

O'Neil Gives Ebay Lecture Feb. 9

Cathy O'Neil, author of the New York Times bestselling "Weapons of Math Destruction: How Big Data Increases Inequality and Threatens Democracy," which was also a semifinalist for the National Book Award, will present the 2017 Ebay lecture at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 9, in Convocation Hall. Following the presentation, there will be a reception and book signing.

O'Neil will also speak on "Technical Approaches to Measuring Fairness in Algorithms," at 4:30 p.m. the same day in Room 121 of Woods Labs. Both presentations are open to the public and free.

O'Neil earned a Ph.D. in math from Harvard, was a postdoctoral fellow in the MIT math department, and a professor at Barnard College where she published a number of research papers in arithmetic algebraic geometry. She then switched over to the private sector, working as a quantitative analyst for the hedge fund D.E. Shaw in the middle of the credit crisis, and then for RiskMetrics, a risk software company that assesses risk for the holdings of hedge funds and banks. She left finance in 2011 and started working as a data scientist in the New York start-up scene, building models that predicted people's purchases and clicks.

She wrote "Doing Data Science" in 2013 and launched the Lede Program in Data Journalism at Columbia in 2014. She is a weekly guest on the Slate Money podcast. All are welcome.

This lecture is made possible by the generosity of Sherwood Ebay, professor emeritus.

Monteagle Approves Purchases, New Employee

Deep Woods Requests De-Annexation

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the Jan. 30 meeting, the Monteagle Town Council approved purchase of a new utility truck and the purchase and refurbishing of the old Union Planters Bank building for police department headquarters. The council also approved a budget amendment to provide funds for hiring an employee to coordinate a call-in program for the elderly and entertained a request for de-annexation of the portion of the Deep Woods area still within the city limits.

Stressing the need to replace the water department's utility truck, Monteagle Mayor David Sampley said the truck now in use registered over 170,000 miles, did not have four-wheel

American Spiritual Ensemble Residency in Sewanee

The American Spiritual Ensemble will present three public performances during a five-day residency at the University of the South, from Wednesday through Sunday, Feb. 8-12. The critically acclaimed vocal ensemble, directed by Everett McCorvey, professor of voice at the University of Kentucky, has thrilled audiences around the world with their dynamic renditions of classic spirituals and Broadway numbers.

Public performances include:

Thursday, Feb. 9, 11 a.m., Guerry Auditorium. Community Welcome Assembly, featuring a presentation by students from Sewanee Elementary School, and the Vocal Ensemble of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School leading a sing-along with the American Spiritual Ensemble.

Friday, Feb. 10, 7:30 p.m., Guerry Auditorium. The American Spiritual Ensemble in performance with the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra. The program includes selections from George Gershwin's Porgy and Bess, and other works of Gershwin and Ellington.

Saturday, Feb. 11, 7:30 p.m., All Saints' Chapel. The American Spiritual Ensemble in Concert, featuring a dynamic conclusion including Sewanee Praise, the Vocal Ensemble of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, the Sewanee Chorale, the University Choir, and the Schola of the School of Theology.

All performances are free and open to the public. Further details may be found at <sewanee.edu>. The residency is sponsored by the Performing Arts Series and the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra, and made possible by University partners All Saints' Chapel, the Office of the Dean of Students, the School of Theology, the Office of the Dean of the College and Dr. François S. Clemmons.

Mary Ruefle, the 2017 Aiken Taylor Award Winner

The Sewanee Review announces Mary Ruefle as the winner of the 2017 Aiken Taylor Award for Modern American Poetry. Ruefle has authored 12 books of poetry, including "My Private Property" (2016) and "Trances from the Blast" (2013), as well as two collections of prose, and other writings. She has received numerous other literary honors, including the Poetry Society of America's William Carlos Williams Award, Guggenheim and National Endowment for the Arts fellowships, and a Whiting Award.

The 31st Aiken Taylor celebration will take place on March 1 and 2. On Wednesday, March 1, at 4:30 p.m., poet Michael Dickman, whose most recent collection, "Green Migraine," was also published in 2016, will lecture on Ruefle's poetry in Convocation Hall. At 4:30 p.m., Thursday, March 2, also in Convocation Hall, University of the South Vice-Chancellor John McCardell and Adam Ross, editor-in-chief of the Sewanee Review, will present Ruefle with the award, after which she will give a reading of her work. Receptions will follow both events.

As Michael Klein summarized, writing for the Los Angeles Review of Books: "[Ruefle's work] is best enjoyed simply as a sampling of moods and thoughts from the same intelligent, delving mind, the kind of pieces one reads for questions, not for answers." Her book of lectures, "Madness, Rack, and Honey," is considered required reading for young poets, practiced experts, and critics alike.

If her work seems to constitute a series of dispatches from a parallel, slightly-askew realm, this sense of dislocation is bolstered by her reluctance to participate in the digital world; Ruefle's website declares (and a December interview with the Paris Review confirms) that she does not own a computer, and in her recent typewritten correspondence with the SR, the tail end of her signature came adorned with a tiny, rubber-stamped snail. Along with bestowing the Aiken Taylor Award, the Review will publish several new poems by Ruefle in the spring 2017 issue.

During its first half-century the Sewanee Review was primarily an academic journal devoted to the humanities; since the editorship of Allen Tate in the 1940s, the quarterly has been literary and critical, publishing short fiction, poetry, essays and reviews.

The Sewanee Village: a Near-Future View

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

"The Sewanee Village Plan is basically a road map," said Special Assistant to the Vice-Chancellor Frank Gladu, outlining what the community could expect in the next three to five years as the University undertakes implementing the plan for renovation of the downtown area. At a Jan. 31 town meeting at the Blue Chair, Gladu identified four "prominently important" projects: narrowing Hwy. 41A at the intersection, a village green and new, bigger grocery-store type market, housing, and relocating the bookstore to downtown.

The 2011 University Master Plan included revisioning the downtown area, and two years ago, the University retained town planner Brian Wright to create the road map for that vision.

Gladu stressed "certain things must happen before other things can happen." He pointed to the Hwy. 41A intersection as a front-burner item. "We've been dancing with TDOT for a long time," he said, "and we're very close to arriving at a solution." TDOT has agreed to narrow Hwy. 41A, and Gladu projected that would begin in the spring.

The much talked about on-street parking proposed for Hwy. 41A "is a contentious item," however. Gladu said, TDOT expressed concern on-street parking would interfere with Hwy. 41A being used for a detour route when problems occurred on -24.

Green spaces are planned for both sides of Hwy. 41A, according to Gladu, with a village green located on the current Sewanee Market property. Residents can expect a new market on the neighboring property where the Hair Depot is located.

The University acquired the Hair Depot site, but the business has a one-year lease before it will need to relocate. "We want them to remain in the community," Gladu stressed.

Plans to move the bookstore downtown received nods of approval. The bookstore's relocation "will encourage mingling of the town-gown cultures," said a longtime resident.

"We explored other suppliers for the bookstore, but decided to stay with Barnes and Noble," Gladu said. Merchandise will include student course materials, although the proposed building will be half the size of the current structure. "Students frequently buy texts and other material online," Gladu explained, accounting for the smaller size.

Gladu emphasized the need for more variety in housing, with the plan calling for apartments and small houses, as well as traditional family homes. Several policy questions remain to be answered. Current policy gives preference for new residential construction to University employees. "Whether or not we'll make specific provisions for downtown is undecided," Gladu said. He stressed

KEEPING US UP-TO-DATE

To the Editor:

My aged bones are no longer going on marches. My last one was in Chattanooga side-by-side with my ex-student Helen Stapleton protesting the Iraq War. But I proudly report that my daughter Catharine and her son Michael's fiancée attended the Washington march, and her other son Aaron and his wife marched in Boston.

Ann and I thank the Sewanee Mountain Messenger for keeping us up-to-date on Sewanee happenings, even though, all too often, old friends turn up in the obituary column. I mourn for my intramural teammates David Collins and Jim Lowe.

