Sewanee's First Tree Lighting

Join with friends and family this afternoon, Nov. 30, when Sewanee lights its Christmas Tree in the Sewanee Angel Park and ushers in the holidays on the Mountain with music and fun.

The festivities will begin at 4:30 p.m. Bonnie and John McCardell will do the honors of turning on the lights.

To help families in need in Sewanee, participants are encouraged to bring unwrapped toys for Operation NOEL, which will be collected by members of the Sewanee Fire Department for distribution on Christmas Eve. Also, gifts of money and nonperishable food will be collected for the Community Action Committee (CAC).

The Sewanee Chorale will lead Christmas carols. Refreshments will be served, and Santa Claus will be available for pictures with the children. Bring your own camera.

This event is organized and sponsored by the Sewanee Business Al-

Organizers hope that this celebration can be a new holiday tradition in Sewanee.

In case of inclement weather for the tree lighting, refreshments and Santa will be hosted by Locals, across the street from Angel Park in the Sewanee Village.

SES Misses Reward School Status In Spite of Scores

by K. G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

Sewanee Elementary School officials recently received a letter from Kevin Huffman, the Tennessee Commissioner of Education, describing why SES was not designated as a "reward school" based on performance in 2011–12.

Under the state's new accountability system, schools must perform well in achievement measures and close achievement gaps between subgroups to be designated as a reward school. A reward school can be in the top 5 percent of overall performance in proficient and advanced achievement goals. A reward school can also be in the top 5 percent of schools where progress is achieved the quickest based on value-added scores, and growth in TCAP reading/language arts, math

"We believe it is important to let directors and principals know if schools are close to achieving a high level of recognition," the letter states. "Sewanee Elementary was on the cusp of being identified as a Reward School based on performance. In fact, your school performance was within the threshold of those schools identified as Reward but was excluded under our federal waiver rules because of achievement gaps larger than the state median in any subgroup area and achievement gaps that widened between 2010-11 and 2011–12."

In 2012, Sewanee Elementary School had the highest scores in the county in achievement for grades 3-5 in math, reading/language arts, social studies, science and the fifth-grade writing assessment.

In 2012, SES had the highest TCAP scores in the county for all students scoring proficient and advanced in math, science and reading/language arts. Broadview Elementary had the highest TCAP score for all students in social studies.

Between subgroups, SES had the highest percentage of proficient and advanced students, except for economically disadvantaged students. For and reading/language arts, Cowan Elementary had the highest percentage. Decherd Elementary had the highest percentage for Hispanic students in math and reading/language arts.

"Even if you have a high score but decline in any area, that counts against you," said Rebecca Sharber, director of schools for Franklin County.

SES had a decline in two subgroup scores between 2011 and 2012 in reading/language arts. In 2011, 60.5 percent of economically disadvantaged students were proficient and advanced. In 2012, 55.3 percent were proficient and advanced. The state average was 37.5 percent; the county average, 40.10 percent. In 2011, 81.8 percent of SES students with disabilities scored proficient and advanced in reading/language arts. In 2012, 78.5 percent scored proficient and advanced in reading/language arts. The state average was 32.8 percent; the county average, 32.7 percent.

budget, SUD manager Ben Beavers said SUD employees would receive a 4 percent raise, but total operating expenses would remain the same as in 2012. The raise for 2013 was funded by shifting money from areas where expenses were lower than anticipated in 2012.

SUD's decision to implement automatic meter reading (AMR) resulted in a significant increase in the capital improvements budget compared to 2012. AMR will save SUD money by reducing unaccounted-for water loss due to faulty meters by helping with leak detection and by freeing SUD employees to perform other tasks. The total cost of implementing AMR, estimated at $350,000, will be spread over two years, with $250,000 budgeted in 2013 and $100,000 budgeted in 2014. Rather than borrow money for the AMR upgrade, SUD will finance the project by drawing on cash reserves, 598-5611.

Locally Made Granola Gets National Attention

Out of the Blue Granola, a local product produced by women from Blue Monarch, is featured in the December issue of Country Living magazine. The African-American students in math popular granola was chosen among hundreds of entrants as one of 26 "Pitch Your Product" winners.

