

New Hiking Guide to South Cumberland

A new hiking guide to the South Cumberland State Park has just been published, thanks to a grant from the Tennessee Trails Association (TTA).

"I Hiked 'Em All" (Proctors Hall Press) was written by Friends of South Cumberland president Mary Priestley and designed by Latham Davis. It covers all the trails at South Cumberland, the largest wilderness park in the Tennessee state park system.

"Hike 'Em All" will debut in Sewanee during "Take a Walk on the Wild Side" on Oct. 29 (see story on page 7), when copies will be given to those honored by founding members of the Mack Prichard Circle.

The $10 softcover book, designed in a small, sturdy format to fit in a backpack, will be available soon in local stores and on the Friends website at <www.friendsofsouthcumberland.org>. All proceeds support the Friends of South Cumberland State Park.

Natural and cultural history stories are woven among the descriptions of the hikes. There are sections on physiography and vegetation, as well as a special section on the geology of Fiery Gizzard written by Bran Potter. The cover illustration by Chattanooga artist Janis Wilkey is of Collins Gulf. Pen and ink drawings throughout are by Jack Baggenstoss and Latham Davis—all members of the Friends of South Cumberland. TTA Highland Rim Chapter members Jim Poteet, also active in the FSC, and Tom Bentley were key players in securing the grant for the guide.

The 14 featured hikes described in the guide cover all of the trails in about 120 miles of hiking. At more than 24,500 acres in a number of separate parcels, South Cumberland is spread out over a 100-square-mile area. Approximately 81 miles of white- and blue-blazed trails run through Savage Gulf, Fiery Gizzard and all of the other parks that make up the South Cumberland. As an incentive to avid hikers, the FSC has a club for those who hike all 14 trails. Documentation plus $25 will earn hikers membership in the "I Hiked 'Em All" Club, as well as one year's membership in the Friends of South Cumberland.

Governors Look at Politics "From the Center"

Former Tennessee Gov. Phil Bredeisen and former Vermont Gov. Jim Douglas will be in Sewanee on Tuesday, Oct. 25, to present "American Politics: The View from the Center." The 4:30 p.m. event will be held in Guerry Auditorium and is open to the public.

During their overlapping terms as governors, Bredeisen, a Democrat, and Douglas, a Republican, each focused on strengthening his state's economy and fiscal position, on health reforms and on preserving the environment. They served together in the National Governors Association and worked together on committees.

Douglas served the people of Vermont for more than 35 years. He was elected Governor in 2002, and re-elected in 2004, 2006 and 2008. During his tenure, he focused on strengthening the state's economy, reducing the cost of living in Vermont and protecting the state's natural environment. He advanced ground-breaking health reforms that have made Vermont a model among the states in health care. Douglas is now an Executive in Residence at Middlebury College.

Bredeisen served as Governor of Tennessee from 2003 until 2011. His time as governor was marked by strong fiscal management, including establishing financial reserves and achieving a AAA bond rating for the state; advancements in education, including establishing a statewide pre-K program; advancements in health care, including establishing a broad children's health insurance program and successful public health efforts, including decreasing infant mortality; and the preservation of 350,000 acres of ecologically sensitive land for future generations.

Pianist Joel Fan will perform at 7:30 p.m., tonight (Friday), Oct. 21, in Guerry Auditorium as part of the Sewanee Performing Arts Series. Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and $10 for students. For more information call 598-1770.

Franklin County May Vote on a Wheel Tax

Commissioners Seeking Ways to Balance Budget

by K.G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

A wheel tax in Franklin County will likely be on the February primary ballot in order to reduce the mounting debt faced by the county. The topic was discussed at the Long-Range Planning/Finance Committee meeting of the County Commission on Oct. 12. Franklin County is facing a $4.6 million deficit for 2012–13. The School Board accounts for $2.7 million of that.

The proposed wheel tax can be set at any amount and can be earmarked for specific provisions, such as funding a recreation center or jail expansion and paying for roads/highways and education.

County Commissioner Johnny Hughes said it would be best to get this issue on the ballot in February. That way, a special election would not have to be called, which would cost money. Also, if the County Commission passed a wheel tax in one of its meetings, it would only take 10 percent of registered voters to file a petition against it, which would force a special election. With the wheel tax on the February ballot, all voters could have a voice in this decision.

Hughes also said that the property tax reappraisal begins in February and that "the county commissioners would know by then if that helps to raise more tax money or not."

"Paying down the debt service is also a huge concern, but funding for roads and education should be a top priority," he said. It is estimated it will take until 2020–21 to pay off the new high school, and 2048–49 to pay off the new judicial center because of the debt service.

"If the wheel tax does not get voted in on the February ballot, some other school besides Sewanee needs to be on the chopping block in order to get people's attention to the seriousness of this issue. It needs to be a larger school, which would have a bigger impact on the voters," Hughes said.

Director of Schools Rebecca Sharber had warned the county commissioners in a July 19 meeting that without adequate funding from the county, drastic cuts would have to be made, including such possibilities as closing Sewanee Elementary, eliminating bus routes except for special education or firing teachers.

Hughes encouraged everyone to contact their county commission representatives to let them know where they think cuts need to happen and how funding can be increased.

There are approximately 42,000 registered vehicles in Franklin County. If the county implemented a $25 wheel tax, it would raise just over $1 million.

The proposed wheel tax will have to go before the county's Finance Committee and then to the full county commission in December for approval before being placed on a ballot.

For details of the Franklin County School System's budget, see story on page 7.

Sewanee Speed Limits Will be Considered at Council Meeting

When the Sewanee Community Council meets at 7 p.m., Monday, Oct. 24, at the Senior Center, its agenda will include consideration of a proposal to change speed limits in Sewanee.

Council member Drew Sampson will make a report on the proposed changes, including information he learned after meeting with Police Chief Robert White.

Individuals who want to express an opinion about this may do so at the meeting, or beforehand to Sampson by phone at 598-9576 or by email at <dandsamp@gmail.com>.

The following items are also on the agenda: approval of the September minutes, a progress report on the community email project (David Coe) and a report from the amplified music subcommittee (Dennis Meeks). The meeting will end with announcements.

On Tennessee Avenue, the posted speed limit is 20 mph.

“STICK IT TO CANCER” A SUCCESS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Sewanee Field Hockey Team, I would like to thank the Sewanee community for supporting our home games and our “Stick it to Cancer” fund-raiser on Family Weekend. At both Sewanee matches that weekend and at the Tigers home football game, the team sold wrist sweatbands and baked goods, in addition to taking donations from fans, parents, alumni and others. We raised more than $1,000, and we couldn’t have done it without your generous donations.

I send out a special thank-you to the Sewanee football team and men’s tennis team for their outstanding support, and the parents and fans at the games who gave so generously to the cause, as well as the alumni whose amazing gift matched the proceeds (originally just over $500) from our efforts.

“Stick it to Cancer,” is supported by college and high school field hockey coaches and teams committed to funding life-saving cancer research. As a part of the National Foundation for Cancer Research (NFCR), all money raised goes to cancer research and public education relating to cancer prevention, earlier diagnosis, better treatments and ultimately a cure for cancer. I think everyone has been affected or has known someone affected by cancer in some way, and Sewanee’s field hockey team is proud to partner with the NFCR through the “Stick it to Cancer” program and do our part. Your support shows that together we can make a difference.

