Ebey to Run for County Commission

Sherwood Ebey of Sewanee has announced that he is a candidate for Franklin County Commission seat 5-B. Franklin County's general election is on Aug. 2.

Ebey is currently filling this seat on the commission by appointment after the death of Arthur Knoll.

In August, the winner of the election for seat 5-B will serve the two years remaining on Knoll's term.

Franklin County District 5 consists of three precincts: Sewanee, Sherwood and Keith Springs.

"I am particularly concerned that our schools be adequately supported by the county government," Ebey said. "I am now serving on the Schools Committee of the county commission. A recent study by the Board of Education indicates that Sewanee Elementary School is needing major repairs and renovations," he said. "I will do all I can to follow through on this issue."

Ebey has lived in Sewanee for 44 years; in 2000, he retired as professor of mathematics at the University.

His previous public service includes being elected twice to the board of the Sewanee Utility District. Ebey served six years as SUD's president, 1996–2001.

Ebey has submitted the required petition so that he will be on the ballot.

SUD Earns Top Rating on Sanitary Survey

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the March 27 meeting of the board of commissioners of the Sewanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties, SUD manager Ben Beavers announced the results of the state sanitary survey. Beavers also reported on his investigation into the cause of the high water loss observed recently.

Every two years the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation conducts a sanitary survey at all public water utilities. SUD received a score of 98 percent in the 2012 survey, the highest rating reported so far in the Columbia field office division. In the last survey, SUD was cited for a cross-connection record-keeping violation.

At the February commissioners meeting, Beavers reported that water loss was unusually high. Looking at past trends, Beavers discovered that water loss was stable at 15–20 percent from 1996–2005, spiked to 25 percent in 2006–07, then dropped back down until recently. Water loss—the difference between water pumped from the water plant and water recorded in metering—is again at 25 percent. The actual gallons lost, however, has remained stable. Based on this, Beavers speculated the water loss was due to faulty meters.

"In the past, meters were rated for a lifespan of three to five million gallons. That rating has dropped to one million gallons," Beavers said. Beavers plans to undertake a meter check. The meters were last checked four or five years ago. Many of the meters on the SUD system have passed the three-million gallon mark. Beavers pointed to the decrease in sewer sales compared to 2011 as an indication that the faulty meters are likely located on the Domain. (Nearly all of SUD's sewer customers are located on the Domain, and sewer charges are based on metered water charges.)

Looking ahead, Beavers said SUD may need to double its budget for meter replacement. At the present, SUD is not paid for 25 percent of the water it processes. His goal is to reduce the water loss level to 15–20 percent. If a public utility's water loss exceeds 35 percent, the state mandates remedial action.

Commissioner Ken Smith presented an overview of the budget for the build-out study, which will determine the demands on SUD's resources over the next 20–50 years if homes were constructed on all the available lots. The proposed budget of $3,700 includes $3,000 for a 10–12 week student internship and $700 to acquire data from the state.

The next meeting of the SUD board of commissioners is scheduled for 5 p.m., April 24.

State Changes Teacher Evaluation Process Again

by K.G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

The Tennessee Department of Education has recently changed the professionalism component of the teacher evaluations. Teachers are expected to document what they did to support their professionalism assessment. Changes also include the way teachers are scored on this evaluation.

These changes are for every educator, whether they are teachers, library media specialists or school support personnel.

"We have gone through almost two-thirds of the school year and now they change the professionalism evaluation? Teachers and principals are expected to go back and document everything they have done for the entire school year," said a local educator. "What the state is doing is not right."

"At the beginning of the process teachers could answer the 10 items on the evaluation with 'rarely, sometimes or often,'" said Rebecca Sharber, director of schools.

Now, each of the 10 performance standards is evaluated by the criteria "significantly above expectations (5)," "at expectations (3)" or "significantly below expectations (1)." Teachers also must present supporting evidence for each of the standards to the principal

SVFD New Ladder Truck

Members of the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department were joined by the newly formed Fire Department Advisory Board and the University executive staff for the March 27 dedication of the Fire Department's new 105-foot aerial ladder truck.

Fire Chief David Green and SVFD Advisory Board Chair Gerald Smith offered remarks on the fire department's history and long-term goals at the event, as did Vice-Chancellor John McCardell. University Chaplain Tom Macfie offered a prayer for the firefighters and the safe use of this new piece of equipment.

Tower One, a Metz Aerial ladder truck, was acquired in an even trade for Ladder One, the Fire Department's former ladder truck, earlier this year. With this new rig, firefighters can reach the top of any building in Franklin County, a feat they could not achieve previously.

The flag flying from the ladder was a gift from Rory Kent, who was a member of the fire department as a student and currently serves in the U.S. Marines. The flag was flown in Afghanistan before it was given to the SVFD.

Council Considers EMS Boundaries, Airport Beacon

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

More than 30 visitors attended the March 26 Sewanee Community Council meeting, anticipating discussion about ambulance service boundaries and possible remedial measures to minimize light pollution from the new airport beacon. In other business, spring cleanup plans were announced, and the urban planner Project for Public Spaces presented an overview of their approach to developing a vision and program plan for the Sewanee Village.

Council representative Annie Armour introduced and provided background on the ambulance service issue. In 2009, the council passed a resolution in support of dispatching the nearest ambulance to answer emergency calls. Endorsing the council's resolution, the Franklin County Commission ruled that the for-profit EMS service Rural Metro be dispatched to Franklin County calls located in the valley, with Grundy EMS and Sewanee EMS responding to calls on the Mountain. Armour noted that when students were not on campus during holidays and the summer, a shortage of volunteers sometimes resulted in Sewanee EMS being unable to respond.

Police Chief Robert White said that the policy of the police department has been to contact Sewanee EMS for emergencies on the Domain and Grundy EMS for off-Domain calls, except during times when Sewanee EMS might be short on volunteers.

Representing Sewanee EMS, Tyler Cooney cited an instance last summer when Sewanee EMS volunteers were available to respond to a call in Jump Off, but a Grundy EMS ambulance located in Coalmont was dispatched to the call, resulting in a much longer response time than if Sewanee EMS had been dispatched.

Chief White said that as a result of that incident, on February 14 the

Friday School Tradition Continues at SES

The 36th annual Friday School at Sewanee Elementary is underway. The program is a much-anticipated break from the normal routine at school.

SES students get to choose from a wide variety of special classes. Parents, community members and University students teach these Friday School classes. This year, the SES students got to select from 30 classes such as chemistry, computers, French, fire safety, football, gymnastics and horse care.

During the first session, March 23, the SES students gleefully went to their assigned class.

"I can't wait to learn about dogs," said one student in the dog care class. "I am going to be a fireman when I grow up," said another student as he donned a fireman's helmet and stood by the fire truck.

"I get to learn how to play basketball. I have never tried it," said another student. "I might be good at it."

Other sessions include: jewelry-making, yoga, crochet, modern dance, origami, photography, biking and architectural model-making.

Friday School takes place today, March 30, and continues on April 13 and 20.

"DON'T METH WITH US"

To the Editor:

As president of the Rotary Club of Monteagle-Sewanee, I want to take this opportunity to thank the corporate sponsors who have helped to launch our "Don't Meth With Us" service project. This project is an attempt to provide methamphetamine awareness to fifth-grade students, initially in Sewanee, and subsequently, in April in Monteagle Elementary School.

