Mark Brunton

SAS History Teacher Chosen for Summer Seminar

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School history teacher Mark Brunton was recently selected to participate in a Gilder Lehrman Summer Seminar, a prestigious U.S. history seminar.

He will attend a week-long session titled "The Gilded Age and Its Modern Parallels" at Stanford University under the direction of historian Richard White, the Margaret Byrne Professor of American History at Stanford.

This intensive class, which focuses on markets, corruption and mass immigration in the Gilded Age, will look at the rise of the modern corporation and the first great age of modern technology in the United States. Topics include Thomas Edison and the World's Fair, the Penny Press, mass culture, advertising and the expansion of the state.

Brunton joined the SAS faculty as a history teacher in 2000. His commitment to lifelong learning can be seen in his continued studies. He has participated in an Earthwatch Research program in Canyonlands National Park in Utah, attended a Gilder Lehrman Summer Seminar at Princeton University with historian James McPherson in 2002, and participated in the "Teaching History with Technology" seminar in New York City.

Brunton was named the third recipient of the Fort Chair in Writing at SAS in recognition of his dedication to improving the writing skills of his students.

The Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History offers a wide range of programs about American history for students, teachers and scholars.

Japanese Quake Registers on Local Seismograph

The magnitude 9.0 earthquake in Japan on Friday, March 11, had far-reaching impacts, showing up on the Sewanee seismograph, located in the horse pasture beyond the water tower on Brakefield Road.

Bran Potter, professor of forestry and geology at the University, working with the Center for Earthquake Studies in Memphis, annotated the seismograph's recordings to help people understand the earthquake. The graph above shows three hours of data recorded in Sewanee.

"The faster body waves traveled through the crust, mantle and core of the earth and reached Sewanee first, arriving just before midnight local time on March 10," Potter said.

"The slower surface waves traveled around the world through the earth's lithosphere (upper rigid layer)," he explained. "Their arrival is marked by the largest waves on the graph. The upper line begins at about 11:45 p.m. on March 10, with no strong waves detected. Just before midnight the "P waves" arrived, followed by "S waves," and the large surface waves began about 12:30 a.m."

When an earthquake occurs, Potter said, several different kinds of seismic waves travel through the

Monday's Council Agenda

The following items are on the agenda for the Community Council meeting scheduled for 7 p.m., Monday, March 28, at the Sewanee Senior Center:

Approval of the February minutes; Proposal to extend the Mountain Goat Path along Ball Park Road - Deborah McGrath; Proposed Domestic Livestock Policy - Marvin Pate; Natural Resources Advisory Committee meeting update - Mary Priestley; Community e-mail list use - David Coe; Replacement appointment in District 3 - Linda Lankewicz; and Announcements.

The proposed domestic livestock policy that will be considered contains the following summary and recommendations:

"The University's Sustainability Steering Committee recommends that lease policies be modified to allow leaseholders to keep modest numbers of small livestock. "Our reviews of background information and of the experience of towns and colleges elsewhere indicate that the benefits of such a change in policy would outweigh any costs.

"We recommend that leaseholders who wish to keep livestock should present a proposal that adequately describes a plan for the tidy housing and care of the animals in question.

"We propose a policy that summarizes these requirements. We recommend that this policy be adopted by the University. We further recommend that proposals for small livestock and subsequent oversight be managed by a Livestock Subcommittee with input from the Lease and Sustainability Steering Committees. The proposed policy is Part V of this report.

"The University's Strategic Plan calls for Sewanee to become a leader in sustainable education and living, explicitly including the "township" of Sewanee as part of this goal. A change in the livestock policy would help move the University towards this goal."

earth from the point where slip has occurred on a fault. "P waves" and "S waves" are called body waves because they move through the interior of the earth. "P" (primary) waves move as pulses of compression and expansion in the rock, traveling about 6 km per second in the crust. The slower "S" (secondary) waves, moving about 3.5 km per second in the crust, arrive at distant seismographs well after the "P" waves.

Surface waves travel more slowly than body waves and are much more destructive. In large quakes like that in Japan, these waves distort the ground surface and cause large buildings to collapse.

This quake and the Indonesian quake in 2004 are the largest quakes measured in Sewanee and are two of the five largest worldwide quakes in the past 50 years.

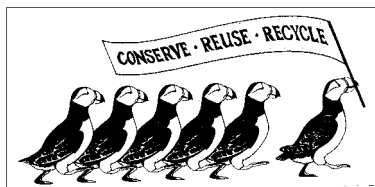

Sewanee's widely felt predawn earthquake on April 29, 2003, with an epicenter near Fort Payne, Ala., was the most recent significant quake in the area, registering 4.5 on the Richter Scale.

"The most impressive aspect of that quake," Potter said, "was the loud roar that occurred as seismic waves were converted to sound waves in the atmosphere."

When asked how the waves on the seismograph reading from the Japanese quake compared to the 2003 Sewanee quake, Potter said, "Because the Fort Payne quake was so close, we had some high amplitude waves on our seismograph that morning."

"The quake in Japan was so much more powerful than our quake that its waves were far more pronounced and prolonged on our seismograph, despite the great distance the waves had traveled."

