

Franklin County Schools Get Report Card

Tucker Calls Results “Disconcerting”

by Kevin Cummings,
Messenger Staff Writer

Franklin, Grundy, Marion and Coffee counties all spend about the same amount of money on public education, but there are differences in the outcomes. On the state’s annual “report card” for schools, the Tennessee Department of Education gave Franklin County schools a grade of “A” in social studies and “Bs” in math, reading/language arts and science. The rating is based on a three-year average of TCAP scores for grades 3–8. The state’s scale for an “A” is between 55 and 99 percent and for a “B” it is from 50 to 54 percent.

Grundy County earned the lowest grades in the area, with “Cs” in three subjects and a “B” in math. Marion and Coffee posted marks similar to Franklin County.

Adam Tucker, a member of the Franklin County Board of Education, said he is concerned that Franklin County is below Tennessee averages in state-mandated test scores and student growth/improvement.

“While some of this may be due to the district’s implementation of certain curricular requirements earlier than other districts across the state, this fact is still disconcerting,” Tucker said.

Rebecca Sharber, director of Franklin County schools, gave a presentation on the state’s report card at the school board meeting on Nov. 10. She said in an interview on Nov. 11 that she was pleased that “we are holding our own” in academic achievement, but is also concerned with academic growth. “We’re not as good as we want to be, but people are working hard,” she said.

The report card also measures improvement on TCAP scores from previous years. In this area for grades 4–8, the state awarded Franklin County “Ds” in science, reading/language arts and social studies. The state gave a “B” in math, which was the only subject that reflected a slight increase in the report.

The other three counties posted better grades for improvement, with Coffee County earning the top score with a “C” in reading, a “B” in science and “As” in social studies and math.

The state did not award letter grades at the high school level, but a comparison of graduation rates shows Franklin County at 89.1 percent for 2014. Both Coffee and Grundy counties had slightly higher graduation rates than Franklin County. Marion County had the lowest rate of the four, at 84 percent.

Four Hands, Two Feet

Organist Robert Delcamp and pianist Bernadette Lo will perform at 4:45 p.m., Friday, Nov. 21, in St Luke’s Chapel. This is a unique opportunity to hear an unusual repertoire written for two instruments whose timbres are both contrasting and complimentary.

The program includes “Sinfonia Op. 42” by Marcel Dupré, “Colloque No. 2” by Jean Guillou, “Hymne Op. 78” by Joseph Jongen and the “Concerto for Piano and Organ” by Flor Peeters.

Delcamp is a professor of music and University organist at the University. He also directs the University Choir. Under his direction the Choir has made eight recordings and 11 tours of England, including residencies at York Minster, Wells, Salisbury, and Canterbury cathedrals, as well as the American Cathedral in Paris.

Lo is a visiting assistant professor of music at Sewanee. She joined the department in 2011. She also serves on the faculty for Viola Winter Intensive. Lo is a much sought-after collaborative pianist, with extensive experience in both vocal and instrumental music.

Town Hall Meeting on Healthcare

National Rural Health Day is Nov. 20. To celebrate the occasion, there will be a town hall meeting on healthcare at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Sewanee Community Center. The event will include a discussion of Medicaid benefits and eligibility, followed by a reception with the panelists. Representatives from the Tennessee Justice Center, the Tennessee State Health Insurance Program (SHIP) office and Folks at Home will participate. Assistance enrolling in the Affordable Care Act (ACA) state insurance exchange will also be offered.

The meeting is sponsored by the students in a University course on medical ethics taught by Jim Peterman, professor of philosophy and director of community engagement.

During the meeting there will be discussion of the possible Medicaid expansion in Tennessee. The federal government has funded an expansion of this program, which provides healthcare for families and individuals with limited resources. Federal funds cover the full cost of the expansion until 2017; in 2020, the state must pick up the balance. Tennessee, with 118,000 uninsured residents, has not agreed to accept the Medicaid expansion offer.

The Sewanee Community Center is located at 39 Ball Park Rd., behind the Sewanee Market.

Nutcracker Arrives in Sewanee

The AYB-Sewanee Dance Conservatory and Alabama Youth Ballet Theatre of Huntsville will be performing the fourth annual presentation of the traditional classic holiday treat “The Nutcracker” at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 15, in Guerry Auditorium. The program is directed by David Herriott.

