Franklin County Pre-K and Kindergarten Registration Date Set

Registration for the Franklin County pre-K and kindergarten classes for the 2014-15 school year will be on Thursday, April 3.

Pre-K registration will be from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the school where your child will attend, if accepted.

Kindergarten registration will be from 1 to 5 p.m. at the school where your child will attend.

For pre-K, children must be 4 years old by Aug. 15. For kindergarten, children must be 5 years old by Aug. 15.

The following documents are required for enrollment: certified birth certificate, social security card, Tennessee immunization record and current physician's physical report (both are on the Tennessee Department of Health certificate of immunization form).

In addition, for the pre-K process, parents must also bring proof of residence, proof of income (2013 W-2s or last two pay stubs showing gross income), and documentation for other assistance, such as siblings in the free or reduced-price meal program for the 2013-14 year, EBT, Families First (TANF), social security benefits, alimony or child support.

Applications must be turned in by the child's parent/guardian or other designated person. No faxed or emailed applications will be accepted.

If a family does not have transportation to a school or has limited English proficiency, the parent may complete the registration at the Franklin County Board of Education office on April 3.

For more information, contact Patti Limbaugh at 967-0626.

Haiku Contest Winners

The Sewanee Haiku Contest sponsored by duPont Library received 112 entries from across the community, all of which are now on display in the lobby of the library.

The first 10 will be printed in fortune cookies that will be distributed at McClurg Dining Hall. The top two winners also won restaurant gift certificates. And due to the many offbeat and funny entries, organizers created a special category for Most Humorous and declared two winners. All the entries are on the Sewanee Haiku website, <www.sites.google.com/site/sewaneehaiku>.

Rabies Clinics Scheduled in Sewanee, Sherwood

State law requires that all dogs 3 months old and cats 4 months old and older have a current rabies vaccination by a licensed veterinarian.

In Franklin County, the Animal Care Center, Midtown Veterinary Services and Town and Country Veterinary Hospital will be conducting rabies clinics at area locations during March. The cost is $10 per animal. All three veterinary offices are offering the rabies vaccination for $10 in their offices for people who cannot get to a clinic.

On Saturday, March 15, clinics will be: 8:30-9:30 a.m., at the Cowan Police Department; 9:45-10:45 a.m., in Midway at the Midway Market; and 11:15 a.m.-12 p.m., at the Sherwood Community Center.

On Saturday, March 22, clinics will be from 1:30-2:30 p.m., at Sewanee Elementary School; 3-3:30 p.m., at Oak Grove Community Center; and 4-4:30 p.m., at the old city hall in Decherd.

For more information call Franklin County Animal Control at 967-5389.

Hughes Book Reading, Art Show and Signing

Artist and author Barbara Hughes will read from her new book, "Enfolded in Silence: A Story in Art of Healing from Sexual Trauma in Childhood," 4-6 p.m., Sunday, March 9, at the Bairnwick Women's Center.

She will also sign books, which will be available for purchase at the event.

This book of paintings, poetry and narrative tells the story of healing from child sexual abuse. It also contains a manual of things that help in healing.

Hughes will discuss the issue of child sexual abuse. She will display some of her sculpture and paintings related to this, including a 7-foot by 4-foot cross (pictured at right) that contains original paintings that are in the book.

Hughes is an artist, teacher, and workshop leader whose work is centered in the connections between art, spirituality and healing. She has exhibited her figurative sculptures and paintings in a variety of venues throughout the country, and her Cathedral Nativity is the official crèche of the Washington National Cathedral.

"Because I am a survivor of childhood sexual abuse, I have a passion for helping other survivors through art retreats and individually," Hughes said.

About "Enfolded in Silence," author Isabel Anders wrote: "Barbara Hughes' breathtaking art takes the viewer down into the raw depths of trauma and upwards by grace to experience with her a journey of incarnational redemption.

"The exquisite juxtaposition of art and words in this book is itself holy ground that the reader/viewer is graciously allowed to enter and share. Highly recommended for anyone who has experienced abuse on the level of person desecration, seeks spiritual healing, and/or works with others who are taking this soul-searing path."

Hughes has taught art and spirituality for many years. She leads workshops, retreats and support groups, using art for women survivors of child sexual abuse from her studio, Rahamim Retreat and Clay House, and for churches and other healing centers.