Entrants were allowed five minutes to present their products to a panel of judges and the national contest was held in Atlanta.

"We are really excited about this pat on the back for our granola and the courageous women who bake it. Having seen all the other products, we feel very honored to have been chosen as a winner," says Susan Binkley, who developed the granola as a way to provide employment for Blue Monarch participants. "Because of the publicity, we are already getting lots of orders from all over the country."

The granola was originally a product of the Blue Chair Bakery, but once the business began to expand, it was split into a separate business, Out of the Blue Granola, which is jointly owned by Binkley and Jimmy Wilson.

In addition to Whole Foods stores in Tennessee and a number of specialty markets and restaurants, Out of the Blue Granola will soon be sold in seven Kroger stores in the state. It can be found locally at the Blue Chair, Piggly Wiggly, Barnes and Noble and Mountain Outfitters.

Each bag of cereal includes a photo of one of the women who baked the granola with her personal story of recovery. And once the women begin earning a paycheck they contribute a portion back to Blue Monarch for the services they receive.

"We call our granola a win-win-win product because everyone gains—especially the customer who enjoys our all natural, hand-baked granola," says Binkley. For more information about Out of the Blue Granola, see www.out ofthebluegranola.com.

Baranco Begins Tennessee Cycling Association

Sewanee real estate broker Speed Baranco is retiring from real estate to help develop the Tennessee chapter of the National Interscholastic Cycling Association (NICA). Baranco, who has led Real Estate Marketing since 1990, will continue to work as scoutmaster of local Boy Scout Troop 14 and direct the mountain biking afternoon program at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School.

With the closing of Real Estate Marketing, affiliate broker Sally Thomas and broker Shirley Tate are joining Gooch Beasley Realtors, and broker Ed Hawkins is joining Cliffside Realty. [See adjacent story.]

Baranco has been a lifelong bicycling fanatic since his days as a young paperboy when he was growing up in Pensacola, Fla. He formed a Tennessee high school team racing league in 2003 and ran it under National Off-Road Bicycle Association and USA Cycling sanctioning thru 2008.

NICA is a youth development organization that governs high school mountain bike racing in the U.S. It now has 10 leagues in nine states. (California has northern and southern divisions). Baranco is the founding committee president of the Tennessee chapter of NICA.

In addition to Tennessee, new NICA programs were launched recently in Arizona and New York. The additions mark a major step toward NICA's hope to have leagues coast-to-coast by 2020.

Founded in 2009, NICA grew out of the successful NorCal High School Cycling League, the first scholastic mountain-bike racing program in the country. Now there are more than 1,000 high school students racing in NICA leagues

"We're using cross country high school mountain bike racing as our tool to develop our youth," said Rick Splitter, president of NICA's board of directors. "Our core values are building a strong mind, a strong body, a strong character. And we're going to do that in the most equal and inclusive environment that we can. Every decision, every policy that we do, we ask ourselves, how does it support those values? Baranco is a 41-year resident of Sewanee and an alumnus of The University of the South. He and his wife, Sian, have two children, Matthew and Nicholas. Matthew, 15, is a current SAS student and avid mountain biker. Nicholas is married (Ellie), and is a medical resident in Syracuse, N.Y. Nicholas raced mountain bikes at SAS

Gooch Honored for Scholarship Program for Hungarian Students

The Institute of International Education (IIE) European Office has announced that Anthony Ĉ. Gooch, C'59, is the recipient of the 2012 IIE Europe Award for Excellence. The award, to be presented Dec. 7, recognizes Gooch's establishment and continued support of the Klein Family Scholarships, which provide full financial support to talented Hungarian students to study at Sewanee.

Gooch, a retired partner at the law firm Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP (New York) has served Sewanee as a regent, including on the investment management committee of the board of regents, and is on other boards, including the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center and the Rockefeller University Council.

The Klein Family Scholarships were established in 2003 by Gooch's late wife, Linda B. Klein, who was of Hungarian descent on her father's side. The scholarships are permanently endowed by gifts to the University to honor her memory.