There are 36 dancers in the cast from Sewanee, Monteagle and Winchester, with about 70 more coming from Huntsville.

Returning to the cast as Mother and Father Stahlbaum are Lisa and Eric Hartman with their daughter, Sophia, dancing the Animated Doll and son, Harrison, as the Animated Soldier.

Clara will be Verena Pate in the afternoon, and McKynze Gilliam in the evening. Two instructors at the Sewanee Dance Conservatory will perform the Sugar Plum Fairy solo: Elizabeth Layman for the matinee and Claire Hill for the evening.

The costumes and scenery are provided by Alabama Youth Ballet Theatre.

Tickets are $10 for adults; $5 for children, students and seniors.

To preorder tickets for will-call pickup, email <wigginscreek@yahoo.com> or ask a cast member. Advance tickets are available for purchase from 3 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., today (Friday), Nov. 14, at Guerry Auditorium. Tickets will also be sold at the door one hour before each performance. More information is available at <http://life.sewanee.edu/engage/nutcracker>.

CAC: Changing Lives One Stitch at a Time

by Gabriella Valentine C’17
Special to the Messenger

The Community Action Committee began a new program in October in Sherwood. A new quilting group is now meeting once a week in the Sherwood Community Center. The group is taught by Louise Garner, a lifelong resident of the community and avid quilter. For almost her whole life Garner has been making quilts entirely by hand.

One of the goals of the group is to foster a sense of accomplishment in women. The first quilt made from the group’s efforts will be sold and its proceeds given to the CAC. After that, all of the profits will be given to the women who worked on the quilts.

The quilting group meets at 8 a.m., Wednesdays, in the Sherwood Community Center. To learn more about the program contact the CAC at 598-5927.

CAC is located behind Otey Parish in the new Claiborne Parish House. Along with giving weekly grocery bags and the new quilting group, the CAC has started two new programs this year. The CAC offers small garden containers and has given away chicken coops to members of the greater Sewanee community.

The CAC will celebrate its 40th anniversary on Dec. 14. Watch for more details about plans for the event.

Otey Parish Dedicates Parish House & Claiborne Portrait

Otey Memorial Parish will celebrate the renovated Claiborne Parish House at 11 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 15. The Rt. Rev. John Bauerschmidt, Bishop of Tennessee, will conduct a dedication and consecration service. A light brunch will follow in the new St. Mark’s Hall of the parish house.

A new portrait of the Rev. William Sterling Claiborne will be dedicated at 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 18, in the Claiborne Hall. This portrait by Claude Buckley, C’81, will be hung in the entrance hall of the building. A reception will follow the dedication. STHP members John Bratton and David Bowman will be on hand to answer questions about Claiborne.

Otey’s rector in the early 20th century, Claiborne initiated or promoted many local institutions: the parish, St. Andrew’s and St. Mary’s schools to educate the local population, and the first infirmary/hospital.

Claiborne’s ministry and vision continue. The building houses many community services and ministries.

St. Mark’s Hall, the largest room in the building, honors the 1968 merger of the St. Mark’s and Otey congregations into Tennessee’s first fully integrated Episcopal Church. Bauerschmidt will consecrate a new small chapel in Claiborne as St. Paul’s-on-the-Mountain. In choosing this name, Otey seeks to honor and remember its precursor church.

Also in the building are Sewanee Children’s Center, the Community Action Committee, meeting rooms and gathering spaces.

FAREWELL REBEL'S REST

To the Editor:

One of the last vestiges of Sewanee's Southern heritage is now a charred ruin.

Major Fairbanks' ghost has flown elsewhere.

I feel as if something good and fine and noble has been lost forever.

FOOD BANK THANKS

To the Editor:

The "Womanless" Beauty Pageant to benefit the Grundy County Food Bank was held Nov. 8.

The event raised $2,200 and was full of laughter, great food, great company and a lot of pride for our community. On behalf of the residents of Grundy County who receive food monthly, the Food Bank board would like to thank Citizens Tri-County Bank, Sequachee Valley Electric, S Double A Ranch, Gruetli-Laager Dairy Bar, Braden's Used Cars, Palmer Drugs, L & L Market, Darrell's Auto Parts, and James and Marianne Waller for sponsoring the event. We would also like to thank Jim Myers for providing the facilities where we operate the food bank.

