Community Spelling and History Bee Celebrate Presidents' Day

The first, second and third-grade students wait for the announcement of the next word in the Presidents' Day spelling bee. Messenger staff photo

The Franklin County Democratic Party's First Annual Presidents' Day Spelling Bee/American History Bee Monday night was a fun and educational event, with participants from all across Franklin County.

The Rev. Walter Brownridge opened the event with a prayer stressing the importance of education and valuing those in our society who contribute to improving the quality of life in our communities.

A soup and sandwich dinner followed, with soups contributed by Sheanigan's and members of the Franklin County Democratic Party, and bread donated by the Bread Peddler.

Lizzie Duncan, emcee for the evening, started the program with the Pledge of Allegiance led by young people. First grader Iris Love won the first division of the Spelling Bee; third grader Bryce Moser was the runner up in this division. The second division of the Spelling Bee for grades 5-12 was won by fifth grader, Andrew Bachman; fifth grader, Genevieve Rogers, was runner up. All the winners are students at Sewanee Elementary School. Each winner was presented with a $50 bill as their prize.

In the Adult History Bee, participants were asked some tough questions about our nation's history. St. Andrew's-Sewanee School teacher Mark Brunton emerged victorious, winning dinner for two at IvyWild. College student Nathan Bowman of Kentucky was a close second.

Three Franklin County Commissioners attended the event: Josephine Holman, Cheyne Stewart and Jean Snead, as well as former Democratic State Representative, George Fraley. County party chairman, Cheyne Stewart, offered special recognition of Fraley's 14-year tenure in the state legislature. Fraley was presented with a copy of "American Lion," Jon Meacham's award-winning book on Andrew Jackson.

CCJP Awards Banquet Feb. 26

Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace (CCJP) will hold its annual Awards Banquet at 6 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 26, at the Sewanee Community Center. The Rev. Walter Brownridge will be the main speaker.

This year's honorees include long-time Messenger editor Geraldine Hewitt Piccard, Barbara Camm, for community building in Tracy City and Grundy County, and Christine Hopkins, for establishing the Franklin County Community Re-entry program.

The dinner will feature a main course prepared by local caterer Julia Stubblebine. Those attending are encouraged to bring a side dish or dessert. Guests and visitors are welcome. Please RSVP to Leslie Lytle at 598-9979 or sillytle@blomand.net.

"Hecuba" on Stage This Weekend

Euripides' tragedy, "Hecuba," translated by distinguished poet Marilyn Nelson, continues this weekend at the Tennessee Williams Center on the Sewanee campus. Showtimes are at 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Feb. 25-26, and at 2 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 27. Admission is free. Please call 598-3260 for reservations.

Professor David Landon directs the production. Nelson is currently in residence at the University as a Brown Foundation Fellow. Visiting artist Tarashai Lee, C'00, will play the role of Hecuba. James Carlson, visiting professor of music, has composed the original music.

The production, by Theatre Sewanee, explores the aftermath of the Trojan War. The Greeks are sailing home, taking with them Hecuba, the former Queen of Troy, and a prize hoard of Trojan women to serve as their slaves and concubines. But the winds have dropped, the return has stalled, and the action unfolds on the shores of Thrace, focusing on the fate of Hecuba. In Euripides' world, human nature rarely shows to advantage. There is violence against women, ruthless ambition, cowardly compromise, murder, betrayal, revenge and human sacrifice. At the conclusion of the play, the prediction is for more of the same.

New Associate Provost Appointed

John McCardell, vice-chancellor and president of the University of the South, announced Wednesday that John Swallow has been appointed acting associate provost for the university beginning June 1.

Swallow, a Sewanee alumnus from the class of 1989, is currently the Kimbrough professor of mathematics and humanities at Davidson College and is a member of the University's board of regents.

Swallow (pictured at left) will serve as acting associate provost, working with current provost Linda Lankewicz, through Dec. 31. He will then assume full responsibilities as acting provost until June 30, 2012, with the possibility of continuation beyond that date. Linda Lankewicz, who has served as provost since 2002, will step down at the end of 2011.

