Community Council Election: Meet the Candidates

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of interviews with some of the local candidates running for office.

On Nov. 3, Sewanee residents will elect six members to the Sewanee Community Council, one member in each of the four districts and two-at-large members. Council members are elected for a four-year term. The candidates were asked to address the following questions: How long have you lived in Sewanee?; Why are you running for the council?; and What special qualifications or skills will you bring to the position?

Geoffrey M. Smith, Candidate for District 1

Geoffrey Smith is dean of students at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, where he serves as co-chair of the humanities department and coaches boys' varsity soccer. He teaches a place-based course in American Studies as well as electives on Southern Appalachian history, the Holocaust, and research methods. Smith has been recognized for teaching excellence by Humanities Tennessee and the Tennessee Holocaust Commission. Among other projects, Smith has examined the themes of religion, labor, childhood, and the transition to adulthood in the work of James Agee. Smith taught previously at All Saints' Academy in Winter Haven, Fla. He is a graduate of the University of the South and lives on the SAS campus in the historic Father Flye House.

Geoffrey M. Smith

June Weber, Candidate for District 1

I moved to Sewanee permanently in 2006 after visiting frequently in the past. A native of Louisiana, I attended Louisiana State University. My first career was as an elementary school teacher, but I soon discovered real estate. I have been a licensed real estate agent and broker over 49 years. I have held many local and regional positions in the real estate industry and sat on many statewide committees. I am the mother of a Sewanee graduate and a Rhodes graduate. Locally, I have been involved in many organizations. I am a past president of the Sewanee Woman's Club and active in the Morton Memorial United Methodist Food Ministry and other church projects. I support the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance and many other activities here on the Plateau. I look forward to continuing service on the Sewanee Community Council and working with our new Mayor, Vice-Chancellor Reuben Brigety.

June Weber

Bruce Manuel, Candidate for District 2

I moved to Sewanee in 2016 after I retired from working as a civil servant in the Department of Defense. Prior to that career, I served in the Navy for 20 years. A friend of mine asked me if I would be interested in running for a seat on the council and, after some thought, I decided to do so. Like other residents who are also alumni, I believe it provides me a unique perspective when it comes to fostering a healthy relationship between the community and the University. My many years in the military and working for the federal government helped me develop useful interpersonal and leadership skills. This experience can be a valuable asset to any group.

Bruce Manuel

Louis Rice, Candidate for District 3

My wife Sandy and I retired to Sewanee in June 2015, following my 30-plus year career in university development. I worked five years at Sewanee, 12 at the University of Illinois, and 15 at Georgia Tech. I was born in Sewanee, as were my mother and grandmother. I graduated from the University in 1973. In 1983, I left practicing law in Atlanta to work for the University in the Office of Development to start Sewanee's Planned Giving Program.

The students in Mrs. Laura Beth's fifth-grade class at Sewanee Elementary worked through eight lab rotations determining if the change they made was a physical or chemical change. They broke chips, sharpened pencils, melted chocolate in their hands, and created snakes out of Play-Doh to demonstrate physical change. They mixed lemonade packets with water, mixed salt with water, mixed antacids with water in film canisters, and mixed baking soda with vinegar to create chemical reactions. University to Establish On-Campus COVID-19 Testing Lab

The University of the South is establishing its own testing lab on campus to provide greater capacity and faster processing for COVID-19 tests administered to students, faculty, and staff.

The idea to establish a lab on campus resulted from exploring ways to help make Sewanee's existing COVID-19 testing program more efficient. Using our own lab will allow the University to scale according to our unique needs, as well as expand testing into different categories. The new Sewanee lab will be located in Spencer Hall.

Alyssa Summers will be the technical director of the Sewanee Molecular Diagnostics Lab and oversee the day to day operations, while both she and Clint Smith will work as molecular lab specialists to process samples. The goal is to be operational at some point in December, and to manage the University's COVID-19 testing next semester. Both Summers and Smith will continue to have faculty duties in the Department of Biology; Summers also will continue as the director of the Office of Medical and Health Programs.

The University's investment in the lab signifies its belief in testing as one vital strategy to continue having students reside safely on campus, as well as its commitment to the safety of the Sewanee community. It also demonstrates confidence in providing an on-campus learning experience during the 2021 spring semester.

National Public Radio reported recently that only 6 percent of colleges with in-person instruction this fall are routinely testing all of their students, and more than two-thirds "have no clear testing plan or are testing only students who are at risk." The University understands that testing alone is not a full response to the pandemic, but it is a critical component of our strategy, along with #ProtectTheBubble, emphasizing the 3 W's, holding some classes outdoors, changes in dining operations, and the other steps we have taken this fall.

When operational, the lab initially will focus on processing student and employee COVID-19 tests. In 2021, the lab will be able to serve University Health Services by testing for other illnesses in addition to COVID-19 (e.g., strep, HIV, and the flu). Having a clinical lab on campus brings with it not only the ability to be responsive and agile in our testing strategy but also offers new opportunities. There is the potential for new research endeavors with the medical community and clinical outreach with community partners, as well as new opportunities for students through internships and potential post-graduate programming.