Donations can be made by bringing a check to the food bank or mailing it to P.O. Box 1683, Tracy City, TN 37387. Thank you.

Sandy Spies, Director

Franklin County & University to Trim Right-of-Ways

The Physical Plant Services staff of the University and the Franklin County Highway Department will work together Nov. 17–21 to trim the right-of-way along the following Sewanee streets: Ball Park Road, Mimosa Circle, Missouri Avenue, Finney Lane, Faculty Circle, New College Drive, Torian Road and Parson's Drive.

The Highway Department recently acquired a rotary-blade cutting arm for use with its mowing machines; crews will use this new equipment to make clean cuts to encroaching vegetation within the right-of-way.

Trimming will be removed and disposed of by the Highway Department.

The University's forestry technicians will follow behind the trimming crew, making any additional needed cuts by hand in order to improve the final aesthetics. The work is expected to be completed within the week.

The trimming work is a pilot project between the University and the Franklin County Highway Department.

Benefit Chamber Concert for Children's Center

At 3 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 23, in St. Luke's Chapel, Rebecca Van de Ven, Abigail Coffey and Bernadette Lo will present a recital to benefit the Sewanee Children's Center. Van de Ven plays the oboe; Coffey, the flute; and Lo, the piano.

All three women are local freelance musicians and faculty members at the University. The eclectic program will feature a pastoral and virtuosic oboe sonata by Saint Saens, followed by a meditative solo flute work by Wil Offermans called Luna y Sierra. Van de Ven and Coffey will then join to play a Neoclassical duo written by Alberto Ginastera.

Following this rhythmically intense work, Lo will perform selections from "Fantasiestücke op. 12" by Robert Schumann. She will present four of the eight movements which highlight both the passionate and dreamy side of Schumann's personality. The final work will be Madeline Dring's crowd-pleasing trio for flute, oboe and piano. This piece offers soaring melodies, toe-tapping rhythms and a raucous final movement.

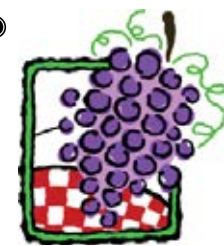

There is no admission charge, but donations will be accepted at the door to support the Sewanee Children's Center.

Community Christmas Tree Lighting

It's not too early to start planning for the upcoming holiday events on the Mountain.

Sewanee's Third Annual Tree Lighting—5 p.m., Friday, Dec. 5. The University will join with the community for this year's event. Students and community members will gather at 5 p.m. to light a tree in the Quad and then follow Santa down to the village to light the Christmas tree in the Angel Park around 5:30 p.m.

Santa Claus and the Grinch will be available for photos. There will be lots of refreshments, and the Sewanee Chorale will lead Christmas caroling. Everyone is encouraged to bring food and/or unwrapped new toys. All donated items will go to the Community Action Committee or Operation NOEL. The buildings in the downtown area will be lit with holiday lights.

Participation at the Center

The Sewanee Senior Center does not charge any membership fee. All persons 50 or older who take part in any of the activities are considered members. The center is located at 5 Ball Park Rd., behind the Sewanee Market. To reserve a meal or for more information, call 598-0771.

Country Music Concert to Benefit Almost Home

Almost Home Transitional Housing Program, a nonprofit agency in Franklin County, will host "My Story, My Song," an evening of entertainment with country music star Jimmy Wayne on Saturday, Nov. 22, at North Middle School in Decherd. During the event, Wayne will sing and share his journey from homeless teen to country music success story. He is a survivor of homelessness and an advocate for homeless youth.

Doors open at 6 p.m. and the entertainment begins at 7 p.m. with performances by Noah Hinshaw, Johnny Hand and Chyrell Sells. Concessions will be available and a silent auction will be held. General admission tickets are $10 per person; floor seats are $20.

All proceeds benefit the Almost Home Transitional Housing Program. For more information call (931) 580-8321 or (931) 308-7575.

Almost Home's mission is to provide individuals and families with transitional housing while networking with other agencies to obtain permanent housing. It also seeks to teach families core values and money management principles, so they can find a home of their own and live a sustainable life while utilizing their own resources.

In a comparison of the average composite ACT scores for the last three years, Franklin County scored an 18.6, with Marion and Coffee slightly higher. Grundy County's average ACT score was 17.6.

