Vegetable Arbor at Farm in Need of Repair

One of the most lovely places on the Domain was in jeopardy of falling in on itself until Paul Mooney intervened to save what is known as the Vegetable Arbor, a gazebo at the historic entrance to the University Farm.

"I remember this place from my whole life," said Mooney, who is a native of Sewanee. "Everything has grown up around it, and the termites are eating it up, and it looks terrible. I hope we can get it redone. It means a lot to me."

At the age of 14, Mooney started working at the University Farm driving a tractor and working in the fields. When he got a driver's license, he started working for the University Dairy, delivering milk around Sewanee and to people in Palmer. Mooney worked his entire career at the University; he retired in 1997 after 50 years of service.

The gazebo and fence on Old Farm Road was constructed by Martin Johnson, who was the manager of the University Farm. Johnson is also the craftsman who created the stunning ironwork weather vane with Purple Martins on the top of the structure.

Professor Gerald Smith has been looking into the history of the arbor, too. Smith's "Religion and Ecology" class in 1999 did some restoration work to the structure, but it is in need of full replacement now.

In his book "Sewanee Places," Smith described the University Farm this way: "From 1899 until 1965, the University farm supplied meat, dairy, poultry, fruit and garden products to the dining halls and to the Supply Store. Much of this garden produce was used fresh in the dining halls or canned for off-season use."

"For convenience in storing baskets of vegetables coming out of the fields, an open-sided wood shelter, or arbor, was built at the edge of the road across from the gardener's house. Later, this shelter was used to display vegetables for

Pearl's Earns Rising Star Award from Small Business Center

Pearl's Foggy Mountain Café and owners Joy and Dan Hickey were honored with the Rising Star Award at a Nov. 6 meeting of the Tennessee Small Business Development Center (TSBDC), part of Chattanooga State Community College.

Honoring owners for their economic development contributions to the community, the awards are decided by the TSBDC staff and are based on overall business management, jobs created and retained, as well as capital infusion.

"We appreciate everyone's support in making Pearl's work," Joy said.

The Hickeys reopened Pearl's in 2012 after it was closed for a number of years. They renovated the space, expanded the menu and incorporated some new things.

"We have tried to design a customer-friendly environment with a warm, welcoming bar as you come in with quiet, simple dining rooms, trying to keep the feel of the old Pearl's. We left some of the old menu ideas and incorporated new things," said Dan.

"We are a different group of people than the old owners, so we are working with our staff and our experience in this endeavor," said Joy. "We are thrilled to have an excellent team of chefs, cooks, wait staff and bartenders to make Pearl's a success."

Other recipients of Rising Star Awards for 2013 were Manufacturing Repair and Overstock, Inc.; RMJ Tactical; Senior Tech, LLC; and Variable, Inc. The group also recognized Jennifer Stone of International Coffee Group (formerly Stone Cup Roasting Company) as Business Person of the year. Helping small businesses succeed is a hallmark of TSBDC. The Franklin County Humane Society presented the Jeane Patton Humanitarian Award to Amanda Curty at the 2013 Fall Party for Paws on Nov. 9 at IvyWild Restaurant.

CAC THANKS SEWANEE

To the Editor:

A heartfelt thank you to everyone who participated in the Community Action Committee's "Hunger is Not a Game" meal. This event was designed to bring awareness to the conditions of poverty and hunger that exist within the Sewanee community and all of the areas served by CAC. Through the generosity of our community, CAC is able to provide food, financial assistance and educational support to many, many people. It was an overwhelming experience to see Cravens Hall filled with college students and community members committed to the fight against poverty. Thank you to author Laura Willis, to all our volunteers, and to all who support the work of CAC.

IVYWILD THANKS

To the Editor:

My most sincere thanks to the fantastic crowd of "party animals" who came out to support Animal Harbor's Party for Paws at IvyWild on Nov. 9. What a great time! The dining room was vibrant with festive Fall revelers, Sarah Givens' music put us all in a party mood, and the hard work the Animal Harbor crew put into this event really showed in all the details. What a joy and a privilege it was to be a part of it! Thank you.

TASTE OF THE MARKET

To the Editor:

We want to thank the Sewanee community for supporting the first ever Taste of the Market.

We were astounded at the large turnout, due in no small measure to the Sewanee Mountain Messenger being supportive of our efforts.

“Seminaries That Change the World” Includes Sewanee’s School of Theology

A select group of 17 seminaries and divinity schools, including Sewanee’s School of Theology, have been designated as “Seminaries that Change the World” by the Center for Faith and Service and Faith3.

Chosen because they have “demonstrated great innovation in theological education and in integration with classical approaches for learning,” the seminaries are highlighted on a new website, <http://faith3.org/stctw/>, intended to be a resource for a generation of people, both lay and on the ordination track, that want to change the world and are considering graduate school.