The University extends congratulations to the team that has worked so hard to take the Sewanee Molecular Diagnostics Lab from an idea to reality. The new lab is perfectly aligned with Sewanee's strategy for the future, which includes the wellness of the student body as one of its pillars.

SUD 2021 Budget Big- Ticket Items

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the Oct. 20 meeting, the Sewanee Utility District Board of Commissioners weighed pursuing capital improvements in 2021 which would forestall increased expenses in the future. The board also discussed the status of the plan to narrow Highway 41A and the upcoming commissioner election.

Commenting on revenue projections in the 2021 budget, SUD Manager Ben Beavers said he reviewed averages for the past five years and past eight years and based 2021 estimated revenue at just below the midpoint. Although 2020 revenue year-to-date was 5 percent below budget, it was still within the eight-year average, Beavers said. Tap fees sales had boosted 2020 revenue, and water and sewer sales were up compared to August of last year. Beavers speculated the August 2020 increase might be due to more handwashing.

Beavers recommended spending $35,000 for leak detection in 2021 in the hope of reducing unaccounted for water loss. Unaccounted for water loss is the difference between water produced at the plant and water passing through customer meters, meaning SUD is not paid for the water. Unaccounted for water loss has averaged 30 percent for 2020. Beavers said the pattern suggests the cause is leaks, not faulty metering.

Taking up another future-expense issue, the board advised Beavers to include an additional big-ticket item on the 2021 budget: a filtration screen for the wastewater collection headworks at Bob Stewman Road, estimated cost $125,000. The headworks screen is needed to block toilettes and masks from clogging the collection system grinder pumps and spray field pumps at the Wastewater Treatment Plant. Replacing the Bob Stewman grinder pump alone would cost $12,000, Beavers said. "For the long-term health of the pumps, the headworks screen will be money well spent. The screen will add 40 percent to the life of the pumps."

The 2021 budget also includes $194,508 for the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) project to narrow Highway 41A. Beavers recently consulted with TDOT and learned no one had bid on the project. Beavers was advised the earliest the project would be rebid was in December. TDOT is considering

CHANGES

To the Editor:

Fall is a season of notable changes. There are three changes I would most like to see, one will take weeks to months, another months to years, and the last, several decades.

I hope this new season brings vast and accelerating progress in three areas: 1) defeat COVID-19; 2) peacefully improving human relations by judging others not only by the strength of their character, but also by how they treat others who are not like them; and 3) not only reinstate the environmental protection rules, enforcement, and international agreements that the present administration has abandoned, but go beyond protection and begin a program of environmental restoration.

My hopes and dreams are best expressed by the lyrics written some 50 years ago by Pete Seeger, singer, songwriter, philosopher, social and environmental activist.

“One blue sky above us, one ocean lapping all our shore

One earth so green and round, who could ask for more?”

And because I love you I’ll give it one more try

To show my rainbow race, it’s too soon to die

Go tell, go tell all the little children

Tell all the mothers and fathers too

Now’s our last chance to learn to share

What’s been given to me and you

One blue sky above us, one ocean lapping all our shore

One earth so green and round, who could ask for more?”

Only if we accept and adopt Pete’s vision can we achieve the goal of liberty and justice for all.

CDC HALLOWEEN GUIDE

To the Editor:

Fall is a glorious time of year in Sewanee. With the holidays on the horizon, we know that everyone is eager for the return of traditions and with them some sense of normalcy. In particular, trick-or-treating is a cherished tradition for many young people. However, this Halloween, we hope you will help us combat COVID-19 by continuing to put safety first.

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) has issued specific guidelines for various holidays, including Halloween, and extensive detail can be found on this page <<https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/daily-life-coping/holidays.html#halloween>> on the CDC website. Among their recommendations, it is advised to:

Avoid participating in traditional trick-or-treating, where treats are handed to children who go door to door.

Avoid trunk-or-treat events, where treats are handed out from trunks of cars lined up in large parking lots.

Avoid attending crowded costume parties held indoors.

Avoid going to an indoor haunted house where people may be crowded together and screaming.

Avoid crowded hayrides or tractor rides with people who are not in your household.

Avoid using alcohol or drugs, which can clouded judgement and increase risky behaviors.

Avoid attending fall festivals if you live in an area with community spread of COVID-19.

We encourage you to review all of the CDC’s guidance on Halloween closely.

Thank you in advance for approaching Halloween and the upcoming holiday season with careful consideration as we work to decrease the spread of COVID-19. We look forward to returning to the Halloween traditions we all know and enjoy as a community once this virus is behind us.

Mariel Gingrich and Dr. Mary Heath, Public Health Officers, The University of the South

DAYS OF THE DEAD

To the Editor:

Because Halloween just isn’t Halloween without doing fun stuff with children, and because COVID has made it difficult if not impossible to celebrate the holiday in the ways we are used to, I wanted to share with everyone a custom we started in my family when our kids were small.