Annual Bluebell Island Tour on March 22

Tour Bluebell Island with friends from the South Cumberland Regional Land Trust at 10 a.m., Saturday, March 22.

BOYSCOUTS HELP CAC To the Editor:

The Community Action Committee (CAC) would like to give a big shout-out to Boy Scout Troop 14 for the successful and productive recent food drive.

CAC is very grateful, and the food collected will help to feed the many families in the Sewanee community who go hungry for lack of adequate food supplies. With the volunteer efforts of Troop 14 and many others who volunteer their time and treasure, CAC is able to provide for our ever-growing list of clients. Thank you all!

CROCKETT FESTIVAL ENDS To the Editor:

One of my favorite quotes comes to mind as I express the gratitude of the Franklin County Chamber of Commerce staff, board of directors and ambassadors for their commitment to the Polly Crockett and Tennessee History Festival.

"We make a living by what we get. We make a life by what we give." — Winston Churchill

After 32 years in Franklin County, the Polly Crockett Festival has come to an end.

The festival has inspired many individuals to volunteer, which has been a tremendous part of the success of the festival in the past. However, with the declining number of original crafters and increased amount of time required to plan and implement the festival, the board of directors decided unanimously to discontinue the festival and redirect Chamber resources.

I want to thank everyone who supported the Polly Crockett and Tennessee History Festival.

Judy D. Taylor
Executive Director, Franklin County Chamber of Commerce ■

AUCTION HELPS FAMILY To the Editor:

On Feb. 15, many people came together at Cravens Hall to help Susan Reed after the recent death of her son, James Byrd.

We would like to give a huge thank you to home-based, direct-sales and local businesses and generous individuals who donated to the auction.

Everyone left the quarter auction with something.

Items included pizza from Crust; socks and hats from Mountain Outfitters; homemade bread from Polly Guess; shirts from King's Masonry; wraps from Get Skinny It Works; candles and gifts from Dana Guess' Gold Canyon Candles and Thirty-One; T-shirts from Barrett's Garage and Wrecker; Bracelets, key chains and wood works from Knight's Custom Made Creations; photo session with Joanna Nance Photography; photo from Sandy Gilliam Photography; Paparazzi Jewelry; mixes from the Gourmet Cupboard; gift cards from the Blue Chair, IvyWild and Beauty by Tabitha; haircuts from the Hair Depot; wreaths from Kim Pruitt; and many other items. By coming together, we raised almost $600.

Susan Reed said, "What you all did for me means so much. My son is gone, but the support and love from you all is here."

The next Quarter Auction will be on Friday, March 21, to benefit Angela Guess Jacobs, who has breast cancer. To participate or for more information contact Amanda Knight (931) 691-0962. Thank you.

Amanda Pruitt, Amanda Knight,
Tracy King and Dana Guess ■

Fourth of July Dance Still Looking for a Band

The Fourth of July Street Dance planning committee is looking for a band to play at the 2014 event.

Interested bands should be able to play a variety of music, have played at other venues before and have their own equipment, according to Valerie Parker, chair of the street dance.

To submit a band for consideration, send a music sample via email or send a CD to Parker.

March 15 is the deadline to be considered for this year's street dance. Parker can be reached by email, <vennyaleal_21@hotmail.com>, or 10092 Scenic Highway, Lookout Mountain, GA 30750.

Monteagle Inn to Host SCCF Benefit

Monteagle Inn owners Lee and Jim Harmon will host an auction to benefit the South Cumberland Community Fund (SCCF) on Saturday, April 26. Online bidding will open a week before the event.

With an emphasis on items of hospitality such as special group dinners and packages for bed-and-breakfast stays around the state, the auction promises to offer items attractive to those from the area and beyond.

"We will offer a variety of items in the category of hospitality and all in support of the South Cumberland Community Fund, a cause that we strongly believe in and are glad to support," said Jim Harmon, owner of Monteagle Inn and Conference Center.

"The community fund is delighted to have the Harmons offer this generous support to our fund raising efforts. We are excited about their ideas and imaginative approach to supporting the needs of the area," said Scott Parrish, chair of the SCCF board.

In addition to the items the Harmons will solicit from their many business associates, a local committee has already received such commitments as a dinner prepared in your home by Pearl's chef George Stephenson and a dinner overlooking Lost Cove and garden tour with landscape designer June and Joe Mays.

