

“Pie in the Sky” Offers Slice of Sewanee

Merchants Not Seeing Impact of Signage

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

When the first “Pie in the Sky” sign appeared near the main Sewanee entrance around November, most people didn’t know what the moniker meant. Now two other Pie signs decorate the right-of-way of U.S. Highway 41A in Sewanee and the mystery is less, but it’s unclear if anyone is actually following the signs.

The Pie in the Sky Trail is a 363-mile trek for motorists that begins in Chattanooga and forms a loop through middle Tennessee, going as far north as Crossville. Sewanee is a little detour off that loop, with motorists directed from Monteagle to Sewanee and then back to Monteagle.

Patricia Gray, manager of research and sustainable tourism at the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, said Pie in the Sky is designed to get tourists off the beaten path.

“There are things to do all over rural Tennessee,” Gray said. “Our rural partners really need assistance; there are some small shops and sometimes just one person working in there.”

The Sixth Man Matters: Sewanee Basketball Sunday

Sewanee’s basketball teams take on archrival Rhodes College on Sunday, Feb. 8, in Juhan Gym at the Fowler Center. To encourage support for the Tiger teams, there are a number of special events planned, to which all are invited.

Using the theme, the “Sixth Man Matters,” the Sewanee coaches hope to get the entire gymnasium full of excited fans. For the Rhodes game, the teams will don their black-colored uniforms. Black “Sixth Man Matters” T-shirts will be given free to fans.

“Having a great crowd really helps the team,” said Bubba Smith, head coach of the men’s basketball team at Sewanee. “We hope everyone—community members, college students and all fans—will come out and support the teams.”

“Sixth Man Matters” is a reminder that although there are only five players on the court, the “sixth man” makes a difference from the sidelines.

In addition to T-shirts on Sunday, there will be halftime giveaways, a shooting contest, and free pizza and drinks between games.

“Sixth Man Matters” is a project of the Cornerstone Initiative at Sewanee, an effort to help members of the Sewanee community contribute their ideas, energy and commitment to work toward common goals. The initiative seeks to create a more positive and healthy student life on campus.

Home Sewanee basketball games this weekend include games today (Friday), Feb. 6, against Hendrix (women’s game at 6 p.m.; men’s game at 8 p.m.), and the contests against Rhodes on Sunday, Feb. 8. The women play at 1 p.m.; the men’s game begins at 3 p.m.

ACA & Health Care Across the Plateau

The deadline to enroll in health coverage through the Affordable Care Act (ACA) is Sunday, Feb. 15, and there are local resources to help consumers get more information and obtain insurance. The South Cumberland Plateau Health Network is sponsoring two Marketplace enrollment events.

Free in-person assistance will be available 10 a.m.–2 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 12, in the Music Room at the Smoke House Restaurant in Monteagle. Certified ACA navigators and application counselors will be on-site. They will be able to answer questions about eligibility and enrollment procedures, assist consumers with the enrollment process and facilitate options for insurance premium reductions.

On Saturday, Feb. 14, enrollment assistance will be available, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., in the lobby of the Southern Tennessee Regional Hospital in Winchester.

To enroll in ACA, folks must bring the following information: proof of identity; Social Security numbers and birth dates for individuals in the household; pay stubs; W-2 forms; policy numbers for any current insurance coverage; and a valid email address.

The Health Insurance Marketplace helps people without health coverage enroll in a high-quality plan. When you apply, you’ll learn if you qualify for a health insurance plan with savings based on your income, and learn if you qualify for premium tax credits that lower the costs of coverage.

People who were enrolled in the 2014 Marketplace should not file their income taxes until they receive IRS form 1095-A from the Department of Health and Human Services. When it arrives, verify that the information is correct and keep copies of it. If there is a problem with the form, go to <www.healthcare.gov/tax-issues> or call (800) 318-2596 to get it corrected. If you filed your tax return before you received the 1095-A form, you must file

Sisterhood of St. Mary Celebrates 150th

The Community of St. Mary’s Sewanee will celebrate its 150th anniversary on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the convent chapel. The Festival Eucharist will be at 11 a.m., followed by lunch. All are welcome to attend.

The Sisterhood of St. Mary, the first Episcopal Benedictine monastic community for women in the United States, was founded on Feb. 2, 1865, in New York. It has been involved in countless ministries over the past 150 years, including establishing a local school for Mountain children mired in poverty. The site of St. Mary’s School is where St. Mary’s Sewanee: the Ayers Center for Spiritual Development stands today.

At present, there are three provinces of the Community: the Eastern Province in New York, the Southern Province in Tennessee and the Western Province in Wisconsin. It also has two international branches in the Philippines and Malawi. The local community of the Southern Province expresses its unique way of life through care for the body, the soul and the earth. It is particularly keen on connecting faith with the stewardship of creation. Through its innovative Organic Prayer Program, the Sisters seek to address the spiritual and temporal needs of society through a life of prayer, contemplation, ministry to the poor, spiritual direction and radical hospitality.

“Organ Plus” Recital This Evening

The Easter term organ recital series begins at 5:15 p.m., today (Friday), Feb. 6, in St. Luke’s Chapel, with an unusual program, “Organ Plus,” which is free and open to the public.

The concert will feature music for organ and instruments with University organist, Robert Delcamp, joined by music department faculty colleagues César Leal, Lucas Finney, Rebecca Van de Ven and Katie Lehman.

The program includes the “Sonata for Saxophone and Organ” by Denis Bédard, “God is our Righteousness” by Chris DeBlasio for guitar and organ, Calvin Hampton’s “Variations on Amazing Grace” for English horn and organ and the “Quartet for Organ, Violin, Viola and Cello” by Marcel Dupré.

Lullaby of Broadway Opens at SAS

The SAS Players will present “The Lullaby of Broadway,” a musical revue, Friday–Sunday, Feb. 6–8, in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts on the St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School campus. Show times are 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 6, and Saturday, Feb. 7, with a 4 p.m. matinee on Sunday, Feb. 8.

As a gesture of thanks for the support the SAS Theatre Program has received in the past, admission will not be charged for any of these performances. Instead, there will be a pay-what-you-can donation box to offset production costs. For more information go to <sasweb.org>.

Friends Provide $5,000 for New Playground At Visitors' Center

In a joint venture with the Grundy County Health Council, the Friends of South Cumberland (FSC) donated funds for a new playground at the Visitors' Center. The FSC's matching gift of $5,000 made the project possible. The park opened with a ribbon-cutting on Jan. 27 at the Visitors' Center with FSC board members and friends in attendance. Tonya Garner, Health Council Facilitator for the Grundy County Health Council, cut the ribbon with Interim Park Manager George Shinn and FSC President Ty Burnette holding the ribbon. Instead of the traditional swings and monkey bars, the playground equipment replicates boulders and introduces children to the sport of rock climbing.