"John Swallow comes to us with a wealth of experience not only in the classroom, but also in administrative roles at Davidson," McCardell said. "Along with his regular portfolio of provostial duties, John will lead a campus-wide strategic planning effort at Sewanee, an area in which he has special skills."

Swallow majored in mathematics and English at Sewanee, then earned his Ph.D. from Yale University. At Davidson, he has been vice chair pro tem of the faculty since 2009. He has also served on Davidson's strategic planning team. Swallow was honored with Davidson's Omicron Delta Kappa Teaching Award in 2010.

Community Council Meets Monday

The Sewanee Community Council will meet at 7 p.m., Monday, Feb. 28, at the Senior Citizens' Center.

Agenda items include discussion of the traffic light on University Avenue, leaseholders' issues, an update on master planning, the use of the community e-mail list, and the configuration of the new university entrance. The Council will also hear from a community member concerned about the environmental effects of electromagnetic pollution as it related to wireless technology.

All Community Council meetings are open to the public.

SUD Elects 2011 Officers

The Board of the Sewanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties opened its Feb. 22 meeting with the swearing in of the two newly elected commissioners, Cliff Huffman and Randall Henley, followed by the election of officers for 2011: Doug Cameron, president; Cliff Huffman, vice-president; Ken Smith, secretary. In other business, the board passed a resolution honoring former board president Phil Loney who died recently. SUD manager Ben Beavers also reported on the Lake Jackson dam repair and regional water planning. After hearing from the customer whose request for an adjustment was denied at the January meeting, and after engaging in a thorough discussion of the issue, the board scheduled a working session for 5 p.m., Tuesday, March 29, to discuss the adjustment policy.

Updating the board on regional water planning, Beavers reported that Grundy County had applied for a Community Development Block Grant to upgrade the waterline from the Big Creek water utility to the Tracy City water utility and from the Tracy City utility to the Monteagle utility. The area utility managers consulted with the Grundy County mayor who reassured them that the pipeline project would not compromise the dam-raising project at the Tracy City reservoir. The utility managers will confer with the pipeline project engineers to insure that there is no redundancy in the new pipeline construction. Beavers announced a public hearing to review the regional drought plan drafted by the four regional utility managers. The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m., Thursday, March 10, at the Tracy City Public Utility Conference Center. The next regular meeting of the SUD Board of Commissioners will be at 5 p.m., Tuesday, March 22.

CROSS FAMILY GRATEFUL

The family of James Cross would like to thank the community for its outpouring of love and support after his death. On behalf of his children—Catherine Pringle, Anne Underwood, Thomas Cross and myself—we thank you.

Paul Cross

WOOD DELIVERED TO NEEDY

To the Editor:

Though the weather has been nice the past two weeks, those who heat with wood are still in need.

I would like to thank the students at the University of the South who helped deliver wood to a family in Gruetli last week. The wood was donated by the University.

Thanks also to Buster Sweeton of Tracy City, who provided the truck and trailer, Robert Rice, Family Resource Center Advisory Member, and University professor Deb McGrath.

The Family Resource Center is always looking for ways to "link" our communities. Helping each other, even in small ways, will make a huge difference for everyone.

COMFORT IN TIME OF SORROW

To the Editor:

In less than two weeks Sewanee celebrated with its inimitable generosity my 26-year tenure as founder/editor of the Sewanee Messenger and mourned with our family the loss of the love of my life, Georgia and Parker's Pop-Pop, and a passionate teacher of theatre, John Piccard.

We have been comforted by the love shown to us through your thoughts and prayers, calls, cards and notes of remembrance and condolence, food, friendship and compassion. As I've always said, whether in joy or sorrow, there's no place like our Mountain community. I thank you all.

Geraldine Piccard

ACCIDENT VICTIMS OFFER THANKS

To the Editor:

We'd like to thank Sondra Bridges and the father of the Sewanee student (whoever you are) who stopped to help us Friday night at the accident scene. The first people who appeared on the scene are very brave to take on a potentially traumatic event, and we are very grateful for their stopping.

We'd like to thank the emergency staff (the Sewanee EMTs, the hospital staff including Sue the R.N. and Dr. Galiwango) and the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School staff (especially John Thomas and Allison Paterson) who were encouraging, comforting and helpful.

