

Residents Raise Concerns about the Sewanee Village Plan

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the Nov. 7 Sewanee Village Update meeting, Special Assistant to the Vice Chancellor Frank Gladu fielded residents' questions about hurdles the project posed.

Gladu described the Sewanee Village Plan as an "infill project" meaning a project rededicating space. Phase One of the Village Plan encompasses 45-acres in the downtown Sewanee vicinity. Projects the University hopes to see completed by 2022 include increasing residential housing and the redesign of the Highway 41A intersection.

Plans call for multi-family housing on the recently purchased tract of land on Prince Lane, Gladu said. "The conceptual drawing shows 39 units, six-plexes, eight-plexes, and maybe 12-plexes."

"I'm in favor of infill. It's the environmentally and socially right thing to do," said Sewanee resident Sid Brown. Brown, though, expressed concerns about drainage, pointing to standing water on the grassy site. "This is a low area. More concrete will mean more storm water needing places to go."

Resident Lucia Dale expressed similar concerns about the cluster of six to eight small cottage- court style homes proposed for a location across the street. "Drainage may kill the cottage court plan," Dale said.

Dale suggested a nearby site calling for two single-family homes would be a better location for the cottage court.

"The plan may not happen as drawn," Gladu said, "Input is important."

A Plantation and a Church: Reconciling Pasts Tied to Slavery, Confederacy

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

If the "Cathedral of the Confederacy" can confront its past, so can the University of the South, said Wallace Adams-Riley, former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Richmond, Va.

In his statement, Adams-Riley, a 1993 Sewanee graduate, was referencing an opinion article from the Nashville Scene, "If Sewanee Can Do it, Everyone Can Do It," in which writer Betsy Phillips talks about the Sewanee Project on Slavery, Race and Reconciliation. The project is aimed at delving into the University's history and deciding the future of campus monuments and memorials related to the Confederacy and slavery. Slaveholders and Confederate veterans helped found the University and some of its early leaders Community members gathered last year to help with the annual Greening of the Chapel in preparation for Lessons and Carols.

Greening of the Chapel

On Friday, Dec. 1, members of the Sewanee community are invited to join in the Greening of All Saints' Chapel in preparation for the 58th annual Festival of Lessons and Carols. Work begins at 9 a.m. and all levels of experience are welcomed and very much needed. Please bring any treasures from your garden (dried hydrangea, nandina and other berries, unusual evergreen clippings, etc.), which can be used to decorate wreaths and garlands. Coffee and pastries are served throughout the morning, and a light lunch will be offered at noon. Ken Taylor, of Taylor's Mercantile, will direct the day's activities.

A tour of All Saints' Chapel decorations will be available at 1:30 p.m., on Sunday, Dec. 3. It's an opportunity for folks to see the decorations up close, photograph them, and see how they are constructed. Meet in the narthex of the Chapel, where the tour will begin.

22nd Annual Holiday Studio Tour

Tennessee Craft-South invites the public to the 22nd annual Holiday Studio Tour on the Mountain Saturday, Dec. 2, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. CST and Sunday, Dec. 3, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. CST. Tennessee Craft-South is the regional branch of Tennessee Craft, the statewide organization which supports and promotes all handmade crafts in Tennessee.

At its inception, the local studio tour ranged from Chattanooga to Tullahoma, but gradually, the tour focused increasingly on the Monteagle and Sewanee area because of the concentration of artists and exhibition spaces on the mountain. More than 25 local and regional artists will show their work, ranging from textiles, sculpture, jewelry, pottery, and glass to paintings, metal work and wood work. Monteagle studios which have been added this year include those of Kim Phillips (paper arts) and Christi Teasley (paper cutting and textiles/print-making); returning for a second year is the Monteagle studio of Glyn and Will Melnyk (handwoven textiles). A new Sewanee studio, that of Diane Jones (calligraphy), joins other Sewanee artists' studios open to the public for the Tour, including those of Bob Askew, Pippa Browne, Ben Potter, Claire Reishman and Merissa Tobler. Other Sewanee locations displaying work are the American Legion Hall and Locals Gallery. Light refreshments will be available at most locations.

Additionally, there is a group exhibition of artists' work in the St. Andrew's-Sewanee Art Gallery, located in the center of the Simmonds Building at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School. Most sites host several different artists showing their work, while the SAS Art Gallery presents an exhibition from artists on the Studio Tour, in addition to SAS faculty and students and other members of Tennessee Craft-South. Most works featured in the Studio Tour Exhibition are for sale at the Gallery.

There are six sponsors for the Holiday Studio Tour this year: the Monteagle Inn, Mooney's, Shenanigans, Locals, the Sewanee Inn, and the Blue Chair. Studio Tour brochures are available at each of these local businesses and at all participating studios.

Bright yellow signs mark the tour route, and maps are available at all locations on the tour as well as at all sponsors' locations, in the Sewanee Mountain Messenger, and on the Tennessee Craft-South website <<http://tennesseecraft.org/members/chapters/south/>>.

Celebration of Technology Partnership

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

"We welcome our many new friends at Ben Lomand," said Vice-Chancellor John McCardell at the Nov. 14 ribbon cutting ceremony at duPont Library, celebrating the partnership with the local internet service provider Ben Lomand Connect. "The Ben Lomand connection gives the University redundancy and doubles our available bandwidth."

When the connection went live in August, Ben Lomand became the University's second fiber-optics provider.

School Board Considers Converting Schools to LED Lighting

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

Converting the Franklin County schools to LED lighting "would reduce your electric bills by enough to pay for the project," Scotty Caroom, with the Excel Energy Group (EEG), told the Franklin County School Board at the Nov. 13 meeting. Based on lighting energy-use records from Duck River Electric, the school system would save $93,000 annually, Caroom said. The school system qualified for 100 percent funding from the Energy Efficient School Initiative (EESI) and a $30,000 grant from TVA, according to Caroom, making the annual payment $85,000, yielding a net savings of $7,600.

EEG's proposal called for upgrading all school system lighting except the two middle schools and the ball fields. "Ball fields don't pay off," Caroom said. The middle schools are slated to be replaced by a consolidated middle school.

The school system's outstanding debt for upgrading to fluorescent lighting, which has 4.5 percent interest rate, would be absorbed into the new 1 percent interest loan, Caroom said. The new loan would have a 10-year term. The EEG proposal carries a 10-year warranty on parts and labor.

The switch to LED lighting would cut the school systems lighting-related electricity usage by 50-60 percent. Pointing to another advantage, Caroom said LED lights had a 20-25 year life span compared to 8-10 years for fluorescent lights.

