

Barry Steps Down After 45 Years

After 45 years of service, Sewanee athletic department staff member Bill Barry has announced he will retire from the University at the end of the school year.

"I have enjoyed working for the University and the athletic department during my time on the mountain," said Barry. "The coaches, athletic directors and support staff, along with the administration during this time, have been a pleasure to work with throughout my career."

The athletic department will recognize Barry prior to tonight's (Friday, Feb. 21) men's home basketball game at 8 p.m. in Juhan Gymnasium.

Barry will step away as one of the most highly regarded staff members of the department of athletics. In 2011, Barry was inducted into the Sewanee Athletics Hall of Fame.

Barry was hired as the head athletic trainer at Sewanee in 1969. Barry served for 25 years in the training room before taking the role of facilities and business manager when the Robert Dobbs Fowler Center opened in 1994.

"The Sewanee faithful regularly beat a path to Bill's office to reminisce about Tiger athletics from years ago,"

SCCF Announces Next Grant Round

The South Cumberland Community Fund (SCCF) welcomes grant requests from nonprofit organizations for projects that strengthen community and improve lives in the South Cumberland region. The deadline for applications is May 1; final selection of grant recipients will be made by Aug. 1.

"The Community Fund has given $225,000 to 20 different groups over the last two years. We're proud to be part of this community, and we hope to make a lasting impact with our grant program," said Scott Parrish, SCCF board chairman.

Several changes have been made to the fund's grants program this year. The fund will not make grants of less than $1,000 or more than $10,000.

In addition, applicants in 2014 must attend an information session designed to ensure they understand what is required in an application.

There will be two opportunities to attend this required meeting: 10 a.m., Saturday, March 29, and 5 p.m., Tuesday, April 8; both will be at the Coalmont Community Center.

SCCF has established seven priority areas for funding: building our sense of community, strengthening our economy, developing the potential of our youth, tapping the potential of our elders, conserving the past, enlarging the vision of the future, and meeting basic needs.

Chief Green Fulfills Lifelong Dream of Playing with Allman Brothers

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

"In Memory of Elizabeth Reed" was the background music for writing the first lines of this article. The Allman Brothers legendary instrumental is one of David Green's favorite songs and "At Fillmore East" is his go-to album. "I've run through two vinyl copies of it and a couple of CD copies. I just have it in my head," he said.

Sewanee's fire chief was happy to reminisce about a recent gig that was a dream come true for him. During the interview at his office in University Print Services, we sat in a hallway next to an offset printer. Deep black ink splashes dotted the floor as he talked about getting to play drums with Butch Trucks, one of the founding members of the Allman Brothers Band.

"If I could do anything musically, it would be to jam a little bit with the Allman Brothers," he said.

Green, 57, picked up a pair of drumsticks when he was 13 and began a lifelong love for the Allman Brothers Band, whose complex blend of music features two drummers: Trucks, a straightforward rocker, and Jaimoe, whose style is more jazz fusion.

In January Green took a Caribbean cruise, part of which was a "Music Masters Camp at Sea." It featured jam sessions and seminars with six music professionals, including Trucks.

During the trip Green got to play drums alongside this man who was such an inspiration to him. At the end of the cruise, Trucks presented Green with the "Butch Trucks Award" for best drummer at the camp.

DuBose Center Appoints New Director

The board of directors of DuBose Conference Center has named Chattanooga businessman and civic leader David R. Ramsey as its new executive director. Ramsey brings experience in executive leadership, day-to-day business management, nonprofit development and fund-raising, as well as a lifelong history with DuBose.

Ramsey also has deep connections to DuBose, including as a camper at Camp Gailor-Maxon and serving meals at Episcopal Laymen's Conferences. He has served two terms on the DuBose board, and was the board president 1996-97.

"In many ways, it feels like my whole life has been a preparation for this job: from my days here as a camper and a layman, to serving on the DuBose board, to running and growing construction-related businesses, and doing development work for nonprofits," Ramsey said. "Every aspect of that experience leads me here."

"David's executive and development experience will be critical as DuBose begins a new strategic plan and a fully integrated development plan to support DuBose's mission into the future," said Brad Almquist, chairman of the DuBose board. "He has a deep love for the place and respects its rich history, its role in the church and on the Mountain. And he also has the skills to be a great steward and leader for DuBose."