On March 9, the Sewanee Elementary students heard a passionate story from a courageous young lady whose family has been directly impacted by meth use. In addition, all the fifth-grade students received a "Don't Meth With Us" T-shirt, and a Rotary "4-Way Test" coin. On the back of each T-shirt, the following corporate sponsors were recognized for their very generous gifts to support this important Rotary project:

University Dental, Citizens Tri-County Bank, Shenanigans, Gooch-Beasley Realtors, Sewanee Family Practice, Mountain Outfitters, Sewanee Pediatrics, Mollica Construction, Duck River Electric and Piggly Wiggly.

On behalf of the Rotary Club, the area fifth-grade students, and the community, we thank these corporate sponsors for their partnership with us, and for their recognition of the need to provide this awareness to our area schools and their students.

HELP FOR LOST BOY

To the Editor:

For the last 4 years, several of us have sponsored one of the Lost Boys of the Sudan, removing him from a refugee camp and sending him through high school in Kenya. James Ayom, in his 20s, cousin of fellow Lost Boy Peter Manyang, who graduated from Sewanee several years ago, is now beginning a college program.

The cost of education there is incredibly low, but with the current economy, we are struggling to reach the necessary $2,000. If you are interested in participating at any level

GREAT OPENING FOR COWAN EXHIBIT

To the Editor:

The opening day, Saturday, March 10, of "The Way We Worked," the Smithsonian Exhibit in Cowan, was a great success due to a lot of volunteers working very long hours to make this exhibit happen.

The Smithsonian Planning Committee and the Cowan Railroad Museum would like to thank the Cowan churches for the tasty cookies, punch and serving of goodies, the Sons of Confederate Veterans and their cannon crew, the United Daughters of the Confederacy in their Southern belle fashions, and the crafters, who gave all visitors a real treat watching the demonstrations given by weavers, spinning wheels, wood carving, the running of different machines, old sewing machines, old guns and blacksmithing. The exhibit continues through April 21.

Thank you everyone for helping.

On Sunday, April 1, Growing in Grace welcomes guest speaker the Rev. Kammy Young, director of contextual education at the School of Theology. The service begins at 6:30 p.m., in All Saints' Chapel. GiG will continue the semester's theme, "Sitting with God in the Darkness." This informal Eucharist is open to everyone. Contact <coutten@sewanee.edu> with any questions.

The Catechumenate will meet at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 4, in the Bairnwick Women's Center for dinner catered by Julia's and a final Lectio Divina. Compline, a short prayer service, concludes the evening at 8:15 p.m.

Christ Church, Monteagle

Christ Church's service on Sunday, April 1 begins with the blessing of the palms at 10:30 a.m. The reading of the story of Palm Sunday will follow, as well as Holy Communion and a reading of the Passion narrative. A luncheon will follow the service.

First Baptist, Monteagle

"Sewanee Praise" will sing at the 11 a.m. service on Sunday, April 1, at First Baptist Church in Monteagle. Everyone is welcome to hear this amazing group of talented college students sing praise and gospel music.

Otey Memorial Parish Church

Otey Parish will celebrate the Liturgy of the Palms at both the 8:50 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. services. Between services, adults are invited for coffee and fellowship in the Parish Hall. Children in Godly Play (ages 3–11) will be making thank-you cards for their Sundayschool teachers. The lectionary class, led by Pete Trenchi, will explore Mark 15:1-47.

Tracy City Methodist Easter Cantata

Tracy City First United Methodist Church choir will present an Easter Cantata at the 11 a.m. worship service on Sunday, April 1, and also at 7 p.m. on Monday, April 2. The church is located at 106 16th St. in Tracy City. (From Hwy. 41, turn right at second traffic light in Tracy City, look for church on hill on right, at about 3 blocks.)

Events & Lectures

Medieval Colloquium Friday and Saturday

The 39th annual Sewanee Medieval Colloquium will take place on Friday and Saturday, March 30–31. Plenary lecturers are two renowned historians, Peter Brown and Thomas N. Bisson. Brown's lecture for the colloquium, "Constantine, Eusebius and the Future of Christianity," will be at 3:30 p.m., Friday, March 30, in Convocation Hall (please note this new location). Bisson's lecture is "Power and Lordship in the Norman Anonymous" and will be at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, March 31, in Gailor Auditorium.

In addition to the plenary lectures, the colloquium will feature 50 short papers. For the full schedule, go to <www.sewanee.edu/medieval/main.html>.

"The Way We Worked" Lectures This Week

In conjunction with "The Way We Worked," there will be two lectures this week: 4 p.m., Sunday, April 1—Tom Knowles, "Railroading in and through Cowan," and 7 p.m., Thursday, April 5—Film Night: "Rising from the Rails." "The Way We Worked," a Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibition, will be on display at the Cowan Center for the Arts 4–7 p.m. on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, 10 a.m.–4 p.m. on Saturdays, and 1–4 p.m. on Sundays until April 21.

"Kony 2012" Screening in Sewanee

A screening of the film "Kony 2012" will be at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, April 1, at the Community Center. The event is sponsored by Students Positively Organized Together (SPOT) and the Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace. SPOT will provide light refreshments.

"Kony 2012" is a video created by the organization Invisible Children about the rebel army led by Joseph Kony that has attacked civilians and abducted children in the Democratic Republic of Congo, Central African Republic, and South Sudan.

Rural Health Care Lecture Monday

Bruce Behringer, deputy commissioner for continuous improvement and training at the Tennessee Department of Health, will talk on the contemporary dilemmas of rural health care at 4:30 p.m., Monday, April 2, in Gailor Auditorium. This event is free and open to the public, and sponsored by Sewanee's Community Engaged Learning Program.

Behringer previously worked at East Tennessee State University; his responsibilities included encouraging and participating in local community-based participatory research on issues of Appalachian health disparities. For more information, contact Jim Peterman at <jfpeterm@sewanee.edu> or 598-1482.

"The Forest Unseen" Lecture by Haskell

David G. Haskell, professor of biology at the University, will give a lecture on his book, "The Forest Unseen," at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 3, in Convocation Hall. The book is Haskell's examination of a year in the life of one square meter of forest in Sewanee's Shakerag Hollow. Through this window, he explores the ecology, evolution and conservation of the creatures living in the forest.

Haskell, who is speaking to audiences across the country this spring, was named the Tennessee Professor of the Year in 2009 by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. "The Forest Unseen" has received excellent reviews by the Wall Street Journal, Atlanta Journal Constitution, Seattle Times and other publications.

The lecture is sponsored by the University's department of biology and Environmental Studies Program.

Friday Math Talk Honors Priestley

"A Celebration of Euler: A Talk in Honor of Mac Priestley" will be given by William Dunham, Koehler Professor of Mathematics at Muhlenberg College, at 4 p.m., Friday, April 6, in Gailor Auditorium. Leonhard

Euler (1707-1783), is among history's greatest mathematicians. The talk is sponsored by the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science and the University Lectures Committee.

Peace Vigil on Friday

The Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace will host a peace vigil calling for an end to U.S. military action in Afghanistan at 5 p.m., Friday, April 6, on the corner of University Avenue and Highway 41A, across from the Sewanee Market. Signs calling for peace will be available at the vigil site. Participants may park in the Sewanee Gardener' Market lot at the corner of Highway 41A and Hawkins Lane. For more information contact Leslie Lytle at 598-9979 or email <sllytle@blomand.net>.

Ad Exec Lectures on Creativity in Business

Joey Reiman, founder and CEO of BrightHouse, a marketing and creative consulting firm, is the Graham Executive in Residence for the Easter semester. He will give a public lecture at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 10, in Gailor Auditorium on the topic "The Story of Purpose: A New Chapter for Business and Life." The lecture, sponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce, is free and open to the public.

