Opening Convocation Set for Noon, Jan. 17

Opening Convocation for the Easter semester at the University will be at noon, Friday, Jan. 17, in All Saints' Chapel. Honorary degrees will be presented and new members will be inducted into the Order of Gownsmen. Louise Cowan, author, professor and pioneer in liberal arts education, will give the Convocation address and will receive an honorary degree. Poet and author Marilyn Nelson will also receive an honorary degree during the Convocation, and will give a reading Jan. 16 during her visit to the Sewanee campus.

Louise Shillingburg Cowan has had a long and distinguished career in education. She is a professor emerita at the University of Dallas, served as dean of the graduate school there, founded the university's doctoral program, and co-founded the Dallas Institute of Humanities and Culture. She was the Fugitive Group's official historian, resulting in her book, "The Fugitive Group: A Literary History." Cowan is best known for her teaching and her impact on students, and continued to teach into her 90s. In 1991, President George H.W. Bush bestowed upon Cowan the nation's highest award for achievement in the humanities, the Charles Frankel Prize. She was honored by Laura Bush in 2001 for the establishment of The Teachers Institute at the Dallas Institute of Humanities and Culture, and has been named to a list of the 20 most brilliant living Christian professors.

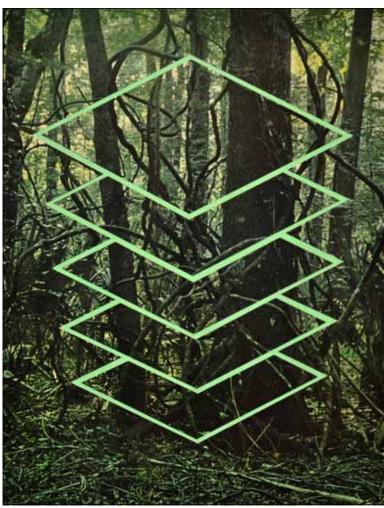

Marilyn Nelson is a poet, translator, children's book author and professor emerita at the University of Connecticut. She is the author or translator of more than a dozen books, including "The Homeplace," "The Fields of Praise: New and Selected Poems" and "Carver: A Life in Poems." Her book "A Wreath for Emmett Till" presents 15 interlinked sonnets to pay tribute to Emmitt Till, a 14-year-old African American boy who was lynched in Mississippi in 1955 for whistling at a white woman, and whose murderers were acquitted. Nelson served as the Connecticut Poet Laureate from 2001 to 2006, and she is currently Poet-in-Residence at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in New York City. Nelson taught at Sewanee as a Brown Foundation Fellow during the 2011 Easter semester, co-creating a course that addressed poetry, spirituality and the environment. She has received many honors, including two Boston-Horn Book Awards, the Poet's Prize, the Printz Honor Award, three Coretta Scott King Honor Awards, and the 2012 Poetry Society of America's Frost Medal for her "distinguished lifetime service to American poetry."

Marilyn Nelson Poetry Reading Thursday

Marilyn Nelson (above) will give a reading from selected works at 4 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 16, in Gailor Auditorium. Some of the readings will be accompanied by musician Kash Wright. Wright will set the mood with music starting at 3:50 p.m.

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at Sewanee presents "Ethereal/Material," an exhibition of drawings, paintings, collages and installations by New York artist Denton Crawford. The opening reception and artist's talk are at 4:30 p.m., Friday, Jan. 17. Terrace (collage, 8 x 11 inches) is part of the solo exhibition that runs through Feb. 15. Crawford is visiting assistant professor of art at Rochester Institute of Technology.

Partin Joins Race for

Emily Carol Partin has announced her candidacy for the office of Grundy County Mayor.

"I believe the person holding this office is in the position to craft and pursue a vision for a better future for us all." Partin said. "Grundy County is at a major crossroads. Adverse circumstances, such as unemployment, poor health, substance abuse and poverty, have weakened us. It would be tempting to stay on this same course, hoping for a better outcome. It won't happen. We must all begin to accept responsibility for where we are and hold each other accountable for a better tomorrow. I ant to be a part of this solution and I believe I am qualified for the task."