BROADBAND SERVICE

To the Editor:

Rural areas of Tennessee desperately need access to fast, affordable broadband internet service in order to stay competitive with the rest of the world. After a year's study and thanks to the many area residents who filled out Duck River's broadband access survey, Governor Haslam has proposed the Tennessee Broadband Accessibility Act. This bill budgets $45 million to expand the necessary infrastructure, overturns an archaic law preventing electric cooperatives like Duck River from providing broadband to its customers, and funds efforts at local libraries to teach digital literacy to their clients. He presented this much needed bill to the Tennessee General Assembly on Jan. 30. Please let our elected officials know that you, their constituents, want this bill to pass. Please contact:

Free Income Tax Prep Available

The IRS-certified Sewanee Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program will begin processing and filing qualifying residents' income taxes for its fifth year in a row. This year the student leads and volunteers are working with the Babson Center for Global Commerce as well as the University of the South and South Cumberland Community Fund-sponsored South Cumberland VISTA Program.

In order to try to increase the number of returns submitted and maximize the amount of money returned to the community through free tax returns, the Sewanee VITA volunteers will move to partner sites each weekend besides the home site of Otey Parish. These partner sites include the Grundy County Detention Center, Dutch Maid Bakery, Franklin County Library, Sewanee Senior Center, Sewanee's McClurg Dining Hall and Monteagle's May Justus Memorial Library.

Any resident of Franklin, Grundy, or Marion counties who makes less than $54,000 a year, is disabled, or is elderly qualifies for a free tax return.

Each resident interested in filing must bring proof of identification (a photo ID), social security cards (if filing jointly with another person then bring both social security cards and both individuals must be present), wage and earning statements (W-2, 1099, etc.), dividend and interest statements (if this applies to the resident filing), birth dates of the resident(s) and dependent(s), and banking account and routing numbers for direct deposit (found on a blank check).

If a resident filing does not have a social security card, then he/she must bring an IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN) assignment letter.

There are no appointments, all filing is done by walk-in.

Each site will be open from noon until 5 p.m. Please direct any questions to <economic.development.vista@gmail.com>.

Food with Friends Shop and dine locally!

Food with Friends, a University student-led organization interested in getting to know members of the greater Sewanee community, invites everyone to lunch at noon, Friday, Feb. 10, in St. Mark's Hall at Otey Parish Church. The meal is free, and all are invited.

The students shop, cook, serve and sit down for good conversation. Otey's Community Action Committee has partnered with this organization for the past four years.

University Farm to Host Events

Join the University Farm this Saturday, Feb. 4, at the Sewanee Senior Center for an Ask a Gardener discussion panel from 9:30–10:30 a.m., a Seed Swap from 10:30–11 a.m., and an Organic Certification Workshop from 11 a.m.–noon.

During the Ask a Gardener discussion panel, community members will have the opportunity to hear from local growers and ask questions on best practices, to gain more insight for their gardens this year.

Following the close of the discussion, we invite the community to our first Seed Swap. Bring any seeds you have to swap with other local growers and beginner gardeners. You do not have to bring any seeds to pick some up. The organic certification workshop will be led by Shelby Koebly, the Organic Certification Coordinator Americorps VISTA, to discuss organic certification options, available resources, record keeping strategies and more.

There will be coffee, juice, and a light, locally sourced breakfast provided by Rachel Youngblood with Real Food Gratitude. The Sewanee Senior Center is located at 5 Ball Park Road.

Local Farm to Table Protein: Panel Discussion

On Thursday, Feb. 9, at 7 p.m., at the Sewanee Community Center, Rooted Here will host a panel discussion featuring local farmers who produce meat, eggs and dairy products to sell directly to the consumer. All interested community members are invited to attend.

Panelists include Matt Sparacio, Cove Creek Farm, Tracy City; Lynn Blankenship, Daysprings Farm, Altamont; Leslie Spell, Humble Hearts Farm, Limestone County, Ala.; Wayne Diller, Nature's Wealth Farm, Sky-mont; Amy and Caleb Rae, Solace Farm, Coalmont; and Jess Wilson, Summer Fields Farm, Monteagle. Farm to table products offered by these farmers include beef, lamb, pork, goat, chicken, eggs and cheese.

The panelists will talk about why they got into the business, startup, day to day operations, hurdles, and advice to would-be producers. A question and answer session will follow.

Established in 2007 to promote the local food movement, the Rooted Here project fosters farm to consumer retail sales through the South Cumberland Farmers' Market and wholesale sales to schools and institutions through the Food Hub. For more information contact president Leslie Lytle at (931) 592-6594 or <sllytle@blomand.net>.

Sewanee Woman's Club Reservations Due Today

The February luncheon meeting for the Sewanee Woman's Club will be at noon, Monday, Feb. 13, at the DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle. The club welcomes all women from the area. Dues are $5 per year and are used to support valuable community programs and charities.

The program will be "The South Cumberland State Park as a Community Resource" by George Shinn, Park Manager, as Davy Crockett.

Join Park Manager George Shinn as he relates the life of David Crockett and the principles he lived for application in present day rural America. Wilderness and community were very important to Crockett. Manager Shinn will engage that timeless voice and share how South Cumberland State Park and everyone can embark on an adventure together to improve our park and community.

George Shinn has managed the South Cumberland State Park since 2013, after serving Fall Creek Falls State Park, Bicentennial State Park in Nashville and Savage Gulf State Natural Area. He is excited about the direction the park is taking and has established a goal of making South Cumberland the "crown jewel" of the Tennessee State Park System. George's hero is Davy Crockett, who he re-enacts, in full costume, at many South Cumberland State Park events.

Lunch ($13.75) for this meeting will be tossed salad, chicken parmesan, cheese tortellini with marinara sauce, steamed broccoli, garlic cheddar biscuits and red velvet tart. Reservations are required and are due today (Friday), Feb. 3. To make a reservation call Pixie Dozier at (931) 598-5869 or email Marianna Handler at <mariannah@earthlink.net>. A vegetarian choice is offered; please request this when making a reservation.

The Sewanee Woman's Club hosts luncheon meetings on the second Monday of each month, September through May, except January. There is an optional social time at 11:30 a.m. Programs begin at 12:30 p.m. Club business matters are handled briefly at 1 p.m. Every effort is made to keep to this schedule to accommodate professional women's lunch hours. Child care is also available; please request these when making a reservation. Please bring a snack for your child.

Night of Romance Benefit at St. Mary's Sewanee

The community is invited to attend A Night of Romance at St. Mary's Sewanee, 6–8 p.m., Monday, Feb. 13. An elegant evening of food, wine and music, featuring classical guitarist Jonathan Sargent, is planned.

Jonathan has toured throughout Europe, South America and parts of Asia. He has composed and arranged for Warner Brothers, Sony and Word Records and served as President of Union Street Records. His CD,

"Little Cathedrals," was inspired by cathedrals around the world. It was composed, arranged and recorded in Franklin, Tenn., where Jonathan resides.

Tickets are $40 per person or $75 for a couple. To register, call (931) 598-5342, email <reservations@stmaryssewanee.org>, or go online to <www.stmaryssewanee.org>. Reservations are required. Proceeds benefit St. Mary's Sewanee.

We're glad you're reading the Messenger!

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace, All Saints’ Chapel’s contemporary worship service, will continue Feb. 5, at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. The speaker will be Tilden Davis, C’14, and a Masters of Education student in Community Development and Action at Peabody. Growing in Grace will focus on moments of our life where we have “mountaintop experiences.” The question we are asking is “How is your time on The Mountain, whether it is four years or a lifetime, influencing the message you hope to share with the world? Growing in Grace features a student-led worship team, and a different speaker every week.

The Catechumenate will meet Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Women’s Center. Desserts and coffee will be provided. Based around fellowship, study, openness, and conversation, the Catechumenate serves as a foundational piece for the Christian faith, as well as a forum for discussion for people of all backgrounds. All are welcome. Contact University Lay Chaplain Rob McAlister <rob.mcalister@sewanee.edu> for more information.

Christ Church Monteagle

Each year we have a play which tells the story of Joseph and Mary (Mary and Joseph) taking Jesus to the Temple on the 40th day after Christmas Day.

This is the origin of Groundhog Day. Since Feb. 2 comes on a Thursday, we are putting it forward to Sunday, Feb. 5, at 10:30 a.m.

