Published as a public service for the Sewanee community since 1985.

Accidental Fire Displaces Local Residents

A major fire ravaged the Kennerly Avenue home of longtime Sewanee residents Tibby Tucker and Freddy Tucker last week, causing serious damage to the home and displacing its residents. According to Todd Hindman, an investigator with the Franklin County Sheriff's Department, the cause of the fire was accidental, and there was no sign of arson or foul play. "There is a lot of fire and smoke damage to the house," he said.

"Sewanee is lucky to have such a great fire department," Hindman said. "They have a terrific response time, and they really kept this fire from getting out of hand."

David Combs, student fire chief for the Sewanee Fire Department, said the call came in at 8:20 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 2, from the home, and the fire trucks arrived on the scene four minutes later. Because it was very cold that night, Sewanee police and EMTs were also called to the scene to assist with moving the residents to a safe place.

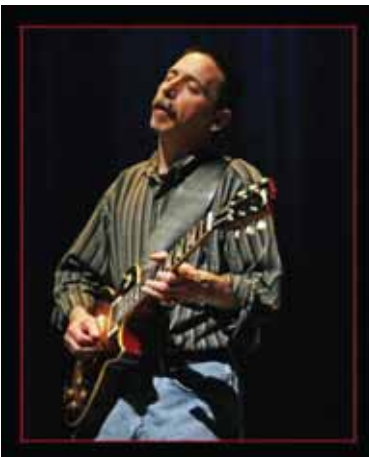

"The house was fully involved when we arrived," Combs said, "Flames were coming out of the front and the rear of the house. We had the fire under control within 30 minutes of arriving on the scene."

Water from the fire trucks and hoses covered the road as they worked, Combs said, which later froze; police closed Kennerly Avenue overnight because of ice.

The Community Action Committee has been assisting the Tucker family since the night of the fire. Director Kana Goldsmith said CAC is helping them find temporary housing and replace items lost in the blaze.

"We are working with the Hospitality Shop in Sewanee and the American Red Cross of Franklin County to make sure their needs are being met," she said.

CAC is an outreach ministry of Otey Parish that offers assistance to families in crisis in the greater Sewanee community. It accepts financial contributions to support its ministry, including its Fire Relief Fund. For more information about CAC, call 598-5927.

Guitarist, singer and songwriter Jack Pearson brings his talents to McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School for a concert at 7 p.m. tonight, Friday, Feb. 11. This free concert is sponsored in part with a grant from the Tennessee Arts Commission.

"Monday," by Thomas Coates (oil on canvas, 40 x 48 inches) from the exhibition "The New English Art Club: Figurative Painting from Britain" that opens at the University Art Gallery on Saturday, Feb. 19. For complete story, see page 7.

Orchestra Offers Eclectic Concert with Act of Congress on Sunday

"Baroque, Beethoven, and Bluegrass" is the title of the upcoming concert by the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra. Offered with the group Act of Congress, this eclectic and exciting event will begin at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 20, in Guerry Hall.

Based in Birmingham, Act of Congress plays an acoustic blend of bluegrass, rock and jazz in a style referred to as "newgrass." Each of the four members comes from a different musical background contributing to the band's diverse sound.

The first half of the concert will be the Beethoven and baroque segments. The program will include Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony." Orchestra member Susanna Metz said, "Even though everyone can hum the first ten bars, and other well-known conductors such as Bugs Bunny have introduced young people for decades to this incredible symphony, come hear how our new conductor Mr. Joseph Lee interprets the Fifth with the orchestra."

The baroque part of the concert will be Vivaldi's "Concerto for Four Violins in B Minor." This three-movement work for four solo violins, played by University students, plus orchestral ripieno of violins, violas, cello and basso continuo is pure Vivaldi.

