Get your tickets now for "Cabaret," opening on Friday, Oct. 26.

'Cabaret' Opens at the Tennessee Williams Center

Sewanee's Department of Theatre and Dance and the Department of Music are joining forces to present the classic musical "Cabaret."

It tells the story of Cliff Bradshaw, an American writer thrust into the sexually liberated nightclub society of Berlin in 1931. As he becomes involved with the irrepressible cabaret singer Sally Bowles and the unconventional residents of his boarding house, the Nazis are rising to power just out of sight.

It's an unforgettable night in the theatre, exuberant and chilling. Based on "Goodbye to Berlin" by Christopher Isherwood and the play "I Am a Camera" by John van Druten, it features a score by John Kander and Fred Ebb, and a book by Joe Masteroff.

This production marks the 20th anniversary of the opening of the Tennessee Williams Center. The Oct. 27 performance will be followed by a celebration for Sewanee alumni in theatre, dance and music.

The show will run Oct. 26, at 7 p.m., Oct. 27 at 6 p.m., Oct. 28 at 2 p.m., and at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1-3, in the Tennessee Williams Center.

Tickets can be acquired through EventBrite <<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/cabaret-1026-tickets-50140302996>>.

Sewanee Homecoming This Weekend

Several hundred college alumni and friends are expected to return to the University of the South campus this weekend for Homecoming. In addition to the receptions and gatherings with old friends, this year will offer several special events and opportunities. The full schedule is online <www.sewaneegateway.com/hcschedule>. This is the university's first Homecoming that does not also include class reunions, which have been moved to the spring.

Several talks will be offered Friday, including an update on the Sewanee Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation, an update on the business program, and The Refounding of the University, based on the new book by Dr. Jerry Smith, Vice-Chancellor Emeritus Sam Williamson, and Vice-Chancellor John McCardell. Chris McDonough, professor of classics, will give the Alderson-Tillinghast Lecture on "Pontius Pilate's British Accent."

In addition to the annual Friday afternoon hike on the Caldwell Rim Trail led by favorite professors, a tour of University and Sewanee cemeteries, "Shoulders We Stand On," will be led by James Gipson, C'66.

Special celebrations are part of Homecoming this year:

Sewanee is celebrating 50 years of Watson Fellows, and a panel of former Watson Fellows will share their stories Friday afternoon.

The Athletics Hall of Fame ceremony, a new EQB Award celebration recognizing outstanding alumni, a Kappa Sigma reunion, a reunion of the undefeated 1958 and 1963 football teams, and a celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Tennessee Williams Center will all take place during Homecoming weekend.

Concerts, exhibition, and athletic events will round out the weekend.

Sunday, Oct. 28, the University will dedicate a plaque honoring Robert M. Ayres Jr. during the 11 a.m. service in All Saints' Chapel. And Sunday evening, a showing of "Mine 21," a new documentary produced by Chris McDonough about a 1981 mine disaster in Whitwell, Tenn., will be held in the Sewanee Union Theatre.

SUD Selects Auditor; Signs EMA Contract

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

Audit manager Don Mills with the newly formed accounting firm the MG Group addressed the Sewanee Utility District Board of Commissioners at the Oct. 24 meeting.

"The MG Group retained the bulk of the staff from the former firm Allen, McGee and Associates (AMA)," Mills said.

SUD's five-year contract with AMA to perform the annual audit had one year remaining.

"As a new firm we can do another year of that contract," Mills said. "Or, as a new firm we'd love to have another five-year contract."

Of particular interest to the board was not being cited for "inadequate segregation of duties," an audit finding frequently received by small utilities who lacked the staff to provide the required degree of financial oversight and lacked the resources to hire additional staff. In April, SUD hired Tennessee Utility Assistance (TUA) to perform a monthly review of financial transactions. The Tennessee Association of Utility Districts (TAUD) recommended TUA to small utilities hoping to avoid the "inadequate segregation of duties" finding.

"We'll come in and test it," Mills said, speaking favorably of TAUD's recommendation.

The board decided to retain the MG Group for the 2018 audit and defer the decision about another five-year contract until next year.

SUD Board President Charlie Smith reported signing the contract with the Franklin County Emergency Management Agency authorizing installation of a radio antenna on the SUD farm tank. The board provisionally approved the installation in August, pending review of the contract. At the September meeting, Smith questioned whether SUD should be added to the contract as "additional insured." Smith conferred with SUD's attorney Don Scholes about the issue. Scholes felt the contract was adequate, Smith said.

Updating the board on the waterline replacement project, SUD manager Ben Beavers said line replacement on Florida Avenue and South Carolina Avenue was completed except for the tie ins and testing. The contractor was now working on the North Carolina Avenue section. Although running behind schedule, Beavers predicted the project would be completed by Christmas. The Florida Avenue section, completed first, has been reseeded and the grass was coming up, Beavers noted.

In conjunction with tying in meters to the new line, SUD will install all new meter setters, which prevent backflow.

If the residential service line the meter setter will be attached to is not in good condition, SUD will ask the customer to replace it. If the customer fails to replace the line, SUD will replace it at the customer's expense.

"We'll have to bill them," Beavers said.

Two commissioner seats will come open for election in January, an at-large seat now held by Randall Henley and the single Marion County seat now held by Ronnie Hoosier. Candidates must be SUD customers and, in the case of the Marion County seat, reside in Marion County. The only prerequisite to becoming a candidate is announcing one's intention to the board. No petition signatures are required. Commissioners receive a $50 per meeting stipend. Individuals interested in seeking election should contact Beavers at (931) 598-5611.

Bookstore News and Campus Construction Update

After closing for a week to move to a new location, the University Bookstore has reopened in its temporary home in the Bishop's Common (to the left and down the hall as you enter the front doors). The Bookstore staff members look forward to seeing their regular customers in the new space.

The Spirit Shop, with Sewanee apparel, gifts, and school supplies, can now be found in the Bishop's Common Hearth Room. Bookstore Manager Russell Green says that it will be easier for patrons to find their favorite Sewanee swag, as the merchandise is in a more focused area. The reading room (former pool table room) on the same hallway is being used as the trade book and convenience section, including snacks and health and beauty supplies.

Community Council Election Update

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the Oct. 22 meeting, the Sewanee Community Council received an update on the council representatives' election. The council also discussed the pros and cons of past and future venues for the community gathering with the trustees.

Six council seats are open for election. Pam Byerly (District 2) and Kate Reed (at-large seat) will seek reelection. Anna Palmer seeks election to the open District 1 seat, and Erik Keen seeks election to the open District 3 seat. Charles Whitmer who currently holds the District 3 seat will seek election to the other open at-large seat. There is no candidate for the open District 4 seat.