Christ Church also announces the “Four Chaplains’ Sunday,” which is kept in many churches, especially those which have a connection to chaplaincy. Christ Church is honored to have been chosen as a site for art and photos which tell this heroic story from World War II. One point is the way chaplains of many faith groups still work together to serve military families, as well as those who are in the Armed Services. All are invited to attend.

CAC Pantry Sunday, Feb. 5

Pantry Sunday for the Community Action Committee (CAC) is Sunday, Feb. 5, for participating churches: St. James, Otey, Cumberland Presbyterian and All Saints’ Chapel. Please bring your food offerings to Sunday services. The typical bag of groceries includes: rice, beans, pasta, macaroni and cheese, peanut butter, and cans of vegetables, fruit, and soup. The cost for a complete bag is less than $15.

The CAC is an outreach ministry of Otey Parish, with generous support from the Sewanee Community Chest and individuals across the Mountain.

For more than 35 years, the CAC has provided food, financial assistance, and educational support for persons in the greater Sewanee community. For more information contact the CAC at 598-5927.

Otey Parish

This Sunday, Feb. 5, in Christian Formation at 10 a.m., the Lectionary Class will explore Sunday’s gospel in the Claiborne House, Adult Education Room. Children ages 3–11 are invited to meet their friends for Godly Play. Middle school and high school students have Sunday School in Brooks Hall. Infants 6 weeks to children 4 years old are invited to the nursery beginning at 8:30 a.m. until after the second service. The Adult Forum on Feb. 5 is the Rector’s Forum.

Working groups were formed during the first meeting of Sewanee Organize and Act.

Sewanee Organize and Act Formed

A group of citizens from Sewanee and the surrounding communities have formed Sewanee Organize and Act. The goal of this group is to champion progressive values and oppose a governmental agenda that threatens to move the country backward. Close to 200 people gathered for the organizational meeting, Jan. 29, at the Sewanee Community Center.

Working groups were formed around such issues as education, environment, immigration, civil rights and freedom of the press. Each working group is tasked with gathering information on their particular issue and forming strategies for affecting legislation and shaping the debate over the president's agenda.

Organizers Sid Brown, Nicky Hamilton and Mary Priestley were pleased with the work that was accomplished in this first meeting. "We were energized by the Women's March on Washington. 'Indivisible,' an online guide for resisting what we see that's wrong with this administration's agenda, gave us specific ideas for moving forward," said Brown.

"We are also eager to find ways to build bridges and work across party lines on divisive and reactionary policies put forth by President Trump," said Hamilton. "We all know people who are being hurt by actions that he has already taken in just the first two weeks of his administration."

The next meeting of Sewanee Organize and Act will be at 2 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 26, location to be announced. "We weren't prepared for the high turnout at our first meeting," said Priestley. "We have to find a meeting space that can accommodate all of the people who want to get involved."

For more information, see the group's Facebook page or email <sewaneeorganizeandact@gmail.com>.

the importance of favoring permanent residents—"For second homeowners to dominate downtown defeats the purpose of the Village Plan vision."

Asked about funding for the new initiatives, Gladu said TDOT will fund the intersection renovation and the University planned to step up its fundraising campaign to fund the village green and other civic spaces through philanthropy. The University will pay for relocation of the bookstore.

The hope is developers will step forward to take on the new market and housing needs. Asked about what kind of lease developers would receive, Gladu said, "We'll need to work through that on a case by case basis. Builders may have short-term leases and occupants long-term leases."

Alongtime resident expressed concern about how the character of the downtown area would change. "The community doesn't exist simply to serve students, and downtown doesn't exist to serve economic development. This is our home. I hope the residential nature of the community will be kept in mind."

"I want the downtown area to remain quirky and to have a residential feel to it," Gladu insisted.

Another longtime resident challenged Gladu. "If you put everything in a pattern book, you take away the opportunity for quirkiness," he said referring to the planner's manual identifying the four acceptable housing types.

"The fourth housing type, Eclectic, allows for freedom of design," Gladu explained. "It may as well be called 'quirky.'"

Other residents expressed concern about the future of the American Legion Hall, Senior Citizens' Center, and Community Center. Gladu said while all three properties were part of the Village Plan, that portion of the plan "was not near term, but far term."

He emphasized the historic importance of the Legion Hall and the need for careful consideration. "We're not actively pursuing acquiring the property," Gladu said.

Affirming the community's personal attachment to downtown Sewanee, Meg Binnicker Beasley announced the Sewanee Trust for Historic Preservation (STHP) planned to create a chronology of downtown by "collecting oral histories, and stories."

Binnicker displayed an 1893 insurance map of downtown and noted how a map from a few years later showed a different location for the post office.

"It's a detective story," Beasley said expressing an interest in receiving family photos, letters and diaries. "They're all part of pieces in the puzzle."

Beasley invited interested community members to an STHP planning meeting at 4:30 p.m., Feb. 6, at Otey Parish Hall. The meeting will focus on designing the oral history and chronology projects. For more information, contact Beasley at <m.beasley@sewanee.edu>.

Recently appointed to the position of Special Assistant to the Vice-chancellor tasked with overseeing implementation of the Sewanee Village Plan and senior living project Arcadia, Gladu intends to hold informal town meetings on a regular basis. He welcomes questions from the community. Contact Gladu at <fxgladu@sewanee.edu>.

School of Theology Offers Travel Study as Part of May Term

The School of Theology announced that it has created a May Term slate of courses open to alumni, students and friends. In this and in coming years, it will provide the opportunity for continuing education including the opportunity to participate in travel study.

Two trips are being offered this May:

Italy Pilgrimage: From Rome to Assisi, lead by the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, School of Theology;

Dos Tierras: Faith, Politics, and Environment in Two Lands in Matanzas, Cuba, lead by Dr. Andrew Thompson, School of Theology.

The walking pilgrimage from Rome to Assisi, May 14–27, will be lead by Neil Alexander and Stan Beecham. Participants will be fully immersed in the beauty and culture of this region of Italy, both urban and rural.

The environmental course, May 15–26, will examine the theological and political aspects of environmental sustainability as it is lived out in the United States and in Cuba. The course will take place in Sewanee, and at the Seminario Evangélico de Teología in Matanzas, Cuba.

The deadline for registration on these trips is Feb. 15. Complete details and online reservation forms for both trips are available on the School's website <theology.sewanee.edu/seminary/top-news/seminary-offers-may-term-courses.php>.

drive, and frequently “got stuck.” The council approved the purchase of a four-wheel drive utility vehicle from Russell Barnett Ford, the low bidder at $23,801. Russell Barnett also offered the longest warranty. The money for the purchase will come from the Utility Department budget, Sampley said.

Revisiting the Jan. 26 first reading approval of a budget amendment to increase the allocation for purchase of a new building for police department headquarters, Sampley questioned Codes Enforcement officer Earl Geary about the soundness of the structure.

“You found no problems other than some electrical work needing done, is that correct?” Sampley asked. “The city looked at the building before and didn’t buy it because it failed inspection.”

Geary replied the building was sound. The budget allocated $157,500 for purchase of a building for the police department. The amendment increased the allocation by $42,500 to cover the cost of refurbishing and repair.

The council approved the budget amendment and purchase of the building which is located on College Street next to the present Police Department headquarters.

In his campaign for mayor, Sampley suggested reinstituting a program previously in place in which registered seniors phoned the police dispatcher once a day. If a senior didn’t phone in, an officer would visit the home to make sure all was well. The board approved a budget amendment allocating $12,849 for an employee to oversee the program. Other responsibilities will include assisting the Chamber of Commerce and Parks and Recreation Department. The salary covers employment through June 30.

Deep Woods resident Bob Childress presented a survey showing 20 of 31 Deep Woods property owners favored de-annexation and one opposed de-annexation. Ten did not respond. The city previously de-annexed a portion of Deep Woods. The petitioners requested de-annexation of the remaining portion located in Franklin County.