The second half of the concert will feature Act of Congress, joined by the orchestra in the music from its 2008 acclaimed CD, Declaration. In this portion of the concert, there are pieces for everyone; flavors of gospel, soft rock, classic and mountain folk, all with lyrics from fun to thought-provoking. Act of Congress will also be playing a benefit for Statewide Organizing for Community eMpowerment (see story on page 4).

Sunday's concert is free and open to the public.

Alexander to Step Down in 2012 as Chancellor and Bishop

University Chancellor the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta, has announced his plans to step aside next year after 11 years as bishop. As part of this change, he will step down as Sewanee's chancellor. In an interview this week, Alexander said, "It was a very hard decision to leave my current posts. I love the Diocese of Atlanta. We have outstanding clergy, strong lay leadership, and our people have a heart for mission. I count it among the great blessings of my life to have served such a strong and vigorous diocese as its bishop. And, of course, I deeply love Sewanee."

Alexander plans to continue his service as Sewanee's chancellor through the annual meeting of 2012, at which time the University's trustees will elect a new honorary head. At that time he will have served half of the normal six-year term.

Vice-Chancellor John M. McCardell offered high praise for Alexander's leadership. "I have thoroughly enjoyed working with Bishop Alexander and deeply respect him as a prelate, a scholar, and a committed servant of the University. His decision at this time seems logical and, luckily for us, does not carry with it an imminent departure as chancellor," McCardell said. "With his customary consideration, he has made a decision that will allow the University both to plan for an orderly succession and to continue to benefit from his leadership for quite some time to come."

Alexander (pictured at right) said he has long been connected to Sewanee. "I love the place, and I give Sewanee a great deal of credit for shaping me in important ways. I am honored to serve as the chancellor, and I look forward to continuing that work for the next year-and-a-half while I'm still the bishop of Atlanta," he said. "And even when I pass the mantle of chancellor to another bishop, I will always be a strong and passionate advocate of Sewanee."

Alexander will join the faculty of Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta in the fall of 2012. Before being elected as Bishop of Atlanta in 2001, Alexander taught at Sewanee's School of Theology and was priest-in-charge of St. Agnes' Church in Cowan. He has also taught at General Theological Seminary, Yale, Drew and Wilfrid Laurier universities.

"As much as I have loved being the bishop of Atlanta, I have often confessed that I missed the classroom," he said. "In some ways a seminary classroom is my 'natural habitat.' I've missed the stimulation of trying to stay a day or two ahead of the students. I look forward to being back in the academy."

Alexander stressed that his decision has nothing to do with the larger issues in the Episcopal Church.

"I believe the church is in great shape just now about the work of its mission, making a difference in the lives of countless folks around the world. Our 'troubles' are not unimportant, but much of the time they are a distraction from the real business of the gospel. But there's nothing whatsoever political about this move. I'm proud to be an Episcopalian!"

Theology Lecture Series Begins

Don Saliers, an accomplished musician, theologian, scholar of liturgics and a United Methodist pastor will launch the School of Theology's 2011 Lecture Series at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 17, at Hamilton Hall. Saliers is the author of numerous books on the relationship between theology and worship practices. He will also speak at 2 p.m., Friday, Feb. 18. A reception and time for conversation will be held after the Friday afternoon lecture.

The lecture series continues on Feb. 22 with poet Marilyn Nelson and on March 26 with a day-long conference on C. S. Lewis. In June, theologian Walter Brueggemann will offer two lectures on the Old Testament in Christian preaching. The series culminates in October with author and preacher Barbara Brown Taylor as the guest speaker for the 2011 DuBose Lectures.

A link to the 2011 lecture series is at <www.theology.sewanee.edu>. All lectures and conferences are free and open to the public.

"The Science of Chocolate" at Woman's Club Monday

The February meeting of the Sewanee Woman's Club will be Monday, Feb. 14, at St. Mary's Sewanee, beginning with a social time at 11:30 a.m. and lunch at noon.