Every year, on either All Saints’ (Nov. 1) or All Souls’ (Nov. 2), whichever one falls on a weekend and/or has the better weather, we plant a dozen or so bulbs in the yard.

The meaning is two-fold—it is a remembrance of the ones who have gone before, known and unknown, and at the same time a reminder that, like the bulbs, all new life begins in the dark. It’s an act of faith.

I hope this idea will resonate with those looking for a COVID-safe observation of the holiday, because if it becomes widespread—just imagine how beautiful our town could be in only a few years.

TURNING POINT

To the Editor:

One of the most important elections in the history of our nation is at hand.

We should carefully and objectively evaluate the qualifications and track records of the candidates to determine who can best lead us through these times of plague, division, anger, fear and hostility.

The outcome of our votes will determine the fate of our country for many years to come.

Translating Ovid in the Age of #MeToo at ALLL

Ovid's Metamorphoses is a first century epic poem recounting myths from the beginning of history to the time of Caesar. Ovid's work touches on many aspects of love, sometimes of humans and frequently of the Roman gods, and has had a great impact on other writers throughout the centuries.

In a noon webinar on Monday, Nov. 2, hosted by the Academy of Lifelong Learning, Stephanie McCarter looks critically at how sexual violence has been translated in English versions of Ovid's Metamorphoses and outlines her strategies for more effectively--and more faithfully--construing rape and the objectified female body. The Academy is part of the Sewanee Seminar Series. Those wishing to attend this webinar should email academyforlllearning@sewanee.edu. There is no charge for participation.

Stephanie McCarter is Associate Professor of Classics at the University of the South. She did her undergraduate work in classics and English at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville and earned her M.A. and Ph.D. in Classics from the University of Virginia. At Sewanee she teaches Greek and Latin courses at all levels as well as courses in translation, and she is active in Sewanee's interdisciplinary Humanities program. She has recently published a translation of Horace's Epodes and Odes with the University of Oklahoma Press and is now translating Ovid's Metamorphoses for Penguin Classics. She has also penned essays and interviews for The Sewanee Review, Lapham's Quarterly, Literary Hub, Electric Literature, Eidolon, and elsewhere.

Obituaries

Senter Cawthon Crook II

The Reverend Senter Cawthon Crook II died on Oct. 12, 2020, at her home in Sewanee, with her family at her side, after a difficult battle with Parkinson's disease. She was born on Oct. 23, 1943, in Memphis, to Janie Peete Crook and Jere Lawrence Crook Jr., lived most of her life there, and considered it home, returning regularly to visit her children and grandchildren after her move to live more permanently in Sewanee in 2016. She received her MDiv from the University of the South School of Theology. She faced resistance from many, including the Bishop, who had to approve her attendance at seminary, but who felt it was not a woman's place. Yet with determination and support of family and friends, she went on to become the first woman ordained a priest in the Episcopal Diocese of West Tennessee. She had a profound impact on many lives. It was her central belief that God is love, and that God loves every single person and accepts them for who they are—unconditionally. She was preceded in death by her parents.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Isaac Joseph McFadden II; children, Blair Crook Taylor (Brian Vanderheyden), Bruce Cameron Taylor, Jr. (Taylor), and Janie Peete Taylor Tillery (Bill); her brother, Jere Lawrence Crook III; grandchildren, Reed Taylor Barnes, Mackenzie Taylor Barnes, Bruce Cameron Taylor III, Holden Victoria Cornelia Taylor, June Taylor Rogers, Beau Taylor Rogers; stepson, Isaac Joseph McFadden III; stepdaughter, Elizabeth Tilghman McFadden (Steve Holdsworth); and two step grandchildren, Addison McFadden Aldinger and Carter William Aldinger Jr.

Funeral services will be livestreamed <<https://calvarymemphis.org/worship-2/livestream/>> at 11 a.m. CDT today, Friday, Oct. 23, 2020, from Calvary Episcopal Church, Memphis. Candidates (from page 1)

I bring to the Community Council the perspective of a native son, an alumnus, an employee of the University, and now a resident retiree. I currently serve on the Board of the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance and have been Superintendent of Abbo's Alley since 2016. Serving on the Community Council is yet another way I can give back to Sewanee. I would be proud to represent District 3 in that capacity.

Louis Rice

Lynn Stubblefield, Candidate for District 3

We moved to Sewanee in October of 1982. We chose Sewanee because we wanted a family and wanted to raise them in the most perfect community we could find. Thirty-eight years later, I'm still here. I am running for the District 3 seat on the Sewanee Council because I care about the present as well as the future of Sewanee. It is important that your voice be heard. I care about all of Sewanee, not just the campus. I feel you need a representative who is familiar with the many aspects of our community. I am a member of the Sewanee Business Alliance, Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary, the Retail Academy, and Otey Parish. I have served on the board of the Civic Association, and as a realtor for 35 years. I am a constant volunteer. I am asking for your vote.