New Archives Building to Open In November

The grand reopening of the University's Archives and Special Collections will be at 4 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 5, at the new Archives Building. A reception with tours will follow the dedication ceremony. An exhibit, "Archives, Special Collections and a Liberal Arts Education" will feature items from the collections representing all of the liberal arts. A smaller area will preview a future exhibit on Sewanee's previous master campus plans.

Tours of the new facility will be available following the dedication.

The Archives and Special Collections must remain closed until the ceremony.

"Thank you for your patience with our extended period of inaccessibility," said Annie Armour, University archivist.

There is parking behind the library for as long as it lasts, but guests are encouraged to walk or ride a bike. Please let Armour know if you need special accommodations. For more information contact Armour at <aarmour@sewanee.edu>.

McCardell to Open Lincoln Exhibition

"Lincoln: The Constitution and the Civil War," a traveling exhibition, will be on view at the Jessie Ball duPont Library beginning Wednesday, Oct. 26. Vice-Chancellor John M. McCardell will serve as speaker for the opening reception at 4 p.m. in the Torian Room.

The exhibition examines how President Lincoln used the Constitution to confront three intertwined crises of the Civil War: the secession of Southern states, slavery and wartime civil liberties. It encourages visitors to form a nuanced view of Lincoln by engaging them with Lincoln's struggle to reconcile his policy preferences with basic American ideals of liberty and equality. The exhibition develops a more complete understanding of Abraham Lincoln as president and the Civil War as the nation's gravest constitutional crisis.

The National Constitution Center and the American Library Association Public Programs Office organized the traveling exhibition, which was made possible by a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The traveling exhibition is composed of informative panels featuring photographic reproductions of original documents, including a draft of Lincoln's first inaugural speech, the Emancipation Proclamation and the Thirteenth Amendment.

The exhibit, which is free and open to the public, will remain on view until Dec. 16, 2011. Additional programs related to this exhibition will be announced in the near future.

Exec to Talk About Causes of the Financial Crisis

John Allison, the chief executive officer and chairman of BB&T who led the firm's growth into one of the largest financial services holding companies in the U.S., will give his perspective on the financial crisis at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 8, in Convocation Hall. His speech, titled "Causes, Consequences and Cures: An Insider's Unique Perspective on the Financial Crisis," is free and open to the public.

During Allison's tenure, BB&T's assets increased from $4.5 billion to $152 billion as the firm embarked on a strategy of acquisitions, growing from the fourth-largest North Carolina bank into a major financial services firm with holdings across the Southeast.

His lecture is presented by the Babson Center for Global Commerce as part of the Bryan Viewpoints series, which presents noteworthy voices speaking on issues critical to global commerce. The series, named for J.F. and Peggy Bryan, brings leaders from business, policy, media, and government to the Sewanee campus to share their varied perspectives with students and the community. Previous Bryan Viewpoints speakers include Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank president Dennis Lockhart, petroleum entrepreneur T. Boone Pickens, and economic forecaster Gary Shilling.

The Babson Center for Global Commerce provides co-curricular programs that strengthen preparation for business careers and graduate school. The Center is part of Sewanee's Wm. Polk Carey Pre-Business Program, which includes an interdisciplinary business minor grounded in the liberal arts, preparing graduates for principled leadership and participation in civic life as well as in business.

All Saints' Chapel

Growing in Grace

Growing in Grace welcomes Katie Payne, C'07, at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 23, in All Saints' Chapel. As a student, Payne studied English and women's studies. After graduation, she was the Aiken Taylor Intern with the Sewanee Review. She spent eight months living and working with Heifer International as a residential education volunteer at Overlook Farm, Heifer's global learning center in Massachusetts. Payne is currently a student at Vanderbilt's Peabody College. Contact Catherine Outten at <coutten@sewanee.edu> with any questions.

Catechumenate

Catechumenate will meet at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 26, in the Bairnwick Women's Center. From the Greek word meaning "learning and exploring," the Catechumenate aims to give students and community members a place to ask questions, listen, and explore and deepen their faith.

The evening begins with coffee and tea from Stirling's, dessert and conversation. Chaplain Tom Macfie will deliver a brief presentation on "The Scandal of the Cross." Following the talk, time is spent in small groups discussing the presentation and important text. Intimate conversations and deep relationships often grow out of this time. The evening concludes with Compline, a brief prayer service. Everyone is welcome at any point during the school year.

OUR SEWANEE

by Annie Armour SAY HI!

Did you ever hear this riddle?
*When I was going to St. Ives,
I met a man with seven wives.
Each wife had seven baskets.
Each basket had seven cats.
Each cat had seven kittens.
How many were going to St. Ives?*

And the answer, of course, is "one" because you met these people on the road as you were going in the other direction to St. Ives. It would be only natural to greet the man and his wives.

Now think about how many people you greet when you pass them around town. Do you greet everyone or just those you know? Do you talk to only those you pass when you are not preoccupied talking with a friend or on your cell phone or listening to music through your headphones? Are you too busy thinking about the disagreement you had with your son, or that test you think you bombed, or when you were going to find the time to run to the bank while it was open?

Maybe you just greet those who say "Hello" to you first? Maybe you don't greet them, even though they said "Hi" to you. Instead, you avert your eyes to look beyond them or concentrate on the ground.

If you see someone wearing a little purple button that announces "SAY HI!," you can be assured that the person wearing it will greet you when they meet you. They are encouraging you to do the same. You might be surprised at how much better it can make you feel and maybe the person you pass, as well. Once in a while, you may even make a new friend just by being a little friendly to a stranger or acquaintance.

In many cultures around the world, people greet others on the street with hugs or kisses on the cheek, along with a "Hello." A simple "Hi" can do a lot to bridge whatever differences you may have with the person you pass. The ultimate goal of being friendly is for all of us to learn who our neighbors are and more about them.

In an ideal world, people would not isolate themselves into groups of people just like themselves with whom they are comfortable. They would see past age, race, educational, social, cultural and economic differences. Nobody would be "better" because they had more academic degrees or their ancestors settled the town or were leaders during their time or had a different skin color or were "inferior" because they dressed differently or had different political or religious views. A community would deserve that label with the word "unity" in it.

Saying "Hi" is a positive step to knowing all those in your community and respecting them despite our differences.

You can wear a button if you are ready to greet and make Sewanee a more unified, friendly place.

"SAY HI!" buttons are available by emailing <sewaneeanne@gmail.com> or by coming to the Messenger office at 418 St. Mary's Lane.

Welcome, mountain visitors.

Rotary Tree Sale Begins in November

The Monteagle Rotary will begin its annual tree sale on Tuesday, Nov. 1. The club's goal is to support education and improve literacy on the Mountain.

"We are excited to be able to offer locally grown, high quality trees again this year," said Bob Askew, service projects chairman for the club. Proceeds from the sale support a scholarship fund at the University for Grundy County residents.