“This is a shout-out from the rooftops that this connection between seminary and justice work is worth paying attention to,” said the Rev. Wayne Meisel, director of the Center for Faith and Service. In his view, the 2014 class of “Seminaries that Change the World” has demonstrated a commitment to invite, welcome, support, train and launch individuals into the world as community leaders.

Meisel, an ordained Presbyterian minister, has a distinguished career in community service, service learning and civic engagement. Among other accomplishments, he is the founding president of the Bonner Foundation.

This year’s “Seminaries that Change the World” are Andover Newton Theological School, Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Candler School of Theology, Christian Theological Seminary, Columbia Theological Seminary, Duke Divinity School, Earlham School of Religion, Fuller Theological Seminary, Luther Seminary, McAfee School of Theology, Princeton Theological Seminary, the School of Theology at Sewanee, Union Theological Seminary, University of Chicago Divinity School, Vanderbilt University Divinity School, Wake Forest University School of Divinity, Wesley Theological Seminary and Yale Divinity School.

OUTSIDEIN

by Patrick Dean

The video camera used thermal imaging, so the animal appeared as a bright white creature in the short clip that the University of the South posted on its Facebook page. More importantly, the consensus is that the star of the film is a brown bear right here on the Domain.

This is believed to be the first video of a bear on University property. The Domain Manager set up the camera to catch horseback and ATV riders who might have been trespassing; as a result, we're treated to a rare view of a special animal.

Upon seeing the video, I had two thoughts: The first was, "Cool!" The second was to remember what my dog, Jackson, and I had experienced about a week before.

We were on the Caldwell Rim Trail south of the ball park, above the large creek at the beginning of the counter-clockwise single-track loop. Jackson was doing his usual thing, zigzagging in pursuit of chipmunks and peeing on ferns. He was directly ahead on the trail when he did something I'd never seen him do in his two-plus years: he stopped, bristled and bolted back in my direction.

I froze and peered carefully around us. The place that had spooked Jackson was in the middle of open trail—there was nothing to be seen. Eventually, we continued on without incident.

Later, though, when I mentioned the occurrence to my friend Ranger Jason, his first thought was the same as mine: Jackson had smelled a bear. As it turned out, the Facebook video of the bear was filmed in Lost Cove, which is down below the Caldwell Rim trail.

I know that there have been bear reported on the Domain from time to time, and I find it deeply reassuring. It's good for woods to have bears in them, and it's good for humans, too. Of course, that's an easier position to take when it's black or brown bears, and not grizzlies.

Some years ago I spent three weeks backpacking in Wyoming's Absaroka Range, which is grizzly bear country. I'll never forget the experience of visiting Mother Nature's bathroom in the starlit darkness, carrying trowel and bear spray, saying "Hey bear, hey bear" in order not to surprise either the bear or me in an accidental encounter. It's an entirely different way of existing as a human, knowing that you are not the top dog.

I also remember discovering my first grizzly bear track. (I never saw an actual grizzly during the trip.) Imagine a medium-size salad plate: that's the footprint. Now imagine five claw marks... each of which begins three or four inches out from the plate. That's a grizzly print.

To kick things up another notch, I recently read "In the Shadow of the Sabertooth," a book about (among other things) humans who lived in the Pleistocene Era of prehistory along with mammoths, saber-toothed tigers and, scariest of all, the short-faced bear. A skeleton found in South America indicates that this bear was 11 feet tall and weighed up to 3,500 pounds. This longer, leaner, faster version of the grizzly should make anyone glad to be alive now, and not then.

It occurs to me that all of us identify things that make our habitat feel more complete, more satisfactory to our lives. For new parents or the elderly, it may be good medical facilities; for certain others, a nearby Whole Foods or Target may be the ticket.

Knowing that I inhabit a space that can also accommodate bears gives me just such a sense of completeness. Flawed though our world may be, scarred by humans' activities in ways both detectable and not, it still contains a little room for wildness. The bears need that, and so do we.

Children's Book About Sewanee Angels to Arrive on the Mountain for Christmas

What began as a short rhyming story that Beth Charlton wrote for her grandchildren has become an illustrated children's book, "The Adventures of the Sewanee Angels." Charlton teamed up with Margaret Matens, retired director of public relations at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, who illustrated the 32-page book and helped expand the text.

In the book, colorful childlike angels make nocturnal visits to all the beloved sites around campus—All Saints' Chapel, Abbo's Alley, downtown, the Cross, Shakerag Hollow and many more. They go rock climbing at Morgan's Steep, ride horses at the Equestrian Center, and read books at Sewanee Elementary School using lanterns of fireflies for light. The book, which will retail for $15, is scheduled to be in local stores by Dec. 1.

People who have previewed the book at the University are enthusiastic about this version of the legend of the Sewanee angels.