To the emergency workers this was just another day, but to all the accident victims, these people are lifesavers and a Godsend. We appreciate your dedication, skills, level-headedness and kindness.

IN MEMORY OF CAM STEWART

To the Editor:

To honor the memory of my dear friend, Col. Cam Stewart, USAF Retired, I offer the following:

Well ole veteran, it would seem as though you will be entering into that special place in heaven that God has saved for all of us old warriors, that of "Valhalla." Once you have arrived, be sure to save a great spot for me in which to visit with all of my military heroes and talk of our youthful adventures while in the service of our country.

I will miss you very much and I will think of you often, until that day when I too "cross over the river, and rest beneath the shade of the trees," safe in knowing that I am with those very special people who have stepped forward, and served their country.

Please give our very best to Mrs. Stewart and thank her for allowing you to serve; for as we both know, it is the military wife who is "our hero."

Your friends, eternally,

Sgt. Major & Mrs.

After pursuit, the driver stopped his vehicle on Airport Road and fled on foot. He was apprehended and taken into custody. In addition to evading arrest, he was also charged with reckless driving and driving on a revoked license.

Seminary Increases Financial Aid

In conjunction with the University's recent announcement of a 10 percent cut in tuition for students in the college, the School of Theology recently announced that the basic scholarship available to every student will be increased by $1,000 for the 2011-12 year, while tuition will be frozen at this year's level.

"This step is a response to the concern any student has when considering seminary," said the Very Rev. William Stafford, dean of the School of Theology. "No one wants to begin their ministry with a large debt; such debt is a drag on the church's mission. This action opens Sewanee's doors even wider to those who want first-rate formation for ministry."

Last year, more than $1.2 million in grant aid was distributed by the seminary. Next year, the school will be able to offer a scholarship of at least $5,584 to each full-time student, reducing payable tuition to $12,890, making it one of the most affordable seminaries.

Mid-Cumberland Mountain Ministries recently celebrated 22 years of providing services to people in need on the Mountain at a dinner for more than 100 people at the Sewanee Inn. The Rev. Bill Barton welcomed guests from across the Diocese of Tennessee. The event was underwritten by the Men of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Franklin, Tenn. Several members of that congregation joined with MCMM board members to decorate the Inn and cook the food. ## EHH News

Employee Recognition

Emerald-Hodgson Hospital (EHH) selected Nora Dudley as the employee honoree for January. Nora is one of EHH's house supervisors. She worked for the hospital from 1987-1994 and returned to the organization in 2001. Nora resides in Sewanee with her husband, Dusty, and son, Dylan. The couple's other son, Dustin, attends college in Maryville. Nora enjoys spending her leisure time with her family and attending sporting events. She was selected for recognition in a random drawing among all employees having January birthdays. Nora's award included use of a close-in parking space for the month and a gift basket with movie tickets and other goodies. Congratulations Nora Dudley!

State of the Hospital

Reporting on the utilization of EHH's facilities, hospital administrator Ralph Underwood noted a 29 percent increase in observation visits and a 5 percent increase in emergency room visits compared to January 2010. Outpatient visits, however, declined by 10 percent compared to last year. He attributed the decreased utilization of outpatient facilities to inclement weather.

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1

“Harry Potter” Trivia Contest before the Friday show

Special second show at 10:30 p.m. Saturday

146 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

J. K. Rowling’s epic tale is coming to an end on the screen and this is its beginning. “Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1” is a dynamite interpretation of the first half of the last book of the seven-part series. All of our favorite actors reprise their roles (some in flashbacks), as we watch Harry, Ron and Hermione move toward the story’s conclusion. At times, the movie is scary, sad, funny and mysterious. Director David Yates and screenwriter Steve Kloves have each worked on previous “Harry Potter” films, so Rowling’s material is in expert hands. If you are thinking of joining the Harry Potter bandwagon now, this is not the film for you: begin at the beginning. Rated PG-13 for some sequences of intense action violence, frightening images and brief sensuality.

