Swain. Pointing to "the actions of black lives matter and terrorists that include rioting, arson and looting... [who] call it a protest," Jenkins said, "one could argue our school board is in fact negotiating with terrorists."

Michael Bradford spoke about his family's roots as area farmers and their relationship with a neighboring black farm family who would come for Sunday dinner. "Sadly, the two families did not sit together... Later in life, Pa said that was one of his biggest regrets." But Bradford went on to argue for keeping the mascot—"It is not fair for once culture to infringe upon the rights of others, offended or not."

Terrence Martin, a former FCHS basketball star, acknowledged he was not offended by the Rebel symbolism as a student. But Martin said later he came to "reflect on where I came from and how I was impacting myself [as a young black man]. That tune of 'Dixie' is in my head today. I can say it by heart. I didn't know what that tune meant until after leaving this area."

Shanae Williams, founder of the current movement to change the Rebel mascot, challenged the board to uphold the code of conduct of board members. "It clearly states you will think and act for the children and that means all children... In 1950, all parties were not included in the decision to become Rebels... I'm challenging you to make the right changes, to be on the right side of history."

Former Rebel Pride band member, 1988 FCHS graduate, and 28-year school system employee, Sheri Smith confessed, "Growing up, I didn't think anything about the name Rebel or the Confederate flag or playing 'Dixie.' I'd never had experiences that made those things negative to me... I assumed everyone felt the way I did." Smith closed citing poet Maya Angelou, "When you know better, do better."

In her motion to "do away with" the Rebel mascot, Dixie, and the Confederate flag, Jones called the three symbols "a package deal." "We cannot accept a compromise... We've tried to do away with some of it, and it always comes back... It's our duty to meet the needs of every student."

Board member Sarah Marhevsky seconded Jones motion.

None of the board members gave a reason for voting as they did: Jones, yes; Chris Guess, no; CleiJo Walker, no; Lance Williams, no; Christine Hopkins, no; Casey Roberts, no; Marhevsky, yes; Sarah Liechty, yes.

Following the vote, Director of Schools Stanley Bean said, "I've tried to remain neutral." Bean stressed he supported both sides and understood the arguments of both sides. But Bean insisted he resented use of the word "they." "Who is 'they'? 'They' is not Franklin County. 'We' are Franklin County... We need education on culture for both sides."

Convent's Virtual Program Series Continues

The Sisters of St. Mary have offered inspiring virtual programs each month since July. In October, the series continues with "Scurvy, She Wrote!" presented by Sarah Ash, Ph.D. The discovery of many of the vitamins reads like a murder mystery, complete with multiple suspects, red herrings, twists and turns leading to dead ends and key clues, and dogged detectives who sometimes had to put their own lives in jeopardy to uncover the truth. Hear the fascinating stories of how cultural and agricultural factors conspired to create single nutrient deficiencies that killed by the thousands around the world, and what it took for scientists to identify the culprits, who weren't even at the scene of the crime.

The virtual event will take place on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 10-11:30 a.m. Following the presentation, there will be time for questions. The cost of the session is $20, and participants can register at <www.communityofstmarysouth.org>.

Sewanee to Host Ecological Conference

The Center for Religion and Environment at the University of the South will host a virtual conference to be held Oct. 23-24, 2020, beginning at 7 p.m. Eastern time. Titled "Deep Green Faith: Earth-Hearted Hope Amid Crisis," the event will feature the Rev. Dr. Margaret Bullitt-Jonas as keynote speaker.

Bullitt-Jonas, co-editor of Rooted and Rising: Voices of Courage in a Time of Climate Crisis (2019) and a noted activist and retreat leader, notes that we are each called "to stabilize the climate and re-weave the web of life. To be healers and justice-makers, we need to be emotionally and spiritually resilient. We need to take care of our inner lives." She will be joined by presenters the Rev. Walter Brownridge, an Episcopal priest in Grosse Pointe, Mich., Collin Cornell, Ph.D., visiting instructor at the School of Theology, Amy Patterson, Ph.D., professor of international affairs at the University of the South, and John Gatta, Ph.D. and Robin Gottfried, Ph.D., professors emeriti of the University. Conference activities will include presentations, contemplation, and worship.