Ramsey's first action was the hiring of Christy Mitchell as associate director for guest services; her hospitality industry experience includes events management for the Jack Daniels Distillery in Lynchburg.

"Christy is a great addition to the DuBose staff, and will enhance our ability to develop new programs, attract more guest groups, and retain the same warm DuBose hospitality everyone loves," said Ramsey.

Ramsey is the former CEO of Ramsey Electric Supply Co. and led it from a small family-owned company to a large distributor with more than 40 employees. He ran an environmental firm, Earthscapes, and a business consultancy. His former civic involvement includes Chattanooga Rotary Club, United Way and UT Chattanooga Chancellor's Roundtable. Most recently, Ramsey served as development director for the Children's Nutrition Program of Haiti.

Ramsey succeeds Ernest Walker IV, who decided to return to Atlanta to resume his business career.

"The board is grateful to Ernest for his hard work and his dedication to DuBose in what has turned out to be an interim position," said Almquist. "Ernest has helped us assure a smooth and positive transition for David and the staff."

DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle is a nonprofit conference center serving the Episcopal Church in Tennessee and an expanding roster of educational, arts, community and church groups. For more information go to <www.duboseconferencecenter.org>.

New Collaborative Theology Program: "Be the Change"

The diocese of Alabama has received a grant for a new initiative, "Be the Change Alabama," a partnership between the diocese of Alabama, the School of Theology, and the Leadership Development Initiative (LDI).

The grant was awarded by the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Episcopal Church. LDI is a hands-on, six-month learning lab based in Boston that aims to develop spiritual leaders for the church.

"This initiative demonstrates how a lay training center located in a seminary can forge the partnerships necessary at the church-wide, diocesan and parish levels for our church to 'be the change,'" said the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, dean of the School of Theology.

The purpose of the grant is to shape faith into action by training faith-based leadership teams for local community action in upper Alabama, creating mission enterprise zones.

"We're excited about this expansion of ministry in the 'Northern Kingdom,' as we lovingly refer to the northern part of the Diocese of Alabama," said the Rt. Rev. Kee Sloan, bishop of the Diocese of Alabama, "and excited to set off on a cooperative venture between the diocese, the School of Theology and the larger church. All of these parishes have

Waring McCrady, born in Sewanee, taught at the University from 1962 to 2012, a span of 50 years during which he was never away from Sewanee teaching for more than two years at a time. His family has a long, rich history with the town of Sewanee and the University. McCrady is a former head of the French department, president of the Franklin County Historical Society and editor of the Franklin County Historical Review.

The event is sponsored by the Sewanee Trust for Historical Preservation and is open to the public.

Seeking Band for Fourth of July Dance

The Fourth of July Street Dance planning committee is starting to look for a band to play at the 2014 event.

Interested bands should be able to play a variety of music, have played at other venues before and have their own equipment, according to Valerie Parker, chair of the street dance.

To submit a band for consideration, send a music sample via email (with a link to see or hear the band, such as on YouTube) or send a CD (with the band name clearly marked on it and the type of music).

March 15 is the deadline to be considered for this year’s street dance.

Parker can be reached by email to <vennyleal_21@hotmail.com> or 10092 Scenic Highway, Lookout Mountain, GA 30750.

In 1932 Dr. Johnson permitted her property in Summerfield to be used by Myles Horton and Don West for the development of Highlander Folk School. Justus became active in the school, serving on its board of directors and as treasurer. Justus also preserved Appalachian culture in the 76 children's books she wrote.

On Monday, Feb. 24, Otey Parish will have Holy Communion at 10 a.m. in celebration of St. Mathias Day.

Otey's Faith and Film series continues at 6:30 p.m., Friday Feb. 28, when the Rev. Jess Reeves will host a showing of the movie "Amazing Grace" (2006) in Brooks Hall.

Looking ahead, future speakers in the Lent 4.5 series will be Laura Willis, "Food Buying and Eating are Moral Acts" (March 2); Aaron Elrod, "Consumption, Buying Less, Wasting Less" (March 9); Randy Peterson, "Energy and Transportation: Choosing Efficient and Clean" (March 16); and Martin Knoll, "Water: Conserving and Protecting" (March 30). The Rev. Jess Reeves will have an open forum on March 23.

identified the needs, and it is energizing to be looking for how we can address them together on a deeper level."

