

Hudson Stuck

Centennial of Historic Climb by Sewanee Alum

By Patrick Dean, Special to the Messenger

One hundred years ago last Sunday, March 17, a group of men and boys left Fairbanks, Alaska, to climb the highest mountain in North America—Denali, also known as Mt. McKinley. That expedition is noteworthy for two reasons: first, because it succeeded and claimed the first ascent of Denali; and second, because the expedition was organized and led by a Sewanee alumnus, the Rev. Hudson Stuck, Archdeacon of Alaska and the Yukon.

Stuck attended Sewanee from 1889 to 1892, studying theology (there was neither a separate school nor a theology degree at that time). After serving as dean of the Episcopal cathedral in Dallas, Stuck accepted the challenge of serving in the far North.

In the course of his time in Alaska, Stuck became famous for his exploits and for his books about them. He covered his mission territory in the dead of winter in several different years, writing an account called “Ten Thousand Miles With a Dog Sled.” His “Ascent of Denali,” about the expedition of 1913, was also a best seller. Sewanee historiographer Arthur Ben Chitty described Stuck as “an ice-encrusted Lawrence of Arabia, undergirded with the zeal of St. Paul.”

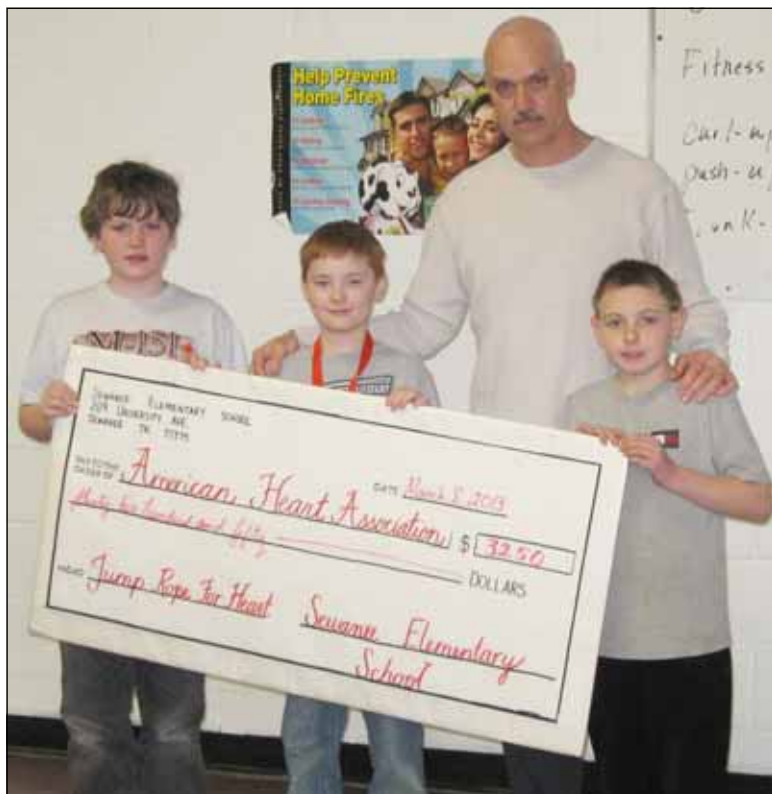

Stuck’s earlier exploits in the mountains had included trips to the Spanish Peaks of the Colorado Rockies and the Canadian Rockies; he had also explored “the Cañon of the Yellowstone and the Grand Cañon of the Colorado,” and he had summited Mount Rainier in Washington. He made plain his desire to summit Denali: “I would far rather climb that mountain than own the richest gold-mine in Alaska.”

But Hudson Stuck was far more than an early-20th century Edmund Hillary in a priest’s collar. One of his favorite statements was, “I am sorry for a life in which there is no usefulness to others.” Again and again he preached on the necessity of helping others, that “salvation is for the whole man,” and that “there is a need of personal works by men and women to those less favored.”

In Dallas, Stuck helped found a grammar school for boys and St. Matthew’s Home for Children, which has continued to work for children up to the present as the Children’s Foundation of the Diocese of Dallas. Stuck also started a night school for mill workers and a home for indigent women.

He continued this work in Alaska. Within two weeks of his arrival, the

This year’s Jump Rope for Heart event at Sewanee Elementary School raised $3,250 in donations. This was one of the largest totals in the school’s 17-year history of participating in the event. Fifty-eight students raised money for the American Heart Association. David Gilliam, physical education teacher and coordinator of the annual event, said, “I want to offer a big thank-you to students, parents and the community for your continued support of Jump Rope for Heart.” Here with Coach Gilliam are (from left) Jack Bailey, top fund-raiser Calem Knight and Jerry Roberts.

CAC Offers Fresh Items, Sets New Events

Sewanee’s Community Action Committee has a number of events in the coming days of interest to area residents. CAC received a huge delivery of fresh fruit and vegetables and fresh bread and bakery items from Second Harvest Food Bank on March 20. CAC will give away these fresh items during its regular office hours, 9–11 a.m., today (Friday), March 22. It will also be open 9–11 a.m., Saturday, March 23, to give food to people who cannot get to the office on Friday.

“We got this great, wonderful gift from Second Harvest and are glad to share it with the community,” said Betty Carpenter, CAC’s interim director. Among the items are bananas, oranges, carrots, grapes and pineapples, as well as bread, cakes and sweet rolls.

CAC is an outreach ministry of Otey Parish, with generous support from the Sewanee Community Chest and individuals across the Mountain.

For more than 35 years, the CAC has provided food, financial assistance, and educational support for persons in the greater Sewanee community.

Boy Scout Troop 14 is having a food drive to benefit CAC on Sunday, March 24, in Sewanee. Scouts will walk through neighborhoods asking residents to donate non-perishable food items for the food pantry. If you are not going to be home and would like to make a donation, contact Speed Baranco at 598-0442 or by email to <sbaranco@gmail.com>.

Finally, Sewanee will have its own version of March Madness on Saturday, March 30. TKP sorority is sponsoring a Powder Puff football game to benefit CAC. The donation of a non-perishable food item will get you in to watch the action. Games begin at 10:30 a.m. at Courts Field. Teams are still being accepted for the event; there is a $50 entry fee. T-shirts will also be available. The event will happen, rain or shine. For more information or to register a team, email Clair Bartholomew at <barthcs0@sewanee.edu>.

While Otey Parish Hall is under renovation, CAC is located in the Yellow House at 258 Lake O’Donnell Rd. CAC can be reached at 598-5927.

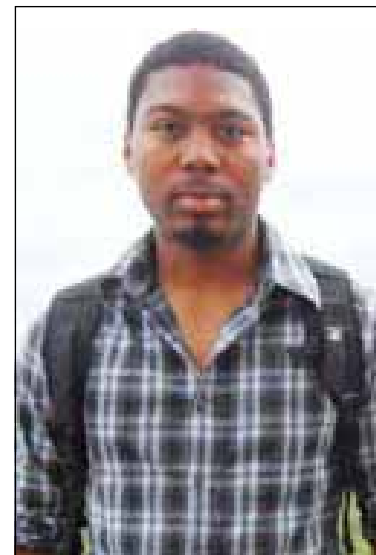

Civic Assn. Seeks Nominees

The Sewanee Civic Association invites nominations for the 30th annual Community Service Award. The award recognizes the person or organization that has made outstanding contributions to the community. The kind of contribution varies widely, but the recipient has always made Sewanee a better place.

Nominations are due April 1. Past recipients are not eligible to receive the award again. Send the name of your nominee, along with the reasons you are nominating this person/group, to Theresa Shackelford, <shackelfordt@bellsouth.net>. The award will be presented at the SCA’s April 17 meeting.

Chick Corea & Béla Fleck in Concert Wednesday

Chick Corea and Béla Fleck, two of today’s most creative musicians, will visit Sewanee as part of their exciting new tour. Together, their stunning technique and musical genius produce a sound never heard before. The University’s Performing Arts Series brings them for a concert at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 27, in Guerry Auditorium.

Corea and Fleck, two master songwriters, musicians, and band leaders meet in a historic duet of piano and banjo. The Grammy-winning duet will combine Corea and Fleck’s most recognizable tunes with the music from their Latin Grammy-winning album, “The Enchantment.”