Community Project Proposals Due March 1

The Sewanee Community Funding Project Committee invites individuals and groups to submit proposals for projects that enhance the community and improve the quality of life for area residents. The deadline for submissions is March 1.

The anticipated $10,000 in funds can be used for "practical, functional or educational purposes or somewhere in between," said Sarah Marhevsky, chair of the committee. Large-scale projects such as sidewalks and projects of smaller scope, such as bulbs for planting by Sewanee Elementary School students, both fit the criteria outlined in the guidelines.

Application forms are available at the Sewanee post office and the Sewanee Community Center. Applications can be returned by postal mail or email to the address on the form.

Applicants submitting proposals can identify new projects, as well as projects that are part of an already existing initiative undertaken by a group or organization. The two-year pilot program, 2015–16, allocates $10,000 each year for municipal improvements, with any unspent funds from 2015 to roll over into the 2016 budget. The application form asks how the project will benefit Sewanee and its residents, the estimated cost, who will be doing the work and who will be accountable.

Applicants needing help determining the cost of a project or proposing projects requiring University involvement with contractors should contact the project committee at <sewaneeprojectfunding@gmail.com>.

The Sewanee Community Council in June approved increasing the municipal service fee paid by all leaseholders to generate funds to be used for physical improvements and amenities on the Domain.

In addition to Marhevsky, the committee members are Annie Armour, Pixie Dozier, Michael Hurst, Dennis Meeks, Theresa Shackelford, Sarah Sherwood and Adam Tucker. Armour, Dozier, Hurst, Meeks and Shackelford also serve on the council. For more information email <sewaneeprojectfunding@gmail.com>.

Monteagle Sewanee Rotary Plans Cajun Supper

The Monteagle Sewanee Rotary Club is hosting a Cajun Supper on March 7 on the grounds of the Sewanee American Legion and the adjacent Angel Park.

The event is a fund-raiser for Rotary's collaboration with the Haiti Outreach project, which is coordinated by the University of the South's biology department and outreach office. Sewanee's partnerships in Cange, Haiti, have helped create opportunities for the faculty, staff, students and Rotarians to participate in long-term development work and important relief efforts. This year's trip will focus on an agricultural reforestation project, a photography project, and dental and medical care.

At the supper, live music will provide a festive atmosphere, while diners enjoy the freshly prepared Cajun fare, including crawfish étouffée or vegetarian red beans, rice, sides, a dessert and beverages. To-go plates will be available, and beer can be purchased.

Tickets are $20 per person, with discounts for multiple ticket purchases ($35 for two; $50 for four). Tickets are available from any Monteagle Sewanee Rotarian; from Sandy Layne at Regions Bank in Sewanee; Barry Rollins at Citizens State Bank in Monteagle; or Tracy Temples at Franklin County United Bank in Decherd; or by going online to <www.monteaglerotary.org>.

Monteagle Sewanee Rotary is also organizing the Hunger Walk, scheduled for April 25, as a fund-raiser to support the Community Action Committee in Sewanee and the Morton Memorial Food Bank in Monteagle.

Blood and the Holy Spirit Lecture

Eugene F. Rogers Jr. will give a lecture, “Fire in the Wine: How Does the Blood of Christ Carry the Holy Spirit?” at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 10, in Hargrove Auditorium. There will be a reception following the lecture.

Rogers will discuss how the New Testament mentions the blood of Christ three times as often as his cross, and five times as often as his death. He will also explore the question, if the Holy Spirit characteristically rests on the body of Christ, how does she rest in his blood?

Rogers is a professor of religious studies and program faculty in women's and gender studies at University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

Educated at Princeton and Yale, Rogers taught at Yale College and Divinity School, Shaw University Divinity School, St. Anselm College and at the University of Virginia, where he chaired the Program in Theology, Ethics and Culture. He has held fellowships or residencies from numerous organizations, including the Fulbright Commission, the Mellon Foundation, the Lilly Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Templeton Foundation. He is author or editor of six books.

Center for Religion & Environment Names New Staff

The Center for Religion and Environment (CRE) has named School of Theology faculty member Andrew R. H. Thompson as its new assistant director. An environmental ethicist, Thompson was added to the faculty in 2014 as a post-doctoral fellow to expand the seminary's commitment to this critical area. In 2013, the school began to offer an MA concentration in religion and the environment. "Religion and ecology is an exciting and critical field. Religious commitments and communities will play an important role in any forthcoming solutions to current ecological crises. I can't imagine a more appropriate, or frankly a more enjoyable, place to be engaging with these issues than in Sewanee," Thompson said.

Thompson's book, "All My Holy Mountain: A Christian Ethical Approach to Mountaintop Removal Coal Mining," will be published in 2015 by the University Press of Kentucky. Thompson is currently co-teaching a course on the ethics of climate change with climatologist Michael Coffey. "Andrew's contributions to ethics as it pertains to the environment are important as we expand our academic offerings in this arena," said the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, dean of the School of Theology.

Additionally, CRE is relocating its office to the School of Theology, on the first floor of Hamilton Hall. This location better reflects CRE's role as a link between the School of Theology and other University programs related to environmental concerns. Robin Gottfried, professor of economics, emeritus, serves as the executive director of the CRE.

The center's threefold mission is to help students of the University and the broader community integrate religious belief with care for the environment, to prepare students across the curriculum for environmentally conscientious work and ministry, and to serve as a focal point for University-wide initiatives related to religion and the environment.

MOVING OUR MOUNTAIN

by Julie Willems Keel

Editor's Note: On Jan. 10, USA Today published an online story, "The Poorest County in Each State." The article described Grundy County as the poorest county in Tennessee. Julie Willems Keel, associate executive director of Mountain T.O.P., wrote this letter in response.

An open letter to USA Today:

My name is Julie Keel, and I've been a resident of Grundy County, Tenn., for over eight years. I work for a nonprofit ministry that has been in business for almost 40 years. Here in Grundy, we've been ranting, lamenting and sighing once again at the statistics you've shared about us in your recent article, "The Poorest County in Each State."

We are poor. We get it. We get it every time we walk into our communities. We get it every time the media reports on our bleak statistics. Unfortunately the statistics don't lie.

I realize that the tone of Mr. McIntyre's article is informative; I know there are plenty of Americans who don't understand what it means to live with a median household income of $26,814. I'm one of them. I also realize there are counties poorer than us. I appreciate the awareness he brings to our situation.

Here is my "but".