Being an international student at Sewanee has not only given me an opportunity to learn about a different environment but also completely changed my outlook on my own culture," said Klein scholar Zita Monori, who is currently a junior. "This enhanced awareness in my conception of the world will always help me to think more critically about my surroundings, the people with whom I come in contact, and how we relate to each other," she said.

2013 is 2.5 percent, 5 percent for 2014 and an annual 3 percent increase for

The commissioners approved a total expense budget of $1,703,997 for 2013. Beavers introduced a discussion about fluoridation, the practice of adding fluoride to drinking water. SUD's fluoride supply is low, and SUD will need to purchase the additive in the near future if it plans to continue the practice, Beavers explained. The fluoridation chemicals and process cost SUD $6,000 per year. Beavers noted that two years ago, SUD lowered its fluoride input to 0.7 ppm in keeping with new EPA recommendations. While research has shown fluoride significantly decreases tooth decay, consuming too much fluoride leeches calcium from bones.

Referring to the EPA revised recommendation on fluoridation, Beavers said that people receive fluoride from many more sources than they did in the past. In addition to the fluoride in drinking water in many communities, people are also exposed to fluoride in toothpaste, beverages made with fluoridated water and food raised with fluoridated water. The SUD board will continue the fluoride discussion at the December meeting. Comments from the community may be sent to <fluoride@sewaneeutility.org>.

In other business, the commissioners approved manager Beavers' surplus list of scrap iron and unneeded equipment, including pumps, scales, a generator, used pipe, a trailer, backhoe bucket and other items. The surplus items will be offered for sale and advertised in the Sewanee Mountain Messenger and the Winchester Herald-Chronicle.

The commissioners tentatively scheduled a working session to discuss the constructed wetlands proposal for 5 p.m., Monday, Dec. 3, at the SUD office. Budget figures for the project will be reviewed.

The next meeting of the SUD board of commissioners is scheduled for Dec. 18, the third Tuesday of the month, rather than the regular meeting day.

Culinary Classes in Manchester

At the request of area restaurants and the University food service, culinary classes are being offered by Tennessee Technology Center at McMinnville http://www.ttcmc minnville.edu>. Ayear-long program of study and work will start Jan. 2. Full financial aid is available for those who qualify. The classes will be held Monday through Friday, 8 a.m.-2:40 p.m., with additional hours on nights and weekends as needed.

Food service is one of the main industries/employment opportunities on the Mountain. Last February leaders from the Technology Center met with members of the University food service and a number of local restaurant owners to determine what instruction would be most useful. The Technology Center then worked to put a curriculum together and to get it approved on the state level. In the meantime the search was on to find a kitchen large enough for these classes. None were available on the Mountain. The conference center in Manchester was chosen as the site for the classes and its executive chef, Mike Osborne, was selected to be in charge of the program, http://www.mcccc.com/ Chef.php>.

Students may join this program at the beginning of any term as offered by TTCMcMinnville. Local assistance in applying for admission and financial aid is available at the Grundy County Adult Education Center in Tracy City, (931) 592-4332.

Sewanee's Operation Noel

In just a few weeks, it will be Christmas. While many are already planning ahead about the gifts to buy or the food to eat, there are those not so fortunate. In our area, there are children who may not get presents and families that may not have an abundant holiday meal.

Each year the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department (SVFD) in conjunction with FROST (the department's Fund Raising Operational Support Team) organizes the purchasing and distribution of food and toys for these families. All items are delivered $Christmas\,Eve\,morning\,by\,the\,SVFD$ and FROST.

But this important program cannot happen without help from our

Please consider making a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new toys to Operation Noel this year and give back to your community this Christmas season.

Families eligible for Operation Noel must live in the following communities: Sewanee, Midway, Jump Off and Sherwood Road to the top of Sherwood Mountain, (but not into Sherwood).

Every family needs to fill out a new application [see facing page], even if they have received from Operation Noel before. An application ensures that organizers have all the pertinent information so they can provide for everyone in need.

The deadline for returning applications is Monday, December 10.

If you would like to make a donation of money, nonperishable food items or new toys, please take items to Fire Chief David Green's office, located in the Sewanee Police Department building or Print Services in Van Ness Hall.

