Armistice Day Service at Memorial Cross, Nov. 11

Rob Lamborn, rector of Orey Parish, and University Chaplain Tom Macfie will lead a brief service at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Memorial Cross on Tennessee Avenue in Sewanee. All members of the community are invited to attend. This year marks the 100th anniversary of Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918.

Sewanee's Memorial Cross was completed in 1923 to commemorate those from Sewanee who were killed in World War I; the memorial has since been expanded to include all those from Franklin County who have served in all wars since WWI. The foundation for the Cross was laid on Nov. 11, 1922; all members of the university and the larger community had been invited to participate in the work of clearing underbrush and digging the foundation. Its completion was celebrated on June 18, 1923.

The white cross, 53 feet tall, can be seen for many miles across the valley. It was renovated and restored in 1983 with new landscaping and lighting, and was rededicated on May 8 of that year.

Armistice Day background: On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918, an armistice, or temporary cessation of hostilities, was declared between the Allied nations and Germany in the First World War, then known as "the Great War." Though the treaty to mark the official end of the war was signed in June 1919, Nov. 11 was still viewed as the date that marked the end of WWI. The following year, President Woodrow Wilson commemorated Nov. 11 as Armistice Day. In 1954, Congress amended the 1938 act that had made Armistice Day a holiday, and created Veterans Day to honor American veterans of all wars.

Chocolate Bells to Ring at SAS

This Sunday, Nov. 11, at 11:11 a.m., St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will celebrate Armistice Day with an 11-minute ringing of the St. Andrew's Chapel "Chocolate Bells." The annual ritual commemorates the sacrifices of our veterans, is a celebration of peace, and serves as a token of thanks to those who provided the bells for the school's bell tower. Community members are invited to join SAS students, faculty, and staff in ringing the bells but should be aware that the Tennessee Interscholastic Cycling League Championships held on the school's campus that day may make campus access difficult. You are advised to approach the school through the side entrance off Fire Tower Road.

The ritual of ringing the "Chocolate Bells" began in 1918. Before World War I ended, the women in a small Episcopal church in Morristown, N.J., began collecting money to send chocolates to American soldiers overseas. When the war ended, they decided to allocate the balance of their "War Time Chocolate Fund" to some other worthy cause. Through one of their parishioners, they heard about St. Andrew's School, an Episcopal boarding school in Sewanee, Tenn., which had recently completed building a chapel but lacked money for bells in the bell tower.

The churchwomen sent the money for three bells as an Armistice Thanksgiving and asked that the bells be dedicated to three archangels—Uriel, Raphael and Michael. In return, the school agreed to ring the bells for 11 minutes on the 11th day of the 11th month at 11:11 a.m. every year in memory of those who died in World War I and as a prayer for peace. It is an especially poignant event because SAS welcomes students from around the world, including Germany and Japan, who participate in the event.

Operation Noel Providing Abundant Holidays for All

In just a few weeks, it will be Christmas. While many are already planning ahead about gifts to buy and food to eat, there are those not so fortunate. In our area, there are children who may not get presents and families that may not have an abundant holiday meal.

Each year the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department (SVFD), in conjunction with FROST (the department's Fund Raising Operational Support Team), organize the purchasing and distribution of food and toys for these families. All items will be delivered the morning of Dec. 23 by the SVFD and FROST.

But this important program cannot happen without help from the community. Please consider making a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new toys to Operation Noel this year and give back to your community this Christmas season.

Families eligible for Operation Noel must live in the following communities: Sewanee, Midway, Jump Off and Sherwood Road to the top of Sherwood Mountain (but not into Sherwood).

Every family needs to fill out a new application, even if they have received from Operation Noel before. An application ensures that organizers have all the pertinent information so they can provide for everyone in need. The application is on page 15 of this week's issue. The deadline for returning applications is Monday, Dec. 10.

If you would like to make a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new unwrapped toys, please take items to the Sewanee Fire Hall or the Sewanee Police Department, both located behind duPont Library, or University Print Services, located in the old Beta House. For more information call 598-3400 and leave a message.

The Town of Tracy City and the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance will officially open two new sections of the Mountain Goat Trail on Thursday, Nov. 15, at 3:30 p.m. The grand opening of the 3.5 miles of trail between downtown Tracy City and Ingman Farm Road will take place at Tracy City Elementary School. Here, folks are getting a preview of the new section of the MGT. Photo by Emily Partin

Village Planning Design Review Process

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Nov. 6 Sewanee Village update meeting Frank Gladu, who oversees the initiative, discussed the Design Review process all new Village construction must undergo. Gladu also commented on two projects in the Design Review pipeline, the soon to be constructed bookstore and the proposed three-story mixed-use building with apartments on the top two levels and a specialty food market on the ground floor.

Charged with implementing the Sewanee Village vision, Town Planning and Urban Design Collaborative (TPUDC) developed a Pattern Book setting architectural standards for Village construction, Gladu said. "The 68-page document informs how buildings should look and how they should be built."

All proposed construction must undergo Design Review to ensure it conforms to the Pattern Book. Step

Veteran Working with Other Veterans

*by Bailey Basham
Messenger Staff Writer*

Jerry Stewart comes from a military family. His father was in the military, and so was his before him. When it came time for Stewart to decide what he wanted to do, the path seemed clear—so he decided to join the Air Force. The service is where he met his wife, Jackie, who served in the Navy.

For Stewart, those who serve have always been close to his heart. After years of service, he decided on a new path of service—now, Stewart works with Avalon Hospice and uses his experience in the Air Force to guide his work with the veterans in hospice.

The Hospice for Heroes program was developed specifically to address the unique needs of veterans and works to care for some of the nation's 21 million veterans.