The event will explore the question: What grounds for hope, faith, and perseverance might we find to sustain us during this troubling period, when an accelerating climate crisis, together with a global pandemic and renewed challenges to racial justice in the U.S. have left many engulfed in what's been called "a tsunami of sadness?" According to Gatta, many people are now wondering "how we might embrace an earth-hearted hope that includes our nonhuman neighbors? Scripture urges us to seek 'a reason for the hope' that is within us (1 Peter 3:15)," he writes, "but if we believe that Christian hope amounts to something more than temperamental optimism or wishful thinking, just how might we now look to discover and cultivate it?"

Virtual Conversation on Social Justice

Everyone is invited for a virtual conversation on social justice with Roslyn M. Brock, Chair Emeritus NAACP & CEO of Equity Partnership Strategies, LLC. The conversation will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 20, via Zoom <<https://sewanee-edu.zoom.us/j/82297567526>>.

Roslyn M. Brock is a nationally recognized health policy advocate, social justice change agent, noted public speaker, mentor and holds the distinct honor of being the youngest person and fourth woman in 2010 unanimously elected to the role of National Board Chairman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in its history. She currently serves as its Chairman Emeritus.

Brock is Founder and CEO of Equity Partnership Strategies, LLC, a consulting firm that provides strategic advice and facilitation on racial equity, community investment, and risk mitigation for operational growth, talent acquisition and measurable social impact.

Previously, she was Chief Advocacy Officer for Bon Secours Mercy Health, an $8 billion not-for-profit Catholic health care system of providers with 48 hospitals in seven states and more than 60,000 employees in two countries. In this position, she provided system-wide leadership to promote health care reform, population based health, health equity and social justice initiatives for vulnerable populations.

She partnered with multi-level federal and state stakeholders to transform and align regulatory and community health standards for broader health equity, access and quality results. Her efforts improved the health and well-being of communities by also addressing a broad range of social and economic determinants of health to include gun violence, human trafficking, access to clean water, Medicaid expansion, and environmental and climate justice.

Brock's social impact extends globally, as she built cross-cultural understanding and professional networks with young leaders in China as a Young Leaders Fellow with the National Committee on U.S. - China Relations.

Recognized for her leadership skills by several national organizations and publications, Brock received the 2018 Distinguished Health Care Leader Award from the National Association of Health Services Executive (NAHSE); 2018 Schaffner Award for Social Impact from Northwestern University; 2017 Humanitarian Award from Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc., 2007 Kermit Nash Award from the Society for Social Work Leadership in Health Care; Coretta Scott King Award from Alpha Kappa Alpha, Sorority, Inc.; National Newspaper Publisher's Leadership Award; Women of Power Award from the National Urban League; featured on Essence magazine's list of "40 Fierce and Fabulous Women Who Are Changing the World" and in Black Entertainment Television's (BET) inaugural "Black Girls Rock" broadcast.

Brock graduated magna cum laude from Virginia Union University and earned a master's degree in health services administration from George Washington University, an M.B.A. from the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University, and a master's degree in divinity from the Samuel DeWitt Proctor School of Theology at Virginia Union University. She holds four honorary doctorate degrees.

Brock is a member of the Board of Trustees of The George Washington University (GWU) and the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility; Chairman, International Connection and Social Action Committee, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Sorority, Inc.; former Chair, Board of Advisors of the Milken Institute School of Public Health at George Washington University (GWU); former Trustee, Catholic Health Association (CHA) of the United States of America; Life member, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. HVAC technician honed his skills for managing money and navigating loan processes. He ultimately took a job with the University of the South and recently retired after 26-years as an HVAC technician there.

Gilliam also serves on the Monteagle Planning Commission. He stressed "the problems" the commission was having with managing the Petro Travel Center project stemmed from there being no protocols for requiring performance bonds and escrow accounts. "We're learning from our and past boards mistakes," Gilliam acknowledged.

Regarding the dispute over whether a 7-acre parcel of the proposed travel center has the adequate zoning, Gilliam said, "We [the council and planning commission] are waiting for an [written] opinion from the Municipal Technical Advisory Service and city attorneys. If the parcel reverts back to residential, that [the rezoning of 7-acres] won't stop the Petro [21-acre project]." The rest of the travel center tract has adequate zoning, Gilliam explained. But, he also noted, 5 acres of the 7-acre parcel were wetlands and could not be developed regardless of the zoning.

"Monteagle's single biggest challenge is bringing revenue in and promoting tourism to do that," Gilliam said. "The area has a lot to offer." Pointing to enticements like the Savage Gulf, Stone Door, ziplining, and Mountain Goat Trail, Gilliam highlighted the importance of "cleaning up the town" and making Monteagle an attractive welcoming place to visitors.