BrightHouse, based in Atlanta, helped develop Sewanee's 10 percent tuition-reduction marketing campaign. Its clients also include Coca-Cola, Rubbermaid, Proctor & Gamble, and Estée Lauder.

Reiman, a veteran advertising executive, left his successful traditional advertising agency in the mid-1990s to build BrightHouse, which sells its consulting services rather than relying on revenues from advertising placement. Reiman's argument for the shift was that advertising agencies essentially give their ideas away for free.

or evaluator.

"This is something that we should have had at the beginning of the school year, not in the last weeks of the school year," Sharber said.

Educators are expected to "recreate backwards" what they have done according to another local educator. "We have to document what we have done professionally since May 1, 2011, and turn in our portfolio May 1, 2012. In order to get a "3" [at expectations] on this evaluation, we have to have 30 pieces of evidence, or three per indicator."

"We are being treated as if we don't know what we are doing. We are professional educators. Now we have to prove that we are professionals. Instead of doing something because it is the right thing to do, or attending a lecture because you are interested in the topic, it looks as if you are doing it because you need a page of evidence in a book," said another local educator.

Teachers are currently evaluated on both qualitative and quantitative measures. Professionalism is one of four components included in the 50 percent qualitative or observation score. The other observation components include planning, environment and instruction. The other 50 percent quantitative evaluation comes from student test scores and achievement growth.

The earlier TEAM Professionalism Report included 10 performance standards with four domains: growing and developing professionally, reflecting on teaching, community involvement and school responsibilities. For this version, go to: <www.team-tn.org/assets/misc/TEAM%20Professionalism%20Rating%20Report.pdf>.

In the latest TEAM Professionalism Rubric, the growing and developing professionally domain has three performance standards, which includes three choices each. Reflecting on teaching has three performance standards with three choices each. Community involvement has one performance standard and three choices. School responsibilities domain has three performance standards and three choices each. See: <<http://www.fcstn.net/EVALUATION%20PROCESS%20UPDATES.html>>.

The suggested ways of demonstrating professionalism with the new rubric is lengthy. The examples given on the website include 30 suggested items for the growing and developing professionally portion. Reflecting on teaching and the community involvement area each have eight suggested items. The school responsibilities domain has 18 suggested examples. Teachers are encouraged to speak with their principals if they have additional ideas in order to display evidence.

"Getting a 'S' on the entire professionalism rubric is going to be very hard," Sharber said.

Asked if she approves of the overall evaluation process, Sharber responded, "The evaluation process is a good thing. It is the way the state has implemented the process that is the problem."

police department adopted a policy to dispatch both Sewanee and Grundy EMS if Grundy EMS was not in the area. Jerry Forster, University chief financial officer, offered to mediate a discussion among the Grundy EMS, Sewanee EMS and the Sewanee police department to clarify the policy. Forster will report to the council at the next meeting.

Following up on the February 27 discussion about how to reduce light pollution from the airport beacon, Sewanee Airport Manager Rebecca Gibson said installing a lower intensity bulb would require major re-engineering of the equipment.

Citing an innovative approach, Gibson said another community airport planned to install a pilot-controlled beacon system so that pilots activate the beacon as needed, but the acceptability of the untested technology has yet to be determined. Reducing the beacon's intensity by altering the angle is also being explored. Vice-Chancellor John McCardell will appoint a study group to research the beacon issue.

Council representative Pam Byerly announced a spring cleanup scheduled for 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday, March 31. Byerly will distribute trash bags in front of the University Book and Supply Store. The filled bags may be left at the roadside on University Avenue and will be picked up by the Franklin County Sheriff's Department. The cleanup is being held in memory of Arthur Knoll, a longtime advocate of the spring cleanup campaign.

Forster introduced Project for Public Space representative Philip Myrick. The company will team with Celebration Associates to develop a vision and program plan for the Sewanee village.

Project for Public Space specializes in "helping communities rediscover a sense of place" and "place making"—"making a place somewhere you never want to leave."

Celebration Associate's focus is on addressing the question, "Who are you trying to attract and why?" The planning teams are hosting community meetings to gather data and return in the summer with recommendations.

The next community council meeting is scheduled for Monday, April 23.

Senior Center News

Volunteers Needed

The center can always use more volunteers in helping in the kitchen and as drivers to deliver meals. If you would like to be a volunteer, please call Bill Keller, (931) 808-6748, or Bonnie Green, 598-0070.

Regular Activities

The center offers the following activities each week: Mondays and Thursdays—chair exercise at 10:30 a.m.; Tuesdays—bingo with prizes at 10:30 a.m.; Wednesdays—storytelling/writing at 10 a.m.; Fridays—games all morning starting at 10 a.m. (bridge, Scrabble or a game of your choice). All activities are free, and everyone is welcome.

Senior Menus

The Sewanee Senior Center serves lunch at noon Monday through Friday. The suggested donation is $3 (50 or older) or $5 (under 50). Please call by 10:30 a.m. to order lunch.

April 2: Chicken casserole, mashed potatoes, green peas, roll, dessert.

April 3: Meatloaf, macaroni and cheese, greens, cornbread, dessert.

April 4: Spaghetti and meatballs, salad, garlic bread, dessert.

April 5: Potato soup, ham sandwich, dessert.

April 6: Hamburger, home fries, slaw, dessert.

Menus may vary.

The center is located at 5 Ball Park Rd. (behind the Sewanee Market). To reserve a meal or for more information about any of the programs, call the center at 598-0771.

New Tai Chi Classes

Tai Chi will continue in the spring of 2012, with new movements to learn for those who have completed the 12-week series. Beginners will meet on Wednesday and continuing participants will meet on Tuesdays or Thursdays. All classes are at the Sewanee Community Center.

Beginners will start a new series of the Arthritis Foundation Tai Chi Program, 9–10 a.m., Wednesdays, beginning April 4. This is a 12-lesson, 12-week series of classes. A $5 class donation is suggested.

On April 18 and subsequent Tuesdays at 10:30–11:30 a.m., continuing players will begin learning Tai Chi for Arthritis 2. This time is for those who have already completed the 12-lesson program and wish to add a new series of moves.

On Thursdays, 10:30–11:30 a.m., is an ongoing group of continuing players who have completed both the original 12-lesson program and the Arthritis 2 classes.

This program is designed for anyone seeking a joint-safe exercise routine, particularly for those with mild to moderate arthritis. The 12-lesson program was developed by Dr. Paul Lam and is easy to learn. A trained and certified instructor of the Arthritis Foundation leads each class. All ages and abilities are welcome to attend, whether or not you have arthritis. Tai Chi exercises the entire body, is easy and inexpensive to learn and is suitable for almost anyone. Tai Chi uses gentle, slow, rhythmic movements to integrate body and mind, improve balance, flexibility, mobility, and mental relaxation.

For more information contact Kathleen O'Donohue, a trained and certified instructor, at 598-0303 or by email at <katodpa@yahoo.com>.

A VIEW FROM THE DUMP

by Francis Walter

Our Sewanee Dump is clean. Yes, if you disallow on windy days when trucks come to empty the bins. Then plastic bags break loose, crowding up along the cyclone fence like dogs at a pound when someone comes who might adopt them.

Usually the hard-packed gravel is pristine. The bins are arranged to make off-loading easy.

The Dump is well run. When I moved to Sewanee 10 years ago the Dump was run by an older man, a no-nonsense man of few words. He hated for the three doors on the plastic-paper-plastic bin to be left open. One day he yelled at me clear across the yard, "CLOSE THAT."