The event will include live music. Guest auctioneers will be Dan Backlund and Tim Graham. Tickets are $10 per person.

The South Cumberland Community Fund was established in 2012 to improve the quality of life across the Plateau by increasing giving and providing leadership. SCCF has distributed more than $250,000 in the past two years and has set a fund-raising goal for 2014 of $235,000. For more information go to <www.monteagleinn.com> or <www.southcumberlandcommunityfund.org>.

Sunset Serenade Set for Aug. 31

St. Mary's Sewanee: The Ayres Center for Spiritual Development is pleased to announce the fifth annual Sunset Serenade will be 5–8 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 31. Now in its fifth year, Sunset Serenade has become not only a very important fund-raiser to support St. Mary's Sewanee's mission, but also a social event folks on and around the Mountain look forward to all year.

"I am really excited about the new format this year, which focuses on outstanding musical talent rather than a silent auction. We look forward to having everyone back at the center again this Labor Day weekend," said St. Mary's Sewanee executive director John Runkle.

Guests will be entertained with music throughout the evening, first by Noel Workman and Friends. They will be followed by Grammy-winning songwriter and ACM award-winning pianist John Jarvis, Grammy-winning producer and songwriter Don Cook, and award-winning artist and songwriter Bill Labounty. A delicious tapas menu will once again be provided by Lee Towery Catering of Chattanooga.

Tickets are $60 per person. To make a reservation call 598-5342 or email <reservations@stmaryssewanee.org>. For more information go to <www.stmaryssewanee.org>.

VocationCARE Training at School of Theology

The School of Theology Programs Center is sponsoring training in VocationCARE, a conversational, contemplative process for individuals and groups in discernment. The session is March 11–14 at the McGriff Alumni Center on campus. The cost of the training is $345.

The program is designed to help people embarking on new life paths or ministries, and for those who accompany them in those journeys.

VocationCARE has inspired transformational ministries in congregations, retreat-based programs, in communities of young adult volunteers and other community-based ministries, in the Episcopal Church and in other Christian denominations. It is for anyone, individual or congregation, at transition points in their vocation or ministry.

For more information go to <theology.sewanee.edu/academics/vocationcare> or contact Jim Goodmann at 598-3398 or email <jgoodman@sewanee.edu>.

All Saints' Chapel

Growing in Grace will be at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, March 9, in All Saints' Chapel. The speaker will be the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, Dean of the School of Theology. The Catechumenate will return after spring break on Wednesday, March 26. For more information contact Rob McAlister by email, <rob.mcalister@sewanee.edu>.

Cowan Fellowship Church

Cowan Fellowship Church is hosting its annual fish fry to benefit the Heifer Project. It will begin at 5:30 p.m., Saturday, March 15, at the church. Donations will be accepted to support Heifer International. For more information go to <www.cowcowanfellowship.org> or call 967-7195.

Otey Memorial Parish Church

Otey Parish continues its series, "Lent 4.5," at 10 a.m., Sunday, March 9. Aaron Elrod will talk about "Consumption: Buying Less, Wasting Less." Godly Play classes and interested parents will meet with the Rev. Betty Carpenter who will talk about "Who I am as a Deacon." The Lectionary class and youth will meet in their regular locations. Nursery care is available for infants six weeks to children 5 years old from 8:30 a.m. until after the second service.

During Lent, Otey Parish will have a Healing Service with Holy Communion each week at 12 p.m. Celebrants will be the Rev. Jess Reeves (March 11 and April 8), the Rev. Scott James (March 18), the Rev. Francis Walter (March 25) and the Rev. Joe Porter (April 8).

St. James Episcopal Church

St. James is hosting a weekly Lenten study of C.S. Lewis' book "The Great Divorce" beginning at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 12. Each session is independent. Each week the group will discuss a couple of chapters and cover ideas including: What is heaven like? What is hell like? Is earth an extension of hell or a transition to heaven or both? Who would choose not to go to heaven and why? Once there, would anyone choose to leave?

An international main dish with sides will be served each week. For more information go to <www.stjamessewanee.org>.

Decherd Mission Church

Decherd Mission Church will have a singing at 11 a.m., Sunday, March 9, featuring the group By Faith from Manchester. All are welcome.

