The University Child Care Center participated in their second annual trick or treating adventure through campus with a stop at Chen Hall for story time with Bonnie McCardell.

Sewanee Women: 'Diamonds Are Made Under Pressure'

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

The panel discussion Sewanee Women Then and Now featured four current students and five alumnae ranging from the class of 1974 to 2019. Held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of women students at the University, the panel shined a light on disconcerting moments alongside gratitude, inspiration and awe.

Margaret Barton, C'78, recalled a professor who opened class with "Welcome gentleman and girls." A woman classmate advised her, "Never accept a date after Wednesday or you'll look hard up, and always wear full makeup to the library."

Elise Spainhour was a freshman the second year Sewanee admitted women. "I tried to find out which professors were user friendly and would tolerate women. Some faculty didn't want women here. I lucked out. I only had 'one.'" Spain-

Sewanee Village Green: What, Why, How

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

"The village green is the most important part of the village," said Scott Parker, principal for the Charleston, S.C., based firm Design Works. Charged with creating a conceptual design for the Sewanee Village Green, Parker met with community members at the November Sewanee Village update meetings.

The Sewanee Village Plan assigns a half-acre site to the green at the present location of the Sewanee Market.

"The location is absolutely right," Parker said. "It will connect the two sides of the village. How the space is designed and what's happening there speaks to who you are as a community, both the history and how you see yourself in the future."

Parker acknowledged the importance of tourism, and not just for businesses. "More exposure is better for the University."

How do towns attract visitors? "When people travel, they're looking for something unique," Parker said. "Focus on your own community," he advised. "What is your brand?"

Resident and business owner Ed Hawkins suggested, "capitalizing on Sewanee's history," things like

Women of Sewanee Success

by Lee Freeland Hancock, C'81, Special to the Messenger

Women of Sewanee, an independent group of alumni, faculty, staff and community members, announced its first fundraising success at Homecoming Weekend: a $20,000 fund for portraits of women scholars and mentors at the University.

The group launched its fundraiser in early October to honor history professor Julie Berebitsky, recently retired chair of Women and Gender Studies. Berebitsky's portrait will be the first commissioned with a permanent fund named in her honor. Women of Sewanee (WoS) wants to ensure more portraits of groundbreaking women scholars and leaders are visible in places of honor at the University.

At a Friday reception celebrating Berebitsky's career, WoS members revealed that more than 200 alumni, students, faculty and staff and community members gave from $3 to $2,000. The group doubled its initial goal, allowing for a permanent portrait fund.

"Women's and Gender Studies was thrilled with the outpouring of support and recognition for Professor Julie Berebitsky," said Andrea Mansker, current chair of Women and Gender Studies. "The efforts to commission an oil painting of Dr. Berebitsky that will hang in a prominent location on campus were phenomenal and stand as a testament to Julie's longstanding efforts to disrupt the patriarchal status quo at the University."

Terry Papillon, vice president and dean of the college, notably helped by creating a Women of Sewanee restricted account at the University. It allows for future donations to the Berebitsky portrait fund as well as new WoS initiatives at the University.

"I am pleased to see this group so engaged and interested in the well-being of Sewanee's future," Papillon said. "I look forward to working with them more on projects that will make Sewanee a continually better place for women."

Women of Sewanee began in mid-July, as alumnae shared stories in connection with the year-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of women's admission to the college. Beginning with a few people on a Facebook page, it now has more than 3,100 members. It is open to women affiliated with Sewanee and the mountain community. Members include college professors, staffers and administrators, legal and medical professionals, farmers, journalists, scientists, nonprofit leaders, educators, theatre professionals, political consultants and government experts, stay-at-home moms and others.

"I never dreamed that a simple invitation for women of Sewanee to join together would turn into such a dynamic movement," said WoS founder Em Taylor Chitty, C'77, a Sewanee native and University of Tennessee teacher.

Future WoS projects include member retreats and student mentoring and a book on Sewanee women. The group also wants to help enhance mental health, Title IX and wellness programs and community outreach initiatives.

"It's time for us to show the University the power of female organization and collaboration," said Hayley Shelton, C'04, a Nashville native and human resources consultant. "I look very much forward to working with the University to overcome challenges and illuminate continued issues that female and female identifying students face."

Others said WoS is fulfilling a desire to expand Sewanee's community. "We share a passion for this place and its people," said Patsy Pyle, C'89, a Birmingham native who leads custom tours in Paris. "When women support women, our community will be stronger."

Contact Women of Sewanee at <womenofsewanee@gmail.com> or Facebook.

LEGION CELEBRATING 100 YEARS

To the Editor:

The National American Legion Auxiliary is celebrating 100 years this year. The mission of the American Legion Auxiliary "is to support the American Legion and to honor the sacrifice of those who served by enhancing the lives of our veterans, military and their families, both at home and abroad. For God and Country, we advocate for veterans, educate our citizens, mentor our youth and promote patriotism, good citizenship, peace and security."

The Bonholzer-Campbell American Legion Auxiliary unit 51 was organized in Sewanee on September 14, 1949 with 23 charter members. We are blessed to have one of the charter members, Ina May Myers, still a member of ALA 51.

The Bonholzer-Campbell name came from two soldiers from Sewanee that were killed in World War I, Albert Bonholzer and Ernest Campbell. Ernest Campbell was Myers' uncle. In World War II, there were more than 250 people to volunteer from Sewanee, some of them were females. At the end of World II, 13 Sewanee men had been killed. One being my Uncle Allen Lear McBee, my daddy's twin brother. All the names of the ones that were killed are listed on a plaque on the big mountain stone in front of the Legion Hall.

The Sewanee Woman's Club had leased the lot where the Legion Hall now stands, they very graciously offered to let the Legion have the lot, because they felt it was a better location for the building. All the Sewanee businesses and organizations helped with the building. The veterans did most of the construction work. As soon as the sub flooring was down, the Legion began holding square dances every Saturday night and the Auxiliary sold soft drinks and sandwiches to raise money to help with the building. When the building was completed, it was named Bonholzer-Campbell Post 51.