Early voting is now underway and will continue until Nov. 1 at the Lease Office during business hours. Regular voting will take place at Sewanee Elementary School coincident with the General Election on Nov. 6.

Council representative Phil White commented on the sparse community attendance at the recent reception where community members were invited to meet with council members and University trustees. A gathering inviting the public to meet informally with the Council and Trustees occurs twice annually.

"There are dozens of families that have been on the mountain for generations. When we had the meet and greet at the American Legion Hall and at the Community Center, those families were represented," White said.

Everyone is invited to attend the 35th annual Open House this weekend at Taylor's Mercantile, in downtown Sewanee.

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace continues Sunday, Oct. 28, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Anna Palmer, a member of the class of 2017, will be sharing her story with us. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members, featuring student-led acoustic music, a different guest speaker each week, and Holy Communion. This semester, each of our speakers will meditate on the act of Breaking Ground. We will explore the idea that breaking ground—beginning something new or forging into unfamiliar territory—is a holy, if laborious, act. We want to believe that diving into a new venture, reconstructing a torn relationship, or starting a fresh phase of life will be easy, but when we encounter experiences and perspectives unlike our own, our instinct is to retreat to the familiar and forget the unknown. This semester, we will explore how the vulnerability of newness molds us into the resilient and accepting being God created us to be. The Catechumenate continues Wednesday, Oct. 31, at 7 p.m., in the Bairnwick Women’s Center. Catechumenate, from a Greek word meaning “learning and exploring,” is a place where we explore what it means to be a human being and what it means to be a person of faith in our community. This is a great place to meet new people and build relationships. Food, prayer, questions, and conversation power this process. This week we will be discussing the saints.

Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

“At the venue that was chosen this time, I didn’t see those kinds of families,” White said. “Each place has a certain atmosphere. You bar a cliental when a certain décor etcetera isn’t comfortable.”

Superintendent of Leases Sally Green observed the business catering the meet and greet decided on the venue based on the menu they planned to serve.

Vice-Chancellor John McCardell suggested that prior to the next meet and greet event the council be informed of the proposed venue and invited to weigh in on the choice.

“We move the event around to different restaurants in the area,” Green said. The next meet and greet will be catered by the Blue Chair.

Commenting on topics reviewed by the Council agenda committee, but not included on the agenda, Provost Nancy Berner said, “In the interest of transparency, the agenda committee informs the council about topics not included so they’ll know the issues are being addressed.”

The agenda committee recently deferred an issue to the Lease Committee, which raised questions about building on University land and expressed frustration with the town planner.

“The Lease Committee reviews all building decisions,” Berner pointed out. “This wasn’t something the council could take action on.”

The Lease Committee meets the third Tuesday of each month, Green said. Agenda items are due by the fifth of the month.

“The Lease Committee can’t change ordinances,” Green noted, “but it can clarify policy.”

“The University has a constitution delineating ordinances,” McCardell explained. “Ordinance can be changed, but they need to be voted on by the board of regents. Council members are represented on the Lease Committee.”

The council meets next on Jan. 28.

“People will find their favorite books,” says Green. “The book selection is in a smaller space than before, but we were able to concentrate on the titles and genres that our local community and visitors have come to enjoy.”

Bookstore hours are 7:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday. This weekend for Homecoming, the bookstore will also be open Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Parking for the Bookstore can be found behind duPont Library and behind the Bishop’s Common (enter the lot from Mississippi Avenue).

A new University Bookstore will be built downtown at 120 University Ave. Information about groundbreaking at that site will be available soon; the new store should be open for business next fall.

Construction on the new Wellness Commons has begun at the former bookstore location, following a ceremonial groundbreaking held on Sept. 22. The new fitness, health, and recreation facility is planned to open during spring semester 2020. It is expected to enhance existing programs and services for students’ success and well-being, as well as make them more readily available.

The Wellness Commons will be available for use by university students, faculty, and staff; the Fowler Center will continue to be available to all community members for fitness and recreation, and there should be less competition for space and equipment there after the additional facility opens.

Parking is no longer available on University Avenue in front of the new Wellness Commons location. When the project is complete, there will be expanded parking behind the building next to Elliott Park. The streetscape will be configured as along the rest of University Avenue headed north (in front of McClurg Dining Hall and All Saints’ Chapel, for example).

Plaque Honoring Bob Ayres to Be Dedicated Sunday

The University of the South will dedicate a plaque honoring Robert M. Ayres Jr. during the 11 a.m. celebration of the Holy Eucharist in All Saints’ Chapel on Sunday, Oct. 28. Members of the Ayres family will be in attendance; members of the community are encouraged to attend worship or come to the Chapel around noon to greet the Ayres family at the west end of the Chapel.

Bob Ayres, who died on June 19, 2018, was a 1949 graduate of the College who served as the 13th vice-chancellor of the University from 1979-1988, a crucial time in the University’s history. He led the Century Two capital campaign and addressed pressing financial needs for the University, the Academy and Emerald-Hodgson hospital. “His leadership during a time of fiscal crisis in the mid-1970s and his continued generous support of the institution make him one of the ‘modern founders’ of the University of the South,” said current Vice-Chancellor John McCardell.

The plaque for Bob Ayres will be installed on the western wall of All Saints’ Chapel (toward University Avenue). The plaques on this wall tell a remarkable part of the University’s history, tracing the tenure of vice-chancellors from Charles Quintard to Bob Ayres.

“It is almost impossible to overstate the influence Bob and his wife, Pat, had on the University of the South, the Sewanee community, and indeed the Cumberland Plateau,” said McCardell. “Years after he left office, his successors continued to call on him for guidance, counsel, and inspiration. A generation of alumni, faculty, and staff remember warmly Bob’s unfailing encouragement, his generosity with his time, and the hospitality he and Pat offered at Fulford Hall. His deep and abiding faith gave confidence and courage and hope to others.”

All are welcome to join the University in honoring Bob Ayres.

Retreat at Deerlick Falls: Tiny Homes Paradise

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

The Retreat at Deerlick Falls will make the second-residence fantasy an affordable reality. Located on Summerfield Road, just a few miles from Main Street in Monteagle, the under-construction development offers a paradise of forests, creeks, and one of the highest waterfalls in the state.

"Growing up I went camping and worked on a farm. I want outdoors experiences for my kids, and many folks I talk to do, too. But most people can't afford a $300,000 vacation home," said developer Chip Hayes with Oakstone Land & Capital.

"I recently worked on the Twin Creeks development on Tims Ford Lake where interior lots sold for $275,000-$300,000. I wanted to do something affordable."

A friend who hikes brought the Deerlick Falls property to Hayes attention.

"It feels like it should have been a state park," Hayes insisted. "I wanted to keep that feeling."

