Community Chestand Parks Update

by Leslie Lytle Messenger Staff Writer

An update on the Sewanee Community Chest fund drive and Parks Commission proposal topped the agenda at the Dec. 13 dinner meeting of the Sewanee Civic Association

SCA President Lynn Stubblefield said the Community Chest solicitation mailing was scheduled to go out that week. The SCA hopes to increase donations to meet the $16,000 increase in funding requests. This year's $128,535 Community Chest budget calls for financial assistance to 30 groups and organizations dedicated to improving the quality of life in Sewanee and the surrounding vicinity.

To support the Community Chest, mail donations to P.O. Box 99, Sewanee, TN 37375 or donate online at <sewaneecivic.wordpress.com/ community-chest/>.

Sewanee Elementary students participated in the Paws for Pennies campaign to help with Operation Noel, sponsored by the Sewanee Fire Department and F.R.O.S.T. (Fund Raising Operation Support Team). The campaign coordinator, Gail Rothermund, stated $1,554 was donated during the drive and will be used to help needy children in our area.

SUD Discusses Jan. Board Election

by Leslie Lytle Messenger Staff Writer

At the Dec. 19 meeting of the wanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties, the board approved a slate of nominees for the January commissioner election. The nominees will seek election to the seat currently held by Commissioner Karen Singer. ley Bank in Monteagle split the grand Singer is term limited and cannot seek reelection.

Preliminary to approval of the slate of candidates, SUD President Charlie Smith updated the board on raffle, which benefited the Commucandidate qualification restrictions. By state law commissioners must step down after serving two consecutive Betty Carpenter, CAC director, terms. At the November board meetsaid the kindness of the people in- ing, the board questioned whether a term-limited commissioner could "The funds received from the Re-return after an interlude from service. Stephen Burnett said he and Dixon verse Raffle will help so many families Smith researched the issue with Don Scholes, legal counsel for the Tennessee Association of Utility Districts.

The Belvidere Utility District had the same question, Scholes said. According to Scholes, a term-limited commissioner can run for office again after sitting out for a period of one term, or four years.

The decision opened the door for approving the nomination of a previous commissioner to seek election.

Smith also looked into changing the state law to remove the term-limit restriction altogether. Tennessee State Representative David Alexander advised Smith "it would take broad community support."

SUD is one of only eight utility districts who elect commissioners. In the other districts, the commissioners are appointed by the county mayor. Removing the term-limit restriction would allow those who wish to serve to continue on the board indefinitely subject to reelection every four years.

Voting in the commissioner election begins on Jan. 2 and continues

Holidays Around the World at the Sewanee Children's Center

This month children ages 2 to 8 at the Sewanee Children's Center have been sharing their own holiday traditions as well as learning about many others through stories, art, play and food. The center's director, Sandy Glacet, says our small community is very fortunate to have families from many different cultures and traditions. This year we have focused on light and merriment in

The children loved learning about Hanukkah from a volunteer parent. After reading the story of Judah and the Maccabees, they learned about the menorah and the miracle of the oil; they learned how to play the dreidel game, ate latkes and decorated their own sugar cookies in blue and silver.

Another winter observance that might be unfamiliar to many is St. Lucia's Day, celebrated primarily in Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Finland and Croatia. Saint Lucia (whose name means "light") was a Christian martyr who is remembered on Dec. 13 with sweet rolls served by the oldest daughter, in this case the oldest girl in class, who wears a crown of candles on her head so that her hands are free to serve. The yule log was also investigated at SCC as one of the earliest Christmas traditions about preserving light and warmth in the home through winter; and the 3- and 4-year-olds learned about Christmas in Mexico with the tradition of Las Posadas. The highlight, though, was a visit by Saint Nicholas who left treats in all the children's shoes at naptime.

And, it wouldn't be Christmas without the Grinch and Cincy Lou Who! This last week before winter break you might have seen the pint-sized carolers on University Avenue. The Sewanee Children's Center wants to wish a Happy Holidays to the whole community: May our hearts grow three sizes in the new year!

Students at the Sewanee Children's Center learned about St. Lucia's Day.