Cinema Guild Next Week

Through a Glass Darkly

89 minutes • Unrated • Free

Oscar-winning film director Ingmar Bergman created this masterpiece of a movie that captivated viewers when it was first released in 1961 and continues to engage audiences today. A young woman, Karin (Harriet Andersson) has recently rejoined her family after a stay at a mental hospital. Together on an island with her husband, Martin, (Max von Sydow) and her father, the film explores Karin’s loosening grip on reality, her questions about God, and the impact of isolation on family relations. Bergman, working with his favorite cinematographer, Sven Nykvist, has created a powerful, beautiful movie. Unrated, but intended for mature audiences.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week

Wednesday, Friday–Sunday, March 2, March 4–6, at 7:30 p.m.

Tangled

100 minutes • PG • Admission $3

The Brothers Grimm fairy tale of Rapunzel is retold by the folks at Disney in a surprisingly pleasing animated movie. Rapunzel (voiced by Mandy Moore) is the teenager with long tresses who is bored and lonely after being confined to the castle tower by her controlling mother (voiced by Donna Murphy). When the handsome, most-wanted bandit of the kingdom comes by, Rapunzel takes him hostage and thus begins the adventure. Much like “Little Mermaid” or “Beauty and the Beast,” there are lots of songs and a happy ending. As one reviewer said, “Tangled” braids strands of traditional storytelling and a contemporary sensibility with stylish, if predictable, results.” Rated PG for brief mild violence.

“Yestermorrow” Opens on Campus

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at University of the South is pleased to present “Yestermorrow,” an installation of video and print works by New York-based artist, Jessica Irish. The show begins with an artist’s talk and reception at 4:30 p.m., today, Feb. 25., through March 23.

In this series, Irish explores the increasingly vast network of global production and consumption that silently churns away in the distant background of our everyday lives. “Yestermorrow” captures the undulating rhythm intrinsic to the physical apparatus of the global economy. By juxtaposing the by-products of yesterday to the promise of tomorrow, “Yestermorrow” conjures in-between spaces and states that are at once familiar yet estranged.

Irish is an inter-media artist whose work examines the relationships between technology, the built environment and ideology. Working in moving image, installation and print media, her work has been exhibited nationally and internationally. She is an assistant professor at Parsons The New School for Design.

“Local Color” at Cowan Gallery

Joanne Cooper’s “Local Color” exhibit will be featured at the Artisan Depot in Cowan from March 3 through April 30. In her painting, Cooper attempts to capture the exquisiteness of local settings and landmarks, and hopes to lead her viewers to see the splendor around them.

Cooper and her husband discovered the Franklin County area after making plans for retirement. They decided to make the move from New Mexico to Tennessee in 2003. According to Joanne, “I’ve been inspired by the beauty and color of my new surroundings, and I needed to fulfill my desire to return to painting. I was absolutely delighted to have found the Cowan Center for the Arts.” Joanne began studying watercolor painting at the center under Pat Underwood in 2006 and, later, pastels and oil painting under Jennifer Redstreak.

The exhibit will open on Thursday, March 3 with a reception for the artist from 5-7 p.m. at the Artisan Depot, the gallery of the Franklin County Arts Guild, located at 201 Cumberland St., Cowan. For more information call (931) 636-0169.

Golden Beaker Found Mystery Solved by Teams of SAS Students

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's annual contest of skill, knowledge, and persistence has ended, and senior Kami Spaulding and sophomore Max Richards (pictured at right) are now part of the illustrious history of the "Search for the Golden Beaker."

The pair found the beaker on January 28 after following a trail of 25 clues hidden on the school's 550-acre campus. This year's final puzzle was "This is the center of an event in 2010 whose effects are still being felt today." (See end of article for answer.)

Science teacher Lisa Keith-Lucas started the school-wide treasure hunt in 1995. The student, or group of students, who solves the puzzle in the beaker receives the undying admiration of his or her peers, permanent recognition in the annals of Golden Beaker history and a bit of swag.

Kami searched a long time for clue #24. It was located right beside her seat in the chemistry lab.

Clue #23 was one word: Homer. Teams looked for Greek connections and "The Simpsons" television show before finding it on the backfield fence of the baseball diamond.

The first Upper School and Middle School team to find the beaker and solve the puzzle are recognized.