Lynn Stubblefield

Phil White, Candidate for District 4

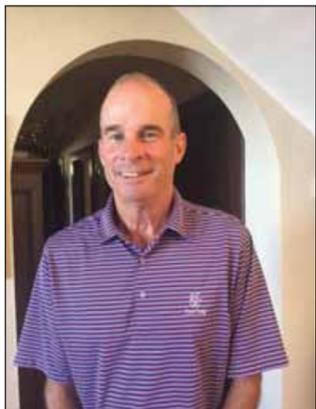

I came to Sewanee as a student in 1959 and never left. I have always maintained close relationships with both University employees and local residents. I have been an active member of the Council for three terms and played an active role in lowering the transfer fee, solving the airport light issue, and building and managing a dog park. I wish to continue to work hard for the good of the community.

Phil White

Bill Harper, At-Large Candidate

I graduated from the University as an economics major in 1978, my wife (Knowles) in 1979 and my boys in 2007 and 2010. I spent my career with various Wall Street firms as a financial advisor in the DC area. While there, I was involved in a number of church and nonprofit leadership roles. In 2006 we bought a second home in Sewanee, becoming residents in 2009 as I learned to work remotely. I retired 2 years ago. In addition to University volunteer activities, including currently serving as a trustee, I co-chaired the Community Chest drive with Knowles and established the Civic Association's Opportunity Fund, for which I serve as chairman of the investment committee. I have also served on the South Cumberland Community Fund board. If elected, I believe I will be an effective advocate for this warm, inclusive community of which I am proud to be a member.

Bill Harper

Ed Hawkins, At-Large Candidate

My family and I moved to Sewanee Christmas Day, 2007. I immediately became interested in our local businesses. Formerly, I was a Senior VP in the Commercial and Consumer sectors for Wachovia, now Wells Fargo Bank, and have held positions ranging from Head of Marketing to Chief Financial Officer. I'm currently a real estate professional and partner at The Blue Chair and University Realty. A founding member of the Sewanee Business Alliance, I worked to create a team of business owners that work together for the good of our community. I also assisted in forming a village partnership between the SBA and University and helped advance the Angel Park vision, Friday Nights in the Park, AngelFest, the Light Up the Village festival and the Annual Christmas Tree Lighting. I'm eager to help the town and University succeed together and to serve in a new capacity as a Community Council member.

Ed Hawkins

Augustine "Spike" Hosch, At-Large Candidate

Spike is a 2012 graduate of the college, returned to the Mountain in 2015, and has lived in Sewanee since. In serving Sewanee and its neighboring communities as an AmeriCorps VISTA, as the president of the Grundy County Rotary, as the treasurer of the Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace, and on the board of the South Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, Spike recognizes the importance of including perspectives from stakeholders across the Mountain in the Community Council. Spike cares deeply about his adopted home and thinks he can continue the accessible and responsible representation demonstrated by past at-large council members. Whether elected or not, Spike frequently can be found at the Phil White Dog Park with his fluffy dog, Mavis.

Spike Hosch

John C. Solomon, At-Large Candidate

John Solomon, born and raised in Buenos Aires, Argentina, came to the United States in 1966 to attend college at Sewanee where he received a B.A. in Economics. In 2008, following a 34-year banking career in St. Louis, John was offered the opportunity to return to Sewanee to restart the Pastoral Spanish program at the School of Theology. After retiring in 2017, he focused on family, local volunteer roles, outdoor activities, and travel. During his recent tenure as President of the Rotary Club of Monteagle-Sewanee, John became increasingly aware of the needs, and opportunities to address these needs, in the local area. He sees communication, public awareness, and bringing people and resources together as the best way to address these.

It is John's love for this community that drives him to run for an at-large position on the Community Council, where he hopes to continue offering his time and talent.

John Solomon

Bess Turner, At-Large Candidate

Bess Turner moved to Sewanee in June of 2012 and began working for the University that same summer in the Office of Admissions, while also maintaining a small real estate practice with Gooch Beasley. In 2015, she transitioned to University Relations to work on the capital campaign and now serves as the Director of Development, Alumni, and Church Relations for the School of Theology. Bess and her husband, Chris Crigger, are parents to four teenagers, three of whom attend St. Andrew's-Sewanee. Bess has been an active supporter of the sustainable development of the Sewanee Village, serving on the Village Advisory Board and the Sewanee Business Alliance. She believes that a vibrant local economy, along with accessible housing options for all Sewanee residents, will help the University attract and retain faculty, staff, and students, and will cultivate a community with a strong sense of belonging.

Bess Turner

Early voting for the Sewanee Community Council candidates continues at the Lease Office (The Blue House), 400 University Ave., Sewanee, through Oct. 30, during regular business hours. Election Day voting, Nov. 3, will be at the Sewanee Elementary School.

Monteagle Receives MTAS Opinion

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

"The zoning was done in error and needs corrected," said Monteagle attorney Jerry Bible at the Oct. 19 Monteagle Council workshop, paraphrasing the opinion of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service (MTAS) on zoning maps approved by ordinance in 2018 and 2019. "If the city is still in favor of making those [zoning map] changes, you should go through the process with proper notification."