Jennifer Bachman will speak on "The Science of Chocolate." Rachel Lynch will have jewelry, scarves and neckties for sale in the hearth room at St. Mary's Sewanee. Bachman has been the chemistry lab coordinator at the University for almost 10 years and has developed lectures for the "Science of Food and Cooking" course. She will share her presentation on the science of chocolate and provide samples for tasting.

"State of American Education" Topic of Lecture

Paul E. Peterson, a leading scholar in education policy, will speak on "The Perilous State of American Education, and the Promising Future Ahead" at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 17, in Gailor Auditorium. The talk, which continues the University's focus on challenges and solutions in education, will discuss how Americans have tried to fix schools by centralizing power, and whether schools can be transformed by personalizing the education each student receives.

Peterson is the Henry Lee Shattuck professor of government and director of the program on education policy and governance at Harvard University, a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University and editor-in-chief of "Education Next," a journal of opinion and research about education policy. Peterson is a member of the independent review panel advising the Department of Education's evaluation of the "No Child Left Behind" law. The lecture is sponsored by the Kennedy Lecture and Seminar Series.

Lecture Linking Environment and Economic Issues

John Francis, United Nations Environmental Program Goodwill Ambassador, will speak at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 17 in Gailor Auditorium about his remarkable journey across the United States and through South America.

In 1971, Francis witnessed the devastation of an oil spill in San Francisco Bay and decided to abandon motorized transportation altogether. Seven months later, Francis, not content with sacrificing only motorized transportation, gave up his voice as well, taking a vow of silence. His non-motorized lifestyle lasted 22 years, and his silence lasted 17 years.

In his talk Francis will discuss how the current environmental crisis is a reflection of worldwide social and economic inequity and that any attempt to resolve the crisis must not only address the scientific issues, but also the humanitarian issues.

Francis contends that our connection to the earth, as well as to each other, is at the heart of the environmental crisis.

This talk is sponsored by the Sewanee Whistler Society, the University Lectures Committee, the Order of Gownsmen, the Society of Sewanee Scholars, and the biology and political science departments.

State Fire Marshal Urges Residents To Practice Fire Safety

Julie Mix McPeak, fire marshal for the state, wants to remind Tennesseans to keep safe and warm, as freezing temperatures continually move across the state. She urges residents to be cautious in the use of alternative heat sources.

"The winter weather means many people are heating their homes with fireplaces, wood stoves and space heaters," said McPeak. "Cold weather months typically have a higher number of accidental fire injuries and deaths due to the use of these alternative heat sources." Following a few safety tips can greatly reduce the risk of fires:

—Make it a "house rule" to test your home's smoke alarms before using a space heater or fireplace. All smoke alarms should additionally be tested once a month.

—Space heaters need space. Never put a space heater within three feet of anything combustible, including furniture, bedding or aerosol cans. Make sure the space heater bears the mark of an independent testing lab such as UL or FM. Look for models with automatic shutoff features. Never use extension cords with space heaters.

—Before you use your fireplace, make sure the chimney has been professionally cleaned to remove the buildup of combustible materials that accumulate inside the flue.

—Be sure any kerosene-fueled heating device is installed with proper ventilation. A portable kerosene heater must be filled only in a well-ventilated area, free of flame and other heat sources, and only when the device has cooled completely. Use only the type of kerosene specified by the manufacturer, and never use gasoline in place of kerosene.

—Never leave a fire, space heater or flame unattended.

Additionally, make sure furniture, clothing and other combustible materials are not placed in front of permanently mounted heaters like those in walls or on baseboards.

Outreach Trips Host Silent Auction

Two of the University's Spring Break outreach trips are sponsoring a silent auction on Thursday, Feb. 24, to raise money for their efforts.

The New York and Miami groups are hosting the auction at the Bishop's Common (located on Georgia Avenue between St. Luke's Chapel and Stirling's Coffee House) from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Community members can bid on original art, gift cards to local restaurants and businesses, rental houses, dinners with professors and University staff members, and many other exciting and unusual things.