This year's Middle School team grew to the unprecedented size of nine students (Cameron Azarbarzin, Addie Babcock, Mary Katherine Jolly, Dan McNair, Sam Smith, Fritz Stein, Sam Thomas, Jake Wiley, and Kyra Wilson) before finding the beaker on February 1.

"I was expecting a team of two or three students," said Keith-Lucas. "It is nice to see so much teamwork. Scientists are all about collaboration. But next year I may be a bit more explicit in the instructions."

Over the winter vacation, while the students are away, Keith-Lucas devises the clues and hides them around campus.

She now dates the clues with the year of the hunt because she is still finding old clues that were never retrieved. At one point this year, four clues were buried under the snow. The clues involve history, literature, current events, school history and traditions, science, faculty, students, puns and play on words.

The clues are quite easy at first, but get more difficult. Solving the puzzle requires information from all of the clues, so finding the beaker accidentally (or clue #23) does not give a treasure hunter an advantage.

The answer to this year's puzzle: Enriquillo Plain-Garden (the fault in which the Haiti Earthquake occurred).

The buddies in Beth Charlton's pre-K class and Kim Foster's fifth-grade class at Sewanee Elementary School continue to explore new things in downtown Sewanee. Last week, they visited Sweet CeCe's and according to Miss Beth, "Gave it an A+!"

SAS Writers Advance to State

Essays by Ethan Evans of Sewanee and Cameron Azarbarzin of South Pittsburg have been selected for the statewide competition in the annual Letters About Literature contest. Both students have already received honorable mention awards.

Each year, eighth graders at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School participate in this project sponsored by the Library of Congress and Target. The students compose a letter to an author, living or dead, who has written a book that has had an impact on the student's perspective on the world.

Ethan wrote his letter to Greg Mortenson for "Three Cups of Tea," and Cameron's letter was to Wilson Rawls for "Where the Red Fern Grows."

Seth Burns achieved his 100th career wrestling win this season joining an elite group of SAS wrestlers to have reached this milestone.

Burns Joins Elite SAS Wrestlers

Team Competes at State Tournament

Senior Seth Burns, captain of the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School wrestling team, captured fifth place at the DII TSSAA individual state wrestling tournament for a second year in a row after pinning Tom Lackie from St. Benedict in the consolation finals last Saturday. Trevor Laymance, Elijah Cantrell and Myles Kincaid were all one match away from placing, losing in the quarter-finals but each delivering a personal best. Allan Dugger stayed alive up to the quarterfinals wrestling in the toughest bracket of the tournament and putting on his best show ever. Cody Seals exited after two hard-fought battles.

As Burns ends the season, he joins the elite ranks of SAS wrestlers with 100 or more career wins. Previous wrestlers to reach this milestone were Nick Barry with 134 wins and Evan Barry with 154. Burns wrestled this season at 160-lb leading his team's dominance of the Mountain Top Wrestling Invitational Tournament with all pins and no one scoring on him.

Burns is a three-sport athlete, rounding out his year with football and soccer. He has garnered awards in all three sports. He is an honors student and a proctor at SAS, the top leadership position at the school. He is also an Eagle Scout. Last summer he led members of Troop 14, the SAS Boy Scout troop, on a 10-day, 86-mile trek through the rugged northern New Mexican wilderness.

Cross Country Teams Honored

Sewanee's men's and women's cross country teams have been honored as All-Academic Teams by the U.S. Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association. In addition, students Clay Bond and John Gilmer were singled out as Division III All-Academic honorees, while both the men's and women's teams were honored as All-Academic Teams for their performances during the 2010 season.

To qualify as an All-Academic Cross Country Team, the team must have had a cumulative team GPA of 3.10 or better.

The women qualified with a cumulative GPA of 3.14, while the men qualified with a team GPA of 3.27.

Swim Team Cited as Scholar-Athletes

The Sewanee men's and women's swimming and diving teams have been honored as Scholar All-American Teams by the College Swimming Coaches Association of America. Both teams achieved the All-American status for the Fall 2010 semester.

To receive the Team Scholar All-American award, teams must have achieved a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher. Sewanee's men's and women's teams earned 3.38 and 3.37 cumulative GPAs, respectively. The Tigers recently competed in the 2011 SCAC Championships, where they set 12 school records and swam eight NCAA cut times.