Gilliam praised Monteagle's police and fire departments and excellent elementary school. "I want all three to remain on top." He proposed a citizen group to create a Monteagle 10-year plan.

Gilliam and his wife of 40 years have one son. Summing up why he wants to be mayor, Gilliam said, "I was born and raised here. I love the people. I want Monteagle to be a place where everyone would want to live. A place where people feel safe and wanted."

Donations Accepted for Personal Supplies and Toiletries

The Community Action Committee, the Bonner and Canale Programs, and the Dean of Students Office is introducing a new initiative to help our students and neighbors in the broader community with a great need—personal supplies and toiletries. The CAC has long been a haven of hope for food insecurity, and is happy to expand their services. In addition, students on campus are facing significant financial difficulties, especially in light of COVID. They are struggling to make ends meet, and many are finding it hard to stay stocked with necessary things such as toiletries, period products, and other personal items. Please consider purchasing some of the suggested supplies below and dropping them off at one of the following locations: at the Community Action Committee, the lobby of Fulford Hall, inside the entrance of All Saints' Chapel, or the lobby of Bishop's Common.

Suggested supplies include soap and body wash; deodorant, oral health care; shampoo and conditioner; tampons and pads; razors and shaving gel; body lotion; tissues; face wash; cotton swabs and cotton squares; chapstick; contact solution; and basic school supplies.

213-A Pilgrimage

The University of the South

SAS Celebrates Senior Soccer Players

Before their final game of the season, in front of an enthusiastic masked and physically distanced crowd, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School celebrated their senior players.

Seven-year day student Jenna Black of Sewanee is the daughter of Kelley and Robert Black. Black is an SAS proctor and serves on the school's Honor council. She is a two-year starter and a three-sport athlete, playing soccer, basketball, and tennis. As a freshman, she was part of SAS's district champion tennis team that made it to the final four in the state. Black has been sidelined due to an ACL tear she sustained at the end of basketball season, but she is known for her wicked left foot cross and was the leading goal scorer last season. Jenna plans to pursue a career in sports communication and sports journalism. Her quiet humor and passion for athletics will be missed by her teammates.

Co-captain Sarah Grace Burns, daughter of Doug and Margot Burns of Sewanee, is a four-year starter. She has been the cornerstone of SAS's defense and is a workhorse for the program. Burns was named to the All-District Team for the past three years. Her leadership is pervasive on the field and throughout the school. She is the president of the school's Honor Council and serves as a Proctor. Burns has been on high honor roll every semester of her high school career and is a member of Cum Laude. Off the field, she is a passionate outdoors person who loves to climb and hang out with friends and family.

Mary Brooks Donald, daughter of Amy and Seth Donald of Lake Charles, La., attended SAS as a sixth grader but moved to Louisiana upon her father's completion of seminary at the University of the South. However, just three weeks ago Mary Brooks and her sister, Eliza, returned to the Mountain when their high school was destroyed by Hurricane Laura. Donald plays soccer and tennis. At her previous school she received the Coach's Award for soccer as a sophomore and was named Offensive Player of the Year as a junior. She is an honor student, was junior class president, and was to serve this year on the Student Council Executive Board. She is an active member of her church and serves on the diocese's Youth Council. In her short time back at SAS, Donald has quickly made an impact on the community. Her house and soccer mates know her for her generosity and kindness. Donald plans to pursue a degree in business or education.

First-year day student Lily Garner moved to Sewanee this summer from Chicago. She is the daughter of Lisa and Lee Garner. Garner has been on the high honor roll every semester of her high school career. She speaks fluent French and was a committed member of the Future Problem Solvers International team and Robotics Team at her previous high school. She has played soccer since she was six years old. Garner's youth team captured the AYSO National Championship. As the top scorer for Northside College Preparatory High School her sophomore year, she was invited to the All-City College Showcase in Chicago. In her free time, Lily enjoys guitar, piano, reading, writing, and photography. She is interested in studying neuroscience and linguistics in college. Her teammates have appreciated the calm and maturity she brings as a playmaker in the holding mid position.