Hayes business partner is a forester. They designed a residential community with tiny homes tucked among the trees, often creek front. Instead of cul-de-sacs, roads terminate in roundabouts featuring playgrounds or community fire pits.

The 53 lots on the 67-acre plat range from one-quarter acre to two acres in size and are priced from $10,000-$50,000. The property owners association will provide maintenance of community spaces and lawn care for all lots.

"We expect many vacation homeowners," Hayes explained.

Buyers can purchase just a lot or a package with a prebuilt home for as little as $95,000. Homeowners-to-be can add amenities like patios, decks, sidewalks, and fully furnished accommodations. The most expensive lot-and-home package tops out at $150,000.

The internal and external appearance of the seven home styles varies widely, but all the homes have a 395-square-foot floor plan with one bedroom and a loft. With pullout beds the homes can sleep 6-10 people. The homes feature 12-foot ceilings and lots of windows, making them feel spacious.

Called the Lakeside Tiny Collection, the residences are manufactured by Clayton Homes, a subsidiary of Warren Buffet's company Berkshire Hathaway. According to Hayes, Berkshire Hathaway executives remarked following a recent visit, "This is the nicest tiny home development in the nation."

Model home at Deerlick Falls tiny homes community.

No residences on wheels are allowed, but lot owners can build their own tiny home in keeping with rustic siding requirements and size limitations.

The Retreat at Deerlick Falls is the first tiny home community in Tennessee.

"I've had local folks look at home sites for a primary residence and potential second-home owners visit from as far away as Florida and Maine," Hayes said. During the recent Parents' Weekend at the University of the South, more than 25 families visited.

Homeowners who want to capitalize on their investment can offer their residence as a bed and breakfast, self-managed or managed by Oakstone.

The development falls within Monteagle's planning region, but not the city limits.

"It will help the town because we're selling more water," said Monteagle alderman and Planning Commission Chair Ron Terrill. "And it will be good for businesses."

At the Oct. 2 meeting, the Planning Commission approved the final plat pending TDEC endorsement of the recently completed soil percolation testing for septic systems.

Stay tuned for details on The Retreat grand opening with $5,000 discounts on that day only. To visit The Retreat contact Hayes at <chayes@brookstoneland.com> or (615) 927-1413.

New Courses with Lifelong Learning

The Center of Lifelong Learning at the University of the South announces new courses beginning in November. Contact Dan Backlund at <lifelong@sewanee.edu> for further information and to register for these exciting classes before they are full. The enrollment fee for each course is only $60 and includes six hours of formal learning time.

Governing the American Dream—Current Topics in U.S. Immigration Policy; Instructor: Abby Colbert, Politics; Wednesdays, 10 a.m.–noon, Nov. 7, 14, 28 and Dec. 5—We will explore the U.S. immigration system and recent policy changes—both those that have captured headlines, from efforts to denaturalize citizens to the detention of children at the border, and those that have garnered less attention. We will answer questions such as, How does immigration to the U.S. really work? How much can the rules be changed without Congress passing new laws? What do these changes mean for immigrants and citizens? And we will answer your questions.

Modern Astronomy: From the Moon to the Multiverse; Instructor: Frank Hart, Professor Emeritus of Physics and Astronomy; Tuesdays, 3–5 p.m., Nov. 6, 13, 20, 27—The classes will cover the major topics in Astronomy today.

In Class 1, Our Solar System, we will discuss the latest findings regarding the planets (major and minor) and their moons, the Sun's structure and the effects of 'solar weather' on the Earth, and finally, the most likely places for the existence of extraterrestrial life will be considered.

In Class 2, Our Galaxy, we will examine the structure of the Milky Way and how dark matter and the large black hole at its center determine it. The various evolutionary paths of stars, especially, the Sun, will be discussed. The possibility of life on extra-solar planets will be investigated.

In Class 3, Our Universe, we will cover the large-scale structure of the Universe, in particular, its origin and evolution. Special attention will be given to the Cosmic Microwave Background, gravitational waves and dark energy. Finally, we will consider the anthropomorphism/multiverse debate.

Securing the Revolution: America 1800-1815; Instructor: Vice Chancellor and Professor John McCordell; Tuesdays: from 7:30–9:30 a.m., Oct. 30, Nov. 6, 13—With the election of Thomas Jefferson to the presidency, America experienced a peaceful transfer of power from one party to another. Under Jefferson and then under Madison, his successor, challenges presented themselves that tested the "states' rights/strict construction" philosophy of Jeffersonian republicans and led, finally, to a successful end to the War of 1812 with England and the emergence of a genuine, if also fleeting, political consensus with the coming of peace. The class will pay particular attention to the Louisiana Purchase, the resumption of war between England and France and the consequences for the United States, and the awakening of American nationalism in the aftermath of war.

Matthew Arnold (1822-1888): A Man For Our Season; Instructor: John Reishman, Professor Emeritus of English; Wednesdays, 9–11 a.m., Nov. 7, 14, 21, 28—Among all of the major Victorian poets and cultural critics, Matthew Arnold was especially attuned to the unique contours and problems of industrial society and capitalist global economy. His poetic voice and stance anticipate many of the major themes and techniques of 20th and 21st century poetry. His capacity to "see life steadily and to see it whole" especially recommend him to readers of our age. In this brief course we will begin in the first of four sessions by considering an Arnoldian essay in which he makes his claims for the role of poetry in the modern life. Then we will read and discuss Arnold's major poems that address the human condition in the context of the modern landscape. Text: Victorian Prose and Poetry (the Oxford Anthology Of English Literature); eds. Lionel Trilling and Harold Bloom; ISBN 0-19-501616-5; paperback edition.

Reverse Parade at SES

The Sewanee Elementary School Parent Organization is pleased to announce its annual Halloween Reverse Parade on Monday, Oct. 29. The event is open to the public and begins with a dance party for the children in the SES gym at 5 p.m. and concludes with a parade at 6 p.m. If you are not familiar with our Halloween Reverse Parade, here is how it works: parents, family, community members, and friends line the sides of University Avenue from the parking lot of Sewanee Elementary School to the driveway at Otey and toss or give candy to the parade of costumed children. Please arrive by 5:45 p.m. if you plan to attend the parade, and those tossing candy should plan to have enough for a few hundred ghosts, goblins, and unicorns. This event is possible thanks to the funding of the Sewanee Community Chest, and a donation box will be available in a prominent location in the school. Please consider donating so that we might continue to have events like this and more in the future. If you wish to help with event preparation, please contact SPO member Georgia Hewitt at <georgiahewitt@gmail.com>.