SES Girls End Basketball Season

The SES Lady Tigers took on the number three seed, Clark Memorial, in first round basketball tournament action. SES came out to play, holding Clark Memorial scoreless going to the 10-minute mark. Clark Memorial and SES began to swap baskets, tying at 5 points at the 15-minute mark. Clark Memorial then unleashed a full court press and went ahead 10-5 at the half. An ailing SES team could not answer on numerous scoring opportunities and lost the game 19-7. Bright spots included the dynamic duo Emilie LaVoie-Ingram and Mariel Rinck, with four blocked shots and five steals, respectively. Callie Cantrell was a whirlwind on the defensive boards, sending Kate Butler and Lucy Lancaster flying forward on the fast break. Kate Butler led the scoring effort with five points, and Blake Collins, in limited action, scored 2 points.

Overtime with Coach Shack

By John Shackelford

In their purest form, sports are really nothing but organized play. The bigger the wall—the taller the fence we build around our fields—the more our play is transformed into a business. Thankfully, some of these businesses and schools have the need to hire coaches. But in truth, some of the greatest moments in sports are drawn out on the dirty palms of young hands diagramming a pass pattern for your best friend around the rose bush and then cutting straight for the stump by the back porch. The quarterback would launch his pass just before three-Mississippi was counted out loud.

My friends and I were lucky growing up that we had Mr. Moore's lot just around the block. Mr. Moore's house backed up against mine and was directly across the street from Jumpin Jimmy's house on Mt. Vernon Circle. He had a perfect vacant lot in his side yard that seemed long enough to host a 10-year-old's Super Bowl in November or the World Series of Whiffle ball in the summer months. Flat, rectangular, and not a rose bush in site from end-zone to end-zone. Mt. Vernon's cracked sidewalks on one end, and a tall white pine on the edge of the south end of the field defined those goal lines. The only problem was Mr. Moore himself. He wasn't thrilled with sharing his patch of fescue and rye with a noisy group of amateur athletes. We used to take our half-time breaks sitting on his stone wall on one side of the field, sipping ice-cold Grape Nehi from glass bottles that we would later return to the Dime Store in order to collect our nickel deposit. Mr. Moore decided to fix that irritation by covering the wall with a layer of mortar imbedded with scattered chunks of gravel. Some may have called the rock pattern decorative, but clearly its main purpose was to deter anyone from sitting on that ledge and sipping Grape Nehi without having a rock pressing uncomfortably into their backside. I suppose our relationship with our elder neighbor was close to the feelings Mr. Wilson had for Dennis the Menace on the funny pages. We managed to fit games in while he was napping or had taken his wood-paneled Buick wagon down to the Winn-Dixie for some groceries. I doubt he was ever as mad at us as we imagined him to be while we were plotting our next capture-the-flag contest or kick-the-can game with home base in the center of that empty lot.

Jumpin Jimmy and I circled that block a thousand times, whether it was on foot, during banana-seat bike races with a half deck-of-cards clothes-pinned to our bicycle spokes, or while we were breaking the boundary rules of our capture-the-flag battles just past dark, from the time we met, around the age of nine, until we discovered cars, girls, and organized sports in no particular order.

The two of us had occasion to walk that block of Mt. Vernon Circle again last week when I visited my boyhood home in Asheville, NC. Somehow through all the soaking rains followed by warm North Carolina sunshine over the past 40 years the entire block had mysteriously shrunk. Mr. Moore was no longer alive and the two of us were closer to his age then than we were to our last home run trot around that little patch of paradise. The lot had been sold and someone had squeezed a vinyl-sided two-bedroom, two-bath home onto my 50-yard line. We thought it was our middle-aged brains that needed checking when we couldn't find the field that once fit neatly into the diagrams on the palms of our sweaty hands. Vines had grown over our Nehi-sipping, break-time resting wall and there wasn't much to elicit memory from the surroundings. Jumpin Jimmy (who really can't jump anymore) glanced down and noticed that sticking up from those barren winter vines were several pieces of sharp gravel still imbedded in the loose mortar protruding upwards. The wall that had once bordered the scene of many great victories had shrunk to two-feet in height and was unable to keep even the baby-boomer chipmunks out of the yard. We shared a laugh, had a seat, and could taste the past.