Community Chest Spotlight: Scouting in Sewanee

The 2012–13 Sewanee Community Chest Fund Drive is underway. The power of the people helping people makes a difference in the life of the community. Sponsored by the Sewanee Civic Association, the Community Chest raises money yearly for local charitable organizations serving the area. This year's goal is $90,000.

For the next few weeks, the Messenger will focus on some of the organizations supported by the Community Chest. This week we shine the spotlight on the local Scouting organizations.

The Sewanee Civic Association is the sponsoring organization of Cub Scout Pack 152. The purpose of the Cub Scout pack is to prepare young people to make ethical and moral choices by instilling in them the values of the Scout oath and law. Cub Scout Pack 152 uses yearly funds from the Community Chest to provide a high-quality scouting program. Funds are used to buy awards, finance the annual Pinewood Derby and hold the Blue and Gold Banquet. In addition to money received from the Community Chest, the Cub Scouts receive money from popcorn sales and den dues.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is the chartering organization of Boy Scout Troop 14. The mission of the Boy Scout troop is to provide leadership training, outdoor recreation opportunities and skill development for boys in the Sewanee community. The troop is requesting funds to replace worn-out camping equipment and to help underwrite travel and canoe rental costs for the outing trip in the spring. The Boy Scout Troop receives additional funds through annual dues and fund-raising events.

Girl Scout Troop 2107 builds girls of courage, confidence and character. They are requesting funds from the Community Chest to buy supplies, badges and take field trips. The Girl Scout Troop receives money from cookie sales Girl Scout Troop 621 helps girls to build confidence and courage and believe in themselves by doing. They are requesting funds from the Community Chest to help buy camping equipment. This Girl Scout troop receives money from cookie sales and troop dues.

The goal of the Sewanee Community Chest is to help citizens by funding recovering from abuse and addictions. the community. The Community Chest is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, and donations are tax-deductible. Send your donation to Sewanee Community Chest, P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375. Sergio Leone's classic western was Clint Eastwood's movie breakout role (although there was no empty chair on set). The story is simple: a mysterious stranger joins forces with a notorious outlaw to protect a beautiful widow from an assassin working for the railroad. What keeps us coming back to watch it is Leone's amazing technical work with the camera and his careful, slow storytelling. Unrated, but contains violence and strong language.

Hushpuppy (Quevenzhane Wallis, who was a mere 5 years old when filming began) is a young girl who lives with her alcoholic father in the Bathtub, a bayou-like area that appears to be the edge of the world. After a terrible storm that nearly destroys the Bathtub, Hushpuppy goes on a mission to find her mother, while the health of her father deteriorates and, in the distance, ancient creatures are coming with destructive intent.

Hailed by critics since its opening at the Cannes and Sundance festivals earlier this year, one reviewer said, "Don't miss this one. A brave and inspired antidote to time-wasting mainstream movies, it is unlike anything you've seen before or will likely ever see again. In short, it is unforgettable." Rated PG-13 for child imperilment, some disturbing images, language and brief sensuality.

Sewanee Launches M.A. in Theology & Literature

Theology and literature have gone hand-in-hand in Sewanee naturally but informally for well over a century. With that long-standing relationship and history, it is a gift to know that a master's degree from the School of Theology with a concentration in theology and literature will now officially bring the two disciplines together.

"The Anglican tradition has often expressed itself through literature, and this may be part of the historic reason for Sewanee's excellence in both literature and theology," said the Rev. Robert MacSwain, assistant professor of theology and Christian ethics. "It's now time for these deeply rooted disciplines to start working together more closely here at the University of the South, which is what this program is all about."

Drawing on the strengths of the School of Theology, the School of Letters and faculty in the English department, this new M.A. is a flexible program that utilizes Sewanee's unique ability to contribute to an internationally recognized and vibrant field of interdisciplinary inquiry.

The core curriculum ensures an understanding of the biblical narrative and the approaches of modern biblical criticism, while allowing students ample freedom to take appropriate electives in both theology and literature. Beginning and ending the program with two summers in the School of Letters allows students to complete their coursework in 14 months. Students consult with the program adviser to determine the specific shape of their degree and will pursue a related thesis project. The complete curriculum for the M.A. in theology and literature may be viewed by visiting the School of Theology's website, http://theology.sewanee.edu/academics/m.a.-concentration-in-theology-and-literature>.