The Auxiliary Unit 51 continues to be a support for Post 51. The Auxiliary would like to have new members. You can be a member if you served in service or are a veteran's spouse, mother, daughter, granddaughter, grandmother, or sister.

You are invited to come to the covered dish Veterans Supper on Monday, Nov. 11, at 6 p.m. at the Legion Hall and see a booklet of history of the Auxiliary Unit 51 and American Legion Post 51, compiled by Ina May Myers.

Let's support our Veterans.

Thanksgiving Meal Made Easy

Are you feeling stressed about cooking a traditional Thanksgiving meal this year?

Emily Wallace, the Executive Chef at St. Mary's Sewanee: The Ayres Center for Spiritual Development, is once again creating a delicious Thanksgiving meal that she prepares and you take home and serve. Wallace has done this for five years, each time with more and more people taking part. All proceeds benefit the programs of St. Mary's Sewanee.

The meal, which generously serves six people, consists of sliced roasted turkey breast and gravy, traditional dressing (made of homemade cornbread and homemade biscuits), a savory cranberry relish, a light sweet potato soufflé, green bean casserole made entirely from scratch, and rolls. The entire meal is $80. All side items are also available for purchase; call for more information on pricing and sizes. For dessert, Wallace is making deep dish Southern-style pecan pie ($12) and pumpkin pie ($9.50).

The deadline for ordering a meal is noon, Tuesday, Nov. 19. Meals will be available for pick-up from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 26 or 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 27 at St. Mary's Sewanee.

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace continues Sunday night, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Dave Deep, president and founder of Wake for Warriors and Kayla Deep’s father, will share his story with us. For our semester-long series One Step Before Me, we’re asking each of our speakers to share about another person—from history or from their own life—who has impacted or shaped them. In reflecting on a “personal saint” who made their path clearer, our speakers allow us all the opportunity to experience gratitude for all who have given us strength to wander and learn. Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep if you have any questions. We hope to see you there—and bring a friend!

The Catechumenate continues Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. in the Bairnwick Women’s Center. Catechumenate, from a Greek word meaning “learning and exploring,” is a place where we explore what it means to be a human being and what it means to be a person of faith in our community. This is a great place to meet new people and build relationships. Food, prayer, questions, and conversation power this process. This week we will be discussing the Lord’s Prayer. Contact Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep for directions or more information <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu>.

Christ Church

Christ Church will honor Veterans Day at our 10:30 a.m. service on Sunday, Nov. 10. Visitors are welcome and expected.

Clergy Conference

Alzheimer’s Tennessee is presenting a Clergy Conference on Tuesday, Nov. 12, from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m., in the Annex of First Christian Church, 201 N.W. Atlantic Street, Tullahoma. The conference is designed to equip clergy and lay leaders to support families who are affected by dementia. Featured speakers include Dr. Marcus Lee, a Tullahoma physician; the Rev. Elmore Torbert, Jr., pastor of Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church; and Pat Caron, counselor and specialist in senior care. To register, go to <www.alzTennessee.org> or call (931) 434-2348.

Morton Memorial UMC

Is my loved one still a Christian, if she can no longer remember Jesus? What will it mean for my relationship with God, if I lose cognitive functions because of dementia? These are some of the questions addressed in Methodist Bishop Kenneth L. Carder’s book “Ministry with the Forgotten: Dementia through a Spiritual Lens.” Says Bishop Carder, “Within God’s story is the invitation to participate in the very being and action of God, who is known beyond the confines of the human brain.” Join us at Morton Memorial United Methodist Church for the next two Sundays at 11 a.m. for a two-part series sharing insights from this book. On Sunday, Nov. 10, Pastor Jodi McCullah will talk about “The God Who Redeems Exile” and the following Sunday look at what it means for God to be with us and for us as believers, even when we no longer have a memory we can access.

The St. Thomas Mobile Health Unit will be at Morton Memorial on Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. No appointments are necessary. Services included are non-emergency illnesses such as coughs, colds, ear infections, skin irritations, allergies and fever; well-child exams; and annual physicals. All patient costs for services are covered by benefactors of the St. Thomas Health Foundation. For insured persons, the mobile unit team will file insurance and cover co-pays and deductibles.

The Wesley group is one of seven forms of fellowship at Morton Memorial. They meet at 8:15 a.m. on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month in the Wesley House beside the church. The group is starting discussions of “A Hop, Skip and a Jump through the Bible” by Ellsworth Kalas, author of more than 20 books. In this study, Kalas highlights the wonders of the Bible for readers and shows how the Bible isn’t just a collection of stories of the past, but rather it is a continuing story of God and God’s relationship with the human race. Bob Askew will lead the discussion of Chapter One on Nov. 13.

Morton Memorial UMC’s Thursday service of Prayer and Healing with Holy Eucharist will take a break until the new year. The service will resume at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, Jan. 16, 2020. All are welcome.

Otey Parish

This Sunday, Youth meet at 9:45 a.m. in the Hethcock Room in Claiborne Hall for Sunday Service Hour. Infants 6 weeks to children 4 years old are invited to the nursery beginning at 8:30 a.m. There will be nursery for both services and the Sunday School Hour. Children ages 3-11 are invited to join us in the Godly Play 2 room Claiborne Parish House.

Adult Forum—“Human Trafficking” Candida Bannister, long-time activist in the struggle against human trafficking, will discuss major issues to be confronted. She is a member of the speaker’s bureau for End Slavery Tennessee and a member of the Board of Directors for United Against Slavery.

Parents Involved in Faith Formation: John Simpson and Otey Parish are offering a class this fall on how we as adults shape and model the kind of faith that our children will carry into adulthood. Author of ‘The Shack’ to Appear in Sewanee

Wm. Paul Young, best-selling author of “The Shack: Where Tragedy Confronts Eternity,” will speak in Sewanee Nov. 15 and 16. “The Shack,” a story about a father wrestling with what he calls a “Great Sadness” after the brutal murder of his youngest daughter, found a world-wide audience and was the No. 1 paperback trade fiction seller on The New York Times Best Seller list from June 2008 to early 2010. It was successfully turned into a feature film starring Sam Worthington, Octavia Spencer, and Tim McGraw in 2017.