Caroom said the Giles County School system chose to do the LED conversion themselves, drawing on the school system's fund balance. Most school systems "don't have the free money or the man power" to undertake the project on their own, he said. "I've never seen a county commission deny approval for an EEG conversion to LED. You're not asking for new money. With the EESI loan, there's no money up front."

"What rationale would allow the board to bypass the competitive procurement process?" asked Sewanee school board representative Adam Tucker. "Typically, there would be invitations to bid."

Caroom explained that "Under Tennessee state statute for school districts for projects whose purpose is energy conservation measures, both the engineering and the materials are procured the same as professional services, and with that you can select a qualified provider of your choosing."

The school system has five more

LETTER OF THANKS, CORRECTIONS

To the Editor:

Many thanks to all of you who were so kind to our family with your prayers, phone calls, cards and email during our sister Doris Ann Prince Edwards' illness and death.

We wish to correct errors inadvertently communicated by the funeral home. Half-sister Janis Stovall was omitted from the survivors. And Doris' children Brian and Pam, were incorrectly said to be living in Georgia when in fact they both live in Kansas.

Thank you all again. We are very fortunate to live in such a caring community.

BALSAM WREATH SALE HAS ENDED

To the Editor:

For more than 22 years, many of you in this community and surrounding areas have supported the annual wreath sale. Profits from this sale first supported the sixth graders at SES, then, sixth graders at SAS, and finally, the local CAC (Community Action Committee). Because many of you have begun to ask about this year's wreath sale, I need to let you know that the wreath fundraising project is not taking place this year. Rising costs in shipping and wreath supply simply do not make this project possible.

So many of you have been a part of this small Sewanee tradition over the years. The Sewanee Elementary School sixth graders who began this project are now 33 and 34 years old! That first year, as we thought of ways to make money to help us go on an environmental trip, we thought it would be fun to make wreaths ourselves. The University offered us the use of the old pine grove near the equestrian center as our source of the greens. No one predicted the energy, scope, and number of pine trees that it would take to fill all the orders that poured in. Students, teachers, parents, and volunteers spent several weeks stripping pine boughs, wiring "bunches" to frames, bagging, and finally, dispensing those handmade wonders. Very wisely, the following years we located a family-owned business in Maine (Mingoes Evergreen Products) who have been the suppliers of those sweet smelling balsam wreaths fresh from Maine. They also discounted their price last year so we could continue for one more year.

The original goal from these sales was to provide sixth graders with off-campus environmental experiences. That first group of 40 SES students spent three magical days camping on Cumberland Island, Ga. After that, SES and then, SAS sixth graders went to Tremont, a wonderful nature center in the Smokies. Then, funds helped SAS sixth graders buy enough camping gear, including stoves and tents, to switch this outdoor experience to three days camping on their own wooded campus land. SAS teachers Doug Burns and Michael Short continue this tradition. Realizing that we could switch the use of the profits from the wreath sale, SAS teacher Rachel Malde and I designed a project that would change the focus from helping sixth graders discover their natural environment to helping students realize their own potential as young philanthropists. Students explored a wide range of possible choices, made individual presentations, and finally were given a check with their share of the wreath profits to send to their chosen organization. Finally, for the past two years, the recipient from the wreath fund has been the CAC, located at St. Mark's Parish Hall.

As we enter this period of giving thanks, sharing gifts, and expressing our own faiths, I celebrate all of you who have been part of this incredible experience. For me, seeing those wreaths on so many doors and windows every year has been a small symbol of all that is so good about where we live. Thank you to all of you dear sixth graders, your families, the wreath "fluffers and baggers" of all ages, Larry the UPS man who had to deliver those big boxes, and this extended community for being part of this story.

*With appreciation and love,
Cindy Potter, Sewanee*

Church News

All Saints' Chapel

Growing in Grace will continue Sunday, Nov. 19, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints' Chapel. Eva Ortez, a senior in the college, will be the speaker. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members with student-led acoustic music, guest speakers, and Holy Communion. This Advent semester, our Growing in Grace speakers will address the times in life in which we are compelled to take "The Long Road." What pushes us to take the more arduous path when a shortcut is readily available? What do we encounter when we take a "scenic route" on our journey? We hope to explore these questions and many more this semester at Growing in Grace. Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> with any questions or more information. We hope to see you there.

The Catechumenate will not meet Wednesday, Nov. 22. We will resume on Wednesday, Nov. 29, at 7 p.m. in the Bairnwick Women's Center.

Thanksgiving Break—Morning and Evening Prayer will be suspended while the University is on break, beginning Wed, Nov. 22. These services will resume Tuesday, Nov. 28, in St. Augustine's Chapel. Next Sunday, Nov. 26, the Eucharist will be offered at 8 a.m. only at the High Altar. The 11 a.m. Eucharist will resume on Sunday, Dec. 3.

Cowan Community Thanksgiving Service

Cowan Ministerial Association invites you to a service of thankfulness at 6 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 19, at Cowan First Church of the Nazarene. The church is located on West Cumberland Street in Cowan. Overflow parking is available at First Baptist. For more information go to <www.cowanchurches.org>.

Otey Parish

The Adult Forum at Otey will focus on the significance of Martin Luther's Ninety-Five Theses and the 500th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation at 10 a.m., Sunday, Nov. 19. Brown Patterson will talk about the immediate impact of Luther's thought and actions and their long-range significance. Come for questions and discussion at St. Mark's Hall, Otey Parish Church. All are welcome!

This Sunday, Nov. 19, the Llection-ary Class will explore Sunday's gospel, in the Claiborne Parish House, Adult Education Room. Children ages 3–11 are invited to meet their friends for Godly Play. Youth Sunday School will meet in Brooks Hall. Infants 6 weeks to children 4 years old are invited to the nursery beginning at 8 a.m. until after the service.

Bring your Bible and your lunch; join us for a 10-week study of The Gospel according to Mark on Mondays, from noon–1 p.m., in the Adult Education Room of Claiborne Hall at Otey Parish. Led by Shelley Cammack <shelley@wardcammack.com>.

On Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23, Otey will have a 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Eucharist.

St. Mary's Convent

The sacredness of water has always been known and explored in a variety of cultures, religions and histories. It is often used in religious ceremonies for cleansing, renewal and rebirth. But what if we viewed all water on earth as sacred? What if we begin to see everything as holy and worthy of reverence?

Come be refreshed by our contemplative prayer service at 6 p.m., Friday, Nov. 17, at St. Mary's Convent. It is free and open to everyone.

Sister Madeleine Mary will be leading an Advent Quiet Day titled "Awake, Prepare, Behold" at St. Mary's Convent on Saturday, Dec. 2, from 9:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m. with lunch included. Cost is $40. The theme is to learn to become aware, conscious, discerning, and expectant as we await to receive Christ's birth and gift of life. The use of story, image, silence, and music will be the means for that endeavor. All are invited.