The emphasis of the initiative is leadership education and development. While an outcome of the ministry will be projects that improve the lives of people who are economically disadvantaged, the goal is to prepare seminarians as well as lay leaders to be leaders of social change in ways that are effective and sustainable.

"It is rewarding to see how much energy and enthusiasm the seminarians are bringing to this new initiative," said the Rev. Kammy Young, director of contextual education and lecturer in contextual theology. "It represents another dimension to their formation that more clearly connects with their sense of calling to be leaders that help change the world."

As a parish team (consisting of one to three lay leaders, a clergy member and a seminarian "coach") goes out into the community, it will listen and discern the parish's role in local mission and development.

"The partnership with Alabama is phase one of a pilot the programs center plans to extend to other dioceses, much in the same way that Education for Ministry (EfM) was launched in Alabama and then spread," said Courtney Cowart, associate dean and director of the School of Theology's programs center. "I encourage interested clergy and bishops to come to Sewanee April 8-11, when the programs center will offer a preview of this training to those interested in joining phase two."

"The diocese of Massachusetts has been doing this type of training with Episcopal Service Corps interns as coaches in congregations," said Ella Auchincloss, executive director of LDI. "Now we are adapting this model for seminarians and asking 'Will what worked in Boston work in Alabama and beyond?'"

An Invitation to Join a Bible Study

A Bible Study Group is being formed by the Cowan Fellowship Church for its members and anyone else in the community who would like to participate in a Lenten Bible study.

The theme of the study is "Hosanna: A Spiritual Journey through Holy Week." We will study the story of Holy Week—from the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday through the Resurrection on Easter Sunday. We will use the Biblical record from all four gospels, from the writings of Paul, and from two selections from the Old Testament.

The study group will meet from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on the six Thursday evenings from March 6 to April 10, meeting at the Fellowship Church, located on East Cumberland Street in Cowan.

The study leader will be Sherwood Ebey, who is a Commissioned Lay Pastor in the Presbyterian Church and a retired professor of the University of the South.

If you wish to accept this invitation to participate in this Thursday evening Bible Study Group, please contact Sherwood Ebey (at 598-5883 or sebey@cafes.net).

"I thought I would never be able to do anything like that," Green said. "And then at the end when he said a few nice things about me and handed me that award — that was — that was pretty cool," he said smiling proudly.

Joe Canary, a dentist in Decherd by day and musician by night, first met Green in 1980 when he got a call to help out a band in need of a bass player at the NCO Club in Decherd.

"I walked in and the band was just horrible, but the drummer was awesome. That drummer was David," Canary said recently. Canary and Green have played together many times since then; their most recent collaboration was in the band Fillmore South, which covered plenty of Allman Brothers songs.

"David is an extraordinary drummer and one of the best people I have ever met, too, which is rare in the music business," Canary said.

Besides the most recent jams with Trucks, Green noted that his other big musical moment came in March of 1976. He was part of the band Up In The Air, which along with a chorus and orchestra, performed the entire rock opera "Tommy" at Guerry Hall. Both performances sold out in the effort to raise money for the University's theatre department.

In addition to drumming, Green also builds and flies model helicopters. He is the vice president of Coffee Airfoilers in Tullahoma. He has worked at Print Services since 1981 and has spent 44 years with the Sewanee Fire Department, 39 of those as chief. Green's father was also fire chief.

said Mark Webb, athletic director. "His many contributions to the athletics department over the past four-and-a-half decades are immeasurable, and I know our entire athletics staff offers him our heartfelt gratitude and very best wishes in his well-deserved retirement."

Barry has been recognized as one of the nation's top athletic trainers. After 41 years of serving on various national, state, and district committees, Barry was inducted into the Tennessee Athletic Trainers Hall of Fame in 2001.

"The most important part of my experience at Sewanee was the chance to work with our outstanding student-athletes," said Barry. "All the student-athletes I have treated and then watched during the years made my work not a job, but a joy."

Upon retirement, Barry plans on spending time with his wife of 42 years, Gail.

"I want to thank Gail for all her support throughout my career," he said. "I want to thank everyone with whom I've worked with over the years. Even though this phase of my life is coming to an end, my blood will always be purple. Sewanee has been and always will be 'right'."