But when you remind us how bad it is, you leave out the rest of the story. What you failed to report is that we have self-funded over two dozen worthy projects with nearly $300,000 in grants through the South Cumberland Community Fund, a local philanthropic organization.

What you have failed to report is the changing nature of our local government, our new and successful local businesses, and principals dedicated to more than test scores. Why don't you look up the Mountain Goat Trail or the Animal Alliance-South Cumberland or the City of Altamont? Check out how many new walking tracks have been constructed and community gardens have been planted. And talking about statistics, how about reporting the statistics of Discover Together or the Reversing Diabetes seminars? You overlook the dozens of entities who work tirelessly alongside those living on $26,000 and much, much less. I could go on and on and on. Seriously.

I'm not trying to toot our own horn. And I'm not trying to overlook our struggles. Things are changing around here. Many things are moving in the right direction.

What I've learned in eight years of community development work is that we often start at the wrong point. We start with our problems, like the statistics you report. I would like for Grundy County to get noticed, but not like this. The truth is we have far more assets than deficits. And where we have deficits, we have a vision. It might take some time to uncover it and build momentum, but please stop sidetracking our momentum with your grim statistics. Yes, we have work to do in Grundy, and not everyone is on board with that. Many initiatives were born out of great effort, personally and communally. But we are making progress.

I'm not discounting the statistics you report. There is no doubt we need to increase the median household income and decrease the unemployment and poverty rate. As someone working daily to help move the statistics in the right direction, our hope is that we are getting there one project at a time. And as much as it would benefit my organization to use your article to attract support, I refuse to do so. Instead I will invite people to come work alongside those in Grundy who are doing good.

So here is what I want you to do: I challenge you to go to each of these 50 poorest counties and report on their assets. Find the story that highlights the good that is going on, the communities on the move, the individuals and organizations connecting and building their assets. And when you come to Grundy, come find me. I've got a great story for you.

Tell them you read it in the Messenger!

an amended federal income tax return.

The South Cumberland Plateau Health Network and the town mayors of Grundy County are sponsoring community conversations about how to improve healthcare in the county. Organizers want to hear from everyone. The information they receive will help as new programs are created to improve the health and wellness of the entire community. Dinner will be provided by the Smoke House. There is no charge to attend.

On Thursday, Feb. 12, the meeting will be at Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City. On Thursday, Feb. 19, the meeting will be at the Smoke House.

On Thursday, Feb. 26, the meeting will be at the Three Crosses at Calvary Church, Altamont. On Thursday, March 5, the meeting will be at Coal-mont Community Center. On Thursday, March 12, the meeting will be at Pelham United Methodist Church.

All meetings will be 5:30-7 p.m. On the day of the event, if schools are closed due to inclement weather, then the Community Conversation will be rescheduled for a later date.

These conversations are made possible through the support of the Grundy County Health Council, the South Cumberland Community Fund and the South Cumberland Plateau VISTA Program.

Haven of Hope Seeks Volunteers

Haven of Hope is seeking volunteers to assist in its sexual assault program. They are looking for individuals at least 21 years of age with the availability for on-call shifts, attending regularly scheduled meetings, and accompanying victims to the hospital.

Potential volunteers should be able to work in a crisis situation and be able to support victims during medical exams and when reporting to law enforcement.

For more information, please contact Lynn at (931) 728-1133.

To learn more about ways to end violence, call the business office at (931) 728-1133 from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m., weekdays.

Victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking are encouraged to call the Haven of Hope hotline, (800) 435-7739.

There are 129 sites listed on the trail, which starts at the Chattanooga Visitors Center and ends at the Moon Pie General Store in Chattanooga. The trail gets its name from the famous marshmallow cookie created at the Chattanooga Bakery in 1917.

The Sewanee sites listed on the Pie in the Sky Trail are the University of the South (No. 49), Lemon Fair (No. 50) and the Blue Chair Café & Tavern (No. 51). Merchants and officials at all three places said they aren't aware of any visitors who have followed the trail to Sewanee.

Gray said the state doesn't have any measurements as far as visitors go, but feedback from convention and visitors bureaus indicates people love the trail maps.

Pie in the Sky is one of 16 tourist treks in the state's Discover Tennessee Trails and Byways program. Gray noted that most of the signs for the Pie trail were installed during a six-week period late last year.

Like Sewanee merchants, other area shopkeepers aren't aware of an impact from being a Pie in the Sky site. Shawnee Gibson, owner of Hallelujah Pottery in Monteagle, noted that several people were interested in taking a trail brochure, but she doesn't know of any visitors related to the trail.

Lynn Drivett, who works as a cook and waitress at Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City, said she also isn't aware of any trail travelers, but the bakery does see its share of people who saw Dutch Maid featured on PBS television programs.

Gray noted that there are smart phone apps for the trail, and there also needs to be more of an education campaign about Pie in the Sky.

"You don't understand what's available on that trail until you see it," she said. "This type of program is fairly unique..."

Maps for the trail are available online, and at some tourist sites and many chambers of commerce and visitors' bureaus in Tennessee. For more information, visit <<http://tntrailsandbyways.com/trail/13/pie-in-the-sky>>.

John M. McCardell Jr.

McCardell to Lead NAICU

Sewanee Vice-Chancellor John M. McCardell has been appointed chair of the board of directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU). McCardell leads a list of four new board officers and 14 new board members who assumed their responsibilities on Feb. 4 at the close of the 2015 NAICU annual meeting in Washington, D.C.

NAICU board members set the association agenda on federal higher education policy; actively encourage support of association priorities and initiatives; and oversee the organization's financial administration. Members serve three-year terms, while officers hold their positions for one year.

"Now more than ever is a time to make the case for independent higher education and for policies that recognize its worth," said McCardell. "NAICU has been an influential and articulate voice in making that case and dispelling the myths that too often confuse or mislead the public. Independent colleges and universities are in fact accessible, affordable and offer great value."

"I am honored to have been chosen to take a leadership role in the coming year to serve this most worthy organization in its most worthy mission."

NAICU serves as the unified national voice of private nonprofit higher education. With more than 1,000 member institutions and associations nationwide, NAICU reflects the diversity of independent higher education in the United States. Since 1976, the association has represented private nonprofit colleges and universities on policy issues with the federal government, such as those affecting student aid, taxation and government regulation.

NAICU spearheads several major public initiatives, including the Student Aid Alliance, a national coalition that advocates for enhanced funding of the federal student aid programs.

OUTSIDEIN

by Patrick Dean

I suppose my accounts in this space of getting out and doing stuff can sometimes seem a little too cheerful, just a bit too rainbows-and-unicorns. If that's true, then today's version is for you.