The club also buys dictionaries for fifth-graders at Monteagle Elementary school and makes a donation to the Sewanee Summer Music Festival.

The club will sell and deliver dogwood, redbud, spruce and sarvisberry trees.

For more information contact Askew at 598-5311 or <bobaskew@askewart.com>.

Breast Cancer Forum

Dr. Alexis Eckard will be offering a presentation about breast cancer prevention at 6 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25, in Otey parish hall. The Sewanee Children's Center (SCC) is sponsoring the event. Dr. Eckard practices medicine in Winchester and has a child who attends SCC.

For three years, Dr. Eckard worked at a breast center in Georgia and will answer questions about breast health.

This event is free and open to the public. For more information call 598-5928.

Kiwanis Health Fair on Oct. 29

The Franklin County Kiwanis Club will be sponsoring a Health Fair from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Kiwanis Club House, 113 North College St., behind the Oldham Theatre in downtown Winchester.

Flu shots will be given by Fred's Pharmacy of Monteagle for $24.50 (cash only, please). Blood pressure checks and diabetes testing will be available at no charge, sponsored by the Volunteers In Medicine Medical Clinic.

Group Plans to Attend Pipeline Protest in D.C.

A group of Sewanee residents and students are planning to travel to Washington, D.C., to protest the Keystone XL pipeline.

They will meet at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 26, in the Harris Ciommons of Spencer Hall to discuss the trip.

On Sunday, Nov. 6, the Sewanee group will join with thousands of other activists to encircle the White House, urging President Obama to keep his campaign promise to "end the tyranny of oil." The group will leave Sewanee on Saturday, Nov. 5, and return overnight on Sunday.

To learn more or participate, details will be posted at <sewaneeaction.wordpress.com/>.

EHH News

Employee Recognition

Emerald-Hodgson Hospital (EHH) named Leslee Hoosier the employee of the month for September. Leslee, a registered nurse, works in both the emergency room and on the med-surg floor. She's been on the EHH staff for seven years. Leslee lives in Sewanee with her two daughters, Karlee, age 7, and Hallee, age 3. Hiking and spending time with her family are Leslee's favorite leisure activities. Leslee was selected for recognition in a random drawing among all EHH employees having September birthdays. Her award included use of a close-in parking space for the month and a gift basket with movie tickets and other goodies. Congratulations, Leslee.

State of the Hospital

EHH Administrator Ralph Underwood reported that observation visits and skilled care admissions were lower than expected for September. Outpatient visits, however, were only slightly lower than in September of 2010, and general admissions and emergency room visits were at very nearly the same levels.

School Board Budget and the Looming Crisis

by K.G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

School systems in Tennessee depend on local tax revenues and state and federal money in order to fund public education. Typically, the biggest expenditure for school systems is wages and associated salary benefits. The school systems cannot raise money to fund education. And school systems have to use specific state and federal funds to pay for specific services.

The Franklin County School Board is proposing total general-purpose revenue of $41,653,989 for 2011–12. This money comes from local, state and federal funds.

The total estimated expenditures for the school board is $44,003,233, leaving a deficit of $2,642,762.

In order to balance the budget, the school board is making up this estimated $2.6 million dollar shortfall for the 2011–12 school year by using its fund balance. The fund balance is a reserve that is maintained in case of unexpected expenses or lack of revenue. The estimated fund balance on July 1, 2011, was $5,311,223. The estimated ending fund balance for June 30, 2012, is $2,668,415. By law, the school board must keep 3 percent of its expected revenue (approximately $1.2 million) as a reserve. If the 2012–13 proposed revenue and estimated expenditures remain the same as in 2011–12, the fund balance will be in the negative.

The school board is projecting a $3 million dollar shortfall in its 2012–13 budget. If revenues do not increase or if drastic cuts are not made, the school board will then face a real possibility of not being able to open schools for the 2013–14 school year.

The 2011–12 revenues of $41,653,989 come from the following places:

The proposed local tax revenue equals $13.4 million. This money mostly comes from local property and sales taxes. Other local revenues come from licenses and permits, education charges (extended school program), lease/rentals, and contributions and gifts.

State education funds total just over $27 million in revenue for the school system. These funds can only be spent on specific classroom and non-classroom components. [See Tenn. Code Ann. 49-3-351(c).] These funds come from specific funds and grants, including the Basic Education Program, Early Childhood Education, Career Ladder and Coordinated School Health.

Federal monies through the state are about $350,000. This includes the Adult Education Grant and Job Training Partnership. Additional sources include Headstart, approximately $200,000.

The 2011–12 expenditures of $44,003,233 are allocated as follows:

The biggest expenditure for the school board is in the area of instruction. This includes teacher salaries and insurance, substitute teachers, instructional supplies and textbooks. There are six areas of instruction: regular instruction, alternative school, special education program, vocational education program, student body education program (athletics) and the adult education program. Total instruction equals $25.7 million.

Of course, a school system cannot be run without support services. This includes attendance, health services and other support services such as career ladder, guidance, social workers and a director of regular instruction.

The special education, vocational education and adult education programs all have corresponding directors and support staff. The board of education, director of schools, office of the principal, human resources, operation of the plant, maintenance of the plant, transportation and central office also has directors and staff. The support services line item totals about $15 million in expenditures.

The operation of non-instructional services includes community services such as the extended school program, Campora, and coordinated health. The majority of these line items are 100 percent reimbursed by state monies. State monies also reimburse early childhood education, which includes preschool programs. Total cost for the non-instructional services is $2.1 million.

Other expenses for the school board are total operation of non-instruction. This includes total capital outlay, debt services and transfer to other funds. These total just over $1 million. There is also a line item for additional reserve for funding annual required contribution for post-employment benefits, about $293,500.

For more information on the school board budget, go to <www.fcstn.net>. The complete county budget can be seen at <www.franklincountyfinance.com/forms/budget_2012.pdf>.

Friends of South Cumberland's "Take A Walk" Event to Honor Naturalist Mack Prichard

The Friends of South Cumberland (FSC) is holding "Take a Walk on the Wild Side" on Saturday, Oct. 29, as the inaugural event of the Mack Prichard Circle. The event honors Tennessee State Naturalist emeritus Mack Prichard, one of Tennessee's great environmentalists, who is coming from Nashville to participate. Also recognized will be the founding members of the Mack Prichard Circle, a group of donors who aspire to "follow in Mack's tracks" by making land conservation and preservation on the Plateau a priority.

During his 40 years of park service, Prichard traveled more than a million miles across Tennessee, shot over 20,000 photographs and spoke to 2,500 audiences urging the need for conservation.

He has received recognition by the State Legislature and the Governor, the Lifetime Conservation Achievement Award by the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation, and the Trails & Trilliums Yeatman Award for Environmental Education.

The event, described as a "bluffsides, down-home, wear-your-walking-shoes shindig" will be held at Rivendell, the home of Mary Elizabeth Nelson, and Cloudbase, the home of Joe and June Mays, with guests walking between the two homes on a woodland path. Both houses provide spectacular views of Lost Cove. The afternoon event will feature "Fiery Gizzard Sunsets," which are made from Prichard's Rum, as well as hors d'oeuvres provided by the Blue Chair, Shenanigan's, Lorena's, Edgeworth Inn, Dutch Maid Bakery, Julia's and Natural Bridge. Bazzania will add great music. For more information about the event, contact Margaret Matens at (931) 924-2623 or <margaretmatens@yahoo.com>.