This year, the team at Avalon Hospice will branch out to host a Veterans Day event as another way to care for and honor their patients. The event will include patriotic readings done by local students and a colors ceremony by a local scout troop.

Stewart said the aim of the event is to honor local veterans and to educate about the veteran experience.

"Some of the hospice offices around will do coffee and donuts—we wanted to take it a step further. I'm one of those who believes that we should be taking care of our vets from the moment they sign and the moment they pass on," he said. "This is one way we're able to do it. It's a thank you and a moment to remember those who have passed."

The majority of the nation's veterans served in the Vietnam War, and Stewart said his hope for the Veterans Day event is to bring the community together to thank those who served.

"It gives us as a community an opportunity to give them that thank you, and from me personally being from a military family, it's essentially just taking care of my own," Stewart said. "These are the people that I work with and counsel every day. We don't know that there will be another Veterans' Day for a lot of our patients, and we just want to take this opportunity to thank them."

The event is open to the public and will be at 11 a.m., Monday, Nov. 12, at Winchester First Baptist Church.

MAKING RIGHT OF A WRONG

To the Editor:

While Jesus warns that it is dangerous to judge others, it never the less seems incumbent to point out to others, when there has been an obvious and serious transgression against the word of God, the only chance there might be in repentance or making right of a wrong.

Referring to Matthew 18:6, we learn of the consequences imposed on anyone doing harm to a single child.

It would seem that those who have seen hundreds of refugee children, even babies, torn from their mothers arms and thrown into cages, should know or be made aware of God's judgement and the price to be paid for the harm brought to so many little children.

John Bratton,
Sewanee

ALL ABOUT RESPECT

To the Editor:

All monuments and memorials to those who served in any war, past or present, are testimonials to brave men and women who fought and died for causes they believed in.

Those who show disrespect for same in any manner are deserving of no respect.

Don Shannonhouse,
Monteagle

All Saints’ Chapel

The University Choir will sing the service of Choral Evensong at 4 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 11. This service will commemorate the centenary of Armistice Day. The music for the service will reflect this anniversary and will include the motet “Call to remembrance” by Richard Farrant and the hymn “O God our help in ages past.” The choir will be conducted by Geoffrey Harris Ward and accompanied by Zachary Zwahlen.

Growing in Grace continues Sunday Nov. 11, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Meredith Pace, a prenatal care nurse at Christ Community Health Center in Memphis, will be sharing her story with us. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members, featuring student-led acoustic music, a different guest speaker each week, and Holy Communion.

The Catechumenate continues Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m., in the Bairnwick Women’s Center. Catechumenate, from a Greek word meaning “learning and exploring,” is a place where we explore what it means to be a human being and what it means to be a person of faith in our community. This is a great place to meet new people and build relationships. Food, prayer, questions, and conversation power this process. This week we will be discussing faith in action.

Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

Friday Nov. 16, a Taizé service will take place in St. Luke’s Chapel at 7 p.m. Taizé services are a form of group meditation that uses repeated, simple chant-like melodies, brief Scripture reading, silence, and prayer. The atmosphere is quiet and contemplative, using candlelight and icons as a devotional focus. The service will last about 45 minutes.

Christ Church Monteagle

On Nov. 11, Christ Church Monteagle will have special prayers for peace and will join with churches and others who have kept this as Remembrance Day for many years.

We honor all Veterans. This is also the day that we will bless the shoeboxes for the Christmas Child

She was preceded in death by her parents; and her husband, Hobart “Bart” Wimmer.

She is survived by her son, James “Jim” Stone Woodard of Tullahoma; daughter, Sandra “Sandy” Marie (Robert) McLelland of Chattanooga; sister-in-law, Sarah Smith of Winchester, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. today, Friday, Nov. 9 at Winchester First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Steve Angus officiating. Following the service, visitation with the family and a reception will be in the church family life center. For complete obituary go to <www.moorecortner.com>.

project. Since this project serves children in so many countries, it is necessary to send them to the headquarters of Samaritans Purse in Boone, N.C., in November. This is the last opportunity for anyone, who has packed a shoebox to bring it to Christ Church to have the church pay the shipping fee, which is $8 a box this year. Later, we will have other projects for local children and we rejoice with the coat project in Monteagle, and with the outreach in which so many of our churches are involved. No one church can do everything, but together we can do many things. Veterans Day is one of those holidays where all Americans can participate. As is our custom, we will serve lunch at noon on Sunday.

1 is a workshop where the builder and their architect or designer meet with the Village Planner to clarify expectations and enter into a collaborative discussion about the project's schematic design. In Step 2, the builder submits the schematic design for review by the Village Planner. In Step 3, the schematic design and design development information detailing building materials, colors, and landscaping is presented to the Lease Committee for approval. Step 4 is review of the full set of construction documents. Construction is inspected at the foundation stakeout phase to verify the proposed building is situated on the leasehold as approved. Any changes during construction must be submitted for review.

The Lease Committee approved the Pattern Book, Gladu noted. The Pattern Book primarily addresses external circumstances. "The only reason the inside matters is how it impacts the outside," Gladu said. "The planner does the reviews and has recommendation power to the Lease Committee. Step 3, the Design Development stage, has always been the point where the Lease Committee granted approval of proposed construction."

Construction will begin soon on a new bookstore between Tower Community Bank and the post office. The design has been approved, contractors have submitted bids, and construction will begin as soon as a contractor is selected. Gladu estimated construction would take 12 months. Half the size of the former bookstore, the 6,000 square foot building will house general interest books in the left wing, Sewanee spirit items in the right wing, and textbooks in the basement. The University bookstore is currently housed in the Bishop's Common to accommodate construction of a Wellness Center in its former location.

The proposed mixed-use grocery and apartment building has progressed through the workshop phase of design review. Discussion continues.