Sewanee Elementary School first graders and their fifth-grade buddies sing inside the Blue Chair on Dec. 19. That morning, the younger students and their mentors sang Christmas carols at downtown Sewanee businesses and finished the trip with cocoa and cookies at Angel Park. A number of people contributed on the students singing trek with goodies, like Christmas ornaments, and by providing and helping serve treats. Photo by Kevin Cummings

WORDSFROM THEEDITOR

by Kiki Beavers

50 Years and Thankful

As 2017 comes to a close, I reflect on my small part in sharing community information. In 1967, Phoebe Bates embarked on a journey to create a community paper at the behest of the Sewanee Civic Association, because "people needed to know what was going on." For 18 years, Phoebe gathered the news and events for the community newspaper, The Sewanee Siren. When she decided to step down, the University, the Civic Association and the Sewanee Woman's Club joined in to find someone to take over the helm. Geraldine Hewitt Piccard answered the call, and, for 26 years she diligently served as editor and publisher of the free weekly local newspaper, The Sewanee Mountain Messenger. Then, Laura Willis and Janet Graham purchased the newspaper, carrying on the tradition that this is a newspaper belonging to the community. Almost two years ago, I became the local newspaper owner. The commitment to the community remains the same.

We want to spread good news. The Messenger staff writers, Leslie Lytle and Kevin Cummings, continue to report on the stories, the people, and the places that make our Mountain unique. They do an outstanding job for this newspaper. Adding to this weekly original reporting are the hundreds of submissions from the community—the articles on the local schools, our recreational spaces, various organization meetings and events—all enhance the commitment to share good news. I also appreciate the good words of the columnists including Phoebe Bates, Virginia Craighill, Yolande Gottfried, Ray Gotko, Harriet Runkle, Pat Wiser, Margaret Stephens, Frank Gladu, and the Sewanee Trust for Historic Preservation members. Please let them know you read their work.

There would not be a paper without the good work of office manager April Minkler and circulation manager Ray Minkler. Proofreader Sandra Gabrielle saves me from multiple embarrassments each week. Photographer Lyn Hutchinson continues to capture wonderful community moments. I am grateful for each of you.

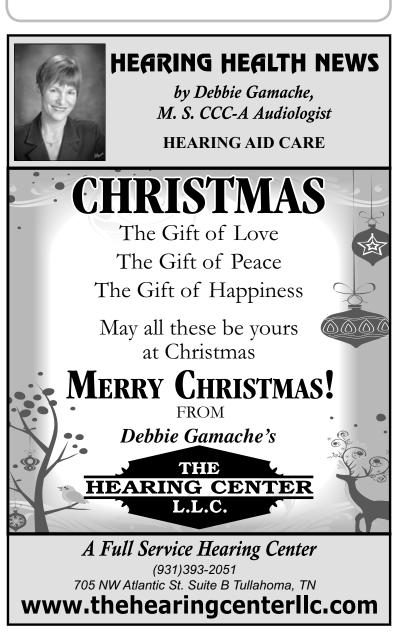

moments. I am grateful for each of you.

We want to share good news. The Messenger is preparing to apply for membership to the Tennessee Press Association in July as a free circulation newspaper. Part of that process is to get our weekly print and online circulation audited. This year, we published 46 issues and distributed those issues to 96 local businesses and area post offices. Our online readership continues to grow. In addition to the Messenger websites and social media sites, we are adding a digital photo archive website. Look for more information about this photo archive site in the coming year.

None of this would be possible without the continued patronage of our local advertisers. The University continues to contribute towards the printing costs and the donation from the Sewanee Community Chest helps to keep the Messenger as a free community newspaper. I am grateful for the support.

The mission of the Messenger is "to support the greater mountain community by providing news and information that affect residents' lives." Community is important. Community matters. I ask that you continue to share your news so we can continue to spread good news. Thank you for reading and being a part of the Messenger.

Warmest best wishes to you this holiday season and hopes for a prosperous New Year. The Messenger will be back in print on Jan. 12, 2018.

RESPECT OUR FLAG AND VETERANS

To the Editor:

I recently watched a video clip where a man went onto the campus of University of California at Berkeley and began waving an American flag. He did this as an experiment to find out how the students would react. He left for a short time and returned waving an ISIS flag.

I was outraged at the display of disrespect these students showed for our flag and country. Since the founding of our country more than one million brave souls have paid the ultimate price defending this country and what our flag stands for.

God bless our men and women in the armed forces who are deployed all over the world. While we are home with our families celebrating Christmas, many of them are thousands of miles away defending our country. Wake up, America, and show the respect they deserve. God Bless America.