For a look at the last week of data recorded by the Sewanee instrument, go to < http://folkworm.cerimemphis.edu/heli_bb_ceri/ and see all of the stations monitored by the University of Memphis Center for Earthquake Research and Information. The Sewanee information is at the bottom of the page.

WOMAN'S CLUB SUCCESS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Sewanee Woman's Club, I would like to thank the following community businesses who generously contributed door prizes to our annual "Spring Fling" fundraiser: Julia's, Taylor's Mercantile, the Blue Chair Bakery and Coffee Shop, the Lemon Fair, Sewanee/Franklin County Airport, Hallelujah Pottery, Lorena's Gifts, Monteagle Florist and Tea On The Mountain.

The money generated by the club is given to help support numerous mountain top community organizations. This philanthropy could not be possible without the support of the community, members and guests.

Thank-you to all who participated and helped make this such a great success.

PUBLIC SECTOR UNIONS NOT THE SOLUTION

To the Editor:

Public sector unions (e.g., teachers' unions) are drastically different from private sector unions.

In Wisconsin, you must pay union dues to teach. Some of the dues are donated to the campaign coffers of the officials sitting across the negotiating table from the union bosses.

Letters to the Editor Policy

Letters to the Editor are welcome at the Sewanee Mountain Messenger and are a vital part of our community's conversation. Letters need to be no longer than 250 words and may be edited for space and clarity. Letters and/or their author must have some relationship to our community. We do not accept letters on national topics from individuals who live outside our circulation area. Please include your name, address and a daytime telephone number with your letter. You may mail it to us at Sewanee Mountain Messenger, P.O. Box 296, Sewanee TN 37375, or come by our office, 418 St. Mary's Ln., or send an e-mail to me at news_messgr@bellsouth.net. —LW

Letters

These public officials approve expensive pay and retirement packages for the unions (and get money and votes), with the taxpayers' ugly bill only due years later.

Most union contributions go to Democrats, so if you don't think taxpayer money should fund all things the Democratic Party likes, you must give up your job and move to a state that doesn't allow forced union membership. Please note that about half the states and most federal workers do not have what some people are quick to call a public collective bargaining "right".

Many of the 50 states are facing budget emergencies (in the billions of dollars). A lot of debt is due to generous contracts (vs. private sector) and this corrupt cycle of implementation.

The real loss to the children's education will come when both the state and federal governments are bankrupt. With even a modest interest rate rise, we'll be paying more in yearly interest to our creditors than we spend on education and military combined. The February 2011 deficit is $220 billion.

The children of the future will learn that the United States was once the greatest nation, a nation with faults certainly, but a nation that people from all corners of the globe struggled to reach.

Soft Receives Scholarship Gift

The J. Christopher Flowers Foundation recently made a gift of $80,000 to the School of Theology for a scholarship program for an African student.

"The benefits of this are transformative for all parties, as it can open up an American student body to undreamed realities and it almost always strengthens the leadership of the African churches," said the Very Rev. William Stafford, dean of the School of Theology. "The resulting relationships are very welcome in a time of institutional fracture."

The gift will cover the cost of a two-year seminary education for an African student, including a summer back in the student's homeland. It is expected that the new student will begin in the 2011-12 year.

Stafford said he hopes this gift will establish a model that could support and educate additional African students at Sewanee.

Bird condominiums? A stack of powdered sugar doughnuts? UFO detector? Nope. This is the newly installed voice siren near Elliott Hall.

Voice Sirens Now In Use

The new emergency voice sirens, located in front of Elliott Hall and at the football field, got their first use on Wednesday night to alert Sewanee residents to a tornado warning. Although the "voice" component of the sirens has not been installed, the sirens repeatedly blew a high-low combination which means "take cover." One cycle of high-low is the "all clear" signal. The locations were chosen to cover, at a minimum, the area bounded by Gorgas Hall, the downtown area, Trezevant Hall, Emerald-Hodgson Hospital, the sports fields and Equestrian Center, Hodgson Hall and back to Gorgas.

The Community Center is a vital part of Sherwood. Being a small community with little or no businesses to help them with needed repairs, insurance and day-to-day needs finds them asking for help. Life Flight uses the community center property for its landing zone when it is called in for medical emergencies.

At 5 p.m., Saturday, April 2, there will be a dinner and fund-raiser at the center. Dinner is $5 per person, and there will be chili, soup or hot dogs and drinks, chips and desserts. Also, there will be a cake walk and cake auction.

The center, which is in the old Sherwood School building, is located on Highway 56, approximately three miles from the foot of the mountain.

Donations can be made on Saturday night or mailed to Jan Green, president of the center.

Checks should be made out to Sherwood Community Center and can be mailed to Green at 145 Terry Holt Lane, Sherwood, TN 37376.

Growing in Grace welcomes Emily Ezell, C'11, at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 27, in All Saints' Chapel for this informal worship service with acoustic music, refreshments and fellowship. Each week this semester, a different speaker talks about how "The Light of the World" affects the lives of Christians. This week, Ezell will share about her experience on the recent college outreach trip to New York City working with the Gay Men's Health Crisis Center.