According to FSC president Mary Priestley, "This summer the FSC launched a new membership plan with a goal of identifying people who share our passion for the amazing parks across the Plateau. Mack Prichard enthusiastically endorsed using his name to honor those who make generous annual gifts to the Friends. Mack served as the State Naturalist for over 30 years, and his passion for land conservation and preservation is legendary. His special affection for the Friends of South Cumberland and his ongoing role in Trails & Trilliums make this a perfect fit."

A gift of $250 or more to the Friends by Dec. 31 provides membership in the Mack Prichard Circle.

Hosts for the "Walk on the Wild Side" event are Mary and Mac Priestley, June and Joe Mays, Mary Elizabeth Nelson, Jean and Harry Yeatman, Pam and Jim Myers, Ruth and George Ramseur, Jennie and Rod Murray, Margaret and Jack Matens, Jean and Oliver Jervis, Sally and Bob Naumann, Pookie and Woody McLaughlin, Lelia and Henry Blizzard and Kate and Robert Gooch.

To date, the FSC has helped preserve thousands of acres of parklands for future generations, purchasing key parcels of land around Savage Gulf, Fiery Gizzard and Lost Cove Cave to create defensible borders. Other initiatives include family events, in-school activities, a new Junior Ranger project and wildlife programs; supporting the park rangers during this time of economic cutbacks; and promoting recreational use of the parks with hiking clubs, Trails & Trilliums and other events. Annual memberships, which begin at $25, help the FSC continue their good work.

Attention Consumers of Duck River Electric Membership Corporation

The four hour planned power outage previously scheduled for DREMC members living in the communities of Sherwood and Anderson in Franklin County on Saturday, October 15, has been rescheduled for Saturday, October 22. The outage is scheduled from 7:00 a.m. until approximately 11:00 a.m. and is necessary for TVA to replace damaged utility poles. This outage will affect all consumers in the Sherwood and Anderson area but will not affect consumers in the Sewanee, Cowan or Sinking Cove area.

Duck River Electric appreciates the cooperation and understanding of its members during this planned outage by TVA. In the event of inclement weather, the outage will be rescheduled for another date.

Franklin County Election Commission Sets Meeting on New Voter ID Law

A new law that will require voters to show a valid photo ID at the polls will go into effect on Jan. 1, 2012.

In preparation for this, the Franklin County Election Commission will hold a meeting at 9 a.m., Tuesday, Nov. 1, in the community room of the Franklin County Annex. The town hall meeting will include a presentation, followed by a question-and-answer period.

"The goal of the town hall meeting is to educate the public and prepare voters for the upcoming 2012 elections," Margaret Ottley, administrator of elections said.

The major points of the law include:

— A voter is required to produce a federal or state government-issued photo ID before being allowed to vote. Some examples of a valid photo ID, even if expired, are a Tennessee driver license, U.S. passport, Department of Safety photo ID card, state or federal employee photo identification card or a U.S. military photo ID. Student college IDs will not be accepted for voting purposes. Free photo IDs may be obtained from any Department of Safety driver license testing station. Registered voters must sign an affidavit stating that the photo ID is for voting purposes, that they are a registered voter, and that they do not have any other valid government-issued photo ID. The Department of Safety will not issue a free photo ID if the person already has a valid government-issued photo ID.

— Voters who are unable to produce a valid photo ID will be allowed to vote a provisional ballot, which is a paper ballot, at the polls. Voters casting a provisional ballot will have until two business days after election day to return to the election commission office to show a valid photo ID.

— Voters with a religious objection to being photographed or voters who are indigent and unable to obtain a photo ID without paying a fee (for example, the voter cannot pay for a birth certificate for proof of citizenship) may sign an oath affirming to the information and will be allowed to vote on the machines.

— Voters who vote absentee by mail, voters who are hospitalized and voters who live in licensed nursing homes or assisted living centers and vote at the facilities are not required to show photo IDs. Registered voters over the age of 65 may request an absentee ballot and vote by mail.

For more information, contact Mark Goins, coordinator of elections, or Andrew Dodd, elections specialist, at the state Division of Elections at (877) 850-4959 or the Franklin County Election Commission at 967-1893.

Foster Parents Needed in Area

Youth Villages is looking for caring people in Sewanee and across Franklin County to become foster parents to children who have suffered abuse, neglect, abandonment or other issues, and need a home.

More than 50 children in Middle Tennessee are currently in need of a home. These children desperately need families who will care for them until they can return to their birth families, or an adoptive family is found for them.

If the children become available for adoption, foster parents often have the first right to adopt, and adoption through Youth Villages is free. Youth Villages' foster parents receive a monthly stipend to help them offset the costs of adding a child to their household.

Candidates should be single or married adults over the age of 25 and living in the Franklin County area who are interested in becoming foster or adoptive parents.

Youth Villages is a private nonprofit organization dedicated to helping emotionally and behaviorally troubled children and their families live successfully. It is based in Memphis.

SAS Hosts Open House for Prospective Students

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School welcomes families with students in grades 5-11 to attend an Admission Open House on Sunday, Oct. 23, from 2 to 4 p.m. Guests will have an opportunity to learn more about the school and its programs, including adventure education, LEADS, the campus radio station, Chinese language instruction, Winterim and the academic support center.

"We hope you will join us to explore what SAS has to offer. We are eager to be your partner in finding the best opportunities for your child's future," said Anne Chenoweth, director of admission and financial aid.

There will be an informational session with SAS students and administrators at 2 p.m. in the Agee Library in Simmonds Hall. Fifteen-minute mini-classes in mathematics, humanities, technology and science will be offered between 2:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Tours of the school's 550-acre campus, including LEED Gold-certified Wade Hall for the Sciences and McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts, will be offered at 3 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Throughout the afternoon there will be refreshments and information about the application process. Prospective families are welcome to come for the entire afternoon or drop in as they are able.

Families who are interested in learning more about SAS but cannot attend the open house are encouraged to contact the admission office at 598-5651 to set up a personal tour and appointment.

Local Student at Sea for the Fall Semester

Zachary Huffman, the son of Cliff and Angie Huffman of Sewanee, is enrolled in the SEA Semester, a study-abroad program through the Sea Education Association (SEA) in Woods Hole, Mass., while away from studies at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn.

Huffman has successfully completed the SEA Semester's six-week shore component, earning academic credit for curriculum in oceanography, nautical science and maritime studies.

At the program's Woods Hole campus, Huffman developed a research project that will be tested and completed aboard SEA's 134-foot sailing school vessel, the Corwith Cramer, as it sails from Rockland, Maine, with a possible port stop in Bequia, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, and a final destination of St. Croix, a journey of about 3,000 nautical miles and six weeks at sea.

