Wednesday Wonderings at Sewanee Elementary

The Sewanee Elementary Parent Organization (SPO) is piloting a new program called Wednesday Wonderings. This enrichment program runs on Wednesdays from 2:30–3:30 p.m. through March 7.

"We were discussing enrichment programs during a fall Sewanee Parent Organization meeting," said Sarah Marhevsky, president of the organization. "During that time, there were sign-ups for the Lego League. Many students wanted to join, but there was a limit to the number who could participate. We wanted more students to get involved, and the planning began."

During this six-week period, three different classes are being offered to students. Classes offered are based on the volunteer's interest. There is Chinese language instruction for grades K–second taught by Eva Sun. Art classes are being taught by Pippa Browne and Elizabeth Core for grades two–four. Coding is taught by Matt Sparacio for students in grades four and five.

In coding class, the students begin with a web based tutorial at <www.khanacademy.com>. After answering any questions the students may have about the video, “the students complete a series of challenges where they either write code or modify code to demonstrate mastery of the concept presented in the video,” said Sparacio. “So far we have covered drawing shapes, adding color, and creating variables to simplify making changes in the code. Soon we will be moving to animation.”

"My ultimate goal is to peak an interest in the minds of the students," said Sparacio. "In six one-hour sessions I can only show them a tiny amount of the coding world. The beauty of the web based program is that they can continue to learn at home without me. We started with basic Java script but there are several programming languages they can explore." (Continued on page 6)

PBS Journalist to Speak On ‘Civil Discourse in an Uncivil Age’

Journalist Alexander Heffner, host of The Open Mind on PBS, will give a public talk at the University of the South on the topic "Civil Discourse in an Uncivil Age: The Quest for a Post-Partisan Future." Students, faculty, staff, and the entire Sewanee community are invited to attend the evening presentation at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 28, in Convocation Hall; a reception will follow.

Heffner is a journalist and civic educator who has contributed to the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, and TIME magazine, among other publications. As host of The Open Mind, Heffner invites public figures to discuss timely, critical topics in a forum marked by respect and civility. He has covered American politics, civic life, and Millennials since the 2008 presidential campaign. His work has been profiled in the Washington Post, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, and Christian Science Monitor, CNN, and other media outlets. Heffner is a senior advisor at the Brookings Institution, Constitution Center, FDR Library and Museum, and is based in Washington, D.C. and around the world.

Heffner's visit to campus is hosted by the Office of the Dean of the College, and is part of the University's "Learning to Speak—Speaking to Learn" initiative aimed at improving students' oral communication skills. The Center for Speaking & Listening is the co-sponsor of some of the day's events.

'The Crucible' Features Sewanee Theatre Legends

by Kevin Cummings
Messenger Staff Writer

Two esteemed former Sewanee theatre professors are part of a world infected with poisonous charges, religious conflict and demonic unions in the play "The Crucible."

The Arthur Miller drama, which begins a five-show run at the Tennessee Williams Center today (Friday), is set during the Salem Witch Trials, but also reflects and was written during the Red Scare of the 1950s when Sen. Joseph McCarthy led the hunt to expose Communists.

Marcia Mary Cook, who taught theatre at Sewanee from 1995 to 2015, plays Rebecca Nurse, a woman with a big family of 11 children and the additional challenge of being labeled a witch.

"She was known for her compassionate and universal ministry to people," Cook said. "One of the things that I love about our roles is that both of them are historical people, and they both lost their lives in the Witch Hunt."

David Landon, who taught theatre at Sewanee for four decades, plays Giles Corey, another historical figure accused of being in league with the Devil. Corey refuses to surrender his principles to support a sham, Landon said.

Cook and Landon, who gathered to talk about their roles over coffee recently, said they both remember the days of the Red Scare. Landon's mom and dad bought their first small black and white TV just to watch the McCarthy congressional hearings, and Cook and her husband bought a TV for the same reason.

"I still see that guy (McCarthy) badgering people," Landon said.

Cook, a certified spiritual director and public speaking coach, last shared a stage with Landon in 2015, when they played in Shakespeare's "All's Well That Ends Well."

Landon now teaches a class on the theatre education of William Shakespeare in New York City and at the Shakespeare Festival in Nashville.