I had forgotten what my father taught me: If a gate is open, leave it open; if it's closed, close it behind you.

Another day when the man was in a better mood, I asked him why the doors should always be closed.

"I don't want paper and plastic blowing around so I have to pick it up."

This was so reasonable that I forgave his being curt and grumpy. Always trying to justify my behavior, I told myself that when he had yelled at me, the bin was almost empty; the paper was so far down it couldn't blow out.

Then my natural desire to have a rule kicked in. If it was left to each free agent to decide when the level of paper was just high enough to blow out (weather conditions to be factored in), paper and plastic would often be blowing around. The County must be designated to decide and regulate. Sons and Daughters of Liberty, think on this.

The older guy is dead now; another rules the Dump. It is still clean, but there is no yelling. When bins are full, the new man walks over to remind us to keep the doors shut or he will simply do it himself. Our Sewanee Dump remains clean.

Spring Cleaning for the Soul

A day-long health workshop organized by Lucie Carlson and Jeannine Clements will be on Sunday, April 15, at the Edgeworth Inn in the Monteagle Assembly.

The day will start with a Naam yoga class and continue with a lecture about Reiki. Some of Naam Yoga's benefits include reducing anxiety and depression, raising energy levels, balancing the glandular, digestive and nervous systems, strengthening the immune system and relieving chronic pain. Reiki is a healing practice that treats the whole person.

The afternoon program will include balancing chakras with Kundalini yoga and healing live music performed by Rachel Schlafer-Parton. Chakras are energy centers located along the spine—spinning vortexes, each radiating a particular energy that is important to health, happiness and well-being.

The price of $70 for the day (pre-registered) will include a vegetarian lunch with music by Cricket and Snail. For registration or more information contact Carlson at (865) 591-0012 or email <lucie.carlson@gmail.com> or Clements at (931) 924-4000 or <jeannineclements@mac.com>.

The Clover Bowl winning team at Sewanee Elementary School was comprised of fifth-graders (front) Maggie Vaughn, John Beavers, (back) Madeleine Wiedemann and Kenneth Dykes. The Clover Bowl is a project of 4-H. Students answer questions on topics such as Tennessee history, science, nutrition, 4-H and agriculture. The SES team will compete next against other teams in Franklin County.

School Calendar Change for 2012–13 Year

Franklin County School Board considered the 2012–13 calendar at its recent meeting and voted to give students a day off to attend the county fair.

Thursday, Aug. 23, will be an administrative day for teachers and a non-school day for students so they may attend the Franklin County Fair.

In making this decision, other parts of next year's school calendar were affected. The day after Memorial Day (Tuesday, May 28, 2013) will be the last day of school, a shortened day for students and the last day of school for teachers. These adjustments are reflected on the Franklin County Schools website, <http://franklincountyschools.k12tn.net>.

FCHS Sports Program Sanctioned

Franklin County High School's girls' basketball program has been sanctioned after an investigation by the Tennessee Secondary Schools Athletic Association (TSSAA). The violation was a recruiting regulation. FCHS provided all requested information, including materials to support its argument that there had been no violation because the investigation involved students who were already scheduled to attend Franklin County High School.

TSSAA's sanctions for the FCHS girls' basketball program include:

- The head coach will be suspended from the first two games of the 2012–13 basketball season.
- The girls' basketball program will be on probation from March 20, 2012, through March 20, 2014, and fined $1,000.
- During the probationary period the school may participate in girls' basketball at all levels including the season-ending tournament series.
- During the period of probation the girls' basketball program of FCHS may not have any activities such as "middle school nights" or initiate any communication with coaches or players at the middle-school level.
- During the first year of probation the FCHS girls' basketball program will be permitted a maximum of five days of practice in the summer period that permits practice, but may not participate in any competition with other school teams, including scrimmages, camps, etc.

During the first year of probation the FCHS girls' basketball program will not be permitted any preseason scrimmages or scrimmage dates.

During the first year of probation the girls' basketball program of FCHS may not participate in any jamborees, Hall of Champions games or any invitational tournaments. They may participate in a maximum of 24 games.

Easter Egg Hunt Saturday

The 31st annual South Cumberland State Park Easter egg hunt will be held at 10 a.m., Saturday, March 31, at the visitor center on U.S. 41 in Monteagle.

John Christof, park manager, and Jason Reynolds, interpretive specialist will be masters of ceremony for the event.

The event, for children walking age and up, will have five age categories, with four prizes awarded in each group to children finding the prize eggs. There will be no “most eggs found” competition. Adults will only be allowed to assist toddler hunters in the “walking to age 2” group.

Everyone is asked to travel slowly and follow parking attendants' directions upon entering the main gate. Participants should arrive 9–9:30 a.m. and proceed to the ballfield for hunt instructions. In case of rain, the program will be rescheduled for 1 p.m. on Sunday, April 1. The Friends of South Cumberland State Recreation Area is sponsoring the event.

Teacher Evaluations Will Remain Private

by K.G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

The state legislation that would have allowed the public to see the final teacher evaluation scores has been stopped. Sen. Jim Tracy, R-Shelbyville, is the sponsor of SB1447 (a companion measure is moving through the state House) that will require the teacher evaluation scores to remain private. Tracy's legislation is in response to HB2910/SB2896, which proposed that the Department of Education include in its annual report both the number and the percentage of teachers scoring each possible effectiveness rating on teacher evaluations. The public would have been allowed to see the final teacher evaluations by this summer.

“The evaluation scores should be kept private between the teachers, the principal and the governing body,” said Sewanee Elementary principal Mike Maxon. “The evaluation process has changed and keeps changing almost every week. Teachers do not have confidence in the scores because of how the evaluation system has been implemented. This information should be kept between employer and the employee until the system becomes more concrete.”

Teacher evaluations are based on 50 percent qualitative and 50 percent quantitative measures. The 50 percent qualitative evaluation includes observations of the classroom, review of prior evaluations, and other components such as planning, environment, professionalism and instruction.

The rest of the teacher evaluations are based on a 50 percent quantitative student academic achievement. The student achievement evaluation includes a 35 percent Tennessee Value-Added Assessment System (TVAAS) student growth measure and 15 percent other student achievement selected by the teacher and supervisor. Those achievement measures could include school-wide or individual TVAAS data and ACT/SAT assessments.

For teachers in non-tested grades and subjects, such as library, fine arts or early grades, their quantitative evaluations can include overall, literacy, math or math/literacy school-level TVASS growth scores, depending on the grade or specialty they teach.

Evans Named UVa Scholar

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School senior Will Evans has been named a Jefferson Scholar at the University of Virginia, one of the most prestigious undergraduate scholarships available.

Evans, the son of professor Jon Evans and Dr. Amy Evans of Sewanee, is a seven-year day student at SAS. He is a High Honors student who has maintained the highest GPA in his class throughout his high school career. Evans is president of the school's Cum Laude Society, an Eagle Scout and a state-ranked swimmer. He is also the drummer of the Culprits, a Sewanee-based indie pop band.

University of Virginia is one of the many school's Evans is considering. “I will be putting a lot of thought into the decision,” he said. “Overall my five-day experience up at UVa was what sold the school. I met some of the most incredible people from all around the world, all overwhelmingly accomplished. Despite a wide range of personalities, everyone was genuinely nice and engaging. We all aspired for each other's success because we had all become friends by the end of it.”