Commenting on the request, Sampley said, since Monteagle annexed Deep Woods, Franklin County no longer provided road maintenance to the area. “Monteagle has a very small budget for road maintenance and gets no money from the county for that purpose,” Sampley pointed out. “Paving Deep Woods road would cost more than $240,000.” Monteagle does not levy an income tax.

The council will hold a hearing on de-annexation at 5 p.m., Monday, Feb. 13.

Reporting on parks and recreation, Vice-mayor Jessica Blalock stressed the need for volunteers to coach youth baseball, as well as volunteers to help with painting and cleaning at the ball park.

“Signups for baseball players and coaches will begin here next Saturday,” Blalock said. She expressed gratitude for the donation of a PA system so games could begin with a prayer and singing of the national anthem. Toilets and sinks for the restrooms were also donated. Blalock’s wish list includes a larger breaker box for the concession stand.

Updating the town on other community business, Sampley said the tornado warning siren had been repaired and would be moved to the 911 Center.

The council’s next regular meeting is 6 p.m., Monday, Feb. 27.

Yarn bombing!

Mountain Goat Trail to be Yarn Bombed on April 1

Yarn bombing, an international movement of knit and crochet graffiti, will arrive at a 3-mile section of the Mountain Goat Trail between Pearl’s Restaurant and downtown Sewanee beginning Saturday, April 1.

“Yarn bombing is the act of attaching handmade yarn items in unexpected places, such as a street fixture or landscape,” said Sandy Rice, project organizer. “It’s a way to make the world a little brighter and more fun, with no damage to the environment.”

Yarn enthusiasts from Grundy, Marion and Franklin counties are creating crocheted and knitted items known as tags. They will be displayed along various trees, posts, benches, fences and rocks along the Mountain Goat Trail from the project’s grand opening April 1 through approximately the end of May, when Mother Nature will be expected to take over the color display and the tags will be removed.

Parking on April 1 will be available at Mooney’s Market, Pearl’s, and the trail head parking area in Sewanee. There is no admission fee but donations to the sponsoring organizations are happily accepted.

Yarn bombing may have started in Houston, Texas around 2004 with a knitted item placed over a car antennae. It is now an international movement of knit and crochet graffiti intended to inspire feelings of surprise, joy. Some bombers may see it as taking a stand against the mass production of goods, others as taking a traditional feminine hobby and elevating it to an art form or bringing a solitary activity to a public forum. Knitted and crochet items remind the viewer of handcrafted sweaters, scarfs and afghans — soft, warm, comforting, useful.

The project is sponsored by the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance and The Grundy Area Arts Council. For more information, or if you would like to participate by making a tag or donating yarn, please contact project organizer Sandy Rice at <sandrafrice55@gmail.com>.

The Mountain Goat Trail Alliance works to create a walking and biking path along the route of the historic Mountain Goat Railroad. The multi-use trail will eventually be 35 plus miles in length and link three counties and seven towns. More information can be found at <mountaingoattrail.org>.

The Grundy Area Arts Council provides coordination, communication, promotion, and development of cultural activities in Grundy County and the lateau. Emphasis is on efforts to reach under-served populations and to support indigenous arts, artists, and resources. To learn more, visit <grundyareaarts.org>.

Governor Haslam Proposes Expanded Rural Broadband

DREMC responds with a solution to partner with Internet Service Providers

Limited access to broadband Internet connectivity in rural middle Tennessee has prompted Duck River Electric Membership Corporation (DREMC) to create a solution for the future. This comes on the heels of Gov. Bill Haslam’s introduction of a bill to allow electric cooperatives to provide broadband.

This bill, officially known as the “Tennessee Broadband Accessibility Act,” attempts to get broadband access to everyone. According to Haslam, 34 percent of rural Tennesseans do not have broadband access, which represents about 725,000 people. When compared to the two percent of urban residents in the state without broadband access, a digital divide is apparent.

“Lack of high-speed, reliable Internet access has serious consequences for our members,” DREMC President and CEO Michael Watson said. “Education, healthcare and job opportunities are all affected. While we want to be part of the solution, it is not our plan to become an Internet Service Provider (ISP).”

Watson further explained that DREMC has been studying a way to be a part of the broadband solution for over a year now. With the help of a consulting firm, residential members and businesses were surveyed and meetings with community leaders and stakeholders were held.

“Although DREMC concedes the critical importance of rural broadband connectivity and wants to see Tennessee electric co-ops allowed in the (ISP) business,” Watson remarked, “we will be guided by what’s best for our 73,000 members.”

Watson said DREMC is currently undertaking a multi-year project to build a fiber-optic loop to connect their offices, substations and other assets, improving operations for the co-op and service to their members. It is in DREMC’s plan to include excess fiber capacity over and above what the co-op will need.

“This would provide an opportunity to be part of the broadband solution by collaborating with ISPs, companies already invested and experienced in providing Internet service,” Watson explained. “Potentially an ISP could lease this excess fiber capacity, and then, in turn, reach rural customers in a cost-effective way. We believe this measured approach fulfills our mission of promoting economic development and enhanced quality of life for our members in the best possible way.”

Cooperative members are encouraged to get involved by supporting the campaign to change the law by visiting <takeactiontn.com>.

The Village Movement: the Value of Community and Opportunities as We Age

Folks at Home, in collaboration with Arcadia at Sewanee, the Department of Religious Studies, Vanderbilt University Medical Center, and Vanderbilt Center for Quality in Aging, will host a live stream of a talk by Atul Gawande, MD, MPH, and author of "Being Mortal." The event will be at 4 p.m., Monday, Feb. 13, at Convocation Hall. A discussion and reception will follow.

Dr. Gawande is a renowned surgeon, public health researcher, and writer. He will speak about the value of community and opportunities as we grow older. Gawande's book describes people's efforts to maintain autonomy as they age in the face of ingrained habits, cultural expectations, and one-size-fits-all corporate offerings. He includes the Village model as an option for assisting older adults in their efforts, which has often meant providing services and extending community to people who want to remain in their own homes and enjoy the activities, attributes, attitudes, and ages that engage a community's older adult population.

Other Villages across the country will participate in the live stream. Folks at Home has the opportunity to submit a question to be answered by Gawande during the live event. If you would like to suggest a question, please contact Folks at Home by today (Friday), Feb. 3, at <folksathomesewanee@gmail.com> or (931) 598-0303.

The Village Movement was born by the formation of Beacon Hill Village in Boston, which enrolled its first members in February 2002 and was soon deluged with requests for help from other groups wanting to form their own Villages. The concept came out of the meeting of a group who wanted more freedom and control over their lives as they aged, and who wanted to be active, taking care of themselves and each other, rather than being taken care of.

More than 200 Villages now have opened in the U.S. Folks at Home started in Sewanee in 2010, and has grown to 65 subscribing members; it also provides pro bono services to more than 64 individuals and 11 community organizations.

The Village concept and Gawande's understanding of the importance of choice and community offer valuable insights and solutions for the challenge of how to support aging populations.

Contact Folks at Home to RSVP or with any questions about the event. The broadcast is expected to last from 4 to 6 p.m., followed by discussion and refreshments.

SPD Increases DUI Enforcement

Sewanee Police Department is partnering with the Tennessee Highway Safety Office (THSO) to enhance impaired-driving enforcement during the Super Bowl weekend coming up, as part of the statewide "Booze It & Lose It" statewide mobilization.

"During Super Bowl in 2016, there were 76 crashes and eight fatalities related to impaired driving across Tennessee," said THSO Director Vic Donoho, "and in 2015 during the same weekend there were 77 crashes and six fatalities. This year we want zero."

A single DUI conviction can cost an individual $5,000 or more in addition to jail time. An offender can be required to install an ignition interlock device inside his or her vehicle, as well as having to attend drug and alcohol treatment and classes. Any penalty imposed by law pales in comparison to the injury or death of a loved one.

The THSO provides grant funding to support Sewanee Police efforts during the "Booze It and Lose It" enforcement campaign. For more information about the THSO, visit <www.tntrafficsafety.org> or contact Arriale Tabson at <Arriale.Tabson@TN.gov>.

SCCF Announces the 2017 Grant Round & Info Sessions

In preparation for its 2017 grants cycle, South Cumberland Community Fund (SCCF) invites interested organizations and potential applicants to a series of information sessions to help groups prepare their proposals.