Sarah Doyi (left) and Vincent Leray teamed together at Cowan Elementary School recently to present microscopes and slides donated to the school by the University. Doyi and her literacy dog, Sabbath, visit CES weekly. Leray is a post-baccalaureate fellow of the Environmental Stewardship and Sustainability Program at the University.

Askew Illustrates Sewanee Alumna's New Children's Book

Katie Hines Porterfield, C'98, has published a new children's book, "Sewanee A to Z." It is illustrated by local artist Bob Askew.

Letter by letter, "Sewanee A to Z" explores the buildings, events, traditions and natural surroundings that make Sewanee such a special place. Children will enjoy finding a Sewanee angel in every watercolor picture, as they learn about the Memorial Cross, the honor code in the College, the perimeter trail, the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department and much more. The book brings to life 26 of the many reasons why students, residents and visitors cherish the Mountain and feel compelled to return again and again.

Porterfield, a freelance writer based in Nashville, got the idea to write a children's book about Sewanee from her cousin, Robin Jones. Jones and his wife, Amanda, (also Sewanee grads C'98), recognized the need for such a book several years ago while looking in the University Book and Supply Store for a gift for their daughter. After the group decided on an "ABC" book, the three, along with Porterfield's husband, Forrest (C'98), began brainstorming words associated with each letter of the alphabet.

Porterfield worked off and on the project for two years while caring for her twin toddlers and writing freelance articles. Once her rhyming text was finally complete, Porterfield needed to find an illustrator. Hoping to use watercolor as the medium and knowing she wanted an illustrator with Sewanee ties, she emailed Bob Askew, whose watercolor paintings and notecards she'd always admired. Askew agreed to illustrate the book and along with designer Laura Crookston Deleot (C'96), the team set out to bring Porterfield's words to life. The result is a work of art with unique paintings depicting various aspects of Sewanee life on every page.

Porterfield published "Sewanee A to Z" through the Mascot Books Author Program. "Sewanee A to Z" is available at the Lemon Fair, Mooney's Market, Mountain Outfitters and Taylor's, or online at <www.store.askewart.com>. It will be available at the University Book and Supply Store in March.

Eliza McNair

Ruth Swallow

SAS Students Named National Merit Finalists

The National Merit Scholarship Program recently named St. Andrew's-Sewanee School senior day students Eliza McNair and Ruth Swallow as National Merit Finalists. Eliza is the daughter of Emily and Sam McNair of Monteagle. Ruth is the daughter of Cameron and John Swallow of Sewanee.

Eliza has served in the school's highest leadership positions as a proctor, an ambassador and a member of the Honor Council. She regularly earns High Honors for her academic achievement and has received academic awards in English 10, World History II, Latin III and IV, Advanced Algebra II, Studio Art and Life Issues. Eliza was a member of the varsity swimming and soccer teams and received the Most Improved and Most Valuable Player awards in soccer and the Coaches' Award in swimming. She recently qualified for and competed at the regional swim meet. In 2012 she was chosen to attend the Tennessee Governor's School for Physics. As a junior, Eliza spent a semester with the Traveling School exploring Central America.

Ruth is a member of the Honor Council and receives regular academic distinction on the High Honors List. She was the recipient of the 2012 Mountain Mirror Writing Award and received a gold medal on the 2013 National Spanish Exam. Ruth attended the Tennessee Governor's School for the Humanities this past summer. She sings with the University Choir at Sewanee and is a frequent performer at SAS's Creative Expression Assemblies and at venues around the area. Ruth is also a thespian with the SAS theatre program and recently had a starring role as Mrs. Lovett in the winter musical "Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street." She also serves the school as an acolyte. Ruth received early decision admission to Carleton College in Minnesota.

Both Eliza and Ruth have benefited from St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's special relationship with the University of the South that allows outstanding students to take university credits for free and for credit. This semester Eliza is taking a Calculus II class, and Ruth is taking a course on Chaucer.

About 1.5 million juniors in over 22,000 high schools entered the 2014 National Merit Scholarship Program by taking the 2012 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. The nationwide pool of Semifinalists represent less than one percent of U.S. high school seniors. From the approximately 16,000 semifinalists, about 15,000 are expected to advance to the finalist level. Of these, approximately 8,000 will be awarded merit scholarships.