Partin graduated from Grundy County High School and has a master's degree in clinical psychology. Her studies and vocation took her away from the Mountain for almost 20 years until the year 2000 when she returned home to care for her father.

 $Once \, back \, on \, the \, Mountain, Partin$ worked as a mental health counselor serving Grundy County.

"I was so dismayed at the extent of hurt and illness that I attributed to poverty, poor health and substance abuse" Partin said. "I began praying for the opportunity to bring about a broader reaching, deeper healing to our whole County, for the hometown I remembered as being a quaint place in which to live had changed dramatically. I found this could only happen if I and others became involved in the

MGTA and Land Trust Reach Campaign Goal

New Land Adds 22 Acres to Monteagle-Tracy City Segment of the Trail

The Mountain Goat Trail Alliance (MGTA) and the Land Trust for Tennessee (LTTN) announced on Jan. 8 the successful completion of a capital campaign. As a result, 22 acres of the former Mountain Goat Railroad bed between Monteagle and Tracy City are now owned by the MGTA.

"The acquisition of this important section of railroad bed puts us closer to our ultimate goal: a multiuse path from Cowan to Palmer. We are so grateful to the Land Trust for Tennessee for collaborating with us on this effort," said Janice Thomas, board president of the MGTA.

"The Mountain Goat Trail is an excellent economic development opportunity for the South Cumberland region," said Jeanie Nelson, executive director of LTTN. "It also connects several amazing cultural and natural resources that are so important to the area.

The acquired property constitutes approximately 60 percent of the rail bed

The campaign raised more than $83,000 to acquire the property. Challenge gifts from the Cammack Family Foundation and Doug Ferris were instrumental in reaching the campaign goal.

A recent study by Sewanee's Babson Center for Global Commerce predicts the trail will add $1.2 million in annual revenue to the economy of the South (Continued on page 6)

Sewanee Police Save Woman on Christmas Night

While on routine patrol on third shift Christmas night, Sewanee Police officer Greg Dempsey saw an abandoned car parked near the Memorial Cross. According to Sewanee Police Chief Marie Eldridge, Dempsey returned later in the night and the vehicle was still there. He looked in the car and found an apparent suicide note.

Dempsey called for assistance; members of the Sewanee Fire Department and the Franklin County Sheriff's office, as well as Sewanee interim assistant chief Tony Gilliam and officer Dan Ferguson, arrived on the scene. A search ensued and the woman was discovered in the woods in the subfreezing weather. Her family, who had filed a missing person report on the Nashville woman, was contacted. The woman was transported to Emerald-Hodgson Hospital and then airlifted to Erlanger Hospital in Chattanooga.

AASC SUCCESS

To the Editor:

The Animal Alliance South Cumberland (AASC) wants to thank everyone who is making the decision to spay or neuter their pets. AASC was pleased to be able to bring another spay/ neuter resource to our community as we continue our work to meet the demand to reduce pet overpopulation and abandonment on our mountain.

Forty-one pets were fixed Dec. 16–17 by the Fido Fixers mobile spay/ neuter clinic at the old Grundy County High School. This service is based in Connecticut and is operated by Prevent-a-Litter Connection of Madisonville while it is in Tennessee. We are very grateful for their support and hard work.

On Dec. 19, Wally's Friends Spay and Neuter Clinic in Red Bank came and picked up 39 pets who were fixed at their clinic. We are very excited to say we fixed 77 dogs and cats that week, and AASC helped spay and neuter 519 pets in 2013. Since our program began, we have fixed 2,387 pets.

problems on our Mountain, but we can fix all the animals. Please call us today at (931) 235-9006 for more information about our ongoing assistance programs and to schedule your appointment to fix your pets.

AASC relies on grants, fund-raisers and local donations to do these surgeries. Tax-exempt donations can be made to AASC, P.O. Box 627, Tracy City, TN 37387.