Local and regional community members will have the opportunity to explore how “The Shack” relates to faith with the book’s author on Friday, Nov. 15, in a lecture open to the public and held in All Saints’ Chapel at 7 p.m. Registration for the lecture is encouraged and a “love offering” will be collected to support the event. On Saturday, Nov. 16, Young will lead a workshop titled “Lies We Believe About God,” based on his nonfiction book of the same title. Registration and a tuition fee are required for the workshop.

This visit to Sewanee by Young is one of two events in a series called FaithMatters, a new offering from the Beecken Center of the School of Theology that seeks to bring people to Sewanee who are engaging matters of faith in innovative ways.

For complete details and to register for any of these offerings, visit <beeckencenter.sewanee.edu/events/faithmatters2019> or call 1-800-722-1974.

The Beecken Center of the School of Theology at the University of the South is a lively center of learning and ministry that offers experiences and resources for adult and youth lay theological education, clergy continuing education, hospitality and evangelism ministries, congregational development, and spiritual formation.

Woodard's Diamonds and Design Open at New Location

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

Jim Woodard and his team at Woodard's Diamonds and Design spent their final day in the Northgate mall location last month after more than 30 years.

The new store is located at 2011 North Jackson St., in Tullahoma, right in front of the Walmart.

Woodard has been in the diamond business since he was 16-years-old, and he said the store symbolizes a new phase of serving his community.

"When I started working in jewelry, I just really enjoyed the people and serving customers, helping them pick things that were really cool like engagement rings or birthday presents or anniversary gifts. It was so wonderful to be able to help people find something special for someone," he said.

Woodard's is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday. With the move complete, and Woodard and his team getting settled into the new location, he said now is a great time to come see what the new store has to offer.

"This is a wonderful season to come in and find something beautiful," he said. "What I really like is that the things that you purchase from the jewelry store have a pretty long shelf life. When you give a diamond ring, that can be a gift for the next generation and the next and the next."

Come see Woodard's Diamonds and Designs at the new location in Tullahoma. For information about stock or with questions from the diamond experts, call (931) 454-9383 or follow them on Facebook at <www.facebook.com/woodardsdiamondshowroom>.

hour went on to emphasize how supportive the all-male political science faculty was when she decided to attend law school. "It was a shock at Vanderbilt to deal with chauvinists. I didn't get that here."

As President of the Women's Dorm Council, Rosemary Drake, C'80, launched plans for an inter-dorm swim meet. The coach in charge of the pool quashed the event, telling Rosemary "I'm not going to have women throwing up and fainting in my pool." Dean Mary Sue Cushman got things back on track.

Malicat Chouyouti, C'20, started out as an economics major, a male-dominated field. "I was often the only black and/or woman. I experienced the erasure effect. People pretend you don't exist and seem surprised when you say something... 'Oh, she's kind of smart.'"

"I'm often the only international student in class," said Mandy Tu, C'21. "I'm from Burma and have a unique perspective on colonialism. I need to gauge when to say something and when to step back. I haven't figured out the middle ground."

"I spent the first two years mad," admits Maria Trejo, C'20. She stressed the importance of "Theme Houses, where you can be yourself. The Queer and Ally House was the first safe space I encountered. If it hadn't been for that, I don't think I would have stayed."

The dorm was the safe space for early alums like Spainhour and Barton.

"We didn't have a space for sorority meetings, coffees, and speakers," said Elizabeth Niven, C'85, who worked to help women realize the dream of the Bairnwick Women's Center.

An audience member observed women were often "the activists on campus."

"It takes a lot of brain space to balance activism and academics," Tu said, acknowledging "the reliance on student initiatives." As President of the Organization for Cross-Cultural Understanding, Tu launched a Representation Project to ease the experience of international students like herself.

Chandler Davenport, C'19, came to Sewanee as a Posse Scholar from Washington, D.C. She initially found her community among other D.C. Posse Scholars "who had the same culture back home." Then Chandler encountered women of color "who didn't come in with a community." She helped found Black Queen to create a space for those women.

What were the unique take aways for Sewanee women?

Spainhour, currently a Kentucky Circuit judge and senior family court judge, cited "intellectual freedom."

"Women of Sewanee shaped my spirit and pushed me to do things I never imagined," said Chouyouti, who serves as a student trustee, a role she never envisioned for herself.

"For every difficult person who said something mean to me or underestimated me, there are five supportive people," said Tu.

"I'm the only woman in the history department at the school where I teach. I'm not intimidated. I'm used to being the only one," Davenport insisted. Her advice to current and future students: "Embrace the discomfort. Diamonds are made under pressure."

All Saints' Chapel and The Cross. "Sewanee is a community of self-reliant people," said resident Anita Colley. "The community farm has been going on forever. People make candles, goat cheese. Highlight the crafts people."

Hawkins observed the craft people were "spread out" over a large area. Hawkins suggested a shuttle and emphasized the need for a tourist information facility.

"People need to know the green is the place to go to find out things," Parker stressed.

The discussion about lighting reinforced the often expressed importance of preserving Sewanee's "dark sky."

Resident and business owner Susan Holmes suggested motion activated sidewalk lighting.

"Lighting is critical," Parker agreed. "Everything should work for pedestrians. That should be the guiding principal."

In response to a suggestion that the village needed to be "subtly different" from main campus, that the buildings did not need to be stone for example, Parker observed. "The University is the lead story here. The village should pick up on some aspect of the college."

Parker championed the idea of routing traffic through town via University Avenue to help connect the campus and village.

Addressing safety concerns about the green which will border Highway 41A, Parker said, "It's important to be able to look down into the green from the highway, but there needs to be some sort of edge so kids aren't going out into the street. We're working on that."

Parker recommended movable tables and chairs on the green that "can be arranged" according to people's needs and whims. He cited a similar project where movable furniture jumpstarted activity.

"Does the village green need a name?" asked Frank Gladu who oversees the Sewanee Village initiative.

Parker proposed considering "something that speaks to the history of the place."

"The green is [near] where the old depot was," Hawkins said.

However, University professor and resident Chris Shelley observed, "The name 'The Village Green' tells people exactly what it is."