Landon, 80, last took the stage playing King Lear in the 2016 Nashville Shakespeare Festival. This is his third time in "The Crucible" and his second run as Giles Corey—the last time he played Corey was as a 16-year-old high school student in 1955.

Cook got into acting because her father, a silent movie actor and later a theatre director, needed a young girl to play in "The Drunkard" when she was six. Her dad, Ulmont Healy, had a small part in the 1915 Civil War era film "The Birth of a Nation" among other films.

Landon found his way into theatre after an initial interest in literature. Finishing his PhD at Vanderbilt University, he was asked to be in a French play. He eventually was offered a job at Sewanee in which he would teach French part-time and theatre part-time.

Stories the Windows Tell: Slavery Project Continues

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

The scenes depicted in the stained-glass windows of the narthex at All Saints' Chapel may not send an appropriate message, said Shelley MacLaren, director of the University of the South Art Gallery.

MacLaren said the four historical windows in the entryway to All Saints' focus on the University's history from 1857 to 1957 and they tell a tale of an "idealized Confederate cause" that involves segregationists and slaveholders.

"These windows are beautiful and very effective," she said. "Their appeal makes them especially important to grapple with. They're seductive which makes them harder to think about with some distance."

MacLaren, who is also curator for Academic Engagement, discussed the windows on Feb. 19, during the fourth forum of the Slavery, Race and Reconciliation Project, held at St. Mark's Hall at Otey Parish. She said decisions are needed concerning changes and how the windows represent the community.

“The wonderful and tricky thing about artwork is its continuing engagement of the present-day viewer,” she said. “These windows keep performing the same function as they did when they were installed. They tell the same stories, they idealize the same people...”

THANK-YOU COWAN POLICE

To the Editor:

On behalf of all of the residents of Cedar Ridge Apartments, a seniors complex in Cowan, we wish to extend heartfelt gratitude to the Cowan Police Department, particularly Gus Raby and Zach Wooten, two officers who went beyond the call of duty to assist our elderly residents after a recent early morning vandalism of many of our cars in the parking lot of our complex. Officers Raby and Wooten spent hours checking our cars and talking with and assisting our distraught residents. We are blessed to have this caliber of professionalism and commitment to assisting victims of crime in our small rural community. Next time you pass a Cowan police car, give the officer a wave, a smile, and a "thumbs up" to express your gratitude.

Church News

All Saints' Chapel

Choral Evensong will be sung by the University Choir Sunday, Feb. 25, at 4 p.m. in All Saints' Chapel. The choir is made up of approximately 50 undergraduate students from all over the country. Singing this service is a highlight for the choristers. One of the aspects of choral evensong that is unique is that most of the service is sung by the choir. There are prayers said by the officiant as well as hymns to be sung by the choir and congregation. The Rev. Dr. Melissa Hartley, C'93, will serve as the officiant for the service and Ken Miller will be the service organist. The choir will sing music by Ayleward, Willan, and Wood. We will be welcoming 50 members from the Chattanooga chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Following the service Miller and Ward will present a 20-minute organ recital. The service and recital will be 75 minutes in length. Please contact Geoffrey Ward for more information about the service at <ghward@sewanee.edu>.

Growing in Grace will continue Feb. 25, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints' Chapel. Our speakers this semester will address significant gathering places in their lives. Christ assures us "where two or three are gathered in my name, I am there among them" (Matthew 18:20, NRSV). We return again and again to certain communities and physical spaces in the hope of also being in the presence of something divine. Where are those places for us? Who are the people we become our purest selves in? How do we experience Christ's presence when only two or three stand with us? Tonight, Doug Cameron, assistant chief for Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department, lead instructor for Wilderness Medical Associates, and former director of the Sewanee Outing Program, will share his story with us. Email Kayla Deep to hear more.