Catechumenate

Catechumenate continues at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 30, in Bairnwick Women's Center. During Lent, the small groups will spend time quietly reading and meditating on Scripture. An ancient evening prayer, Compline, concludes the evening. There will be coffee and homemade baked goods to enjoy.

Catechumenate is an ancient tradition in which early Christians would learn and teach about the faith. For more information contact lay chaplain Catherine Outten at 598-1251 or the chaplain's office at 598-1274.

Taizé

Taizé will be held at 7 p.m. tonight, Friday, March 25, in St. Luke's Chapel. This service usually lasts for an hour. "Taizé in Sewanee" is sponsored by All Saints' Chapel and is an interdenominational joint ministry of the School of Theology and the College. These services are rich with opportunities to worship God with silent meditation, reflection, prayer and song. All are welcome. Please contact Sarah Kelb at <kelbsd0@sewanee.edu> for additional information.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

Types of Hearing Loss

There are two general types of hearing loss. Conductive hearing loss is a medically treatable condition that involves a specific problem in the outer and/or middle ear that prevents sound from getting to the inner ear in a normal way (such as ear infections and wax buildup). Sensorineural hearing loss is a general term used to describe conditions of the inner ear that lead to some degree of hearing loss. As the common name for this condition suggests, "nerve deafness" results from damage to the hair cells of the inner ear or the nerves that supply it. In most cases persons with sensorineural hearing loss or nerve deafness experience difficulty understanding speech. Fortunately persons with this type of hearing loss can be helped with properly selected and fitted hearing instruments.

Your ability to hear is as unique as your fingertips. No two people have the exact same impairment. Age, inherited deafness, medical conditions, childhood and adult illness, and noise exposure can combine to produce different kinds of hearing losses in different people. We recommend the services of the audiologist at THE HEARING CENTER LLC when you need help with your hearing. We are located at 705B North Atlantic St., Tullahoma. Call us at 931-393-2051 or 888-303-2051. You can also visit our website at www.thehearingcenterllc.com.

C. S. Lewis Conference Saturday

At 1 p.m., Saturday, March 26, the University of the South and the School of Theology will begin its conference on C. S. Lewis. The focus of this conference is the recently published book, "The Cambridge Companion to C. S. Lewis," which was co-edited by Robert MacSwain, assistant professor of theology and Christian ethics.

Co-editor Michael Ward, chaplain of St. Peter's College, University of Oxford will deliver the opening address of the conference. Following that, four Sewanee professors—William E. Engel, James R. Peters, Robert Hughes III and Lauryl Tucker—will discuss different aspects of Lewis's legacy. The conference will conclude with a panel discussion between two of Lewis's former students: Brown Patterson and Christopher Bryan.

All events are in Guerry Auditorium.

"God and Alzheimer's Disease" Panel Discussion on April 7

Susan Rava, author of a new memoir of her 14 years as an Alzheimer's caregiver, and a panel including a theologian, a hospice counselor and a hospice chaplain, will discuss the spiritual needs of caregivers at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 7, in Hargrove Auditorium, Hamilton Hall.

The program, "God and Alzheimer's Disease," will also include Cynthia Crysedale, professor of Christian ethics and theology; Neil Flynn, a retired hospice counselor; and the Rev. Lou Parsons, who has provided spiritual counsel to families facing Alzheimer's Disease. The group will discuss pastoral and theological responses to the spiritual crises brought on by caregiving for dementia patients.

Rava chronicled her experiences as a primary caregiver for her parents and her husband's parents in her book, "Swimming Solo: A Daughter's Memoir of Her Parents, His Parents, and Alzheimer's Disease".

The event, co-sponsored by the School of Theology and Otey Memorial Parish, is free and open to the public.

Book Readings at Lorena's, Taylor's

Susan Rava, author of "Swimming Solo: A Daughter's Memoir of Her Parents, His Parents, and Alzheimer's Disease," will offer two readings of her memoir at local businesses.

At noon on Friday, April 8, she will read from her book at Lorena's in Monteagle. At 1 p.m. that day, she will have a reading at Taylor's Mercantile in Sewanee.

Rava, a retired professor of French and French literature at Washington University in St. Louis, will share her story of her 14 years as an Alzheimer's caregiver for four family members. Her book has been cited by reviewers for its emotional honesty and intelligent writing.

"Swimming Solo" is available for sale at Lorena's and Taylor's and from Amazon and Barnes & Noble's online bookstore.

Author Susan Rava

will discuss pastoral and theological responses to the spiritual crises brought on by caregiving for dementia patients.

"Swimming Solo" is published by Plateau Books <www.plateaubooks.com>, a small press owned by local residents Kathy and Henry Hamman. The book's cover is a painting by local artist Martha Carter Keeble.

Medieval Colloquium in April

Mark your calendars for this year's Sewanee Medieval Colloquium, which will begin Friday, April 8. The colloquium is an annual conference of medievalists from a range of disciplines. Lectures and papers this year are on the theme of "Voice, Gesture, Memory and Performance" in the Middle Ages.

Members of the Sewanee community are welcome and encouraged to attend lectures and conference sessions free of charge.

More information about the colloquium will follow in the coming weeks.