The developer who builds the structure will continue to own the building and lease the grocery and apartments, Gladu explained. For non-apartment new housing in the Village, the developer will sell the completed housing units.

"We've done a request for qualifications from developers," Gladu said. "We have a half dozen developers we'll invite to submit proposals for 10 sites identified for housing." The sites were selected because multiple housing units could be built at the location, either single family detached homes, multi-family homes like duplexes and townhouse, or clusters of small homes.

"I don't anticipate awarding all 10 sites," Gladu stressed. Full build out would be as many as 90 units. "We're testing the waters to see which sites and housing styles are attractive to developers."

Asked who would be eligible to buy the newly constructed Village homes, Gladu said, "The University hasn't decided yet. My preference is to sell to full-time residents."

Speaking to the need for increased University employee housing along with pressure on the housing market from alums and parents of alums who want to retire in Sewanee, Gladu said, "We have an opportunity to increase the inventory to satisfy both demands." Gladu serves as Special Assistant to the Vice-Chancellor.

SCA Speaker Demystifies Allergies

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

A fascinating presentation on allergies and asthma followed a brief business meeting at the Nov. 1 Sewanee Civic Association (SCA) dinner.

SCA Vice President Brandon Barry announced a community workday at 1–3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 10, to spread mulch at Elliott Park. The new Parks Committee and the SCA are coordinating the resurfacing/freshening of the Elliott Park (off of University Avenue). The SCA spearheaded the Elliott Park renovation three years ago. Volunteers should bring "shovels, rakes, a strong back and good will."

The Sewanee Community Chest has committed to raising $110,000 this year, and to date has raised $16,000. The Community Chest supports programs and organizations that make the quality of life richer in Sewanee and the surrounding vicinity. These 25 programs and organizations provide for food, books, child care, animal welfare and so much more in the community. To contribute, mail a check to P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375 or donate online by visiting <www.sewanee.org>.

Featured speaker Dr. Russell Walker from the Chattanooga area Allergy Asthma Group of Galen provided insight into the causes, treatment, and myths about allergies.

Defining food allergy as a "repeatedly" occurring adverse immune system response to a specific food, Walker stressed that whether a reaction occurs can depend on whether the food is cooked or raw, how much the person eats, and recent exercise. Likewise, symptoms vary from a rash in the mouth to full body itching and respiratory impairment. Gastronomic symptoms and inflammation of the esophagus can be allergy caused or wholly unrelated.

Food poisoning and lactose intolerance are not allergic reactions and the smell of a food cannot trigger an allergic reaction, Walker said debunking two myths.

Although 20–25 percent of adults believe they have food allergies, only 2 to 3 percent actually do, Walker insisted, and only 6 percent of children have food allergies. Physicians use to recommend not feeding peanuts to children until the age of three, Walker said, a practice now believed to have caused the increase in peanut allergy. Physicians have now learned the longer introducing a food is delayed, the more likely the child will develop an allergy to it. Similarly, children raised in highly sterile environments were more likely to develop food allergies than children raised in rural environments with high exposure to animals.

Walker recommended avoidance of trigger foods and epinephrine for treating severe symptoms. Children often outgrow food allergies, Walker noted. He expressed skepticism about blood test diagnosis of allergies for typically showing overly sensitive positive reactions. He reported seeing children nearly anorectic due to the list of foods they weren't allowed to eat.

Walker praised the benefits of organic food and honey, but said neither had allergy preventing properties. Proteins trigger allergic reactions, he said, and organic and non-organic foods have the same proteins. As to honey, a person won't be desensitized to pollen by eating honey, because bees make honey from nectar, not pollen.

Citing the high level of seasonal tree pollen in the area, Walker said a pollen count over 110 was considered high, and here the pollen count can reach 10,000. But even given the potentially high exposure, among adults reporting rhinitis, or runny nose symptoms, only half had allergies.

For people with pollen allergies, Walker advocated allergy shots as a "natural treatment" introducing the allergy sufferer to the trigger allergen a small amount at a time. Children treated early were 50 percent less likely to develop asthma, Walker said.

As with other symptoms, asthma—breathing difficulty due to narrowing of the airways passages—can be either an allergic response or a non-allergic response triggered by exercise, dust, smoke, or stress. Is sneezing an allergic reaction? "Maybe," Walker said, "but it's often just a defense mechanism to blow out stuff the nose doesn't want up there."

At the Dec. 6 SCA meeting, financial advisor Michael Forster will talk about financial planning as a road to improving quality of life.

Chorale to Open 54th Season

The Sewanee Chorale opens their 54th season at 7:30 p.m., today (Friday), Nov. 9, in All Saints' Chapel. Their fall concert will be a blend of Broadway melodies, popular tunes, American folk music and classical repertoire. The selections range from Copland's "Ching-a-Ring-Chaw" to a setting of "For the Beauty of the Earth" by the British composer Philip Stopford. Stopford began his life-long work in music as a chorister at Westminster Abbey, London, and went on to earn degrees at Cambridge prior to his appointment as organ scholar at Canterbury Cathedral.

The vocal and instrumental musicians of the Sewanee Student Chamber Music Society will also perform on the program. The singers will present Norwegian composer Ola Gjeilo's setting of "Ubi Caritas et Amor, (Where charity and love prevail)." A student string quartet will accompany the choir in an anonymous setting of a motet based on the chorale tune "Nun danket alle Gott (Now Thank we all our God)." Zachary Zwahlen, assistant university organist will perform a setting of the chorale by J.S. Bach from the Leipzig Chorales, completing the trio of pieces based on the seasonal tune.

To commemorate the centenary of Armistice Day, "In Flander's Fields" will be read by Marcia Mary Cook prior to the Chorale singing an arrangement of the poem. "The Road Home" by Stephen Paulus is sung in memory of Chorale member Christian Doak, who died unexpectedly in September. Doak was a long-time member of the chorale and is remembered for his tireless contributions, quick wit, and endless cheer.