With a mix of jazz and pop standards, crossing a myriad of genres including jazz, bluegrass, rock, flamenco and gospel, this will be a casual, intimate evening with two legends from different musical worlds.

Fleck’s intense musical curiosity and spirit of innovation have drawn him into nearly every genre of music, stretching the boundaries of each and producing extraordinary collaborations. He has worked in bluegrass, country, jazz and world music, and won multiple Grammy Awards.

A DownBeat Hall of Famer and NEA Jazz Master, 20-time Grammy winner and undisputed keyboard virtuoso, Corea has attained living legend status after four decades of unparalleled creativity and artistic output. From straight-ahead to avant-garde, bebop to fusion, children’s songs to chamber music, Corea has touched an astonishing number of musical bases while maintaining a singular standard of excellence.

Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and $10 for students.

For tickets or more information call 598-1770.

New Watson Fellow Named

DeAndré Espree-Conaway, a senior in the College, has been named a recipient of the prestigious year-long Watson Fellowship for 2013–14. He is one of only 40 fellows from 31 universities who will be awarded $25,000 for a year of travel and exploration. Sewanee had four finalists nominated this year out of the several hundred candidates who compete for the fellowship each year on the national level.

Espree-Conaway, from Houston, Tex., plans to observe the role that

SCIENCE FAIR THANKS

Letter to the Editor:

Sewanee Elementary School would like to thank everyone who participated in the annual Science Fair. The projects were varied and represented the inquiring minds of SES students. Judges commented on the depth of understanding of the students and the wide range of scientific information that was on display.

The faculty and staff would like to thank judges Lynn Stewart and Curtis Brewer of Nissan, Mary Priestley with Sewanee Herbarium, Stan Powell with AEDC, Randy Peterson of the University of the South, Heather Olson of Sewanee/Monteagle Realty and Ty Burnette with Friends of South Cumberland. A special thanks goes to Mr. Maxon, Jenny Gore and Phillip Yates for setting up the Science Fair.

Be thinking of your project for next year! Thank you again.

Meetings & Events

Bluebell Island Tour Saturday

Tour Bluebell Island at 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 23. The annual walk is sponsored by the South Cumberland Regional Land Trust (SCRLT). Located on the Elk River, the island is regionally famous for its plethora of wildflowers, especially Virginia Bluebells. Meet at the gated entrance to the Tyson Foods parking lot on TN 50/US 64 W, just south of exit 127 off I-24 near the bridge over the Elk River, about 2 miles west of I-24. Instructions and a map are available at the website <scrlt.org>. Rain may cancel this event; check the website for updates.

Community Center Potluck

The Sewanee Community Center is hosting its annual membership potluck dinner at 6 p.m., Saturday, March 23, at the Center. Please bring a favorite side dish or dessert and come celebrate the Sewanee Community Center. If you are not a member, come and join. Membership is free.

Sunday Wildflower Walk

The Sewanee Herbarium is hosting a walk through Shakerag Hollow at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 24, to look for early Spring wildflowers. Biologist Jon Evans will lead the hike. The walk will also include an introduction to winter botany as the woody plants will still mostly be bare of leaf. Meet at Green's View for this moderate-to-strenuous two-mile walk that may include a steep rocky section of the trail.

Reading Workshop Monday

Spark the imagination of a child in your life by participating in an upcoming workshop hosted by the Grundy County Imagination Library, Rotary Club of Grundy County and Governor's Books from Birth Foundation. The free event will be 8:30 a.m.–noon, Monday, March 25, at the Tracy City First United Methodist Church, 105 16th St., Tracy City. For more information call Emily Partin, Grundy County Family Resource Center, (931) 592-4372.

Garden Club Meets on Monday

The Sewanee Garden Club will meet at 1:30 p.m., Monday, March 25, at the home of Jane Flynn, 190 Virginia Ave. in Sewanee. Leonard King will talk about container gardening, and one lucky guest will take home one of his creations. For more information call Judy Magavero at (931) 924-3118.

Community Council Constituent Meetings

The Sewanee Community Council is holding district meetings at 7 p.m., Monday, March 25, at the Sewanee Elementary School. Go to <www.sewanee.edu/leases> for the map to locate your district.

SUD Board Meets Tuesday

The Board of Commissions of the Sewanee Utility District will meet at 5 p.m., Tuesday, March 26, at the SUD office. The agenda is: approval of the February 2013 minutes; general manager's report; financial report; unfinished business; an update on the constructed wetlands study; internal control and compliance; new business; and time for visitor comments and announcements. The next meeting will be April 23.

Area Rotary Club Meetings

The Grundy County Rotary Club meets at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesdays at the Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City.

The Monteagle/Sewanee Rotary Club Wednesday morning group will not meet on March 27.

The Monteagle/Sewanee Rotary

Club hosts a noon Thursday meeting at the Blue Chair Tavern. On March 28, Beth Jones, executive director of the Southern Tennessee Development District, will present the program.

Gardeners' Forum: Grow Your Own Food on Tuesday

Learn how to live a more sustainable lifestyle by growing what you eat at a Gardeners' Forum panel discussion at 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 26, at the Sewanee Community Center. Area gardeners will share their techniques and strategies for growing vegetables and fruit on the Plateau, and audience members will be encouraged to participate in the dialogue, to ask questions and to share their own experiences and ideas.

Panelists include Risa Brown, the South Cumberland Food Hub coordinator and owner and manager of Zion Gardens; Seven Pines Farm organic gardener Leslie Lytle, who has more than 35 years' gardening experience; Gina Raicovich, University farm manager, with degrees from the University of Montana in environmental studies and natural resources; and Ron Strobel of Turtle Run Farm in Monteagle, a Certified Naturally Grown operation.

The Gardeners' Forum is being jointly sponsored by the Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace and the Cumberland Farmers' Market. Everyone attending will automatically be entered in the drawing for door prizes. For more information contact Leslie Lytle at 598-9979 or email <sllytle@blomand.net>.

Prunty at EQB on Wednesday

EQB Club members gather for social time at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesdays, with lunch served at noon (reservations are necessary) at St. Mary's Sewanee. Leads (programs) are open to the public and usually begin about 12:30 p.m. On Wednesday, March 27, Wyatt Prunty, professor of English and director of the Sewanee Writers' Conference, will give a reading of his poetry, with comments. All are welcome. For more information contact Gail Watson at 598-0120.

Franklin Co. Business Expo

The Franklin County Chamber of Commerce is hosting its 21st annual Business Expo, 4–8 p.m., Thursday, March 28, at Monterey Station, 104 Monterey St., Cowan.

A $5 admission fee provides attendees the opportunity to view more than 90 exhibitors and network with local professionals of Franklin County businesses. The entry ticket also provides an opportunity to win one of more than 100 door prizes; the grand door prize is a 42-inch HDTV donated by Walmart in Decherd.

Taste of the Mountain on the Move March 28–30

Taste of the Mountain ... On the Move will be 4–7 p.m., Thursday–Saturday, March 28–30. This popular food festival has been changed from having the vendors under one roof to a progressive event. Participants will move from restaurant to restaurant, offering them an opportunity to visit new eateries, as well as try foods that exemplify each place in its unique atmosphere.

Restaurants on the tour include Dutch Maid Bakery, Blue Chair Bakery and Cafe, Crossroads Cafe, IvyWild, Tallulah's Wine Lounge, High Point, Smoke'n B's BBQ, Dave's Modern Tavern, the Smoke House and Pearl's.

Tickets are $25 for five tickets; one ticket is required at each restaurant that you visit. Additional tickets, which are $5 each, will be available at each participating location, as well as at local banks, Monteagle City Hall and the Monteagle Mountain Chamber of Commerce. Proceeds go to fund the Monteagle Mountain Chamber of Commerce and the local food bank.

Reservations Due for April Woman's Club Meeting

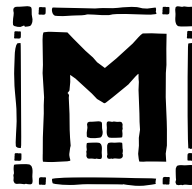

Reservations for the next meeting of the Sewanee Woman's Club are due by Friday, March 29. The meeting will be on Monday, April 8, at the DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle. Jim Davidheiser will give a talk about German fairy tales.

There is an optional social hour at 11:30. Lunch is served at noon. The menu for this meeting is: spinach quiche, baked tomato, apple salad and apple pie. Lunch is $12. The program will begin at 12:30 p.m.