On one of our recent midwinter whiplash days—It's cold! No, it's sunny! Wait, that breeze is kinda stiff, isn't it?—my energy level was dragging a little by mid-afternoon but I decided to ride Spot, my trusty single-speed mountain bike, anyway. The bright sun fooled me into walking outside with too few layers; even after I went back in and returned with tights over my shorts, I suspected that I should have grabbed my warmer, ear-flapped, under-helmet hat, as well.

I rode up University Avenue into a crushing wind that almost brought me to a standstill and made cold tears stream down my cheeks. The crisp downhill at the Fowler Center felt okay, but by the time I hit Breakfield Road, I knew that my legs were dead.

I turned left at the old milk barn and headed around Lake Cheston, but once inside the Wiggins Creek subdivision, I decided that this was not a day to try the steepest climbs on my usual loop. Instead, I rode on the street over to the main gravel road by the Equestrian Center.

Turning onto the fire lane, I continued to battle with my sluggish legs, laboring up rises that typically offer little resistance. Once or twice, on the flat sections, things felt okay, and as I swooped around the bend in the trail by the right-hand turn to Cedar Hollow Lake, it actually seemed as though I might be just getting over an unusually slow start.

I decided to pull up at the Forestry Cabin, have a drink, and see how things were. I rolled to the picnic bench, unclipped my right shoe, prepared to stop...and suddenly the bike tilted leftward, my left shoe still clipped in, almost falling over, until at the last second the left shoe wrenched free, and I banged the inside of my leg painfully against the seat.

Well, *%#$.

Irritated, my left thigh stinging, I clipped in and rolled across the dam. Now my left knee was twinging painfully when I tried to stand on the pedals. Great. I got myself up the semi-steep rise on the way out to the main road, and when I went around the locked gate, there was no hesitation in me. I turned left, heading back out. I was done.

There would be no artistically-framed photos taken with my phone, nothing to share on Facebook, today. No attempts to climb Breakfield Grinder, that half-mile of soul-crushing gravel that seems never-ending on a good day. No reveling in the down-and-ups of the Parallel Trail.

Perhaps the act of calling it a day relaxed me, by taking the pressure of expectations for the ride from my shoulders. At any rate, I was a little surprised to find that my main emotion as I rolled onto the paved road toward home was...gratitude. No, I didn't feel great today; yes, I managed to bang myself up a little; yes, I only rode seven of my usual 11-mile route.

But you know what? The sun shone, the daytime moon hovered hugely over the chicken coop of the University Farm and the baseball field, and I was outside, moving, living.

It was (a whole lot) better than nothing.

Friends of South Cumberland Create New Maps of State Park

Friends of South Cumberland, led by board president Ty Burnette, began a project to provide the park with both simple, free maps of the major trails and with heavy-duty, coated maps—one for the Savage Gulf area and one for Fiery Gizzard/Buggy Top.

According to the rangers, this was one of the most pressing visitor requests, and the state park headquarters had been unable to meet the demands.

The FSC had the maps printed and is selling the high-quality maps to cover expenses. The small free maps are available at the Visitors Center and ranger stations. They can be downloaded for free from the Friends website.

The large, durable maps can be purchased at the Visitors Center or from the FSC website at a cost of $2 each, with $1 for mailing.

If you have been planning to order a copy of Mary Priestley's "Hike Em All" book, it now comes with both sturdy maps tucked in the back for $15, and is also available online.

Friends of South Cumberland is a group of volunteer citizens dedicated to supporting the South Cumberland State Park, Tennessee's largest state wilderness park.

Totalling more than 24,000 acres, the South Cumberland State Park is comprised of 10 districts scattered over 100 square miles in Franklin, Marion, Grundy and Sequatchie counties, but is managed as a single park.

These students at Sewanee Elementary School are participating in the first Trails & Trilliums Children's Choral Festival. The choir is comprised of children in grade 4–8 from area schools on the Mountain. The students will perform at 6 p.m., Friday, April 10, in the Monteagle Assembly Auditorium as part of the 12th annual Trails and Trilliums Festival. SES music teacher Teresa Brown and retired SES teacher Ann Seiters are directing the choir.

Collect Box Tops for SES

There is an easy way to support Sewanee Elementary School. Take a few minutes and clip the "Box Tops for Education" from many of the groceries you already buy at the store.

In the fall, $655 worth of coupons were collected. This year's goal is $1,000. The final date for submissions is Friday, Feb. 27.

Please keep clipping! You can drop them off at SES, in the box in the entry area of the Sewanee post office or SPO them to Ryan Cassell.

SES also collects Labels for Education. Drop them off at SES or place them in the collection box at the Sewanee post office.

You can find a complete list of participating items online: <http://www.boxtops4education.com/products/participating-products>. For more information visit <www.btfe.com>.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

by Elizabeth Ellis

Love is in the air at the Sewanee Union Theatre this week as we travel from the streets of Paris to the halls of Cambridge, England, following unique and complex love stories appropriate for most audiences to enjoy.

Sir Toby, The Critic's valiant sidekick: Every good critic needs a good rating system, and stars are so overused. There's nothing on the planet more critical than cats, so one or more movies each week is rated from one to five Tobys. The more Tobys it has, the better it is.

Sir Toby

The Hunger Games: Mockingjay - Part 1

7:30 p.m. • Friday–Sunday, Feb. 6–8

2014 • Rated PG-13 • 123 minutes

Game over. "Mockingjay," based on the third book in the popular young adult series by Suzanne Collins, picks up from where the last movie ended—the Hunger Games are destroyed, and Katniss Everdeen is now in District 13. While Jennifer Lawrence has embodied the role of Katniss wholeheartedly, she falls short of being able to spread her revolutionary wings fully, due to a plot hampered by extra fluff (so that filmmakers could extend the storyline into an unnecessary two-part series). But director Francis Lawrence, who was also at the helm for the psychologically profound "Catching Fire," still gives us plenty of food for thought. The limited scenes featuring the late Philip Seymour Hoffman as the inscrutable Plutarch Heavensbee are bittersweet, but with Julianne Moore stepping in as newcomer President Alma Coin and the delightfully cantankerous Woody Harrelson returning as Haymitch, the gap is somewhat filled. Rated PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and action, as well as some disturbing images and thematic material.

L'Atalante

7:30 p.m. • Tuesday, Feb. 10

1934 • Unrated • 89 minutes

One of the great classics of French cinema, a naïve young woman named Juliette falls for a captain of a river barge and soon comes to regret her impetuous decision. She finds herself aboard the L'Atalante, with no other company besides her new husband, Jean; a cabin boy known only as "The Kid"; and the decidedly odd second-mate, Jules, with his collection of stray cats. When they arrive in Paris, Juliette escapes to experience the city nightlife, leaving an embittered Jean behind. In a fit of anger, he decides to cast off and leave her behind, as well, but soon comes to regret his decision and returns to hunt down Juliette. Hailed for its realistic approach to the trials of marriage, the director Jean Vigo would not live long enough to receive his accolades—he died soon after this film was produced at the age of 29. Unrated, this film is appropriate for all who enjoy classic cinema.