Charlton and Matens have worked on the book intermittently for two years.

"I am really excited that it is finally being published," said Charlton. "I love Margaret's illustrations. As soon as I saw her work, I knew she was the perfect person for the project. Her angels are very woodsy, with halos of vines and flowers, and the book is full of animals—dogs, raccoons, deer, turtles—as you might expect from Margaret." Besides teaching pre-K at SES, Charlton operates an outdoor education program and is the owner/director of Camp Point Clear, a summer camp for girls in Grenada, Miss.

"It has been fun to have time to do illustration work again, one of the pleasures of retirement," said Matens. A graphic designer and writer, Matens has several other published children's books and is working on a young adult novel with an environmental theme. She works part-time as director of marketing for the Friends of South Cumberland, is a consultant for the Community Fund of the South Cumberland Plateau and several other area organizations, volunteers with schools and Scouts doing wildlife programs, and is head of the summer nature program at Camp Nakanawa.

"The Adventure of the Sewanee Angels" will be available locally at Taylor's, the Lemon Fair, the University purchase by people who came out to the farm on Saturday mornings. The Vegetable Arbor was constructed of rough-hewn timbers in notched timber-frame style and had a pyramidal roof covered in oak shakes," Smith wrote.

Book Store and other places, as well as online from Amazon.com. Several book signings are scheduled for December. For more information email <infosewaneangels@gmail.com>.

"This place is where my granddaddy brought the vegetables," Mooney said, standing in the cold autumn air earlier this week. Mooney's grandfather, John Samuel Mooney was the farm manager at one time. Mooney lived with his grandparents at times as a boy, when the farm was thriving.

"When I was small I ran around out here with my cousins Ronnie and Larry Goodman," he said. "We all want to see it restored."

The project is expected to cost about $9,000. Mooney and friends have collected more than $4,000 so far. Donations can be made to the project by sending them to Gift Records, University of the South, 735 University Ave., Sewanee TN 37375.

Williams Cited for Service to Veterans

"I ask that you accept this honorary appointment as a thank you for the many contributions you have made in the lives of veterans in your community," Johnston said.

Williams, who is a retired sergeant major of the U.S. Army, provides coordination and guidance for veterans across Tennessee.

"Your leadership and experience are truly needed to engage the current generation of veterans to continue the patriotic legacy you have worked so hard to build," Johnston said.

The Disabled American Veterans works to empower veterans to lead high quality lives with respect and dignity. For more information go to <www.dav.org>.

Dean Gatta Announces Retirement

John Gatta has announced his decision to step down as dean of the College. Gatta will have held this position for seven years when he concludes his service on June 30, 2014. He will then return to the faculty, following a leave of absence. Before coming to Sewanee in 2004, Gatta taught for a number of years as a professor of English at the University of Connecticut.

In his letter to Vice-Chancellor John McCardell, Gatta wrote, "I've found the job to be satisfying and rewarding, but I've come to feel that the seven-year period I will have served as dean is, quite simply, long enough for me. I also feel privileged that I might now for a time—as a faculty member—continue to contribute to Sewanee's educational mission."

McCardell said, "As dean of the College, John Gatta has served with distinction. He has helped to nurture and build a faculty of exceptional quality and has played a leadership role in strengthening the College curriculum. His commitment to ensuring the academic quality of everything we do has been exemplary. I am delighted that this model teacher/scholar will continue to serve on our faculty."

Provost John Swallow will chair a search committee to advise McCardell on the appointment of Gatta's successor.

Retiring South Cumberland Park Employees Honored

A reception was held at the South Cumberland State Park Visitors Center on Oct. 30 to honor retiring employees Sharon King, park secretary for 27 years, and Wanda Cook, who has staffed the welcome desk for six years. Family, friends, park rangers and Friends of South Cumberland members attended the event, along with Tennessee State Naturalist Randy Hedgepath.

King, a resident of Tracy City, began work at the Visitors Center in 1986 and has been responsible for processing paperwork, maintaining files and helping visitors at the park. She has also coordinated the annual Easter Egg Hunt. She is married to Howell King and has two daughters and seven grandchildren.

Cook, also from Tracy City, worked at the Visitors Center through a federally funded program that trains older citizens in new jobs. She has served as the "first face" at the reception desk for the last six years. Park manager John Cristof said, "They will certainly be missed."

Community Chest Spotlight Grundy Co. Food Bank

The 2013-14 Sewanee Community Chest Fund Drive is underway. The power of people helping people makes a difference in the life of the community. Sponsored by the Sewanee Civic Association, the Community Chest raises money yearly for local charitable organizations serving the area.

This year's goal is $108,000. To date, 50 percent of the goal has been reached.

This week's recipient spotlight is on the Grundy County Food Bank.