Tullahoma Sangha

Tullahoma Sangha, a Zen Buddhist meditation and study group, meets each Wednesday at 6 p.m. at Unitarian Universalist Church of Tullahoma. The service will consist of zazen (meditation), kinhin (walking meditation) and a short lesson and discussion. Newcomers are welcome; please call ahead and we will have a short orientation at 5:45 p.m. The church is located at 3536 New Manchester Hwy., Tulla-homa. For more information, or if you would like to be added to the email group, call (931) 455-8626.

Unitarian Universalist

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Tullahoma's speaker this week will be Doug Traversa on "It Takes a Congregation." The service begins Sunday at 10 a.m., followed by refreshments and a discussion period. The church is located at 3536 New Manchester Hwy., Tullahoma. For more information, call (931) 455-8626, or go to <www.tullahomauu.org>.

Winchester First Cumberland Presbyterian Church

The Winchester First Cumberland Presbyterian Church will host its annual gift gallery and bake sale, 8 a.m.–1 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 18. There will be baked goods, holiday items, crafts, and vintage clothes, bags, and more for sale. The church is located at 200 2nd Ave. NW, in Winchester.

Acknowledging drainage issues in the Parson's Green residential area developed in 2010, Gladu stressed that a "different management structure" was in place now. "We need to do a better job on this."

Gladu cited upstream storm water and downstream blockage as issues under review in a storm-water management study being conducted by the University.

Storm water is a major concern, Gladu agreed. "There are areas not built on now, and there's a reason why."

Dale also took issue with proposed redesign of the Highway 41A intersection, which calls for a narrowing of the highway from Kennerly Road to Kentucky Avenue.

Studies indicate narrowing the highway will slow down traffic, Gladu explained. "The highway will shrink to one lane in each direction."

"We're slowing down trucks and routing them through a green space," Dale complained, noting the plan called for a village green as the focal point of the intersection. "Is that for the enjoyment of the truckers? This doesn't make sense to me."

Gladu said the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) was funding and designing the project with money in their safety budget. He hopes to see turn lanes and pedestrian activated crosswalks in TDOT's design. He expects to receive the design by the end of December.

Turning to plans to relocate the bookstore to downtown between the post office and Tower Community Bank, Gladu said the building would have "a smaller footprint," predicting a 5,000-7,000 square foot structure compared to the 10,000 square foot building housing the present bookstore. That space was larger than necessary, Gladu noted, pointing to changes in the way students acquired their textbooks.

"The architect selection process is underway. We hope to have a bookstore design by mid-2018," Gladu said. He anticipated Barnes and Noble would "likely continue to operate the bookstore to start with," but said the contract allowed for modifications to the arrangement.

Asked about hurdles to the grocery store proposed for the lot across from the present Sewanee Market, Gladu listed two needs: one, finding an operator, and two, determining what conditions would make the apartments proposed for the upper two levels of the building rentable.

In response to concerns the Sewanee Market would be torn down before a new grocery store was built, Gladu said, "We're trying not to have any interruptions in service."

Gladu acknowledged the need for a new Village Plan map more accurately reflecting proposed changes and what would remain the same.

He intends to hold Sewanee Village Update meetings on the first Tuesday of each month.

"What I get out of it is your questions and comments," Gladu said. "I want to know what your concerns are."

The story began two years ago when an eight-hour internet service interruption at the University started a conversation about the need for a backup vendor. McCardell recalled making a trip to Nashville with Monteagle businessman John Greeter to visit Senator Janice Bowling.

Former owner of Monteagle Builders Supply, Greeter's working relationship with the University developed into a friendship with Vice-Chancellor Joel Cunningham and McCardell, in turn. "I like to help the University out in any way I can," Greeter said.

A big fan of Ben Lomand, Greeter encouraged the University to consider Ben Lomand for its backup vendor, as did Senator Bowling.

Champion of fiber-optic internet technology and Ben Lomand Connect in particular, Bowling quickly realized "this group needs to meet this group. It was magical when it came together."

"We had 8,781 devices connected last week," McCardell said, "and over 4,800 of those were smart devices. There's clearly a need and it's clearly being met. Two-thirds of our traffic is now over the Ben Lomand connection."

"We're not just providers of service, but true partners," said Ben Lomand General Manager and CEO Lisa Cope. "If you need us we'll be there."

Citing Ben Lomand's reputation for top of the line service, Ben Lomand Tracy City District Manager Mike Birdwell said, "The University currently has one gigabit of bandwidth, but with just a phone call we can turn it up to 10 gigs."

Cope hinted at the possible expansion of Ben Lomand fiber-optic service to non-University customers. "This partnership can be very meaningful to the communities around the University, as well."

"Fiber costs a lot of money to run. We've talked about pre-selling," Birdwell said. "We'd like to move out into the community. The conversation is in the early stages."

"The University-Ben Lomand relationship is a partnership between a world institution and a world class provider," Senator Bowling said. "Fiber is to the 21st century what electricity was to the 20th century. Not having fiber is like not having an interstate system. DSL is a pig trail."

"If we decide we're prepared to act on this in December, we could take it to the county commission in January," said Board Chair Cleijo Walker.

"We'll do what we can to accommodate you," Caroom said. "It will take four weeks to get the materials and five to six weeks to do the installation. We need about two and half months lead time."

Revisiting a question regarding the Special Use of School Vehicles policy which stated "School buses may be used only for the transportation of school personnel on authorized school business," Assistant Superintendent Linda Foster recommended revising the policy to allow both school employees as well as others on official school business to use the buses. The board approved the change.

The board also approved minor verbiage changes in several Instructional Program policies. Board member Chris Guess questioned the name of the Advanced College Placement policy which allows gifted high school seniors "to complete the 12th grade at a participating institution of higher learning." Guess said the name invited confusion with advancement placement classes taken within the high school setting to earn college credit.

Foster will consult with the Tennessee School Board Association about the name confusion.

The board meets next for a work session on Dec. 4.

Annual Christmas Bazaar

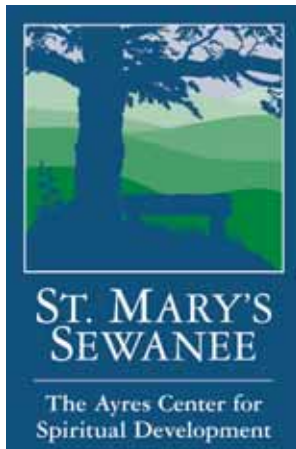

The annual Christmas Bazaar will be 9 a.m.-2 p.m., Monday-Saturday, Dec. 4-9, at the Sewanee Senior Center.