Tania Gonzalez Horstmann, is an ASSIST student from Madrid, Spain. She is the daughter of Paloma Horstmann and Cristobal Gonzalez. Despite never having played organized soccer before this year, Gonzalez Horstmann has made an impact on her team with her hard work, physical play and determination to win every ball. Gonzalez Horstmann enjoys drawing, painting, dancing, swimming, and reading in her free time. Next year, she plans to attend college in Germany and possibly study international politics and economics. Her teammates value the joy and laughter she brings to the team.

Co-captain Adeline Smith is the daughter of Jennifer and Scott Smith. Smith is a seven-year day student, three-year starter from Tullahoma. She has been a cornerstone of the SAS soccer program despite battles with various injuries. Her presence on the field adds a spark to the SAS attack with her speedy wheels out on the flank. Off the field, Smith enjoys backpacking, baking, photography, and singing and listening to music. Next year, she plans to study psychology and neuroscience.

In talking about the condensed 2-1-1 season and her senior players, Head Coach Margot Burns noted, "This has been a strange season with our team only able to play four matches due to the COVID pandemic. Despite this, the players continued to work hard, made progress, and found joy and solace on the field. Our seniors will be missed, but they have left a positive impact on the program and helped to lay a foundation for the future."

Virtual Art Show at UAG

The University Art Gallery is delighted to present "This is Where I Live," a participatory photography project led by acclaimed photographer Wendy Ewald. By means of a collection of approximately 400 photographs, "This is Where I Live" represents experiences and lives from several distinct communities in Israel and the West Bank. The exhibition will be on view through Nov. 20.

To protect the health of those on and off our campus, in-person visits to the exhibition are reserved for students, faculty, and staff of the University already on campus. The University Art Gallery (UAG) has an additional opportunity to explore "This is Where I Live" remotely, with slideshows of the individual photographs from each of the 14 communities now accessible on the UAG website <https://new.sewanee.edu/university-art-gallery/current-exhibition-2/>.

Ewald does far more than photograph her subjects. Instead, believing that people know their own lives and communities best, she collaborates with groups of people over several months, giving those who want to participate their own cameras. Together they consider images, study the cameras and basics of photography, talk about the photographs taken and the choices made and why, and tell stories. The process is one of learning and exchange, and the results are cumulative and cooperative: collective portraits made up of multiple individual perspectives, and bodies of work created not by one photographer but by many people working together.

For "This is Where I Live," Ewald worked with 14 disparate groups of people in Israel and the West Bank, from Palestinian Arab women elders in East Jerusalem to Jewish Israeli sixth-grade students from the Kfar Giladi Kibbutz, Upper Galilee, from Palestinian Arab sixth-grade students at the Bir El Amir School in Nazareth to Jewish Israeli stall owners from the Mahane Yehuda market, Jerusalem. "This is Where I Live" presents "a kind of narrative atlas," in which people from a deeply and impossibly divided region share their experiences, and all the places they live, in photographs.

Mars at Opposition

Be sure to look in the night sky for the planet Mars all this month. Last Tuesday, Oct. 13, Mars reached opposition and was at its brightest, and a week before that, it was closer to Earth than it will be again until 2035. Opposition occurs when Earth lies directly between a planet and the Sun. Mars looks like a bright orange star, rising in the east in the evening, arcing across the southern sky, and setting in the west in the early morning. It is the third brightest body in our night sky, after the Moon and Venus, brighter than Sirius, which is the brightest star. It will appear slightly smaller and slightly less bright than it did in 2018, the last time it was in opposition, but it will rise higher in the sky and be better for viewing with telescopes, if you happen to have one. Jupiter and Saturn will also be visible in the southern night sky, but Mars will be brighter than either of them.