All grant applicants must attend one of the information meetings before submitting a proposal. There will be three opportunities: at 10 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 11, at 5 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 21, and at noon on Friday, March 3. All meetings will take place in the Grundy EMS office in Coalmont, across from the Coalmont Community Center.

The deadline for applications is April 3; final selection of grant recipients will be made by June 1.

South Cumberland Community Fund was established in 2012 as a collective way for people to support the many nonprofit organizations across the Plateau. Since its founding, SCCF has made more than $450,000 in grants for projects on the Mountain and provided organizational support to nonprofit groups, helping them develop stronger administrative structures, clearer missions, and integrated strategic plans.

SCCF has seven priority areas for its grants: Building Our Sense of Community; Strengthening Our Economy; Developing the Potential of Our Youth; Tapping the Potential of Our Elders; Conserving the Past; Enlarging the Vision of the Future; and Meeting Basic Needs. For more information contact Laura Willis by email to <laura@southcumberlandcommunityfund.org> or call (931) 636-2901; or go online to <southcumberlandcommunityfund.org/grants>.

Shop & Dine Locally!

Students tell personal stories of immigration, family history and culture to several hundred people gathered for a vigil on Feb. 1 on The Quad at the University of the South. The vigil was a show of opposition to recent executive orders by President Donald Trump concerning immigration, refugees and a proposed border wall with Mexico. After sign-making and passing out candles, organizers encouraged those in attendance to introduce themselves to a stranger before the speeches began. The Tennessee Immigrant and Refugee Rights Coalition asked for vigils and solidarity to support those impacted by the President's executive orders. Photo by Kevin Cummings

Students Inducted into Order of Gownsmen

The following local students were inducted into the Order of Gownsmen at the University of the South during the Winter Convocation, Jan. 20.

Charles Hunter Craighill of Sewanee, the son of Virginia and Charles S. Craighill; Nicole Danielle Johnston of Sewanee, the daughter of Andrea and Patrick A. Johnston; Noah Hudson McIndoo of Sewanee, the son of The Rev. Lisa Stanley McIndoo and William H. McIndoo; Kira Day Tharp of Sewanee, the daughter of Karen Tharp and David S. Tharp; and Loring Margaret McDonald of Winchester, the daughter of Kristie A. and Chris C. McDonald.

The Order of Gownsmen is an academic honor society and a unique student government body among U.S. colleges and universities. Since 1875 the Order of Gownsmen has remained the body responsible for maintaining the spirit, traditions, and ideals of the University of the South. The wearing of the gown is both a sign of academic achievement and a promise to continue the ideals and traditions of the University.

Collect Box Tops to Help Sewanee Elementary

There is an easy way to support Sewanee Elementary School. Take a few minutes and clip the “Box Tops for Education” from many of the groceries you already buy at the store.

The last submission deadline for this school year is Friday, Feb. 17. Please remember Box Tops do expire.

Last year the school earned $805 through the Box Tops program, money that went directly to SES to support teachers and education.

Please keep clipping! You can drop the Box Tops off at SES, in the box in the entry area of the Sewanee Post Office, or SPO them to Emily Puckette.

There is a complete list of participating items online at <www.boxtops4education.com/products/participating-products>. For more information visit <www.btfe.com>.

Dr. Strange

PG • 105 minutes

Marvel Cinematic Universe brings another comic book superhero to the screen, with Benedict Cumberbatch in the title role. Dr. Strange is a brilliant but egotistical neurosurgeon. We know how the story goes: rich, successful guy with a huge character flaw suddenly transforms. When a horrific car crash renders Dr. Strange's hands useless, (don't text and drive) he searches the world to find a way to repair them. He eventually becomes a powerful sorcerer under the guidance of the Ancient One. The visual effects are stunning and it is fun to watch Dr. Strange in alternate dimensions and space. To see the warping of New York City is well-worth the price of admission. Rated PG-13 for sci-fi violence and action throughout, and an intense crash sequence, this one is best suited for older teens, and adults.

CINEMA GUILD

Wednesday, Feb. 8, 7:30 p.m.

Lee Daniels' The Butler

PG-13 • 132 minutes

Popular history defines the era of the civil rights movement through stark landmarks such as: Brown vs Board, The Civil Rights Act, and Martin Luther King. With the civil rights movement in the background, "The Butler" attempts to illustrate the more subtle changes of heart undergone in the search for justice. The movie revolves around a black butler and his family unit. Working hard to keep his children from the cotton field framing his own childhood, Cecil Gaines (Forest Whitaker) finds himself as a butler serving the White House from the Eisenhower to Reagan administrations. In stark contrast to the Butler mantra "you hear nothing you say nothing" Cecil's son becomes a highly active member in a student-led civil rights group, resulting in numerous jail stints and close calls that forges a rift between father and son. As the movie takes Cecil through encounters with his son, death, and politics, he eventually comes head to head with his life long commitment to service. Ultimately Cecil undergoes a personal revolution that, while far from glorious, appears no less noble than the landmarks of civil rights through which he lives. Like his characters, director Lee Daniels takes on a tall order in "The Butler" with genuine if not perfect effort.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE

Thursday–Sunday, Feb. 9–12, 7:30 p.m.

Loving

PG-13 • 123 minutes

With a baby on the way, Richard (Joel Edgerton) and Mildred Loving (Ruth Negga), drive to Washington D.C. to get married in order to subvert Virginia's ban on interracial marriage before returning to their pastoral household. The expected backlash follows as deputies raid the couple's home throwing them into separate holding cells. Upon facing local court, they find themselves faced with a choice: one year in prison or abandon the home and family of Virginia for no less than 25 years. Based on a true story, the couple faces the 10-year ordeal that results in the Loving v Virginia Supreme Court ruling, with a steadfast commitment to each other. Utilizing minimal dialogue, the movie lingers on the faces of Richard and Mildred. When asked for a comment addressed to the Supreme Court, Richard simply states, "tell the judge that I love my wife." Nothing more needs to be said, but more than can be understood waits to be gleaned from his humble gaze. Altogether, "Loving" provides a beautiful and up-close profile of the couple that feels expressly human.

All showings are at 7:30 p.m. unless otherwise noted. Regular feature films are $3 for children/youth/students and $4 for adult non-students. Cinema Guild features (typically Wednesday) are free, as are other special showings unless noted. The SUT is located on South Carolina Ave., at the back of Thompson Union across from All Saints' Chapel.

Valentine Papercutting Art Workshop Feb. 4

Kim Phillips, master papercut artist and a member of the Franklin County Arts Guild, is offering a "Flowers & Love" paper cut art workshop on Saturday, Feb. 4, 1–4 p.m., at the Sewanee Community Center. Participants will learn to make single-layer and multi-layer papercuts for greeting cards, wall decorations, and other creative purposes and will complete an original piece of art for a special Valentine's Day card or gift. The $25 workshop fee includes all instruction and materials. A portion of the fee will be used to support the Sewanee Community Center.

Phillips has an art studio, Tiny Creative House, in Monteagle, where she pursues papercut art, painting, pastels and ceramics. She has been the artist-in-residence and has given papercutting workshops at many locations in Nashville, her home town, and in New Orleans. She also had a 35-year career as a corporate marketing and advertising manager and as a marketing consultant. Tiny Creative House offers marketing and other creative services. She is a member of the American Guild of Papercutters.

To register for the workshop, visit <<http://bit.ly/paper-cut-workshop>> or visit the Facebook page of Tiny Creative House.

The Sewanee Community Center is located at 39 Ball Park Road in Sewanee. For more information contact Phillips at (615) 829-0772 or email <kim@tinycreativehouse.com>.

Toby Foyeh and Orchestra Africa

Toby Foyeh and Orchestra Africa will perform at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 4, in Guerry Auditorium. Orchestra Africa features dancers, drummers, and vocalists, and creates a unique fusion of traditional Nigerian Yoruba music (including Highlife, Afro-beat and folklore) with jazz, pop, and Latin music. Admission to the event, which is ideal for all ages, is free and the public is invited.