Goodstein Series Brings Historians to Campus

The annual Anita S. Goodstein Lecture in Women's History presents two lectures this year as a colloquium on "Religion, Slavery and Sexuality." An evening lecture Wednesday, March 30, will be followed by a second lecture and discussion Thursday afternoon, March 31.

Mia Bay, professor of history at Rutgers University, will give the evening lecture on "Eros, Faith and Bondage in the Antebellum South" at 7 p.m., Wednesday, March 30, in Convocation Hall. Bay is also the associate director of the Center for Race and Ethnicity. Her publications include "To Tell the Truth Freely: The Life of Ida B. Wells" and "The White Image in the Black Mind: African-American Ideas About White People 1830-1925."

Jennifer Glancy, professor of religious studies at LeMoyne College, will give a talk on "A Freedom to Desire: Religion, Slavery, and the Sexual Subject." Her talk will be at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, March 31, in Gailor Auditorium and will be followed by a round-table conversation with Mia Bay, moderated by Eric Thurman, assistant professor of religion at Sewanee. Glancy is the author of "Corporal Knowledge: Early Christian Bodies" and "Slavery in Early Christianity."

The Anita S. Goodstein Lectureship in Women's History was created in 1998 to recognize Goodstein's significant contributions as a professor, colleague and friend. Arriving in Sewanee in 1955, Goodstein began teaching as a history professor in the mid-1960s and continued until her retirement in 1992. By the time women were admitted to the college in 1969, Goodstein was known as a teacher who promoted academic excellence, encouraged intellectual freedom and inspired personal achievement.

Chemistry and Art Lecture on Degas to Honor Bordley

Barbara H. Berrie, senior conservation scientist with the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., will give a talk at 4:30 p.m., Thursday, March 31, in Blackman Auditorium in Woods Lab on the topic "Surface and Form: Analysis of Degas' Sculptures."

Berrie will be at Sewanee to participate in honoring the 41-year teaching career of John Lawson Bordley, Jr., F.B. Williams professor of chemistry. Bordley has taught general and physical chemistry in addition to developing the course "Chemistry and Art," a laboratory science course for non-science majors. Berrie's talk is sponsored by the chemistry department, the art and art history department and the University lectures committee.

In the spirit of crossing the boundaries between chemistry and art, Berrie will discuss her long-term collaboration at the National Gallery of Art with art historians, art conservator and fellow conservation scientists in analyzing the gallery's collection of Degas sculptures.

She is a contributor to the recently published book "Edgar Degas Sculpture" on the gallery's permanent collection of Degas sculptures.

While on campus, Berrie also will present a chemistry seminar titled "Science and Art: Molecules and Masterpieces" at 2:30 p.m. Friday, April 1, in Woods Labs room 216. The public is invited, and refreshments will be served.

EHH News

Employee Recognition

Emerald-Hodgson Hospital (EHH) named Sonya Simmons the employee honoree for February. Sonya joined the EHH team just six months ago and works in the house-keeping department. She lives in Winchester with her two daughters, Shauntia Cook, a junior at Franklin County High School, and Sontia Simmons, who works in the lab at Southern Tennessee Medical Center. Sonya spends her leisure hours enjoying her family and friends and taking long walks. She was selected for recognition in a random drawing among all employees having February birthdays. Sonya's award included use of a close-in parking space for the month and a gift basket with movie tickets and other goodies. Congratulations, Sonya Simmons!

State of the Hospital

EHH Administrator Ralph Underwood reported that "overall it was a very good volume month for the hospital." Utilization of EHH's facilities increased in all departments, except for the skilled care unit, where admissions were slightly lower than in February 2010. Observation visits were up by more than 50 percent compared to last year. General admissions rose by 6 percent, and outpatient and emergency room visits increased by 14 percent and 18 percent, respectively.

AT THE MOVIES

Sewanee Union Theatre This Week

Friday-Sunday, March 25-27, at 7:30 p.m.

How Do You Know?

121 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

Critics were not very kind to this superficial romantic comedy from veteran writer-director James L. Brooks (whose genius is responsible for television's "The Simpsons" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and movies such as "Broadcast News" and "Terms of Endearment"). Reese Witherspoon and Paul Rudd star as people who have each suffered a great disappointment, now looking for romance. Throw in Owen Wilson as their friend and Jack Nicholson as the adult in the picture, and you get a jumbled mess of a movie. One respected critic wrote, "Everything looks primed for civilized amusement, but somewhere along the way the laughs dropped off, together with the question mark in the title." Rated PG-13 for sexual content and some strong language.

Cinema Guild Next Week

Thursday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m.

Knife in the Water

94 minutes • Unrated • Free

"Knife in the Water" is controversial director Roman Polanski's first feature-length film, a tightly wound story about jealousy and sexual attraction. A wealthy married couple is bickering during an afternoon drive when a handsome young man jumps in front of their car. The wife invites the young man to join them, and the three head out on a sailboat, where the tension increases and tempers flare. Polanski received his first Academy Award nomination for "Knife in the Water," bringing him recognition outside of Poland and launching his career. Unrated, but intended for mature audiences.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week

Wednesday, Friday-Sunday, March 30, April 1-3, at 7:30 p.m.