APPRECIATION FROM THE McBEE FAMILY

To the Editor:

Chris McBee and his whole family would like to express our sincere appreciation for all emergency personnel who played a part in the rescue and transport of Chris after his horrific accident on Jump Off Road on Thanksgiving morning. Thanks also to Kyle (Bubba) Colston for noticing the crumpled truck with Chris trapped inside, calling 911, and staying with Chris, keeping him awake and talking until emergency personnel arrived, and for coming to the house to alert family of the accident. Without all who participated, there would surely have been a much different outcome. God our Creator surely handed us a huge miracle that morning! Best Thanksgiving blessing ever. Thank you all.

Chris McBee and Family, Sewanee

THANK YOU FROM THE GREENS

Stephen Cardwell, Sewanee To the Editor:

On the evening of Dec. 12, our family home was damaged by fire. The damage is extensive but the situation could have been so much worse. Thankfully, no one was hurt. We are so grateful to the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department for their quick response and hard work fighting the fire. Thanks to their efforts we have a starting point to rebuild and many important treasures were saved. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Thank you to Western Sirloin, Sam's work family, FCHS, and all those who reached out to help him in any way they could. Thank you to the Franklin County Board of Education and Mrs. Kim Tucker and my SES family. SES has been my work home a very long time. I cannot thank you all enough for your kindness and love. You organized, planned, supported and held me up quite literally and figuratively. My work family is simply the best.

Our family is humbled and overwhelmingly grateful for the generosity of this community. Please know we appreciate every call, text, card, hug, and visit. From home baked ham to Faye's Kitchen's chocolate cream pie, our bodies were nourished and we were able to concentrate on other tasks. The financial support we have received with this unexpected life event will go far in helping us rebuild our lives. No matter how prepared you try to be, there seems to always be more to do. We appreciate every gift.

Our family, as always, has been our rock through it all. There are so many kindnesses to acknowledge, I'm sure I have missed someone. For that I deeply apologize. Words simply do not express our gratitude.

Most importantly, I thank God for his presence in my house that evening. There is no doubt it was God that whispered to me to go check upstairs. It was God that showed me the fastest way to get my 93-year-old mother and myself to safety. The prayers of so many have comforted and given peace as we begin this long process of rebuilding. But in this season of the celebration of Christ, we are rejoicing in our family being intact, safe and sound with our extended family. Our journey has taken another unexpected turn as life journeys do. A setback, but these gifts remain and we hold them closely to our hearts... faith, hope and love. And, the greatest of these is love. To God Be The Glory. Merry Christmas and Blessings to you all.

CLARIFICATION

To the Editor:

I would like thank Matthew Mitchell for his comments in the Dec. 15 issue on my letter from the Dec. 8 issue, which was intended to thank John Bratton for his letter of the previous week. However, I would like to clarify

First, Dr. John Hope Franklin's comment that the concept of race caused most Southerners to "fight for the preservation of slavery" is historical opinion. Mr. Bratton's comment in the Dec. 1 issue that "It is also true that most of those who fought for the Confederacy were not slave owners and many deploring slavery, were there for their state which they regarded as sovereign" is also historical opinion.

No amount of historical research could change either of these opinions into historical fact, but I have heard and read many direct examples of Mr. Bratton's statement. Also, many stories exist of Confederate soldiers who simply fought to protect their state and homes from invasion and destruction.

My second point is that my comment that many household servants were considered part of the family in no way denied that as slaves they could be sold. Some of these slaves remained loyal to the family during and after the Civil War.

I did not intend my letter to be a full essay on the Civil War, slavery or the Confederate government. It was only to commend Mr. Bratton for his letter, especially in his reminding today's Sewanee residents of the contributions of former Confederate leaders to the founding and early history of Sewanee.

Lifelong Learning, Jan. 4

Sewanee Seminars for Lifelong Learning will meet at noon, Thursday, Jan. in Lower Cravens, on Kentucky Avenue, in Sewanee.

Pamela Macfie will present the program on "In Shakespeare's Eternal Company." Responding to an invitation to address what accounts for Shakespeare's enduring appeal, Macfie will offer a talk that engages how richly, and in many ways how seamlessly, even unconsciously, some of Shakespeare's most compelling speeches have become part of our own vocabularies of love and loss. Her presentation will include some opportunities for audience members to speak certain lines, all in the spirit of being in Shakespeare's company.

Macfie is the English Department Chair at the University of the South. She eaches courses on Dante, Shakespeare and Renaissance Poetry.