The band blends traditional African instruments including the gangan (talking drum) and kalimba (thumb piano) to turn contemporary tunes into a swirl of colorful African music and dance. The music of Orchestra Africa attempts to convey the joys and challenges Africa faces as the continent moves into the global economy. The musicians of Orchestra Africa are also explorers, creating new musical horizons while respecting the traditions of the past.

Toby Foyeh began playing and performing music in Nigeria from an early age. He later honed his skill and developed his talent at the prestigious Berklee College of Music in Boston and at Howard University. Foyeh and Orchestra Africa have performed in the United Kingdom, Europe, U.S., Canada, Japan and Africa.

Admission to the event, which is ideal for all ages, is free, and the public is invited. Be prepared to dance. The Office of Multi-Cultural Affairs is the sponsor of this event. For more information call 598-1241.

"Faces and Phases" at the UAG

The University Art Gallery presents the work of renowned South African artist activist Zanele Muholi in a selection of 22 photographs from her "Faces and Phases," a series of striking portrait photographs of black South Africans who identify as LGBTI. In collaboration with her sitters, Muholi uses photography to combat oppression. The people represented in Muholi's portraits choose to be visible. They invite us to see and know them. By doing so, they resist the erasure threatened by prejudice and the violence of hate crimes.

An opening reception celebrating the exhibition and offering the opportunity to converse about the issues it confronts will be held on Friday, Feb. 3, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., in the University Art Gallery.

"Faces and Phases" is on view from Feb. 3 through April 14. The University Art Gallery is located at 68 Georgia Ave. on the campus of the University of the South. It is free, open to the public, and accessible. For more information go to <gallery.sewanee.edu>. Hours are 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; noon–4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Contributions Invited for Community Art Shows

The Franklin County Arts Guild invites original contributions from Franklin County artists of all ages, in any media, in one or all of its 2017 Community Arts Shows at the Artisan Depot. Shows are based upon a theme which can be interpreted as the artist see fit. All work must be submitted ready for display and in person at the Artisan Depot in Cowan during the intake period, during business hours. Memberships in the Guild and gallery fees are not required for these shows.

Some upcoming shows are "Four Leggs," work must be submitted Feb. 9–12; "Wild Mixed Media," work submitted March 23–26; and "Art as Teacher," work submitted May 4–7.

The Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 204 Cumberland St. East, Cowan. Gallery hours are noon–5 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and 11 a.m.–5 p.m. on Saturday.

For more information about upcoming community art shows, the gallery or the guild go to <www.fcaguild.wordpress.com> or <www.facebook.com/artisandepot> or contact Diana Lamb at (931) 308-4130.

“Homeless at Home” at the Carlos Gallery

The Carlos Gallery in the Nabit Art Building at the University of the South is pleased to present a collection of images, letters, poems and photographs revealing glimpses into the lives of LGBT youth growing up in rural Tennessee. The “Homeless at Home: Growing up LGBT in Rural Tennessee” exhibition also presents student art, artifacts and texts that explore the experience of being alienated from one’s home by harassment and prejudice. A reception and conversation will be at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 26, at the Carlos Gallery. The show will run through March 15.

In the 2015-2016 school year, the formation of a Gay-Straight Alliance (GSA) at Franklin County High School in Winchester, Tennessee created controversy among students, teachers, administrators and community members across the county. Calling freedoms and civil rights into question, the creation of the GSA brought contradicting attitudes and beliefs about the LGBT community to the surface, initiating community-wide school board meetings, policy changes and protests that gained national attention.

While the students forming the club faced isolation, obstacles and adversity at home, the response from beyond Franklin County was anything but typical. “Love letters” poured in from around the country and the world, reminding LGBT youth that they have friends and allies everywhere. In the end, the students in Franklin County persevered.

“Homeless at Home: Growing up LGBT in Rural Tennessee” represents voices on both sides of the issues, and speaks to the truth that homelessness can be real or perceived. In this exhibit, the isolation of homelessness is shattered by a growing collage of “love letters” to LGBT youth from all parts of the country and across the globe. The gallery serves as a place to reflect and read the stories of those who have struggled before, but who are walking with Tennessee youth in their struggle for acceptance. It offers a place to write notes of love and acceptance to other LGBT students across the state who may feel homeless in their homes, helpless in their schools, and denied by their home state.

The Carlos Gallery is located in the Nabit Art Building on Palmetto Ave., Sewanee.

Bob Milne in Concert

The community is invited to hear the extraordinary Bob Milne in concert with Darryl Worley, Boy Named Banjo (featuring two Sewanee alumni), and jazz musician Brian Nova at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 16, in Guerry Auditorium. The performance will include the premiere of Milne’s song, “Don’t Forget Me, Tennessee,” based on his visit to Sewanee last year. The concert is free and open to the public.

Milne holds a music degree in French horn performance and was named assistant first horn of the Rochester Philharmonic, New York, at the age of 19. However, Bob Milne is a self-taught pianist, playing literally everything by ear. He never took piano lessons, saying that he thought “everyone knew how to play one of these things.” He played in Detroit area saloons, seafood houses, and every place where he could (his words) “have so much fun and get paid for it at the same time.” He was so popular that he played two gigs a day, seven days a week, for 25 years. Following a performance at the Cheboygan Opera House, appearances in other concert halls followed. He served as musical ambassador for the United States for six years. He has never practiced the piano a day in his life, and to this day has never played at home either. He says it’s “no fun if nobody’s there.”

Milne attracted the attention of neurological scientists and researchers after he composed a two and a half hour opera, The Legend of Sleepy Hollow, in his head while on a concert tour. This included the story line, music, lyrics, and orchestrations, all while driving halfway across Montana. The researchers have studied his thought processes for eight years now, including MRI brain wave studies, memory tests unrelated to music, and over 300 hours of interviews. The results of these tests have been shared worldwide via the Radiolab podcast, “The 4-Track Mind.” The program was based on a test at the Hershey (Penn.) Neurological Hospital, in which Milne was able to accurately track four different symphonic works at the same time, and describe the exact position of each note in each piece after four minutes of “listening.”

The Library of Congress documented Milne during three days of interviews in 2004. At the conclusion he was deemed a “National Treasure” by the Librarian of Congress, Dr. James Billington.

Sewanee to Host Panel Discussion on Social Activism

The University of the South will host a panel discussion titled “Black Lives Matter, Social Activism and the Carceral State” at 4:30 p.m., Friday, Feb. 10, in Convocation Hall. The panel will feature professors Sekou Franklin and Lisa Guenther, activist Ash-Lee Henderson, and Sewanee student Armonite Butler. Sewanee professors Adam Dahl and Paige Schneider will moderate the discussion.

Sekou Franklin is associate professor of political science and international relations at MTSU. His most recent book is “After the Rebellion: Black Youth, Social Movement Activism, and the Post Civil Rights Generation.” Guenther is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Vanderbilt University. Lisa Guenther’s latest work is “Death and Other Penalties: Philosophy in a Time of Mass Incarceration” (co-edited with Geoffrey Adelsberg and Scott Zeman). Ash-Lee Henderson is a civil rights activist and co-executive director of the Highlander Research and Education Center in New Market, Tenn. Armonite Butler is a Sewanee senior who interned with the human rights organization Southerners on New Ground (SONG).

The event is made possible with funding and sponsorship provided by the University Lectures Committee, the Departments of Politics and American Studies, African American Alliance, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, and the Dean of the College. All are invited to attend.

Upcoming Events

Gospel Explosion

The African American Alliance (AAA) presents Gospel Explosion Sunday, Feb. 5, at 5:30 p.m. in Guerry Auditorium. Doors open at 5 p.m. AAA invites everyone to come celebrate Black History Month through an awareness of Black gospel music. This will be a night of praise and worship as we come together to rejoice in music and fellowship!

“Children of a Certain Age”

St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School’s Gallery welcomes the work of photographer Jane Izard. The exhibition draws on both Izard’s portraits of children commissioned for clients such as The Nature Conservancy and Hallmark Baby and from Izard’s personal work, documenting the lives of young family members and friends.

A reception celebrating the exhibition will be in the SAS Gallery, 5–7 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 19. The public is invited to attend. The show is on exhibit until March 8.