The mission of the Jefferson Scholars Foundation is to attract to the University of Virginia the most promising leaders, scholars, and citizens. Intended to cover the entire cost of attendance for four years at the University of Virginia, the Jefferson Scholars' stipend includes tuition, fees, books, supplies, room, board and personal expenses. In addition to the financial component of the scholarship, there is an extensive enrichment program.

AT THE MOVIES

Sewanee Union Theatre This Week

Friday–Sunday, March 30–April 1Mission: Impossible – Ghost Protocol

Rated PG-13 • 133 minutes • $3

Ethan Hunt (Tom Cruise) is back, this time dangling from the world's tallest building trying to save the planet from nuclear destruction, but without any support from the IMF. Pixar genius Brad Bird directed this exciting, fast-paced film. The opening sequence of Hunt escaping from a Russian prison is worth the price of admission, with terrific music and great choreography (if that is what you call busting out of jail). I tire of watching Cruise scowl at the camera and run with his mechanical motion, but he is balanced in this film by the wonderful Jeremy Renner. As one reviewer said, the movie "is a terrific thriller with action sequences that function as a kind of action poetry." Rated PG-13 for sequences of intense action and violence.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week

Wednesday, Friday–Sunday, April 4, April 6–8Hugo

Rated PG • 126 minutes • $3

Martin Scorsese has created a cinematic masterpiece from Brian Selznick's wonderfully illustrated book, "The Adventures of Hugo Cabret." In this loving homage to the evolution of filmmaking, "Hugo" tells the story of a young boy left on his own, living in the walls of a 1930s Paris train station. His dead father was an inventor, and Hugo himself maintains the clocks in the station. When he meets a mysterious shop keeper (Ben Kingsley), he uncovers some amazing secrets. Sasha Baron Cohen is charmingly wicked as a Parisian policeman; there are nice supporting performances by Emily Mortimer and Christopher Lee. This is one of the most delightful movies to come to the screen in a very long time. Rated PG for mild thematic material, some action/peril and smoking.

Edible Books Contest April 2

Sewanee's Annual Edible Book Contest is on Monday, April 2, in the lobby of duPont Library. Entries should be delivered to the library between 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Judging will begin at 1 p.m.; at 3:30 p.m., the contest becomes a cake-tasting.

The contest is open to folks of all ages and experience levels. There is no entry fee, and there is no limit to the number of entries a person can make. While many people bake a cake to illustrate their book, anything edible can be used.

Prizes will include items from Mountain Outfitters, Shenanigans, Julia's Fine Foods and the Globe. There will be prizes in the following categories: Best Children's Book, Best Banned Book, Wittiest Book, Best-in-Show (age 13 and older) and Best-in-Show (age 12 and under).

For inspiration, stop by the library's front desk and check out the albums of challenged/banned books and other edible book ideas.

Music on the Mountain

Bluegrass at McCrory Tonight

Bluegrass stars, David Grier (guitar) and Mike Compton (mandolin), join forces on the stage of McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts at 7 p.m., today, March 30, for a night of music. The concert is free and open to the public.

For several years, David Grier has been voted Best Guitar Player for the Year by the members of the International Bluegrass Music Association. Mandolinist Mike Compton received Grammy Award acknowledgement for his performance on Album of the Year and Best Compilation Soundtrack Album "Oh Brother Where Art Thou?" and Best Traditional Folk Album for "Down From the Mountain." He also participated in the soundtrack for "Cold Mountain."

The two toured together in 1991 and 2000. Following their 1991 tour through the US and Japan, they recorded a duet album, "Climbing the Walls," nominated for 1992 Album of the Year by the International Bluegrass Music Association.

Making a Living and a Life

“The Jew Store” by Stella Suberman (Algonquin Books, 2001) is an intriguing memoir fashioned from the author’s observations and family stories. She assembles character, setting, dialogue and anecdote into a thought-provoking slice of the 1920s in a small Southern town.

The book’s jarring title focuses readers on the tradition of Jews relocating from New York or other large cities to the South to open “dry goods” businesses. Friends who grew up elsewhere are often surprised to learn of these ubiquitous stores that sold inexpensive merchandise to farmers and laborers, including “the colored.” (The language of the time lends authenticity.) Singer Dinah Shore’s family were merchants in Winchester, then in McMinnville. Those of us who spent childhoods here a generation later don’t remember the phrase “Jew store,” but we recollect their popularity on town squares. Friend Eileen Degen introduced me to this book; her notes are incorporated into this review.

The writer’s father, Aaron Bronson, journeyed from Russia to New York when he was 16 years old; rejecting a life of delivering coal, he learned of opportunities in the South. After a productive stop in Savannah, he returned to New York to find a wife and married the lovely Reba, also a Russian immigrant. A major motif is the contrast between the ebullient, forward-thinking Aaron and the timid, traditional Reba.

Aaron convinces his reluctant bride that their future lies in the South and chooses Nashville with its business possibilities and Jewish community. However, the city offers no opportunity for Aaron’s own store. Retail merchants, impressed with his abilities, support his move to Concordia (a fictionalized name), a small town in need of a Jew store. Reba is mystified at the enthusiasm of Aaron and their two children as horse and wagon transport them to northwest Tennessee to a small business and a new life.

Mazel tov, good luck, (in which Aaron placed his trust, possibly missing the role of talent and hard work) follows the family, as they first board with the town character, an enlightened, well-traveled spinster. Miss Brookie orients the family to town customs and disabuses locals of their notions: “...all them Jews is Catholics” or “...you won’t do at all! Jews have horns.”

Many of Reba’s fears materialize. A decree from the Nashville rabbi’s wife that trayf, non-kosher food, is acceptable in a strange land is cold comfort in the presence of all that pork sausage on lard biscuits. Mention of the Ku Klux Klan justifiably terrifies her. A town picnic brings out these menacing creatures, hidden identities rendering them even more terrifying than uniformed Cossacks. A prayer for the new shoe factory (from under a hood) promises no “foreign agitators.”

Miss Brookie insists, “They wouldn’t know a foreign agitator if one bit ‘em on the rear while they were hymn-singing in church,” but can’t guarantee a peaceful welcome.

After endless insults from prospective landlords, Aaron negotiates a fair building lease. Everyone pitches in, and Bronson’s Low-Priced Store is finally open. An agonizing wait ends when the store suddenly fills with shoppers—who may have been waiting for the Klan’s response. Evidently, even these barbarians recognize the need for a Jew store.

Bronson’s Store is another character with a life of its own, carefully nurtured by Aaron, whose stories to Stella Ruth reveal deep satisfaction as she grows older. The shy Reba enjoys this special place with its socks and bow ties, pretty dresses and hair ribbons, men’s clothes (heavy on farmers’ overalls) and fabrics. The business thrives.

The Bronsons meet life’s surprises with aplomb. Daughter Miriam discovers a talent for the piano, not an instrument favored by people who joked that the violin was easier than a piano when running from the Cossacks. She bobs her hair and learns to dance the Charleston. Narrator Stella Ruth, born in Concordia, sprinkles her sentences with “y’all” and scandalizes visiting relatives by bursting into “What a Friend We Have in Jesus.” After five years, the popular son Joey is reluctant to leave friends for a year’s study in New York before his Bar Mitzvah. However, the New York Yankees baseball team and his new school with its labs and advanced programs entice him into becoming a part-time Tennessean thereafter.

Reba never forgets the need to keep a Jewish household, but her standoff-ish image is tempered by newfound skill at gardening, forging a link with her neighbors who bring cuttings and advice. They surprise her by harvesting and “putting up” her ripe produce when she is away at a wedding.