The New York City trip works with two sites: the Gay Men's Health Crisis Center and Momentum. Both agencies care for HIV/Aids clients through meal distributions, wellness and nutritional consultation, counseling and public policy advocacy.

The Miami trip works with a rehabilitation group called "Shake a Leg" that helps handicapped children. Founded by a father with a handicapped child, this organization allows children to experience activities on the water that otherwise would not be possible such as kayaking, sailing and other water sports. Sewanee students also tutor and help with after-school activities.

For more information about the auction or these trips, contact the Outreach Office at 598-1156.

AT THE MOVIES

Sewanee Union Theatre This Week
Friday–Sunday, Feb. 11-13, at 7:30 p.m.
The Social Network
 120 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

Whether you are hooked on Facebook or not, “The Social Network” is a terrific movie about the way many of us interact. Mark Zuckerberg (Jessie Eisenberg) is an annoying Harvard student who can’t sustain a relationship, but knows how to program a computer and understands what college students want to know about one another. By putting those two skills together, in 2003 he created the first online “Facebook” with photos of college freshman and their interests. In the hands of writer Aaron Sorkin and director David Fincher, “The Social Network” moves beyond the story of a single website to examine the broad impact of online social media. Nominated for eight Oscars, the movie is also a sobering view of the college social scene, skirting the edge of an “R” rating. Rated PG-13 for sexual content, drug and alcohol use and language.

Cinema Guild Next Week
Thursday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p.m.
La Belle et La Bête
 93 minutes • Unrated • Free

French director Jean Cocteau’s classic retelling of “The Beauty and the Beast,” “La Belle et La Bête” is a treat for all students of French poetry. Cocteau has been praised for this beautiful and lyrical version. Netflix offers a good summary of the story. “Lost in the woods, a hapless merchant is captured and held prisoner in the castle of a beast-like man (Jean Marais), who vows to kill the merchant unless he’s replaced by one of his daughters. The lovely Belle (Josette Day) gives herself up to save her father. But before long, she finds the beauty hiding inside her grotesque captor.” Unrated.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week
Wednesday, Friday, Feb. 16, 18-20, at 7:30 p.m.
The Tempest
 110 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

In this gender-bending spin on Shakespeare’s “The Tempest,” director Julie Taymor transforms the sorcerer Prospero into a sorceress, Prospera (played by Oscar-winner Helen Mirren). With an outstanding cast, including Alfred Molina, Alan Cumming, David Strathairn and Felicity Jones, Taymor has interpreted the classic text with special effects that as one reviewer said, “begin with the word tempest and build to a frenzy.” Taymor is best known as an innovative and risk-taking theater director (she conceived “The Lion King” for the stage and is currently directing the new “Spiderman” musical on Broadway). This version of “The Tempest” was poorly reviewed and barely screened, but maybe the Sewanee audience will appreciate its creative adaptation and excellent acting. Rated PG-13 for some nudity, suggestive content and scary images.

Gerard Offers Painting Workshop on Saturday

Artist Mira Gerard will offer a day-long workshop, the “Painterly Still Life,” on Saturday, Feb. 12, to the public. This class will utilize traditional systems of observational painting techniques to create a painterly still life. The workshop is in conjunction with her exhibition at the St. Andrew’s-Sewanee Gallery.

“I utilize staged and found imagery from a range of disparate sources that refer to my own memories, experiences and dreams,” Gerard said. “Personal desires and compulsions guide some of the implied narratives in the work itself, as well as a fixation on media-related images from the world at large.”

A 1986 graduate of St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School, Gerard currently teaches painting at East Tennessee University in Johnson City. Gerard received a B.F.A. from Indiana University, Bloomington and an M.F.A. from the University of Georgia, Athens.