ANOTHER VIEW OF ACA To the Editor:

Marcia Angell, former Editor-in-Chief of the "New England Journal of Medicine," has offered an objective 'big picture" of the Affordable Care (ACA). I paraphrase: Financing the ACA as now written cannot be sustained. The law leaves the for-profit private insurance industry in place and promises it millions of new cus-

As premiums rise, coverage will shrink; insurance companies will inevitably find ways around regulations requiring them to insure the unhealthy. Dr. Angell offers a solution: extend Medicare to everyone by dropping the qualifying age a decade at a time. We can hope.

Meanwhile, in this political climate with every Republican in Congress having voted against it and continuing to undermine it, only after the ACA was approved by the legislative branch and upheld by the judicial branch, could the act be seriously considered viable.

Today entitlement actually began; today the ACA began life in the real world, to immediately begin the process of experiencing, evaluating and improving this milestone in democ-Rhonda K. Pilkington racy. Healing the sick in an individual and in a nation is a value to be proud of. Faye Walter

Grundy County GOP to Hold Primary

The Grundy County Republican Party executive committee has voted to hold a primary election for the upcoming $\check{May}\,6$ county elections. Traditionally, the Grundy County Republican Party has held a caucus, which is a meeting of party members where delegates are selected following a discussion of the candidates. Winners in the Republican primary will face the winners in the Democrat primary in the general election on August 7.

"Due to the increasing numbers of Republican voters in Grundy County, the executive committee felt it was time to present a more accessible two-party system in Grundy County, where conservative candidates from all areas of the county can participate," said Wayne Harris, chairman.

"We have a lot on our plate this coming year and foreseeable future in Grundy County, so we want to make sure everyone who has the gumption $% \left(x\right) =\left(x\right) +\left(x\right) =\left(x\right)$ to make a difference and start working for solutions will get a seat at the table, said Harris.

CCJP Accepting Applications for Board

The Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace (CCJP) will elect two new members to the board of directors in March, 2014. Applications are currently being accepted.

CCJP played an active role in founding a number of institutions that have become an integral part of the community, including the Sewanee Community Council, Housing Sewanee, the Sewanee Gardeners' Market and the Sewanee Community Center.

Current CCJP projects include the Be the Change diversity retreat for high school age youth, informing citizens of recent changes in voting eligibility requirements, and helping community members become knowledgeable about the Affordable Care Act and how to apply for insurance.

CCJP board members are responsible for strategic planning, budgetary oversight, hiring and supervising the executive director, fund-raising (either through a financial contribution or active support of fund-raising projects), and acting as ambassadors for the organization. In order to fulfill these responsibilities, board members are expected to attend quarterly board meetings and to participate on at least one committee.

Serving on the CCJP Board of Directors is an opportunity to become an agent for positive change. Contact executive director Leslie Lytle for an application at <sllytle@blomand.net> or 598-9979. The deadline for submitting an application is Jan. 31.

OUTSIDE

by Patrick Dean

I've done this. I'll admit it.

I have made fun of people who exercise inside. There was a Facebook graphic circulating through the cycling world a while back that said something like, "Have fun driving to the gym so you can ride the indoor bicycle."

Why, I've wondered, wouldn't you hit the trails, or at least the sidewalks? Why look at CNN with the sound off when you can experience, in person, the winter sunlight slanting through the branches? Why listen to grunting and gasping and that mechanical whirring when there are leaves that crunch underfoot like potato chips? Why smell...gym smells...when there's that frosty tingle in the nose, or the faint depth of wood smoke?

Like many opinions, this one can veer easily into self-righteousness. And also like many opinions, a little shot of reality, if perceived and processed appropriately, can halt that self-righteousness in its tracks.

On the Mountain, of course, that reality arrived with the polar vortex, bringing sub-zero temperatures for the first time in decades. As with ice storms, tornadoes, heat waves or floods, the historic cold gave us pause. Our layering practices, designed for temperatures in the teens, were no longer sufficient. We even had to worry about (some of) our dogs' ability to cope in the cold.