A set of American folk tunes will include "O Shenando" sung by the gentlemen of the Chorale, directed by Trent Whisenant, C'21. Sheri Kling, executive director of the Beecken Center, who in her spare time sings and writes folk songs, will lead the women of the Chorale in Woody Guthrie's "This Land is Your Land." Caroline Todd, Anna Burklin, and Lisa Perry, and students Christian Braden, C'21 and Andrew Yow, C'22 also have featured solos.

The Sewanee Chorale brings together approximately 35 people who love to sing, including students, staff and faculty of the University. If you are interested in singing in the Chorale, contact Ruth S. Cobb, <rsobb@sewanee.edu>.

The program is free and parking will be available on University Avenue.

Lessons and Carols Information

The 59th annual Festival of Lessons and Carols at the University of the South will be celebrated at three services, two on Dec. 8 (4 p.m. and 7 p.m.), and one on Dec. 9 (4 p.m.). Please note the new service times for this year.

As part of the University mission and the program of education and formation of All Saints' Chapel, the Festival Service of Lessons and Carols offers students, faculty, and staff in the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Theology the opportunity to experience one of the oldest traditions of Anglican music and Advent expectation. As part of the University's outreach to others, the Chapel is pleased to welcome the public by offering any available places in the service for reservation. Based on last year's experience, however, the University expects that after accommodating students, faculty, staff, and their families, the number of places available to the public for reservation may be severely limited.

In our continuing effort to ensure open communication, below are our plans for the reservation system this year. Some highlights:

The University will determine by Nov. 15, whether there will be places available to the general public for reservation. If so, online reservations for the public will be available on Nov. 21. Guests will be able to reserve a specific seat, limit two per order.

All tickets will be available for pick-up at Convocation Hall prior to the service.

Unused tickets, if any, will be made available to walk-up guests (guests without a reservation) before each service. Walk-up guests must check in at Convocation Hall on the day of the event to be placed on a waiting list.

Go to <<http://www.sewanee.edu/student-life/spiritual-life/festival-service-of-lessons-and-carols/>> for more information.

Positive Deviance Summit

South Cumberland Community Fund (SCCF) and the University's Office of Civic Engagement invite you to the Positive Deviance (PD) Summit led by renowned communication and social change scholar, Arvind Singhal. The summit will be held Nov. 15–16, at Convocation Hall and will include SCCF and University's Philanthropy Internship Grant Awards ceremony followed by a reception. To register, go to <www.southcumberlandcommunityfund.org>.

The summit schedule is: Thursday, Nov. 15, 9 a.m.–3:30 p.m., Positive Deviance Workshop; 5–7 p.m., Keynote by Arvind Singhal followed by the Philanthropy Internship Grant Awards Ceremony and Reception; Friday, Nov. 16, 9 a.m.–noon, Positive Deviance Incubator Lab (for those interested in implementing a Positive Deviance project).

The PD concept is based on the observation that in every community or organization, there are a few individuals or groups whose uncommon but successful behaviors and strategies have enabled them to find better solutions to problems than their neighbors who face the same challenges and barriers and have access to the same resources. The PD approach is a problem solving, asset-based approach grounded in the fact that communities have assets or resources they haven't tapped into.

Arvind Singhal serves as the William J. Clinton Distinguished Fellow at the University of Arkansas Clinton School of Public Service and is the Samuel S. and Edna H. Marston Endowed Professor of Communication and Director of the Social Justice Initiative at The University of Texas at El Paso. Singhal is internationally known for his work on the diffusion of innovations, the positive deviance approach, organizing for social change, the entertainment-education strategy, and liberating interactional structures. He is also co-author or editor of 13 books, with three of his books winning awards for distinguished applied scholarship. In addition, Singhal has authored some 200 peer-reviewed essays. His research has been supported by the National Institutes of Health, The National Science Foundation, The Dutch Health Research Council, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Ford Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, and The David and Lucile Packard Foundation. He has served as an advisor to the World Bank, UN-FAO, UNICEF, UNDP, UNAIDS, UNFPA, U.S. Department of State; U.S. A.I.D., Family Health International, PATH, Save the Children, the BBC World Service Trust, International Rice Research Institute, and private corporations such as Procter & Gamble (U.S.A. and Thailand), Telenor AS (Norway), SpareBank (Norway), among others. Singhal has traveled and lectured in more than 90 countries including Asia, Africa, Australia, Europe, and South and North America.

His visit to Sewanee is made possible through the community development partnership between South Cumberland Community Fund and the University's Office of Civic Engagement.

Lecture on Highlander

On Friday, Nov. 9, the Office of Civic Engagement and Department of Art, Art History, and Visual Studies present a public talk by the Rev. Allyn Maxfield-Steele, Co-Executive director of the Highlander Research and Education Center, titled "A Guide to Dangerous Listening: Highlander's Methodologies for Social Change," at 5 p.m., in Gailor Auditorium.