AT THE MOVIES

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE

Friday–Sunday, Feb. 21–23, 7:30 p.m.

Captain Phillips

Rated PG-13 • 134 minutes

Based on the true story of a cargo ship that was hijacked by Somali pirates, “Captain Phillips” is a gripping adventure. Tom Hanks gives another terrific performance, but the real standout is Barkhad Abdi in his first acting role as Muse, the Somali pirate captain. Rated PG-13 for sustained intense sequences of menace, some violence with bloody images and for substance use.

Wednesday–Sunday, Feb. 26–March 2, 7:30 p.m.

Gravity

Rated PG-13 • 91 minutes

Director Alfonso Cuarón has created perhaps the most beautiful and poetic movie in decades with “Gravity.” You’ve no doubt seen the heart-pounding ads with Sandra Bullock and George Clooney floating through space. Yes, part of the movie is a nail-biting action picture, but at its heart it is a deeply moving, quiet contemplation of relationships and death, “a fusion of faith and science,” as one critic wrote. Rated PG-13 for intense perilous sequences, some disturbing images and brief strong language. —LW

Mountain Critics Oscar Contest Deadline Feb. 28

If you love movies as much as we do, you probably already have your list of who should win the Academy Awards (on Sunday, March 2). The Messenger has a contest to see how savvy you are. Pick who you think will win the Oscar for best picture, best actor and actress, best supporting actor and actress, and best director. The tie-breaker is best original screenplay. The person who most closely replicates the Academy’s selection wins dinner and a movie for two, sponsored by Julia’s and the SUT. There is also a spot on the ballot for a write-in candidate: sometimes the Academy doesn’t get it right. So, we have two SUT movie tickets for the most interesting write-in votes. The deadline to enter is 5 p.m., Friday, Feb. 28. Clip the ballot from last week’s Messenger and mail it to P.O. Box 296, Sewanee TN 37375. Or email your votes to <kiki_beavers@att.net>. In the subject line put “Oscar 2014” and include your name and phone number.

“The Tempest” Opens Wednesday

Theatre Sewanee will perform William Shakespeare’s “The Tempest” at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday–Saturday, Feb. 26–March 1, and at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 2 in the Tennessee Williams Center. The play is free, but reservations are encouraged by calling Marcia Mary Cook at 598-3262 or by email, <mcook@sewanee.edu>.

Shakespeare’s late, great romance is the tale of Duke Prospero’s journey from overthrow and exile to restoration and return, from his own will to power—motivated by a deep desire for revenge—to forgiveness and hope for grace. It is a tale full of incident: shipwreck, supernatural happenings, love, diabolical plots and drunken brawls. The setting is a mythical island somewhere in the Mediterranean, imagined for this production by Samantha Gribben.

Theresa Bush has designed the costumes. The musical score is by Jim Carlson, supported with John Marshall’s lighting. The choreographer is Courtney World. The director is David Landon, assisted by Lily Davenport. The stage manager is Ally Hollis, assisted by Adreyauna Lewers.

The cast includes Chase Brantley, Tia Strickland, Audrey Yatdon Tchouchoua, Sarah Weldon, Alex Linton, Austin Heerema, Lily Davenport, Max Hagen, Will Johannsson, Sally Burgess, Cody Snead, Hunter Woolwine, Charlotte La Nasa and Sarah High.

Daniel Anderson Poetry Reading

The Sewanee Writers’ Conference, in conjunction with the Department of English, presents a poetry reading by Daniel Anderson. Anderson will serve as a Senior Tennessee Williams Fellow, teaching a workshop in poetry this fall.

Come celebrate the release of Anderson’s new collection, The Night Guard at the Wilberforce Hotel.

“Teaching The Merchant of Venice” (excerpt)

They reek of alcohol and sweat, my Thursday morning students who proclaim, It’s party week!
It’s only eight a.m.

Imagine my dismay.

*Is it so  easy to forget,
an inner voice inquires,
that you would have been hungover, too, bloodshot (if even here at all,
you self-righteous jerk!)*

Gailor Auditorium | 4:30 pm | Thursday, March 6

Author will shake hands and sign books at a reception following the reading.

Tiger Track and Field Update

Led by a strong performance by Josh Hirakawa, the Sewanee track and field teams continued their spring indoor season at the Southern Athletic Association indoor meet on Feb. 15.