And so, I found it necessary to take a look at how I feel about where I choose to play.

We're lucky enough to live where temperate conditions are our gift, and where those who spend time outside can usually relax into the joyful interaction with nature that study after study have shown is so good for us, body, soul and spirit.

But it's not the sterile safety of the workout facility. Things can happen out there that aren't a concern on the elliptical machine, from bites to stings to plants to exposure. Mindfulness is required. So is humility.

There's something not quite right, really, with treating the woods as your gym. To do so is to be disrespectful of that which we claim to value: the outdoor world, with all its plants and animals, sights, smells, sounds, insights, revelations, joys. It treats nature as our subordinate, as our tool or plaything. It makes nature part of our arsenal of fun, like bikes and skis and boats.

This isn't just wrongful, in my view. It's also not very smart.

The recent deep-freeze has reminded me that although we've managed to protect ourselves from much of what nature can do, it ultimately has the upper hand. We can be flooded, frozen or baked right out of our established lives. We might have to run for shelter, knowing that there are some forces we can't control.

It's enough to make anyone head for the stationary bike.

CINEMA GUILD at SUT Wednesday, Jan. 15, 7:30 p.m. V for Vendetta

Rated R • 132 minutes

This cult favorite is a dystopian thriller that imagines the United Kingdom dominated by a tyrannical government. A person known only as "V" (Hugo Weaving) uses theatrical and violent campaigns to defy the totalitarian oppression. In the process, he inspires Evey (Natalie Portman) who joins him in his crusade. Also starring Stephen Rea, Stephen Fry and John Hurt. One critic wrote, the movie "manages to unsettle and fascinate, riding to its conclusion on waves of unmasked outrage." Rated R for strong violence and some language.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE Thursday–Sunday, Jan. 16–19, 7:30 p.m. About Time

Rated R • 123 minutes

From the people who brought us "Love Actually" comes another lightweight romantic comedy starring the ever adorable Rachel McAdams. "Tim" (played by Domhnall Gleeson) learns from his father (Bill Nighy) that he can time travel and uses this power to change his love life and his future. Audiences liked this much more than reviewers, but one wrote, This is "a mostly charming romance, leavened by deft comedy, interesting sidelights (there are a few wonderful jabs at the world of the British theater) and a lovely cast." Rated R for language and some sexual content.

Looking ahead SUT has scheduled the following movies: Jan. 23–26: "Lee Danielss' The Butler" and Jan. 30–Feb. 2: "The Spectacular Now." Planned films (but with no firm dates yet) are: "Blue Jasmine," "Enough Said," "Gravity," and sequels galore ("Hunger Games: Catching Fire," "The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey" and "Anchorman 2: The Legend Continues."

Cinema Guild will be announcing its schedule later in January.

Open House and Registration for Dance on Sunday

The AYB-Sewanee Dance Conservatory will hold an Open House and Registration, 2–4 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 12, at the dance studio in the Fowler Center. New students will be registered for their appropriate class level. Continuing students may come and stretch in the studio and pay second-semester tuition.

Classes for the second semester begin on Monday, Jan. 13 for 12 weeks. There will be an end-of-year program in April for all students.

The Conservatory begins with 3-year-olds on Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m.

On Tuesdays, 4-year-olds meet at 3:45–4:30 p.m., followed by a preballet class for 5- and 6-year-olds at 4:30–5:30 p.m., followed by 7-8-year-olds ballet class at 5:30–6:30 p.m. The schedule has five levels of ballet with the highest level adding pointe work.

A beginning tap classes will be 3:15–4 p.m., Mondays.

A jazz class for ages 9–12 will be 5:30–6:30 p.m., Thursdays; it is preceded by a ballet class for ages 8–10.

The intermediate ballet classes will be at 5:45 p.m., Mondays and Wednesdays. Adult ballet classes will be 6:45–7:45 p.m., Tuesdays.