November 2020 Presidential Primary Debate Watch

Join us to watch and discuss the next 2020 Democratic Presidential Primary Debate with students, faculty, staff, and community members. Following the debate, Sean O'Rourke, Professor of Rhetoric and American Studies, and Director of the Center for Speaking and Listening will moderate our discussion. All are welcome, regardless of political affiliation. The event will be at 6:40 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 20, at Convocation Hall. Fiesta Grill snacks provided.

DebateWatch is a voter education program of the Commission on Presidential Debates (CPD). DebateWatch is a way to get American voters talking about the candidates and issues, not just listening. It brings people together to watch the televised debates, turn off the television as soon as it is over, and then have a discussion about what they have just seen and heard.

Can't make this debate? Stay tuned for more DebateWatch events throughout the year.

Community Chest Sets 2019-20 Fundraising Goal

The Sewanee Civic Association (SCA) has officially launched its 2019-20 fundraising campaign, with the aim of raising $105,140 for the Sewanee Community Chest. Reaching this goal will enable the SCA to fully cover the grant funding requests of 25 local nonprofit organizations and programs, including the Sewanee Parent Organization, Folks at Home, and the Sewanee Fourth of July Celebration, among others.

Since 1908, the SCA has overseen the Sewanee Community Chest, which has given more than $1 million to organizations in Franklin, Marion, and Grundy counties over the last decade. Though Sewanee Community Chest funds are largely designated for Sewanee-based outreach, funding has historically been provided to organizations beyond Sewanee whose projects directly benefit the local community.

This year's 25 grantees serve multiple demographics across Sewanee, from students to senior citizens. As in past years, a large number of the funded organizations affect Sewanee's youth.

The Sewanee Community Chest is made possible by contributions from community members across the Plateau. All donations are tax deductible. Donations can be made by credit, debit, or PayPal, either one-time or recurring. Checks may be mailed to Sewanee Community Chest, P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375. For more information, go to <www.sewaneecivic.org>.

Successful Relay for Life at Sewanee

Forty-one teams and more than 225 people participated in the American Cancer Society Relay for Life at Sewanee event on Oct. 26 at the Fowler Center.

More than $41,174 was raised to support the American Cancer Society's mission of saving lives from cancer. Funds raised help the American Cancer Society provide free information and support for people facing the disease today, and fund cancer research that will help protect future generations.

"It was inspirational to see people from all parts of our community come out to support us and help save lives from cancer," said Bill Davis. "Together, we celebrated those surviving cancer, remembered loved ones lost, and took tangible action to make a difference."

Cancer survivors came together to walk the honorary survivor lap. Candle lite Luminaria bags were illuminated around the track in remembrance of those that have been lost to cancer.

Founded by Dr. Gordy Klatt in Washington in 1985, the Relay for Life movement is the world's largest fundraising event to save lives from cancer. Uniting communities across the globe, we celebrate people who have battled cancer, remember loved ones lost, and take action for lifesaving change. During Relay for Life events, members of each team take turns walking or running around the track or path. Teams participate in fundraising in the months leading up to the event.

Donations can still be made by visiting <www.RelayForLife.org/sewanee>. There is a special team "Relay Angels" that has been set up to help reach the $50,000 goal.

‘How Immigration Law, Policy, and Practice Affect Women’

Sarah Owings will present the lecture “Backwards and in High Heels: How Immigration Law, Policy, and Practice Affect Women” at 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 11, in Gailor Auditorium.

Sarah Owings is an immigration attorney based in Atlanta, Ga. She represents foreign nationals in removal proceedings before the U.S. immigration courts, helping them to seek relief from deportation. She also works to promote sensible immigration policy reforms while advocating for the rights of migrants in detention and at the U.S. border. Sarah will speak about immigration as an issue affecting women, especially given recent restrictions on asylum for domestic abuse, and she will address the fact that immigration law is a majority female field (along with Sarah, many of the attorneys who travelled to the border in response to the travel ban were women).

As a 2003 graduate of the University of the South, she is eager to share her career path with interested students. She also currently serves on the Board of Governors of the American Immigration Lawyer’s Association.

Owings will be sharing her perspective on the crisis in U.S. immigration courts and being a lady lawyer trying to do some good in a deeply flawed system.

This lecture is sponsored by English, Women’s and Gender Studies, the Office of Global Citizenship, the Humanities program, and the Lectures Committee.

‘Chocolate Bells’ to Ring at SAS, Nov. 11

This Monday, Nov. 11, at 11:11 a.m., St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School will celebrate Armistice Day with an 11-minute ringing of the St. Andrew’s Chapel “Chocolate Bells.” The annual ritual commemorates the sacrifices of our veterans, is a celebration of peace, and serves as a token of thanks to those who provided the bells for the school’s bell tower. Community members are invited to join SAS students, faculty, and staff in ringing the bells.

The ritual of ringing the “Chocolate Bells” began in 1918. Before World War I ended, the women in a small Episcopal church in Morristown, N.J., began collecting money to send chocolates to American soldiers overseas. When the war ended, they decided to allocate the balance of their “War Time Chocolate Fund” to some other worthy cause. Through one of their parishioners, they heard about St. Andrew’s School, an Episcopal boarding school in Sewanee, which had recently completed building a chapel but lacked money for bells in the bell tower.

The churchwomen sent the money for three bells as an Armistice Thanksgiving and asked that the bells be dedicated to three archangels—Uriel, Raphael, and Michael. In return, the school agreed to ring the bells for 11 minutes on the eleventh day of the eleventh month at 11:11 a.m. every year in memory of those who died in World War I and as a prayer for peace. It is an especially poignant event because SAS welcomes students from around the world, including Germany and Japan, who participate in the event.

The St. Andrew’s Chapel is the heart of the school’s campus. The oldest building on campus, the school celebrated the centennial of the building in 2013 and its renovation and rededication in 2016. The school community meets in the Chapel for a Eucharist service every Monday morning and for various all-school meetings and special events.