The MTAS opinion stated: "The town did not comply with the statutory and ordinance procedural requirements." Monteagle ordinances require notice of a hearing on zoning map changes must be published in a local newspaper 15 days prior to the meeting. Fifteen-day notification was not given for the 2018 and 2019 zoning map hearings.

Attorney Sarah Bible said the Monteagle zoning map would revert back to the 2015 version.

"We've checked back and we don't think the 2015 map is correct either," said Vice Mayor Tony Gilliam.

Following the workshop, Gilliam explained a 15-day public hearing notice did not appear to have been given for the 2015 zoning map changes made by the prior administration.

The 2018 ordinance also included zoning regulations. Discussing the course of action the Planning Commission would follow, Chair David Oliver said, "We weren't planning on adopting that [the 2018] map. We were just going to review [the regulations] and make any minor changes to the language of the ordinance."

Sarah Bible pointed out the 2018 ordinance added the requirement of by mail notification to adjacent landowners for zoning map changes. "Calling for land owner notification is not in the Tennessee Code," Bible said. "I don't know where that came from."

Oliver said the notification-to-landowners stipulation was added because of possible air quality concerns when zoning for a cement plant was under consideration.

Sarah Bible said some municipalities were requiring by mail notification to adjacent land owners. She stressed that to adopt the 2018 ordinance regulations, no by-mail notification was required. Because the 2018 ordinance had not been adopted, the stipulation of by-mail notification was not currently in effect, and even if it had been, the by-mail notification clause applies only to zoning map boundaries changes.

In other business, the council discussed getting sealed bids for the purchase of a new backhoe for the water plant to replace the out-of-service 25-year-old backhoe. Regarding concerns about a large trash pile at the former Blalock Building Supplies location and unkept property on North Bluff Circle, Gilliam recommended the city attorneys send letters to the property owners giving them 30 days to address the problems.

Gilliam also recommended temporarily tabling the plan to purchase a generator for the police department. Research revealed a three-phase generator was needed rather than a single-phase generator, which would nearly double the anticipated $6,000 cost. "We need to check around for a better price," Gilliam said.

Informed by the Water Department about a developer's request for service, Gilliam said the engineering would need to be done by the state since the property was outside the town's Urban Growth Area. He predicted the cost to the developer would be "very expensive," since the developer would need to tap into a 6-inch line on the other side of U.S. Highway 41.

No votes were taken at the workshop. The Monteagle City Council will hold its regular meeting on Oct. 26.

The School of Theology Bestows Awards

On Oct. 7, the recipients of the Woods Leadership Award and the Freeman Award for Merit were announced following the Wednesday Holy Eucharist in the University of the South's All Saints' Chapel. The awards were announced by the Very Rev. James F. Turrell, dean of the School of Theology, and presented by the University's Vice-Chancellor Reuben Brigety.

Ashley Simpson, T'22, was named the recipient of the 2020 Woods Leadership Award, presented annually to a middler seminarian who has successfully assumed a leadership role in the class during their junior year.

"Receiving this award is a tremendous honor and incredibly humbling," said Simpson. "I have said that the community at The School of Theology is what drew me here. When I arrived, I wanted to give back to the community that would help form me in my ministry for the larger Episcopal Church. I want to thank The School of Theology community for allowing me to grow and flourish."

Simpson is an M.Div. student and a postulant for Holy Orders from the Diocese of East Carolina. She grew up in Roper, North Carolina, before going to boarding school at the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics in Durham, N.C. From there, she studied Marine Biology at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. Simpson is currently a working group member of the University's Roberson Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation.

The Woods Award defines leadership as the ability to bring people together into a cooperative community to accomplish assigned tasks and to identify and implement strategies, goals, and programs. Established by Granville Cecil Woods and James Albert Woods, the award recognizes students of the School of Theology who make a significant contribution to the quality of the community's life.

Christopher Schwenk, T'22, was named the recipient of the 2020 Freeman Award for Merit, an award honoring a rising middler student that has demonstrated outstanding academic performance and promise.

Schwenk shared, "I am humbled and honored to be recognized with the Freeman Award, and I thank Reed and Nancy Freeman for their generosity. I feel indebted to the School of Theology's brilliant faculty for their teaching, prayers, and encouragement. What a gift it is to be formed for ministry to God's people in a community like this."

Schwenk is an M.Div. student from the Diocese of Pennsylvania. He is a 2017 (B.A.) and 2019 (M.A.) graduate of Florida State University in Tallahassee, Fla. He recently participated in a project funded by the Episcopal Evangelism Society, Ministerios Latinos, and Trinity Church Wall Street to publish the first English translation of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil's 2015 Book of Common Prayer. He serves the seminary community as a member of the School of Theology Schola Cantorum and as a tutor for students of pastoral Spanish.

Reed Freeman, T'96, T'05, and his wife, Nancy, established the Freeman Award for Merit in 1998. Freeman was a recipient of the Woods Leadership Award while he was attending seminary at the School of Theology.