The Lenten Daily Eucharist—A Eucharist will be celebrated each weekday, Monday through Friday, during the season of Lent beginning at 12:25 p.m. in St. Augustine's Chapel. The service is designed to last 20-25 minutes so that you can take part and still make it to your 1 p.m. class or appointment. Please consider joining us. The Catechumenate will continue Wednesday, Feb. 27, at 7 p.m. in the Women's Center. Desserts and coffee will be provided. Based around fellowship, study, openness, and conversation, the Catechumenate serves as a foundational piece for the Christian faith, as well as a forum for discussion for people of all backgrounds. This week we will explore a specific way of praying with scripture called lectio divina. All are welcome! Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

The Forty Days and the Temptation in the Wilderness

The first part of Lent is focused on the time Jesus spent in the desert and the fact that he was tempted by Satan. Christ Church will present a short play which tells the story on Sunday, Feb. 25, during the morning service. Children and adults take part in this play and it has been considered a good teaching method for all. While the Gospel lesson about the wilderness is from the First Sunday in Lent, many of the Lenten Hymns continue to return to this theme. In some churches the sermons in Lent are longer, but at Christ Church Monteagle they are shorter so that special additions like the Great Litany and the presentations of drama can bring more reflection.

Our Lenten lunches are simple, and we invite all visitors to join us either for the service or lunch or both. The service begins around 10:30 a.m. and lunch is served around noon.

Centering Prayer

For those who want to deepen their lives of prayer, particularly deep listening in the prayer of quiet, a centering prayer support group meets each Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the prayer room at Trinity Episcopal on 1st Avenue in Winchester. Newcomers to centering prayer and those who simply want to learn are welcome. Call Laura Ellen Truelove at (615) 881-2492 for more information.

Marhevsky said organizers did not want to start too big for the first offering of Wednesday Wonderings nor did the SPO want to take away from the annual Friday School program volunteers.

"We want to be a sustainable program," said Marhevsky. "We live in a small community filled with talented people who have a lot to offer. Those volunteers can be matched up with students who want to learn and give the students enrichment opportunities throughout the entire school year."

The program is free for the SES students. After school, a snack is offered and then the children go to their Wednesday Wondering class. Students in the extended after school program also have the opportunity to participate.

The response has been overwhelmingly positive and another Wednesday Wonderings session will be offered in the fall. Marhevsky said the SPO will be setting up a more formal process for interested volunteers to offer classes. Planning is also underway to include some modified class offerings for the students who have to adhere to the timing of the bus riding schedule.

National Geographic Cartographer to Lecture Feb. 28

Alison DeGraff Ollivierre will lecture on "Cartographic Justice: The Rise of Participatory Mapping." The lecture will be at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 28, at Gailor Auditorium. The event is free and open to the public.

The seemingly simple act of mapping is, in fact, an exercise of power that privileges one group of people over another through decisions such as which place-names to use, what data to include (or leave out), and even where to draw a border. The conflict inherent in this process is apparent to anyone who has traveled the length of Sewanee's Perimeter Trail, either on foot or using a map of the Domain, and wondered about the various names that are given to bluffs, streams, points, and places along the way.

Ollivierre is an award-winning National Geographic cartographer with expertise in the theory and practice of participatory mapping—a process by which cartographic power is returned, democratically, to the people who inhabit the spaces being mapped. While the majority of Ollivierre's research and outreach focus on the Caribbean region, her approach to cartography is instructive for anyone wrestling with issues of how to represent a place with a contentious past. Her lecture will surely engage the audience to continue the conversation and discuss ways that Sewanee might practice cartographic justice in its own approach to place.

The talk is made possible by the University Lectures Committee, the Landscape Analysis Lab, the Departments of Earth and Environmental Systems, Politics, History, and the Environmental Arts and Humanities programs.

of support for the Confederate cause above the nation, MacLaren said.

She said she is in favor of removing Confederate seals from the church's stained-glass windows. MacLaren added that there is room available for more windows to expand the picture of the University's history, which could include the effort to segregate the school and reflect more people of color.

The Feb. 19 forum also yielded discussion of Brooks Hall at Otey Parish. Tom Macfie, University chaplain and former rector of Otey Parish, said the building is not named for Preston Brooks, a slavery supporter and congressman who severely beat Sen. Charles Sumner with a cane on the floor of the U.S. Senate in 1856.

The building, which houses church offices, is named in honor of Polly Brooks Kirby-Smith, the granddaughter of Preston Brooks. Louis Rice, Jr. donated money for renovations of the building, named for Polly, who was his wife's mom.

Otey Parish leadership chose not to punish the grandchildren for their relation to the notorious congressman, Macfie said.

"We had a donor who wanted to honor this family of that generation, the grandchildren of an evil politician, and it seemed to me that was a very clear decision to make," he said.