The King's Speech

111 minutes • Rated R • Admission $3

One of 2010's finest movies, "The King's Speech" is deserving of all its many accolades, including the Academy Awards for best picture, director, original screenplay and actor. King George VI, known to his family as Bertie (Colin Firth), is thrust to the throne after his brother's scandalous abdication. But Bertie never wanted to be king, and his lifelong stammer paralyzes him in front of a microphone. His wife (Helena Bonham Carter) searching for a way to help him, finds eccentric speech therapist, Lionel Logue (Geoffrey Rush). Logue and the new king work together in unusual ways to overcome his speech impediment and form a friendship that changes both of their lives. Rush deserved an Oscar, too, for his remarkable performance. Rated R for one scene where Bertie shouts obscenities, but otherwise it would be PG. —LW

Carless Antenna to Play at Belvidere Market

Carless Antenna (Herschel Van-Dyke's blues and rock band), featuring Jay Faires (a name you will hear a lot about in the future) on lead guitar and vocals, will play at the Belvidere Market in Belvidere on Saturday, April 2, starting about 8:30 p.m. Sarah Mallory will be playing from 6:30 p.m. until Carless Antenna takes the stage.

Supper will be Bude's Too Good 4 Company BBQ. The Belvidere Market is about 5 miles west of Winchester out US 64. Turn onto Old Davy Crockett Highway and go into the town of Belvidere. Supper is priced very reasonable, soft drinks and beer are available, children are welcome.

Ladies of Cool Jazz Concert

Singer Kathy Kosins brings her concert, "Ladies of Cool: Julie London, June Christy and all the Ladies of Cool," to the South Jackson Civic Center, Tullahoma, at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, April 16, to help celebrate South Jackson's 32 years as a performing arts center.

Kosins sings vintage songs that are often not performed anymore.

"What she does with these tunes is respectful homage and radical re-interpretation," one reviewer said. She updates and personalizes these songs of the 1930s, '40s and '50s with a balance of swing and sensuality.

The New York Times said of Kosins, "She has a nonstandard choice of standards that is almost as winsome as her easygoing, swinging style. Kosins has that rare quality. Phrasing that's impeccable, indicative of a jazz great."

Kosins will also be having an exhibit of her artwork, "Jazz in The Abstract. Can you hear color? Can you see music?"

Tickets are $20 for adults and $10 for students and can be purchased at South Jackson Civic Center or by calling (931) 455-5321 for reservations.

"We packed the room with hundreds of students and had a blast!" said Will Evans. Will and Blount are both juniors at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, where they perform together and with other students. Nick is a 2010 graduate of the school.

The Culprits summer plans include playing at Musikfest in August, in Bethlehem, Penn. In its 27th year, Musikfest's 2011 lineup also includes Maroon 5, Steely Dan, Allison Kraus and Straight No Chaser.

The Culprits latest EP, "Around Around," is available from iTunes, cd-baby, and bandcamp. For more information, go to <www.theculpritsmusic.com>.

Cowan Center for the Arts presents Lon Eldridge on guitar and Ed Huey on harmonica at 7 p.m., Saturday, March 26. Tickets are $5 per person.

Eldridge was raised in Spring City, Tenn. His music is a unique blend of blues, with the rawness of the Delta, the intricacies of Piedmont blues, and borrowing from the influence of jazz, gospel and ragtime. He has shared the stage with artists including B.B. King, David Crowder Band, Dan Landrum, The Black Crowes and the Bon Ton Parade.

Huey plays the guitar, slide guitar, harmonica, mandolin and sings in Piedmont, Delta, Texas, Hokum and prewar harmonica styles.

Huey's blues roots reach back to hearing workers sing in the cotton fields across the road from his grandmother's house in Shreveport. While teaching in Yazoo City, Miss., Ed met Delta bluesman Son Thomas, who served as an artist-in-residence in Ed's music classes. Huey now lives in Chattanooga, where he teaches music. Hoping to keep the blues alive, he traveled back to the Delta with support from a Lyndhurst Foundation grant to record songs and document conversations with Delta artists.

Local Cookbook Signing, Food Documentary and Recipe Sampling

Celebrate the publication of a new seasonal cookbook at the recipe tasting and free screening of the film "Tableland" at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 29, at the Sewanee Community Center. While watching the film, guests can enjoy samples from recipes in "At Peace with the Seasons: Recipes for Sustainable Living from the Cumberland Plateau," a project of the Sustainable Consumerism Committee of the Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace (CCJP).

There is no charge for the film or recipe tasting. The 67 recipes included in "At Peace with the Seasons" feature ingredients that are available from Cumberland Plateau area farmers and gardeners. The attractive and conveniently indexed cookbook boasts a cover design and illustrations by local artist Arlyn Ende, along with tips on the benefits of eating seasonally available food raised locally.

The 78-minute documentary "Tableland" tracks the production of local and seasonal food from field to plate, celebrating the people, places and tastes of North American small-scale food production. Learn how to eat locally and why it's good for you and the earth. The film addresses the four issues that are the cornerstone of the local-food movement: sustainability, economics, health and seasonal availability. An award from the Sewanee Community Chest helped to make this free screening possible.