The TN Chapter, Trail of Tears Association (TNTOTA) and Franklin County Historical Society (FCHS) are sponsoring a Trail of Tears walk in Winchester on Saturday, Oct. 27, to commemorate the 180th anniversary of the Bell Trail of Tears Detachment's passage through Franklin County on Oct. 26–29, 1838. Anyone wishing to participate in the walk is invited to meet at Old Cowan Road City Park, located between US Hwy 41A and Old Cowan Road, next to 211 Wilson St., on or before 10:45 a.m. The 20-minute walk will begin at the park at 11 a.m. and follow 0.8 mile of the original route that the detachment took to the courthouse square. Those unable to walk the full distance may join the walk as it passes the Franklin County Board of Education building at 215 S. College St., for the final three blocks. A horse-drawn wagon is expected to participate to transport participants who are unable to walk. To round out representation of the modes of travel used by the detachment, horseback riders are invited to participate.

This year's festival is from 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Information about the Trail of Tears Walk and the Fall Festival may be found on the Winchester Taste of Autumn Fall Festival website and Facebook page. Those interested in participating in the Walk, either on foot or horseback, are asked to contact Floyd Ayers by email <wfayers@comcast.net>. TNTOTA will also provide updates on Facebook.

St. Mary's Sewanee Celebrates the Life of Robert M. Ayres Jr.

St. Mary's Sewanee: The Ayres Center for Spiritual Development invites community members to a sunset reception to celebrate the life and faith of its visionary founder and beloved friend, Robert M. Ayres Jr., who died on June 19, 2018.

All are welcome at the event, which will begin at 5 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 27, at New Hope Bluff on the St. Mary's Sewanee campus. Among the special guests will be Pat Ayres and other members of the Ayres family.

St. Mary's Sewanee retreat center is located on 230 acres of property first used in 1888 by the Community of St. Mary, the Episcopal religious order of women; the sisters continue their work today at a new location nearby on St. Mary's Lane. In 1988, when the sisters wanted to sell the property, Ayres (who was the University's Vice-Chancellor at the time), purchased the land and buildings to establish St. Mary's Sewanee as a nonprofit center for spiritual rest and renewal. Since then, St. Mary's Sewanee has held hundreds of retreats and workshops, and hosted thousands of guests each year.

VILLAGEREPORT

by Frank X. Gladu

Last month we took a big step forward in the effort to create more housing in Sewanee. The University announced and awarded several home sites on the Domain for employees to build homes. These homes will be for primary residence and will remain that way into the future. In addition, these home sites will be open to full time resident non-employees if they go unclaimed by employees after 6 months. This is a significant step forward to create more housing in Sewanee!

In addition to this effort, the Sewanee Village project did an outreach to qualified developers and builders to create homes. This produced several interested development teams that will be participating in submitting proposals to build homes on development sites in the Village. This effort is aimed at creating several different housing types such as duplexes, town homes as well as single family homes. Proposals will be evaluated and it is hoped that selected builder/developers could begin home building in the new year.

Both of these efforts are a significant step forward in the creation of much needed housing in Sewanee.

So, 2019 is shaping up to be a time that we will finally experience some building activity actually happening. It is exciting for me to see the project at this juncture.

Two commercial projects are in process, the new Bookstore and a Pilate's studio, both on University Avenue. The bookstore's design has been completed for several months and we are awaiting a selection of a contractor to build it. The studio is in the design phase and could be ready for construction soon. As we prepare to build some homes and have a couple of commercial projects on tract I wanted to mention the design process.

Two years ago, an architectural pattern book was created and adopted by the Lease Committee to guide the building and renovation of buildings in the Village. It contains information on building design and general architectural standards for things such as materials, windows and openings, doors, roofs, porches, stoops, balconies, decks, chimneys, fences and more. It identifies the styles that are in keeping with the character of Sewanee including: Folk, Craftsman, Folk Victorian, Colonial Revival and Sewanee Eclectic. The Pattern Book provides a set of standards and guidelines that will assist and inform the way buildings will look in Sewanee. History has demonstrated that buildings generally last for a long time and often past the original purpose for the building. The last new building in the downtown area was over 30 years ago. It is important to have standards to contribute to how things will look and work together as they are added to Sewanee. I invite you to take a look at these standards located on the Village web site at <www.sewanee.edu/village> under the heading "Resources." I think that you will find the designs and design standards in keeping with Sewanee.

The next Village Update meeting will be held at the Blue Chair on Tuesday, Nov. 6, with one session at 10 a.m. and a second offering at 5:30 p.m. The meeting, as always, will update the five priority projects: The Road, Bookstore, Village Green, Specialty food market and housing as well as updates on other projects underway. The featured topic will be the Pattern Book and the design process.

Hope to see you there!
Frank

FOCG Fundraiser

The Friends of Canon Gideon (FOCG) will gather for an informal supper at St. Mark's Hall of Orey Parish Church, at 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10, to support Hope Institute in Uganda. All are invited to take part. Canon Gideon's vocational school has to date prepared 3,000 students for jobs in seven fields, for HIV prevention, and for social outreach to their community and beyond to reduce AIDS stigma and promote safe health practices.

Our previous donation of kitchen equipment made the school's favorite course possible. The Catering class currently has 47 students under the instruction of an alumnus who is now a chef at a Roman Catholic Retreat Center in Kampala.

Thanks to contributions last year, three recent graduates received $500 microloans to develop their small businesses in cosmetology, auto mechanics, and baking.

A small act of charity goes a long way. Please join us. For information and to RSVP, contact Sally Hubbard at <sally@hubbard.net> or Betty Carpenter at <campc2@msn.com>.

Coat Drive

Morton Memorial United Methodist Church is holding a coat drive. Coats should be clean, ready to wear, in children sizes 4-16 and adults – any size. Jackets, rain slickers and warm winter coats, are especially needed. Gloves and hats will also be appreciated, but coats are the top priority.

Coats will be distributed to the Morton Memorial Food Ministry families, Blue Monarch children and mothers, and other agencies that serve children.

Donation boxes will be available in the lobbies of Regions Bank in Sewanee and Tower Bank in Monteagle during regular business hours through today (Friday), Oct. 26.

New Clothing Bank Available

New Beginnings Church of Monteagle and Pelham is pleased to announce the opening of their new clothing bank. The bank is open every Friday from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and is available to everyone.

Pastor Kenny Green and his staff encourage participation from surrounding cities, counties, and churches. "Church is a family, and families take care of each other," said Pastor Green. "We want to give back to the community for all the generosity and support they have given us."

SEWANEE NOW AND THEN

Sewanee Trust for Historic Preservation

Atkins House.

George A. Brine, C'64, Trustee of the University of the South, wrote the following letter to Professor Virginia Craighill, C'82, and her husband Chip Craighill who purchased the Atkins house located at 97 Roarks Cove Road from Joe, C'79, and Libby, C'82, Thoni in 2002.