Singing in the Advent Season

Last week in the Old Town section of Alexandria, Va., historic Christ Episcopal Church was advertising its Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols service for 5 p.m. on Dec. 1. Across the world, many denominations of Christian churches will hold similar services during Advent. Sewanee will be hosting its own 53rd Lessons and Carols this weekend in All Saints' Chapel.

Sewanee's Advent carol services date back to 1933, when choir director and Spanish teacher Paul S. McConnell arrived on campus. His 40-student choir and the congregation, with instrumental accompaniment, sang such carols as "Jesu Bambino," "The First Noel" and "Silent Night," as well as selections from Handel's "Messiah."

Within a few years choirs from the surrounding schools and churches including Tracy City, Sherwood, South Pittsburg, St. Mary's, St. Andrew's, the Sewanee Military Academy and Otey joined the University choir, making it a community event. The student newspaper, the Sewanee Purple, published this announcement for the 1936 concert:

The University Choir, St. Luke's Choir, St. Mary's Choir, and a double quartet of University students will sing special numbers. These four groups with the assistance of choirs from Tracy City, Sherwood, South Pittsburg, and other surrounding parishes will sing with the congregation familiar Christmas carols.

The service also featured University violinists, the organist and a cornet solo.

Sewanee's more formal Lessons and Carols Services began in 1960 in the newly completed All Saints' Chapel under the direction of choir director and music professor Peter Lemonds.

The original idea for the Lessons and Carols service was put forth by British Bishop E.W. Benson. Benson, who would later become Archbishop of Canterbury, proposed the service in 1880 for the 10 p.m., Christmas Eve service in his "cathedral," a wooden shed, in Truro, Cornwall. Benson's plan was ostensibly to keep men out of the pubs on the night before Christmas

The Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols was popularized by Eric Milner-White of King's College, Cambridge, in 1918. A recent army chaplain, Milner-White decided that the Church of England needed some "more imaginative worship." The British service always begins with the hymn, "Once in Royal David's City" and ends with "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," but the other hymns and anthems vary from year to year. It has been broadcast on the BBC radio every year (except for 1930) since 1928, even during World War II when King's College had no heat and the stained glass windows had been removed. Since 1982, the college has commissioned a new carol each year on behalf of its choir. Today, the King's College service can be heard on many NPR stations on Christmas Eve morning.

In Sewanee, the wider community choirs continued to be involved for a number of years in singing anthems. Today the University choir and the congregation sing while individual members of the College, seminary, and community read each lesson. Many community members participate in the "greening of the chapel," decorating it for the Advent season. Now limited to two public services (in the past there were as many as four services), the Festival of Lessons and Carols at Sewanee draws busloads of people from as far away as Texas on the first weekend in Advent.

Tiger Swimming & Diving

ne Sewanee women's swimming and diving team is currently ranked No. 17 in the latest NCAA Division III poll, according to Collegeswim.com.

The poll is based on a points system that Collegeswim.com uses leadoff legs in the 100 back (1:04.39) to calculate the times of the top 27 performances. Those times are then veraged nationwide, which gives the poll its top 25 list.

Overall, the Lady Tigers have posted numerous Southern Athletic Association (SAA) top-eight times and lead the league in 12 women's

Along with the women's rankings, the men's team currently sits just outside the top 25. Sewanee currently leads the SAA in 15 men's events.

Sewanee student-athletes Walter Chiarella and Carolyn Rice have been named the SAA Male and Female Swimmers of the Week

Chiarella nearly equaled his best times at the Western Kentucky Invitational. Chiarella dropped 21 seconds in the 400 IM to finish at 4:34.96.

After a great start to the season, standing meet at Western Kentucky. Against NCAA Division I and NAIA scholarship teams, Rice recorded all in-season personal bests in the 500 free (5:22.97), the 400 IM (4:43.10), the 200 back (2:13.88), as well as the and the 100 free (56.55).

Courtney Moore and Grace Cobbs earned the SAA Men's and Women's Divers of the Week honors.