The recipe tasting will begin at 6:30 p.m., with the screening of "Tableland" to follow at 7 p.m. Copies of "At Peace with the Seasons" will be available at the event for a $12 donation. It may also be purchased through the Cumberland Farmer's Market <www.sewanee.locallygrown.net> or from CCJP by contacting Leslie Lytle via e-mail at <sllytle@blomand.net> or calling the CCJP office at 598-9979.

University Gallery Hosts Senior Art Show

The University Art Gallery will end the 2010-11 exhibition year with "A Plunge Beneath the Surface of the Visible," a selection of works by Sewanee's senior art majors.

The opening reception and artist talks will be at 4:30 p.m., Friday, April 15. The seniors will also be honored with a closing reception in the gallery on Saturday, May 14.

Seniors who have works in the show are: Caitlin Alderfer, Glenn Bingham, Elizabeth Blaney, Jack Dolci, Kelly Garrett, Carly Grimm, Lauren Maggart, Lizzie McCleskey, Hanna Moran, Mary Evelyn Pritchard, Kathryn Rogers, Elizabeth Shortridge and Alex White.

The title of the exhibition, "A Plunge Beneath the Surface of the Visible," is a quotation from Steven Millhauser's short story, "In the Reign of Harad IV," in which a maker of miniatures is compelled to create ever smaller and ever more challenging artwork, to the point where neither he nor his viewers can easily see its perfection. Full appreciation of the work requires seeing and understanding beyond "the surface of the visible."

For these graduating students, this story evokes the journey they have made during their time at Sewanee. Like the miniaturist in the story, these artists have been striving to create more and more challenging work. These 13 artists work in a variety of media. Mary Evelyn Pritchard, Lauren Maggart and Elizabeth Blaney use sculpture, video and multimedia installations. Jack Dolci combines sculpture and painting. Lizzie McCleskey works with both casting and ceramics. Glenn Bingham, Hanna Moran, Elizabeth Shortridge and Alex White are all painters, whose works show a broad range of styles and content. Both Caitlin Alderfer and Kathryn Rogers mix pictorial collage and painting. Kelly Garrett and Carly Grimm both draw and paint.

Sewanee's University Art Gallery is located at 68 Georgia Avenue. The gallery is free, accessible and open to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, and noon to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. Public parking is available behind Fulford Hall. For more information, call 598-1223.

May's exhibit, "Eat, Sleep, Clay" is on display at the SAS Gallery through March 31. The gallery's hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, and by appointment.

Founded in 1991 by Jane Goodall and a group of Tanzanian students, the Roots and Shoots program is about making positive change happen—for communities, for animals and for the environment. With tens of thousands of young people in 110 countries, the Roots and Shoots network connects youth of all ages, preschool to college, who share a desire to create a better world. Young people identify problems in their communities and take action. Roots and Shoots members are making a difference across the globe.

University Library Introduces New Software for Searches, Mobile Devices

The staff of duPont Library is excited to announce the availability of new software that will aid patrons as they continue to explore the library's resources.

After several months of preparation, community members are invited to try several new tools, including Encore Synergy, new discovery software; the classic online library catalog, which has a new design and added features; and AirPAC, the mobile version of the online catalog.

Encore Synergy is a tool that enables a person to search the contents of the library catalog along with several journal databases. The library currently offers integrated searching through Encore for JSTOR, Wilson OmniFile, LexisNexis Academic, and Academic OneFile. Additional databases will be forthcoming. Encore offers the latest features in online search and retrieval. Search results are ranked by relevance. Encore Synergy is linked from the library's home page or is available by going to <<http://encore.sewanee.edu>>.

The newly customized classic catalog is found at <<http://catalog.sewanee.edu>>. It indexes over 1.2 million titles, including print and electronic resources. In addition to the catalog's new format, a patron's account, now known as My Library, encompasses many new features. A person's name and University ID barcode will now serve as the login. Once logged in, patrons have the option to view their reading history, construct individualized reading lists, and create searches that trigger alerts when new materials matching the criteria are added to the library. Please note that the new login is used for remote access to our electronic databases.

Having observed the increasing number of patrons using mobile electronic devices, duPont Library has adopted the AirPAC software for mobile devices. From an iPhone, Droid, Blackberry, iPad, etc., one can see a mobile-friendly version of the classic catalog.

The transition process will continue over the next couple of weeks. They are moving the Serials and Acquisitions modules to the new catalog. During that time, if you have a question about the order status of a title or if a periodical volume has arrived, please consult Library staff.

For more information or questions about the new software, please call the reference staff line at 598-1368, send an e-mail to <askref@sewanee.edu> or contact Penny Cowan, digital systems librarian, at 598-1573 or <pcowan@sewanee.edu>. The library's staff will be offering introductory sessions for using the new library software during the next few weeks—watch for times and dates in upcoming issues of the Messenger.

Sewanee Pitcher Honored by National Writers

Last week's Tiger of the Week, Lee Schurlknight, a freshman pitcher for the Sewanee baseball team, was named the NCAA Division III National Pitcher of the Week for the week of March 7-13.