Membership dues for Lifelong Learning are $12 per year. New members are always welcome. A $2 per session option is also available. Please call Anne Davis at (931) 924-4465 for more information.

Provost Nancy Berner since the Oc-Myers proposed formation of a Parks Commission to oversee upkeep and maintenance of community parks.

The SCA spearheaded the recent renovation of Elliot Park. When the SCA learned the Sewanee Ballpark lack of maintenance, the organization sought out the advice of Myers. Myers headed up renovation of the ballpark in 2003.

Provost Berner will seek legal managing Sewanee community parks, Burnett said.

"We're trying to arrive at a decision on which entity will be responsible for which parks," he explained. Burnett drawn out and eliminated. One possibility, Burnett suggested, would be to assess lease holders a small user's fee to pay for park upkeep.

The Lease Office has a small budget earmarked for parks, Burnett said, "maybe $3,000." Citing critical needs, he pointed to the ballpark press box which had rotting floors and was infested with snakes. He estimated needed repairs at $5,000.

At this time of year, it is customary to take a moment and reflect on the recent past and to set some goals and objectives for the coming year. So, my report this month will attempt to recap this past year of activity related to the development efforts for the Sewanee Village. And, try to define what lies ahead for the project. For me, the most significant happening was my appointment by Vice Chancellor McCardell to the position of special assistant in January of 2017. This allowed me to shed my Vice President for Administrative Services duties and focus my efforts on two projects; Arcadia at Sewanee, a senior living initiative and the implementation of the Sewanee Village development plan. Highlights regarding the Village development during 2017 include:

The removal and relocation of a house and the thinning of vegetation from the properties on either side of Prince Lane to pursue the possibilities of building additional housing opportunities for the Village.

A market conditions assessment study has been undertaken to determine the demand for the building of new housing and commercial space. A parking analysis is underway to determine the number and location of parking opportunities.

A comprehensive domain storm water evaluation and mitigation plan was undertaken by the University. The results of this study have identified projects upstream that will minimize the impact of storm water in the village. Recommendations have been made regarding the Village conditions that will guide adjustments to the Village plan.

A communications and messaging exercise has occurred that will tell the story of the development efforts and describe the project to those both familiar and unfamiliar with Sewanee.

A monthly report in the Sewanee Mountain Messenger began in August to update the community about activities related to the Village

Preliminary efforts to establish a Public Art initiative have been explored.

A road project to narrow U.S. 41-A as well as an intersection design at University Avenue in the village is underway with the Tennessee Department of Transportation. In addition, coordination with Franklin County Roads department is in progress to make road improvements in the Village.

Five specific projects were identified for substantial completion by 2022. They are:

Highway 41-A redesign to single lanes of traffic.

The University Bookstore relocation from the campus to the Village. Increased housing availability including apartments, multi and single family homes.

A new grocery store.

A Village green for gatherings, festivals and civic activities.

Several developers have shown interest in and have been involved in discussions to invest in downtown projects.

The Vice Chancellor established an advisory group to assist with the implementation activities.

Regular update meetings open to the community have been held monthly at the Blue Chair to provide progress reports on development activities. These meetings have also provided opportunities for conversations providing feedback on the project. More than 100 people have attended these updates since they began in August.

The location for the University Bookstore has been determined. The Bookstore will be situated between the U.S. Post Office and Tower Community Bank on University Avenue. An architect has been selected for the project and design activities have begun.

Although much has been done, much more lies ahead to achieve the vision of the Village development plan. In 2018, activities that will be pursued include:

Identification of funding for the project through fundraising, financing and grants.

Adjustment of existing housing polices to achieve an active and

Pursuit of affordable housing to allow a variety of income levels to live in the Village.

The design and development of the Grocery store project.

Pursuit of developer arrangements to proceed with projects.

I am looking forward to the activities in the year ahead and will continue to work with all those interested. Our goal is to achieve a vibrant and active Village providing services and housing for all those who choose to be part of the Sewanee Community.

This past year has gone by very quickly and 2018 promises to be a defining time for the Sewanee Village development project.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Frank

through Jan. 23 at the SUD office during regular business hours.

The board also revisited the November discussion about hiring a part-time bookkeeper to satisfy the "segregation of duties" requirement imposed by the Tennessee state comptroller. Typical of small utilities, SUD lacks sufficient office staff to provide the level of oversight required by the state.