Moore competed in his first-ever 11-dive competition two weeks ago at the first annual Sewanee Diving Invitational. Despite the stiff competition from Division III powerhouse Emory and Division I program Western Kentucky, Moore finished the 1-meter, 11-dive competition in third place with 174.2 points. Moore placed fourth in the 3-meter, 6-dive event with 125.8

Cobbs won after she competed in her first ever 11-dive competition at the Sewanee Diving Invitational. Cobbs finished the 1-meter, 11-dive competition in sixth place with 250.25 points. She later finished fifth in the 3-meter, Rice earned the award after an out- 6-dive competition with 117.1 points.

by John Shackelford

In the theme song of the new James Bond movie "Skyfall," Adele's haunting lyrics begin, "This is the end." Now is that time of the season where endings become important. One of the most played-out scenes this time of year is when a football game is decided by a final field-goal attempt, and the players on the sideline lock arms in a sign of unity to help will the ball through the uprights.

There is a popular adult beverage commercial currently playing during these TV games in which the advertiser recommends that the fans in the stadium all turn the labels on their bottles in a unified direction to help coax the desired result from the last-second kick. This sign of fan unity is a welcome by-product of a long season that began many months ago with diverse team $\,$ members meeting one another and asking "How do you do?" at the hopeful

In this week's "Top 10 Plays" on ESPN, the Baltimore Ravens lined up facing a fourth and 29 in the closing minutes of the game. You can almost hear Adele cue up the music. Suddenly the quarterback dumps a short pass over the middle to Ray Rice and in the words of the incomparable anchorman Chris Berman, "He is stumbling, bumbling, and then ... He ... Could ... Go ... All ... The ... Way!'

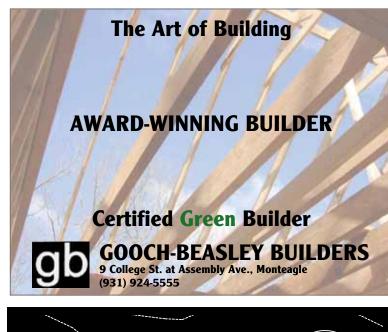

In the latest Bond movie, our hero is shot within the first 10 minutes and falls off a train into icy depths far below. Surely this is the end of 007. But no! Maybe those who have not seen the first 22 Bond films were shocked to learn that Bond recovers completely, minus a bruised ego and a small bullethole scar near his impenetrable heart, and is next seen lounging comfortably on the beach with a bikini-clad friend. All of our endings should have such pleasant landings.

In the case of Ray Rice and so many other great athletic performances that preceded his surprising run, what we think is "the end" is an opportunity for creativity to bring hope. How many times did Michael Jordan leave the ground with nowhere to go and no goal in sight, only to duck, spin, curl and flip the ball impossibly into an unseen goal? We learn to develop faith that our heroes (on the court or field or European train tracks) will create unforeseen magic.

Sports are never ending. Football bowl games give way to hardwood basketball tournaments that see its madness in March disappear into spring training in sunny Florida. And in between these seasons, soccer balls are kicked, tennis balls are struck and putts are dropped on many 18th greens. Yet each time our beloved home team reaches a climax, we believe that this is it. The End. If our team can just make this touchdown, or this basket or this final overhead, then we can walk away champions, once and for all.

Yet LeBron walks in Michael's shoes who borrowed them from Magic, which were once worn by Kareem and Wilt. It is that rebirth of a new generation that brings me back, time after time again, to watch until the final whistle has blown in each and every game, ever hopeful that something surprising and magical will be created.

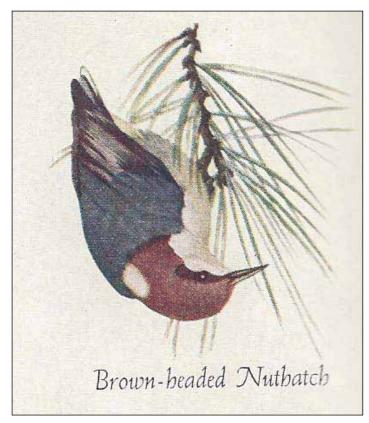

This is the season when we reach the end of our Gregorian calendar only to find opportunity to celebrate a simple beginning. I start my mornings with a grudging reminder from my aching back that one end is near. I close my day at basketball practice with my 8- to 10-year-old girls' team and witness smiling faces and laughing teammates that are so excited when the ball drops through the net. What a great beginning.