Schurlknight, who pitched Sewanee's and the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference's first no-hitter of the season on March 10, against Rust College, was honored after voting by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association (NCBWA). Schurlknight, a left-hander from Darlington, S.C., threw a no-hitter in a 19-0 win in the first game of a doubleheader. He worked a complete game, throwing seven innings, striking out 12, and walking just two while allowing no hits, to earn his first win in a Tiger uniform.

Schurlknight is also quarterback for the Tiger football team.

SAS Baseball Drops Season Opener to Grundy County

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School baseball team opened its 2011 regular season with a 10-3 loss to the Grundy County Yellow Jackets on Tuesday, March 22.

The visiting Yellow Jackets jumped out to an early lead as the Mountain Lions team struggled defensively. Grundy County scored two runs in the first inning on three hits and two SAS errors.

The Yellow Jackets extended their lead to 6-0 in the second inning as a single, a hit batter and another SAS error loaded the bases. A passed ball allowed a man to score. Yellow Jacket Nunley then tripled to bring in two more runs. Nunley then scored on a single by A. Nolan.

Grundy County scored another run in the third inning and completed their scoring in the fourth inning as D. McBee hit a two-run homer.

SAS scored one run in the fourth inning to cut the Grundy County lead to 10-1, as Justin Thomas began the inning with a walk, and Will Thomas singled to advance his brother to second. Pinch-runner Seth Morris then scored on a fielder's choice and an error by Grundy County.

The Mountain Lions scored twice in the fifth inning to complete the scoring. Sam Howick and Swade Mooney each singled, Justin Thomas was issued his second walk in the contest, and Evan Morris singled to tally two RBIs.

Swade Mooney was the tough-luck losing pitcher as he threw a complete game, giving up 11 hits, one walk and one hit batter, while striking out five Yellow Jackets.

For the day, Swade Mooney and Sam Howick each went 3-for-4, with Howick having two singles and a triple. Mooney had two doubles and a single and two RBIs. In addition, Will Thomas had a single and a long double in three plate appearances. Evan Morris went 1-3 with a single and two RBIs, and Justin Thomas coaxed two walks.

"Our players were disappointed as we just did not make some plays that we were capable of making," said SAS head coach James Barry. "Grundy County is a very sound team, and they were the better team."

Student-athletes Caroline Carlin, Mary Kate McAlister and Caroline Williams were named to the National Academic Squad.

The National Academic Team Award recognizes those institutions that have achieved a team GPA of 3.0 or higher during the first semester of the 2010-11 academic year.

Tigers of the Week: Anne Garland and Levi Joy

Sewanee tennis players Anne Garland and Levi Joy have been named Co-Tigers of the Week for play the week of March 14-20. Joy, a sophomore, and Garland, a sophomore, have helped lead the men's and women's tennis teams to overall records of 8-4 and 11-1, respectively.

While on the Tigers' West Coast spring break trip, Garland led the women to a 6-1 record on the week. She compiled a 10-1 combined record during the trip, going 6-0 in singles play and 4-1 in doubles. Garland picked up Sewanee's only point in a tough loss to Claremont-Mudd-Scripps.

According to Conchie Shackelford, women's tennis coach, "Anne is one of the most loved players on the team. Her teammates respect her work ethic, determination, team spirit and brevity. Anne had an incredible week in California, going 6-0 in singles and 4-1 in doubles."

Joy dominated the toughest moments of the Tigers' trip out West. He won two critical matches that sealed team wins against both Chapman University and Hope International University.

"Levi is the heart and soul of the Tigers. He truly is 'Mr. Clutch,' always coming through under pressure.

Levi's fitness and tenacity make him a very tough out in the third set," Shackelford said.

Honorable Mention was awarded to the following students: lacrosse players Jack Thomasson and Davis

Brown and baseball players Taylor Irwin and Jacob Simpson. Thomasson scored a total of four goals in the two games over the weekend, while Brown scored five goals in the Southwestern game.

Taylor finished the week 7 for 21 (.333). Simpson was the starting pitcher for two games last week. He allowed a combined 12 hits and zero earned runs. He struck out 23 batters while walking just three.

Overtime with Coach Shack

By John Shackelford

March Madness has a language of its own: One and done. Buzzer beaters. Diaper dandies. One shining moment. The Sweet Sixteen, the Elite Eight and the Final Four. Tip-offs, overtime, the double bonus. Beyond the 3-point arc, and "that one was from downtown," or maybe even "NBA range." Jimmer-mania. Touch fouls and "letting them play." Time for a T.O. and Syracuse's match-up zone. Good players are "Mister This" or "Mister That," maybe even a "man among boys." David vs. Goliath, a #12 vs. #5 match-up.

The NCAA basketball tournament has become the most fun three weeks in sports. Sixty-eight Division I teams on the men's side, all with a shot at glory and a chance for the big upset. CBS and Turner Sports will pay the NCAA $11 billion over the next 14 years to televise the NCAA basketball tournament we're all hooked on. Millions of people across the country have filled out brackets in office pools, and all have their favorite picks to win the tourney. As difficult as this is for me to admit, I usually have Duke going pretty far. When it comes to money, you have to bet with your head, not your heart.