During that time, in addition to collecting data for a research project, Huffman will help provide weather observations to a national database, learn to chart the course of the vessel using celestial navigation and serve as the junior watch officer, taking full command of the vessel during a watch. Shipmates come from colleges and universities around the country.

SEA was founded in 1971. It is the only full-credit undergraduate program in the U.S. that combines a rigorous academic and research curriculum with a voyage to the deep ocean under sail.

Friday–Sunday, Oct. 21–23, at 7:30 p.m.

Special late show on Friday, Oct. 21, at 10:30 p.m.

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2

130 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

What more can I add about “Harry Potter 7.2” that has not already been written? If you haven’t seen the first seven movies, then going to 7.2 would be like reading the last chapter of a very long book, with no idea what had occurred in the previous chapters. So, for all of us who love Harry and the wonderful world created by J.K. Rowling, this is a wonderful farewell to the series. For the rest of you, I recommend starting at the beginning with “Harry Potter and the Sorcerer’s Stone.” Rated PG-13 for some sequences of intense action violence and frightening images.

The Silence of the Lambs

118 minutes • R • Free

Jonathan Demme directed this 2001 award-winning film that has so deeply woven itself into popular culture that I’m not sure it even needs description. But, for you who don’t know: Clarice Starling (Jodie Foster) is a young FBI agent hunting for a serial killer who skins his victims. To solve the murders, she must enter into a relationship with the imprisoned Hannibal “The Cannibal” Lecter (Anthony Hopkins). Their conversations are intense and full of a creepy intimacy as Starling tries to find the killer. It is one of the great horror films that is psychologically interesting, suspenseful and plain old-fashioned scary. Not for the faint or squeamish, it is rated R for disturbing grisly violent content and images, strong language and sexual content.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week

Wednesday and Friday–Sunday, Oct. 26, Oct. 28–30, at 7:30 p.m.

Crazy, Stupid Love

118 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

On the surface, this looks like another infantile story about men who refuse to grow up, but “Crazy, Stupid Love” offers more. When Cal (Steve Carrell) finds out that his wife (Julianne Moore) has been cheating on him, they divorce, and he hits the dating scene. But, after 15 years of marriage, he finds himself lost. The young, charming Jacob (Ryan Gosling) tries to help Cal into this new world. Among the women they encounter are Marisa Tomei and Emma Stone. The movie is saved from mediocrity by terrific writing and the presence of talented actors (including Kevin Bacon). As critic Bob Mondello wrote, “In a genre where outright imbecility generally prevails, a film investigating craziness and stupidity qualifies as a cut above.” Rated PG-13 for coarse humor, sexual content and language.

Delcamp Organ Recital Honors Liszt

Robert Delcamp, University Organist, will celebrate Franz Liszt’s 200th birthday with a recital of the composer’s organ works at 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 22, in All Saint’s Chapel.

The program will include the Prelude and Fugue on BACH, Variations on “Weinen, klagen, sorgen sagen,” the Fantasia and Fugue on “Ad nos, ad salutarem undam,” as well as selected transcriptions and arrangements.

The program is free and open to the public.

Mystery Trip: A Beatles Tribute

“The Music of the Beatles,” a tribute to the band that changed rock and roll forever, will be performed by the group Mystery Trip at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 27, at the Arts Center of Cannon County.

Known as one of the best Beatles tribute acts ever seen, Mystery Trip offers expert musicianship in the recreation of the most well-known songs ever produced by the Beatles. This is a must-see show for any Beatles fan.

Mystery Trip’s dedication to recreating the records of the Beatles with expert musicianship has resulted in big crowds wherever they play.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults, $12 for seniors, students and groups of ten or more. For reservations or more information go to <www.artscenterofcc.com> or call (615)-563-2787.

“The Nutcracker” on Stage in Sewanee This Holiday Season

Ring in a new tradition this holiday season with “The Nutcracker: A Yuletide Ballet” performed by Alabama Youth Ballet Theatre and AYB-Sewanee Dance Conservatory, under the direction of David Herriott. Two performances will be held on Saturday, Nov. 19, at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. in Guerry Auditorium. Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. Tickets will be available at the door.

Set on Christmas Eve, The Nutcracker tells the story of a young girl, Clara, who receives a special gift of a nutcracker from her godfather, Herr Drosselmeyer. Following a festive Christmas Eve party, Clara watches in amazement as the nutcracker comes to life and battles the mice and their mouse king. Victorious, the nutcracker is transformed into a prince, who invites Clara to accompany him to the Land of Snow, and to the court of the Sugar Plum Fairy in the Kingdom of Sweets. There, dancers representing various countries and the delicacies of the Kingdom of Sweets perform in Clara’s honor.

“The Nutcracker: A Yuletide Ballet” will include dancers from the AYB-Sewanee Dance Conservatory who range in age from 7-year-olds to high school age and beyond, including some University students and staff. In Act I, the local dancers will take all the roles in the party scene, including all the children and parents at the Christmas party; local dancers will also be the mice in the battle scene.

In Act II, Sewanee Dance Conservatory teacher and University student Elizabeth Layman will perform the Spanish dance, and more local dancers will perform the Shepherd scene, complete with sheep and shepherdeses. The remainder of the roles will be performed by dancers from Huntsville who are members of Alabama Youth Ballet Theatre.

Arts Commission Director Announces Retirement

Rich Boyd, executive director of the Tennessee Arts Commission (TAC), announced recently his decision to leave the state arts agency after 28 years of service, effective January 2012. During his tenure with the agency, the TAC has become one of the foremost state arts agencies in the nation in terms of funding, arts education, advocacy, promotion and preservation of cultural heritage, strategic planning, support of individual artists and innovative services to constituents in all arts disciplines.

“It has been more than an honor to work with the dedicated members of the board, an energetic and talented staff, so many gifted arts administrators, leaders, supporters and artists across the state,” Boyd said. “It has been a true reward.

Rich Boyd

I have been on an incredible journey, enjoying every road I have traveled and delighting in the many individual paths I have crossed. It was a new adventure every day.”

During Boyd’s time with the TAC he initiated conversation that spoke to the value of the arts to every Tennessee community and how they could change lives, especially the students of the state. He encouraged participation and involvement by those working in the arts and invited public access to the agency’s programs and activities. His passion for making TAC funds available to all Tennesseans and demanding accountability will define his administration.

Area Fall Festivals

Community Engagement House

The Community Engagement House invites you to its Fall Harvest Festival, 2–4 p.m., today (Friday), Oct. 21. There will be food catered by Julia's, Dutch Maid Bakery, and McClurg Executive Chef Rick Wright, along with lots of homemade snacks made by residents of the house!

There will also be pumpkin decorating, face painting, music, a pinecone turkey craft, and a cupcake walk!

The mission of the Community Engagement House is to promote a seamless community among college students and residents of surrounding areas by hosting events open to all, facilitating networking and providing a physical meeting place for organizations devoted to serving the community at large. It is on the corner of Alabama and Mitchell avenues.

Downtown Decherd Festival

Historic Downtown Decherd will hold its first annual Fall Festival and Community Yard Sale on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22–23. There will be a community-wide yard sale encompassing Main Street, the city park, and the historic downtown area. In addition, Decherd's shops and eating establishments will be open. Hours for the event are 8 a.m.–4 p.m. on Saturday, and 12 p.m.–4 p.m. on Sunday.