"Ultimately, the report card presentation addressed how students are performing on the various state-mandated assessments," Tucker said. "It did not address the more important questions of why these scores are what they are and what interventions are needed to improve student performance on these tests and, more importantly, overall student learning."

Tucker asked Sharber to make a presentation at the Dec. 8 school board meeting to look at what district administrators and teachers are doing with the report card data to improve learning and achievement.

Last school year Franklin County schools spent an average of $9,030 per pupil, with 31.3 percent of that amount from local funding, 57.4 percent from the state, and 11.3 percent was federal money. In 2012-13, Franklin County spent $8,891 per student. The state average for 2013-14 was $9,346, according to the report card.

Grundy County averaged $9,280 per pupil, Coffee County spent $9,160 per student, and Marion County spent $8,687 per pupil. The state's school report card is available at <www.tn.gov/education/data/report_card/>.

McCawley Earns Scholarship

Ida McCawley of Sewanee received the Continuing Student Merit Scholarship at Fort Lewis College for the fall 2014 semester. McCawley's major is geology, with the environmental geology option.

Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo., offers small classes, dynamic academic programs and a liberal arts perspective that leads to transformative learning experiences to foster entrepreneurship, leadership, creative problem-solving and lifelong learning.

OESS to Run University Farm

The University has recently expanded the Office of Environmental Stewardship and Sustainability (OESS) under assistant provost Jon Evans to oversee management of the outer Domain and the University farm as part of the University's strategic vision for environmental education.

Kevin Hiers, the new director of environmental stewardship, is responsible for the long-term planning, support and coordination of all curricular and co-curricular activities across the outer Domain, while ensuring its safe access and use. In addition to these familiar roles, the Environmental Stewardship program will take the lead in organizing faculty workshops in long-term monitoring of the terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems on the outer Domain, enhancing undergraduate research opportunities in conservation science and promoting collaborations across multiple disciplines.

Nate Wilson, Domain manager, works within the program to help implement these goals across the University's 13,000 acres.

Marvin Pate, the director of sustainability integration, is now responsible for the University farm and will ensure its continued integration within the University's physical plant services, food service, community and curriculum. Trae Moore has been hired as interim farm manager until a search is complete.

In order to sustain current curricular and co-curricular activities on the Domain and build capacity for new research opportunities, the Office of Environmental Stewardship will be implementing a revised set of opportunities and policies to improve the educational experience including 1) risk management procedures to ensure the safe use of the Domain for both education and recreation, 2) availability of a Domain Research

Sewanee Elementary School students demonstrated their commitment to living a drug-free life by wearing red during Red Ribbon Week. The Red Ribbon Week campaign, in its 29th year, is the oldest drug prevention campaign in the United States. Among the students participating were (from left) Case Hoosier, Isaiah Gilliam, Kaleb Jacobs, Anja Dombrowski, Sara Knight and Kaitlyn King.

Fund, 3) development of a Domain Green Corps for undergraduate and post-baccalaureate internships and fellowships, and 4) installation and maintenance of field equipment for long-term environmental monitoring. The director of environmental stewardship will work with the Dean's Office to oversee the refining of existing processes for site use requests and the applications to the Domain Research Fund. Finally, the Environmental Stewardship program will be charged with developing professional certification standards and training for undergraduates seeking skills associated with Domain management.

The new alignment of the University farm under sustainability underlines its cross-cutting position among disciplines and operations, and its role in building curricular, co-curricular, and community connections. There is a burgeoning student interest nationwide, and particularly at Sewanee, in the processes of food production and the challenges of feeding a growing world population.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

by Elizabeth Ellis

Every good critic needs a good rating system, and stars are so overused. There's nothing on the planet more critical than cats, so one or more movies each week is rated from one to five Tobys. The more Tobys it has, the better it is.

Sir Toby

Obvious Child

7:30 p.m. • Thursday–Sunday, Nov. 13–16
1979 • Rated R • 84 minutes

Life is hard for struggling comedienne Donna Stern, and it's just about to get worse—her one-night stand with an upstanding Christian boy results in an unwanted pregnancy. Starring breakout actress Jenny Slate, the character she portrays is as awkward and raw as the situation she finds herself in. Obvious Child doesn't sugar-coat the realities of life, which, if the preview is any indication, might make for some uncomfortable viewing. However, it is refreshing to have an honest film about the curveballs that life throws our way when we are/were in our 20s, and navigating those waters from college naiveté to true independent adulthood. Rated R for language and sexual content.