Bake sale items will include cookies, cakes, pies and candies. There will also be crafts, canned goods (jams and jellies), handmade items and white elephant items for sale.

Tickets to enter the daily door prize drawing and a drawing for a homemade quilt or $250 cash are $2 each. The drawing will be on Tuesday, Dec. 19, during the Center's Christmas lunch.

Donations for the bazaar are welcome and greatly appreciated. Please bring any white elephant items, needlework or other non-perishable items (no clothing please) any day before the bazaar begins. Baked items, home-canned foods, preserves, jellies and jams should be brought the week of the bazaar.

The Center is open Mondays through Fridays. Please call 598-0771 with any questions.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

DO YOU HEAR WHAT I HEAR?

Hearing loss is experienced by over 28 million Americans. At least one in 10 persons experience hearing loss in the United States. For most persons, hearing loss occurs so gradually that it is first noticed by family and friends. By the age of 50 or 60 your hearing may have changed enough that it is difficult to have conversations with family and friends. Common signs of hearing loss include the following:

Frequently asking others to repeat themselves;
Avoiding or withdrawing from social situations;
Misunderstanding conversations;
Difficulty understanding speech in noisy places;
Frequently denying hearing problems;
Family and friends complain that the TV and or radio are too loud.

Your ability to hear is as unique as your fingerprints. We recommend the services of the audiologist at Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center LLC. We are located at 705 NW Atlantic St. Suite B, Tullahoma. Call us at 931-393-2051. You can also visit our website at www.thehearingcenterllc.com.

and professors were also Confederate veterans.

Adams-Riley spoke at the project's third forum on Nov. 7 at Gailor Hall, in which he outlined St. Paul's efforts at reconciling with its own history. Leaders of the Confederacy worshipped at the church, including Gen. Robert E. Lee, Confederate President Jefferson Davis, and Gen. Josiah Gorgas, who went on to become vice chancellor at Sewanee and whose name adorns Gorgas Hall on campus.

Adams-Riley asked parishioners if it was time to address the church's own monuments and memorials following the racially-motivated shootings in 2015 at Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church in Charleston, S.C.

"Might God be calling us to have a conversation unlike any we've ever had before about all of the Confederate memorials and imagery inside St. Paul's Church?" he recalled asking. "What is it like for an African American, man, woman or child, to walk into our church and to see all of this? ... Do they feel welcome and fully and equally valued as anyone else? Welcome in this house of God with those things on the walls?"

Following many discussions, meetings and two public forums, St. Paul's decided to remove all images of the Confederate Battle Flag from inside the church, he said. They also resolved to study the church's history more deeply and create a memorial to slaves who helped build the church in the 1840s.

"In the aftermath of all this St. Paul's was repeatedly accused of erasing history. The irony is people of St. Paul's know their history now better than ever before. There's no two ways about it," he said.

The effort at St. Paul's also includes creating liturgical and musical expressions of reconciliation and history, Adams-Riley added. The St. Paul's project is scheduled to conclude in 2020.

When asked whether images and memorials to Confederate soldiers inside Sewanee's All Saints' Chapel should remain, Adams-Riley said there is no one solution for every community and input is needed from all sides, but he has his own views.

"I believe that any image of the Confederate Battle Flag has to be put away forever," he said. "And likewise, any image or representation of a Confederate soldier in uniform, forever. Now they can be in museums or on private property but in terms of public spaces, and I'm saying this as a direct descendant of 11 Confederate soldiers; this is my heritage."

"What I'm saying is, for the sake of the common good, for the sake of reconciliations, for the sake of all members of our community, I think we have to make choices," he added.

The second speaker at the Nov. 7 forum was Winslow Hastie, whose family has owned Magnolia Plantation and Gardens since 1676. The popular tourist attraction near Charleston, S.C., also underwent a historical fact and soul-finding mission. Hastie, who has worked in historical preservation in both San Francisco and Charleston, helped spearhead a project to restore the old slave cabins at the plantation and launch deeper investigation into slave life and genealogy there.

He said he received pushback from people in his own family, who preferred to keep the past quiet.

"That was sort of an unpleasant topic we really didn't want to talk about. That was kind of a raw thing, it was uncomfortable for a lot of people," he said.

Hastie, a 1995 Sewanee graduate, said he wrestled with his family's past, but wanted a transparent and honest view of history.

In 1872, the plantation and gardens opened as a tourist attraction. Some of the freed slaves continued to work there, Hastie noted, and descendants continue to work there today—some actually lived in the slave cabins until the mid-1990s.

The restoration of the cabins and surrounding research opened up a number of connections, Hastie said. People whose family members were buried in unmarked graves in one of the plantation's cemeteries were encouraged to visit and Magnolia became a gathering place for descendants of the slaves there.

In addition, interpretative programs, as well as a program called Lowcountry Africana, a genealogy library and archive for African Americans in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, grew out of the slave research at Magnolia, Hastie said.

Responding to an audience question, Hastie said there have been no conversations about reparations to descendants of slaves, but said Magnolia Plantation does offer two scholarships for African American students, one to the College of Charleston and the other to Trident Technical College.

Woody Register, director of Sewanee's Project on Slavery, Race and Reconciliation, said the project's working group expects to submit recommendations about the University's memorials and monuments at the end of this academic year. The project is scheduled to continue for six years.

Gather Firewood

A recent University timber harvest at the end of Breakfield Road has left an abundance of oak and hickory treetops easily accessible from some of the firelanes. If you would like the opportunity to gather firewood behind a gate between now and the end of the year, please send an email of interest to <domain@sewanee.edu>.

New Sewanee Rotaract Club Chartered

The Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary is proud to announce a new Rotaract club at The University of the South. The club was chartered in a ceremony on Nov. 1 in the BC Hearth Room, with Vice-Chancellor John McCardell, Rotary District Governor Katy Alexander-Davis, Club President John Hille, and new Rotaract Club President Sam Kerns contributing to the proceedings. Rotaract Youth Ambassador and recent Youth Exchange Student Katie Sneed also spoke to welcome the new club on behalf of Rotaract International. There were more than 30 charter members in attendance. Bill Davis, membership chair of the local club, has worked with the University Dean of Students Marichal Gentry and Kerns for the last several months bring the new Rotaract group together.

Rotaract engages adults ages 18-30 to take action in their communities, develop their leadership and professional skills, and have fun. Rotary clubs sponsor them, but Rotaract members manage and fund their clubs independently. There are currently 9,522 Rotaract clubs worldwide with 291,000 members in 177 countries. Already, the University of the South Rotaract Club has worked on several local projects.