‘Why Study the South? Southern Studies in the 21st Century’

Friends of the Library of The University of the South invites you to attend a special lecture by John Grammer, Professor of English. Grammer will be the featured speaker for the fourth annual Tom Watson Memorial Lecture, a lecture series designed to remember and honor the legacy of Tom Watson, University Librarian from 1976-81; 1994-2004. The Friends meeting will be held in the Torian Room of Jessie Ball duPont Library on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 4:30 p.m. Taking as its focus the plans for Sewanee’s Center for Southern Studies, Grammer’s talk will discuss the opportunities and obligations that arise when we study the Southern region – its past and its present – right now.

John Grammer is a professor of English at the University of the South, where he teaches classes American Literature and American Studies. He received his B.A. at Vanderbilt University and his Ph.D. at the University of Virginia. His 1996 book “Pastoral and Politics in the Old South” won the C. Hugh Holman Award as the best book of the year in Southern literary study, and his essays and reviews have appeared in American Literary History, the Oxford American, The Southern Literary Journal, The Sewanee Review and other journals, and in such books as The Dictionary of Literary Biography, The Encyclopedia of Southern Culture, and Blackwell’s Guide to the Literature and Culture of the American South. He founded The Sewanee School of Letters and directed it for 12 years. Currently he is leading the effort, supported by a Mellon grant, to establish a Center for Southern Studies at the University of the South.

A reception will follow the talk.

Holocaust Speaker at SAS

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School welcomes Holocaust speaker Sonja DuBois at 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 13, for an all-school assembly in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts. The public is welcome to attend.

Born in 1940 in Rotterdam, Clara van Thijn was separated from her parents on July 29, 1942, when they reported for the first Jewish transport headed for Auschwitz, and were murdered shortly after their arrival. Entrusted to a family friend, Dolf Henkes, and rescued by a Dutch Christian couple, she spent the postwar years in Schiedam as Sonja, the foster child of Willem and Elisabeth van der Kaden.

Although she was also surrounded by her surviving Jewish aunts and uncles, she was not told of their relationship to her, nor was she told of her birth parents' death. In 1952, the van der Kaden family emigrated to the United States, where Sonja continued to be surrounded by her Jewish relatives who had settled there. After she graduated from college, she married and raised two children.

It was not until age 60 that she was able to overcome her reluctance to probe into her past. She discovered her Jewish roots with the help of new friends whom she met at a hidden children's conference. Her journey continues to overcome the denial, pain, and anger she felt during most of her life, and to deepen her knowledge of her Jewish heritage. The commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II in 2015 in Rotterdam, brought her story to full circle. Her amazing story of resilience and love raises ageless and universal questions about overcoming childhood trauma and finding one's true identity.

Sonja now lives in Knoxville where she frequently shares her tragic, yet inspirational story with classrooms and groups. Following her talk, she will sign her book "Finding Schifrah: The Journey of a Dutch Child Holocaust Survivor."

With the help of the Tennessee Holocaust Commission, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School attempts to host a Holocaust speaker each year. The school also offers an elective course, "Night Will Fall: Holocaust and Genocide Studies" that examines the political and moral lessons from the tragedies of the Shoah and the mass killings in Armenia, Cambodia, the Balkans, Rwanda, and Darfur, and considers the implications of these events for American foreign policy, international law, scientific and medical experimentation, restitution for survivors, and interfaith understanding. The course is taught by Interim Dean of Students and History department chair Geoffrey Smith who received the 2016 Belz-Lipman Holocaust Educator Award sponsored by the Tennessee Holocaust Commission.

Sewanee Elementary School's fifth graders recently visited St. Andrew's-Sewanee School for the annual Spooky Chemistry demonstrations by the Advanced Chemistry class.

Next St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Shadow Day Nov. 11

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School welcomes prospective students to experience a day as an SAS student with Shadow Days throughout the fall and winter. The next Shadow Day is Monday, Nov. 11.

Participating students will be paired with an SAS student of similar age and interests to attend chapel and classes. Director of Admission Derek Perkins encourages families who are considering a change to sign-up. "Shadow Days are a great way to see first-hand why we say, 'you belong here.'" Visiting students attending a recent Shadow Day were impressed by the excitement in SAS classes, the friendliness of the student body, and the good food at lunch.

'Look & See' Berry Documentary, Nov. 15

"Look & See" skillfully weaves Berry's poetic and prescient words with gorgeous cinematography and the testimonies of his family and neighbors, all of whom are being deeply affected by the industrial and economic changes to their agrarian way of life. Artist Talk for 'Allegiance' at UAG, Nov. 8

The University Art Gallery is honored to present "Allegiance," a quiet and intimate exhibition of complex and beautiful woven textiles by Los Angeles-based artist Diedrick Brackens, on view through Dec. 13.

In "Allegiance," Brackens plays with our expectations and associations, turning symbols, lyrics and materials to new purposes. He refashions American and Confederate flags; he quotes and recasts the lyrics to the minstrel song Dixie and to the hymn Holy, Holy, Holy; he makes the language of advertising both sentimental and subversive; and he, an African-American whose antecedents picked cotton in Texas, self-consciously transforms that fraught material into beautiful textiles.

Richly allusive, many of the pieces on view in "Allegiance" meditate on flags, their uses and their dense networks of associations with Americana, heartland, heritage and freedom. The symbolism of flags is disrupted, teased and softened, and these abstracted flags are seen as if through a veil. We are invited to adopt a personal, thoughtful, and emotional point of view, and to meditate on the negotiation of belonging.

Brackens will speak about his work at 5 p.m., Friday, Nov. 8, in Convocation Hall. Reception to follow.

University Art Gallery is open 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. Call (931) 598-1223 for more information, visit our website at <gallery.sewanee.edu>.

Installation view, Sympathetic Dissonance. 2019. Mary Stuart Hall. Sculptural and video installation.

'Sympathetic Dissonance' on Display at Carlos Gallery

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at the University of the South is pleased to present "Sympathetic Dissonance," an exhibition of sculptural installations by artist and Sewanee alumna Mary Stuart Hall, C'04. The exhibit will be on display through Dec. 12. An artist talk and reception will be at 5 p.m., Friday, Nov. 15.

Mary Stuart Hall creates sculptural installations that mediate text and other forms of cultural artifacts into a multi-dimensional experience. The construction of knowledge based on digested experience, combined with rich emotional content generate architectural forms integrated with interactive technology. The emotional experience of loss and inadequate memory runs through the content of the work.