To make a reservation, call Caroline Shoemaker at 598-0982 or email Marianna Handler at <mariannah@earthlink.net>. There is a vegetarian option, and child care is available and free of cost; please request these at the time that reservations are made.

Consider making reservations to bring newcomers and friends so they can also enjoy the great roster of speakers.

The annual dues for members remain at $5. These dues and the proceeds of the club's fund raising events support Thurmond Memorial Library and community projects.

Church Marketing Workshop

The School of Theology’s second annual “How to Market Your Church” workshop will be 8:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m., Friday, April 5, in Hamilton Hall’s Hargrove Auditorium. People interested in learning more about effective ways to market a church in an informal, relaxed atmosphere are invited to attend. There is no fee, and reservations are not required.

The contextual education department and the office of marketing and communications are bringing experts in church marketing to Sewanee to provide tips, techniques and training in the use of technology and social media to enhance and support parishes in their marketing and communications efforts.

This year’s program includes the following topics and speakers:

Church Marketing Strategies: The Rev. Furman Buchanan, T’06, rector, St. Peter’s Episcopal Church, Greenville, S.C., will talk about “Marketing Know-How,” describing how his experience as president of a marketing company has helped him market his church;

How to Effectively Use Social Media: Randall Curtis, ministry developer for young adults and youth, Diocese of Arkansas, will discuss social media (what it is, how to use it, great ideas for building and engaging a targeted audience) and blogs and low-cost website alternatives.

The Do’s and Don’ts of Website Content: Mary Ann Patterson, director of marketing and communications, the School of Theology, will address how to create the most effective content for your website (it’s not always what you think) and discuss content management best practices.

Church News

Taizé Service Today

Taizé will be at 7 p.m., today (Friday), March 22, in St. Luke's Chapel. This service usually lasts for an hour.

"Taizé in Sewanee" is sponsored by All Saints' Chapel and is an inter-denominational joint ministry of the School of Theology and the College. These services are rich with opportunities to worship God with silent meditation, reflection, prayer and song. All are welcome.

Tracy City First Methodist

Tracy City First United Methodist Church will perform an Easter Cantata at 7 p.m., today (Friday) March 22, and 11 a.m., Sunday, March 24. The church is located at 105 16th St.

All Saints' Chapel

To honor a family member, friend or event by making an offering towards the flowers that will adorn All Saints' Chapel at the Easter celebrations, contact the chaplain's office at 598-1274.

Growing in Grace welcomes Peggy Farmer to speak on the semester theme, "Living Water," at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, March 24, in All Saints' Chapel. Farmer is an internationally known speaker, wellness consultant, author and facilitator with an interest in well-being and empowerment. She was part of the recent outreach trip to Haiti. Farmer is the director of Self Mastery International (SMI) and author of "Exploratory Surgery of the Soul, A Journey to Self Mastery."

Catechumenate meets at 7 p.m., Wednesday, March 27, in the Women's Center to prepare for Saturday evening's Great Vigil of Easter. All are welcome to come pray and reflect.

At 9 a.m., Saturday, March 30, St. Augustine's Guild will decorate the chapel for the Great Vigil of Easter and the Festival Easter Eucharist. Guests are welcome to participate, and all levels of skill and talent are needed. Coffee and pastries will be provided. For more information call the chaplain's office.

Bible Baptist, Monteagle

The movie "Passion of the Christ" will be shown at 5 p.m., Saturday, March 30, at Bible Baptist Church in Monteagle. The movie will be followed by a chili supper. There is no charge, and everyone is welcome.

On Easter Sunday, March 31, a special singing will take place at 10 a.m. The Rev. Oliver Marson of Walk in My Sandals Ministry will present a dramatic message at 11 a.m.

The church is located at 360 Wells St. For more information contact James W. Taylor at (423) 322-4922 or <wowforChrist@gmail.com>.

Christ Church, Monteagle

The service on Palm Sunday, March 24, will begin with the blessing of the palms at 10:30 a.m. A luncheon will follow the service. Palm Sunday is one of the best known Sundays of the year.

As throughout Lent, on Wednesdays, soup will be served following the Noon service.

On Maundy Thursday, the service will be at 7 p.m. The stripping of the altar will be the conclusion of this service.

On Good Friday at noon, the service is Tenebrae and involves the reading of lessons from the Gospel according to St. Mark and the singing of traditional Good Friday music, concluding with "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

On Holy Saturday there will be a brief service at noon. At sundown there will be the lighting of the New Fire and the lighting of fireworks celebrating the coming of Easter.

Cowan Ministerial Services

The churches of Cowan Ministerial Association invite the public to attend the special services planned for Holy Week and Easter.

A community Maundy Thursday service will be at 7 p.m., Thursday, March 28, at Cowan Fellowship Church. The Rev. Gene Wise from St. Agnes' Church will be the speaker for the evening.

The churches will gather again for a Good Friday Tenebrae service at 7 p.m., March 29, at Cowan Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

There will be a Sunrise Service at 6:30 a.m., Easter Sunday, March 31, at Cowan Montgomery Cemetery. Rev. Andy Gay from Cowan Fellowship Church will be the speaker.

A Sunrise Service will also take place at 6 a.m., Easter Sunday, at the Goshen Cemetery on Williams Cove Road, followed by an Easter breakfast at Goshen Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Cowan Ministerial Association is sponsored by eight congregations in the Cowan area. For more information on the Holy Week and Easter services please visit the Association website at <www.cowanchurches.org>.

New Beginnings Church

New Beginnings Church will have two services on Easter Sunday, March 31. There will be one at 9:30 a.m., and a second at 11 a.m. Pastor Kenny Green said they will have a huge Easter Egg Hunt during both services for the kids, complete with candy and surprises.

Otey Parish

Otey Parish will celebrate Palm Sunday with the Liturgy of the Palms at 8:50 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Sunday, March 24. Because of the length of the liturgy, there will be no Christian Formation classes. Nursery care is available for children age 6 weeks to 5 years old from 8:30 a.m. until after coffee hour, which follows the 11 a.m. service. The Lenten Bible study groups will meet at 4 p.m., Sunday; one group is meeting at the home of Kathryn and Alex Bruce and the other at the church. Newcomers are welcome.

St. James Episcopal Church

St. James Episcopal Church will celebrate Palm Sunday with the Liturgy of the Palms at 9 a.m., Sunday, March 24.

Beginning Monday, April 1, St. James is offering a class, "Everything Anglican/Episcopal" for those wishing to learn more about the Episcopal church and those wishing to be confirmed or received when Bishop John C. Bauerschmidt visits St. James on Wednesday, April 24. Please let Vicar Linda or Deacon Laura know if you wish to attend.

Programs Center Welcomes New Leadership

The Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, dean of the School of Theology, has appointed Courtney Cowart as associate dean and director of the School's programs center. James Goodmann has been appointed the center's associate director. These appointments were effective on March 1.

Building on the success of the programs center's international Education for Ministry (EfM) program, Cowart will lead an expansion that envisions a new role for the center as the nexus of collaborative learning and creativity for an increasingly diverse body of participants from all parts of the church.

"While we celebrate the many achievements of the programs center and EfM in the past, we believe there is great potential for the programs center to reach more people, and, importantly, to reach groups the church as a whole has been less successful in reaching," Alexander said. "As America grows more diverse (and as it grows younger) a revitalization of the programs center will help the School of Theology, the Episcopal church and the broader Christian church in America."

Cowart and Goodmann are co-creators of VocationCARE, a vocational discernment and ministry design process initiated through support of the Fund for Theological Education. They will work closely with EfM Director Karen Meridith and the EfM staff to integrate VocationCARE and other new programs into the center's operations.

"In the spirit of our collaborative work with the Kaleidoscope Institute and the Missioner for Hispanic/Latino ministries, EfM looks forward to exploring new opportunities for partnerships that will come with this new venture," said Meridith.

Several new initiatives are in development for the expanding programs center, as the center's staff casts a wide net to engage developers of other promising programs as potential future offerings of the center. Two initiatives are already underway.