Professor Chris McDonough, Alderson-Tillinghast Chair in the Humanities, also shared his thoughts on monuments and memorials during the forum. He said in this time of "polarized politics and weaponized nostalgia" he is in favor of temporary displays that can be changed and continually examined.

McDonough noted that most monuments have a limited shelf life as interest wanes and times change. The relocation of the Gen. Edmund Kirby-Smith memorial from Texas Avenue to the University Cemetery is an example, he said. The memorial was moved following the racial clashes in Charlottesville, Va., last year.

He said he would have liked the Kirby-Smith monument to have remained and an art installation placed in front which questioned the meanings and memories of the Civil War, as well as offering a reflection garden for pondering our own lives and how we will be seen by future generations.

Woody Register, a history professor and director of the Slavery, Race and Reconciliation Project, said the effort is designed to research, discuss and examine the art, monuments and memorials on campus that reflect the Antebellum South and ties to slavery.

The project's committee is expected to present recommendations to the University concerning the future of campus monument and memorials this year. For more information, email <slaveryproject@sewanee.edu>.

"That's a carrot you couldn't resist," Cook observed.

He began acting professionally in plays and landed some TV commercials and work in NYC. Landon said he stayed with one foot in academia for his family, but also because he wanted a deeper training in acting.

"Every time I do this, I remember how much I enjoy it," he said. "I think what actors do is profound and important, not just entertainment."

He said acting is a challenge and helps find "the other in ourselves" and see what we share with other people.

"To learn how to say great words as if they were our own," he added. "To take risks and to learn to find your personal expressivity but in the context of a shared enterprise."

Cook agreed with the profound nature of acting.

"It's not just entertainment, to get out of myself and into another role," she said. "When I get on the stage and have my lines down pat and know who I am saying this—when I feel that person coming from me in those words—I feel so at home."

"It's something that never ends," Landon said.

Director James Crawford said he was thrilled when Cook and Landon agreed to join the cast.

"This is a play about a community, and here are two pillars of our own community playing pillars of the community," he said.

Crawford added that "The Crucible" with its themes manifesting the discord of the Salem Witch Trials and the Red Scare, is also applicable today.

"The years 1692 and 1953 reflect back and forth off one another in the play, and the beauty of theatre is that the year 2018 is in there bouncing off them as well," he said. "I think it will be hard for anyone to see this play today and not think about elements of our current political situation. We're living in an age in which 'fake news' has become a powerful political force, whipping people into frenzies of irrationality, just as it did in Salem."

The shows are Feb. 23 and 24, March 1, 2, 3 at 7:30 p.m., with a matinee show on Feb. 25 at 2 p.m. Tickets are free and can be reserved at <Eventbrite.com>.

Krook on 'The Cost of Doing Politics?'

On Wednesday, Feb. 28, at 4:30 p.m., the Departments of Politics, Women's and Gender Studies, and International and Global Studies at the University of the South, will host a talk by 2017 Carnegie Foundation Fellow Mona Lena Krook. The talk is titled "The Cost of Doing Politics? Harassment and Violence against Female Politicians." The lecture will be in the Mary Sue Cushman Room of the Bairnwick Women's Center.

Krook is professor of Politics at Rutgers University. She often engages across the academic-practitioner divide in her work, serving as a consultant for a variety of civil society organizations, governments, and international organizations in Asia, Africa, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East on strategies to elect more women to political office and enhance the impact of female politicians. The Carnegie Fellowship is the largest monetary award for scholars in the humanities and social sciences working on addressing global challenges through research.

The Mary Sue Cushman room at the Bairnwick Women's Center is located on Mississippi Ave. (follow street as it curves around to the left, the Women's Center is on the right) on the campus of the University of the South. Please contact Paige Schneider <pschneid@sewanee.edu> with any questions about the event.

The talk is made possible by the sponsoring departments and the generous support of the University Lectures Committee.