Operation Noel

Providing Abundant Holidays for All

In just a few weeks, it will be Christmas. While many are already planning ahead about gifts to buy and food to eat, there are those not so fortunate. In our area, there are children who may not get presents and families that may not have an abundant holiday meal.

Each year the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department (SVFD), in conjunction with FROST (the department's Fund Raising Operational Support Team), organize the purchasing and distribution of food and toys for these families. All items will be delivered the morning of Dec. 23 by the SVFD and FROST.

But this important program cannot happen without help from the community. Please consider making a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new toys to Operation Noel this year and give back to your community this Christmas season.

Families eligible for Operation Noel must live in the following communities: Sewanee, Midway, Jump Off and Sherwood Road to the top of Sherwood Mountain (but not into Sherwood).

Every family needs to fill out a new application, even if they have received from Operation Noel before. An application ensures organizers have all the pertinent information so they can provide for everyone in need. The application is found below. The deadline for returning applications is Monday, Dec. 11.

If you would like to make a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new unwrapped toys, please take items to the Fire Hall or the Police Department, both located behind duPont Library, or Print Services, located in the old Beta House. For more information call 598-3400 and leave a message.

Support Local Businesses and Charities

Saturday, Nov. 25, is the eighth annual Small Business Saturday. Shop Small Saturday is dedicated to supporting local businesses that create jobs, boost the economy, and preserve neighborhoods around the country by encouraging people to shop locally first. Learn more at <ShopSmall.com>.

#GivingTuesday is a global day of giving. Occurring this year on Nov. 28, #GivingTuesday is held annually on the Tuesday after Thanksgiving (in the U.S.) and the widely recognized shopping events Black Friday and Cyber Monday to kick-off the holiday giving season and inspire people to collaborate in improving their local communities and to give back in impactful ways to the charities and causes they support. For more information on local charities participating in #GivingTuesday go to <https://www.givingtuesday.org/whats-happening-near-me>.

Many charities use PayPal as a way to collect donations. Use <http://paypal.com/giving> and 100 percent of your donation goes to the charity you choose when you donate with PayPal Giving Fund.

AmazonSmile is a website operated by Amazon with the same products, prices and shopping features as <Amazon.com>. The difference is that when you shop on AmazonSmile, the AmazonSmile Foundation will donate 0.5 percent of the purchase price of eligible products to the charitable organization of your choice. 58th Annual Festival of Lessons and Carols

The 58th annual Festival of Lessons and Carols at the University of the South will be celebrated at three services, two on Dec. 2 (5 and 8 p.m.), and one on Dec. 3 (5 p.m.).

After accommodating ticket requests from students, faculty, staff, and their families, the University expects that the number of places available to the public for reservation may be severely limited. If space at any of the services will be available to the general public, guests will be able to reserve a maximum of two seats online <http://www.sewanee.edu/student-life/spiritual-life/festival-service-of-lessons-and-carols/> which began Nov. 15. All tickets will be available for pickup at Convocation Hall. Unused tickets, if any, will be made available to walk-up guests (guests without a reservation) before each service. Walk-up guests must check in at Convocation Hall 30 minutes before the service to be placed on a waiting list.

The Festival Service of Lessons and Carols offers the opportunity to experience one of the oldest traditions of Anglican music and Advent expectation. As part of the University's outreach, All Saints' Chapel is pleased to welcome the public by offering any available places in the service for reservation.

Build Your Own Business

The community is invited to attend the Friends of Canon Gideon Foundation fundraiser at 5 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 18, at St. Mark's Hall, Otey Parish. Tickets are $50 per person, $75 per couple, students free, and are available at the door.

There will be music provided by Bazzania, and Sewanee Praise. A jambalaya dinner will be served. Proceeds from the event will be used to fund a business instructor and three enterprise start-up loans for Hope Institute students in Uganda.

Annual Light Up the Village, Dec. 1

The community is invited to the annual Light Up the Village holiday tree lighting. Music will begin in Angel Park in downtown Sewanee around 4:45 p.m. The Sewanee Chorale will lead everyone in the Christmas caroling.

The tree lighting at Angel Park will be at 5 p.m. Cookies and hot beverages will be available afterward, and Santa and friends will be posing for photos.

University Avenue will be closed, 4-7 p.m., Friday, Dec. 1, from Regions Bank to State Highway 41A for the event.

Please bring unwrapped toys and monetary donations for Operation Noel. Gifts of money and nonperishable food will also be collected for the Community Action Committee.

In case of inclement weather, the post-tree-lighting activities will move inside to the Blue Chair Bakery and Tavern.

This event is sponsored by the Sewanee Business Alliance.

Fifth-grade students in Jessica Ruehling's RLA class at Coalmont Elementary School work on essays "What I am Thankful For" on the recently purchased Google Chromebooks with Title I funding. According to Principal Russell Ladd, the advanced technology provides fourth and fifth graders with access to Google Classroom and an opportunity to prepare for future online state assessment testing.

CES Students Prepare for Thanksgiving with Chromebooks

Fifth-grade students at Coalmont Elementary are preparing for Thanksgiving this year using Chromebooks, according Russell Ladd, principal.

Ladd purchased a full set of Internet-ready Chromebooks for in-class use for both classes of fourth and fifth grades during the 2017-18 academic year with Title I funding. He noted this purchase helps prepare the students for Grundy County's technology initiative where all students have Chromebooks and access to Google Classroom.

"We wanted our fourth and fifth grades to begin learning with the books in class and completing lessons online, including assignments as prerequisites to learning for the upper grades," Ladd said. "As educators, we also realize that state assessments soon will require our students be proficient in technology, and our end-of-course, and possibly TCAPs will be administered online. We just want to be prepared."

Jessica Ruehling, fifth-grade Reading Language Arts, RLA, teacher, has been working with the students to complete the writing task of "What I am Thankful For," using the Chromebooks and the Google Docs application. Students have been learning to work through Google Classroom so that Ruehling can check their essays, and the students can print them.

In addition to RLA, students are using the Chromebooks for assignments in math and science.

"Both of our fifth-grade teachers have established Google Classrooms, and they are training the students to work within assignments, complete them online, and submit them," Ladd said. "This group of fifth-grade students will move into the sixth grade here at Coalmont Elementary with a working knowledge of the setup, operation and function of the Google Classroom Community, ready to hit the ground running next academic year."

2,500 Mentors Needed for TN Promise

With a record number of Tennessee students applying for TN Promise, tnAchieves, the partnering organization that administers Governor Haslam's TN Promise locally, needs 2,500 volunteer mentors to ensure each student has a local support system.

This year more than 62,000 students applied for TN Promise. Each applicant is paired with a volunteer mentor that spends one hour per month helping ease the transition from high school to college. Mentors remind students of important deadlines, serve as a trusted college resource and encourage students to reach their potential.