"With a recent grant from the Henry Luce Foundation, EfM is embarking on the development of a Latino/Hispanic version of the EfM curriculum," said Cowart. "Additionally, the new Episcopal Service Corps-Sewanee (ESC) will begin in August of 2013, under the direction of Michael Trent Thompson. This is the latest addition to an expanding network of 30 ESC programs flourishing in many locations throughout the church."

hospital in Fairbanks, which had been foundering, admitted its first patient; a total of 1,774 patients would be served before its closing in 1915. He also opened a reading library to give Alaskans somewhere to go besides the taverns.

Also noteworthy was Stuck's treatment of the native people of the North. Unlike his missionary contemporaries in Alaska, Stuck did not believe that the natives had to be turned into Westerners, shorn of their language and customs. He respected the wisdom of aboriginal cultures for its intrinsic worth.

Stuck was also an outspoken and controversial advocate for the natives against what he saw as the rapaciousness of some white commercial interests. He particularly fought against the large-scale salmon fisheries, which he saw as serious threats to the very existence of the natives. As he pointed out, "Not only is dried salmon a very large part of the native food, but it is almost the whole food of the indispensable dog," without which "the whole present Indian economy would be destroyed."

These attitudes and actions endeared him to the natives and enlightened sourdoughs (whites) of Alaska, and they mourned his premature death, of pneumonia, a month shy of his 55th birthday.

Upon reaching the summit of Denali on June 7, 1913, the group sang the "Te Deum," a hymn that seemed to them to suit the moment: "We praise Thee, O God! Heaven and earth are full of the majesty of Thy Glory!" In Sewanee's All Saints' Chapel, a plaque on the south wall of the nave commemorates Stuck. And if you look closely at the reredos – the carved statues at the east end behind the altar – you can see a dog is jumping up on one of the figures. That's Stuck with one of his sled dogs.

The centennial of the Denali ascent is a great opportunity to celebrate a noteworthy man and Sewanee alumnus. Hudson Stuck is worth remembering, not only for his most famous accomplishment, but also for his faith, love of exploration, belief in service and respect for diversity.

(This article is adapted from one to be published in Keystone, the newsletter of the Sewanee Trust for Historic Preservation, later this spring, along with an article by Sewanee outing program director John Benson on the mountaineering aspects of Stuck's climb.)

language documentation plays in the world's indigenous cultures and societies. He is a French and anthropology double major who has always been intrigued with language, culture and history. His Watson travels will take him around the South Pacific (to French Polynesia, New Caledonia, Vanuatu, Indonesia and more) to observe different contexts within which to understand the role of language documentation in minority language speakers' social and cultural lives.

In addition to French, Espree-Conaway has pursued languages including Indonesian, Italian, Latin, Old English, Middle English, German, Mandarin Chinese, Spanish, Haitian Creole, Ilocano and Breton. He has studied abroad at the Canada Institute of Linguistics, in France, and in Java, Indonesia. During his time at Sewanee, he also conducted fieldwork in Java through the Biehl International Research Scholarship.

Since 1985, when Sewanee was selected as one of the Watson institutions, the University has produced 43 fellowship recipients, including Blair Barrows and Aaron Rutz, both '12, who are now completing their fellowship years.

The Thomas J. Watson Fellowship Program was established in 1968 by the children of Thomas J. Watson Sr., the founder of International Business Machines Corp., and his wife, Jeannette K. Watson, to honor their parents' long-standing interest in education and world affairs.

The Watson Foundation regards its investment in people as an effective long-term contribution to the global community.

Paterson to Join Staff of St. Mary's Sewanee

St. Mary's Sewanee is pleased to announce that Pratt Paterson has accepted the position of director of advancement. Paterson, currently the assistant director of development and director of the annual fund at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, will oversee all aspects of development, donor relations, communications and marketing for St. Mary's Sewanee. Paterson will begin his new duties April 29.

Paterson will assume a development office that has grown tremendously during the last three years. St. Mary's Sewanee has completed Phase I of its View and Vision Capital Campaign, increased the annual fund and established Sunset Serenade as a significant fund-raiser. Additionally, a new website was launched earlier this year, along with refreshed marketing and communication materials.

Sewanee Professor Chosen for National Board

Sherry Hamby, research professor in Sewanee's department of psychology, has been invited to serve on the Board of Scientific Counselors at the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, part of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Appointments to the board are approved at the cabinet level, and the invitation came from Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Kathleen Sebelius.

The Injury Center is the nation's leading authority on violence and injury prevention. It researches the best ways to prevent violence and injuries, using science to create real-world solutions to keep people safe and healthy. The Board of Scientific Counselors is charged with providing advice and making recommendations to the HHS secretary and CDC director regarding scientific and technical program goals and objectives, strategies, and priorities.

Hamby also serves as director of the Life Paths Research Program at Sewanee and as editor of the journal Psychology of Violence.

Grundy County Wetlands Proposal

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Grundy County for proposed construction of water lines that are in the areas of Fire Tower Road, Hobbs Hill Road, Flat Branch Road, U.S. 41/SR 56 and Summerfield Road.

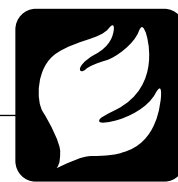

If implemented, the construction may cross an isolated small wetland area adjacent to Summerfield Road. The purpose of the notice is to inform the public of this proposed conversion or effect and to request comments concerning the proposal, alternative sites or actions that would avoid these impacts, and methods that could be used to minimize the impacts.

As required by the National Environmental Policy Act and agency regulations, the Rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment for the proposed project which evaluates the potential environmental effects and consequences of the proposed project.

Copies of this Environmental Assessment are available for review at 103 Cherokee Blvd., Suite 2A, Chattanooga, TN 37405, and at the office of the Grundy County Mayor, 68 Cumberland St., Altamont, TN 37301.

Any person interested in commenting on this proposal should submit comments to the addresses above by April 14.

For more information contact Clay Copeland, area specialist, at (423) 756-2239, ext. 108.

Upcoming Lectures & Films

“Life and Art in a Roman Villa” Lecture on Friday

Sewanee’s department of art and art history is hosting a lecture on the Villa at Oplontis and Roman slave culture at 2:30 p.m., today (Friday), March 22, in Convocation Hall. The lecture “Life and Art in a Roman Villa: Locating the Slave in the Villa at Oplontis (Torre Annunziata, Italy)” will be given by Lea Cline, assistant professor of art history at the school of art, Illinois State University.

Cowan Railroad History Talk on Sunday

Tom Knowles will discuss “When World-Class Technology Came to Cowan,” 4 p.m., Sunday, March 24, at the Cowan Center for the Arts training center. For more information, call (931) 691-0722 or go to <www.cowancenterforthearts.org>.

Promoting Resilience in Children Monday and Tuesday

Two upcoming talks at the University on Monday and Tuesday, March 25 and March 26, will address the subject of resilience in children. Both talks are free and open to the public, and will be in Blackman Auditorium of Woods Labs on the Sewanee campus. Windy Lopez, director of community affairs at Scholastic Educational Publishing, will speak on “Family Resilience: Literacy to Promote Social Competence and Foster Resilience” at 4:30 p.m. Monday, March 25. Lopez will be joined by Karen M. Proctor, founder of social innovation firm Harbour Workshop, for this discussion of the local and national implications of a case study in Grundy County.

Padraig Barry, director of camp support services at SeriousFun (camps founded by Paul Newman), will speak on “Resilience: Children, Life-Threatening Circumstances and How Community Promotes and Fosters Resilience” at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 26. He will address the local and global implications for Grundy County, Gaborone, Botswana and points in between.

For more information, contact Jim Peterman at 598-1482 or by e-mail to <jfpeterm@sewanee.edu>.

“Points of Grace” at the School of Theology Wednesday

The Rev. Kammy Young will talk at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 27, on “Points of Grace: An Oral History of the School of Theology,” in Hargrove Auditorium in Hamilton Hall. She will offer a summary of the results of her doctoral study of the School of Theology from a variety of perspectives. This talk is the first of two on this subject. Young is the director of contextual education at the School of Theology. Lyn Stabler, T’13, who is the recipient of the 2012–13 Gessell Fellowship for Social Ethics, will present the second part of the “Points of Grace” series at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 10.

“Two Spirits” Documentary Film on Wednesday

The public is invited to a free screening of the award-winning documentary “Two Spirits,” at 7 p.m., Wednesday, March 27, in McCrory Hall on the St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School campus.