Hirakawa finished second in the men's 60-meter hurdles and then placed fifth in the men's long jump. Mark McAlister also ran well in the men's 5000 meters with a third-place finish (16:18.96). Jason Grimes finished fourth (16:20.21). Sprinters Cortez Brown (60 meters), Amiel Emerson (800 meters) and Logan Stockton (3000 meters) all finished fourth. Lonnie Scott placed seventh in the men's shot put. In the women's field, Amy Nelson led the way with a fourth-place finish in the weight throw. L'Or Puymartin sprinted her way to a sixth-place finish in the 400 meters with a time of 1:04.60. Maggie Thomas finished seventh in the long jump with a leap of 4.51m.

Swimming & Diving Ends Strong Season

Highlighted by being named the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Newcomer of the Year, the Sewanee swimming and diving teams closed out the conference championships on Feb. 16.

Caty Hueske earned 52 points over the three-day event, which ranked fifth among all female participants. Along with winning the 100 backstroke Feb. 15, the first-year Tiger finished second with a time of 2:06.66 in the 200 backstroke Feb. 16. Astrid Escobar won her second title of the weekend when she completed the breaststroke sweep. Escobar posted a conference record time of 2:20.31 in the 200. In the men's events, Mac McNally finished second in the 1650 free.

On Feb. 15, Hueske and Escobar led the Sewanee swimming and diving teams. After teaming up with Hueske, Mallory Graves and Erin Neil for a second-place finish in the women's 200 medley relay (1:48.42), Escobar won the women's 100 breaststroke with an NCAA "B" Cut time. A race later, Hueske won her first career SAA title with a great performance in the women's 100 backstroke.

In the men's 400 IM, Edward Dennis won the conference title with a time of 4:10.64. After dominating the men's prelims in the morning, Dennis responded by defeating the 13-person field by a fast start through the first three splits.

Brian Glatt continued his strong weekend with a second-place finish in the men's 200 free. Forrest Mayer then finished second in the men's 100 breaststroke with a time of 58.78 seconds. The men's 800 free relay team of McNally, Jackson Cromer, Michael Whitehead and Glatt finished second in a time of 7:02.71.

A second-place finish in the women's 1-meter diving event by Grace Cobbs led the Sewanee swimming and diving teams during the first day of the championships on Feb. 14.

In the swimming events, Carolyn Rice finished third in the women's 200 IM. In the men's 200 IM, Dennis took fourth place with a new season-best time of 1:57.54. In the 50 free, Hueske finished fourth in the women's race with a time of 24.73.

In the women's 400 IM relay, the Tigers' team of Hueske, Escobar, Neil and Rice finished second with a time of 3:56.33. The men's team for Sewanee finished third in the same event.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

The Jawbone Up. This new gadget of mine slips comfortably around my wrist and monitors my sleep patterns, daily steps and caloric intake. It is really the Jewish mother I never had, constantly glancing up at me dangling around my arm and laying on the guilt: "Go ahead and have another cheeseburger, John. A woman likes a man with full cheeks." Or "Why walk to work? That's why we got you a car."

This little black bracelet, which contains some mighty computing technology, is in constant conversation with my iPhone (which I think of as my virtual aunt, related to my Jewish mother but not quite as loud). The Jawbone Up and my iPhone work together to provide me with a colorful bar graph that depicts my sleep, diet and exercise.

I am a competitive person, so when I wake up and see that I only completed 74 percent of a good night's sleep, I feel I have complete permission to roll over, pull up the covers and go back to bed. "Why should I go to work? My kids can feed themselves now." In truth my wristlet is reminding me to get up from the couch, turn off Sports Center and go to bed on time.

The diet and exercise measurements are side-by-side on my iPhone screen letting me know that the large pizza I just had for lunch is completely overpowering that brisk walk to work this morning. I am constantly being challenged to keep the orange (exercise) bar above the green (food) bar. A couple of years ago I signed on with Weight Watchers. It was a similar experience: I lost 19 pounds in three months through diligent dietary monitoring. I patted myself on the back, dropped my membership to the program (which had greatly improved my health) and drove out to Hardee's. Meanwhile my friend Allison Paterson stuck to the plan, and now Pratt is married to a supermodel. Who knew that by eating only fruits and veggies you could grow to 5'11?"