Midnight in Paris

7:30 p.m. • Wednesday, Feb. 11

2011 • Rated PG-13 • 94 minutes

Back to France for a second night, this is director Woody Allen's love letter to Paris, writers and dreamers. It was a major career turn for actor Owen Wilson, stepping out of his good-time guy comedic parts and taking on a role with more dramatic heft as Gil, a screenwriter looking for something more in his life. Hampered by a demanding fiancé (played with delicious venom by Rachel McAdams) and her equally self-absorbed parents on a trip to Paris, Gil finds an unexpected outlet when an old Crossley model car transports him to the 1920s every evening at midnight. He meets a variety of writers from the time, from F. Scott Fitzgerald (played by the suave Tom Hiddleston) to a gruff Ernest Hemingway (Corey Stoll), who critique his writing and give him the much-needed inspiration he has been seeking. This film won an Oscar in 2012 for Best Writing and Original Screenplay, the ultimate reward for a film about writers. Rated PG-13 for some sexual references and smoking; the adult topics will go over very young children's heads, but otherwise it is a film most anyone can see and enjoy.

The Theory of Everything

7:30 p.m. • Thursday–Sunday, Feb. 12–15

2014 • PG-13 • 123 minutes

The best love is nerd love. Just in time for Valentine's Day, this touching true story about the life of the renowned physicist Stephen Hawking and his wife is currently nominated for five Oscars, including Best Picture. Eddie Redmayne takes on the role of a lifetime portraying Hawking as we see him succumb to amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, which gradually paralyzes him over the years. Felicity Jones plays his wife, Jane, and we follow the couple from their budding romance at Cambridge to their life together as a family with three children, coping with their father's progressive disease. The film could have been a bleak look at Hawking's fate, but director James Marsh focuses on the strength of their love and Hawking's extraordinary scientific achievements despite his physical handicaps. Rated PG-13 for some thematic elements and suggestive material, this film is best suited for older children and adults who enjoy a good biopic romance about the strength of the human spirit.

Members of Mummenschanz bring their unique style to Sewanee.

Performing Arts Series Events in February

Experimental Swiss mime troupe Mummenschanz brings its hard-to-describe characters to Sewanee as part of its 40th anniversary tour. They will perform at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 11, in Guerry Auditorium. Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and $10 for students.

A New York Times review of the current tour said, "While my inner grump tried to scoff at 'Mummenschanz,' my inner kid seldom stopped grinning. Sure, this Swiss mime troupe ... has been producing similar shows for 40 years. But its longevity is well-earned, and in an age of ceaseless special effects, its low-tech feel is unexpectedly energizing."

On Friday, Feb. 20, Rory Block, a five-time Blues Music Award-winner, will perform at 7:30 p.m.

The New York Times says, "Her playing is perfect, her singing otherworldly as she wrestles with ghosts, shadows and legends." And Bonnie Raitt has called Block's "guitar playing, singing and songwriting... some of the most soulful in traditional and modern blues."

Tickets for each performance are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and $10 for students. For more information go to www.sewaneed.edu/performingarts.

The Mountain Messenger Critics

It is time for the Oscars! If you love movies as much as we do, you probably already have your list of winners. The Sewanee Mountain Messenger is running a contest to see how movie-savvy you are. Just pick who you think will win the Academy Award from the categories listed below.

The person who most closely replicates the selections of the Academy will win dinner and a movie for two, sponsored by Crossroads Café and the Sewanee Union Theatre. There is also a spot on the ballot for your own write-in candidate. Sometimes the Academy does not always get the nominations right. So, we have two SUT movie tickets for the most interesting write-in votes.

Clip your ballot and send it to the Messenger, P.O. Box 296, Sewanee, TN 37375. Or you can e-mail your votes to kiki_beavers@att.net. In the subject line put "Oscar 2015" and include your name and phone number.

Send your picks in by 5 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 19. The winners will be announced in the Feb. 27 edition of the Messenger. (Messenger staff, columnists and families are not allowed to participate.) The Academy Awards will be televised on Sunday, Feb. 22.

Make a Mug Event

Community members will have the opportunity to create their own coffee cup while helping farmers in Haiti who are planting shade-grown coffee. St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's Global Outreach club is hosting a cup-making workshop as a fund-raiser to support Zanmi Kafé's (Partners in Coffee) efforts to establish sustainable family coffee farms in Haiti's Central Plateau Region. The workshop will be 7-9:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 10, in the clay studio at SAS. Burki Gladstone will lead the class and teach participants how to make coffee mugs. To learn more or register for the workshop ($25), contact Gladstone at <bgladstone@sasweb.org>. All proceeds go directly to support family coffee farms in Haiti.

Poppen Offers Lecture at SAS

Jeff Poppen will give a lecture at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday, Feb. 11, in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School. His talk is part of the school's Winterim 2015. The public is invited to attend. Poppen, known as the Barefoot Farmer, is the owner and operator of Long Hungry Creek Farm, the oldest and largest organic farm in Tennessee. Poppen has been influential in educating people about growing their own food and the importance of local farming. While at SAS, he will work with SAS farmer Mandy Grubbs to begin setup of the farm based on his model. The SAS Farm afternoon program students will also learn about his methods.

Coffey at Physics Seminar

Michael Coffey, C' 72, will give a lecture at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 11, in Woods Lab 216. Coffey, who is recently retired as a senior scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR), will discuss "Two Issues in the Atmosphere." Coffey worked for more than 35 years in the atmospheric chemistry division of NCAR, where he led a number of airborne and ground-based missions to study atmospheric chemistry using techniques of infrared spectroscopy. He operated permanent observing stations at Thule, Greenland, and Mauna Loa, Hawaii. For more information

Folks at Home Workshops

On Sunday, Feb. 15, Folks at Home hosts the second in a series of three workshops for family caregivers. This event is focused on "One Day at a Time: Taking Care Of Yourself While Caring For Others." Kathleen Banchoff is the facilitator. She is a writer and hospice volunteer based in Providence, R.I.

Each session is a stand-alone workshop. Participants may attend any or all of the workshops. Registration and check-in for all workshops is 3-3:30 p.m.; the programs begin promptly at 3:30 p.m. in Claiborne Parish House at Otey Parish, 216 University Ave., Sewanee. The final workshop is on Sunday, March 1. For more information or to reserve a place, call 598-0303 or email <folksathomesewanee@gmail.com>. The cost of each workshop is a food donation to the Community Action Committee or a donation of 1.5 hours to the Folks@Home Timebank Program.