The film interweaves the story of a mother’s loss of her son with a look at a time when the world wasn’t simply divided into male and female. Fred Martinez, a male-bodied person with a feminine nature, was murdered at the age of 16, one of the youngest hate crimes in modern history. The documentary examines how Native American activists are revitalizing two-spirit traditions and reclaiming their rightful place within their tribal communities. Local Native American Bude Van Dyke and tom kunes, Lakota (Standing Rock) descendant, will lead a discussion following the film.

The event is sponsored by Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace, St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School chapel, the Gay Straight Alliance of St. Andrew’s-Sewanee School and the University, and the Native American Indian Association of Tennessee. For more information contact Leslie Lytle at 598-9979 or <sllytle@blomand.net>.

Historian to Speak on History Of Abortion Thursday

Leslie Reagan, professor of history at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will give the 2013 Goodstein Lecture in Women’s History at 6 p.m., Thursday, March 28, in Gailor Auditorium. Reagan will present “When Abortion Was a Crime: The American Past, and Present?”

Reagan is the author of “Dangerous Pregnancies: Mothers, Disabilities, and Abortion in Modern America” and “When Abortion Was a Crime: Women, Medicine, and Law in the United States, 1867–1973.”

The Anita S. Goodstein Lecture in Women’s History was created in 1998 in recognition of Goodstein’s significant contributions as a professor, colleague and friend. Goodstein began teaching history in the College in the mid-1960s and continued until her retirement in 1992, introducing courses such as American Intellectual and Social History, and Women in American History. She made substantial contributions in documenting women’s history in Tennessee and was a leading organizer of Tennessee’s 75th celebration of women’s suffrage.

Writer Jay Parini on “Poetry as Scripture” April 2

Jay Parini, poet, novelist, biographer and critic, will give the 2012–13 Haines Lecture at the University. Parini will speak at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 2, in Convocation Hall on “Poetry as Scripture: Divine Reading.”

Parini has won international acclaim for his achievements in a diverse span of genres as novelist, poet, biographer, literary editor and literary critic. His publications include five books of poetry, in addition to biographies of John Steinbeck, Robert Frost, and William Faulkner.

He is also the author of eight novels, including “The Last Station” which was made into an Academy Award-nominated film starring Christopher Plummer as Tolstoy and Helen Mirren as his wife, Sophia Tolstaya [a free screening of the movie will be on March 27 at the Sewanee Union Theatre].

Parini graduated from Lafayette College and the University of St. Andrews in Scotland, where he received a Ph.D. in 1975. He has been on the faculty at Middlebury College since 1982.

Jenkins to Lecture on the Future of Love April 5

Willis Jenkins will offer a lecture on “The Future of Love: Intergenerational Risk and Theological Ethics.”

His talk will be at 4:30 p.m., Friday, April 5, in Hargrove Auditorium in Hamilton Hall.

Jenkins is the Margaret A. Farley Assistant Professor of Social Ethics at Yale Divinity School.

He teaches environmental ethics, global ethics and Christian social thought at Yale Divinity School, and also holds a secondary appointment at Yale School of Forestry & Environmental Studies.

LOOKSATBOOKS

by Pat Wiser for Friends of duPont Library

Wendy Welch, author of "The Little Bookstore of Big Stone Gap" (St. Martin's Press, 2012), calls her engaging work a "memoir of friendship, community and the uncommon pleasure of a good book." She develops her theme through dialogue and anecdotes featuring a diverse cast of real-life characters. Witty musings about books for all ages and tastes by this relatively new bookseller enhance an engrossing narrative for bibliophiles.

Mark Twain's belief "All you need is ignorance and confidence, and then success is sure" introduces a brave beginning. Welch and her husband, Jack, catapult themselves into a long-time fantasy after viewing a dilapidated Edwardian house in southwest Virginia's Big Stone Gap. Their assets: love of literature and a large personal library. Tales of the Lonesome Pine Used Book Store (named after John Fox's novel and the annual drama set in the town) opens festively in 2007 with Adriana Trigiani, local celebrity-writer of the "Big Stone Gap" popular novels, as a gracious drawing card.

Soon the tone shifts to grim realism as the couple struggles to advertise on a shoestring. Sneaky projects, such as distributing informational bookmarks at Walmart, work out well. A celeidh—Scottish dancing for all ages reflecting Jack's background—attracts friends and shows community forming around the bookshop. Three orphaned pre-teen boys are reluctantly drawn into the fun as wise guests use celeidh storytime to tell jokes featuring vampires, mummies and bathroom humor. Finally, the boys launch hilarious dance moves aimed at making the grown-ups fall down.

The bookstore evolves into a welcoming place with two dogs, two cats, coffee, tea and short bread, the warmth enriched by Scotland's music and story. The rowdy Knitting Goddesses begin to meet there, and "Let's Talk" sessions are scheduled. A glowing newspaper feature with a photo of the "chief staff cat" dramatically increases traffic and sales.

The budding entrepreneurs seem intuitively skilled at customer care. When heroic firefighters fail to save mountain homes, victims long for destroyed childhood books. A young woman seeks out "Heidi." An older man needs "Danny and the Dinosaur." When the stories start, one puts the kettle on; the other prepares to listen.

A new writing group crafts mystery plots such as "Books Run Amok" wherein Hester Prynne stabs Jane Eyre, while Rhett Butler carries on with Anna Karenina. Murder Mystery Night elicits the rule, "What Happens in the Bookstore Stays in the Bookstore," after a role-playing minister who uses one salty word, in character, must spend months rebuilding congregational approval.

After last month's "Looks at Books" elicited comment from readers who share Supreme Court judges' fondness for Nancy Drew, the ubiquitous detective pops up again in Welch's futile attempt to explain arcane details of book pricing to the hopeful owner of a stack of old "Nancy editions." Yard sale tags of masking tape tear dust jackets, negating potential value. The prospective supplier hears only "value" and is angered by Welch's refusal to sell them for her on eBay.

A pilgrimage to 42 independent bookstores highlights effective networking and strong customer service, overpricing and over-emphasis of insignificant first editions. Eighteen stores seem healthy. Two favorites appear: Asheville's Malaprop's and Nashville's Parnassus. The author's insight into the threats posed by online buying, ebooks and chain stores is surprisingly reassuring.

The fifth year brings a solid business, albeit no great riches in dollars. The store's Facebook page features a book review blog and a calendar indicating that the joint is jumpin'.

Welch's conclusion: "Cat pee, guerilla bargainers, fifty-pound boxes of Harlequin romances and all, we are having the time of our lives."

Readers may find "The Little Bookstore of Big Stone Gap" in duPont Library.

Animal Alliance Offers Ink Cartridge Recycling

The Animal Alliance-South Cumberland (AASC), a low-cost spay/neuter group, encourages area residents and businesses to recycle printer ink cartridges and toner through AASC. Cartridges may be dropped off at the Clifftops office or Clifftops guardhouse. Funds generated through this program will be used to fund AASC operational expenses and spay/neuter surgeries.

A mission of AASC is to reduce the numbers of unwanted dogs and cats in our area. AASC helps residents to have animals transported for surgery if they are unable to provide transportation themselves.

This program will have ecological benefits while helping residents have their pets spayed or neutered.

Contact Judy or Greg Magavero at (931) 924-3118 or <jmagavero@blomand.net> for information about recycling ink cartridges.

Contact AASC at (931) 235-9006 for questions about the Spay/Neuter program or visit <<http://www.animalalliancesouthcumberland.org/>>.

The fourth-grade team from Mrs. Reavis' class won the Clover Bowl competition at SES recently. The team will now move on to the county competition in April. 4-H county leader Jonathan Johns stands with (from left) Nathan King, Myers Gorrell, Haley Cash and Porter Neubauer. Clover Bowl is an opportunity for young people to develop leadership, teamwork and communication skills. Students answer questions in the areas of 4-H: Tennessee (history, geography, and government), agriculture and family and consumer sciences.

The Clover Bowl team from Mrs. Foster's fifth-grade class won the school-level Clover Bowl competition at SES. They will advance to the county level competition in April. Team members are (from left) Saje Mangru, Cate Bachman, Chloe Fontenelle and Sam Patton.

Franklin County K and Pre-K Registration

Registration for kindergarten and pre-kindergarten in Franklin County will be on Tuesday, April 2, at the school the child will attend.