Statewide the program has recruited 72 percent of the volunteers needed to meet student demand. Locally, Franklin County has fallen behind and has only found 44 percent, meaning 38 mentors are still needed.

tnAchieves trains all mentors, provides them with a handbook and sends weekly updates to ensure that the mentor is armed with the tools necessary to work with their students. Interested volunteers can apply and find more information at www.tnachieves.org/mentors/apply.

tnAchieves is a privately-funded scholarship and mentoring program that seeks to provide an opportunity for every Tennessee student to earn a post-secondary degree.

If you have questions about the tnAchieves mentoring program, please email Graham Thomas at graham@tnachieves.org.

Acapella Festival Recital

The University of the South will host an Acapella festival at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 18, in Guerry Auditorium. The festival will feature student acapella groups as well as two guest ensembles. The award-winning quartet Rooftop Records will be coaching the Sewanee ensembles all day at the University. This will be an opportunity for the students to learn from a professional quartet and to then sing that evening in the recital. The three-time Grammy winning quartet The Fairfield Four will close the recital. The Fairfield Four is known for performing some of the music for the movie “O Brother, Where Art Thou?” The event is free and open to the public.

EnVaGe Presents ‘Chamber Variations’

EnVaGe is pleased to announce their performance of “Chamber Variations,” a chamber music concert featuring works by Franz Schubert, Franz Liszt, and Chattanooga composer Tim Hinck. Included in the EnVaGe ensemble are University of the South soprano Jessica Usherwood, assistant professor of music and Bernadette Lo, visiting assistant professor of piano.

The concert will take place at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 18, in the Roland Hayes Concert Hall of the UTC Fine Arts Center. The performance will be preceded by “What’s It All About?,” a pre-concert introductory lecture about the evening’s program, beginning at 7 p.m., also in the Hayes Hall.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults, $12 for seniors, faculty and staff, and $10 for students. Tickets can be purchased online at <www.utc.edu/fine-arts-center> or by calling the UTC Box Office at (423) 425-4269 (10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays).

The Roland Hayes Concert Hall is located at 752 Vine Street, Chattanooga. For more information email <info@envage.org> or go to the website <www.envage.org>.

Voice Studio Recital

Jessica Usherwood, assistant professor of music at the University of the South, will present the second annual “A Celebration of Song” at 3 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 19, in St. Luke’s Chapel. Song selections will include works by Monteverdi, Quilter, Dowland, Vaughan Williams, Stephen Sondheim, Richard Rodgers and Irving Berlin. The recital is free and open to the public.

“I am Christmas tree.”

William Ralston Listening Library Events

Today (Friday), Nov. 17, at 6 p.m., come listen to selections by the Acapella group The Fairfield Four in preparation for the 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 18, Acapella Festival Recital in Guerry Auditorium.

There will be a screening of the Giacomo Puccini’s La bohème conducted by Herbert von Karajan at 5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 19.

A film screening of “You See Me Laughin’: The Last of the Hill Country Bluesmen” will be shown at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 21. “You See Me Laughin’” is a personal journey into the lives and music of the last of the hill country bluesman who’ve kept their music alive on the back porches and in the tiny juke joints of the Mississippi backwoods.

The William Ralston Listening Library is located on the second floor of duPont Library. Keep up with the Ralston Listening Library’s weekly schedule on the webpage <<http://www.sewanee.edu/ralstonlisteninglibrary/>> or <<https://www.facebook.com/theralstonroom/>>.

Cowan Holiday Events

Celebrate Small Business Saturday in downtown Cowan on Nov. 25. Steer clear of Black Friday madness, take a break from big city traffic, and enjoy small town shopping in true holiday spirit. Cowan businesses will have special sale items, refreshments and door prizes.

The Cowan Christmas Market at Monterey Station will be Dec. 1 and Dec. 2. Here you can turn gift shopping into a great experience. Browse and buy from more than 40 crafters and specialty vendors. The market place is open on Friday from 3:30 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. For more information go to <www.cowanparade.org>.

The 53rd annual Cowan Christmas Parade will be at 1 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 2. One of Tennessee’s oldest parades brings you “A Gift that Keeps on Giving.” Share in the fun of an exciting small town event with floats, bands, tin lizzies, tumbling teams and thousands of smiles. The parade goes down Cumberland Street beginning at The Rail Car on the west side and ending at Cowan Public School. For more information, including entry forms, log on to <www.cowanparade.org>.

Makins in Concert

Award-winning lyricist and songwriter Daniel Makins will perform a concert of original music at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 29, in Hamilton Hall’s Hargrove Auditorium at The School of Theology. His songs explore discernment, intention, and faith with wit and honesty. Admission is free and open to the public.

Makins is a three-time finalist at the prestigious Kerrville Folk Festival New Folk Competition, a winner of the Wildflower and Gig Harbor Folk Festivals, and the Daily Texan calls him, “One of the top five new artists most likely to be seen on Austin City Limits.”

Makins is a relative of famed music archivist, John A. Lomax, and was raised in a musical family. Trained as a classical pianist and jazz drummer, he is now a notable finger-style guitarist and a professional, touring singer-songwriter. He has recorded eight albums and been included on a compilation released by the Center for Texas Music History. For more information go to <danielmakins.com>.

The Farm School's Annual Holiday Bazaar

During the years, The Farm School's Holiday Bazaar has become known as a showcase for unique, high-quality wares by vendors from throughout Tennessee. On Saturday, Dec. 2 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 3, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., The Farm School Solar Campus in Summertown will host its annual Holiday Bazaar.

As part of the yearly tradition, the kitchen in the Solar School is transformed into a cozy café where coffee, breakfast breads, and tasty desserts are served throughout the day. The café is the spot to take a break from shopping and take in a live acoustic and vocal performance featuring some local talent. Other food vendors offer delicious lunches such as tamale plates and pizza rolls.

New vendors are encouraged to apply for a spot at the Bazaar by contacting Vendor Coordinator Alayne Griffin via email at <HolidayBazaar@thefarmschool.community> or online registration at <https://thefarmschool.community/holiday-bazaar-vendor-registration/>.

The Farm School is located on The Farm Community at 151 Schoolhouse Rd., Summertown, Tenn. More information about the school and the bazaar can be found at the school's website <http://thefarmschool.community>.

LOOKSATBOOKS

by Pat Wiser for Friends of duPont Library

Gifts that Last

I confess to succumbing this year to the gaudy Christmas decorations which appeared, as usual, long before Thanksgiving. The memory of last year's early shortage of just-right Christmas Eve pajamas for kids inspired me to plunge in. Velour in unrelieved black (we hope the 13-year-old exits this phase soon) and a small purple and pink confection await wrapping. Now to the fun stuff.