Since 1932, Highlander has been a school and training center dedicated to the accompaniment and support of community leaders building social movements across the South and the world. Originally known as the Highlander Folk School, the first staff and school site operated less than eight miles from Sewanee's campus in Summerfield, Tennessee, where Highlander played major educational roles in labor movements of the 30s and 40s and the Black Freedom Movement of the 1950s and 60s. Notable participants, visitors, and supporters include Rosa Parks, Dr. Martin Luther King, Stokely Carmichael, Ambassador Andrew Young, Ralph David Abernathy, Julian Bond, Congressman John Lewis, Pete Seeger, and Eleanor Roosevelt, as well as Guy Carawan, Septima Clark, and May Justus, who served either as staff or Board members, among many others. When Highlander was near Sewanee, a bold group of faculty and students were involved in local work, including the late Scott Bates, a professor of French who served on Highlander's Board of Directors until his death in 2013. In 1961, because of "red baiting" and Highlander's work to bring black and white Southerners together in the Jim Crow South, the Tennessee State Supreme Court upheld trumped up charges brought about by local and state authorities, thereby confiscating Highlander's original home and charter. Highlander staff had already prepared papers to reorganize as Highlander Research and Education Center and moved to Knoxville that same year. Threats from both white supremacists and "urban renewal" caused the staff to relocate again in 1971 to New Market, Tenn., where staff turned its educational work to meet emerging needs related to environmental justice struggles, youth organizing, the impacts of globalization, LG-BTQ organizing, and the shifting demographics of the South. Today, Highlander remains a critical movement home and school for movement leaders, including the renewed Poor People's Campaign, the Movement 4 Black Lives, and thousands of other grassroots leaders every year. Reverend Maxfield-Steele will speak about the educational methodologies Highlander has developed and practiced over its 86-year history.

Rev. Allyn Maxfield-Steele grew up in Texas, Germany, and North Carolina. He was born into a family of teachers, farmers, salesmen, social workers, and fair-minded small-town church folk of the southern Piedmont. He once had the opportunity to live and learn alongside human rights organizers and community leaders from the Assembly of the Poor in Northeast Thailand. That experience transformed Allyn's understanding of the power and purpose of education. Since 2002, his movement work has included international solidarity struggles, education and organizing work in South Carolina, and a range of support for front-line struggles throughout the South and Appalachia. In 2010, Allyn received an invitation to participate in Highlander's leadership programming. He later joined Highlander's Board of Directors, where he worked closely with Ash-Lee Woodard Henderson, who in 2016 invited him to join her in serving as Highlander's Co-Executive Director. An ordained minister in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Allyn has served congregations in Alaska and Tennessee. Allyn's focus and interests lie at the intersection of radical pastoral care, institutional transformation, dismantling toxic white masculinities, and liberation-driven ministry and movement building, especially in rural and small-town communities.

Grown-Up Show and Tell at Sewanee Elementary

The children of Sewanee Elementary want to know more about their world beginning with their neighbors. If you have a special interest, passion, skill, or knowledge and would be willing to share it with the teachers and students of SES, please contact Sarah Marhevsky, the president of the Sewanee Parents' Organization. This year the SPO is reaching out to pull the town into the children's lives by compiling a directory of visitors and speakers from the community. Maybe you are an herbalist, a modern-day Johnny Applesseed, a local historian, a ballroom dancer, a fly fisherman, a train-spotter, a collector. There is nothing like the wide-eyed wonder and curiosity of a five to 10-year-old child. Teachers are hoping to use a directory of local speakers to supplement their curriculum, giving life to chapters in a textbook. Such a directory will be invaluable to the SPO as it organizes two of its most popular programs: Wednesday Wonderings and Friday School. Please write Sarah Marhevsky at <sesptonews@gmail.com> or leave your name at the front desk of SES if you would be willing to share your own curious nature with some young explorers.

Tutoring at St. James

After-school tutoring for children in grades K–5, sponsored by the Community Action Committee of Otey Parish Church, continues on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m., at the Parish Hall of St. James Episcopal Church. There is no charge. All are welcome. Sessions will last until 5 p.m., when promptness in pickup of children will be greatly appreciated.

The tutoring schedule will follow the Franklin County School System's calendar, so if there is no school, there will be no tutoring.

Each month, Monteagle Elementary School focuses on a specific character trait. The character trait for the month of October was respect. One student is chosen from each homeroom class to receive the character award for the month. The students receiving the respect award have treated their classmates and teachers with courtesy. These students also have a high regard for following rules and doing what is right, even when others may not. The recipients of the respect award received a certificate and Wendy's coupon. Pictured are front row, left to right, Brianna Cook, Addison Shrum, Asia Lawson, Myles Disheroon, Braden Meeks and Payslee Easterly, back row, left to right, Madi Childers, Nate Caldwell, Ali Long and Jaycee Jackson.

In honor of Constitution Week, Clinton Myers returned to his old stomping ground and visited Beth Myers' Social Studies classes at Monteagle Elementary. He discussed the importance of the United States Constitution and its everyday application to our lives. Myers recently graduated from The University of Mississippi with a Juris Doctor of Law degree and will be a practicing attorney in Tennessee. He discussed the Bill of Rights, answered many questions, and helped seventh and eighth graders relate to these rights, as well as make connections to our Tennessee Constitution.

NOTES FROM RALSTON

by Isaac Sligh

This week our team is exploring the life of Russian composer Alexander Borodin. Borodin, although certainly well-respected, is perhaps not the first name that jumps to mind when one thinks of Russian music. We all know the greats — Rachmaninov's sweeping piano concertos, Tchaikovsky's lovely ballets, Stravinsky's challenging brand of modernism. Borodin's music is nonetheless worthy of mention in the same breath as his illustrious countrymen; indeed, his experiments with melody and his championing of a specifically Russian genre of classical music heavily influenced and made possible the music of many generations of Russian composers to come.

Borodin was born in St. Petersburg in 1833, the illegitimate son of a Georgian nobleman and a female serf. Life as a serf in Borodin's day was often harsh and short; serfs' movements and human rights were restricted by law, and they could be owned and sold just like slaves. Luckily, Borodin's father ensured a high-class education for his son and freed him on his deathbed.

From a young age, Borodin exhibited a remarkable aptitude for both art and science; indeed, it was in the latter field as a chemist that Borodin spent the majority of his working life and achieved, as he saw it, his greatest success. He remains well respected in the history of chemical research for his work with organic synthesis and his discovery in 1869 of the aldol reaction.