For the 2013-14 school year, Tennessee students entering kindergarten must be 5 years old by Aug. 31. In the past, the cutoff date for kindergarten was Sept. 30.

Children who are currently enrolled in public pre-kindergarten programs are exempt from the change in age requirement date for the next school year.

Marion County Kindergarten Registration

The last opportunity for 2013-14 kindergarten registration at Marion County schools, including Monteagle Elementary, is from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. today (Friday), March 22, at the school.

Children are not required to appear; parents need to bring the child's birth certificate, Social Security card, official shot record (mother's copy is not official) and proof of physical exam.

For more information call Monteagle Elementary School at (931) 924-2136.

The following documents are required to register a child for public school: the child's certified birth certificate, the child's Social Security card, the child's immunization record and a completed physician's physical report.

For questions about kindergarten registration, contact Nancy Graham at 967-0626. For more information about the pre-K program, contact Patti Limbaugh at 967-0626.

Science Center Offers Camps for Spring Break

Tullahoma's Hands-On Science Center is hosting a day camp for kids on spring break. The camp, for students in grades one through five, is scheduled for two weeks: March 25-29 and April 1-5.

Each day will have a theme: Monday: Crazy Chemistry; Tuesday: Fantastic Physics; Wednesday: Grossology; Thursday: Amazing Aerospace; Friday: Candyology.

Camp is 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. Unless arriving for extended care, campers must not be dropped off any earlier than 8:45 a.m. Each camper should bring a lunch.

Camp cost is $30 non-members ($25 members) per day or $125 non-members ($100 members) for the week. A sibling discount of $5 will be given for each child in a family after paying full price for the first. Extended care is available.

For more information or to register call (931) 455-8387 or go to <www.hosc.org>.

David Sargent

Author Visits SES

Students at Sewanee Elementary School squealed with delight as David Sargent's friends showed off their many talents. Sargent, a children's author, came to SES on March 13 with his four dogs, who are the stars of many of his books. Sargent has been writing books for about 16 years and shared his newest series with the students.

Sargent inspired the students to think about their own experiences and use their imagination to create their own stories. He encouraged the students to have fun with writing and become authors, too.

In anticipation of his visit, the students of SES had researched the different dogs featured in his series. They had discussed character traits and how authors develop these traits in stories. The fifth-grade students also made author notebooks to record their thoughts and experiences to possibly use as story starters.

Sargent travels to schools across the country and inspires students of all ages to write. The students of SES had a "dog-gone" good time meeting this accomplished author in person and having the opportunity to get his autograph, too!

ANGEL WITH AN ATTITUDE

by Virginia Craighill

Dear Angel,

I hear this is "Super Saturday" (March 23), when many seniors at the University take their comprehensive exams. On this weekend last year, my 6-year-old came home with several new vocabulary words, and my 4-year-old kept drawing what I thought were rocket ships with smoke billowing up from either side. They said they were just copying what they saw on some parked cars, and I realized these weren't actually rocket ships. Should I keep my children locked inside Saturday, or get my husband to prepare the sex education talk?

Perturbed Parent

Dear Parent:

Comprehensive exams are the culmination of a Sewanee student's education, but what appears on the students' cars after they "comp" tends to be less than scholarly. None of the citizens of Sewanee nor their innocent children should be exposed to the kind of primitive "artwork" you allude to, or need to know the intimate details of the students' private lives, but it's hard to avoid it if you are anywhere on campus and are not visually impaired.

I'd like to gently suggest that the comping students and their friends use their excellent education to be naughty in a more academic way when decorating comp cars. Shakespeare is an excellent source of bawdy lines too obscure to upset elementary schoolers, yet literary enough to impress knowledgeable adults. Wouldn't Hamlet's admonition to Ophelia, "Get thee to a nunnery: why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners?" be more eloquent than an explicit verse from Lil Wayne or Waka Flaka Flame? This quotation would fit neatly on the back window of a mid-sized SUV. And Emily Dickinson is a classy source for any party girl's Range Rover:

I taste a liquor never brewed,
From tankards scooped in pearl;
Not all the vats upon the Rhine
Yield such an alcohol!

Inebriate of air am I,
And debauchee of dew.

The point of comps is to exhibit the breadth and depth of the knowledge accumulated during four years at this institution of higher learning, not to display bad taste, poor social choices and artistic inability on a windshield for the world to see. So I hope all comping students will hear your plea and consider my proposal to "Stay Classy, Sewanee."

Dear Angel:

I was overwhelmed by all the readings and lectures on the Mountain. To miss even one of these events makes me feel guilty, but to go to all of them would mean neglecting my family, my dog, my work, my meals, my regular meetings and my sleep. While I appreciate the abundance of opportunities, isn't this a case of overkill?

Beleaguered and Baffled

Dear Beleaguered:

Sometimes Sewanee seems like the academic version of Disney World — too many rides and not enough time. If you try to go to everything listed on the calendar, you'll end up like one of those kids whose parents have to drag him out of the Magic Kingdom in a virtual coma of overstimulation. Just as it is neither sane nor logistically possible to do Epcot and Universal Studios in the same day, attempting to attend a luncheon talk, a 4:30 p.m. lecture, a 7 p.m. panel discussion and an 8 p.m. reading is admirable but hardly advisable for most humans.

I know of a college that sets aside a two-hour time period every Friday afternoon for lectures and readings. No classes, meetings, panels, practices or other activities can be held during that time, so it frees up everyone to attend this event and allows people to keep a normal schedule and have a normal life during the rest of the week. This seems eminently sensible.

Sewanee's calendar, however, will remain in hyperdrive until mid-May, so just put on your blindfold and throw a dart at the weekly schedule of events on the back page of the Messenger. Wherever the dart lands, go to that event. You'll be edified, culturally enriched and best of all, you'll stay sane.

Virginia Craighill invites your questions and queries on matters of etiquette, style and ethics. Send them confidentially to <news@sewancemessenger.com>.

Priestley Show at Cowan's Artisan Depot

The Franklin County Arts Guild and Artisan Depot present Mary Patten Priestley's "A Natural Selection: Plants and Animals from the Plateau and Beyond," March 28–May 4. This exhibit of paintings and drawings draws together Priestley's training as a biologist, her creative talents and her love of the outdoors. Artisan Depot will host a wine-and-cheese reception for the show, 5–7 p.m., Saturday, April 6. Music for the event will be provided by Die Geschwister, a group comprised of Priestley, Tom Patten and George Patten. Artisan Depot is located at 201 Cumberland St. East in Cowan and is open noon to 5 p.m., Thursday through Saturday.

Seige at Bridgeport Re-enactment

The historic Siege at Bridgeport will be dramatically portrayed for the 19th consecutive year on March 23–24. The Siege is the State's largest and oldest continuous Civil War re-enactment. Each year, about 1,500 re-enactors return to the picturesque farm that has served as the live drama stage since the event began.

In April of 1862, federal forces seized Bridgeport in a fierce battle. Over the remaining years of the war, Confederate troops unsuccessfully attempted to regain the bridge. With the Union controlling it, Bridgeport became a major shipping center for troops and supplies going to Sherman's infamous "March to the Sea."

Admission to the event is $5 for adults and $2 for children. Camp tours begin at 10 a.m.; the battle begins at 2 p.m. There will be a gala ball Saturday night that is open to the public, but period attire is requested. For more information contact JoJohn McCraw at (256) 437-8873 or go to <www.siegeatbridgeport.com>.

Argo

Rated R • 120 minutes • $3

Winner of the Oscar for Best Picture and Best Screenplay (adaptation), and a host of other awards, "Argo" dramatizes the true story of six Americans who escaped from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran during the 1979 Iranian Revolution. CIA agent Tony Mendez (Ben Affleck) devises a plan to smuggle the Americans out of the country, having them pose as a Canadian film crew. As much history lesson as a commentary about Hollywood, "Argo" is smart, entertaining filmmaking. Affleck, who also directed and produced the movie, assembled a great cast (including John Goodman, Alan Arkin, Bryan Cranston, Kyle Chandler and Victor Garber) for this entertaining movie. It is not excessively violent or disturbing, but a few choice naughty words caused "Argo" to be rated R for language and some violent images.—LW

The Last Station (2009)

Rated R • 112 minutes • Free

The final year of Leo Tolstoy's life comes to the screen in this lovely film based on Jay Parini's novel. Christopher Plummer, still a wonderful and vibrant actor, plays Tolstoy with gusto; Helen Mirren portrays his wife, Sofya. Through their relationship, the viewer learns much about their complicated relationship and how Tolstoy dealt with aging. Director Michael Hoffman (who also adapted the novel for the screen) also elicits great supporting performances from Paul Giamatti and James McAvoy. This is one of those quiet, delightful films you'll be glad you saw. Rated R for one scene of sexuality/nudity.