With my Jawbone Up, I can set an idle alarm on my wrist. If I sit still for three more minutes writing this column, this technological wonder will vibrate (not quite an electric shock, but jolting). This prods me to get up and move. I walk outside to get the mail. This takes 27 steps to get to the mailbox with an equal number on the return trip. I have to do something to chip away at the goal of 10,000 steps a day that some unknown Machiavellian exercise engineer programmed into my bracelet.

The Jawbone is one of several of these kind of devices that satisfy our curiosity about health and fitness in this quantitative society. You can choose a Nike Fuel Band or the Fitbit to put a numerical value on every step, every heartbeat or every calorie, and then read and analyze it all on your smartphone, tablet or laptop. We can put a number on virtually everything we do. I have never been successful at picking stocks, racehorses or lottery tickets, so if I want to win at something I had better calculate the value of my exercise. I'm rich in sweat and poor in HDL cholesterol.

I recommend one of these little devices if you need something to encourage you to get moving and stop ordering the triple cheeseburger at Wendy's. Or perhaps it's easier if a loving Jewish mother who knows how to dispense the guilt simply adopts you. "Please, stay on the couch. I don't have any children to talk to anymore." And, "I know that you've gained a little weight. Don't worry sweetheart; I haven't seen my feet in years. Have some more schnitzel."

We're glad you're reading the Messenger!

If we can once believe that success is possible, success becomes possible. —Frank Chapman Sharp

Barred Owl

Jean Yeatman reports that Larry Stephens told her he saw a Barred Owl perched on a limb near his bird feeder during the daytime. The Barred Owl is brown or gray, chunky, with a somewhat spotted breast and dark streaking below. Its dark eyes enable it to hunt in daylight. Its distinctive call is a rhythmic series of loud hoots: "Who-cooks-for-you; who-cooks-for-you-all." It also emits a drawn-out "hoo-ah." It is much more likely than other owls to be heard in daytime. Owls begin mating in February in dense woods.

Sewanee Herbarium Events

If you love native plants and want to learn more about them, the Sewanee Herbarium is an excellent resource.

From 9:30–11:30 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 22, the Herbarium's Mary Priestley will head up a morning of preserving and mounting plants that have been collected.

The finished product is always useful and often quite beautiful. Come help preserve the backlog of specimens. Learn methods passed down through generations and still used today, and take home a guide to mounting pressed plants.

Meet in the Herbarium on the first floor of Spencer Hall, located at 64 Alabama Ave. The main entrance is across from duPont Library, and there is parking behind the library.

On Saturday, March 1, meet Sewanee Herbarium's Yolande Gottfried at 1:30 p.m. at Green's View parking lot to look for the first Hepatica (and other early-blooming wildflowers) in Shakerag Hollow.

This moderate-to-strenuous two-mile walk, a Sewanee tradition, may include a steep rocky section of the trail. Come prepared for muddy, wet, icy, and/or rocky conditions. Green's View parking lot is at the end of Running Knob Hollow Road in Sewanee.

JoJo

Chang

Pets of the Week

Meet JoJo & Chang

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption. JoJo is a darling red adult mini-Dachshund mix who wants to find a "special someone" to share his life with. His previous owner said he was a very devoted companion, so JoJo wants someone who will be home with him and not leave him alone too often. JoJo is up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Chang is a 6-month-old Tabby who has never met a stranger. He figured out that to be a successful stray kitty, he needed to befriend every human he could. Now that he is safe at Animal Harbor, Chang keeps it up, knowing that soon he will find someone to take him home and love him. Chang is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and neutered.

For a limited time, two kittens may be adopted together for one adoption fee of $75. Having two kittens is better than one because they play together and keep each other company. Adult cats may be adopted for a $40 fee during this special.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Black History Month

Good morning, daddy!
Ain't you heard
The boogie-woogie rumble
Of a dream deferred?

Listen closely:
You'll hear their feet
Beating out and beating out a--

You think
It's a happy beat?

Listen to it closely:
Ain't you heard
Something underneath like a--

What did I say?

Sure,
I'm happy!
Take it away!

Hey, pop
Re-bop
Mop!

Y-e-a-h!

—Langston Hughes
(Feb. 21, 1907–May 27, 1967), “Dream Boogie” from “Montage
of a Dream Deferred” (1951)