After a successful production of "The Nutcracker" in November using many of the conservatory students, artistic director David Herriott looks forward to increasing dance education in Sewanee. He will continue to work with University students to prepare them to instruct many of the classes. Instructors include veteran instructors Elizabeth Layman, Virginia Flowers with Grace Shaw and Claire Hill.

Herriott will teach an intermediate ballet class at 12 p.m., Fridays, by request. All classes will be at the dance studio in the Fowler Center.

For more information contact Herriott at (706) 589-2507 or email to <deherriott@gmail.com>.

In-Town Gallery in Chattanooga

Kicking off the New Year, In-Town Gallery's new exhibit is "Celebrate Art!" Every medium involved in the original work of the gallery's 34 artists will be represented as an introduction to the creativity within the gallery: acrylics, assemblage, beads, charcoal, clay, collage, encaustic, etching, fiber, glass, graphite, ink, jewels, metal, mixed media, oils, pastels, pencil, photos, tiles, watercolors and wood. In-Town Gallery, founded in 1974, is celebrating its 40th anniversary. It is located at 26A Frazier Ave., Chattanooga; for hours and more information call (423) 267-9214 or go to <www.intowngallery.com>.

Binkley at River Gallery

Local artist Clay Binkley's work is included in the new exhibit at River Gallery in Chattanooga, "A Contemporary Arts and Crafts Show." Binkley uses rescued burned-out tin roofs and barn wood to create tables with textured tin-roof tops and rolled picture frames. He finds art and function, combining salvaged materials like a "See Ruby Falls" painted tin roof that he bought from a farmer, used up guitar strings and old floor joists to make sculpted mirrors, frames and functional architectural pieces. Other artists in the show include Chris Barber, Laurey-Faye Long, Lynda Metcalfe, Jay Pfeil, Mary Lynn Portera and Robert Taylor. River Gallery is located at 400 East Second St., Chattanooga. For more information, call (423) 265-5033 or go to <www.river-gallery.com>.

As a student I was never very successful with memorizing things (these days I have no chance) but if a teacher explained things to me about 15 times I could begin to grasp a simple concept. Years ago when the teachers at Sewanee Elementary School began asking my daughters and their classmates to memorize a poem each week, I was obviously of no help. I cannot tell you the difference between Haiku and iambic pentameter, but professor Elizabeth Grammar has promised one day to teach me the concept of alluring alliterative allusions. This process of reciting poems is a wonderful teaching tool worth far more than just improving a student's memory. They get to see how "Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening" is just one way of painting perfect pictures.

I told you the story a few weeks ago about the best Christmas present ever. My college student daughter with no money in her pocket decided to write me a poem for Christmas. This is what she said:

My Father's Kitchen Is My Greatest Teacher

Don't press the dough too much he says, it takes away the fluffiness

The details are the most important.

I knead the white sticky ball, slowly and gently, afraid that too harsh a touch could bruise it's paleness He throws dripping potatoes into a grinding machine that shreds quickly and molds them into a bright orange paste, which is soon showered with a thick blanket of cinnamon, brown sugar, and crispy hot pecans. How much? I ask.

There is no recipe, he smiles, whatever you wish.

Be Creative.

I whip around, hearing the sound of streaming water splash against the burning stove.

The pot of corn is overflowing, he says,

Always pay attention.

Bending down to open the oven, he pulls out a crispy, golden turkey. Perfection. Not quite done, he says, checking the temperature.

Be Patient.

Ding, I pick up the hot chocolate pie but have forgotten to cover my bare hands. No! I cry, as the gooey, graham cracker pan shatters to the wooden floor. Don't worry, he says, You can make another,

Just try again.

As we scrub the dirty dishes, and set the table with white linen and water glasses, my father kisses my forehead, Thanks for your help,

Pappas) reported on their recent trip searching for Sandhill Cranes. "If you would like to see Sandhill Cranes walking around and feeding," Jean said, "Go down to the Winchester Pavilion on Joyce Lane and look across it into a pasture with a farm pond. Most of the cranes are around the pond, but some are out in the pasture with the cows."