There is a $60 workshop fee which covers all supplies and lunch. For more information and to register for the workshop, contact <sasgallery@sasweb.org> or call Christi Teasley, 598-5651, ext 3151.

University Gallery Presents New Show of Landscapes and Portraits

Sewanee’s University Art Gallery presents “The New English Art Club: Figurative Painting from Britain,” an exhibition of landscapes, still lifes and portraits by eight members of the New English Art Club, an organization established in 1886 under the influence of French Impressionist painting. The show includes paintings by Thomas Coates, Benjamin Sullivan and Melissa Scott-Miller. In this exhibition, Coates’ painterly landscapes appear alongside Sullivan’s minutely observed interiors, nude studies appear alongside unsparing portraits, and the University of the South appears alongside views of London and Venice.

“The New English Art Club: Figurative Painting from Britain” will be on view in the University Art Gallery from Feb. 19 until April 10. Opening events will begin at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 19, in the University Art Gallery with a reception and an artist’s talk by the painter Thomas Coates, a former president of both the New English Art Club and of the Royal Society of British Artists.

Coates will lead a drawing and pastels workshop at 1 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 20. The workshop is open to the public; there is no charge, but donations to the Friends of the University Art Gallery are welcomed. Registration is required, and space is limited. The gallery is located at 68 Georgia Ave., is accessible and free to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. ## Sewanee Elementary Boys & Girls Wrap Up Basketball Season

Both of the Sewanee Elementary School basketball teams wrapped up their regular seasons last week against Huntland.

The boys' basketball team secured another win against Huntland last Thursday by a score of 37-14. The Tigers got off to a quick start, led by heads-up defense from guard Sam Green. Green quickly racked up nine points and five steals. A.J. Mullin dropped in 10 points from inside and blocked four shots. Ryan Toomey and Blaise Zeitler chipped in six each. Zeitler also dominated the boards with six rebounds.

The girls' basketball team took on the undefeated Huntland team in action Thursday, Feb. 3. With two starters out, the entire SES team stepped up their play. Outstanding defensive effort by Callie Cantrell and Emilie LaVoie-Ingram kept this game from getting entirely out of hand.

While the team could not find the back of the net on numerous scoring opportunities, they hustled, blocked shots, rebounded and stole plenty of balls. Huntland was 15-2 at the half and took the win, 23-4.

For SES, it was the Kate Butler show. She scored all four points. SES takes on Clark Memorial next to finish up the regular basketball season.

SAS MS Basketball Teams Head to Tournaments

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School girls' and boys' middle school basketball teams move into post-season action this weekend after frustrating ends to their regular seasons.

The boys' team suffered a lopsided defeat on the road at the hands of the North Warriors Feb. 3 in Altamont, 88-27. Good performances from SAS included Andrew Heitzenrater, who scored 15 points, including four from beyond the arc; Casey Willis, who had six points; and two points each from Jake Wiley, Sam Thomas and Fritz Stein.

In a makeup game on Friday, the SAS boys hosted undefeated Coalmont and lost 50-30. Despite the loss, coach Bill Seavey said, "Our Mountain Lions played well and felt good about their performance."

Heitzenrater led a charge in the fourth quarter that brought the game to within eight points, 38-30, but the Rebels took control and proved why they are undefeated. SAS held its own: sixth-graders Sam Smith and Sam Thomas sparked several comebacks with their aggressive play. Heitzenrater finished with 15 points, and Willis had eight. The Mountain Lions finished their season in a secure fourth place, with an even 8-8 record.

The SAS middle school girls' basketball team played with heart and determination last week, keeping Coalmont within reach the entire game, but Coalmont took the win from the Mountain Lions in the final quarter. Going into the fourth quarter, Coalmont was in the lead, 16-14. SAS put on a lot of pressure and took the lead with less than two minutes remaining. SAS tried to hold on, but Coalmont's full-court pressure and the Mountain Lion's lead scorers fouling out ended the regular season with a loss, 27-22. Isabel Butler was unstoppable, leading the team with 16 points, and Diana Rinck, with six points.