Sewanee Trip to FCA Banquet

Shaun Alexander will be the special guest at the annual Fellowship of Christian Athletes "Road to Victory" banquet at 6:30 p.m. (EST), Tuesday, Feb. 17, in the Chattanooga Convention Center. The banquet benefits the local chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The public is invited to join area FCA players, coaches and supporters. For more information contact Dennis Meeks at 598-0159.

Knitting Lessons Begin Feb. 19

Lucinda Hawks will be offering a four-class series of knitting lessons to teach the basics of the craft, beginning at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 19, at Mooney's. Come and learn to knit—it's more popular than ever and sharpens your brain, reduces stress, and gives you something to do instead of reading year-old magazines in waiting rooms, long lines and sporting events. Call Mooney's at (931) 924-7400 for more info or to register.

Hours Set for Free Income Tax Assistance in Monteagle

No appointment is needed to participate in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program (VITA). This year the VITA site on the Mountain will be at Church of the Holy Comforter, 16 First St., Monteagle. Walk-in hours are 1-5 p.m., Sundays.

VITA will file basic income taxes for residents with family income of $53,000 or less. There is no charge for this program.

VITA is a team of IRS-certified tax preparers who can prepare your tax return and provide information about special tax credits for which you may qualify, such as Earned Income Tax Credit, Child Tax Credit and Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

In addition to assisting low-to-moderate income individuals, VITA is an IRS initiative designed to help persons with disabilities and the elderly. For more information email <vitasewanee@gmail.com> or call (704) 770-1971.

SAS Varsity Boys Finish Regular Season at 15-6

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's varsity boys' basketball team ended the regular season at 15-6 (5-1) and hosted a playoff game on Feb. 5 against Mt. Juliet Christian Academy.

SAS defeated Marion County High School, 61-58, on Feb. 2, Senior Night, to end regular season play.

Eric Baynard led SAS with 17 points, including going seven-of-nine from the free-throw line.

Blaise Zeitler added 13 points; James Beasley had 11 points and seven assists; Andrew Heitzenrater scored nine points; Kenneth Thomas posted eight points; Levi Higgins had two points; and Will Pratt added one point.

SAS fell to Webb School of Knoxville, 44-28, on Jan. 31 in Knoxville, but the night before, on Jan. 30, the Mountain Lions defeated King's Academy by a score of 59-47. Zeitler had 17 points, including shooting five-of-seven from behind the 3-point line, to lead SAS in that game.

Baynard had an outstanding game at point guard, dishing out seven assists to go along with nine rebounds and 12 points; Beasley had 11 points and six rebounds; Heitzenrater had nine points; Higgins took two charges and had six points; Thomas added four points; and Pratt scored two points.

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels Squeak by Sewanee Tigers

Southern Athletic Association (SAA) foe Oglethorpe University slipped past the Sewanee women's basketball team, 79-77, in a fast-paced contest on Jan. 30 inside Juhan Gymnasium.

A close game throughout, Kristen Kennebrew connected on a deep three, with four seconds remaining, to give the Stormy Petrels the lead for good. At the time, Oglethorpe was down 77-76 after Jamie Chauvin made the back-end of a pair of free throws for Sewanee. Overall, the contest featured 15 lead changes and 12 ties. That included both being knotted at 41-41 at halftime.

Both teams had little trouble scoring early. Sewanee made 40.7 percent of its first-half shots, while Oglethorpe connected on 17-of-39 (43.6 percent) of its attempts.

Sewanee held its biggest lead of the evening with 7:57 to play. A layup by Haley Lyerly pushed the Tigers' advantage to seven, 70-63. However, Oglethorpe answered back with an 11-3 run over the next five minutes.

With Oglethorpe ahead 74-73 with 2:53 remaining, Chauvin stepped up. The junior guard from Nashville scored five straight points, but the Tigers couldn't hold the lead.

Sewanee did have a chance to extend the margin late in the contest, after Hannah McCormack grabbed a loose ball rebound off a missed Chauvin shot with 48 seconds remaining. Unfortunately, an ill-advised three by the Tigers gave the ball back to Oglethorpe with 44 seconds to play.

Individually, Chauvin finished with a 20-point, 12-rebound double-double. McCormack also finished in double figures with 21 points, while Casey Hassett added 15, and Rebekah Faulkner finished with 10.

Despite battling foul trouble, senior Kayla Sewell finished with nine points, six rebounds and seven assists.

Glatt leads Sewanee Swimmers on Senior Day vs. No. 3 Emory

On a day when the Sewanee swimming and diving teams honored an outstanding senior class, it was four-year letter-winner Brian Glatt who led the Tigers against NCAA power and regional-rival Emory on Jan. 31 inside the Fowler Center.

Emory entered the meet ranked No. 3 nationally in the latest men's poll. The Eagles also rank No. 1 in the women's poll, after winning the last five NCAA Division III championships.

Glatt won the men's 50 free with a time of 22.12 seconds. The senior then earned a first-place finish in the men's 100 free with a mark of 48.22 seconds. After placing third in the men's 100 butterfly, Glatt led the Tiger team of seniors David Dan and Matthew Karstens and junior Will Ralston to a first-place finish in the 200 free relay (1:35.03).

Glatt also helped Sewanee earn four points in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:40.96.

On the diving board, Sewanee swept all four events. On the men's side, junior Courtney Moore won the one-meter event with 202.9 points. He then took first in the three-meter event with 157.05 points.

On the women's side, senior Grace Cobbs earned a sweep with 179.35 points in the one-meter dive and 176.45 points in the three-meter competition.

In the women's 200 individual medley, sophomore Caty Hueske finished first ahead of teammate Erin Neil. Hueske finished with a time of 2:19.33, while Neil touched the wall in 2:26.10.

Sewanee then swept the 200 IM, when Jackson Cromer won the men's race with a time of 2:06.78.

Finally, the Tigers earned the women's 200 free relay title, when Meghan Mulhern, Carolyn Rice, Anna Thorson and Hueske swam a time of 1:48.77.

Jan. 31 marked the final home meet for Glatt, Dan, Karstens, Charles Boclair III, David Evans, Cobbs, Brittney Keiper, Drew Smith and Jean Murray.

Sewanee will now get ready for the annual Southern Athletic Association championships in Birmingham, Ala. The four-day meet will take place Feb. 11-14.

SAS Middle School Boys' Make Strides

In their final two games of the season, the St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school boys' basketball team continued to show improvement in two competitive losses.