My grandfather, the Rev. John Norton Atkins, was the Superintendent and Chaplain at Emerald-Hodgson Hospital from sometime in 1923 until June 15, 1938 (date that his resignation took effect). I am not sure when he officially started work in this position. The family (my grandfather, my grandmother and four children) came to Sewanee in late February or early March in 1923. Initially they lived in temporary housing until they acquired this house, known as the Lockwood/Coulson house (or the Coulson/Lockwood house). The seller was Mrs. Emma Dewey Lockwood and the actual buyer was George Washington Ely Atkins, my grandfather's father. The selling price was $5,000 and the deed was signed over on Sept. 15, 1923. However, as correspondence that preceded the sale indicated that a number of repairs/improvements (such as wiring the house for electricity) needed to be made, I think that it was probably some months before the family occupied it.

To digress briefly, my great-grandfather, George Washington Ely Atkins, was at the time an Executive Vice-President in the New York City headquarters of Western Union (having worked his way up the ladder from being a messenger boy in Waverly, Tenn., after the Civil War). He was the one with the money, and he often helped his two sons and their families financially with such things as buying (and repairing) a house.

This house and lot were leased from the University of the South (lease number 282) by Ben Coulson on June 29, 1909. Although the lease was for 33 years with a right of two renewals, at some point Ben Coulson sold the leasehold interest to a Mrs. Emma Scott Dewey who later died intestate in Kansas, leaving the leasehold to her two children: Chauncy Dewey and Emma Dewey (who became Mrs. Emma Dewey Lockwood somewhere along the way). Chauncy Dewey later sold his interest to his sister. I do not know how many years Mrs. Lockwood lived in the house before she sold it. She was a widow when she sold it. The law firm of Crownover and Hickerson (Winchester, Tenn.) handled the legal aspects of the sale to the Atkins family.

Among my grandfather's papers (he kept almost everything, a genealogist's dream) were letters related to the next house owner. Sometime prior to April 1932, Major General William Ruthven Smith, then Superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, visited my grandparents in Sewanee. Apparently thinking of his retirement and possible return to Sewanee, General Smith wrote to my grandparents in April 1932 about leasing the house (which he was evidently very taken with). My grandparents said no. General Smith did return to Sewanee to become the Superintendent of SMA. Where he initially lived at Sewanee I do not know. However, when he learned of my grandfather's resignation effective June 15, 1938, General Smith made it very clear that he wanted that house. The incoming Vice Chancellor, Alexander Guerry, granted his wish. So Major General William Ruthven Smith became the next owner of the house. I assumed he lived there until his death in July 1941.

Also of some interest to me was the fact that Alexander Guerry also had an interest in the house, but mainly as a storage space. Apparently the Guerrys had to be out of their house at the University of Chattanooga by July 15, 1938. However, Fulford Hall was in need of some renovation and repair, so they could not move in there by July 15, 1938. Evidently the Guerrys found an alternative solution.

I have also attached a picture of the house which probably dates to a 1925-1927 time period. My three uncles (as boys) and my grandfather appear in the photo. I do not know the whereabouts of my mother (only daughter and oldest child) when the picture was taken.

One other piece of information is that there once was a Canadian fir tree at one end of the driveway. It was still alive when I was a student at Sewanee, and no one had figured out its identity. My grandfather's brother (George Chew Atkins) had homes in Ontario, Canada and Florida. His family used to stop by Sewanee to visit either going to or coming from Florida. On one such trip he brought the tree with him from Canada, and my grandfather subsequently planted it.

Village Development Seeks Proposals

The Sewanee Village Development project is seeking proposals from builders and developers to build homes in the Village. This effort is an attempt to provide several housing types including: townhouses, apartments and apartment houses, smaller homes clustered in a cottage court and duplex homes.

Interested builders/developers can obtain the Request for Proposal (RFP) on the Sewanee Village website at <www.sewanee.edu/village> and click on RFP. Deadline is Oct. 31. American Shakespeare Center Returns Nov. 7–8

The American Shakespeare Center returns to Sewanee Nov. 7–8 with Sophocles' "Antigone" and Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale." The performances in Guerry Auditorium are free and open to the public.

"Antigone"—Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m. Doors open at 7 p.m. with period music from the company beginning at that time.

In the aftermath of her brothers' bloody war, Antigone is left torn. Her brother Eteocles will be honored, but her brother Polyneices will be shamed and denied funeral rites. In this ancient tale, Antigone stands for morality in spite of punishment as one of the earliest heroines in drama. Sophocles' drama from 441 BC holds startling relevance today, examining divinity, obedience, and law—and how love overcomes them all.

"The Winter's Tale"—Thursday, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m. Doors open at 7 p.m. with period music from the company beginning at that time.

Shakespeare's magnificent late play is a roller-coaster ride from romance to tragedy to comedy and finally to a place of transcendent beauty that few other works of art have ever achieved. "A sad tale's best for winter," but after unleashing a wintry tempest onto his characters, Shakespeare ultimately conjures spring's miraculous rebirth.

The performances are thanks to a generous donation to the School of Letters, and are sponsored by the School of Letters, the Sewanee Performing Arts Series, the office of the Dean of the College, and the Classics, English, and Humanities departments.

Grundy County Historical Society

The Early 30s, Part II

This is a continuation of a story by Barbara Mooney Myers' father, James Mooney, of the life of his family on the Mountain before she was born.

"During this time my wife felt sickly, and her cousin Myrtle Braden came and spent some time with her. Around June 2, 1932, my wife kept having labor pains that morning. I still went to work for we needed the money. By 10 o'clock that day, she was in labor without a doctor around, so Myrtle knew to get Granny Burrows. She was a midwife and had lots of experience delivering babies. That evening on my way home, Mrs. Burrows hollered, 'Bill, you've got a fine looking son born at 11:30 today.' I was delighted he and my wife were OK. When I arrived home, I was dirty with coal dust and needed a bath. First, I glanced at my wife and new son. 'What we going to name him?', she said. It being June 2, that was my brother Joe's birthday, 'Let's name him Joe,' I said, 'and we'll use Thomas from my brother and grandfather,' she said. 'That's great,' I told her. 'I'll get my bath and hold him and have supper.'

Myrtle had a good supper on the table waiting for me. By then our garden was nearing an end. We still had a few green onions and tomatoes, cucumbers, and squash left. They had about all gone for we'd taken advantage of them this year.