The sole purpose of the Grundy County Food Bank is to secure usable and healthy food from various sources. The food is distributed at no cost to the needy of Grundy County once a week through a weekly food distribution schedule.

Food is purchased through the Chattanooga Area Food Bank and donated from the Walmart in Kimball and the Bi-Lo in Trenton, Ga. Additional financial support comes from the Emergency Food and Shelter program, the Sequatchie Electric Cooperative and local churches, to name a few.

The Grundy County Food Bank is requesting $1,000 to help pay for the operation of the food bank. Expenses totaled more than $11,000 for the first half of this year. A recent decision by the Grundy County EMS Center to discontinue giving fuel for the Food Bank truck will add an additional $2,300 to expenses.

The goal of the Sewanee Community Chest is to help citizens by funding the community. The Community Chest is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, and donations are tax-deductible.

Send your donation to Sewanee Community Chest, P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375.

SAS Announces Area Recipients of Scholarships

Each year St. Andrew's-Sewanee School provides close to $1.7 million in financial aid to its students. Some of that financial aid comes in the form of named scholarships and designated monies that have been made possible through the generosity of the school's alumni and friends. This year, the following local students received named awards:

Senior Anna Ellison of Winchester and freshman Daryllann Ferguson of Sewanee were the recipients of the Woods Memorial Scholarship created in memory of Granville Cecil Woods Sr. and the Very Rev. Granville Cecil Woods Jr. Woods Sr. was a graduate of the Sewanee Military Academy and a longtime member of the University of the South's board of trustees and board of regents. His son, Dean Woods, was dean emeritus of the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Virginia. As a trustee of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, he provided invaluable leadership during the school's formative years. The Woods Memorial Scholarship is presented to students whose parents are full-time employees of the University of the South.

Seniors Sarah Beavers of Sewanee and Michiah Posey of Decherd received the Reader's Digest Endowed Scholarships, given to students who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in academics and in nonacademic programs of the school.

Sophomore Jade Sanders of Sewanee received the Father and Mrs. Simmonds Scholarship, given by family and friends in memory of Father Harvey Simmonds Sr. and his wife, Ethel Louise Byerly Simmonds, longtime employees of St. Andrew's School. Fr. Simmonds served many years as the school's bursar, and Mrs. Simmonds was a member of the faculty. The scholarship is given to a student who exemplifies the essence of the mission of St. Andrew's school, and who contributes in positive ways to the ongoing life of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School.

Eighth-grader Rachel Alvarez of Sewanee was the recipient of the Sofia Wentz Scholarship given in honor of Sofia Wentz, longtime middle-school humanities teacher and dean of faculty at St. Andrew's-Sewanee. The scholarship is awarded to a middle-school student who demonstrates the academic potential and motivation to capitalize on the SAS educational experience.

Sixth-grader Mathew Gilliam of Sewanee received the William E. Barry Memorial Scholarship given in his memory by the family of William E. Barry, an alumnus of St. Andrew's School, and in recognition of the Barry family's long-standing relationship with both St. Andrew's School and St. Andrew's-Sewanee School. This award is given to encourage students from the Mountain to attend St. Andrew's-Sewanee and to recognize students who will enrich the life of the school.

Sophomore Michael Schaerer of Monteagle was the recipient of the Speegle Scholarship established in honor of Betty and Speedy Speegle, longtime employees of St. Andrew's School. This scholarship enables young boys and girls to have the opportunity to attend St. Andrew's-Sewanee School and to be cared for and helped in the way that Betty and Speedy cared for and helped young men over thirty years ago.

Junior Shalon Mooney of Monteagle was the recipient of the Frank Campbell Waldrop Scholarship for Mountain Children named in honor of Frank Waldrop, longtime friend of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School. This scholarship has been made possible through the Monteagle Sunday School Assembly by the Cissy Patterson Trust of Washington, D.C., and is awarded to a student from Grundy County.

Junior Deserae Horton of Tracy City received the Edward E. Ford Foundation Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to a day student indigenous to the Mountain who demonstrates the academic potential and motivation to capitalize on the St. Andrew's-Sewanee educational experience.

AT THE MOVIES

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE

Friday–Sunday, Nov. 15–17, 7:30 p.m.

World War Z

Rated PG-13 • 116 minutes

In this summer blockbuster, director Marc Forster (“Finding Neverland,” “Stranger Than Fiction,” “Monster’s Ball”) adapts a very popular fantasy novel into a compelling action film. Brad Pitt plays a United Nations employee who must halt a pandemic that is causing people around the world to become flesh-eating zombies. Surprisingly interesting and well-crafted, “World War Z” is a nicely modernized take on a theme that has been around for a very long time. One critic wrote, “‘World War Z’ is still as smart, shifty and scary as a starving zombie ready to chow down on you, baby, you.” Rated PG-13 for intense frightening zombie sequences, violence and disturbing images.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE

Thursday–Sunday, Nov. 21–24, 7:30 p.m.