Tigers Hosted Indoor Meet

The Sewanee men's and women's track and field teams hosted the Tiger Indoor Invitational. Distance runners highlighted the Sewanee effort, as Clay Bond and Will Mohr finished one-two in the men's mile run and Cara Martin grabbed a second-place finish in the women's 3k race. Tyler Wilcox also finished fourth in the 800-meter run. Sewanee's Maria Olson finished sixth in the women's high jump.

Coach Jeff Heitzenrater was pleased with the Tigers' effort. "I felt good about our opening performances and look forward to seeing a larger portion of our team compete as we get further into the season," he said.

The Tigers will be back in action on Feb. 19, when they head to Indiana to compete at DePauw.

SAS Boys Defeat Richard Hardy

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee boys' varsity basketball team defeated Richard Hardy Memorial School by a score of 52-50 on Saturday night.

SAS was led by Tilghman Myers who had 18 points and four steals; Kendall Kinslow had 14 points and eight rebounds; John Fisher had 12 points, four steals and five assists; Jonathan Jones had five rebounds and five points; Josh Owens added two points; Justin Thomas added three rebounds. SAS picked up its seventh win on the season.

Overtime with Coach Shack

By John Shackelford

They say the worst part of youth and high school sports is the ride home. Sometimes it is hard to hear your parents analyze, critique and judge your performance. I knew that fear, but for the majority of my athletic days, I was spared. My father was educated as a civil engineer and later became a lawyer, so if anyone knew how to take a performance apart piece by piece, analyze the mistakes, and offer suggestions for improvement, he would be the one. Yet he knew when to stay silent on those drives back home. As Paul Newman said in "Cool Hand Luke," "Sometimes nothing is a pretty cool hand."

Papa Shack knew when I was hurting. He could sense I was aware of the mistakes I had made and already burned with the desire to improve. Nothing he could say would change that feeling. So we drove in silence. Giving me those quiet moments told me that even though I may have struck out, or missed a free throw, or double-faulted at the wrong time, that I was loved. My feelings were my own and he let them be until I was ready to be coached.

My father died today. For the past two years, there has only been silence between us. The brain that could once analyze a complex issue was no longer there. The man who could tell me what to do cannot coach me anymore. In that silence, in those moments that pass between a father and a son, he knew too, that he was loved. If you have read this column before, then you know my memories of a man who would throw the baseball with his son in our neighbor's driveway and would treat the entire Little League team to ice cream after practice.

Memories have a way of building a man up to be even greater than he may have been. The truth is my father never wanted to be great. He only wanted to be good. He believed in being a good husband, a good father, a man who showed up for work everyday and at church on Sunday mornings. He came home only when the job was done and then he had time for baseball, tennis or a bike ride on Saturday with his whole family. Being good means believing in justice. That is why he became a lawyer. He spent his life helping people to be treated fairly. Most of them didn't have money or live on the nice side of town. No person, in his mind, deserved to be greater than another.

One Saturday morning while he was working in his office, he watched from his window as two boys ran by and stole his bicycle from his office steps. He was furious. Not so much about the bicycle, as that could easily be replaced, but about the injustice of taking something that didn't belong to you. He got in his car and drove into an area of town where rich white lawyers were in the minority. After seeing his seat pack pass by, attached to another bike, he realized the auction was already underway. While he sat there and pieced together the fact that the odds were stacked against him, he heard a familiar voice, "Mr. Shack, what in the world are you doing down here?" It was the voice of a fierce, large man from this disadvantaged neighborhood with arms like tree trunks who could clearly strike fear into anyone who crossed his path. My father had coached this man as a boy and later represented him in court. A few short minutes later the bicycle was returned and apologies were humbly given. Justice was done and a favor returned.