Three individuals expressed an interest in the position, Smith said. The board hoped to hire someone before the end of the year to review data from the last quarter, but according to Smith, "it's not looking likely."

"We don't know what the minimum requirement is," Smith explained. SUD manager Ben Beavers contacted the comptroller for specific information regarding what records and accounts required monthly review. Smith estimated the wage for the position at $150-$200 per month.

Smith welcomed having "a set of eyes outside the SUD office" to review records and accounts. "It would provide protection for both SUD customers and SUD employees.

Beavers announced all the necessary easements for the Midway pressure boosting statements had been granted. The project will provide a much needed increase in water pressure in the Midway community.

The meter base is in," Beavers said. "We need to pour the concrete pad and line up inspections." Beavers anticipates the pressure boosting station will be operational by sometime in February.

The SUD board meets next on Jan. 23. Results of the commissioner election will be announced at that time.

North Elementary School third graders held a toy drive for the Altamont Fire Department in place of a Christmas gift exchange. Students were given the opportunity to show their donated gift to their classmates, share why they chose to donate it, and explain how it would make another child happy. They donated more than 30 toys and experienced the powerful gift of giving.

by Virginia Craighill

Dear Angel,

It's almost the end of the year, and I am trying to clean out my emails; now that I'm paying attention, I see that most of the ones I ignored are surveys. Why do I have to answer surveys about everything from what I ate for lunch to whether my ATM experience was satisfactory (and, no, it wasn't because my balance is too low)? What gives?

> Signed, None of Your Business

Dear Minding Your Own Business,

Surveys are indeed ubiquitous, and can be off-putting when the email announcing one begins, "We appreciate your feedback. This survey will only take one hour and 45 minutes of your time. If you choose not to fill it out at this time, we will continue to clog your email box with reminders for the rest of eternity." And speaking of eternity, instead of sticking sinners with pitchforks, hell's demons must just make them take surveys: 1) "On a scale of 1 to 10, 10 being the best, how was your experience in the Circle of the Wrathful?" 2) "Did you feel that your punishment correctly mirrored your sin? Yes / No / N/A." 3) "On a scale of 1 to 10, were your devils swift and courteous in meting out torture? If not, please tell us what they could do to make your experience more pleasurable, or painful, depending on your attitude, and don't worry, the survey is absolutely anonymous!"

In higher education, the excessive amount of surveys are driven by assessment, and assessment is required by administrators, who are driven by accreditation agencies, whose members moonlight as the fiends of the underworld, where they also administer surveys to the administrators who end up there (Dante calls it contrapasso). It is necessary to gather enormous amounts of evaluative data to find out whether or not you are doing a good job at whatever you're supposed to be doing, but you're probably not doing a good job because you're too busy making up surveys and compiling data.

So, should you just delete all your surveys, or spend Christmas through New Year's completing them? My suggestion would be to tell your small children (or if you don't have any, someone else's small children) that surveys are like video games and let them fill them out. It gives the kids something to do for hours, and you'll have a little time to finish off the eggnog and take a nap.

Happy Holidays!

SPD Increases Impaired-Driving Enforcement During Holidays

Sewanee Police Department is partnering with the Tennessee Highway Safety Office (THSO) to increase impaired-driving enforcement through Dec. 31, surrounding the holiday season. The THSO's statewide "Booze It and Lose It" campaign is part of the National Highway Traffice Safety Administration's "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" nationwide mobilization.

Increased state and national messaging about the dangers of drunk driving, coupled with increased sobriety checkpoints and high visibility enforcement, aim to drastically reduce the number of drunk-driving crashes, injuries, and fatalities this year.

"We ask all Tennesseans to please drive safely this holiday season," said THSO Director Vic Donoho. "In December 2016, more than 500 traffic crashes statewide involved a drunk driver. Our state and local law enforcement partners will be out in full force to secure Tennessee roadways. We want everyone to make it home safely, so please designate a sober driver."