On Jan. 31, the Mountain Lions ended the season with a 40-33 loss to North Middle School in the opening round of the Big-8 Tournament. The seven-point difference reflects the tremendous progress the boys have made over the season. SAS lost its last game against North and their three six-footers in a 50-18 drubbing.

In the tournament game, North leapt to a 12-3 lead in the first quarter, and both teams scored seven in the second quarter. North took the third quarter 14-6, but near the end of the third, SAS began a comeback, forcing two of North's starters, who had just sat down, to come back off the bench immediately. The fourth quarter belonged to SAS, as the team prevailed 17-7 against North's starters.

James Pitts scored 14 for SAS, while Larson Heitzenrater scored eight and finished his middle school career by successfully holding 6-foot-3-inch North center Nathaniel Myers to just eight points (he scored 22 in the last outing).

Isaac Smith added six, while sixth-grader Brock Peterson sank a three, and Andrew King scored two on a pretty drive and jump shot.

SAS ended the regular season on Jan. 27 with a 47-33 home loss against Tracy City. They lost, but what happened during the game left SAS fans excited by the team's play. The Eagles, who had sewn up second place in conference play, stormed out to a 22-4 halftime lead.

Despite posting only one win, the Mountain Lions have improved steadily this season, so at halftime they calmly discussed how the second half should reflect that effort. SAS proceeded to take the third quarter decisively on a 19-9 run.

The Eagles withstood the rally and relied on the sharp shooting of Eli Tipton, who sank two key 3-pointers in the fourth quarter to seal the win.

The SAS fans were great, and a big part of the reason the team's second-half rally was so successful. Pitts came on extra strong in the second half, scoring 14 points total, followed by Smith with eight, Heitzenrater with six, and Nathan King with five, including an impressive 3-pointer. Heitzenrater and Smith both worked hard on defense to contain Tracy City standouts Jonnie Adkins and 6-foot Dakota Handin, who finished with 10 and 18 points respectively.

Tigers Slam Rival in Electric Game

In front of a loud and electric crowd, the Sewanee men's basketball team slammed past rival Oglethorpe, 80-69, on Jan. 30 in Sewanee.

Sewanee kept its reputation as a team that is hard to beat on its home court. The Tigers are now 7-1 on the Domain this season. Sewanee also snapped Oglethorpe's four-game winning streak.

The Tigers are in second place in the Southern Athletic Association standings behind rival Rhodes.

Down by one, 8-7, early in the first half, Sewanee took control of the contest. A jumper by Keshonn Carter sparked an 11-0 run by the Tigers.

Sewanee maintained its lead throughout the remainder of the first half. After making 53.1 percent of their attempts in the opening 20 minutes, the Tigers led by nine, 40-31, at the break.

In the second half, Sewanee stretched its lead out to as much as 16, with 13:56 to play. However, Oglethorpe did not quit. The Stormy Petrels pulled to within one, 65-64, with 4:44 remaining, after Alex Davis made a jumper.

Needing a basket to stop the Oglethorpe momentum, Carter answered on the Tigers' next possession. The junior from Nashville made back-to-back layups, which pushed the Sewanee advantage back to five.

Then with 1:41 to play, the Tigers sealed the win. After making four straight free throws, sophomore Jorden Williams forced a turnover by Romello Bates. Williams then found Carter all alone for a monster dunk.

Carter would add another dunk with 30 seconds left, which pushed the Sewanee lead to nine, 78-69.

Known for its defense, Sewanee limited Oglethorpe to its third lowest scoring total of the season. The Tiger defense also forced 15 turnovers and outrebounded Oglethorpe, 35-26.

Individually, Carter finished with a 22-point, 15-rebound double-double. Marcellus Caldwell also played well with a double-double. The senior forward finished with 13 points and 10 assists. Williams also scored in double figures with 16 points.

Guard Connor Smith led Oglethorpe with a team-high 17 points.

Sewanee Picks Off Berry

Led by reserves Brody Stone and Leo Born, the Sewanee men's basketball team shut down Berry, 74-63, on Feb. 1.

After another Tiger conference sweep at home this weekend, Sewanee remains in second place in the league standings. Currently, the Tigers are 12-7 overall and 6-2 in Southern Athletic Association action.

Down 32-23 to start the second half, Berry did not go quietly. The Vikings made their first three shots to pull to within two, 30-32, with 16:58 to play. However, a three by Clay Born and a jumper by Jorden Williams stopped the Berry run.

Overall, Sewanee made 42.9 percent of its attempts while limiting Berry to a 37.0 field goal percentage.

Individually, Williams led Sewanee in scoring, with 20 points. Stone and Born also pitched in 14 points each, while Marcellus Caldwell added 11.

Forward Owen Jacobs led Berry with 21 points and 13 rebounds.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

My daughter Sadie was home for about a minute-and-a-half over Christmas break. She rolled in on a sleigh pulled by reindeer late on Christmas Eve, fresh from a semester in Spain by way of New Jersey (also a foreign country in my book), where the boyfriend lives. By New Year's Day she was back in a plane headed for January term at Middlebury, with another stop in Jersey to ride back to school with this handsome, muscle-bound fellow in his truck. (Aren't there some boys in the South you can date?) After eating a European diet for a semester, Sadie was eager to refamiliarize herself with a Sunday morning breakfast with biscuits, country ham, eggs, pancakes, hash browns and grits at the Smoke House. She eats "breakfast sandwiches" at a deli when she is visiting in New Jersey. (What is a breakfast sandwich? And what do you mean, "They don't have grits?")

While we were eating breakfast our waitress was kind enough to notice that she remembered Sadie and me both from our Big 8 basketball days. The Big 8 is a league made up of middle school teams from SAS, Monteagle, Tracy City, Altamont, Gruetli-Laager, Palmer, Coalmont and Pelham. Both Sadie and this young woman were the same age, both in college, had both grown up on this Mountain, and both remembered battling over a basketball in the eighth grade. My role has always been as the dad whose turn it is to coach this year, but through my four daughters and countless basketball games, I have met so many people from the surrounding area who have become great friends. People in the Big 8 know how to butter their grits, and they couldn't find a deli on a four-wheeler on a fogless day. They eat their "breakfast sandwiches" at Hardees, stuffed with sausage and eggs, and we call bread a biscuit. The boyfriend is headed to Prague for the semester. I'm headed to Pelham for our next game.

When Sadie was an eighth-grader, a little girl from Palmer was the MVP of the league. She weaved through our defense like a worm through a green apple. I saw her the other day. She got a nursing degree and is working in Winchester. On Tuesday and Thursday nights, she is back in the Big 8 sitting on the Palmer bench as their assistant coach. Some things you just don't leave behind. Your family, your community, your team, and your desire for some gravy spilled across that biscuit.