Two weeks after our son Joe was born, our four-year-old son Buford took sick, having a bowel problem. The diarrhea was hard to control. He took a high fever with it. I walked to Coalmont to get Dr. Roberts. He came as soon as he could and wrote prescriptions for our son's medication. We gave him one dose. It hadn't helped him any. By June 18, 1932, he died at the age of 4 years, 3 months old. One son had been born to us, and now God had taken another son. It was as if he'd had it planned for my family. Exchange one son for another. I had no money to buy a casket with, so my father helped me buy a casket to bury our son in. My wife's shoes were about off her feet. She had no shoes to wear to the funeral. Her aunt had given her a pair to wear. We still had our new son and Dorothy, our oldest to raise, so we decided to get back in church among others that we needed.

Friendship was a blessing to my wife in those days. My wife was not well, and we needed milk for the baby for she couldn't breast feed him. We found a cow home and in no time had fresh sweet milk, buttermilk, and butter for my family. That year fled by so quickly for us.

We moved again by 1933 to close neighbors' houses. They were Pascal Johnson, the Godsby family, and Hershel Brown and family. My daughter changed schools and new teachers, and we were closer to the grocery store. The house seemed to be a lot closer to the mines.

The mines kept going—men kept working longer hours. I tried to put in 12 hours a day loading 12 cars of coal a day. The school was Mount Vernon where our daughter attended. We started attending church again. It was a non-denominational church (between Baptist and Methodist). I drove my car when I could afford it. Gas was 16 cents per gallon. Regular was 14 cents. I filled my Whippet up for $2 then.

We lived through those remaining months from hand to mouth. Gardening time we enjoyed the most. We later bought a few laying hens of our own, so we had eggs to eat. By 1935, we lost another child at birth. Her name was Gloria Lou. We had lost Carl, our first son at childbirth also. This was heartbreaking for my wife and me.

Early in 1935 we set out for Alabama to see my wife's mother and brothers that lived there. We spent out a few months there in Alabama with my wife's family. By then her mom had remarried and had a young daughter named Elizabeth. We call called her Lizzie for short.

Later we decided to return to the Mountain. It was getting near gardening time again. As we reached the town of Tracy City, it was blazing from a fire that had been set by a Newsom guy. It had frightened my wife and children and me to death. I jumped out of the car after parking it over near the depot. Half of Tracy City was blazing and most of us felt helpless for the flames and burning buildings were beyond our helping hands. My wife was crying like many others that got outside glancing at the beautiful framed buildings that had for many years made Tracy City a beautiful, historic city. For over one block of the town and over half a century enjoying and seeing their customers, these buildings went down to dust by the light of one match flame and a careless, ignorant had of the arsonist. Many years have passed since this happened, yet, it still crosses the minds of those that remember. Most of our ancestors have passed on since then. Still Tracy City is one of our most enjoyable and homey places to live."

Readers are invited to visit the Heritage Center Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Communication Station: Automated Exchange

The University Art Gallery is delighted to host Nashville-based Isle of Printing's interactive exhibition Communication Station: Automated Exchange through Dec. 16.

Visitors to the exhibition will be introduced to the Isle of Printing's projects: Our Town Nashville, All Are Welcome, and the Bryce Bux Currency Exchange, and will be invited to participate in Communication Station No. 3: Automated Exchange, a project specially designed to spark our imaginations and generate conversations about the community of Sewanee and what we would like it to be.

Communication Station No. 3, an Object Idea Exchange for Sewanee, is based on the idea that "every object tells a story, and stories are a great way to start a conversation." Visitors are invited to bring a small object to trade, and to come and consider what others have brought. Do you have something that embodies an idea or story about your Sewanee? What do you want to share? What would you like Sewanee to have? What have others brought?

Communication Station No. 3 will be in regular operation Tuesday through Friday from noon to 1 p.m., and on Thursdays from 3 to 5 p.m. Other operating times will be announced, and the ongoing results of the project, as well as the results of the other projects, will be on view in the UAG during all open hours, 10 a.m.–5 p.m., Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Bryce McCloud's Isle of Printing is a Nashville-based letter press studio, but also so much more, committed to the idea that art can make a difference in civic life. The studio specializes in inviting neighborly thinking with projects called Communication Stations, designed for interaction, play and exchange. In McCloud's words, Communication Stations "both receive and broadcast ideas. They modulate interactions and collect and amplify individual thoughts." Everyone is invited to join in the fun. A Communication Station inspires participants to share an idea, or a drawing, or an object. It collects what people share, and sends those ideas back out into the world. Sharing the creative experience forges new connections and brings people together.

This exhibition has been made possible with the support of the department of art, art history and visual studies, the Friends of the University Art Gallery, and the University Lectures Committee.

Sewanee's University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. The gallery is free, accessible, and open to the public. Call (931) 598-1223 for more information, or go to gallery.sewanee.edu.

ANGELWITH AN ATTITUDE

by Virginia Craighill

Dear Angel,
As a community member, I like to eat at McClurg occasionally. Last time I was there, bizarre flags were hanging from the walls. Are they symbols of drinking clubs? Did an art class create them? Is the University hosting a horse race like the Palio in Italy? What do they mean?

Signed,
Confused Cafeterian

Dear Muddled at McClurg,
You are not hallucinating. McClurg sources local mushrooms, but not that kind. The flags are real and could be described as “bizarre,” though “unique” is a kinder adjectival option. Professor Emeritus Waring McCrady designed these flags to represent each of the University’s 19 dormitories, so they are, in short, Sewanee’s answer to the Hogwarts sorting hat. When they’re not distracting you from your meal in the dining hall, they can be seen fluttering along in the academic procession to All Saints’ at any of our numerous and sundry celebratory rituals.

Unlike certain plaques, symbols, and monuments that have recently been removed from campus, the flags are merely colorful, not controversial. So, unless some of the dormitories (say the unwashed, child of neglect, Gorgas vs. the new kid in town, Ikea-wannabe, Ayres) decide to engage in a bloody civil war, they will not inspire protests and conflict. And they’re pretty!

Although the benign nature of the flags and their creative symbolism bring joy to all, one wonders where this flag-craze will end. How long before each academic building will demand its own coat-of-arms? And surely each academic department should proclaim its legacy with a heraldic crest?

In the meantime, the current flags do call to mind some kind of Renaissance Fair, and it might be nice for prospectives sitting on the porch of Fulford Hall to watch students from the different dorms engage in jousting contests on the Quad (PE credit, anyone?), complete with armor, wooden lance, and dorm flag. At least then the Sewanee Quad Cam would have something to record other than random streakers.

Angel

Dear Angel,
This weekend will be the first Homecoming at Sewanee that’s not also an Alumni Reunion. Will it be different?

Signed,
Students for an Alumni-Free FPW

Dear Students,

Before you ban all alumni, you might do well to remember that someday you too will be alumni yearning to relive your carefree college days in Arcadia. And rest assured that just because it’s not officially designated as Alumni Reunion Weekend, the alums will still be out in full force, taking up the tables at Shenanigan’s, bellying up to the bar at the Inn, and juking ‘til they puke at the frat houses, so gird your loins and keep your dates in sight.