The Bling Ring

Rated R • 90 minutes

We all know that the celebrity-worship culture has gotten out of hand, but “The Bling Ring” tells the true story of some teenage girls in LA who take their obsession to a new level. Sofia Coppola’s tart and clever film is adapted from the Vanity Fair article, “The Suspect Wore Louboutins.” A group of girls use the Internet to track the whereabouts of stars such as Paris Hilton and Kirsten Dunst. When the celebrities are out of town, the girls break into their homes and steal their possessions, which they sometimes parade to friends and sometimes sell. Emma Watson and Taissa Farmiga star. One reviewer wrote, “It could have been one of those ripped-from-the-headlines quickies you see on subpar cable. Instead, ‘The Bling Ring’ plugs into the zeitgeist of trash culture and sparks like a live wire.” Rated R for teen drug and alcohol use, and for language including some brief sexual references. —LW

Upcoming films at the SUT:

“Monsters University”—Nov. 27–30 and Dec. 1

“The World’s End”—Dec. 5–8

“Man of Steel”—Dec. 12–15

Lain York Art Talk

A conversation between artist Lain York and Sewanee art professor Jeff Thompson will be at 4:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 15, in Convocation Hall. A reception will follow the talk. “Lain York: Selections from the National Gallery” is at the University Art Gallery through Dec. 15.

Inspired in part by resonances between the 2012 American presidential election campaigns and his reading about the first four American presidencies, in this exhibition York explores the idea of “a visual archive of collected images” or “an information stream.” In the exhibition, silhouettes derived from 18th- and 19th-century caricatures populate abstract fields of shiny, colored vinyl, inviting the viewer to imagine unfolding stories. Correction tape slices across wooden panels, evoking muddled paths and archeological digs. These playful, largely abstract images explore formal concerns, but also point to the subjective, constructed nature of historical record and to the way the past echoes in the present.

Lain York has been called the “Mayor of Art Town” for his essential role in the Nashville art scene. An accomplished painter, he is also the gallery director at Zeitgeist Gallery.

His work is in the collections of the Savannah College of Art and Design, the Tennessee State Museum, the Metropolitan Nashville Arts Commission, Trans-Financial Bank, as well as many private collections.

In January 2014, he will open a solo show in the Contemporary Artist Project space at the Frist Center for the Visual Arts, Nashville.

“Ring Round the Moon” Continues

Theatre/Sewanee continues its shows of Jean Anouilh’s comedy “Ring Round the Moon,” adapted by Christopher Fry, at 7:30 p.m., today (Friday) and Saturday, Nov. 15–16, in the Tennessee Williams Center.

The event is free, but reservations are suggested by emailing <mcook@sewanee.edu>.

“Ring Round the Moon” is described as a playful romp, a charade with music. It features plots and counterplots involving ballet dancers, butlers, millionaires and a multitude of charming intriguers.

“Ring Round the Moon” is directed by Peter Smith, assisted by Beckett Scott. Scenery and lighting are designed by Dan Backlund and costumes designed by Josie Guevara-Torres. Courtney World is the choreographer, with stage management by Ruth Guerra and technical direction by John Marshall, assisted by Samantha Gribben.

Virtuoso Organist Jeremy Filsell In Concert Nov. 22

Jeremy Filsell, acknowledged as one of only a few virtuoso performers on both piano and organ, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22, in All Saints’ Chapel as part of the University of the South’s Performing Arts Series.

Filsell was an organ scholar at Keble College Oxford and as a graduate, he studied piano at the Royal College of Music, later completing a Ph.D. at Birmingham Conservatoire. He has taught at the Royal Academy of Music in London and at universities, summer schools and conventions in both the U.K. and U.S., and has performed around the world. He now combines international performing and teaching activities with being artist-in-residence at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.

Gramophone magazine has called Filsell’s recordings of Marcel Dupré’s complete organ works “one of the greatest achievements in organ recording.”

Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and $10 for students. (Admission is free with University of the South ID.) For more information go to <performingarts.sewanee.edu/>.

From now through the month of November

THE VILLAGE IDIOT

by Peter Trenchi

Humortality

I have only known two people whose laugh will shake the paint off a wall. Both could be counted on to laugh uncontrollably at all of my corny jokes and retorts. One is a surveyor in Louisiana and, until very recently, the other was a cook at my favorite coffee shop. In the presence of such powerful laughter, it is difficult to be crabby. Recently on the radio, I heard an expert on the health benefits of laughter suggest that even when we are not in a good humor, we should force ourselves to laugh and soon the absurdity of such a sound (similar to a car with a low battery on a cold morning) will have us really laughing. It must work because whenever I picture my laugh motor with molasses thick oil struggling to fire up, a glimmer of a smile forms. Once it's warmed up and running smoothly, laughter is spontaneous.