Nature Notes

Crow Creek Outing

On Feb. 19, 2011, Jean and Harry Yeatman invited the Highland Rim chapter of the Tennessee Ornithology Society and friends to go to the Crow Creek Wildlife Preserve in Stevenson, Ala. to observe and count the water-loving birds. Twenty or more kinds of birds were listed. Of great interest were 40 Ruddy Ducks in winter plumage. These are small, with white cheeks and brownish backs, and they often hold their short tails in an upright position (as pictured above). Many Northern Shoveler Ducks were present, with colorful males and brownish females and long bills for catching plankton and small worms and water plants. Audubon's painting is shown below. Gray-colored Gadwells showed their black tails, as they

as they tipped for bottom-dwelling plants and animals. Seeing these tails sticking up above water, with the rest of the birds' bodies and heads underwater, was a common occurrence for the ornithologists. A single Blue-winged Teal was seen, as were a few Black Ducks, Canvasback Ducks, Ring-neck Ducks and Mallards. Four Great Blue Herons were there. A Harrier Hawk (Marsh Hawk) hen was seen in a field along the way, and Robins, Starlings, Mockingbirds and Yellow-rumped Warblers were seen. Woodpeckers observed included Red-headed, Pileated, Red-bellied and Yellow-bellied Sapsuckers. An American Kestrel was resting on a telephone wire. Before and after dining at the Mud Creek Restaurant, two immature Bald Eagles were observed in trees by the water and two adults were seen flying high, along with many Ring-billed Gulls. An Osprey nest was seen on top of a telephone pole. This February visit by the Yeatmans was a bit different from their Dec. 9, 2010 trip. Of course, Coots were present for both trips, but Scaup, Pintail Ducks and Pied-billed Grebes were not reported for this February trip.

Crow Creek Outing

Saturday, Feb. 19, an intrepid group joined Yolande Gottfried to hike Shakerag below Green's View and look for early wildflowers. Things are still pretty quiet there, but the group (Carol Sampson, Cornelia Coode, Doug Henard, Dale Hoagland, Judy Goff-Roden and Pauline Rambo) did spot several Harbinger-of-Spring, also called Pepper-and-Salt, so spring is on the way.

Pets of the Week: Cara & Alexandra

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Little Cara (pictured below, left) is a lapdog through and through. She is a tiny adult Chihuahua who would love a quiet home with adults to dote on her. Cara is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Alexandra (pictured below, right) is a beautiful young Tortoiseshell kitty with big gold eyes. She is loving and cuddly, and she should be happy as an indoor/outdoor kitty. Alexandra is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Please help the Humane Society by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Take a Micro-Safari on the Domain

At 10 a.m., Saturday, March 5, join the Sewanee Herbarium and biologist Paul Davison from the University of North Alabama on a journey to see life at small scale. Subjects will range from the botanical to the zoological. From the variety of leaf shapes sported by mosses and the reproductive structures of lichens to the creepy crawlies on the forest floor, participants will see things they've likely never seen before.

In case of inclement weather, the group will bring samples indoors to set up the field microscope and observe material via hand lenses as well as demonstrate the Baermann pan.

Meet at the Blue Chair restaurant in downtown Sewanee. Bring a bag lunch for this trek into the world of the very small. And don't forget a hand lens.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

Improving the Quality of Life

According to a recent study by the National Council on the Aging (NCOA), older persons with hearing loss who don't wear hearing instruments are more likely to report sadness, depression, worry, anxiety, paranoia, reduced social activity and greater amounts of emotional turmoil and insecurity. The NCOA conducted a large-scale survey of people over the age of 50 with hearing loss to determine the effects of untreated hearing loss on the quality of life for hearing-impaired individuals. Among other things, it found that the majority of hearing instrument users questioned in the survey reported a significant improvement in the quality of life from using hearing instruments. The majority of users and their family members reported improved relationships and feelings about themselves and life overall.

Talk, listen, ask, smile and live again with custom fitted hearing instruments from THE HEARING CENTER, LLC.