But harder times arrive. After the stock market crash of 1929, Aaron, always the mensch, someone to count on, convinces the town to save the shoe factory, but even his mazel can’t halt the advancing Depression. The store survives, but Reba’s increasing concerns about her daughters’ distance from their heritage, along with economic pressures, lead them back to New York. The local newspaper’s lengthy homage to the family and their business is followed by Aaron’s silent, poignant farewell to the store.

This engaging memoir is imbued with Aaron’s motto, “For a real bargain, while you’re making a living, you should also make a life.” Suberman astutely captures both recommendations in her thoughtful narrative of a brave family’s sojourn in a formidable place and time. “The Jew Store” is available at duPont Library.

Wilson Piece in New Story Collection

Kevin Wilson of Sewanee has a story in the newly published anthology, “Monsters: A Collection of Literary Sightings,” (Pressgang, 2012). The book also contains short stories by well-known authors such as Bonnie Jo Campbell, Benjamin Percy and Aimee Bender. With creatures from zombies and vampires to mud men and mummies, these stories are described as “sometimes frightening, sometimes silly, but always entertaining and deeply affecting.”

B.J. Hollars, the editor of the collection and Sasquatch enthusiast, said, “Monsters fascinate us because they’re not us. It’s their different-ness that makes us both love and fear them.”

This is the debut book for Pressgang, founded in 2012, an affiliate of Butler University’s graduate program in creative writing.

Wilson’s story, “Our Most Important Virtue,” appears in the anthology.

“Sometimes There’s God So Quickly” Premieres This Weekend

David Roby’s new play about Tennessee Williams, “Sometimes There’s God So Quickly,” opens today, March 30, and runs through Sunday. Performances will be at 7:30 p.m., today and Saturday, March 31, with a matinee at 2 p.m., Sunday, April 1, in the Proctor Hill Theatre at the Tennessee Williams Center. Roby plays all 15 characters in the 90-minute production. The show is free, but reservations are requested by calling 598-3260.

RAM Clinic Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are still needed for the Remote Area Medical (RAM) clinic on May 19–20, and applications are due by April 1.

RAM will conduct a dental, vision and medical clinic on campus for people without medical insurance or who cannot afford the care they need. All services are free, with no eligibility requirements, and are offered on a first-come, first-served basis. Volunteer information and applications can be found at <<http://life.sewanee.edu/serve/remote-area-medical-clinic>>.

Transfiguration Retreat at St. Mary’s Sewanee in May

The Center for Religion and Environment (CRE) will host a retreat on “Transfiguration of Christ and Creation: A Ministry of Wholeness” May 4–6 at St. Mary’s Sewanee.

Retreat participants will examine the biblical story of Jesus’ Transfiguration “on a high mountain,” when three disciples encountered the glory of Jesus for the first time. Does this “feast of beauty” have any connection to our spiritual lives in the present day? Through a blend of personal reflection and commentary on relevant theological and scriptural texts, literary works, music, and art, participants will reflect on the concept that Christ’s glorification is for the whole creation and, accordingly, that it has the potential to re-energize environmental attitudes and policies. The presenters are John Gatta, dean of the College and professor of English, who has taught courses in American environmental literature at Sewanee and the University of Connecticut; Joyce Wilding, Third Order Franciscan and associate member Society of Ordained Scientists, and the Rev. Jerry Cappel, Environmental Network Coordinator for Province IV of the Episcopal Church.

April 4 is the registration deadline. The cost of the retreat, which includes meals, is $325 per person for double occupancy; $350 per person for single occupancy; commuter fee $195. Partial scholarships available.

To register, email <cre@sewanee.edu> or call 598-3505.

Sports Briefs

Tiger Athletes of the Week

Courtland Day, Phillip Link and Astrid Escobar have been selected as the Sewanee Tigers Athletes of the Week. All three are swimming team members.

SAS Varsity Soccer

The SAS Mountain Lions varsity boys' soccer team tied Cascade High School 1-1 on March 27.

Cascade's lone score came in the first half. Tinashe Zimbwa scored in the second off an assist by Doo Bin Nam. SAS goalie Mitchell Hazard recorded two saves.

SAS Softball

The SAS softball team lost both ends of a doubleheader to Mt. Juliet Christian, 10-4 and 11-1.

SAS Golf Tournament Supports Scholarships

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee Parents' Council first golf tournament at Manchester's Willow Brook Golf Course will be held Saturday, April 7. All money raised will support scholarships at SAS.

The registration fee for a four-man team is $400. Hole sponsorships are $100.

Lifeguard Training

The Winchester Swimplex will be offering a Lifeguard Training Class this spring. The class is to be held April 10-21. Lifeguard training consists of 32 hours of classroom and pool work. The class is designed to teach lifesaving skills, CPR, first aid, AED (automated external defibrillation) and oxygen administration. The cost is $150, which includes books and a pocket mask. For more information or questions contact Winchester Swimplex at 962-4204.

National Cornbread Festival 5k Run/Walk

The National Cornbread Festival SK Run/Walk has been set for April 28. Racers register, beginning at 6:30 a.m., at the Citizens Park Stage. The race begins at 8 a.m.

The early entry fee is $20 prior to April 18, and $25 for the runners who sign up after April 18. Racers may register online at <www.active.com> or by obtaining a paper copy of the entry form at <www.nationalcornbread.com>.

The course winds through the streets of downtown South Pittsburg and finishes on 4th Street by South Pittsburg Elementary School.

SAS Track and Field

The SAS track and field team will open their home schedule on Wednesday, April 4, against local rivals Franklin County and South Pittsburg. The field events and the 3200 begin at 3:30 p.m., with running events scheduled for 4:30 p.m.

The throwers are lead by senior Donta Oden. In last year's State Invitational Tournament, Oden became the best thrower in SAS history with a second-place finish and a school record in the discus with a throw of 129'. He also placed second in the shot put with a throw of 44'1/2" just off his 44'11" school record. Senior Joan Park and sophomore Sarah Beavers return to throw for the girls.

Seniors Will Evans in the middle distances and Daniel Chung in the sprints will lead a large group of boy runners. Seven freshman sprinters promise a fast future for SAS track.

SAS Baseball

The Mountain Lions opened their baseball season by falling to Zion Christian Academy 15-1 on March 27.

Zion scored three unearned runs in the first inning on two costly errors by SAS. SAS responded in the bottom of the first as Sam Howick singled with one out. Casey Willis drew a walk, and Edwin Ashcraft singled to score Howick.

After holding Zion scoreless in the second inning, SAS threatened to tie the score, as Hunter Craighill singled to start the inning, and Riley Rhoton reached on a fielder's choice. With two outs, starting pitcher Alex Tinsley doubled to put runners at second and third before the rally ended.

Zion scored two runs in the third inning and ended the scoring by tallying 10 runs in the fifth inning.

For SAS, Tinsley lead the way with two hits, including a double. Howick had a single and scored one run. Ashcraft had a single and an RBI.

King Named SCAC Golfer

Jenna King was named the SCAC Women's Golfer of the Week on March 23.

King took home three medalist honors as Sewanee competed in two dual matches and one triple match at the Barefoot Resort Golf and Country Club in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

On March 15 against Denison, King fired a low-round 84.

A day later against Vassar, King fired a new career-low 81 and closed her weekend with an 82 against William Smith College and Mount Holyoke College.

Rhodes Takes Doubleheader

Rhodes College swept the doubleheader from the Sewanee Tigers on March 25. The Lynx downed the Tigers 4-0 in the opener and 3-1 in the second. Sarah Hamilton suffered the loss in the first game of the afternoon, allowing four runs on nine hits.