Farewell My Concubine

7:30 p.m. • Tuesday, Nov. 18
1993 • Rated R • 171 minutes

Asian Sensation, a group on campus dedicated to celebrating Asian culture on the Mountain, is holding a very special showing of the Chinese film "Farewell My Concubine," (Chinese title: Bawang bijie) and will be offering free concessions! This film gives a sobering look at two men, Dieyi and Xiaolou, who train as apprentices together in the Peking Opera as children and the trials they share over the course of their 52-year friendship as their country shifts dramatically around them. It begins with their time spent as poor orphans training for the opera under master Lu Qui, a relentless taskmaster bent on perfection. The pair soon rise to stardom performing the Peking opera "Farewell My Concubine," with the fiery Xiaolou playing the part of King Xiang Yu, and the more delicate Dieyi playing the part of the courtesan, Consort Yu. As they grow up together, Dieyi finds himself falling in love with Xiaolou and takes it very badly when the romantic affections are not returned. Soon, Dieyi finds his jealousies must be set aside as the Cultural Revolution of 1966 finds their profession as actors under attack. The film was met with great critical success in the United States, winning a Golden Globe for Best Foreign Language Film in 1994. It is rated R due to some violent imagery, as well as scenes of child abuse—an epic sweep of a film, but unrelentingly intense and intended for adults only.

Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade

7:30 p.m. • Wednesday, Nov. 19
1989 • PG-13 • 127 minutes

It's hard to beat anything involving Harrison Ford or Sean Connery, especially when they team up together. The third film in the classic Indiana Jones movie cannon (and arguably the best, in my humble opinion), explores the relationship between Indy and his father, as well as the roots of Indy's personality—from why he is afraid of snakes and the origins of his iconic hat. The year is 1938, and Indiana finds himself once again drawn away from his day job as a professor of archeology when an art collector offers him the intriguing chance to find the Holy Grail. As the globe-hopping plot gets underway, father and son reunite just in time to find that this expedition is not what it seems, and their very lives are in danger. "The Last Crusade" sparked inspiration for more recent films such as "National Treasure" (2004), and it won the Academy Award in 1990 for Best Effects and Best Sound Effects Editing. It is rated PG-13 for some intense action sequences, as well as some steamy interludes, but is otherwise a classic action film the whole family can enjoy.

The Maze Runner

7:30 p.m. • Thursday–Sunday, Nov. 20–23
2014 • PG-13 • 113 minutes

Thomas has no memory of who he is or where he's from—all he knows is that he is trapped in a field at the center of a huge maze with a group of other boys. Based on the best-selling first novel of the Maze Runner series by James Dashner, this sci-fi adventure is the latest installment in the recent trend of post-apocalyptic teen films. While it covers a familiar adrenaline-filled beat that began with "The Hunger Games," it has been praised for its refreshingly dark approach to the subject matter and the honesty of the characters and their interactions with one another. It is rated PG-13 for thematic elements and intense sequences of sci-fi violence and action, as well as some disturbing images.

Photography Show Opens in Carlos Gallery

Sewanee's Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building presents "The Dog of My Reflection," an exhibition of photographic works, graphic design and sculpture by Tennessee artist Patrick DeGuira. The opening reception and artist's talk will be at 4:30 p.m., today (Friday), Nov. 14, at the gallery. The show runs through Dec. 7.

"The Dog of My Reflection" expands on DeGuira's interested in "self-curation." The title refers to the fable "The Dog and Its Reflection," a story in which a dog that is carrying a stolen bone looks down as it is crossing a stream and sees its own reflection in the water. Taking it for another dog carrying something better, it opens its mouth to bark at the "other" and in doing so loses the bone that it has stolen.

DeGuira describes himself as a figurative artist. An artist, not so much interested in the body, but objects that stand in for the body. Photographs, mirrors, canes, tools, chairs, megaphones, sounds, staircases, ladders, animals, abstractions and text make up the figure that "acts out" in the work that he constructs. He calls his sculpture two-dimensional works, and installations "props." These props are then constructed to act as a physical or textual device within a narrative (or a conceptual plinth) and can be viewed as things that have been imprinted by a figurative body or figurative language.