Books complete the gift list for all, and a title for multi-age families often fills the bill, sometimes with extra offerings for junior members. This year's choice for three generations, ages 5 to 75, is "The Art of Beatrix Potter: Sketches, Paintings and Illustrations." This captivating celebration of the creator of the beloved Peter Rabbit was published last year, the 150th anniversary of Potter's birth. Here are the rough sketches of Mister McGregor chasing the mischievous Peter and detailed drawings of the famous bunny's forerunner, her pet Peter Piper Rabbit. Here are bright water color studies of a backyard squirrel for "The Tale of Squirrel Nutkin" with interesting analysis of the artist's technique. Landscapes and gardens abound, and the many drawings of fungi, masterpieces of color, texture, and shape, were a delightful surprise.

Some sketches were not intended for books. A mouse reading under the light of a Bunsen burner adorned a thank you note to her uncle, Henry Roscoe, a chemist who had studied under Robert Bunson. Roscoe's assistance with her scientific efforts included arranging presentation of her paper on fungi to the London Linnean Society in 1897. She wasn't allowed to attend the session, and although some scientists were receptive to her work, interest in its publication was weak. A century later, the Linnean Society recorded a posthumous apology to the multi-talented naturalist for treatment of her scholarship.

All ages are sure to enjoy this interesting book, and I'm looking into titles to add to home libraries for little ones. The engaging "Tale of Mrs. Tigger-Winkle," based on Potter's own hedgehog Tigger, is enhanced by watercolors of Lake District scenery. The artist's beloved Hilltop Farm serves as the setting for "The Tale of Tom Kitten," just the book for kids who love their kitties. For a collection, "A Beatrix Potter Treasury" presents ten of the prized stories in order of publication. Some readers object to the small illustrations, and I see that they are included on the same page with considerable text. The solution, if at all possible: read these to a child (or two) sitting on your lap. The background material, of interest to adults, is plentiful.

Boxed sets are often successful gifts. "Peter Rabbit Naturally Better Classic Gift Set" contains four of the prized stories. (Minus an explanation, I assume that "Naturally Better" ask us to trust that environmental standards come into play.) This set of four measures 4.5" X 6" each, and the 23 volumes of "The World of Peter Rabbit" are slightly smaller. Some readers dislike the small scale books; others like them for outings. Younger kids often prefer them, although they aren't sized for story time. Potter insisted that publishers make them for little hands, and my earlier copies are small.

Of more concern is the frequency of complaints about the quality of the binding and print. A scholar reports that the sets reviewed here were printed in China. For an alternative, I find that friends and family are happy with used copies of treasured books, which sometimes have better bindings. I order early in case a volume doesn't measure up to the advertised "very good" condition. Online shoppers may often view pages and can check page dimensions and titles included in book sets. Reader reviews are sometimes very helpful.

Black velour and pink and purple fleece pajamas come and go. Books become cherished possessions to be shared now and passed on for generations. Merry shopping and happy reading.

SAS Girls Move to 3-0

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school girls' basketball team secured their second win of the season on Nov. 7 against Palmer, winning 28-8. Lakin Laurendine led the Mountain Lions with 20 points. Madison King added eight points.

The Mountain Lion defense was fantastic as Hannah Mullens, Riley Burnette and Lucy Cassell limited Palmer to only eight.

SAS went to 3-0 on Nov. 9 against Pelham, winning handily, 30-10. The team's balanced scoring included 12 points from Laurendine, six from King, four points from Hadlee Hale and two each from Nailah Hamilton and Cassell.

Swimmers Hit the Water for Snowflake

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School hosted 10 middle school swim teams for the annual Snowflake Invitational on Nov. 10.

In final combined points, SAS finished sixth with 113 points, while the Oakland Chargers earned first place with 521 points. Many of the SAS swimmers were competing in their first meet of the season and standout performances are included below.

Jackson Frazier placed second in the 50-yard breaststroke (33.89 seconds), fourth in the 200-yard individual medley (2:42.35) and third in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:15.18).

Kathleen Perkins, in her first meet with SAS, finished fourth in the 50-yard breaststroke with a time of 42.69 seconds, along with placing sixth in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 3:06.70. Libby Neubauer finished second in the girls' 500-yard freestyle with a time of 7:20.46, fourth in the 50-yard backstroke (37.06) and seventh in the 100-yard backstroke (1:28.23).

Elliott Benson set a personal best in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 39.97 seconds. Reese Michaels, in her first meet as an SAS swimmer, placed fifth in the 50-yard backstroke (37.68) and tenth in the 50-yard fly (41.47).

"It is great for the program to see so many kids join the team this year" said coach Jake Miller after the meet.

Thirteen new middle school swimmers competed for SAS for the first time. Up next is a home meet at the Fowler Center on Nov. 30.

On Oct. 30, Tracy City Elementary hosted a parent involvement activity that consisted of an overview of the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program, Academic Improvement Awards, and the introduction of the basketball teams and cheerleaders. The Tracy City Elementary cheerleading squad is pictured.

Sewanee Tennis Players Ranked

The first rankings of the season for the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) were recently announced, presented by Oracle. Three Sewanee women's tennis players were listed in the Atlantic South Region Rankings, while two of the three also earned a national ranking.

Catherine Owen, who finished as a singles semifinalist in the ITA Regionals, leads Sewanee with a No. 32 mark in the top-50 national rankings. The Tunica, Miss., native is also the seventh-best player in the Atlantic South region.

Clementina Davila, a native of Mexico City, begins her senior campaign ranked 38th nationally and 10th regionally. The duo of Owen/Davila are ranked 14th nationally in doubles, and fourth regionally. Also receiving a regional ranking is Christina Merchant, who is 15th in the Atlantic South region.

SAS Middle Boys' Basketball Team Notches First Win

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school boys' basketball team defeated visiting Palmer by a score of 47-24 on Nov. 7.

The Mountain Lions (1-1) were locked in a tight game at the half tied 14-14, but turned up the defense in the second half to pull away. Mac Croom spearheaded the defense, stealing passes and then passing forward to Elijah Seavey, who ended up with a game-high 19 points, including a 3-pointer.

Ethan Hargis, Cason Harmon and Cecil Rodgers also contributed baskets from beyond the arc in the win.

Colin DeLorme, Gus Croom and Rylan Thomas come off the bench to help spark the defensive effort.

University Athletics Group Collecting Food

The Sewanee Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) is sponsoring a canned food drive for the month of November to donate canned goods to the Grundy County Food Bank.