Kayla Sewell, Codi Ellis and Emily Culberston led Sewanee at the plate with one hit each.

Claire Kneppshield and Michelle Thibodeaux led the Sewanee eight-hit attack with two hits each in the second game of the doubleheader. Grace Cobbs, Erin Polena, Hamilton and Sewell each contributed a hit. Thibodeaux was the losing pitcher in game two, allowing two runs on five hits in five innings of work.

The Tigers scored their only run of the day in the seventh inning, when Cobbs reached second base on an error by the Lynx third baseman. Polena drove Cobbs home on a single.

NCAA All-American Honors

Sewanee swimmers Astrid Escobar and Phillip Link earned NCAA All-American honors in the 100-yard breaststroke on March 23 at the 2012 NCAA Division III Championships.

Escobar opened her event with an impressive 1:04.42 mark.

On the men's side, Link edged out Courtland Day with a 13th-place finish. Link finished the event in 56.88 seconds, while Day placed 20th with a time of 57.37 seconds.

On March 24, Day and Phillip Link earned NCAA All-American honors in the 200-yard breaststroke. In the consolation finals, Link finished in 13th with a time of 2:05.02. Day placed 15th after he touched the wall in 2:06.23.

Escobar fell just short of her second All-American honor of the weekend, when she finished nine-tenths of a second behind the 16th-place finisher in the women's 200 breaststroke.

With the season complete, Sewanee closed out 2011-12 with four All-Americans and 14 All-SCAC swimmers.

Baseball Briefs

The Sewanee Tigers jumped out to a 10-2 lead over University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth on March 21, but had to hold off a late charge from the Corsairs to come away with a hard-fought 11-10 victory.

Austin Shea pitched six strong innings in relief of starting pitcher Lee Schurlknight on March 22 to pick up his first win of the season, as the Tigers defeated the Hamilton College Continentals 10-5.

The Sewanee Tigers defeated the Fontbonne University Griffins 3-1 on March 23.

Wilson Nealy drove in Alan Komorowski with a two-out double in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the Sewanee Tigers a dramatic 9-8 come-from-behind victory over the Worcester State Lancers, March 24.

Sewanee's women's tennis team

Sewanee Defeats #19 Wellesley

The Sewanee women's tennis team defeated their second straight ranked opponent with a 5-2 decision over Wellesley. Bronte Goodhue earned a victory over Erica Choo, 6-0, 7-6, to earn the fifth point and clinch the win for the Tigers on March 25.

The Tigers earned their first point at No. 1 doubles, with Jenny Liles and Goodhue taking down Watanabe and Lee of Wellesley 8-4. Liz Lucas and Mary Taylor Tepper followed with Sewanee's second point at No. 3 doubles, winning 8-5 over Chen and Clark from Wellesley. Lucas and Michelle Flume earned points for Sewanee with wins at No. 3 and No. 4 singles, and Goodhue earned the fifth and decisive point for the Tigers at No. 2 singles.

Tigers Outlast Salisbury

The Sewanee men's tennis team defeated regional opponent Salisbury by a commanding 7-2 score on March 20. Sewanee dropped the No. 1 doubles point by a close score of 8-9, but came back to win the next six points and earn the win.

Alex Cooper and Rand Jackson took the first point for Sewanee with a win at No. 2 doubles. Aaron Cotton and David Human fought through a close match at No. 3 doubles, but came out with an 8-6 victory for the Tigers.

In singles play, Jackson defeated Salisbury's Daniel Albers handily at No. 1 singles 6-2, 6-0. Grant Hopkins, Levi Joy and Cotton held their opponents to less than three games in each of their sets.

Lacrosse Updates

Lacrosse Drops SCAC Opener

Despite six goals by senior Meg Welton, the Sewanee women's lacrosse team dropped its SCAC opener at Colorado College 20-14 on March 24.

Sewanee and Colorado College traded goals throughout the first 11 minutes of play. With the score tied 4-4, Welton added her second goal of the half with 8:40 left.

Unfortunately, Colorado College responded with eight of the next nine goals. The Tigers did make a brief comeback, when Welton added her 38th and 39th goals of the season. After Madeline Scherer scored again for Colorado College, Olivia Vietor, Molly Arnold and Caitlin-Jean Juricic pulled Sewanee to within three, 13-10, with 15:38 remaining.

Four minutes later, Anna Morrow and Juricic closed the deficit to one, 14-13, after Sewanee scored with a man-up. However, Colorado College scored five straight goals, which put the match away.

Winning Streak Ends

The Colorado College men's lacrosse team ended Sewanee's four-match winning streak with a 13-8 victory on March 25. The loss dropped the Tigers to 6-3 overall and 1-1 in the SCAC.

Sewanee quickly opened the scoring when Rob Finnegan found the back of the cage. Sewanee's momentum did not last long after Colorado scored five straight goals. Attacker Michael Morris briefly stopped the drought when he scored an unassisted goal with 8:36 remaining.

Davis Brown scored a career-high three goals on five attempts. Pierce Leonard, Reed Daniel, Morris, Finnegan and John Stiefel all finished with one goal. Defensively, goalkeeper Tommy Healy made 12 saves in 60 minutes.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

Living with Severe Hearing Loss

By the time a person's hearing has reached the severe hearing loss stage, they may be unable to hear loud voices at about one foot from the ear, but are otherwise unable to communicate. In addition, speech is usually perceived as distorted, garbled and very difficult to understand. For many persons, because they cannot hear or monitor their own spoken words, their own speech is likely to deteriorate, and the quality to become more monotone. Many people begin to feel emotionally isolated. Even Helen Keller expressed a concern that her severe hearing loss cut her off from people, while her vision cut her off from things. In order to be connected with the world, including your family and friends, hearing is extremely important.

At the Hearing Center LLC, our mission is to improve your communication abilities. If you are concerned about yourself or a loved one, please contact us today. OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

Parenthood is an interesting journey. When your child first enters the world, you stand back in wonder and gasp, "Wow, am I responsible for that?" Fifteen years later, while looking at stacks of clothes hanging from everything imaginable, you often stand back in anger and say, "Wow, am I responsible for that?"

Parents of athletes have it even harder. Not only are their children moving through life making choices that are often inexplicable, but the parents get to sit in the stands with everyone else, say a prayer and observe what they hope will be a flawless performance. It's one thing to watch your child in a team sport but quite another to have one in an individual competition. With a team sport, you can at least pass the blame to the kid who threw your son a weak pass or to the coach who failed to play your daughter at the right time. But when your child is out there all alone on the 18th green, swimming in a lane, wrestling on the mat or serving a tennis ball, there is no one else to shoulder the responsibility.

I watch tennis matches for a living. My stomach gets tied in knots urging my players to reach for success, but that is nothing like watching your own child out there hoping they can get it over the net without tripping on the lines. I know parents who cannot bear to watch and simply walk away, hoping their young athlete is not feeling the intense pressure that they are feeling. These otherwise sane adults sometimes want to hide behind the nearest tree until the game is over. Maybe it begins by watching those first baby steps when we know they are going to topple over or watching them drink juice for the first time from a cup without a lid. We know the juice is going to end up all over the floor. So you sit there in the stands, wishing with one side of your brain that your child will be a champion, and with the other, just hoping that they don't sink to the bottom of the pool after their flip turn.

Athletes do lots of aerobic training to keep their heart rate low during the heat of battle, while parents' hearts are beating through their chests just sitting in the stands pretending to be cool.