Fruit and Vegetable Luncheon Seminars in March

UT/TSU Extension in Grundy County would like to invite everyone to attend the annual Fruit and Vegetable Luncheon Seminars in the Extension Office. A luncheon seminar will take place each week in March at the UT/TSU Extension Office in Coalmont on March 7, 13, 21, and 27, at 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. The cost, which includes lunch and a free vegetable calendar, is $7 for each seminar or all four seminars for $20. VILLAGE REPORT

by Frank X. Gladu

This month, I would like to take a step back and review the objectives of the Sewanee Village project. First and foremost, it is a broad attempt to revitalize the commercial downtown, ensuring a vibrant place with both civic and business activities to support those who live here and for those that visit here. Second, the Sewanee Village needs to be an asset in the University's recruiting efforts for students and employees, including places to live, shop and gather. By almost every measure, the University of the South has developed a reputation as an outstanding Liberal Arts college in a wonderful setting with a campus that ranks consistently as one of the most beautiful and attractive in the country. We need to achieve that kind of result with the Village and downtown. No doubt, this will take a long time to substantially accomplish and it will take a focused discipline provided for in the plan. Some might say, don't change anything. But if we don't plan for our future, it could happen in a haphazard and random way that will not serve this community or the University. I encourage you to contact me with your comments to accomplish this objective. There are regular update meetings held each month open to all. The Messenger Village Report column appears on the last Friday of the month and I can be reached at (931) 598-3397 or at <fxgladu@sewanee.edu>.

Now for a priority project update:

The campus bookstore will be relocated to the downtown area between the Post Office and the Tower Community Bank. The new bookstore will be designed by June and construction should start this summer with an opening planned between Commencement 2019 and the start of the Advent semester 2019.

The Tennessee Department of Transportation will complete its design this year for the half-mile of US 41A that runs through the downtown area. The plan calls for narrowing it to two lanes and creating a walkable, bikable section in downtown Sewanee. A pedestrian crossing signal is planned at University Ave.

A developer is working with us to determine the economic feasibility of building a mixed-use grocery store four times the size of the current Sewanee Market, with the upper two floors for apartments.

Efforts to create more housing locations will be informed by and benefit from the University Housing Study Group's recommendations to be provided to the Provost in March. The plan in the downtown area calls for some single family homes, multi-family homes, apartments, duplexes and townhomes. One site in particular that the plan identifies for single family homes is the 2.2-acre site on Prince Lane. This site has many challenges with many simply saying "you can't build there." Well, that may turn out to be the final result, but I will continue to work with those with expertise in the fields of hydrology, tree preservation and stormwater management before I am ready to give up on the site.

Another related housing issue that has been brought up is the potential for allowing alumni and second home owners housing opportunities in the Village. We are conducting market studies to determine the demand for the building, selling and renting of homes in the Village. Current policy only allows employees the opportunity to build homes on the Domain. I will work with the University to put in place appropriate policies to ensure that employees have a place to live in Sewanee if they choose to live here.

I will continue to hold monthly update meetings on the first Tuesday of the month, with a session at 10 a.m., repeated at 5:30 p.m. at the Blue Chair Café and Tavern. These update meetings will provide progress reports during the first part of the meeting on the five priority projects (road, bookstore, grocery store, housing and Village Green) as well as any other activities of note. The second half of the meeting will focus on a specific project or discussion topic to provide greater details and opportunities for comments and questions. At last month's meeting several areas were identified as potential topics. They included: parking, fiber optic internet service, the Village as a visitor destination, landscaping and protection and preservation of trees, stormwater management, results of the housing study, ADA accessibility features, community garden opportunities, and family friendly spaces, just to name a few. The topic that will be scheduled for the next meeting on Tuesday, March 6, is a discussion on second home owners place in Sewanee.

It takes a Village!

Lady Bird

R • 94 minutes

At the 90th Academy Awards, the movie has been nominated for Best Picture, Best Actress (Saoirse Ronan), Best Supporting Actress (Laurie Metcalf), Best Director (Greta Gerwig), and Best Original Screenplay (Greta Gerwig). In “Lady Bird,” Greta Gerwig reveals herself to be a bold new cinematic voice with her directorial debut, excavating both the humor and pathos in the turbulent bond between a mother and her teenage daughter. Christine “Lady Bird” McPherson (Saoirse Ronan) fights against but is exactly like her wildly loving, deeply opinionated and strong-willed mom (Laurie Metcalf), a nurse working tirelessly to keep her family afloat after Lady Bird’s father (Tracy Letts) loses his job. Set in Sacramento, California in 2002, amidst a rapidly shifting American economic landscape, Lady Bird is an affecting look at the relationships that shape us, the beliefs that define us, and the unmatched beauty of a place called home.—Rotten Tomatoes

If they win Jumanji, the kids can free Alan for good, but that means braving giant bugs, ill-mannered monkeys and even stampeding rhinos.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE

What they discover is that you don’t just play Jumanji, you must survive it. To beat the game and return to the real world, they’ll have to go on the most dangerous adventure of their lives, discover what Alan Parrish left 20 years ago, and change the way they think about themselves, or be stuck in the game forever.