Arts and Ales

Arts and Ales is an over-21 celebration of the visual arts, music and of the art of brewing in its third year. Arts and Ales is the annual fundraiser for the Franklin County Arts Guild, whose mission is to promote arts and arts education in the area. Participants can sample more than 14 microbrews, view the work of more than 35 local artists, participate in art demonstrations (including microbrewing) and enjoy live music performances by local musicians. The event will be noon–4:30 p.m., Saturday, March 11, at the Monterey Station in Cowan. Tickets are $25. To purchase tickets or for more information go to <www.artsandales.com>. Reduced tickets are available to designated drivers.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee's Zolon Knoll (left) finished fifth out of 194 swimmers in the 50 freestyle on Jan. 28 in the Middle Tennessee High School Swimming Association's Middle School Championships. His time in Nashville was 25.35 seconds. In the 100 fly, Knoll was seventh out of 26 swimmers with a time of 1:03.03. Porter Neubauer (right) finished 13th out of 67 swimmers in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:20.64. With them is coach Jake Miller. SAS sixth graders Libby Neubauer and Alex Waldrup, and eighth graders Cole Palmertree, Michael Vaughan and Hannah Warmbrod all dropped time in individual events.

SAS Varsity Swimmers Excel at Regional Meet

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee varsity swimmers traveled to Nashville on Jan. 27 for the regional swim meet, where several swimmers broke school records and qualified for state.

Junior Catherine Gray set a school record and qualified for state in both the 100 backstroke (1 minute, 7.89 seconds) and the 200 individual medley (2:29.00). Senior Sam Smith qualified for state in both the 100 fly (59.23) and in the 100 breaststroke (1:05.69).

Sophomore Randy Paul qualified for state in the 100 Fly (59.20) and freshman Aidan Smith also qualified in the 100 fly with a personal best time of 58.17. Freshman Sarah Beth Hobby set a personal best in the 100 breaststroke (1:25.18) and had an impressive showing in her first regional meet.

The boys' relay team set new school records in the 200 free relay (1:37.13) and the 200 medley relay (1:48.74). The team consisted of Sam Smith, Jack Haight, Randy Paul and Aidan Smith. The relay team will compete again in the state meet in Knoxville Feb. 10-11.

"We are very proud of our team," said coach Jake Miller. "We have seen great leadership out of our upperclassmen and we are excited for them to show the products of their hard work at the state meet."

Little League Baseball Registration

The last T-ball and baseball registration for the Cowan/Sewanee Little League will be at Cowan Elementary School from 9 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Feb. 4.

The cost is $35 for one player and $60 for a family. To become a coach, contact Amanda Knight at <amandaknight294@yahoo.com> or (931) 691-0962. There are no late sign-ups this year, so anyone unable to make this last registration date should contact Knight. On Saturday, Feb. 25, at 9 a.m., volunteers and their shovels and rakes are needed for a work day at the Sewanee ballfield.

SAS Wrestlers Grapple at Regionals, Fortune Earns State Berth

State champion wrestler Zaferah Fortune will get another shot at a title after she qualified for the state tournament at regionals.

Fortune's St. Andrew's-Sewanee girls' varsity wrestling squad competed on Jan. 28 in the West Tennessee Regional Wrestling Tournament at Nolensville High School.

Fortune, who won a state championship in 2016, placed third overall in the 185-pound weight class, earning her the spot at state. Her teammate, senior Nakkia Whitman, placed sixth in the 165-lb. weight class.

"The Lady Mountain Lions worked extremely hard," said coach Sam Montgomery. "There were some outstanding matches and we are very proud of both ladies." The state wrestling tournament is Feb. 17-18 in Franklin.

Sewanee Doles Out First Conference Defeat to BSC

Through the first eight games of the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) schedule, Birmingham-Southern did not lose. That all ended on Jan. 29 when the Sewanee women's basketball team defeated the Panthers 62-45 inside Juhan Gymnasium.

It was a well-rounded effort for the Tigers, as Sewanee limited BSC to a 29.6 field goal percentage while making 41.7 percent of its 3-point shots.

Sewanee led from the 7:51 mark in the first quarter through the rest of the game. After holding a two-point lead, 18-16, at the end of the first quarter, Sewanee took command. The Tigers opened the second on a 13-5 run. Savannah Rose's free throw stretched the lead to eight, 32-24.

In the third quarter, Sewanee kept rolling, outscoring the Panthers 16-7 in the quarter. The purple and gold raced out to a 16-point advantage with 3:50 left in the third after Sue Kim hit a side three.

BSC answered with a 6-2 run before Sewanee sophomore Katie Roth hit a three at the buzzer.

In the fourth, Sewanee maintained a healthy lead. Overall, Bella Taylor led the Tigers with 23 points and six rebounds. She was joined by Hannah McCormack and Rose, who both finished with seven points, while Kim added eight.

Camillia Carter led BSC with 22 points and Emilee Olsen added six points and 10 rebounds.

Williams Becomes 3-Point Leader

Sewanee senior Jorden Williams became the men's basketball program's all-time leader in three pointers on Jan. 31 in a 73-56 road loss to regional-rival Covenant College.

With his two threes in the game, Williams, a native of Chattanooga, now has 262 threes in his career.

The Tigers were limited to a 36.2 field goal percentage against the Scots, which included a season-low 15.8 percentage on shots beyond the three-point arc. By comparison, Covenant made 52 percent of its overall attempts, going 7-for-19 from three.

After Leo Born hit a jumper on the Tigers' opening possession, the Scots outscored Sewanee 15-3 over the next six minutes.

Eventually, Covenant stretched its lead to 24-8 midway through the first half. Sewanee clawed back into the game after a tip-in from Adrian Thomas sparked an 18-7 spurt.

Down 35-28 after halftime, Sewanee could never mount another rally. For most of the second half, Covenant maintained a double-digit lead.

Williams finished with 12 points, while Brody Stone added 11 points and nine rebounds. Thomas also finished in double figures with 10 points and nine boards.

Z Arima led Covenant with 15 points. Caleb Haynes (13 points), Bailey Spragg (12 points) and Will Portlock (10 points) were also in double figures for the Scots.

With its non-conference schedule now complete, Sewanee plays Southern Athletic Association foe Berry College tonight (Friday).

Purple and Gold Falls to Majors

Behind double-doubles from Kim Klunk and Kala-Jewel Freeman, rival Millsaps defeated the Sewanee women's basketball team 75-68 on Jan. 27 in Sewanee.

The Majors shot 46.6 percent overall, which included a 43.5 percent mark from beyond the three-point line.

Klunk finished with 12 points and 11 rebounds, while Freeman led the Majors with 17 points and 11 boards. Reserve Megan Donaldson came off the bench and netted 16 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

The Tigers surrendered the lead midway through the first after a 14-5 Millsaps run. Klunk's layup with 5:47 left in the second quarter put the Majors in front 24-19.

Sewanee had multiple chances to pull back to within single digits in the second half after the Majors built their lead to as much as 21 points, but Millsaps answered each Tiger run.

Unlike Millsaps, Sewanee's offense struggled. The Tigers shot only 36.8 percent from the field. Additionally, 16 Sewanee turnovers led to 26 Majors points.

Individually, Taylor paced the purple and gold with 21 points and six rebounds.

McCormack added 10 points, four rebounds, five assists and two steals, while Savannah Rose pitched in 11 points.

Tigers Sweep Transylvania

In their final regular season meet the Sewanee swimming and diving teams seem to be peaking at the right time. On Jan. 27 both programs swept visiting Transylvania inside the Fowler Center during the Tigers' senior night.

In the men's competition, Sewanee topped the Pioneers 142-43. On the women's side, the Tigers crushed Transylvania 146-88.

After Transylvania won the first event, the women's 400 medley relay, Sewanee got on the board. In the men's 400 medley relay, the team of Michael Whitehead, Chris Lotz, Andrew Freibert, and Kyle Schnell touched the wall in 3 minutes, 48.60 seconds.