In this exhibition, Hall explores a phenomenon known as sympathetic resonance, where under certain conditions, bringing a ringing tuning fork nearby can make a silent tuning fork begin to ring. Illustrating the materiality of sound in space, Sympathetic Dissonance considers how the idea and reality of encountering a landscape can be incongruous. The installation relies on the complex experience of a place and space to create a contrast between the idea of a place, an imaginary landscape, and the sensational experience of the material world.

Hall states, "The distance sound travels can define a space in ways that walls or lines on a map cannot. Political boundaries have evolved as lines often divorced from the everyday experience of a place. In contrast to a binary expression separating here from there, an ancient Germanic tradition defines the boundary of a town with a church bell. Any person hearing the bell is inside the town. By using sound to define a boundary, the perceptual experience of a place is incorporated in its existence. One could even be in two places at once." "Sympathetic Dissonance" complicates the understanding of how we measure space and define a place.

Mary Stuart Hall is a multi-disciplinary artist based in Atlanta, Ga. She has exhibited work throughout the US and internationally, including an award for Best in Show at MINT Gallery's annual juried exhibition. She was an artist in residence at ADAM Lab at Georgia Tech in collaboration with Eyedrum Gallery, and she was also the MFAST Artist in Residence at the University of the Arts Bremen, Germany. Graduating with a degree from the University of the South, Hall completed a Masters in Art Education from the University of Georgia, and is currently pursuing her MFA in Studio Art at the Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA). She teaches visual art at the Galloway School in Atlanta.

The Carlos Gallery is located in the Nabit Art Building, 105 Kennerly Rd. Gallery hours are Monday–Friday, 8 a.m.–5 p.m., and Saturday, 1–5 p.m. For more information contact Jessica Wohl at (931) 598-1256 or <jewohl@sewanee.edu>.

60th Annual Lessons and Carols at Sewanee

The 60th annual Festival of Lessons and Carols at the University of the South will be celebrated at three services, two on Dec. 7 (4 p.m. and 7 p.m.), and one on Dec. 8 (4 p.m.).

As part of the University mission and the program of education and formation of All Saints' Chapel, the Festival Service of Lessons and Carols offers students, faculty, and staff in the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Theology the opportunity to experience one of the oldest traditions of Anglican music and Advent expectation. As part of the University's outreach to others, the Chapel is pleased to welcome the public by offering any available places in the service for reservation. Based on last year's experience, however, the University expects that after accommodating students, faculty, staff, and their families, the number of places available to the public for reservation may be severely limited.

In our continuing effort to ensure open communication, below are our plans for the reservation system this year. Some highlights:

The University will determine by Nov. 14, 2019, whether there will be places available to the general public for reservation.

If so, online reservations for the public will be available on Nov. 20, 2019.

Guests will be able to reserve a specific seat.

All tickets will be available for pick-up at Convocation Hall prior to the service.

Unused tickets, if any, will be made available to walk-up guests (guests without a reservation) before each service.

If you have questions that are not answered here, contact the Lessons and Carols office at (931) 598-3247 or via email at <lessonsandcarols@sewanee.edu>.

Football Struggles to Keep Up with Majors

On the 71st Homecoming celebration at The University of the South, the Sewanee football team dropped a 49-25 decision to the Majors of Millsaps College on Saturday from Historic Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium.

Twenty seniors between the football team and the cheerleading squad were recognized prior to Saturday's kickoff: Sam Blackstock, Bre Corn, Alex Darras, Sam Hearn, Warren Holland, Phelps Hunnicutt, Sam Jackson, Micah Maes, Joseph Marasciullo, J.T. Mitchell, Justin Pignocco, Allan Puri, Dane Quinn, E.J. Ray, Thomas Richardson, Andrew Schauer, Joe Schauer, Christian Spencer, Josh Szymchak and Scott Ullstein.

Millsaps struck the scoreboard first on the team's second possession after recording the team's second interception in as many drives. Amryn Jeffrey posted a 17-yard touchdown reception to Austin Russell for the early 7-0 lead.

After a three-and-out by the Tigers on their next possession, the Majors made it a 14-0 lead on a 20-yard catch by Moise Tezzo with 2:33 left in the opening quarter.

On Sewanee's next drive, after a Millsaps penalty to push the ball to the Sewanee 18-yard-line, George Morrice found a hole on the right side and ran 81 yards to put the hosts on the board.

The second quarter saw the Majors have three opportunities to pad their lead on field goal attempts, but the visitors missed from 32, 46 and 36 yards in the quarter but maintained a 14-7 lead at the break.

When Millsaps won the coin toss to start the game, the team gave Sewanee the ball to start the game and they would start the second half with possession. On the first play from scrimmage, Jeffrey's pass was intercepted by Daniel May and it gave Sewanee life at the visitor's 32-yard-line.

The Tigers got the ball to the nine-yard-line after a 19-yard completion from Cooper Hancock to Micah Maes. However, the Tigers could not advance the ball further after three straight incompletions. Brody Palmer converted a 26-yard field goal to cut the deficit to 14-10 with 11:40 left in the third.

The Majors found their spark after that, as the team scored touchdowns on the team's next three possessions to lead 35-10 with 9:02 left in the fourth stanza.

Sewanee scored twice in the fourth quarter. Cyrus McCullough caught a five-yard pass from Hancock, and Colin May caught a pass on the two-point conversion to make it 35-18.

On the Tigers' last drive of the game, Michael McGhee ran the ball in six yards for a touchdown with 11 seconds before Josh Szymchak converted the extra point to make the score 49-25.

Millsaps outscored Sewanee 35-18 in the final two periods to secure the win.

George Morrice ran for 94 yards on four carries, including the 81-yard run for six points.

Cooper Hancock posted 142 yards on 17-of-35 passing. Nine different receivers were targeted for Sewanee, led by Colin May with 41 yards on three catches.

Cyrus McCullough, who recorded a receiving touchdown, averaged 19.1 yards per kickoff return with 134 yards on seven attempts.