SAS Winter Upper School Athletic Awards

Athletes at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School were recently honored at the Winter Athletic Awards. After individual team gatherings, all athletes and families met in McCrory Hall for presentation of the Most Improved Player, the Most Valuable Player and the Coaches Award winners. MIP and MVP are selected by players on the team.

The evening provided an opportunity to celebrate the achievements of the basketball, swimming and wrestling teams.

The boys' basketball team finished the season with a 14-11 record. Alex Tinsley was named to the All-District team, and Eric Baynard was named to the All-Tournament team.

The varsity swim team sent 11 swimmers to the Middle Tennessee Regional High School Swimming and Diving Championship. Jimmie Joe Boone qualified for the finals in the 100 back. The girls' 200 free relay team of Helen Wilson, Marisa Wilson, Lucy Howick and Annie McCawley finished 14th and tied the SAS school record. Jimmie Joe Boone, Helen Wilson and Annie McCawley participated in the State Swim Meet. Helen Wilson was recognized as an Academic All-American.

The wrestling team finished the season with a 13-11 record. Myles Kincaid won first place in his weight class at the Mountain Top Wrestling Tournament in January. Robert Post got fourth place at the Charger Clash at Chattanooga Christian, and the team took second place at the Boyd Buchanan Duals. Alex Hanson, Seth Horton, Myles Kincaid, Tommy Oliver, Robert Post and Michael Schaefer represented SAS at the TSSAA Individual State Wrestling Tournament.

SAS Golf Tournament

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee Parents' Council second annual golf tournament at Manchester's Willow Brook Golf Course is scheduled for Saturday, April 6. All money raised will support professional development at SAS.

Lunch, sponsored by First Tennessee Bank, will be provided at noon with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. Teams will be flighted depending on the number participating. Each flight will have a first, second and third place, with first place winning $800. The registration fee for a four-man team is $400. Individuals and companies are encouraged to consider sponsoring the tournament with a gift of $100 or more. All sponsors will be recognized throughout the day.

Register a team or sponsor a hole online at <www.sasweb.org>. For more information call David Foster at (931) 691-1154 or email <dfoster@greatnorthernincorp.com>.

Volleyball Wins

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school volleyball team defeated Tracy City Elementary School on March 18, 25-22, 21-25 and 25-11. Lexie Laurendine's strong serving performance, eight aces and 13 points in a row during the final game, led the team. Mary Katherine Jolly had three kills and three blocks; Erin Berner-Coe recorded 11 kills; Madison Gilliam added two kills; Carolyn Bruce had five kills; Claire Reynolds had two digs; and Hannah True added five kills and three digs.

Track and Field Update

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee varsity track and field team began the competitive season at Baylor with a strong showing from several athletes on March 19.

James Beasley and Eric Baynard placed first and second in the 300 hurdles. They teamed with Jacob Schott and Lucas Lu to place second in the 4x400 relay. Lu was second in the triple jump.

On the girl's side, Sarah Beavers was third in the discus. Vanessa Luo was third in the triple jump.

SAS Baseball Drops One

On March 19, the St. Andrew's-Sewanee baseball team lost to the Knights of Lancaster Christian Academy, 11-6.

SAS jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. After one out, Levi Higgins, Casey Willis and Edwin Ashcraft walked to load the bases. Russell Mays followed with an RBI base on balls before Riley Rhoton reached on an error to score another run. Nick Mays followed with a shot to left field that was misplayed by the Knights and led to another run before Sam Thomas followed with an RBI single.

The Mountain Lions could not maintain the momentum, as starting pitcher Ashcraft issued four consecutive walks to start the bottom of the first. Two singles and a double followed to put the Knights up 6-4 after one inning.

SAS came back in the second inning to tie the score, as Alex Tinsley singled and Higgins walked to start the frame. Willis reached on an error to score one run, and Ashcraft followed with an RBI sacrifice fly. A couple of errors in the bottom of the second inning allowed the Knights to take a lead they would not relinquish as they scored two runs.

The Mountain Lions threatened in each inning but could not come up with a clutch hit. Lancaster Christian added a single run in the fourth and two runs in the fifth inning to close out the scoring.

Thomas, making his first varsity start, led the team in hitting, going 2-2 with an RBI. Willis, Tinsley and Rhoton had singles. Higgins reached base each time with a base on balls.

Defensively, Willis and Thomas played error-free ball and also turned in a double play. At catcher, Rhoton gunned down one would-be base stealer.

Women's Tennis Beats Centre

The No. 18-ranked Sewanee women's tennis team opened Southern Athletic Association play with an easy 8-1 victory over league member Centre on March 16.

The Tiger double teams of sisters Lindsey and Jenny Liles, Bronte Goodhue and Anne Garland, and Julia Wood and Annie Veron helped Sewanee to a quick 3-0 lead with three 8-0 victories.

After not dropping a single point in her doubles match, Garland continued that trend with a perfect 6-0, 6-0 win over Abby Tudor.

At the No. 1 position, Goodhue put away the top player for Centre 6-1, 6-0. Veron then blew past Katie Howard at No. 3 with a 6-2, 6-0 win. Wood topped Maddie Pitt by a score of 6-1, 6-0. Kate Johnston outlasted Kimberly Randall in straight sets 6-3, 6-4.

Centre's lone win of the day came at the No. 2 position, when Lauren Dever rallied past Lindsey Liles 2-6, 6-1, 10-6.

Tiger Tennis Wins

The men's tennis team won 9-0 against Southern Athletic Association foe Centre on March 16.

The Tigers wasted little time getting their first point when Rand Jackson and Sean Laughlin teamed up to win their No. 1 doubles match, 8-0, against Trey Williamson and Lucas Kelly.

After victories by Levi Joy and Connor Winkler, along with a win by the team of Grant Hopkins and Eric Roddy, Sewanee opened singles action with a 3-0 lead.

In the individual contests, Laughlin opened the victories with a strong 6-2, 6-3 win at No. 3.

Winkler topped Xan Witherington by a score of 6-1, 6-2, while Jackson earned his second point of the day with a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Woody Rini.

Joy then made the score 7-0 in favor of Sewanee with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Parker Lawson. Finally, after a close first set, Hopkins put away Alex Wermeling with ease in the second set with a 6-4, 6-0 win.

Roddy earned the other singles' victory for the Tigers after he defeated Lucas Kelly with a pair of 6-1 set wins.

Sewanee Downs Centre

Behind a strong second-half comeback, the Sewanee men's lacrosse team earned an impressive 18-12 victory over Southern Athletic Association rival Centre on March 16.

The match opened with a series of offensive runs. The Colonels opened with a 3-0 spurt to start the first period. The Tigers scored three out of the next four goals to end the first period down one.

In the second period both teams continued to trade scores until the 5:12 mark. Tied 6-6, the Colonels went on a 5-0 run to end the half.

After a dismal end to the second period, Sewanee came out of the locker ready. The Tigers outscored the Colonels 4-0 in the third period behind two goals each from Pierce Leonard and James Millard.

Down only one, 11-10, to start the final period, Sewanee continued to roll. The Tigers added seven straight goals to start the fourth.

After Centre added one final goal with 1:39 left, Conley Street closed out the scoring for the Tigers with his first goal of the season.

Sewanee took a season-high 70 shots, which helped the Tigers outshoot Centre by 45. Sewanee had more face-off wins, ground balls and caused turnovers.

Michael Morris led the attack with four goals. Leonard, Davis Brown and Millard also added three scores each. Reed Daniel scored two goals. Hal Smith, Ian Gillan and Street added one.

Women's Golf Finishes 12th

Led by Emily Javadi's low scoring round of the day, the Sewanee women's golf team finished 12th against one of the toughest NCAA Division III fields this season at the Jekyll Island College Invitational on March 18.