From depictions of unknown individuals, notions of mirroring, to object groupings that refer to scientific method studies, "The Dog of My Reflection" dialogues on the morphology of the pubescent body to feral body, into the astral body.

In addition to numerous exhibitions, DeGuira has worked as an exhibit designer and consultant, juror, educator and curator. His museum design contributions include involvement with numerous exhibitions, such as "100 Artists See God" (ICI), "Material Terrain" (International Art & Artists), "Vital Forms" (Museum of Modern Art) and the "Art and Life of William Christenberry" (Smithsonian).

Natural Bridge by Mary Priestley

Artisan Depot Gallery Spotlights Franklin County

"Franklin County Scenes," a community art show at Artisan Depot in Cowan, will welcome artists and friends with a reception at 5 p.m., today (Friday), Nov. 14, at the gallery. Organizers said that this show "looks to be one of the most interesting and intimate shows of the year."

The works include representations of life in Franklin County now and in the past. Included in this show are several paintings of "The Square" in Winchester over time and iconic local landmarks such as Falls Mills and Natural Bridge.

"Franklin County Scenes" will run through Jan. 11, 2015.

The Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 201 Cumberland St. East in Cowan.

Gallery hours are noon–5 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays and 11 a.m.–5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Benefit Concert for Cowan Railroad Museum

Memphis virtuoso guitarist Andy Cohen returns to the Cowan Center for the Arts Theater at 6 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 16, to benefit the Cowan Railroad Museum. A suggested donation of $7 per person at the door goes directly to the museum and helps keep it open and free to the public.

Cohen's signature style encompasses a wide range of traditional American music, earning the description of "a walking, talking folk-blues-roots music encyclopedia." His life has been devoted to the study, performance and promotion of this rich tradition.

The Cowan Railroad Museum documents the impact of the railroad in the region since 1849 when construction began on boring a railroad tunnel through the Mountain two miles southeast of town. The museum hosts about 1,000 interesting, valuable and historic railroad and city of Cowan artifacts, including a complete full-size train headed up by a 1920 Porter steam locomotive. The nonprofit museum is free and open to the public May through October, and draws thousands of visitors a year from the U.S. and around the world.

The Cowan Center for the Arts Theater is located at 303 Montgomery St., Cowan. For more information call 967-1560.

Sewanee's Marcellus Caldwell launches a shot in the game against Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt Defeats Sewanee 67-38 in Exhibition Contest

Playing each other for the first time since 1961, in-state rival Vanderbilt defeated the Sewanee men's basketball team on Nov. 11 by a score of 67-38 in front of 7,871 fans inside historic Memorial Gymnasium in Nashville.

Both teams were cold out of the gate. Vanderbilt led 8-2 at the 15:39 mark. After the first media timeout, Sewanee warmed up. A jumper by Jacob McCullough and a free throw by Seth Brown cut the Tigers' deficit to 9-7.

Sewanee's offense slowed in the next six minutes as they missed five straight shots. During that same stretch, the Commodores took advantage of its size and speed, as guard Shelton Mitchell outraced the Tiger defense with a fast-break layup. That would spark a 16-0 Commodore run.

Sewanee would finally end its drought, when sophomore Brody Stone made his first jumper of the evening. The Tigers cut the lead to 27-11 on a McCullough jumper.

Vanderbilt closed the half strong, with Mitchell draining a three at the buzzer. That capped off a 21-4 Vanderbilt run in the final 11:43.

Against the Commodores' size and athletic ability, Sewanee struggled from the floor, making only 20 percent of its shots in the first 20 minutes. Vandy also struggled from the field in the opening half. The Commodores were 12-for-32 (37.5 percent).

Out of the locker room, Sewanee opened with a three by sophomore Jordan Williams. Unfortunately, Vanderbilt responded with a 9-0 run to extend its lead to 39-14. Sewanee answered back, as Seth Brown and Williams made back-to-back jumpers.

The Tigers cut its deficit to 19, when Matt Tome hit a three with 13:11 to play. Vanderbilt responded back with a 7-0 run in the next 1:30. A three by Byron Turner cut the Vanderbilt lead to 27, but Sewanee could not close the gap.