The awards' recipients are decided each year by the dean and faculty of the School of Theology.

combining the Sewanee project with other projects to make it more attractive to bidders. Beavers said SUD is required to hold a sum equal to the estimated cost of the project in reserve in Local Government Investment Pool accounts. "It's still our money, but we can't get to it," Beavers said.

Looking to administrative concerns, the board discussed the January commissioner election. SUD is seeking candidates for the open seat currently held by President Charlie Smith. Smith will seek re-election. By law, SUD must present a slate of three nominees. Commissioner candidates must be SUD customers. Commissioners earn a $50 stipend for each meeting they attend. Potential candidates should contact Beavers at the SUD office, (931) 598-5611.

Convent's Virtual Program Series Continues

The Sisters of St. Mary's virtual series continues with "Scurvy, She Wrote!" presented by Sarah Ash, Ph.D. The discovery of many of the vitamins reads like a murder mystery, complete with multiple suspects, red herrings, twists and turns leading to dead ends and key clues, and dogged detectives who sometimes had to put their own lives in jeopardy to uncover the truth. The virtual event will take place on Saturday, Oct. 24 from 10-11:30 a.m. There will be time for questions. The cost of the session is $20, and participants can register at <www.communityofstmarysouth.org>.

SAS Virtual Admission Open House, Nov. 15

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School welcomes families seeking better educational options to a virtual admission open house on Sunday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m. for students seeking admission to grades 6-8 and 4 p.m. for students interested in grades 9-12. Families will enjoy the opportunity to hear from and interact with school administrators, teachers, and students. Families can register online at <sasweb.org/admission>.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School provides outstanding college and life preparation for day and boarding students in grades 6-12. Named one of the South's most beautiful high schools by Southern Living Magazine, the school takes full advantage of its 550-acre mountaintop campus. Students spend significant time outdoors each day walking the historic campus and enjoying outdoor learning and recreation opportunities. Playing as the Mountain Lions, the school fields 25 teams in 10 sports, including a varsity mountain biking program, one of the first in the state, and the best private school girls' wrestling program in Tennessee. SAS is also known for its rich visual and performing arts programs.

SAS students enjoy small classes, personalized instruction, and the opportunity to participate in a wide range of activities regardless of their prior level of experience. The school's Learning Resource Center provides academic support for students needing additional attention. Students seeking more challenge may take college courses for free and for credit at the nearby University of the South.

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's Episcopal heritage is central to its mission, but the school welcomes students of all faiths. To provide educational opportunities for those students for whom such experiences might not otherwise be available, the school awards close to $2.3 million in financial aid each year.

SAS has been in session on-campus and in-person since August. The school recently completed the first quarter of the academic year without a positive COVID test on campus despite extensive testing of its students, faculty, and staff. Students are enjoying more outdoor classes in the school's many outdoor classrooms. The school calendar will move classes online from late November through mid-January. Parents gave the school high marks last spring when classes went online and teachers have received additional training on the effective use of technology for online classes.

Families are encouraged to schedule a personalized campus visit and on-campus interview as part of the application and admission process.

For more information about St. Andrew's-Sewanee School and the Virtual Admission Open House, go to <www.sasweb.org>. Registration will close on Friday, Nov. 13.

Three Franklin County Schools Designated a Project Adam Heart Safe School

Cowan Elementary, Rock Creek Elementary, and North Middle School have all been designated a Project ADAM Heart Safe School. All Franklin County Schools now have an Automated External Defibrillator (AED). The students, visitors and employees will have a better chance of surviving a sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) because of the AEDs in the schools and the Cardiac Emergency Response Plans surrounding the use of Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs).

The Cardiac Emergency Response Plans were implemented through a partnership with Project ADAM by training staff and students to recognize a cardiac arrest and respond appropriately. "We want to be sure that we can effectively respond to any medical emergency that occurs on our properties," said Bonita Nolan, Office of Coordinated School Health. "Through our cooperative efforts with Project ADAM Tennessee and Monroe Carell Jr. Children's Hospital at Vanderbilt, we have joined hundreds of schools throughout the state of Tennessee in preparing our school for a life-threatening emergency. This program enables us to offer any person who may experience a Sudden Cardiac Arrest the best chance of survival."

In the United States, SCA affects more than 350,000 people annually and is the leading cause of death each year. While most SCA deaths occur in adults, SCA is also the leading cause of death in young athletes and can also strike children participating in normal school or sports activity. Sudden cardiac arrest is the abrupt, unexpected loss of heart function, usually resulting from an electrical problem within the heart. When this happens, the heart stops beating and blood stops flowing to the brain and other vital organs. When this occurs the victim collapses and loses consciousness. SCA most often results in death if not treated within minutes. Defibrillation, which delivers an electric shock to the heart, is the only known treatment to stop this chaotic electrical activity within the heart. Each minute defibrillation is delayed, the victim's chances of survival decreases by 10%.

AEDs are safe and easy to use, making it possible for non-medical personnel to be trained to provide rapid defibrillation for victims of all ages. The American Heart Association, Project ADAM and OSHA recommend that any facility in which large groups of people congregate should establish a CPR and AED program.