In 1862, Borodin, known to his friends as a good-natured and humorous man, fell in easily with Mily Balakirev, César Cui, Modest Mussorgsky, and Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov, a group known as the "Mighty Five," the most famous collective of Russian classical composers in the 19th century. Borodin and his colleagues espoused nationalistic themes in their music, dedicated to bringing about a new school of specifically "Russian" music. They stood, oftentimes, in opposition to Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky, their famous contemporary, whose music was often characterized as a part of the broader cosmopolitan European classical tradition.

The ideology of the Mighty Five is key to understanding Borodin's most famous works. For example, the stately tone poem "On the Steppes of Central Asia" evokes the sweep of the Siberian landscape in Russia's vast lands in the east. For Borodin's most ambitious project, the opera Prince Igor, the composer himself adapted the libretto from several medieval sources of Russian history and lore. Although today the cornerstone of his reputation, the composer never managed to bring the opera to completion, leaving Rimsky-Korsakov and Alexander Glazunov to pick up the pieces after his death from congestive heart failure in 1887. Remarkably, the "Polovtsian Dances" section of Borodin's masterpiece lives on in the popular consciousness today as the melody to Tony Bennett's "Stranger in Paradise."

Join us this week for a series of listening sessions exploring the remarkable life and work of Borodin. Monday, Nov. 12, 3–4 p.m., "On the Steppes of Central Asia" and Symphony No. 1; Tuesday, Nov. 13, 4–5 p.m., Prince Igor (feat. "Polovtsian Dances"); Friday, Nov. 16, 3–4 p.m., Borodin's String Quartets.

BOOKMARKED

by Margaret Stephens

Bookless

I almost don't want to write about books this month. With the mid-term election a couple of days away—or behind, by the time you read this—what's echoing through my mind are words of John Adams: "Abigail, Abigail, I have such a desire to knock heads together!" From the musical, "1776," though perhaps a careful perusal of his letters would find the quote there as well.

What are we doing to one another?

Can we not see that beyond the labels and these political parties are simply—people? One set does not consist of baby-eaters; the others are not devil-worshippers, to draw from other wars, other times, and if we don't acknowledge this soon it's going to take some kind of a miracle to hold us together as United States.

It's a problem that the mid-terms are not going to pleasantly resolve, I'm afraid.

Is there any way we—each and every one of us—can put down our weapons—of words, mostly, though unfortunately not always just those—and look one another in the eye to see the son, the daughter, the mother, the father, the human that hides beneath the armor of rhetoric?

My husband, always a man of ideas, sensible and otherwise, suggests we set a day during which each one of us make the effort to reach out to someone who is "other." Not the easier "other" that makes us feel a glow of self-righteous charitableness because we're "reaching down" to help them, but the "other" that irritates or outright infuriates. The other we hear about on that other cable news station, the other whose presence in op-eds gets our blood boiling, the other we want to rage against on our Facebook page and sometimes do.

The other we're determined to have nothing to do with because we can't possibly have anything in common.

I'd call it a day of civil discourse and make it nationwide, and if it can't have its own date, link it to one of the holidays we already mark. Veterans Day, for a start, when we honor all those who fought and fight, no matter their politics, skin color, gender affiliation, religion, or personality.

The discourse wouldn't have to be elaborate: asking after the other's family, or sick parent, or garden or cup of coffee would do.

I suspect that such an outreach, however brief, would, like prayer, benefit the speaker as much as the one spoken to.

There's a billboard I like in Chattanooga which, instead of selling something, suggests we practice civility. It pictures Lincoln and quotes his "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Never mind that the quote is originally from the Gospel of Matthew, practicing civility takes very little effort and is probably better for our blood pressure than the alternative. It's simply making the decision not to demonize.

To take a single step towards healing the divisions which are ripping our nation apart.

Since I don't have the platform to declare a national day, I'll point out that a single person taking a single positive step is still a step forward. A step towards healing.

I'm willing to make the effort. Are you?

And yes, I'm reading, a lot these days, perhaps to escape what's going on out there. I promise I'll get back to books next month.

'Google Beach' at Carlos Gallery

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at University of the South is pleased to present "Google Beach," an exhibition of photographic prints by artist and former Visiting Professor of Art Stefan Jennings Batista.

The series "Google Beach" is a photographic exploration of Batista's home state of Florida via the use of Google's street view application. In recent years, that photo based interactive platform has been expanded beyond the street to visually map the entire Florida coastline. Having grown up along the Gulf coast in Southwest Florida, Batista is able to revisit places he once stood as a child and walk the beaches he has walked in reality through his computer. However, as a digital viewer and navigator, questions arise as to the complex nature of this kind of interactive photo archive. Who or what is being implicated in such a vast automated photographic record of an intimate type of landscape like the beach? Why does such a universally accessible archive exist in the first place? What does it reveal about the present and future of the photographic medium and information sharing?

The Carlos Gallery is at 105 Kennerly Rd., Sewanee. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. For more info contact Jessica Wohl at (931) 598-1256 or <jewohl@sewanee.edu>.

SAS MS Boys' Basketball Wins Overtime Thriller

SAS escaped North with an overtime win at Altamont Nov. 1, 36-34. Ryan Ostrowski and Kyle Cantrell led a strong defensive effort to stymie North's penetrating offense in the low blocks, forcing them to take outside shots.

For SAS, Ethan Hargis and Spears Askew lit up the scoreboard with deadly 3-pointers, while Cecil Rodgers led SAS scorers with 12 points. SAS had a 15-point lead with about three minutes left in the game, but North doggedly held on and got lucky with some sharp shooting from Jarod Huntley and good penetration from Isaac Campbell.