Brown-headed Nuthatch

Jim Peters has a Brown-headed Nuthatch coming to his feeder in Midway, reports Jean Yeatman. This is a rare occurrence in Sewanee, as they usually winter further south. This bird is 4-1/4 inches long and has a brown head with a white nape spot. They like pine and hemlock trees, and feed on pine seeds and many kinds of insects.

The Yeatmans have a pair of Purple Finches and a Sapsucker coming to their feeder now. The Sapsucker drills holes in trees so the sap will trickle out for it to drink. Other birds benefit from this, as they have seen Titmice and Chickadees drinking also.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache, M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

UP CLOSE AND PERSONAL

A hearing instrument is a custom device that requires personalized service if it is to be selected and fine-tuned properly. With this in mind, there is every reason to seek the services of an experienced audiologist who can conduct a comprehensive hearing evaluation and counsel you on appropriate choices. Individual patterns of hearing loss are different, and the optimal model of hearing aid for one person may be less than ideal for someone else. That is why hearing instruments sold by mail order, without individual testing and counseling, are likely to be ineffective. The audiologist is also trained to ask questions that will elicit responses to help identify lifestyle and situational needs.

A mutual trusting relationship between the audiologist and you is the foundation upon which successful hearing instrument usage is based. You will not find this in a catalog. At THE HEARING CENTER LLC, you will find an experienced audiologist who is ready to help you start on the road to better hearing. Don't let false pride or lack of information keep you or a loved one from hearing well. We are located at 705B NW Atlantic St. in Tullahoma. Call today for an appointment at 931-393-2051 or toll-free, 888-303-2051. You can visit our website at www.thehearingcenterlic.com.

Sewanee Dog Park at Lake Cheston Update

Organizers of the Sewanee Dog Park are pleased to announce the progress of the project. The park's fund-raising has not ended, and the group is still in need of donations to cover the increased cost of maintenance and adding a $handic apped-accessible\ ramp.\ They\ appreciate\ the\ community's\ contributions$ and look forward to continued support.

The Sewanee dog park proposal was presented to the University's Natural Resources Committee on Nov. 27. Upon approval, fence-building contractors will be encouraged to review the specifications, along with drawings. The dog park committee will select a contractor who meets the University criteria. The bidding process will be announced in an upcoming issue of the Sewanee

The Sewanee Dog Park will be located on the left (west) side of Lake Cheston Road between the first service road and the open picnic area. The entrance gate will face the road and is near the Lake Cheston picnic area and the gravel

The park will be divided into two sections, one for small dogs (approximately 20 percent of the park) and the remainder for large dogs. The fence will be approximately 820 linear feet. The perimeter includes an inset for protected Sumac trees. The entrance gate will open into an enclosed 6 x 8 foot transfer area with two additional gates. The fence will be five feet high and will be constructed of marine grade posts and rails with 2 x 4 inch galvanized woven wire.

Not only has the University donated the land, but will additionally donate resources to clear the land and will lay water pipes to the dog park site, providing water spigots for each dog area. Concrete pads and stainless steel water bowls will be added at each station.

Two non-paint, non-rust waste stations will be purchased, each with a sign, bag dispenser and waste can. Waste station signs state "Dog Waste Station" and the attached bag dispenser sign reads "Please clean up after your dog." The park rules sign will be attached to the entrance gate. Large dog area and small dog area signs will be attached to the respective transfer gate.

The park will initially have two benches. The benches will be constructed of recycled material and are maintenance-free, guaranteed for 50 years.

The Sewanee Dog Park will be handicapped accessible. There will be a bridgeway provided over the drainage ditch for convenient

Rather than buying another dog toy or Christmas outfit for your pet this year, please consider making a donation in their name to the Sewanee Dog Park. Donations can be sent to the Sewanee Dog Park account at Southern Community Bank, P.O. Box 39, Sewanee, TN

Her nose is more red With a cold in her head, But then, to be sure, Her eyes are bluer.