The officials in the Big 8 get off from their jobs around 5 p.m., pull on a striped shirt and some black pants, navigate the back roads from Altamont to Tracy, and go call fouls or traveling for two hours. They listen to insults of forgetting to wear their glasses or that they can't count to three seconds, but guys like Fred Ladd keep coming back for another 100 years. They aren't in it for the giant paychecks they receive at the end of the double shift; they are in it for the kids. They are in it so that everyone grows up knowing how to compete and how to play fair. The coaches all have other jobs: teachers, pastors, deliverymen and women, and dads who don't want their daughters to leave for Vermont anytime soon. Jody Hargis played in the Big 8, coached and taught in the schools, rose to superintendent of the county schools, and now that he has retired, is back on the bench coaching again. We may not know an X from an O, but we can tell them to pass it to Joe. The year-end championship tournament is something to behold over at Grundy County High School. Fans from all over the county are there to support their kids and remember when it was their turn to be Big 8 MVP.

From New Jersey, you can see the New York skyline. Here on this Mountain, we can see the plateau or the coves below. In Prague, you'll meet people from across Europe. In the Big 8, Swiss Memorial's point guard may one day become principal of your child's school. I guess it doesn't matter to me if you eat pastrami on a deli roll or country fried steak on a gravy-covered biscuit, as long as you know where home is, where you came from and who got you to where you are now.

New Jersey? Really? At least he drives a truck.

Put this space to work for your business.

NATURENOTES

Anniversary of the 1985 Ice Storm

This week is the 30th anniversary of the 1985 ice storm. Annie Armour, former archivist of the University, described it this way in a Messenger column in 2012:

Anyone who has lived around Sewanee for any amount of time knows that the Mountain can have some extreme winter weather. We might see snow, and a lot of it, while Winchester gets only a dusting. Snow offers opportunities to skip studying and take a dining hall tray to the nearest hill, to make snow angels and forts and have snowball fights or to snuggle up with hot chocolate and a good book.

Ice, on the other hand, can strike terror into any sane person's soul. Ice-covered trees might glow and reflect beautifully in the sun, but too much ice causes big trouble. Sewanee has had three major ice storms in the last 50 years. One, however, on Feb. 1, 1985, made national news.

The storm struck during the night, and upon waking nothing appeared out of sorts. It was just another dreary, rainy winter's day. But schools were closed, even St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, which was odd. Unprecedented, in fact.

Soon the thrill of an unexpected holiday gave way to trepidation as ice began collecting rapidly on everything. Sewanee was having an ice storm.

Sparks danced off electric lines in spectacular fireworks, and soon the electricity went out altogether. With it went furnaces and water pumps. The eerie silence inside was punctuated by frequent loud popping and crashing outside, as trees and branches fell in quick succession. Cars were sealed into big ice cubes. When the cold rain stopped, several inches of ice coated the Sewanee area. Nearly every electric line on the Mountain had snapped. Hundreds of trees lay across roads and on houses and cars. Temperatures plunged. Ironically, Martin Springs had no ice whatsoever.

The community rallied to put the pieces together again while millions watched on national television. The National Guard came by convoy to supply generators, trucks, water, diesel fuel and extra workers, while students lined the streets to welcome them. With classes canceled, many students escaped to more hospitable climates. The rest compacted into the few dorms with heat. The University's physical plant department worked to clear hazards and keep heat going manually in dorms.

Every resident with a four-wheel drive vehicle and a chainsaw braved the frigid temperatures to help clear trees. There were at least 50 downed trees across Jump Off Road alone.

Oaklawn Baptist Church hosted several refugees. The hospital kept others. Gailor Dining Hall served food to anyone who came in. Other folks cooked on their grills or over fireplaces. The police and others checked on the elderly. Many opened their homes to neighbors. DREMC and TVA crews came to help rewire the community, which took several days. The fire department fought three fires. The EMTs took a resident to the hospital for smoke inhalation and stayed with the firefighters to help and deliver Gatorade.

In the end, then Vice-Chancellor Bob Ayres summed it up: "The spirit of cooperation in every segment of the community was a marvel to watch and experience. People showed great care for one another. They thought of others before themselves, and this was evident everywhere I went."

Debby Stirling wrote an account of the 1985 storm. It is available in the University Archives.

Pets of the Week

Meet Carole and BB

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Carole is a young "kitten" who is around 5 months old. Young volunteers at Animal Harbor enjoy holding and cuddling her. She likes to play with her feline friends in her community room, but she would really love a home of her own. Carole is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

BB is an energetic young adult Terrier with lots of love to share, often in the form of kisses. She even likes to be held like a baby sometimes, because she is such a doll. She's recently learned to shake hands, and she is so smart that she learned it really fast. BB is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees are reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is now open at its new shelter at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information, and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>.

Please help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Backyard Bird Count Feb. 13–16

The Great Backyard Bird Count is held Feb. 13–16; this year it will take place all over the world. It was begun in 1998 by the Cornell Lab of Ornithology and the National Audubon Society.

You can be a part of it. All you need to do is count the numbers and kinds of birds you see for at least 15 minutes on at least one of the days of the count and register online to record your checklist. You don't need to be a bird expert. If you are familiar with the birds you see every day in your backyard, that's all you need.

The Bird Count website explains how valuable this data is to scientific studies, which could never afford to accumulate this kind of information on such a grand scale. The citizen-scientist has an important role to play in documenting dynamic bird populations.

Bird-watchers from 135 countries participated in the 2014 count, documenting nearly 4,300 species on more than 144,000 bird checklists—that's about 43% of all the bird species in the world! In addition to the U.S. and Canada, India, Australia and Mexico led the way with the greatest number of checklists submitted.

To learn more about how to join the count, download instructions, a slide show, web buttons and other materials, go to <www.birdcount.org>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Abraham Lincoln, born February 12, 1809

...Up from log cabin to the Capitol,
One fire was on his spirit, one resolve—
To send the keen ax to the root of wrong,
Clearing a free way for the feet of God,
The eyes of conscience testing every stroke,
To make his deed the measure of a man.
He built the rail-pile as he built the State,
Pouring his splendid strength through every blow:
The grip that swung the ax in Illinois
Was on the pen that set a people free.

So came the Captain with the mighty heart;
And when the judgment thunders split the house,
Wrenching the rafters from their ancient rest,
He held the ridgepole up, and spiked again
The rafters of the Home. He held his place—
Held the long purpose like a growing tree—
Held on through blame and faltered not at praise.
And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky.

—from "Lincoln, Man of the People"