Alex Coffield had 15 total tackles, three for a loss and a forced fumble, and Pierce Johnson added 12 stops.

Cross Country Earns Three All-Conference Honors

The Sewanee cross country teams saw three student-athletes earn All-conference honors, as Molly Joseph was named the Women's Cross Country Runner of the Year at the 2019 Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Cross Country Championships, hosted by Berry College on Nov. 2. Women's cross country finished fourth, and men's cross country finished fifth.

Molly Joseph's time of 23:57.88 is not just a personal best and an All-SAA Honorable Mention, but it was best enough to be named the SAA Women's Cross Country Newcomer of the Year. Finishing in 13th at the meet, the Augusta, Ga. native becomes the first runner in the women's program to earn this postseason accolade.

Ellie Herron improved her personal best time by 31 seconds with a 22nd place finish of 23:34.88 in the 6K race.

Ann Chapman Haynes finished in 24th place with a time of 24:52.58, while Janie Schmitt posted a 26:20.30 time.

Elizabeth Chandler (27:09.79), Madison Sellers (27:13.27) and Mary Ackerly (28:18.76) all recorded personal best times at the conference championship.

Other finishers include Perry Gresham (27:46.62), Patricia Hammett (29:07.57), Haley Hubert (30:10.16) and Jean Tankard (33:51.26).

After two All-SAA Honorable Mention runs in his three-year career, Ash Midyett earned a First Team All-SAA selection with a third place finish of 25:56.91 in the 8K race. Earning a new personal best by 22 seconds, the Fairhope, Ala. native missed the winning time by 32.73 seconds.

Jack Barganier earned his first All-SAA award with an eighth place finish of 26:24.48. Posting a new personal best from the Louisville Classic last month by five seconds, the Montgomery, Ala. native earned Second Team honors.

In his first SAA Championship, Sam Kearley shattered his previous best by 20.8 seconds with a 29th place finish of 27:32.71.

Bram Atkins earned a new season best with a 35th place finish of 27:48.60, while Wesley Cusack ran a personal best time of 27:32.71, upping his previous best by 23 seconds.

Ian Boer (29:10.13), Rob Ritchie (29:47.20) and Joseph Brown (31:09.05), and Alex Margaglione (36:42.94) all ran personal bests in Saturday's race.

Other finishers include Patrick Rodriguez (29:41.69) and Rob Mohr (30:05.52).

The Tigers will next turn their attention to the 2019 NCAA South/Southeast Region Championships on Nov. 16, hosted by Rhodes College.

Johnston Wins 100th Career Match as Women's Soccer Advances

The Sewanee women's soccer team used two second half goals to defeat the Warriors of Hendrix College in the quarterfinals of the 2019 Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Women's Soccer Tournament on Nov. 3, from Puett Field.

In the first 45 minutes, the teams combined for seven total shots, with Sewanee having the advantage, 5-2, but it was a scoreless contest at the break.

As the second half commenced, a foul outside the box was committed by Hendrix in the 49th minute. Chloe Thompson stepped up and drained the goal that bounced off the crossbar and landed behind the line for her second goal of the season.

Despite the 10 shots Hendrix took in the second half, Sam Stocker helped put the contest away with an 81st minute goal for her first goal of the season.

Sunday's victory over Hendrix was the 100th for head coach Patrick Johnston. Coming to the Domain in 2009, Johnston has recorded a winning season in six of his 11 seasons at the helm of the Women's Soccer program.

Bea Richardson and Addie Roemershauser each had two shots to lead the Warriors. Chloe Thompson and Sam Stocker each recorded a goal on a shot. Sam Bourgeois (1-1-0) saved six shots in full time.

The Tigers will take on No. 2 Rhodes in the semifinals at 5 p.m., Friday, Nov. 8, in Danville, Ky.

Field Hockey Concludes Regular Season

The Sewanee field hockey team celebrated Senior Day on Homecoming on Saturday against No. 14 Centre, as the Colonels downed the Tigers, 6-0, from Puett Field.

Prior to the game on Saturday, the Tigers honored four seniors: Hannah Bradley, Ceara Caffrey, Eliza Griffin and Jo Jo Young.

The Colonels started the contest with a second minute goal by Megan Coomes.

The visitors put the contest away with three straight goals by Savannah Elpers.

In the fourth quarter, Centre added two goals by Shelby Young (47') and Katie Jenkins (55').

Centre is ranked 14th in the latest National Field Hockey Coaches Association (NFHCA) weekly poll. Additionally, the Colonels are the top-ranked team in the Great Lakes Region in the latest NCAA Region Rankings.

Ceara Caffrey had the lone shot for Sewanee in the contest.

Barbara Canty (5-10) saved five shots in full time.

The Tigers will next prepare for the 2019 Southern Athletic Association Field Hockey Tournament on Friday, Nov. 8, in Lexington, Ky., on the campus of Transylvania University. The Tigers are seeded fifth and will play the fourth seed Transylvania.

Volleyball Sweeps Emory & Henry and Salem in Tri-Match

The Sewanee volleyball team wrapped up the regular season on Sunday with back-to-back sweeps of Emory & Henry and Salem in a tri-match hosted by Emory & Henry on Sunday from the J.R. King Center.

Sewanee cruised to a straight-set victory over the Wasps, as the team posted a .500 attack percentage (12-3-18) in the first set and a .464 (15-2-28) in the third set.

After taking the first two sets easily, Emory & Henry had a lead early, posting a 12-7 lead.

Sewanee responded with five straight points to tie the match at 12 points apiece, led by a Stephanie Price kill that evened the contest.

After the Wasps regained the lead briefly, 14-12, the Tigers went on a 9-3 run to lead 18-15. Despite an attempted rally by the Wasps, the Tigers fended off the hosts with a 25-21 set victory.

Olivia Nichols let the attack with 11 kills on a .667 attack percentage, committing one error.

Destiny Stewart and Stephanie Price each recorded eight kills.

Anna Ball and Constance Connolly each had four service aces.

After cruising to a 25-8 and 25-13 set victories to start the contest, the Spirits played competitively with the Tigers. Trailing 17-14, Salem scored six of the next seven points to lead 20-18.