SES-PTO Costume Parade

The Sewanee Elementary School PTO will hold its annual reverse Costume Parade on Thursday, Oct. 27. Students will begin lining up in front of SES at 5:45 p.m., and the parade will begin at 6 p.m.

Prior to the parade, Teresa Brown's second and third grade music classes will present Halloween songs. This will start at 5:30 p.m. in the SES cafeteria.

Streets will be blocked off from the school to Elliot Park by the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department (SVFD), in order for the children to safely walk down University Avenue.

Parents and community members are asked to line both sides of University Avenue to toss candy to the participants. Donations of candy are also being accepted at the school, by the main office.

The SVFD will lead the parade. If you have young children, please have one parent accompany them in the parade.

Don't forget to carve your pumpkin! Pumpkins will be displayed in the SES cafeteria during the day on Thursday, and then moved to the front of the school and down the street that evening.

Monteagle Costume Contest and Parade

The City of Monteagle is hosting a Halloween Parade on Saturday, Oct. 29. Lineup and the costume contest begin at 3 p.m. at Monteagle Elementary School. The parade will begin at 4 p.m.

Participants will walk from the school to Harton Park. Bystanders are asked to line Main Street and have treats ready for participants as they pass by.

There will be cash prizes in the costume contest for each of five age groups: toddlers (ages 0–3), children (ages 4–6), preteens (ages 7–12), teens (ages 13–19) and adults.

At the park, there will be spooky storytellers, hot apple cider and games. For more information or to volunteer, call Rhonda Pilkington at the Monteagle Mountain Chamber of Commerce, (931) 924-5353, or email her at <mmtn_chamber@blomand.net>.

Tullahoma Haunted House

South Jackson Civic Center in Tullahoma is celebrating Halloween and its ghostly tall tales by hosting a haunted house the last two weekends of October. Members of the Performing Arts for Children and Teens, in cooperation with volunteers from Teen Actors Guild in Manchester, have been working since September prepping for this event.

Hosted by Alan Gray, "South Jackson Hellementary School" will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, October 21–22; Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28–29; and Monday, Oct. 31. Admission is $5 per person. Young people in 6th grade and older may enter unaccompanied by an adult; any younger students must be accompanied by an adult.

Uke Jam

The Sewanee Ukulele Club will have a Uke Jam, 7–9 p.m., Monday, Oct. 24 at the Sewanee Community Center.

Beginners to advanced players always welcome. They have a few extra ukes for those who want to try one before they buy one. They are using the book "The Daily Ukulele: 365 Songs for Better Living."

Sewanee Review Hosts Open House

The Sewanee Review is hosting an Open House at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25, at McGriff Alumni Hall.

The occasion celebrates the 119th volume of the Review, which is devoted to the literature of war (Trojan Wars, Spanish civil war, Irish civil war, World Wars, the Middle East, and even the class wars of today) and is editor George Core's ninth issue on the subject.

There will be food, drink, prizes, and readings from Jennifer Michael, Wyatt Prunty, Julie Püttgen, Dale Richardson, Andrew Drexel, Lloyd Lochridge, Keller Reeves and Caroline Rogers.

Guests will hear some of the Review's noted voices from the past, as well as new voices from this year's issues on the idioms of poetry, literary lives, the house of fiction and the fall issue. Julia's is catering the reception.

Guests can enter drawings for door prizes, including a Barnes and Noble gift certificate, a bundle of books from the women of the Sewanee Review, a World War II memoir by Samuel Hynes and Billy Collins' newest collection of poetry.

Having remained in print since 1892—the longest sustained publishing run of any magazine of its kind—the Sewanee Review still attracts some of the most passionate and provocative writers in the world, new and old hands alike. Cormac McCarthy published the opening chapters to his first novel, "The Orchard Keeper," in the Review. Several of Flannery O'Connor's tragicomic short stories have appeared in the Review.

The Review's contributors list includes some of the most important writers of the past century: Wallace Stevens, T. S. Eliot, Howard Nemerov, Eudora Welty, Dylan Thomas, Robert Penn Warren, Albert Camus, William Faulkner, Allen Tate, Sylvia Plath, Saul Bellow, Seamus Heaney, W. H. Auden, Katharine Anne Porter and Wendell Berry.

THE VILLAGE IDIOT

by Peter Trenchi

Con-stability

A short while back, I attended a chili luncheon held in the cafeteria of a local hospital. The luncheon was designed to raise money to assist a well-respected community member with expenses incurred due to recent health impacts. I stepped into a packed room. While I did not know the majority of the people there, I felt the common connection of our mutual respect and concern for the beneficiary of the luncheon.

A constable was historically the person in charge of the stables. At a time when one's work and safety depended on the quality and condition of available horses, it was a position of great prestige and honor. Constables were often also given charge of militia and military garrisons. With the advent of paid police in the mid-nineteenth century, the powers of constables moved toward the keeping of the civil peace. What has remained constant throughout the history of constabulary is community service and support.

Industrial psychologists recognize that people who work with their hands know how to make something work, while abstract reasoners (also known as "management") may only be able to describe how something works. Thus, when the dissertation on bicycle riding is done, the writer is still eating chunks of pavement. I once worked with a community policing task force. Their interest was in reducing crime. We wrote a lot of words. It still never felt like the wheels would stand up.

My ex-father-in-law was one of the individuals who worked to establish the South Cumberland Recreation Area. He once related to me that what he looked for in his first round of park rangers was someone known to be a fearless good shot. They were then equipped with a badge and a proper firearm. This promoted safety. Potential criminals felt safer getting into mischief elsewhere, and park visitors were safe due to a low incidence of mischief. These rangers became respected members of their community.

A constable's work is community safety. The only word from my task force that made sense was "presence." The community must feel you are present, and you are part of them. That is the only way they can trust they are safe. When that hand waves, even if you don't know whether it means hello or take it slower, you know it was meant for you and thus you feel you are part of something.

As constables were replaced by paid police, the boundaries of coverage increased. This created designated communities that were often too large to feel personal presence. The office of constable has remained in rural communities that still support being a community. You may be able to designate crime reduction, but being safe is what I want.

I want to have the safety of wondering whether I am being warmly greeted or merely being admonished to slow down.

I want to feel a sense of community with people who, while I may not know them directly, at least all know the same wave.

I want to live where the flashing blue lights in the school zone are on an old F-150 and not a new Crown Vic.

I want the hands-on wave over the long arm of the law.

Barrows Noted by SCAC for Service and Character

Sewanee senior volleyball player Blair Barrows was named a SCAC Character and Community honoree by the league recently.

Barrows has excelled both on and off the court for the team, according to head coach Jessica Cortese.

"Blair has done a great job of being a servant-leader to the volleyball team," said Cortese. "As a captain, I ask that our players lead by example. She is always one of the first players to go the extra distance for the team. She is always willing to learn and has approached the volleyball court as a different type of classroom at Sewanee."