Sewanee then took both first and second place in the women's 1,000 freestyle. Junior Meghan Mulhern won the event in 11:11.14. Teammate Emily Gay was second with a time of 11:42.99. Owen Pearson then won the men's 1,000 free in 11:29.70.

That was followed by a win from Ashley Krueger in the women's 200 free. Her mark of 2:06.56 was seven seconds faster than Transylvania swimmer Maci Quisenberry. Peter McCarthy (1:59.23) and Schnell (2:03.98) then went first and second in the men's 200 Free.

After Sewanee swept all three spots in the women's 50 free (Bonnie Wakefield/Caroline Kerr/Callie Kirkland), Whitehead won the men's 50 free.

The victories continued in the next event, the women's 200 individual medley. Senior Caty Hueske topped five competitors with a winning time of 2:20.23.

Minutes later, Mulhern won for the second time after she touched the wall first in the women's 100 Butterfly. Her time of 1:04.25 was more than three seconds faster than runner-up Kiali Jelinek.

In the final events, Freibert (100 fly – 53.25), Pierson (100 free – 57.95), Mac McNally (100 free – 52.77), Pearson (100 backstroke – 1:08.41), Hueske (500 free – 5:34.70), Whitehead (500 free – 4:55.19), and both 400 free relay teams all won.

In the diving events, Noel Whitlock swept the women's one and three-meter events and Winston Westbrook did the same for the men's team.

Sewanee will now continue training for the Southern Athletic Association Championships in Birmingham, Ala., which begin Feb. 8.

BSC Thwarts Sewanee by Five

Behind a great defensive effort, visiting rival Birmingham-Southern College earned a 67-62 win on Jan. 29 over the Sewanee men's basketball team.

The Panthers limited Sewanee to a 37.5 field goal percentage. On the other side of the court, BSC made 44 percent of its shots, which included 20 points from leading scorer James McLean.

With the score tied at 18-18, Harrison Deneka hit a three for BSC. The Panthers never trailed again.

The Tigers did pull to within a possession after a Brody Stone layup with seven seconds remaining. However, Evan Lewis hit both ensuing free throws, which sealed the BSC win.

Individually, Jorden Williams led Sewanee with 18 points on 5-of-9 shooting. Sophomore Cam Caldwell also played well, garnering his first-ever double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Along with McLean, Deneka led BSC with 20 points on 5-of-7 shooting.

Sewanee Men's Team Handles Millsaps

Despite a slow start, the Sewanee men's basketball team rallied in the second half for a 62-50 win over Southern Athletic Association (SAA) rival Millsaps on Jan. 27 inside Juhan Gymnasium.

The victory moved the Tigers into second place in the SAA standings at 12-6 overall and 5-3 in league action. First-place Centre College was 10-7 overall and 6-2 in conference action after their Jan. 27 win over Birmingham-Southern.

Throughout the first half, Millsaps played well. The Majors made 51.9 percent of their first-half shots and led 31-25 at halftime.

Out of the locker, Sewanee responded. The Tigers used a 23-5 run over the first 12 minutes to take command. Even after Millsaps cut the Sewanee lead to eight, 48-40, Sewanee quickly stretched its advantage to as much as 19 by the 3:42 mark.

Overall, Sewanee made 46 percent of its attempts. The Tiger defense also stepped up, limiting Millsaps to a 7-for-29 effort in the second half.

Sewanee's Jorden Williams finished with 14 points and four rebounds. He was joined in double figures by Brody Stone, who added another double-double (17 points, 14 rebounds), and Adrian Thomas, who scored 12 points.

Brody Stone scored 17 points and had 14 rebounds in Sewanee's Jan. 27 win over Millsaps. Photo by Lyn Hutchinson

Senior Clay Born also played well with eight points and eight rebounds.

Buck Blanz led the Majors with 14 points and six rebounds.

Late Fall Oyster Mushroom

The Highland Rim Chapter of the Tennessee Trails Association sponsored a hike on Jan. 28, on the Lake Dimmick trail that begins near the head of the Mountain Goat Trail. Besides some Canada geese on the lake and some deer nearby, Marilyn Phelps spotted some Late Fall Oyster mushrooms. These are usually found in October and November, after a first frost, so they may have been responding to the rains we have received after an atypically warm and dry spell these past few months. They are also known as the "Green Oyster," grow on dead wood, and have the typical cap, gills and a short stalk.

Continuing with early (or late-see mushrooms) observations, we had a crocus in bloom on Jan. 20. The snowdrops are up and blooming, but that is traditional for Candlemas Day, Feb. 2. Has anyone seen a daffodil in bloom or any of the earliest native spring wildflowers? Please notify Nature Notes!

Herbarium Winter Events

Water Walk, Snowden Hall, Room TBA, Saturday, Feb. 4, 9:30-11:30 a.m.—This past summer's drought reminded us that the availability of water has always been a concern for Sewanee and other plateau communities. Join geology professor Martin Knoll and Mary Priestley for a walk to learn about water as a resource for inhabitants of the plateau—plants and animals, as well as the human population. Meet at Snowden Hall to caravan to the site of the walk, which will include Hodgson's Pond, Abbo's Alley, the ATO and Tremlett Springs. Wear comfortable shoes for this easy 1-mile walk. If weather is inclement, we will remain at Snowden.

Winter Botany, Shakerag Hollow, Sunday, Feb. 12, 1 p.m.—Herbarium Director Jon Evans will lead a walk to explore Shakerag Hollow as plants gear up for spring. Wintertime exposes the "bones" of the forest—the deciduous trees are leafless, and herbaceous plants are almost out of sight. In addition to woody plants, there will be hardy ferns and possibly the first signs of spring such as hepatica, toothwort, and pepper-and-salt, popping up trailside. Meet at Green's View for this moderate-to-strenuous walk that may include a steep rocky section of the trail. Come prepared for muddy, wet, icy, and/or rocky conditions.

Nature Journaling—A nature journaling group, sponsored by the Herbarium, meets Thursdays, 9–11 a.m. in the Herbarium. An informal gathering, participants share observations and writing, and sketch plants or other natural objects. Everyone is welcome.

For more information on these or other Sewanee Herbarium events, contact Mary Priestley at <marypriestley@bellsouth.net>.

Lorelei

Navajo

Pets of the Week Meet Lorelei & Navajo

Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Lorelei is an elegantly beautiful cat who is selectively loving and very independent. Her sassy, playful personality will make her a perfect barn cat. That means her adoption fee will be substantially reduced. Lorelei is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Navajo is a playful, goofy puppy who will follow anyone with a squeaky toy to the ends of the earth. This 4-month-old Heeler-Terrier mix is ready to learn and play his day away with his new fur-ever family. Navajo is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots, and microchipped, and he will be neutered before he goes home.

Animal Harbor offers substantial adoption fee discounts for veterans and seniors. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is located at 56 Nor-Nan Road, off AEDC Road, in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.org>. Enter the drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending donations to Animal Harbor, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE is hereby given of a public hearing to be held at 5 p.m. on Monday, the 13th day of February, 2017, in the Monteagle Town Hall, to consider the Petition of certain property owners in the Town limits which properties are located in Franklin County, Tennessee to have their property de-annexed so that the property would no longer be in the Town's municipal limits. This being the Deepwoods area.

DIPLOMAS FOR VETERANS For any World War II, Korean War-Era or Vietnam Veterans: If you did not receive your high school diploma due to entry into the Armed Forces of the United States, you may now be awarded a high school diploma by your local high school. Tennessee state law allows for the awarding of high school diplomas to the honorable men and women who stepped forward to serve their county. Veterans who fall into this category should contact their local school superintendent to register their name and to request the awarding of a high school diploma. You will have to present your military discharge papers. If a veteran needs assistance, contact Sergeant Major Larry E. Williams at (931) 924-3000 or (931) 224-3226, email at <tennesseans2@blomand.net>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

We offer a little snow
For anyone from the South
Who, hearing by word of mouth
From braggarts down from the North
What snow is, wants to know.
We find for the trouble though
The labor of little worth

When few with a glad surmise
Notice both flakes in the air
Each softly descending there;
When one must improvise,
And Northerner have to be told.
And Southerners feel the cold.

—Snow in the Curriculum, by Helen Bevington