Many people recognized in him the desire for fairness, and they loved him for it. He grew up poor in Antigo, Wisconsin, and when he left for college he stood at the bus stop with all of his possessions in an old brown grocery sack. He made fun of me when I left for college with a truckload of stereos, bookshelves, tennis rackets and worldly goods all earned by the hours that he spent in his law office. I will take his ashes next week into the Blue Ridge Mountains that he made his adopted home, carrying them in a paper sack that he requested. There will only be silence, because we both know it has all been said. Love can travel between a father and a son as quietly as my pitch once reached his glove. He was simply a good man, and I know that the adjective in my post game-analysis will disappoint him when I say out loud on my drive home that John Shackelford was a great father.

Nature Notes

Flying Squirrels

On Feb. 3, Jean Yeatman was awakened at 3 a.m. because the house was very cold. The electric heat was not working. She stumbled around in the dark, woke Harry, found a flashlight and phoned Duck River Electric for help. In spite of the bad weather and driving conditions, the electricians arrived in remarkably short time to examine the transformer located on one of the poles in the Yeatmans' yard. Their snorkel truck lifted a workman and found the transformer shorted out, and an electrocuted Flying Squirrel was removed. Immediately, the electricity was on, and so were the house lights and warmth. Sleep was restored. Last fall, a gray squirrel had caused the same outage. Gray squirrels climb telephone poles in daytime, but Flying Squirrels stretch their skins and glide to poles and tree trunks at night.

Pets of the Week: Meet Lizzy & Hermione

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Lizzy is a cute little tri-color Pomeranian/Terrier mix. She is sweet and playful, and she will do best in a home with active adults. Lizzy is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Hermione is a dilute tortoiseshell with big gold eyes. She is a quiet snuggle bug who would like to be adopted with one of her adorable orange tabby siblings, if possible. Hermione is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out their other pets at www.animalharbor.com. Please help The Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Nominations Open for Stewardship Award

The Department of Environment and Conservation is inviting Tennesseans to submit nominations for the Governor's 2011 Environmental Stewardship Awards. The awards recognize Tennesseans who go above and beyond to protect the state's diverse environment.

"Tennesseans continue to make great strides in protecting our environment, taking care of our air, land and water through innovation and hard work," said Governor Bill Haslam. "I am pleased to support a program that recognizes leadership that affects the environment and often, the bottom line."

The Governor's Environmental Stewardship Awards cover 13 categories: Agriculture/Forestry; Aquatic Resource Preservation; Building Green; Energy Leadership; Environmental Education and Outreach; Green Schools; Greenways and Trails; Hazardous Waste Reduction; Solid Waste Reduction; Lifetime Achievement; Natural Heritage Conservation; Parks and Recreation; and Pollution Prevention.

Any individual, business, organization, educational institution or agency is eligible, provided they are located in Tennessee and projects were completed during the 2010 calendar year. All nominees must have a minimum three years of environmental compliance with the Department of Environment and Conservation. Self-nominations are encouraged.

"The quality of our environment is so important in our daily lives and citizens continue raising the bar to ensure that Tennessee's communities are healthy places to live, work and play," said Environment and Conservation Commissioner Bob Martineau.

The deadline for nominations is April 30, 2011. Award recipients will be announced in June 2011.

For more information about each category, judging criteria and nomination forms, visit the website at <www.tn.gov/environment/awards>.

From Bard to Verse

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

My heart has made its mind up
And I'm afraid it's you.
Whatever you've got lined up,
My heart has made its mind up
And if you can't be signed up
This year, next year will do.
My heart has made its mind up
And I'm afraid it's you.

—“Valentine” by Wendy Cope

This book I've been reading rests on my knee. You sleep.

It's beautiful out there - fields, little lakes and winter trees in February sunlight,
every car park a shining mosaic.

Long, radiant minutes,
your hand in my hand,
still warm, still warm.

—“On the Train” by Wendy Cope