In our culture, the last remaining universal opportunity for spontaneous generosity and fun has crept under government control. Before you lock me away as a conspiracy theorist, let me explain. I am referring to Halloween, yes, the real Halloween on Oct. 31 that was once widely accepted. Now, we must anxiously await while local governments huddle together their elected officials to tell people when to light the pumpkins on the porch. Sure, they have our best interest at heart since there may be hazards and discomforts afoot. I remember one childhood year slogging from door-to-door in howling wet darkness, yet, whatever physical and emotional harm I suffered was offset by the knowledge that dogged persistence paid delicious dividends. Now, the lesson appears to be that one must forego such experiences while uber-parental powers furnish protection.

The counterargument to this "freedom is best" approach is the anecdote of the child in Nashville killed by a downed power line. Were it not for governmental forbearance, when presented with the opportunity to safely constrain individual freedom to act, that child would still be with us. This kind of reasoning is second-guessing. It is only applied when the first "guess" is too horrific to behold. Thus, we are able to postpone accepting the horror of what we wish wasn't. If we stay fixated on our second guess, we stay stopped in our tracks.

Rather than stand in that muddy ditch with our shivering wet tennis shoes, we must slog onward. Freedom requires it. Do not be governed by fear. The rules are the same as when you started: "Trick or treat." You know where your hopes lie, but until you knock on that door, you just don't know. So, keep knocking and keep laughing, "urr-ha, urr-ha, urr-ha-ha-hee-hee!" Yes, keep laughing—there's lots of paint that needs shaking.

Franklin County U-10 All-Stars

U-10 Soccer Wins Tourney

Coach Lindsey Huffhines of Winchester led Franklin County United, the U10 boys all-star soccer team, to six straight wins and two tournament titles in early November. The team, which included Gus and Mac Croom of Sewanee, as well as Ryland Banks, Braden Collins, Jose and Jesus Jacquez, Angel Moreno, Chanse Smith, and Matt Waggoner, all of Winchester, defeated a club team from Chattanooga to win the Kohl's American Cup in Tullahoma on Nov. 3.

On Nov. 10, the team defeated a club team from Huntsville in the final round of the Rotary Soccer Classic in Pulaski.

SAS MS Boys' Basketball 2-0

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school boys' basketball team started their season in good fashion, defeating the visiting North Warriors on Nov. 5, 25-19. Constant defensive pressure from the SAS squad prevented the taller Warriors from getting the ball down low throughout the game.

On offense, the Mountain Lions passed well and took good shots, but first-game jitters probably kept many of those good shots from hitting the mark. Ryan Toomey distinguished himself on both ends of the court, scoring 17 and holding the Warriors' best player to zero points. Dustin Stensby came off the bench to make two baskets and offer impressive defense. Joseph McDonough scored a demonstrative basket. Sixth-grader Isaac Smith scored 2 and handled the ball with skill and the calmness of an experienced eighth-grader. Newcomer James Hudson directed the offense judiciously. John Grammer and Larson Heitzenrater both displayed experienced play on both defense and offense.

SAS came away with a nail-biting win against a scrappy Swiss team in overtime during an away game on Nov. 7, 51-48. Swiss led by a narrow margin for most of the game.

In the fourth quarter, SAS rallied for a 46-41 lead with less than a minute in regulation. Two quick turnovers and two clutch baskets by Swiss players Josh Wingo and Ethan Nunley were followed by three missed Swiss shots in the paint, sending the game into overtime, 46-46. Subsequent SAS baskets were scored by Toomey and McDonough, who also chipped in a free throw.

Toomey led all scorers with 20; Stensby had nine points; Hudson and Grammer, eight each; McDonough, three; Aubrey Black, two; and Heitzenrater added one.

Tigers Dominate Against Berry and Bethel

The Sewanee men's and women's swimming and diving teams dominated a pair of dual races against Southern Athletic Association rival Berry and in-state foe Bethel on Nov. 8.

In the men's races, Sewanee won by scoring 206 points against Bethel and 145 points against the Vikings. In the women's competitions, the Tigers blasted Bethel 151-21 and then topped Berry 138-51.

Sewanee opened the races with a victory in the women's 200 medley relay. The Tiger team of Emily Blau, Chloe Stevenson, Erin Neil and Anna Thorson finished the event with a time of 2:01.49.

Alaina Mandel (1000 free), Thorson (100 back) and Astrid Escobar (500 free) then earned impressive individual first-place finishes, which helped extend the Tigers' lead.

Caty Hueske earned a pair of victories in the 200 IM and 100 free, while Carolyn Rice swept the 200 free and 100 butterfly competitions.