Sunrise

Sally

Pets of the Week

Meet Sunrise & Sally

Hi, my name is Sunrise. I got my name from the local and delicious breakfast place. I am bright, festive, oh and did I mention a "morning person." When the kennel technician arrives early in the morning, I am always ready to go and excited to start my day with a yummy breakfast and outdoor time. I came to the harbor as a stray, very afraid, timid, and skeptical, but before long I opened up and learned that people really are good and once I swoon them over with my super affectionate personality, they fall in love with me and I get endless snuggles. Sadly, I don't have a family to offer that at this time, but I am patiently awaiting the day when I go into a home, never to feel alone ever again. The shelter staff say that I am going to be a "velcro dog," and while I do not know what that means, I am thinking it must be a good thing! I can get along with anyone and anything. Give me a kiddo or pet sibling and I will be forever happy! I am up-to-date on vaccinations, heartworm-negative, spayed, and microchipped. The only thing missing is a home. If you are interested in adopting me, make sure you submit an adoption application at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Hello, my name is Sally. The staff at Animal Harbor like to call me sassy Sally. I am not sure why. Maybe because my personality is a bit diva 'ish' and I like to play a little rough, giving them what they call "a run for your money!" I was abandoned at the shelter with a note that said I was sick and that my family no longer wanted me. That still hurts, but I know there is another family, the right family, out there for a sassy kitty like me. I would be an excellent hunter and more of the independent type. Children, dogs, and other cats are not really my thing, so please don't ask about me if those types are in your home. I am really a sweet cat that just needs a little positive attention to get me headed in the right direction in life. I am so glad I was left at the shelter that day, because I know the right home is in my future- a single person or a middle-aged couple would be purrfect! I am up-to-date on my vaccinations, FIV/ FeLV negative, spayed, and microchipped. If you are interested in adopting me, make sure you submit an adoption application at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Sewanee Messenger Election Policy

Candidate Announcements

The Messenger accepts candidate announcements, no longer than 500 words, with one headshot photo of the candidate. Releases should be written in the third person. Quotations from the candidate and other endorsers are allowed. We will run the announcement one time.

The release should profile information and the candidate's stance on major issues in the town/county. Announcements are published on a space available basis. The newspaper does not guarantee publication of announcements on any specific date or in any specific position in the editorial news pages.

Political Advertising

Political advertising must have an "advertisement paid for disclaimer" that is readable. Nothing negative should be in the ad. Ads will not be run one week before the Election Day. Each candidate will get equal placement for the advertisement.

Letters to the Editor Policy

Letters to the editor are welcome at the Sewanee Mountain Messenger and are a vital part of our community's conversation. Letters need to be no longer than 250 words and may be edited for space and clarity. We make exceptions from time to time, but these are our general guidelines. Letters and/or their author must have some relationship to our community. We do not accept letters on national topics from individuals who live outside our print circulation area. Please include your name, address and a daytime telephone number with your letter. You may mail it to us at Sewanee Mountain Messenger, P.O. Box 296, Sewanee, TN 37375, come by our office, 418 St. Mary's Ln., or send your email to <news@sewaneemessenger.com>.

The deadline for political letters regarding issues or candidates is one week before Election Day. We strive to print all letters we receive, but publication is not guaranteed. Letters should be factually accurate and reflect the original thoughts of a single writer. Readers are permitted one letter per race. Requests for specific print dates will not be honored. Letters that are deemed unsuitable for publication shall not be printed elsewhere in the newspaper, including as a paid advertisement.

Deadlines

News deadlines are 5 p.m. on Tuesday. Reserving ad space deadline is 5 p.m. on Monday. The ad or copy for the ad must be received by 10 a.m. on Tuesday. The Messenger is printed on Friday.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Louise Glück Awarded Nobel Prize

Averno. Ancient name, Avernus. A small crater lake, ten miles west of Naples, Italy; regarded by the ancient Romans as the entrance to the underworld.

You die when your spirit dies.
Otherwise, you live.
You may not do a good job of it, but you go on — something you have no choice about.

When I tell this to my children
they pay no attention.
The old people, they think — this is what they always do:
talk about things no one can see to cover up all the brain cells they're losing.
They wink at each other;
listen to the old one, talking about the spirit
because he can't remember anymore the word for chair.

It is terrible to be alone.
I don't mean to live alone —
to be alone, where no one hears you.
I remember the word for chair.
I want to say — I'm just not interested anymore.

I wake up thinking
you have to prepare.
Soon the spirit will give up —
all the chairs in the world won't help you.
I know what they say when I'm out of the room.
Should I be seeing someone, should I be taking one of the new drugs for depression.
I can hear them, in whispers, planning how to divide the cost.

And I want to scream out you're all of you living in a dream.
Bad enough, they think, to watch me fall apart.
Bad enough without this lecturing they get these days
as though I had any right to this new information.

Well, they have the same right.
They're living in a dream, and I'm preparing to be a ghost. I want to shout out the mist has cleared —

It's like some new life:
you have no stake in the outcome;
you know the outcome.
Think of it: sixty years sitting in chairs. And now the mortal spirit seeking so openly, so fearlessly —

To raise the veil.
To see what you're saying goodbye to.

--Louise Glück, Averno