When they show up in your classes on Friday or park in your favorite tail-gating spot before the game, keep this in mind: they’re not just obnoxious older people; they’re parents; they’re future employers; they’re the never-ending-supply-of-benefactors; they’re people who love Sewanee, just like you. Give them a break (but call the police if they get out of hand).

Enjoy FPW Responsibly!
Angel

Mountain Lions Win OT Thriller 20-19

by Jody Hargis

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee Mountain Lion football team won their second consecutive football game Oct. 12, with an overtime thriller 20-19, over the Tennessee Heat in Mount Juliet. The win gave the Mountain Lions a 2-5 record on the season.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Mountain Lion defense put the first points on the board when big defensive lineman Jalen Tillman picked up a Heat fumble and rumbled 60 yards to paydirt and a touchdown. The two point conversion failed, and SAS led 6-0 with 4:20 left before half-time.

The Heat knotted the score with :51 left in the first half on a 31-yard scoring strike. The PAT kick failed and the teams went to the locker room tied at 6-6.

The Mountain Lion offense struck quickly in the third quarter as senior Ben Matthews scored from nine yards out with 10:06 left in the quarter. The PAT kick failed and the Mountain Lions led 12-6.

The Heat tied the game in the final quarter with 2:19 to go with a 30-yard touchdown pass. Once again, the PAT kick failed. The two teams played 48 minutes and went to overtime tied 12-12.

The Heat went on offense first and scored on a four-yard run. For the first time on the evening, a PAT conversion was good as the Heat kicked the extra point and led 19-12.

The Mountain Lions scored on a nine-yard pass from freshman QB Deandre Tate to senior TE Larson Heitzenrater to pull within one point. For the second time in the last three games SAS opted to go for two points and the win. This time Tate kept the ball and raced into the end zone for the two-point conversion and the thrilling victory 20-19.

On the evening, the Mountain Lions offense was held in check as they ran 42 times for 148 yards. Tate led the Mountain Lions on the ground with 53 yards on 17 carries. Senior Jarett Willis carried seven times for 23 yards. Matthews added 19 yards on nine carries. The Mountain Lions only pass completion was the nine yarder from Tate to Heitzenrater.

Defensively, the Mountain Lions were as stingy as the Heat defense as they held the Heat to 100 yards on 25 carries. The Heat was 7 of 23 through the air for 115 yards. The Mountain Lions recovered three fumbles with Tillman recovering two of those and Willis got the other fumble. Junior Cailan McLean led the Mountain Lions with 11 tackles. Tillman added eight tackles, while Willis added six stops. Junior Thomas Stapleton and Tate added five tackles each. Tate forced two fumbles while Tillman forced the other fumble.

Volleyball Edges Hendrix

The Sewanee volleyball team wrapped up the 2018 regular season on Sunday, as Sewanee squeaked out a five-set win over Hendrix, Oct. 21.

Sewanee and Hendrix played a tight-knitted match throughout. In the opening set, despite recording a .472 attack percentage (18-1-36), Sewanee scored the final three points to win the opening set, 25-22.

In the second set, the Tigers got it to set point with five straight points to lead 24-21 after trailing 21-20. After the Warriors burned a timeout, they scored the next three points to even the set at 24 points apiece.

The Tigers responded with back-to-back points thanks to an Olivia Nichols kill and a Peyton Parent ace to win the set, 26-24.

Hendrix used a 27-25 and 25-21 set wins in the third and fourth set to force a fifth set.

In the deciding set, Sewanee sprinted out to a 6-2 lead, but the home team scored eight of the next nine points to take the lead, 10-7.

The Tigers rallied to even the set at 12, and thanks to Destiny Stewart's four straight kills, the Tigers took the match with a 15-12 victory.

Sewanee to Enshrine Seven New Members in Athletics Hall of Fame

Sewanee will recognize six former student-athletes and a team manager as the 2018 inductees to the Sewanee Athletics Hall of Fame during Homecoming Oct. 26-27.

The Hall of Fame committee will introduce Hallie Blunck, Laura Fanjoy, Harry Hoffman, Luke Lea, Jerre Maynor, Mike Mondelli and Sally Jackson Williams as the latest inductees.

Hallie Blunck (C'06): women's cross country, women's track and field, women's swimming and diving—Blunck lettered with the cross country, swimming and diving, and track and field teams during her undergraduate career at Sewanee. With the cross country program, she collected two NCAA All-Region honors in 2004 and 2005.

With the track program, she earned second place in the pole vault at the 2004 Southern Collegiate Athletic Association (SCAC) Championships, clearing 2.74 meters (9' 6"). She still holds the school records in the indoor 4x400 relay, 4x800 relay and the pole vault.

Competing on the diving boards during the winter, Blunck finished third in both the three-meter dive (375.20 points) in 2004 and the one-meter dive the next season (358.85 points).

During each season that she lettered with a particular sport, she was selected to the SCAC Academic Honor Roll.

Laura Fanjoy (C'07): women's tennis—Fanjoy was a two-time All-American in singles and doubles during the 2007 season, where the Tigers earned a third place finish at the NCAA Championships. Named the team captain during her senior year, she finished with an 18-6 record in singles and a 23-8 mark in doubles play. In her career, she tallied 68 career wins, eighth-best in school history, and is ninth in doubles wins with 63.

Appearing in back-to-back NCAA Singles Championships in the 2006 and 2007 seasons, Fanjoy was a finalist in the 2006 ITA National Doubles and regional doubles champion that same year. She completed an 18-2 record, a .900 win percentage, good for third-best in program history.

Dr. Harry Hoffman (C'76): men's basketball—Dr. Hoffman was a four-year letterwinner for the men's basketball program in the mid-1970s. He is 10th all-time in points scored with 1,316, and fifth in total rebounds with 647. A two-time NCAA Tournament team member, he shot 49.8 percent from the field and netted 520 field goals during his career. The 1975-76 season saw Hoffman drain 180 shots from the field, as the Tigers earned their third NCAA Tourney appearance.

Off the court, his dedication to academics garnered him an induction into the Order of the Gown after his freshman year. On campus, he served on the Sewanee Honor Council, and Hoffman wrapped up his undergraduate career by becoming the University's ninth recipient of the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship.

Luke Lea (C'1899): football—Lea was the team manager for the 1899 team, and is known as the schedule coordinator for the six-day road trip that saw the program shut out Texas, Texas A&M, Tulane, LSU and Ole Miss from Nov. 9-14, en route to an undefeated 12-0 season. The team outscored their opponents 322-10 during the 1899 campaign.