In the diving events, Margaret Petersen won the 1-meter dive with 153.75 points. That total edged out teammates Grace Cobbs (145.80 points) and Brittney Keiper (130.70 points).

In the men's races, Mac McNally dominated both the 1000 free and 500 free swims. Teammate Evan Escobar then won the 200 IM, while Brian Glatt topped all competitors in the 100 Free.

On the diving board, Frazier Devany won the 1-meter dive with 166.15 points. That total was just ahead of teammates Winston Westbrook (147.10 points) and Courtney Moore (145.75 points).

Finally, the Tigers 200 free relay team of McNally, Will Ralston, Alex Linton and Glatt won the race by four seconds with a time of 1:31.62.

Sewanee Downs Berry

Behind 357 yards of total offense and four touchdowns, the Sewanee football team rolled past first-year Southern Athletic Association program Berry, 28-6, on Nov. 9.

The Tigers scored on their first possession, as quarterback Curtis Johnson found tailback Cortez Brown on a 17-yard touchdown pass. On the drive, the Tigers rushed 15 times before Johnson tossed the score on a second-and-11 play from the Berry 17-yard line.

Later in the half, Johnson capped off a six-play, 80-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown run. The big play during the possession was Johnson's 54-yard completion to fullback Andrew Keenan on the first play from scrimmage.

The Berry defense settled in over the next quarter-and-a-half before the Tigers came alive again midway through the fourth. Brown scored his second touchdown of the game, as he capped off a six-play, 42-yard drive with a 7-yard touchdown run.

A possession later, rover Alex Kops set up the Tigers at midfield when he intercepted the Berry quarterback with 9:06 to play. From there, quarterback Cody Daniel found Caleb Beasley for a 16-yard touchdown pass.

A big key on offense was Sewanee's ability to keep drives going. The Tigers finished 8-of-14 on third down.

Sewanee also finished with three interceptions, one by Kops, Tony Dykes and Quentin Jones. Johnson led the offense with 157 yards of total offense and two scores. Brown also played well with two touchdowns and 90 total yards, including a game-high 73 rushing yards on 14 carries.

Sports Briefs

Two first-half goals helped rival Rhodes to a 3-0 victory over the Sewanee field hockey team on Nov. 9. The Tigers ended their season with an 8-8 overall record. Goalkeeper Gabrielle Fignar finished with 15 saves. That was the second highest single-match saves in her career.

Men's Soccer

A pair of first-half goals helped conference rival Oglethorpe defeat the Sewanee men's soccer team 2-0 on Nov. 8. The loss ends the No. 6-seeded Tigers' season.

Women's Soccer

After earning its first conference tournament semifinal berth since 1992, the Sewanee women's soccer team dropped a 1-0 match against conference rival Centre on Nov. 9. The Tigers ended their season with an 11-6-1 overall record.

After making its first conference tournament semifinal appearance since the 1997 season, the Sewanee volleyball team ended its 2013 campaign on Nov. 9 with a 3-0 loss against Hendrix. The Tigers wrapped up their season with an impressive 15-13 overall record. After the Warriors opened with a 25-16 first-set win, Hendrix was able to survive the final two games, 26-24 and 25-20.

Sewanee was undone by a poor attack percentage. Sewanee hit only .081 while Hendrix rallied for a .206 attack percentage. All-conference Diamond Stewart led the offense with nine kills and 12 digs. Jamie Kosman finished with 16 digs, while Jamie Sue Wilson (13) and Kayla Sewell (12) also added double-digit stops.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

In sports, you must have heroes. Many of us have grown up worshipping home run kings, basketball's aerial artists or quarterbacks known for clutch plays in the Super Bowl. This week, I have a new set of heroes. It is the folks who work and volunteer down at Animal Harbor in Belvidere.

A few weeks ago I was sitting at dinner at the home of a friend enjoying the affections of two four-legged family members. Oftentimes when the host's dog is snuggling up to you during dinner, the host becomes worried that this canine member of the family is bothering the guest. I think everyone could tell this was no bother for me. I was more interested in petting the dog's soft fur and feeling his wet nose against my hand than the delicious dinner on my plate. It has been nine months since our beloved dog Annie passed away, and I haven't been ready to replace her. I have felt like a widower who needed some time to move on. Annie lived a full life and gave all of us so much more than long walks and loyal companionship. She gave us eyes that speak and a wagging tail that conducted a symphony of affection.

My four daughters have been asking for some time now when we would adopt a dog again. We had Buster for 17 years and Annie for 13. These past few months felt like something was missing, different than two girls away in college. I drove down Highway 64 toward Huntland with apprehension about the decision I was about to make. Was this the right time? Were we all ready for the potty training, the chewing, the walks on cold nights, the times when we had to travel? Was I going to get a shedder, a biter or a barker?