In overtime, SAS scored three quick baskets, but North kept at it, scoring two baskets in the last minute, then were denied a basket at the buzzer that bounced in and then out of the rim.

Tiger Soccer Members Selected to All-SAA

Announced by the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) on Nov. 5, three Sewanee men's soccer players have been selected to the All-SAA Men's Soccer Team.

Kyle Johnston was selected to the First Team, while Johnny McNeill and Alpo Sipilä were honored as Second Team members.

Johnston finishes his career as a four-time All-SAA selection. The Sewanee, Tenn. native finished his senior campaign with 11 goals and 24 points on a .151 shooting percentage. Four of his 11 goals were game-winners, tied for second in the conference. He finishes his career with 27 goals and 62 points.

McNeill was a defensive weapon for the Tigers in 2018 as the junior earns his first All-Conference selection. Playing in 14 games, the Raleigh, N.C. native helped his defense to allow 10.5 shots and 1.43 goals per game.

Sipilä was the primary corner kicker for Sewanee in 2018. The Helsinki, Finland native matched a career-best six assists, tied for third in the SAA. The junior, earning his second All-Conference bid, has recorded 15 assists and 27 points.

Sewanee finished the 2018 season with a 7-9-1 record, as the team averaged 1.88 goals and 17.7 shots per match.

The SAA announced on Nov. 5, the 2018 SAA Women's Soccer All-Conference awards. Sewanee Women's Soccer has landed three student-athletes on the list.

Caitlin Fahr, Paige Rupp and Savannah Williams have each been named Honorable Mention to the postseason list.

Fahr finished her first year with Sewanee with five points thanks to two goals and an assist. The match of her season came against Birmingham-Southern on Oct. 12. After getting the Tigers to an early 1-0 lead in the eighth minute, the Baltimore, Md., native helped score the game-winner by Nika Gorski in overtime.

Rupp concluded her first season with Sewanee with five assists and a goal for seven points. The East Windsor, N.J., native finished fifth in the conference in assists. She assisted on separate goals in the Tigers' 4-0 win over the Wolves of Wesleyan (Ga.).

Williams ends her four-year career with the Tigers with her first All-Conference nod. Playing everywhere in the field during her tenure, from forward, to defender, to even goalkeeper, the Chattanooga, Tenn., native scored one goal. For her career, she netted 10 goals and assisted on four for a .154 shooting percentage.

The Tigers concluded 2018 with a 6-11-2 record, but the Tigers rallied in the second half of the season, winning six of the final 10 matches after starting 0-7-2.

Tigers Conclude Season with Loss at Centre

The Sewanee football team concluded the 2018 season with a 49-20 loss to the Colonels of Centre College.

Centre struck first on their first possession thanks to a two-yard run to give the home team the 7-0 advantage.

On the ensuing drive, the Tigers struck the scoreboard on a 42-yard field goal by Michael Jacobs.

Leading 7-3, Centre scored again late in the quarter on a 13-yard run by Trevor Carnell, who ate up the final 21 yards of the drive on the ground.

Sewanee added a 48-yard field goal by Jacobs, as the Tigers trailed 14-6 with 13:43 left in the half.

After a Centre punt, Sewanee's next drive saw them find the end zone. Capping off a 10-play, 76-yard drive, Micah Maes found Cyrus McCullough for a 19-yard touchdown catch to make it a one-point game with eight minutes left in the half.

From there, it was all Centre, who scored on back-to-back drives to take a 28-13 lead into the locker room.

The Colonels added 21 more points in the second half to lead 49-13.

Sewanee added another touchdown with 4:31 left in the contest with a 24-yard run by Maes.

Finishing with a four-win season, Sewanee earns its most wins in a season since 2013.

Swimming and Diving Teams Suffer Defeat at Berry Dual

The Sewanee Swimming and Diving Teams fell in a Nov. 3 dual meet at Berry at The Cage Center. Berry won the men's meet 143.5 to 113.5, and won the women's meet 196 to 85.

For Sewanee, James Hoyt took home top honors in the 1,000 freestyle (10:21.81), the 200 butterfly (2:02.71) and tied for the win with Cole Beddingfield at Berry in the 100 butterfly (54.75 seconds).

Lee Haber swam to victories in three events: the 200 freestyle (1:46.95), 500 freestyle (4:51.25) and the 200 individual relay (2:03.97).

Anthony Carbone won two events on Saturday, taking home the 100 breaststroke (1:00.82) and the 100 free (48.72 seconds).

Kate Mabry won two events and set three new personal bests on Saturday. In the 100-yard backstroke, the freshman earned a personal best with a 1:00.50, shedding 0.38 seconds from her previous best. In the 200 backstroke, the Nashville, Tenn. native earned her third 2:12 time in the event, but earned a personal best by less than 0.2 seconds. She also earned a personal best in the 50 free, swimming to a 25.16-second time.

Noel Whitlock won both one-meter diving events, securing 178.92 and 212.02 points, respectively.

All-Conference Selections for Field Hockey

Announced by the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) on Nov. 6, the Sewanee field hockey team landed four student-athletes on its postseason All-Conference Team.

Anne Cleveland and Ceara Caffrey were selected to the First Team, while Caroline Sugar and Jo Jo Young were honored on the Second Team.

Caffrey entered the postseason in a three-way tie for the conference lead in goals scored. She finished her junior year with 18 goals and, thanks to two assists, finished with 38 points. Five of her 18 goals were game-winners.

The two-time All-SAA member recorded two hat tricks or better in 2018. In the opening contest of the 2018 season, the Scituate, Mass. native scored three goals, and on Sept. 22 against Converse, Caffrey scored four times.

Cleveland was a major impact of the Sewanee midfield in her freshman year. The Fort Worth, Texas native scored one goal, but her presence came on the defensive side of the ball, taking away opportunities from the opposition and giving Sewanee chances to score.