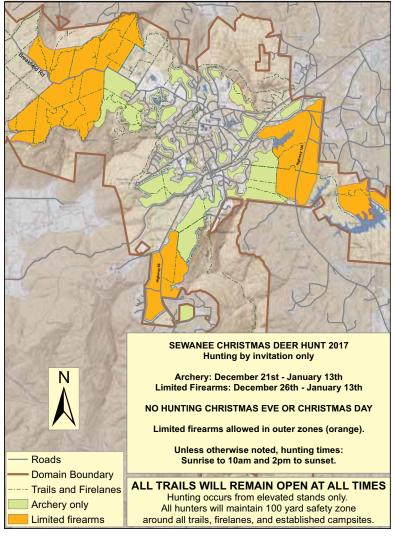

The consequences of a single DUI conviction for a first-time offender in the state of Tennessee may include costly fines, court costs, legal fees, jail time, mandatory drug and alcohol treatment, and/or the installation of an ignition interlock device in his/her vehicle.

The THSO provides grant funding to support the Sewanee Police Department to increase enforcement efforts during the "Booze It and Lose It" holiday campaign. For more information about the THSO, please visit <www.tntraf ficsafety.org>.

"I heard the bells on Christmas Day, their old familiar carols play" are the lyrics, which begin a traditional carol. On Christmas Day the words will come to life in Sewanee, as Sarah Strickland plays familiar carols and traditional holiday melodies on Christmas morn around 11:30 a.m. The University clock will continue to chime the Westminster tune and strike the hour.

The Bentley Bells will be silent until New Year's Eve. All of the ringers are celebrating the coming of the Christ Child with their families in towns other than Sewanee. At midnight on Dec. 31 the tenor bell, with others, will ring in the New Year and celebrate the passing of the old in Breslin Tower.

Those of us who keep the bells ringing in the towers of the University wish for all a Merry Christmas and a most Happy New Year full of Grace, which brings us peace.

2017 Sewanee Deer Hunt News

deer hunting season begins Thursday, Sewanee. Dec. 21, and continues through Jan. 13, 2018.

The in-town segment of the deer hunt allows for a broader hunting break. The University deer management program continues to move toward its stated goal of a more socially and ecologically sustainable herd size. The raw number of animals harvested size has declined and stabilized. The overall goal of the hunting program is to balance the sex ratio between and people. female and male animals which will reduce the pressure on the landscape is not open to the general public. To and allow habitats to recover from view the map and the full list of rules over browsing. Lowering overall and requirements visit http://sustain. population numbers leads to lower sewanee.edu/the-domain/ecosystemharvest as there are fewer animals on management/deer-hunting/>. Rules the landscape.

This year we added a new vegetation sampling protocol that allows students to look at the browse intensity on individual plant species across several areas of the Domain. Students found that the plant species that are browsed by deer shift depending on the density after Christmas. As in previous years, of the deer herd, and that the browse if you are a leaseholder experiencing intensities often change abruptly in the extreme browse on your leasehold, forest coincident with abrupt changes in deer density.

Philopatry is the tendency of an organism to stay in (or habitually return to) a particular area. For deer, they always eventually end up moving to where the females are during the breeding season. This philopatry creates these hard edges in the forest between areas of high deer density and areas of low density. The same is true in town. Our community survey indicates that overall, a majority of residents (60.4 percent of respondents) but many of those who have experi- online with the University. enced damage, have experienced a lot

Pets of the Week

Meet Dinah & Susan

Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption. Dinah is a playful four-month-old Labrador-mix puppy. She loves to run, go for walks and enjoy her favorite treats. Dinah is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots, microchipped and spayed.

Susan is a beautiful three-month-old Tortoiseshell kitten. Somewhat on the uiet side, she loves to be held or to sit in your lap and she loves treats! Susan is IV/FeLV negative, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for veterans and seniors. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than fourmonths-old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Road, off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at (931) 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <animalharbor.org>. Enter the drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

NATURENOTES

Winter Wren

Robin Gottfried spotted a winter wren earlier this week, near our house. It is noticeably smaller than the Carolina wren, our year-round resident wren, and more of a plain brown color, while the Carolina wren is buff below and a warm rusty brown above. The winter wren also has a shorter tail, which it holds cocked. It breeds in northern coniferous forests but overwinters in the more southern part of the United States. It is a year-round resident of the Appalachian Mountain region.

On a spring wildflower walk in the Smokies, I heard its marvelously complex and beautiful song down in a cove, where it sounded like the spirit of the forest itself. It is also a loud song, ten times more so than the crowing of a rooster, per unit weight. It will sometimes sing on warm days in the winter as well as, of course, in the breeding season. Wrens are birds of the Americas, where there are some 80 species, whereas there is only one species in the rest of the world. Fun fact: The genus name of this wren is Troglodytes, from its searches in natural cavities for suitable nesting sites.