I entered Animal Harbor with the attitude that I use when buying a car. I was prepared to leave empty-handed. (Ha! At a shelter full of cute dogs? Good luck with that!) I was greeted warmly and offered a tour of the kennel. I told myself that I would keep my hands in my pockets and not pet each and every one of these very cute orphans. One touch of soft dog fur and I would likely have an entire pack in the back seat for the ride back home.

Dog after dog, I was told their stories, their ages, their breeds (German-ChihuahuaLab) and was offered the chance to make an acquaintance. Each one of those guys had their feet up on the fence and voice in full throat saying, "Take me home!" I could hear Oliver Twist singing, "Please sir, Could I have some more?"

I was introduced to a dog the staff was calling Gabby because she talked so much. This dog was not going to let me slip by without a legit visit. I came into her pen and immediately was embraced with a full hug. Gabby was not one to shy away from contact, wagging tails and happy smiles of affection. This contest between my uncertainty about adoption and Gabby's desire for unconditional love was over before it started. Game, set and match. This is the kind of dog that doesn't just want to sit in your lap while you are driving home. She wants to crawl inside your skin and let you know that she adopted you, not the other way around. My girls were ecstatic, crying and snapping pictures for their sisters who live far away. We had a new girl (go figure!) in our house again. Annie was never a dog that liked a bed. She preferred the cold hard ground to sleep on.

We gave Gabby another name: Boo. Remember the 1971 song, "Me and You and a Dog named Boo" by Lobo? She loves a nice soft dog bed with her head resting on a pillow. She is not a chewer, and she came to us mature enough that house-training was long since done. Her one strange trait is that she likes to go into our closet and take out my shoe. I know what you are thinking. Instant destruction. But no, she simply takes my running shoe back to her soft dog bed and cuddles up with it any time we are away. How can you not love that?

So these guys down at Animal Harbor are busy every day, cleaning, feeding, saving, helping with adoptions and generally caring for hundreds of little orphan dogs and cats from across Franklin County. These guys are my heroes. They found me a new best friend.

Go see them. Adopt a new pet. Drop off a check to help support their cause or offer to volunteer when they need an extra hand. We are all lucky that they are there for us and for these four-legged friends. Now that is a real home run.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

At right, Ground Cedar.

Witch-Hazel and Ground Cedar

"The Witch-Hazel shrub is in full bloom now," Jean Yeatman reports. "The yellow flowers have petals that look like crunched-up spiders about one inch wide. This shrub grows in damp woods and along streams, and is the source of the aftershave Witch-Hazel lotion that some men use."

"Lycopodium or Ground Cedar is shedding its spores now," she continued. "If you tap the candelabra of cones, a large smoke-like cloud of yellow spores will float out. Back in the 1800s these spores were gathered in great numbers to be used as the flash material for large cameras of the day."

"This small upright plant grows like tiny evergreen trees topped by a thin-stemmed candelabra of cones. The leaves spread in well-balanced rounded or flat-topped upright fans that are blue-green in color. They grow in long string-like masses. People used to gather them to make Christmas wreaths," she concluded, "and to deck the halls with greenery."

Scorpions in Monteagle

Micahel Ostrowski reports that he never saw even one scorpion in the 18 months he lived in Sewanee. But since moving to Monteagle, he said, "We've got 'em in spades." The one in the photograph (at right) was in his garage, number 18 of the 22 he has found around his place this year.

Though this seems like a lot, last year, he counted 16 and the year before, there were 15.

Ostrowski's been told scorpions are very localized and "you either have them or you don't."

Pets of the Week

Meet Sox and Mallie

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Sox is a sweet, somewhat shy little girl cat. She loves to hang out with her brother, Boots. Kittens are available for a two-for-one adoption fee right now, so consider adopting them both. Sox is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Mallie is an adult Chinese Crested who is mostly hairless with just a few tufts on his head. He will need to stay in the house with a sweater on most of the time during cold weather. Mallie loves to be with his favorite person, and he gets along with his doggie brothers. He is up-to-date on shots and neutered.

For a limited time, two kittens may be adopted together for one adoption fee of $75. Having two kittens is better than one because they play together and keep each other company. Adult cats may be adopted for a $40 fee during this special.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at www.animalharbor.com. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets.

Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

GATHERING LEAVES

Spades take up leaves
No better than spoons,
And bags full of leaves
Are light as balloons.
I make a great noise
Of rustling all day
Like rabbit and deer
Running away.
But the mountains I raise
Elude my embrace,
Flowing over my arms
And into my face.
I may load and unload
Again and again
Till I fill the whole shed,
And what have I then?
Next to nothing for weight,
And since they grew duller
From contact with earth,
Next to nothing for color.
Next to nothing for use.
But a crop is a crop,
And who's to say where
The harvest will stop?

—Robert Frost