The Tigers finished 16-of-56 from the floor. On the defensive side of the court, Sewanee limited Vanderbilt to a 41.4 field-goal percentage. The Tigers were out-rebounded 47-31.

Keshonn Carter led the Tigers with a team-high eight points. Stone and Williams also pitched in five points, while Brown led Sewanee on the boards with seven rebounds.

Vanderbilt was paced by Damian Jones, who scored a game-high 14 points. Mitchell and Wade Baldwin IV were also in double figures with 10.

Sewanee opens its regular season on Nov. 15 with a 6 p.m. contest at home against Huntingdon.

Jones is SAA Player of the Week

Sewanee's Devante Jones has been named the Southern Athletic Association Offensive Player of the Week.

Jones, a junior, had his best-ever game on Nov. 8 in the Tigers' Homecoming victory against Berry College. In the 31-26 win, Jones rushed for a career-high 194 yards and two touchdowns. That marked the second straight game with at least 165 yards and a score for the Cairo, Ga., native.

Sewanee Rushes Past Berry College For Narrow Homecoming Victory

Career-high rushing totals by Devante Jones and Barrett Goodson helped the Sewanee football team run past Berry College for a 31-26 Homecoming win on Nov. 8 at historic Hardee-McGee Field in Harris Stadium.

Both running backs were outstanding. Jones, a junior, finished with 194 yards on 24 carries and two touchdowns. Goodson, a senior from South Carolina, added 81 yards on 11 attempts for a 7.4 yards-per-carry average.

As a team, Sewanee rushed for a season-high 378 yards. Additionally, the victory snapped Sewanee's six-game losing streak. The Tigers are now 2-0 against the Vikings.

Sewanee started out strong. After recovering a fumble on Berry's opening drive, the Tigers' offense went to work. Over five plays, Sewanee drove 42 yards, which was capped off by an 11-yard touchdown run by Jones.

Berry answered back on the Vikings' next possession. Mainly through the air, Berry marched 71 yards in only eight plays. Facing a fourth-and-19 from the Sewanee 33, quarterback Dale Jackson scrambled and found receiver Chris Lilly 33 yards downfield for a touchdown.

The Tigers responded with eight straight running plays, before quarterback Cody Daniel tossed an 11-yard touchdown pass to Steven Hearn, who made an outstanding cutback to get into the endzone.

Sewanee would then push its lead to 21-7 when Jones capped off a 13-play, 80-yard drive that took 7:29 off the clock midway through the second quarter.

After holding Berry to a three-and-out, Sewanee continued to roll. A 33-yard run by Jones and a Vikings' penalty gave the Tigers the ball at the eight-yard line. Fullback Andy Moots then scored with 6:57 left in the first half.

Berry responded with a field goal and a touchdown pass from Jackson to Lilly to close the second quarter. The Tigers led 28-17 at halftime.

After both offenses played well the opening 30 minutes, both defenses made adjustments at halftime. Berry would score the only points in the third quarter, when kicker Mike Blanchard made a 22-yard field goal.

The score would remain 28-20 until a pair of big plays pulled Berry to within two points, with 9:05 left in the game.

After a 33-yard pass play by Jackson, the Berry quarterback found Lilly again for a 30-yard strike. On the ensuing two-point conversion, Sewanee stopped a slant route to hold its two-point lead.

Berry would get the ball back with 6:42 to play, but on the first play of the drive, Sewanee recovered a fumble at the Vikings' 28. The Tigers ran 4:44 off the clock and added their final points, when Callum Wishart made a 28-yard field goal.

The Vikings would try to score one more time, but senior linebacker J.P. McDonnell intercepted the ball at the Sewanee 46. From there, Sewanee ran out the clock with carries by Jones and Goodson.

In a contrast of offensive styles, Berry countered Sewanee's rushing attack with 310 passing yards from Jackson. Lilly had a game-high 187 yards receiving and three touchdowns for the Tigers.

Jackson Putnam and Preston Stewart led Berry on defense, each finishing with a game-high 15 tackles. De'Nard Ford and Alex Kops led Sewanee on defense, with five tackles each.

NATURENOTES

A Mountain Goat Trail Hike

The Sewanee Herbarium sponsored a delightful walk along the original paved "Rails to Trails" portion of the Mountain Goat Trail on the afternoon, of Nov. 9, reports Yolande Gottfried. Some oaks, especially scarlet oak, still blazed in glorious color against the blue sky.