The University of the South will host its seventh annual Campus Gallery Walk on Saturday, Feb. 24, from 4–7 p.m. The University Art Gallery, the Museum Gallery of Archives and Special Collections, and the Carlos Gallery of the Nabit Art Building will all host receptions crafted by IvyWild, and dance and musical performances inspired by the exhibitions. The event is free and open to the public. Performances will repeat in each venue at 4:30, 5:15 and 6 p.m.

In the University Art Gallery, visitors will experience Angelica Mesiti’s four-channel video installation “Citizens Band,” in which four different people perform music from their birthplaces in the urban environments of their adopted homes. Courtney World, assistant professor of dance, and others, will respond to the songs and images of the piece in dance.

In the Museum Gallery of Archives and Special Collections, visitors will see highlights from the University’s art collection, from Josef Albers to Zanele Muholi, in “Modern and Contemporary Art: Selections from the Permanent Collection.” University Choirmaster and Organist Geoffrey Ward will join Visiting Assistant Professor of Violin Peter Povey to perform Heinrich Biber’s Sonata for Violin.

In the Carlos Gallery of the Nabit Art Building, the abstract sculptures and paintings of “Invisible King,” Hans Schmitt-Matzen’s visual conversation with his sons’ drawings, will be complemented by student performers. Caiti Berends, soprano, and Annie Bowers, violin, will perform selections from Along the Field by Ralph Vaughn Williams and 4 Songs for Voice and Violin by Gustav Holst. Dancers Danielle Silfies and Ashlin Ondrusek will interpret the music and the art.

Monday, Feb. 26, Brant Lewis, C'19, will offer "Prog to Punk" from 6–7 p.m. "Earth's Mixtape" by Isabel Butler and Heidi Hayne, C'20 will be from 7–9 p.m.

On Tuesday, Feb. 27, Sam Everette, C'21, will host "Rock and Roll Has The Blues" from 3–5 p.m. Blues from Robert Johnson to Tedeschi Trucks, rock from Buddy Holly to Greta Van Fleet—Sam will be listening to old and new blues and rock artists and their influences every week.

Tori Hinshaw, C'19, will host "Muscle Shoals" from 5–6 p.m. "The Kitchen Sink Sessions" will be 6–9 p.m. with Jackson Campbell, C'20.

From 5–6 p.m. on Wednesdays, Jeremy O'Neill, C'21, will host "Around the World." Each week Jeremy will explore the music of a different country, starting with some of the earliest music from the region and working up to the modern day.

From 7–9 p.m., Cari Reynolds, volunteer, will show two films in honor of Black History Month:

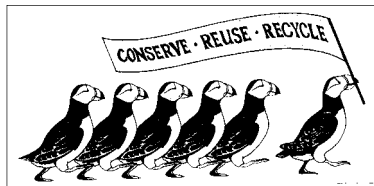

"Strange Fruit: The Biography of a Song"—"Strange Fruit" is the first documentary exploring the history and legacy of the Billie Holiday classic. While bringing viewers face-to-face with the terror of lynching, the song's evolution tells a dramatic story of America's radical past using one of the most influential protest songs ever written as its epicenter.

"T'Ain't Nobody's Bizness: Queer Blues Divas of the 1920s"—This film excavates the hidden sexualities of black female entertainers who reigned over the nascent blues recording industry of the 1920s. Unlike the male-dominated jazz scene, early blues provided an autonomy that was remarkable for women of any color or sexual orientation.

On Thursday, March 1, from 5–7 p.m., Annie Bowers, C'20, will host Chamber Music.

"Going for Baroque" will be from 7–9 p.m. with Bramwell Atkins, C'21. For the month of February, Bram will focus on the music of J.S. Bach.