Barrows has worked with a number of organizations during her time on the Mountain. She has volunteered at Folks at Home, the Sewanee Senior Center and Sewanee Elementary School, as well as organizing the Turkey Trot for PKE sorority.

Sewanee Sports Highlights

Football

Led by a superb defensive effort, the Sewanee football team hammered visiting DePauw 30-7, Oct. 15, at McGee Field.

With this win, Sewanee's record now stands at 3-4. This was the first Tiger victory over DePauw since 1999.

Quarterback Lee Schurlknight and the Tiger offense went to work. Schurlknight found Ben Cleveland for a 40-yard pass, leading the Tigers deep into DePauw territory. Cleveland found the end zone from four yards out, for the Tigers first score of the day.

With Sewanee leading 6-0, the defense forced DePauw to punt after managing only four yards on three plays.

Zeke Wilson ran in for Sewanee's second score of the game. Garrett Schlosser added a 27-yard field goal midway through the second quarter.

DePauw quarterback Jackson Kirtley was picked off by Sewanee cornerback De'Nard Ford, who raced 65 yards to the end zone, giving Sewanee a 23-0 lead with 6:52 to play in the first half.

The second half was less exciting, with the game ending with Sewanee ahead, 30-7.

Men's Soccer

The men's soccer team battled rival Centre to a 1-1 double overtime draw Oct. 14 at Puett Field.

Sewanee's Ford Emerson headed home the first goal of the match from Will Morgan. In the second half, Centre scored in the 51st minute. The game ended at 1-1, and continued through two overtime periods with no scoring.

Matt Lightfoot led Sewanee with four shot attempts, while sophomore goalkeeper Derek Williams made seven saves on the evening.

Volleyball

The Sewanee volleyball team defeated Rust College and Division II

Lane College by identical 3-0 scores in play on Oct. 18, in Holly Springs, Miss. With the pair of wins the Tigers up their record to 6-17 overall.

In the first match of the afternoon Sewanee outlasted Rust by set scores of 25-19, 25-19 and 25-18. After the match against Rust, Kayla Sewell moved up to second place in the record books for blocks in a season. She is now at 77, four away from surpassing the record of 80 set in 2002.

In their second match the Tigers routed Lane College by scores of 25-13, 25-10 and 25-9. Jamie Sue Wilson passed a perfect 3.0 on serve receive against Lane, the only perfect passing score of the season.

Sewanee United, one of the Mountain Youth Soccer U12 teams, at a recent match.

Sewanee-Area Youth Soccer

U12 Division

Sewanee United, Sewanee's U12 boys soccer team, raised its season record to 6-0-2 on Oct. 15, with a 5-0 victory over South Pittsburg on a beautiful Saturday afternoon at the home field.

Blaise Zeitler scored twice, and he was joined by Ryan Toomey, Joseph McDonough and Aubrey Black in the scoring column. Jacob Hanson and Toomey shut out the visiting team while tending the nets.

Coach Ken Smith said, "All the guys have improved greatly this season, and since the remainder of our games are against teams from larger cities, I hope their improved skills will pay off with some big victories on the road against very tough competition."

Sewanee plays two games against teams from Huntsville this weekend.

U14 Division

Despite missing two players this week, the Sewanee-area U14 soccer team was "fired up" in its Oct. 15 game against Winchester at the Gamble Sports Complex. ("Fired up" might be the team's new name to complement their fiery yellow and red jerseys!)

In the match, the Sewanee team had its first "hat trick" by Sam Thomas in the 9-1 win. (A "hat trick" is when one player scores three goals in a game.) Sam Smith and Alex Hanson scored an additional two each, followed by Michael Schaerer putting in his first goal of the season, and Dan McNair finishing out the game with one final goal. Two great assists were made by Elliott Duncan and Jensen Farris in strong midfield play, and Abby Mainzer and Joshua Alvarez were moved up front to make a number of challenges on goal. Collins Partin again proved himself invaluable with expert passing to set up the many scoring scenarios.

The team now stands at 6-2 as they head to Huntsville for a doubleheader on Oct. 22.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Sports News

Cross Country

The SAS cross country team hosted Webb (Bell Buckle) on Tuesday, Oct. 18, on the Mountain. The Mountain Lions fell to the visitors, but all runners ran well in preparation for the TSSAA Division II Class A Regionals in Nashville next week.

Co-captain Max Richards led the SAS boys, while Elena Munteanu was the top girl finisher for the Mountain Lions. Jacob Hanson and Evelyn Seavey ran well for the middle school.

Football

An offensive shootout in the first half turned into a defensive struggle in the second, as SAS found a way to stop Christian Community School when it mattered, then put a fourth-quarter score on the board to break a 32-32 halftime deadlock and win by a score of 38-32 at home on Oct. 14.

The SAS defense, led by Russell Mays, Donta Oden, Robert Post, Hunter Craighill, Tyler Privette, J.R. Clay, Levi Higgins and Alex Tinsley, held CCS scoreless in the second half.

Kendall Kinslow lead a relentless Mountain Lion rushing attack with four touchdowns on the ground and a 54-yard pass to Sam Howick to complete the scoring. The durable Kinslow rushed 39 times for 359 yards. Clay and Craighill each tallied two-point conversions to go with Kinslow's two rushing conversions, as the Mountain Lions earned an exciting conference win, keeping them in the MTAC playoff race.

SAS hosts rival Webb for Senior Day to close the regular season at 4 p.m., today (Friday), Oct. 21.

Soccer

The SAS varsity girls' soccer program honored its seniors on Oct. 11: Alyson Hale, Hannah Horton and Sadie Shackelford. In an exciting and action-packed match against Community High School, the Lady Mountain Lions were focused and calm, with the game ending in a tie, 2-2.

SAS was first on the board after Monica Molina-Villaro slotted a nice pass to Sadie Shackelford for a goal.

Before halftime, Community answered with a goal of their own. Horton and Hale led the team in the second half, with Horton keeping the defense calm, while Hale evened the score in the closing 10 minutes. Community scored one last time, ending the match on a tie.

As the final whistle blew, head coach Andrea Fisher was proud of how the team fought back to honor their three graduating seniors. "It was a great match to watch, as we did not let setbacks become road blocks," said Fisher. "This is the kind of match we need heading into playoffs next week."

SAS dominated in its Oct. 13 match against Zion Christian Academy, winning by a score of 8-0. Within the first seconds of the match, the Mountain Lions set the tone and dominated possession of the ball in their final home match.

Molina-Villaro made the first goal of the evening, unassisted. She proved to be a key play maker, scoring another goal and assisting two more goals on the evening. Hale had another great performance, as she recorded four goals for the match, bringing her season goal total over 25. Horton had a second assist from the corner, which was finished beautifully by Shackelford. The eighth goal was netted by eighth-grader Sam Wiegand.

Assistant coach Fritsl Butler said, "The girls are showing a newfound confidence regarding their style of play. We've really emphasized moving the ball around the field and sharpening our technical ability this season. It's not an easy transition to make from playing kickball to playing beautiful soccer, and these young women have made it look effortless."