Janice Thomas, board president of the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance (MGTA), shared much information on the history of the railroad and the goals and plans of the MGTA. Although generous workers had recently cleared the trail of leaves, it was still partly littered with the fallen needles of the pines through which the trail passes. The small, twisted pairs of needles were from the native Virginia pine. Loblolly pines that had spread from nearby plantations, now mostly cut down due to the pine bark beetle, left clusters of three much longer needles. The clusters of five needles came from white pines, also the offspring of white pines planted on the domain.

A fourth evergreen tree of note was the cedar or juniper. The fallen fruits of tulip poplars, like little whirligigs, also covered the path, leading the eye to look up at the parent trees, where "cones" or aggregates of fruits still stood on the tree branches. The fruit clusters of winged sumac were rather drooping and a faded red, but those of smooth sumac stood up in bright scarlet. Some evergreen herbaceous plants of note were the Christmas ferns and ebony spleenworts where the trail cut through a low bank, and the arrowhead-shaped leaves of the wild ginger.

Woolly Worm Report

Freddy Tucker reports seeing "a large and very black woolly worm" on his back porch on Nov. 11. He said that, according to Georgia folk wisdom, this is a sure sign of a bad winter ahead.

Leaf litter on the Perimeter Trail in Shaker Hollow. Photo by J.C. Willis

Leaf Litter Lesson

Having moved here recently from a city, Harriet Runkle notes that while there are many differences between here and there, the one that stands out most right now are the amount of leaves that are still on the ground.

Where she lived before, everyone dutifully raked their leaves to the street for the county maintenance crew to come by and vacuum them up this time of year. It was frowned upon if you didn't follow this social norm, and it wasn't unusual to hear the sound of leaf blowers well into the night on the eve of the leaf pickup. It was also acceptable to hire a lawn service to get rid of your leaves, as long as it happened within the specified time frame. The results were tidy, well-manicured lawns that looked pretty, but as a horticulturalist friend pointed out, many well-intentioned Northern Virginians were upsetting the natural order of things and the biodiversity of the ecosystem with every sweep of the rake.

So why is leaf litter so important and why is Sewanee right in leaving it alone? According to Scientific American, leaf litter consists of leaves, sticks and bark that have fallen to the ground that provide a home for a wide variety of plants and animals. It also provides nesting material, hiding places and protection for animals such as worms, snails, spiders, beetles, centipedes and millipedes who eat the litter. Microorganisms like fungi and bacteria decompose the litter further by breaking it down into beneficial chemicals and nutrients for the soil, making leaf litter a biodiverse community. Leaf litter is an important component of healthy soil and helps keep it moist.

If you'd like to see for yourself, try this experiment. Go outside to an undisturbed part of the woods and scoop up a good amount of leaf litter and soil to a depth of about 1 1/2 inches. Spread the litter out on an aluminum tray. Using tweezers and a magnifying glass, look for worms, snails, spiders and other insects. Separate them out and record how many different species there are. Return the leaf litter and all the creatures to the spot where you found it. Now, go to a more traveled area of the woods, such as near a hiking trail or park; repeat the experiment and compare your results. Share your results with us here.

Pets of the Week

Meet Cheer & Monkey

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption. Cheer is an active Hound/Lab-mix puppy who is a little bashful with new friends. She's likely to want to snuggle up after about just a few minutes of acquaintance, though. Cheer is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Monkey is a loving, playful juvenile kitty who enjoys hanging out with her brother and sister in the community playroom. She has an unusual chocolate Tortie color pattern and very soft fur perfect for petting. Monkey is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets.

Please help Animal Harbor: donations can be sent to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

BARDTOVERSE

RX: chicken soup for the common cold—Mayo Clinic

Among the prescriptions of ancient Egyptians
An essence of chicken was held in esteem.
The Chinese had oodles
Of needles and noodles,
And using their noodles, made chicken supreme.

In subsequent ages,
Wise sages wrote pages
On sipping the soup that suppressed every wheeze.
In hovel and castle,
The prince and his vassal
Used extract of chicken to cure all disease.

Now cautious assessing
Has given its blessing
To primitive balm with a modern allure.
The Mayas extolled it;
The Mayos uphold it:
The soup of the coop is assurance of cure.