As with most couples, my wife and I predictably take different approaches to watching our children compete. I try to pull off a poker face so that my kids can read no emotion. (This only makes it worse for them, they say.) My wife prefers wearing her emotions on her sleeve. She has been known to yell at a few referees in basketball games and rarely minds telling the coach which play to run (especially when that coach is me). My girls are clear on where she stands. Win.

Parents may feel as if they are looking in the mirror when Junior is out on the field. You cannot help but live vicariously through the successes and failures of your offspring. We may preach the gospel of "Just go out and have some fun," but what we are really thinking is "Hey! You are carrying my name into the record books! Make me a winner! I might be a bench warmer on the office softball team, but you can at least bring home some trophies to show off to the neighbors when they come over for the next barbecue."

We want our kids to be happy, successful, productive people. Athletics are a great avenue for young people to build self-esteem. When the game is over, and our son or daughter made the game-winning basket or simply walked off gracefully in defeat with a genuine show of sportsmanship, we can sit back with pride and say, "Wow, am I responsible for that?"

(But when we get home and the doors are closed, we can jump up and down and yell, "I won! I won!")

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Illustration by Alan Brooks from "The Hawks of North America."

Red-tailed Hawk

Lost Cove is the nesting place of the Red-tailed Hawk. This is essentially a soaring hawk. It is the largest hawk, sailing high overhead with wings and tail widely spread, with only an occasional stroke of its broad wings. It has a long, high-pitched call or scream, which it emits while flying. When tired or resting from looking for prey in the farm fields, it will roost in roadside trees. Jean and Harry Yeatman watched one fly over their car hood and catch a cotton rat so quickly that the hawk did not strike the car. The red tail of the adult bird is easily seen while it is in flight, but the immature birds have a banded tail for a year. The Red-tailed Hawk rarely catches chickens and game birds, and therefore it is protected by government laws from being shot by hunters and farmers.

Trails & Trilliums at Assembly April 20–22

Trails & Trilliums—an event for hikers, wildflower enthusiasts, gardeners and families—will be April 20–22, celebrating Earth Day and the 75th anniversary of Tennessee State Parks.

Organized by the Friends of South Cumberland (FSC) the festival attracts attendees from four states who enjoy guided hikes, a garden tour, children's activities, a native plant sale and the Cumberland Wild Forum. This year's Wine and Wildflowers reception will honor State Naturalist Randy Hedgepath as the Yeatman Environment Education Award recipient and Jon Evans, professor of biology and assistant provost for sustainability at the University. Hedgepath will also be the speaker at the Cumberland Wild Forum.

According to event chair Margaret Matens, "A focus on family fun is a key part of Trails & Trilliums, and underwriting support allows us to keep the [children's] events free." The kids' lineup includes a petting zoo, horse and pony rides, Kinder-Gardening and hayrides. Workshops will be given by Nate Wilson (Treating Your Hemlocks), June Mays (Shade Solutions for Gardeners), David Haskell (about his book "The Forest Unseen") and Brett Weaver (Plein Air Painting). A complete schedule of events and online registration are available at <www.trailsandtrilliums.org> or call (931) 924-2623.

Pets of the Week

Meet Cecily and Whiskey

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers two delightful pets for adoption. Cecily is a beautiful girl who is also very friendly and loving. She was already declawed when she was rescued, so she needs to be an inside cat in a home without dogs. Cecily is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Whiskey is a handsome Turkish Van mix with unique coloring. He is very affectionate and extremely toy-driven. Whiskey would do best in a home with older children or adults. He is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor! On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets older than 4-months-old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month.

Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam. Call 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>.

Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Sewanee Herbarium Events

Saturday, March 31—Roark's Cove with Yolande Gottfried. A private property at the base of the plateau is being made available for a wildflower walk to see some species not seen on the upper plateau, such as Virginia bluebells (Mertensia virginica) and possibly some early shooting star (Dodecatheon meadia), as well as trilliums and much more. Meet at the Sewanee Inn at 9:30 a.m. to carpool or caravan to the site of this easy to moderate walk.

Sunday, April 1—Shakerag Hollow with Mary Priestley. This is Sewanee's mecca for wildflower lovers, and the flowers should be nearing their peak. Meet at 1:30 p.m. at the Green's View parking lot (past the golf course) for this two-mile, moderate to strenuous hike, with one fairly challenging incline.

Sequatchie Valley Wildflower Hikes

The Sequatchie Valley Institute (SVI) is hosting spring wildflower hikes on Saturday, March 31, and Saturday, April 7. Participants will likely find ragwort, dwarf buckeye, phlox, bloodroot, trout lily, trilliums, wild geranium, dogwoods and redbuds in the beautiful Sequatchie Valley. The hikes will be accompanied by guides familiar with the geography, ecology and biology of the area.

To participate, guests must arrive at the parking area no later than 10 a.m. (CDT) to assemble for the hike. There will be a choice of a long, strenuous hike deep into the Gulf, or a shorter, more relaxed walk. Please be prepared for the hike with long pants, hat, sturdy shoes and a container for water (we have spring water on tap).

A sliding-scale donation of $5–20 is requested to help SVI's educational programs. For directions to SVI, which is located in the Cartwright community halfway between Dunlap and Whitwell, call (423) 949-5922, or go to <http://svionline.org/about-svi/directions/>.

Tims Ford Cleanup Planned

The Tims Ford Council (TFC) has announced that the annual Adopt-A-Zone lake-wide cleanup campaign will be April 1–May 15. Individuals, civic groups, churches, marinas, businesses, families and anyone interested in protecting the lake are encouraged to Adopt-A-Zone and pick up trash.

The objectives of Tims Ford Council are to promote and protect the quality of Tims Ford Lake and its shoreline; to provide a forum for discussion, education and appropriate action concerning lake issues and activities; and to maintain active liaison with appropriate federal, state and local authorities, departments and agencies.

TFC membership dues are $10 per year. TFC is a tax-exempt organization, so membership dues and donations are tax-deductible.

For more information call Jim Brown at (931) 307-3308 or TFC chairman Dave Van Buskirk at (931) 247-2053, or go to <www.timsford-council.org>.

READY TO HELP!

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

Brooding upon its unexerted power
Deep in the gas-tank lay the gasoline
Awaiting the inevitable hour
When from the inward soul of the machine
Would come the Call. Ah, hark! Man's touch awakes
Th' ignition switch! The starting-motor hums;
A sound of meshing gears, releasing brakes!
The call of Duty to the gas-tank comes!

"Vacuum pulls me; and I come! I come!"
The Gas cried, down the hidden arteries going;
It plashed within the tank of vacuum,
From the upper chamber to the lower flowing,
And past the Flapper Valve, which cried, "Ah, stay!
Stay with th Flapper Valve, the noted petter!"
Heedless, the Gas went grimly on its way
To fiery nuptials with the carbureter! ...

This is the secret bridal chamber where
The earth-born gas first comes to kiss its bride,
The heaven-born and yet inviolate air
Which is, on this year's models, purified.
The air, then, enters at the air-valve, E,
The gas is sucked through nozzles from below
(The extra nozzle, J; the normal, C).
What happens then the picture does not show.

And it is well; for wrapped in close embrace,
Maddened, they hasten from the bridal room
To that steel-jacketed combustion space
Where passion bursts against the walls of Doom ...
Now frenzy's dead; young frenzy's strength is lost;
And the exhaust-port gapes for passion's shard;
The ghost of gas wails down the dark exhaust,
Outworn, burnt out, exhausted—like the bard.

—From "Gas and Hot Air" by Morris Bishop