The William Ralston Listening Library is located on the second floor of duPont Library. Keep up with the Ralston Listening Library's weekly schedule on the webpage <http://www.sewanee.edu/ralstonlisteninglibrary/> or <https://www.facebook.com/theralstonroom/>.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

PUTTING IT MILDLY

Older individuals often deny any need for a hearing instrument by protesting that their hearing loss is mild. Research indicates, however, that even a mild hearing loss can result in significant communication difficulties. There is also evidence to suggest that mild hearing loss may negatively impact the memory. The earlier the person begins to utilize a hearing instrument, the easier it will be for his or her hearing system to adapt to listening to the amplified sounds.

If you have a hearing loss, you are missing more than just the understanding of words. Hearing keeps you in touch with the world and lets you respond to sounds, and reassures you of changing surroundings. Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center offers comprehensive hearing services by an audiologist at 705 NW Atlantic St. Suite B, Tullahoma, including evaluations, counseling, fittings, a full line of hearing instruments, follow up support, and repairs. Daffodils on Sherwood Road. Photo by Rick Dreves

Daffodils

Daffy-down-dilly
Has come up to town
In a yellow petticoat
And a green gown.
—Nursery rhyme

By now, nearly everyone has daffodils blooming, but Stephen Carter was first with a report of early blooming on Feb. 15, a clump at his mother's house that was in a particularly advantageous situation of protection, heat and light.

Daffodils are known by many names. I was confused for many years by the enthusiastic reporting in our county paper that "the buttercups are blooming" until I realized that buttercups were what I called daffodils, not the little weedy five-petaled yellow flower of wet places that I called buttercups.

The scientific name of the genus is Narcissus, the name, of course, of the figure of Greek myth who was changed into the flower as punishment for gazing constantly in the water at his own beauty. Versions of this myth are found in many countries around the Mediterranean, where this flower originated. It spread throughout the Roman Empire with its soldiers, who carried narcissus bulbs with them for their medicinal properties in cleaning and healing sword and spear wounds. The name daffodil came from these Roman soldiers, and subsequently the Normans, singing of the flowers in the fields of asphodel, where in the Homer's Greece, souls went after death. "Of asphodel" eventually become corrupted to "d'affodils."

Another name, jonquil, came to England when Anne of Denmark married James I in 1589, and brought her favorite flower. The flower had come to Denmark from the Low Countries where long years of Spanish domination included introduction of this flower, called "junquillo" by the Spanish, a corruption of "juncas," so-called because of the similarity of the leaves and wet habitat to that of rushes (scientific name Juncus).

Today, the names jonquil and narcissus are generally used for flat-faced flowers and daffodils for those with a trumpet shape. Wherever they went, daffodils have been cultivated in gardens and have naturalized in the wild. They are particularly popular in Sewanee because, due to their poisonous properties, they are one of the very few things that deer will not eat.

250K Tree Day Event at Sewanee Feb. 24

The Office of Environmental Stewardship and Sustainability is pleased to be sponsoring a tree planting event as part of the Tennessee Environmental Council's 250K Tree Day. On Saturday, Feb. 24, students and community members are invited to participate in the largest annual tree planting day in the state. Last year alone resulted in the planting of 100,000 native trees across the state. This year they are setting the bar even higher and encouraging Tennesseans to plant 250,000 trees in a single day.

Help make part of history by joining us on the Domain to plant our share of shortleaf pines. The shortleaf is a native pine species found on the Plateau whose range has been greatly reduced during the last 100 years. Sewanee is currently part of a multi-year effort to restore shortleaf pine habitat across the Plateau and this planting is supporting that effort.

Planting will be from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Feb. 24. Planters should be at the end of Breakfield Road at gate No. 9 at 9 a.m. Please bring work gloves and drinking water, trees and planting tools will be provided.

For more information about the 250K Tree Day event, please visit: <https://tectn.org/programs/tree/> or for information about the event on the Domain or efforts to restore shortleaf pine on the Plateau email domain@sewanee.edu.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Is this a Fast, to keep
The larder lean
And clean
From fat from veals and sheep?

No: 'tis a Fast to dole
Thy sheaf of wheat
And meat
Unto the hungry soul.

Is it to quit the dish
Off flesh, yet still
To fill
The platter high with fish?

It is to fast from strife,
From old debate
And hate:
To circumcise thy life.

Is it to fast an hour,
Or ragged to go,
Or show
A downcast look and sour?

To show a heart grief-rent;
To starve thy sin,
Not bin:
And that's to keep thy Lent.

To Keep a True Lent, by Robert Herrick (1591-1674)