The Tigers finished the three-day event with a 54-hole school record of 1,013. That total was ahead of Southern Athletic Association members Berry, Oglethorpe and Millsaps. Sewanee's final-round 327 was the second lowest 18-hole score among all conference teams Sunday.

After rounds of 86 and 80, Javadi fired a final-round 72. Javadi finished tied for seventh with a three-day total of 238.

Alison Eleey tied for 16th in her first event as a Tiger. Eleey finished with a three-day total of 242.

Jenna King finished with a three-round total of 247, which put her tied for 34th. After a tough end to her second round, King rebounded the final day with an 18-hole 79.

Helen Kennedy also scored for Sewanee with her 54-hole 286. Ellen Ruppert rounded out the scores with a 310 total.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

My wife is one of those people that eat fiber faster than I eat French fries, but when she wants a cookie, she wants a cookie. That is her thing. She can go six months without eating sugar but when she gets in the mood for a chocolate chip cookie you had better turn the oven to 350 and keep your arms and legs away from the Kitchen Aid mixer.

The Sewanee tennis teams were in California this past week competing against several rival Division III programs over spring break. We were fortunate enough to stay in a nice section of Los Angeles, specifically the consumer-friendly walking area of downtown Santa Monica. So after the tennis matches, our teams could stroll down to the boardwalk on the beach, find an In-N-Out burger or watch the sunset over the Pacific Ocean. On Wednesday afternoon our women had just lost a nail-biter to Carnegie Mellon, the number five-ranked team in the country. The match was so close our team could tell what kind of toothpaste their opponents used that morning. It was so close I felt like I had front row seats to the Lakers game. (I could go on for pages with this.) When a match like that happens I understand that I had better find a chocolate chip cookie fast, or it's going to be a long night of listening to how we could have won if we just made one more backhand volley. Just outside the hotel was this long promenade filled with every kind of restaurant, store, bakery and theatre you could imagine. I was certain to have great success in my search for a great chocolate chip cookie used to pacify my hyper-competitive bride.

You have to stop right here and remember where I was at this moment. California. A bakery in California is not the same as a bakery in the South. Down here we use sugar, eggs, butter and white flour combined with a big bag of chocolate to make what I know as a cookie, but after an exhaustive search on the West Coast I finally came across an Organic Vegan Bakery. Those three words should not be used in the same sentence. Organic and Vegan are twin sisters, and the Bakery part is just their stocky cousin that no one talks about. Everyone inside was wearing a Burberry circle scarf, sipping espresso and talking about fashion that won't reach Tennessee until 2019. The organic whole wheat flour was sweetened with sugar-free applesauce and held together by some unknown soy-based substance that was advertised to be healthier than pure egg whites from a free-range chicken raised in a Malibu condo. No chocolate, just some dried cranberries used as the chips.

Now I'm 6'2" and won't print my weight, and I'm athletic enough that I can still run five miles in a pinch and throw around some dumbbells in the weight room when I have to, but I am not nearly tough enough to bring back a fake cranberry cookie when only chocolate chip will do. Losing hurts for players and coaches alike, but losing close matches when you have a chance is far worse. We all know that chocolate soothes the savage beast inside. I later found a Tea Shoppe one street over that specialized in drying their own homegrown tea leaves and then grinding them down with a pestle in front of their customers that sold a cookie baked in Iowa that was wrapped in plastic. Like a surgeon wielding a plastic coffee spoon, I cut through the nearly impossible-to-open packaging and laid it on a colorful napkin to make it look fresh. I attempted to heat up the cookie with my cell phone light. (Surely there is an app for that.)

When I returned to the hotel my bride was already scouting the next day's opponent (read "victim") online. She had sworn off sugar again and vowed to practice her team until no more backhand volleys were missed. So I ate the cookie and went back out looking for fries.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Wood Thrush, illustration from "Little Nature Library: Birds Worth Knowing," a book given to Harry Yeatman on his 9th birthday in 1925.

Wood Thrush

Jean Yeatman reports, "Harry and I had a Wood Thrush in our yard on March 16. What a joyous sign of spring! This beautiful bird is the largest of the thrushes. The body length is 8–8.3 inches. It is brown above, reddish on the head and shoulders, and shading into olive-brown on tail. Throat and underneath are white in the middle but heavily marked on sides and breast with heart-shaped spots of very dark brown.

"Its flute-like song is a joy to listen to as we sit on our deck in the evenings in the summer. It is one of the most beautiful bird songs in our area. The nest is built in shrubbery and is rather low-hung, made of sticks and with a bit of paper woven into it. The Wood Thrush lays four light-greenish-blue eggs; after the babies hatch they move away into the woods after a fortnight to join the invisible choir."

Shinn Named Ranger of the Year

George Shinn, a South Cumberland State Park ranger for 13 years who is stationed at Savage Gulf, was recently selected as Park Ranger of the Year by the Tennessee Park Rangers Association.

According to fellow South Cumberland ranger Bill Knapp, "George is an honest, organized and professional ranger. He supports his co-workers however he can. He is there to bring up morale or to lend a helping hand."

Park Manager John Christof added, "Ranger George Shinn works in a very large and complex park. Many park managers in the Tennessee State Park system are responsible for parks much smaller than the area to which he is assigned and have more help to operate their parks. We are happy that George has been recognized by his peers for the good work he does at Savage Gulf."

Savage Gulf, one of the 10 parks that make up the South Cumberland, includes the fabled Stone Door. It contains 10 campgrounds and about 75 miles of trail. Normally, Shinn is responsible for checking campers at seven of those campgrounds and doing trail work on half of the trails. Due to a staffing vacancy, he is currently covering the entire Savage Gulf.

Shinn has quite a reputation as a storyteller, often dressed as Davy Crockett. In addition to his park programs, he meets with many classes and groups. He is active with 4-H, serves as a Boy Scout leader, and assists with Girl Scouts.

He has taken a leading role in fighting the Hemlock Woolly Adelgid in the South Cumberland. Last year the rangers treated the vast majority of the hemlocks in Savage Gulf, and Shinn managed the crews and helped on the ground.

In 2012, South Cumberland held its first Savage Gulf Marathon. It was such a success that it was repeated in March of 2013, with twice as many runners. Shinn helped plan the route, mark the trails, promote the race, get donations, and organize volunteers. He also ran in the grueling race as a sweeper.

After the 2012 race, the rangers discovered that an elderly woman was lost. By the time Shinn found her and brought her safely out of the woods, he had put in an almost 20-hour day. "But George being George, I never heard any complaints," said Bill Knapp.

Tommy

Pets of the Week

Meet Kaiser & Tommy

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Little Kaiser is an active, playful young Dachshund who likes everyone he meets. He would love to be an indoor lap warmer as long as he has a place to run and play outside. Kaiser is up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Tommy is a young adult Persian mix who enjoys a quiet life indoors. His beautiful blue coat is very soft and luxurious. Tommy is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Animal Harbor is now featuring a "St. Patrick's Day" special. For a limited time, cat adoption fees will be reduced by $20. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over 4 months old who have been at the facility for more than a month. Call 962-4472 or check out the other pets at www.animalharbor.com.

Easter Egg Hunt at State Park

The 31st annual Easter Egg Hunt is at 10 a.m., Saturday, March 23, at the South Cumberland State Park Visitors' Center Complex for children walking age and up. There are five age categories, with four prizes for each group for children finding the prize eggs. There will be no "most eggs found" competition. Adults will be allowed to assist toddler hunters in the walking to age 2 group.

In case of rain, the Easter Egg Hunt will be at 1 p.m., Sunday, March 24. The Friends of South Cumberland State Recreation Area is the event's sponsor.

The Visitors' Center is located on Highway 41 South between Monteagle and Tracy City and is open 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m. seven days a week. For more information call (931) 924-2980.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

An altered look about the hills—
A Tyrian light the village fills—
A wider sunrise in the morn—
A deeper twilight on the lawn—
A print of a vermilion foot—
A purple finger on the slope—
A flippant fly upon the pane—
A spider at his trade again—
An added strut in Chanticleer—
A flower expected everywhere—
An axe shrill singing in the woods—
Fern odors on untraveled roads—
All this and more I cannot tell—
A furtive look you know as well—
And Nicodemus' Mystery
Receives its annual reply!

—Emily Dickinson (c. 1859)