After graduating with a bachelor's degree in 1899 and a master's degree in 1900 from The University of the South, Lea attended Columbia Law School, where he graduated in 1903, and began his practice in Nashville the same year. He founded the Nashville Tennessean, where he was the first editor and publisher, and served in Congress at the age of 32. Lea also served with distinction in the military during World War I.

Jerre Maynor (C'06): men's golf—Maynor still holds the SCAC record for the lowest score at the SCAC Championships with a 134 (69-65) during the 2006 season. He remains the only golfer to shoot two sub-70 rounds at the Championships. The 65 score he carded in the second round remains the lowest conference score. A three-time All-SCAC First Team selection, he shot a 144 (71-73) for second place honors in 2005 and fired a 145 (76-69) for third place in 2004.

Earning medalist and SCAC Player of the Year honors in 2006, the PING Third Team All-American finished 32nd at the NCAA Championships with a 307 (81-74-76-76) score in the four-round event.

Mike Mondelli (C'93): football—Mondelli was a member of the 1992 SCAC Championship team that finished 8-1 on the season. Playing primarily as a defensive back, he helped his team hold opponents to just 15 points per game, with wins against Davidson (N.C.), Rhodes and Trinity (Texas). He also led his team to a co-Collegiate Athletic Conference Championship (CAC) in 1990 thanks to a 7-1-1 record.

Joining teammates Jason Forrester (C'93), Carl Carvens (C'94) and Frank Greer (C'92) in the Hall, Mondelli was a two-time All-SCAC First Team selection in 1991 and 1992, and was listed as an Honorable Mention with the CAC in 1990.

Sally Jackson Williams (C'06): women's basketball—Williams was a four-time All-SCAC member from 2003-06, finishing sixth all-time in points (1,284) and fifth in rebounds (743). Playing in all 102 games in her career with 101 starts, Williams was a member of the 2004-05 team that finished with a 19-7 record, tying the school record for wins in a season.

A two-time SCAC Academic Honor Roll selection, she blocked 108 shots, recorded 16 double-doubles and averaged 29.7 minutes per game during her career.

Trinity Downs Tigers in Road SAA Matchup

The Sewanee football team could not overcome a 14-0 halftime deficit, as they fell to Trinity, 28-14, Oct. 20.

Sewanee saw themselves down 7-0 on the first drive of the game by Trinity. On a six-play, 54-yard opening drive, Wyatt Messex found Tommy Lavine for a 15-yard touchdown catch.

Early in the second quarter, Trinity's attempt of a 37-yard field goal went wide left, and the Tigers took over. On the first play of the Sewanee drive, Grayson Baker was picked off. Once the Trinity offense was back on the field, Messex found Lavine again for a 32-yard touchdown.

Neither team could find the right side of the 50-yard-line the rest of the half, and the Texas Tigers had a 14-0 lead.

Trinity, on their first drive of the second half, scored once again on a connection from Messex to Lavine, this time for 15 yards.

On the next Sewanee drive, the Tigers used a 20-play, 81-yard drive that ended in a five-yard touchdown reception by Allan Puri. The drive saw the clock take away 9:38.

Trinity added a score with 7:10 left in the contest on a Chris Stewart catch from Blake Johnson for nine yards.

Trailing 28-7, Cyrus McCullough cut the deficit back to 14 with a 35-yard touchdown catch, but it would be as close as the Tigers would get.

During an hour-long fog delay in last Monday's field hockey match versus Roanoke College, the two teams held a spontaneous dance contest to keep warm. Play resumed on Tuesday afternoon, with Sewanee losing 2-0. Photo by Lyn Hutchinson

Field Hockey Wraps Up Road Schedule with Win

The Sewanee field hockey team used a 55th-minute goal to defeat Transylvania, 1-0, Oct. 21.

The teams played a scoreless first half, despite Sewanee out-shooting Transylvania, 7-4.

In the second half, the sticks for Sewanee came to life with 12 shots, and in the 55th minute, one struck the back of the cage. Elisabeth Domittner found Ceara Caffrey's pass for her second goal of the season.

The Tigers defense held the Pioneers to three shots in the final 35 minutes of the contest.

This number has increased by 26 percent over the past few decades. A medical diagnostic hearing evaluation is recommended as part of a comprehensive physical for those in this age range.

Meet Alura & Maggie May

Alura is a beautiful 2-year-old brown tabby with beautiful green eyes. She is independent and low-maintenance, and does well with other cats. She loves to sit out on our outdoor cat patio. Alura is FeLV negative, current on vaccinations and spayed.

Maggie Mae is a yellow Labrador Retriever mix who is full of energy. She could make someone a great running partner. She is a fabulous girl but may not be the best dog for a family with small children as she may knock them down. Blue mushroom.

Blue Mushroom!

The weather conditions seem to be ideal for the emergence of many mushrooms. These are, of course, the fruiting bodies of an organism whose main bulk is unseen, living in the soil or the bodies of other organisms such as trees. This latter is called a mycelium and consists of a multitude of filaments or hyphae, many of which, we are learning, are intimately connected with the underground parts of plants. Fungi are so different from plants and animals that they now have their own Kingdom in the classification of living things.

They also are hard to identify, at least for me, but my husband found one that is relatively easy because it is blue (go online to see the color!). It is an Indigo Milky and, as the Audubon Guide says, "Indigo is an unusual color for mushrooms, and so this milky is quite easy to identify". It is called a milky because it belongs to a genus called Lactarius, which exudes a substance known as latex, especially from the gills. Sure enough, when I rubbed my finger beneath the cap, there was a blue, slimy substance on it. It belongs to the Russula family, and with the genus Russula, makes up a large, abundant, and varied group of gilled mushrooms. One characteristic of this group is distinctly brittle flesh. We currently have a large number of white mushrooms in the yard, with a sunken center to the usually cracked cap, which I believe are the Short-Stalked White Russula (or something similar), which is a common mushroom.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Homecoming Weekend, Oct. 26-28

Sound the trumpets, beat the drums!
Welcome, conquering alums!
On high your foaming beakers raise,
And summon forth the Good Old Days!
—with apologies to George Frederick Handel

Halloween, Oct. 31

...Warlocks and witches in a dance;
Nae cotillon, brent frae France,
But hornpipes, jigs, strathspeys, and reels,
Put life and mettle in their heels.
A winnock-bunker in the east,
There sat auld Nick, in shape o' beast;
A towzie tyke, black, grim, and large
To gie them music was his charge,
He screw'd the pipes and gart them skirl,
Till roof an rafters a' did dirl.--
Coffins stood round, like open presses,
That shaw'd the Dead in their last dresses;
And (by some devilish cantraip sleight).
Each in its cauld hand held a light.
Tam O. Shanter, by Robert Burns