Read that number again about the TV contract. $11 billion. This is not a misprint. The next time someone gets into a debate about whether there should be a National Championship in college football, remember that number. Who gets the money? Who controls the pie? In basketball, it is the NCAA. The football bowls and the BCS Conferences control their own money. If you want to know why division I football is the only sport where the NCAA does not pick a champion, it is not about the number of games, or missed class time, or the tradition of the bowls. It is about $11 billion. When Sewanee sends one of our Division III athletes or teams to the NCAA Championships, like Philip Link from our swim team is doing this week, the NCAA has allowed a fraction of that CBS TV contract to trickle down to Division III schools to pay for Philip and Coach Max Obermiller's trip to Knoxville. That money is what allows national championships for smaller schools like Sewanee to happen. Schools like us do not see one penny from college football.

My good friend in Chattanooga, John Guerry, whose father Alexander Guerry was Vice-Chancellor and President of Sewanee in the 1940s, has always referred to Division III athletics as "non-subsidized athletics." Athletes who attend college without their tuition being subsidized because of their athletic abilities is the principle that Division III athletics was founded on. I don't have a $6 million deal, and my players aren't referred to as "Mister" very often until they are out running their own companies. They aren't "one and done" like the basketball players in March. Most of Sewanee athletes usually take around four years to graduate. We are closer to David than Goliath in most of our games, and our shining moments usually happen just beyond the reach of the television camera. In my office, I have a photo of our women's tennis team rushing the court and hugging in a giant huddle after they pulled off a big upset in the 2007 NCAA tournament against four-time defending national champion Emory on our own courts. Several of those girls graduated one week later. After walking out of All Saints' Chapel for the last time and hugging their families goodbye, they boarded a van headed for Virginia, where they reached their own Final Four.

We will watch a few teams rush the court this week and hug in a giant pile. It is a wonderful feeling. But $11 billion and having it on TV will not make it any sweeter. When Philip Link dives into the water this week at the NCAA Championship representing Sewanee, he will feel just like those basketball heroes we will cheer for (or against, if they are from Duke) these next two weeks. Link's efforts, however, will be subsidized only by all our good wishes and support from this Mountain.

Nature Notes

Yellow Trout-Lily

Shakerag is Blooming

On March 18, Jean Yeatman and daughter Jean went in two cars to Shakerag Hollow to record and photograph wildflowers. They left one car at Green's View and took the other to the parking area at the University gates. There they started the walk down into the Hollow. Hepatica in shades of white, lavender and pink was in bloom. The Broad-leafed Spring Beauty added white flowers to the ground. The large, many-petaled White Bloodroot bleeds red if the roots are injured. Sessile Trillium (T. cuneatum) is up and blooming, as are the Long-spur and Yellow Violets. Even Dutchman's Breeches with its shapely blooms is here. Tiny white Pepper-and-Salt tries to be respectable. Yellow Trout-Lily (once was called Dog-tooth Violet), Blue Cohosh and Spice Bush added to the taller plants. Broadleaf Dentaria was also noted; another name is Toothwort because the petals are narrow like canine teeth. When they reached Green's View, they took the waiting car to rejoin the other car. Many other kinds of flowers will bloom soon.

Dutchman's Breeches

Daytime Barred Owl

Although owls are normally nocturnal, the Barred Owl is the North American owl most likely to be seen during daylight. On the afternoon of March 20, John Willis saw this Barred Owl working its way around Running Knob Hollow Lake. It swooped to the ground in pursuit of a small rodent, then took up a perch in a nearby pine tree, where it remained until nightfall. Its distinctive call has led many to refer to the Barred Owl as "the hoot owl." Despite human efforts to engage this owl in conversation Sunday afternoon, the bird didn't give a hoot.

Smith Appointed to Cherokee National Forest Board

Ken Smith, professor of forestry and geology, has been appointed to serve a four-year term on the Cherokee National Forest's Resource Advisory Committee by Tom Vilsack, the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Smith was nominated for the position by the U.S. Forest Service's regional forest supervisor for the southern region. The committee was established to improve collaborative relationships between the Forest Service and local communities, and to provide advice and recommendations for projects proposed for funding. This year, Smith will work closely with representatives from the Cherokee National Forest, as well as the Cocke and Monroe county administrations in east Tennessee, to allocate $124,000 in funds for projects designed to improve water quality, rural roads and recreational facilities.

This is not Smith's first federal appointment. Last May President Barack Obama named Smith to the Board of Directors of the Valles Caldera Trust, which oversees the activities of the Valles Caldera National Preserve in New Mexico.

From Bard to Verse

by Scott and Phoebe Bates in time of daffodils(who know the goal of living is to grow) forgetting why, remember how in time of lilacs who proclaim the aim of waking is to dream, remember so(forgetting seem)

in time of roses(who amaze our now and here with paradise) forgetting if, remember yes in time of all sweet things beyond whatever mind may comprehend, remember seek(forgetting find) and in a mystery to be (when time from time shall set us free)

forgetting me,remember me

Save Rainwater!

Toilets are the largest water users in your home. If your home was built before 1992, consider replacing your toilets with 1.6 gallon-per-flush toilets. Purchase the best quality toilet you can afford or you may have to flush multiple times.