However, the Tigers came back to reclaim the lead, 21-20, thanks to three straight attack errors by the Spirits. That sparked a 7-2 run to seal the set, 25-22, and the match.

The Sewanee defense held Salem to an attack percentage of .009 (21-20-112) on the day, including a -.069 (3-5-29) mark in the first set and a -.021 (9-10-47) percentage in the third set.

Ellie Pedersen had a .615 attack percentage on eight kills in 13 attacks, as she did not commit an error.

Destiny Stewart had 11 kills to lead Sewanee and added seven digs.

Lilly Reilly notched 11 points on the day thanks to five kills and a career-best six aces in the contest, as she added 15 digs.

The volleyball team will play in the SAA Conference Championship Quarterfinals against Millsaps at 7 p.m., Friday, Nov. 8, at Birmingham-Southern.

Millsaps Ends Season for Men's Soccer in Double OT

The 2019 Sewanee men's soccer season came to a close on Saturday night inside Puett Field, as the Majors of Millsaps College used a 105th minute goal to down the Tigers in double overtime, 2-1, in the quarterfinals of the 2019 Southern Athletic Association Men's Soccer Tournament Quarterfinals.

The Majors started the contest with a 32nd goal by Gabriel Ryce from Brett Judd.

From there until the end of the period, Millsaps held Sewanee to one shot by Andrew Turk in the 45th minute, but the Majors keeper kept the ball from going in.

After each team took five shots in the opening period, the Tigers came out firing. The team out-shot their opponents, 13-4, in the final 90 minutes of regulation. However, an opportunity rose for Sewanee in the 80th minute. After a Millsaps foul in the box, Severin Velasco drained the penalty kick goal for his third of the season. That tied the contest at one goal apiece.

No team could score the game-winning goal in regulation, so the contest was forced into overtime.

In the first extra period, the Tigers saw five shots and did not allow the Majors to a shot, but after 100 minutes, the match would go into a second overtime.

Millsaps had three opportunities to win the contest. After a shot saved by James Murray and an offside, the third time was the charm. Kaleb Newton passed to Austin Miller, who flicked the shot off his head for the game-winner in the 105th minute to advance to the semifinals.

Ethan Dutka led all strikers with five total shots.

Severin Velasco, who scored Sewanee's lone goal via a penalty kick, and Christian Kirk each added three shots.

James Murray (11-5-1) saved five shots in 104:33 in the box.

Ochoco National Forest

While visiting in central Oregon, we had the opportunity to spend a little time in the Ochoco National Forest. The western junipers that heavily dot the high desert give way, as elevation and moisture increase, to the Ponderosa pines and lodgepole pines. In these mountains there is also a lot of Douglas-fir, also known as Oregon pine, a native of western North America. It is not a true fir or a pine, but its own distinctive genus, Pseudotsuga, meaning false hemlock. Its flat, fir-like needles encircle the branch and its cone have 3-pointed bracts above each scale. The fall color in these coniferous forests is provided by the deciduous conifers, western larches, also known as tamaracks, which stand among the evergreens like golden sentinels. At the lower elevations they are already losing their needles. The only "critter" we saw was a Steller's jay, a brilliant blue with a black crest, unlike the other jays of the region. It definitely made its presence known. In the lower, open areas, another member of the corvid family, the Black-billed magpie, was spotted several times, with its striking black and white plumage and long tail.

Ramona Rose-Crossley reports "A huge, old oak tree blew down very gently into our backyard over last weekend, without doing any damage, except to one small section of a fence. Shortly afterwards, though, I saw a great horned owl flying over the downed tree, and then back again, the first time I've ever seen an owl in Sewanee."

Pets of the Week Meet Elwood, Jake Blues & Prue

Elwood and Jake Blues are two husky-mix brothers that were abandoned at a nice man's home. He was able to foster the brothers until we had space to take them in. We have found Elwood has a goofy, laid back personality while Jake is a little more serious and the leader of the pack. Both dogs are very sweet and loving and deserve the best life after being abandoned. Elwood and Jake are both up-to-date on vaccinations, neutered, microchipped, and heartworm-negative. It is our hope that they find a forever home soon. Although we would like for them to be adopted together, it is not a requirement.

Prue Halliwell is a four-month-old precious tortoiseshell kitten with two matching sisters whose story is one of survival and love. Prue is sure to charm her way into your heart. Found abandoned in a cardboard box and left to die, Prue was brought to Animal Harbor for a second chance at life by a caring citizen. Prue is becoming more comfortable around people and would love to live the rest of her life in a home where she is truly valued and appreciated as the wonderful cat she is. Prue is FIV/FeLV negative, up-to-date on age appropriate vaccinations, spayed and microchipped.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Armistice Day, Veterans Day Nov. 11, 2019

The tradition of celebrating veterans and military families for an entire month and not just on Veterans Day began in 2016 with the Obama Administration.
—National Child Traumatic Stress Network

It is portentous, and a thing of state
That here at midnight, in our little town
A mourning figure walks, and will not rest,
Near the old court-house pacing up and down.

Or by his homestead, or in shadowed yards
He lingers where his children used to play,
Or through the market, on the well-worn stones
He stalks until the dawn-stars burn away.

A bronzed, lank man! His suit of ancient black,
A famous high top-hat and plain worn shawl
Make him the quaint great figure that men love,
The prairie-lawyer, master of us all.

He cannot sleep upon his hillside now.
He is among us:—as in times before!
And we who toss and lie awake for long
Breathe deep, and start, to see him pass the door.

His head is bowed. He thinks on men and kings.
Yea, when the sick world cries, how can he sleep?
Too many peasants fight, they know not why,
Too many homesteads in black terror weep.

The sins of all the war-lords burn his heart.
He sees the dreadnaughts scouring every main.
He carries on his shawl-wrapped shoulders now
The bitterness, the folly and the pain.

He cannot rest until a spirit-dawn
Shall come;—the shining hope of Europe free;
The league of sober folk, the Workers' Earth,
Bringing long peace to Cornland, Alp and Sea.

It breaks his heart that kings must murder still,
That all his hours of travail here for men
Seem yet in vain. And who will bring white peace
That he may sleep upon his hill again?