Monroe Carell Jr. Children's Hospital at Vanderbilt has partnered with Project ADAM to begin supporting Middle Tennessee schools and community centers. The goal is for every school in middle Tennessee to achieve the Heart Safe designation. This designation indicates to the public that their school staff is trained and prepared to respond to a cardiac emergency.

"Project ADAM is a national, non-profit organization committed to saving lives through advocacy, education, preparedness and collaboration to prevent sudden cardiac death. Our affiliate programs improve the cardiac chain of survival in schools and communities in memory of Adam Lemel, a 17-year-old Whitefish Bay, Wisc., high school student who collapsed and died while playing basketball at school."

For more information regarding our program, please contact Bonita Nolan, B.S., M.Ed, Ed.S, ABD, with Coordinated School Health at (931) 981-6002. For more information about Project ADAM Middle Tennessee and how to achieve the Heart Safe designation at your school or community center, please contact Angel Carter, RN, BSN, Project ADAM Middle Tennessee by email <angel.carter@vumc.org> or phone (615) 343-4984.

Shakerag Workshops ‘Let Us Find Them’ Online Event

Shakerag Workshops introduces a first online offering: “Let Us Find Them: Opening Ourselves to Poetry” on Monday, Oct. 26, at 5 p.m. The event is free, but registration is required. Go to <www.shakerag.org>.

In this gathering, participants will explore why poetry is an important gift to all of us—especially artists—with a conversation between Ciona Rouse and Claire Reishman. We will also explore different ways to enter into a poem and appreciate what a poem has to offer without all of the anxiety a poem may have given you during your grade school days. This workshop is part dialogue and part practice and all delight. Poetry is among us always; let us find it.

Poet, editor, and teaching artist Ciona Rouse is the author of “Vantablack,” the first chapbook of Third Man Books’ limited chapbook series (2017), which sold out within a few months of publication. Rouse often collaborates with other poets and artists, and in 2017-18 she served as a resident poet for the “Nick Cave: FEAT” art exhibition at Frist Art Museum, culminating in a poem called “We,” which was named 2018’s “Best Poetry Performance” by Nashville Scene. Her poetry was featured on NPR Music in collaboration with musician and poet Adia Victoria and poet Caroline Randall Williams in August 2019. Rouse currently lives in Nashville, where she is working on her first full collection of poetry and several literary collaborations.

Reishman taught English at St. Andrew’s-Sewanee for years, using The New Yorker as the primary text in her 11th grade class and, with her students reading The New Yorker poems each week. She is the Director of Shakerag Workshops and also an avid fox hunter and potter. She lives in Sewanee with her husband, dog, and two horses.

Shakerag Workshops will be celebrating its 18th year in June 2021. Registration is open. Shakerag Workshops is a group of arts classes for adults held in June each year on the St. Andrew’s-Sewanee campus, in Sewanee. Instructors from around the world offer classes in a variety of media—knitting, basketry, book arts, clay, digital arts, felting, fiber, mixed media, jewelry, wood working, sculpture, and painting. For more information visit <www.shakerag.org>.

Virtual Art Show at UAG

The University Art Gallery is delighted to present “This is Where I Live,” a participatory photography project led by acclaimed photographer Wendy Ewald. By means of a collection of approximately 400 photographs, “This is Where I Live” represents experiences and lives from several distinct communities in Israel and the West Bank. The exhibition will be on view through Nov. 20.

To protect the health of those on and off our campus, in-person visits to the exhibition are reserved for students, faculty, and staff of the University already on campus. The University Art Gallery (UAG) has an additional opportunity to explore “This is Where I Live” remotely, with slideshows of the individual photographs from each of the 14 communities now accessible on the UAG website <https://new.sewanee.edu/university-art-gallery/current-exhibition-2/>.

For “This is Where I Live,” Ewald worked with 14 disparate groups of people in Israel and the West Bank, from Palestinian Arab women elders in East Jerusalem to Jewish Israeli sixth-grade students from the Kfar Giladi Kibbutz, Upper Galilee, from Palestinian Arab sixth-grade students at the Bir El Amir School in Nazareth to Jewish Israeli stall owners from the Mahane Yehuda market, Jerusalem. “This is Where I Live” presents “a kind of narrative atlas,” in which people from a deeply and impossibly divided region share their experiences, and all the places they live, in photographs.

NATURENOTES

by Yolande Gottfried

Insect Apocalypse?

The katydids arrived late this year. There did not seem to be as many cicadas singing in the trees this summer. In my garden, if I saw just one bee or one butterfly, it was notable. Now, James Stephens is reporting an absence of yellow jackets around his windfall apples. Sue Hawkins concurs and points out an absence of June bugs. And have you noticed fewer bugs on the windshield? On the other hand, the firefly show this year around our place seemed especially lovely. Is the insect apocalypse upon us? Insects are especially hard to study because there are so many of them—at least one million species—and relatively few large-scale or long-term studies. In general, though, the studies that do exist are showing an ongoing decline in numbers and ongoing extinction of species. There is much variation in these figures in different regions and types of habitats. More research needs to be done, but there does seem to be cause for concern. Planting native species, especially pollinator-friendly ones, and reducing pesticide use can't hurt.