From now until Nov. 20, fans will have the opportunity to donate canned goods for the Food Bank. A box is placed at the Control Center Desk at the main entrance of the Fowler Center.

Donations will be accepted during the weekend of Nov. 17-19, during the Igloo Invitational and the Lon Varnell Classic.

In 2016, the SAAC donated 544 canned goods, and we are looking to collect more cans this year.

For more information, contact SAAC advisor and head men's soccer coach Tony Pacella at (931) 598-1582 or dapacell@sewanee.edu.

Stewart Named All-American Honorable Mention

The American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) recently announced the NCAA Division III AVCA All-Americans. After being named the South Region Freshman of the Year, Sewanee outside hitter Destiny Stewart was selected as an honorable mention.

In total, 98 players were named Honorable Mention to go with 42 players named to the All-America Team for a total of 140 NCAA Division III student-athletes.

Stewart, who was also named Newcomer of the Year by the Southern Athletic Association (SAA), completed her freshman campaign with a conference-best 424 kills, 4.33 per set. The Alpharetta, Ga., native finished with 474 points, averaging 4.8 points per set, which was also best in the conference.

On the attack, she finished with 1,048 attacks and a .272 attack percentage, good for third in the SAA.

Nationally, the freshman finished the regular season ranked 10th in kills per set, 12th in points per set, 36th in total kills and 50th in attacks per set.

On the season, Stewart finished with 13 double-doubles. Of her 27 matches, she only had three single-digit kill performances, while posting 20 or more kills seven times. There were three matches this season where she hit over .500: .651 vs. Huntingdon (31 kills-3 errors-43 attacks), .588 vs. Berea (11-1-17) and .528 at Oglethorpe (22-3-36).

Legrone All-Region in Cross Country

The cross country season concluded on Nov. 11 with the NCAA Division III South/Southeast Region Championships in Newport News, Va.

Sewanee's Owen Legrone earned All-Region (top 50 runners in region) with a time of 25 minutes, 31.9 seconds, finishing 35th out of 220 runners.

Sewanee Swim and Dive Teams Win at Transylvania

The Sewanee swimming and diving teams completed their weekend trip in Kentucky with wins over Transylvania in a dual meet on Nov. 11. The women won 138-88, while the men's team took down the Pioneers, 148-47. The Tiger women lost to Centre College the day before, 183-49, while the men fell, 148-79.

On the Sewanee women's side at the Transylvania meet: Freshman Bailey Stevens won two events, the 500-yard and 1,000-yard freestyles. Stevens swam a time of 5 minutes, 35.8 seconds in the 500 and an 11:29.62 mark in the 1,000.

Meghan Mulhern also won two events, the 100-yard and 200-yard freestyles. She swam to a 55.75 mark in the 100 and 2:03.98 in the 200.

The team of Ashley Krueger, Kate del Balzo, Stevens and Mulhern won the 400-yard freestyle relay, finishing with a 3:58.55 time.

Sewanee men's top performances at Transylvania: James Hoyt was a part of three victories. In the 200-yard medley relay, he, along with Carl Failing, Kipling Klimas and Robert Coles, swam to a 1:42.69 mark. He also won the 200-yard freestyle (1:51.63) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:02.51).

Jacob Finco recorded two wins in the 100-yard freestyle and assisted in winning the 400-yard freestyle relay with Owen Pearson, Lee Haber and Coles. In the 100-yard, he swam to a 50.64-second finish. In the relay, the team swam a 3:27.86.

The Tigers will compete at the Fowler Center today (Friday) and tomorrow in the Igloo Invitational.

Sewanee's Jed Henrichsen (shown in a previous meet) won first place in the one-meter dive at Centre College on Nov. 10. Photo by Lyn Hutchinson from the March 4, 2011 issue, in honor of Jean and Harry Yeatman, whose wedding anniversary is Nov. 24.

Wild Turkey Sighting

Harry Yeatman reports that in the early morning of Feb.23, Jean Yeatman looked out her window to observe birds. Right by the house was a flock of six Wild Turkeys, scratching in the dry leaves to uncover acorns and insect grubs. Three were adult males, called Toms. They had black chest “beards” which almost touched the ground. The other three were immature males, which can have short beards. They are called Jakes. Jean called Harry, and they observed these handsome birds at close range. Finally, the birds moved to the woods. Wild Turkeys are slimmer and darker than domestic turkeys. Turkeys prefer open woods with clearings. During most of the year gobblers (males) flock together away from the hens and young. Flocks roost in trees, feeding in early morning and late evening. These hatch out and are cared for by the females until they can fly and run. Nests are in a depression near a clearing, and eight to 15 oval, lightly spotted eggs are laid in early spring and incubated by the hens. Turkeys run a lot, but adults can fly at speeds of 55 miles per hour. Four subspecies occur in the United States. These are identified by location and by plumage, colors and patterns. About 40 years ago there was a huge male turkey who was named “Beauregard” by hunters to honor the long-deceased Confederate general. This famous gobbler inhabited the upper parts of Lost Cove, and survived all attempts by hunters and predators to kill him. One hunter used a turkey call in an attempt to attract him past hidden hunters, but he detected the hunters and foiled the plan. He was seen by the Yeatmans and many other people, but finally disappeared, probably dying of old age.

Pets of the Week

Meet Zane & Pockets

Special Nov. 11–18! To celebrate Veterans Day, Animal Harbor will honor military service by offering a 30 percent reduction in the adoption fee on pets adopted by active or retired military personnel.

Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Meet Zane! This handsome fellow is a five-year-old Beagle mix. His heart is bigger than his ears! Zane enjoys going for walks, gets along with other animals, and loves to curl up in your lap. Zane is up-to-date on shots, heartworm-negative and neutered.

Pockets is a pint-sized four-month-old female Calico kitten with a pocket full of love, purrs, and kisses. When she is not being super sweet, she loves to play with her feline companions and enjoy her favorite treats. Pockets is up-to-date on shots, FeLV negative and spayed.

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for seniors. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than four-months-old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

GC Food Bank Hike for Hunger on Nov. 24

The Grundy County Food Bank is collaborating with the South Cumberland State Park Ranger force for a Hike for Hunger starting at 9:30 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 24, at the Grundy Lakes Park in Tracy City.

Participants will meet at the Grundy Lakes parking lot, 587 Lakes Rd., Tracy City, and will hike a 2-mile route led by the rangers. Turkey sandwiches and beverages will be served at the end of the hike.

Registration is $10, and begins at 9 a.m., or register by email <grundycountyfoodbank@gmail.com>. T-shirts are available for an additional $10.

Proceeds from the walk will go to maintaining and expanding the current food bank services. For more information call Tim Glover, (931) 313-9394.