At 4:30 p.m., Dec. 30, they were driving on Highway 64 in the area of the pavilion and several large flocks of Crane flew over them as they headed west. "We rolled down the car window and heard their wonderful roll call," Jean reports.

To see thousands of Sandhill Cranes, head down to the Hiwassee Wildlife Sanctuary located across the Tennessee River from Dayton,

Sewanee Community Chest

Friends of the Sewanee Dog Park

The 2013-14 Sewanee Community Chest Fund Drive is underway. The power of the people helping people makes a difference in the life of the community. Sponsored by the Sewanee Civic Association, the Community Chest raises money yearly for local charitable organizations serving the area. This year's goal is $108,000. To date, 84 percent of the goal has been reached.

For the next few weeks, the Sewanee Mountain Messenger will focus on some of the organizations supported by the Community Chest. This week we shine the spotlight on the Phil White Dog Park.

The Phil White Dog Park is a new organization in the community, run by a group of volunteers known as the Friends of the Sewanee Dog Park (FSDP). The purpose of the group is to build and maintain a dog park for public use in of November. Sewanee. The land for the park was set aside by the corporation of Sewanee with the stipulation that in addition to building the park, the FSDP would be perature: 60; average minimum temresponsible for all park maintenance and repair.

The FSDP's goal is to continue to publicize the park and raise funds for park maintenance, such as mowing, providing drinking water, trash removal, and repair or replacement of benches, dog waste stations, fencing and wire. The FSDP relies on volunteers, and in some instances private vendors and contractors to ensure that the park is properly maintained.

The FSDP is requesting $1,100 from the Community Chest. The funds will be used for water bills, garbage bills, reseeding and fertilizing, mowing, general maintenance, and simple shelters for the dog owners. The FSDP is a non-profit organization and relies on donations. Expenses in 2013 totaled more than $16,000 to get the park operational.

The goal of the Sewanee Community Chest is to help citizens by funding the community. Through Community Chest funding, 28 local organizations help those caught in the cycle of poverty, improve lives through outreach and community initiatives, and provide support for children with a variety of programs. Go to <www.sewaneecivic.wordpress.com> for more information about the organizations supported.

The Sewanee Community Chest is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, and donations are tax-deductible. Send your donation to Sewanee Community Chest, P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375.

Pets of the Week

Meet Kambrie and Peanut Michelle

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Kambrie is a lovely 4-month-old Calico/Torbie who will make a perfect lap kitty. She wants all the affection you have to spare. Kambrie is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Peanut Michelle is an alert little adult Terrier who wants lots of love. She has a special diet requirement, but in return she will give you daily laughs and more than enough happiness to offset that. Peanut Michelle is up-to-date on

For a limited time, two kittens may be adopted together for one adoption fee of $75. Having two kittens is better than one because they play together and keep each other company. Adult cats may be adopted for a $40 fee during this special. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>.

To The Stone-Cutters

[Birthday of Robinson Jeffers, January 10, 1887]

Stone-cutters fighting time with marble, you foredefeated Challengers of oblivion

Eat cynical earnings, knowing rock splits, records fall down,

The square-limbed Roman letters Scale in the thaws, wear in the rain. The poet as well

Builds his monument mockingly;

For man will be blotted out, the blithe earth die, the brave sun

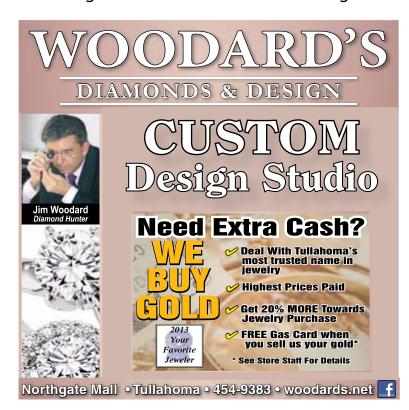

Die blind and blacken to the heart:

Yet stones have stood for a thousand years, and pained thoughts found The honey of peace in old poems.

> — "To the Stonecutters" by Robinson Jeffers (1887–1962) from "Tamar" (1920–1923)