Today, Oct. 23, is Mole Day, celebrating Avogadro's Number, 6.02x10 to the 23rd power. 10/23 is the date-get it? And technically it is celebrated from 6:02 a.m. to 6:02 p.m. A mole is a basic measuring unit in chemistry. According to the National Mole Day Foundation, "one mole of any substance contains Avogadro's Number of molecules or atoms of that substance." Or one can simply celebrate little furry moles on Mole Day, as is often done in school chemistry clubs and similar groups.

Java

Dreama

Pets of the Week

Meet Java & Dreama

Java (named after a local coffee spot Java Hut) is a precious pup that is sure to kick-start your day with energy and affection. Java is around 4 years old and a medium-sized mixed-breed with a touch of pitbull terrier. Java was surrendered by no fault of her own, but simply because she explored a little too much and was not properly secured by her family. Java has excellent socialization skills, and has been known to love everyone, adults and kids, and also other companion animals. All Java needs is a few manners and sharpening of her potty training skills, since she has never lived inside a home. We feel Java is very trainable and adaptable. If you are looking for a sweet, fun-loving dog, look no further because spicy Java is your girl! If you are interested in adopting Java, please make sure to submit an adoption application at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Dreama is a five month old dilute calico kitten with a lively personality. Dreama can best be described by staff as being rambunctious and a typical kitten with kitten antics! She can be wild, but also has a very sweet side. Brought in by Decherd Police Department as a frail and tiny six-week old stray kitten, Dreama has big dreams of growing up in a home to learn how to be a good girl for a deserving family. Dreama would do well in a home with another cat or kitten companion and/or children. If you are interested in adopting Dreama, please make sure to submit an adoption application at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for more information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>.

Keep the South Cumberland State Park Safe and Clean

Don't let South Cumberland State Park be the place you caught, or shared, the COVID virus. Help keep the Park safe for all to enjoy by following these simple steps:

Please wear masks any time you are in the presence of other Park visitors

Please maintain six-foot social distancing from anyone not in your immediate group

Please bring hand sanitizer and be virus-aware at all times during your visit

Please bring a trash bag and pack out whatever you bring into the Park

Enjoy the Park responsibly, and help us keep the Park beautiful.

If you find a crowd (or crowded parking lot) at the trail you planned to hike, remember that South Cumberland State Park has 12 amazing trailheads, waiting for you to explore.

Check out the newly-released map of all South Cumberland trailheads, <<https://www.friendsofsouthcumberland.org/>>, which also lists the most outstanding features seen from each trailhead.

Get driving directions to any of the Park's 12 trailheads, and more info, by visiting our Trailhead Information Page <<https://www.friendsofsouthcumberland.org/trailhead-and-trail-info.html>>.

What should I do if I see armed groups near a polling place or voter registration drive?

First, document what you see:

- What are the armed people doing?
- What are the armed people wearing?
- Are they carrying firearms? If so, what type? If not, are they carrying other types of weapons?
- Are they wearing insignia? If so, what does it say or look like?
- Are they bearing signs or flags?
- Do they seem to be patrolling like a law enforcement officer might do?
- Do they seem to be coordinating their actions?
- Do they have a leader?
- Are they stopping or talking to people outside of their group?
- Do they appear to be provoking or threatening violence? If so, what are they doing specifically?
- Are people turning away from the polling station after seeing or speaking with them?

Second, call Election Protection at 866-OUR-VOTE (866-687-8683) to report what you see. Assistance is also available in Spanish at 888-VE-Y-VOTA (888- 839-8682), in Arabic at 844-YALLA-US (844-915-5187), and Asian languages at 888-API-VOTE (1-888-174-8683). BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

How to Become a Judge

When I, good friends, was called to the bar,
I'd an appetite fresh and hearty.
But I was, as many young barristers are,
An impecunious party.
I'd a swallow-tail coat of a beautiful blue--
And a brief which I bought of a booby--
A couple of shirts, and a collar or two,
And a ring that looked like a ruby!

At Westminster Hall I danced a dance,
Like a semi-despondent fury;
For I thought I never should hit on a chance
Of addressing a British Jury--
But I soon got tired of third-class journeys,
And dinners of bread and water;
So I fell in love with a rich attorney's Elderly, ugly daughter.

The rich attorney, he jumped with joy,
And replied to my fond professions:
"You shall reap the reward of your pluck, my boy,
At the Bailey and Middlesex sessions.
You'll soon get used to her looks," said he,
"And a very nice girl you will find her!
She may very well pass for forty-three
In the dusk, with a light behind her!"

The rich attorney was good as his word;
The briefs came trooping gaily,
And every day my voice was heard
At the Sessions or Ancient Bailey.
All thieves who could my fees afford
Relied on my orations.
And many a burglar I've restored
To his friends and his relations.

--W.S. Gilbert, excerpt from Trial by Jury