Sugar was utilized as a defender for the Tigers program in her freshman campaign. The Canton, Conn., native limited opponents to 11.8 shots per game and a .132 shooting percentage. She was also selected twice as the SAA Defensive Player of the Week.

Young captures her third straight All-Conference bid. The McLean, Va., native assisted on one goal, and, joining Cleveland, she was a difference for the Sewanee midfield.

Sewanee finished the 2018 season with a 10-6 record, and they finished with a double-digit win total for the first time since 2015 when they won 11 contests.

Destiny Stewart led all attackers with 22 kills on 68 total attacks and six errors during the Rhodes match. Constance Connolly assisted on 50 of the team's 59 kills and dug out 23 Rhodes attacks.

Volleyball Drops SAA Semifinal Match

The 20th win for Sewanee volleyball did not come easy, as the Tigers played to five sets with the Lynx of Rhodes, but it was Sewanee who came away with the win in the quarterfinals of the SAA Championship, 3-2, Nov. 2, from the Cage Center.

In the semifinals on Nov. 3, the Sewanee volleyball team got out to a 2-0 set lead. The 17th-ranked Berry Vikings responded by taking the final three sets to advance to the SAA Championship Match, 3-2, from The Cage Center. Sewanee's season comes to a close with a 20-8 record.

The Tigers sprinted out to a 2-0 match lead in hostile territory, but the first set did not come easy. Berry started the match with a 7-2 run before Sewanee burned its first timeout of the set.

It took some time for the Tigers to get back in the set. Down 10-4, they were able to get the set to a 10-10 tie thanks to kills from Sydney White, Olivia Nichols and Destiny Stewart.

The teams went back-and-forth from there, but it was the Vikings that had the first set point, 24-22. After a service error by Berry to make it a one-point set, Sewanee scored the final three points on a Lilly Reilly service ace, a Stewart kill and the set was won on a bad set by Berry. Sewanee took the first set, 26-24.

From there, the momentum stayed with the visitors. The Tigers started the set on a 5-1 run before Berry attempted to rally to make the set closer.

After a Sewanee timeout, leading 11-8, they began to pull away with a 13-7 run to go up two sets to none on the 17th-ranked team in the country and the top team in the NCAA South Region Rankings.

Through the first two sets, Sewanee held Berry to a .045 attack percentage (19-15-88), while the Tigers recorded 27 kills on 87 attempts with nine errors committed (.207).

The match shifted significantly to the home team in the third set. After Sewanee evened the set at three points apiece, the Vikings went on a 15-6 run to make it 18-9, Berry. The Vikings used that spurt to win the set, 25-14, despite 1.5 blocks by Ellie Pedersen.

Each team used a lengthy rally to get out early in the fourth set, but eventually, the set was tied at 10 points apiece.

Trailing 16-14, Berry went on a 6-0 run to re-take the lead, 20-16, but once again, Sewanee got the set within two, 21-19 thanks to kills by Stewart and Pedersen and a Stewart service ace.

The Vikings came back, scoring four of the final points to even the match at two set wins apiece and forced the contest to a deciding fifth set.

The deciding set was all Berry, using a .556 attack percentage (10-0-18) and led at one point 7-1 en route to a 15-7 victory to advance to the championship match.

NATURENOTES

News from Florida

From the Nov. 13, 2015 issue.

On our way north from a visit in south Florida, we stopped at O'Leno, one of Florida's first state parks. As with our South Cumberland State Park, much of the early construction was done by the Civilian Conservation Corps in the 1930s.

We walked along the Santa Fe River, which flows into the Suwannee, the one Suwannee is not named for. Some of the plant communities we saw included longleaf pine savannahs, understories of saw palmetto, cypress draped in Spanish moss, live oaks covered in resurrection fern, and hammocks of broadleaf evergreen trees and shrubs. An interesting feature of the park is a sink where 900 million gallons of river per day disappears to flow underground, reappearing three miles downstream, again something we observe in our area on a smaller scale.

Hummingbird and More

Alto resident Deral Walker reports that on Nov. 6 after the big storm the night before, her hummingbird feeders had gotten blown off their stands, and as she was looking out the kitchen window, a fat female hummingbird was right outside looking at her as if "where's my feeder!?" Deral quickly filled them up and put them back out. She wondered if the storm had blown the bird in from somewhere or it just hadn't left yet.

Sewanee resident Freddy Tucker reports seeing two male hummingbirds at his feeder on Nov. 6.

David Rowe, on Stagecoach Road, reports monarch butterflies passing through his hummingbird and butterfly garden since the fourth week in October.

Beethoven

Spanky

Pets of the Week

Meet Beethoven & Spanky

Beethoven is large, but he is a teddy bear when it comes to humans. He is said to be a St. Bernard/Pit mix but appears to be more of a Great Pyrenees/Pit mix. He is 18 months old and has the energy of a puppy. He would be best around older children because he likes to jump, and he needs to be in a home without other pets. He is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on vaccines, neutered, and micro-chipped, and ready to charm his way into your heart.

Spanky is only 2 1/2 months old. He loves to play with toys and his favorite is a small toy mouse. He is a super sweet boy and is one of three siblings here in the shelter. His mom is last week's cat of the week, Lauralee. Spanky is FIV/FeLV negative, and is available for Foster-To-Adopt because he is too young to be neutered yet. You may call the shelter for more information on the Foster-To-Adopt program.

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for seniors and veterans. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians. ## Veterans Day, November 11

... The rain gathers, running in thinned
Spurts of water that ravel in the dry sand
Seeping into the sand under the grass roots, seeping
Between cracked boards to the bones of a clenched hand:
The earth relaxes, loosens; he is sleeping
He rests; he is quiet, he sleeps in a strange land.