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

One of my favorite afternoon activities this time of year is assisting with the Sewanee Elementary School girls' basketball team. Along with coaches Kiki Beavers and Hali Gibson, we try to teach these young athletes not to run with the ball or tackle the girl who has it. Every practice is a learning experience for all of us.

If you turn on the TV this week, you can see the world's best athletes playing college football in the height of its season, or watch the World Series, the NFL match-ups, NASCAR's season-ending Chase, professional golf or any number of other worldwide sporting events. Walk around campus and you'll find volleyball, soccer, cross country and football. In almost every contest, you will find a winner and a loser. You can see a trophy carried home or witness an athlete hanging his head in defeat. There are instant rewards for success and an abundance of criticism for failure.

It may be this constant and instant reward-punishment system today that is responsible for changing the ethics that many athletes and coaches bring to the field. Between steroids, recruiting scandals, drug addictions, corked bats and various other athletic infractions, my beloved sports pages are filled with the stories I don't want to read. Just this week, the Boston Red Sox disclosed that their starting pitchers were drinking beer in the locker room during their failure of a pennant chase, and in a recent NFL game, Detroit Lions coach Jim Schwartz tried to start a fight with Jim Harbaugh, coach of the San Francisco 49ers, for apparently shaking his hand too hard after the game in celebration of victory.

When a Sewanee student signs the honor code, they do more than pledge not to lie, cheat or steal on their next paper or test. They are accepting a way of life that includes others and how their behavior affects the world around us. I consider us all lucky to live in a community where doors are unlocked and books, iPods and iPads can remain unattended in the library. This honor that our students carry with them remains unnoticed, for it is often what is not done rather than what is done that constitutes morality. You can't put a picture on Facebook or Twitter about the lie you didn't tell. It's not cool enough these days just to be the honest guy. True morality doesn't have a public reward-punishment system for the individual, because that honor is what is felt inside of us and it is rarely celebrated with a trophy or Saturday afternoon telecast.

For many of us, sports have been the teacher responsible for learning the rules of the road. A tennis ball hit on the line at 100 mph is still in, whether your opponent can see it or not. A golf swing that misses still counts as a stroke on your card and you have to call your own fouls in backyard basketball. But if athletes are put under the pressure of instant gratification from their successes rather than the knowledge that there are deeper, intrinsic rewards from choosing to compete with honor, then they are less likely to choose a path that offers life's highest prize.

A fan watching a sporting event on television wants to witness a championship, but the athlete more importantly needs to feel honor, because as the saying goes, "Victory without honor is really a hollow victory." If we can't do it on the field of play, then how are we to live this way in our towns, cities and the communities where we work? How can we teach our children to live a life of honor if the very heroes we watch don't exemplify that leadership?

We can disagree about who should be the next president, about whether to support the current stimulus bill or agree on new tax legislation, but shouldn't we agree on the honesty and integrity that both sides will use to solve the equation? We may disagree on what constitutes success for our country, but shouldn't we agree on the path to that victory?

Our young basketball prodigies probably will walk with the ball on occasion, and the ref's whistle will blow. They will foul when they shouldn't, and their opponent will get a free throw. But when the game ends, they will shake their fellow combatants' hands and look them in the eyes with appreciation for the necessity of the opponent who remains their opposite and therefore completes the equation.

Tell them you read it here!

A Good Day for Raptors

On Saturday, Oct. 15, the Yeatmans took Lynn Adams birding to the Crow Creek impoundment and the Jackson County (Alabama) Game Preserve. On the way down the mountain they saw numerous Kestrels. When they arrived at the impoundment there were Black and Turkey Vultures soaring above, also flocks of ducks too far away to identify. In the water Lynn spotted an Anhinga. When they traveled on to the Game Preserve they saw an adult Bald Eagle (like the one pictured here), which spiraled up and up above them in a thermal. They also saw a Red-tailed Hawk, a Cooper's Hawk and a Northern Harrier.

Helpers Needed for Relay Race

Volunteers are still needed in the Cowan and Sewanee area, and teams can still sign up for the 200-mile Ragnar Relay Tennessee on Nov. 4. Community Health Charities of Tennessee is the official charity of this race, benefiting seven nonprofit organizations. Ragnar Relay Tennessee will begin in Chattanooga at 7 a.m. on Nov. 4 and ends 200 miles later in Nashville on Saturday, Nov. 5. Healthways is the organizer of the event.

"We are pleased to partner in this amazing event," said Susan Garner-Sherrill of Community Health Charities. "The money raised will go directly to the local health initiatives of several of our member charities, such as Susan G. Komen, American Lung Association, St. Jude Children's Hospital, Make-A-Wish and Alzheimer's Association."

"The state of Tennessee should be a shining example of well-being. With some of the best weather and most beautiful state parks in the country, more of our citizens need to get moving and take advantage of the long-term benefits a healthy lifestyle affords," said Ben Leedle Jr., Healthways president and CEO. "I challenge all business and community leaders throughout the state to join us in turning the tide to improve the well-being of Tennessee."

The Ragnar Relay, an overnight relay race, is the fastest growing running category as it attracts novice and elite runners due to its unique team format. Each team is comprised of 12 runners, each running three legs to complete the 36 legs. Ragnar Relay Tennessee expects more than 3,200 runners to participate in the 2011 race, and aims to affect communities and get people inspired through a visual model of fun, healthy exercise and sportsmanship.

Volunteers and interested teams of up to 12 runners are encouraged to sign up at <ragnarrelay.com/race/tennessee>.

UDC Chapter in Franklin County

The Kirby-Smith Chapter 327 of the United Daughters of the Confederacy (UDC) was organized in Sewanee in 1899. The chapter was named in memory of Confederate General Edmund Kirby-Smith, who was a well-loved mathematics professor at the University of the South until his death in 1893.

"On August 31, 2000, the Kirby-Smith Chapter was disbanded due to a drop in membership," said Ginger Delius, chapter president. "However, Joyce Wilkinson of Tullahoma single-handedly applied for reactivation status and got the chapter back up and running. Wilkinson is currently chapter treasurer and registrar." A rechartering ceremony was held on Aug. 25, 2002, in Sewanee. The reactivated chapter started out with 27 members; currently, they have a membership of over 50 women.

The Kirby-Smith chapter participates in local events presenting historical and educational programs. One of the chapter's benevolent activities is donating nonperishable food items to the Community Action Committee, an outreach ministry of Otey Memorial Parish. The chapter participates in memorial activities and events such as the recent "Let Freedom Ring" program that was held in Winchester.

To learn about becoming a member of the Kirby-Smith Chapter 327 of UDC, go to <kirbysmith327.com>.

The UDC honors the memory of those who served and died in the service of the Confederate States Army.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

Oct. 21, 1772 - Birthday of Samuel Taylor Coleridge

In Köln, a town of monks and bones,
And pavements fanged with murderous stones,
And rags, and hags, and hideous wenches,
I counted two-and-seventy stenchs,
All well-defined and separate stinks!
Ye nymphs that reign o'er sewers and sinks,
The river Rhine, it is well known,
Doth wash your city of Cologne;
But tell me, nymphs, what power divine
Shall henceforth wash the river Rhine?

"Cologne" by Samuel Taylor Coleridge