Upcoming Lectures

Lecture About Health Care Reform

Health care reform expert John A. Graves, C'03, will speak at Sewanee on "Making (Some) Sense of Health Care Reform: A Social Science-Based Framework for Understanding Contemporary U.S. Health Policy." The talk will be at 4:30 p.m. Monday, March 10, in Gailor Auditorium.

Graves was hired by the Obama administration in 2008 as part of a team that used social science research to inform the development of the Affordable Care Act. More recently, Graves' research on the dynamics of health insurance has played a particularly important role in key policy debates: his research was cited in the U.S. Supreme Court's arguments over the Affordable Care Act; has been featured prominently in the national media and in state debates over the impact of Medicaid expansion on hospital finances; and was a catalyst for regulatory changes affecting the way patients pay for insurance plans in the state insurance marketplaces created by the Affordable Care Act.

Graves is assistant professor at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, where he holds appointments in the department of health policy and the department of medicine.

The lecture is sponsored by the James Kennedy Lecture and Seminar Series, the Department of Economics and Community-Engaged Learning.

Brakke to Lecture on Gnosticism

David Brakke, the Joe R. Engle Chair of the History of Christianity and professor of history at Ohio State University, will explore the reasons why the Church did not reject gnosticism. The lecture will be at 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 11, in Hamilton Hall at the School of Theology.

In his lecture, Brakke will introduce the early Christian gnostics and reveal their astonishing beliefs about God, Jesus, sin and salvation. The lecture will also be streamed live.

Dunkly Among Theology Lecturers in Chattanooga

The 41st Annual Thorne Sparkman School of Religion, hosted by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Chattanooga with the active involvement of other local Episcopal parishes, will take place on Wednesday evenings beginning March 12 and continuing through April 9.

The format this year features a keynote speaker on March 12 followed by five classes offered on subsequent Wednesday evenings (March 19 and 26; April 2 and 9). Participants may register for two classes each evening. Organ meditations, Holy Eucharist and an optional dinner in Key-Andrews Hall will precede the presentations.

On March 12 the keynote speaker will be the Very Reverend Samuel G. Candler, Dean of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Philip, Atlanta. He will talk about "The Angle of Anglicanism: The Anglican Theological Tradition's Grace—Valuable for Today's World."

The subsequent offerings will include: "God's Secretaries," by James Dunkly, librarian and instructor of New Testament, Greek, and research and writing at the School of Theology, Sewanee; "Coming to America—the Story of Christianity's Journey to North America," by Chris Carpenter, history teacher at the McCallie School; "Exploring Enneagrams," by the Reverend Tayve Morgan; "Wendell Berry, An Appreciation," by Verbie Prevost, George Connor Professor of American Literature at UTC; "The Nonviolent Christ," by David Cook, columnist for the Chattanooga Times-Free Press. For more information contact the church office at (423) 266-8195 or go to <www.stpaulschatt.org>.

Davis to Lead St. Mary's Sewanee Campaign

Bill Davis of Monteagle has agreed to chair the View and Vision Campaign at St. Mary's Sewanee: The Ayres Center for Spiritual Development.

"I am grateful for Bill's willingness to lead our efforts in this campaign. His outstanding business and community leadership will be of great value to achieving our goals," said St. Mary's Sewanee founding trustee Bob Ayres.

The campaign will include fund-raising for a new hospitality building, phase II of the long-range plan.

"Bill Davis has been an outstanding supporter of our capital campaign efforts since we began several years ago, and we are looking forward to his strong and creative leadership in this next phase of our campaign," said St. Mary's Sewanee board president Dale Grimes.

Davis, a native of Golf, Ill., is a 1969 Sewanee graduate. In 2007 he retired after a successful career in trust and investment management. Davis served as a trustee at Sewanee and was the planned giving chairman for the Campaign for Sewanee. He served as the president of the Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary Club chapter and on the steering committees for both St. Mary's Sewanee and South Cumberland Community Fund.

"This Mountain offers one the opportunity to pursue many passions. St. Mary's-Sewanee falls into this category, and the opportunity to work with others to further our mission is a blessing to us all," said Davis.

Following a successful phase I effort, St. Mary's Sewanee's new lodging facility and accompanying McRae Meeting Room is now open. The total goal for phase I and phase II is $7.6 million, of which about $4 million has been raised. For more information contact Pratt Paterson at 598-5342 or email <pratt.paterson@stmarys-sewanee.org>.

VIEW FROM THE DUMP

by Francis Walter

Two ladies visiting the dump told Tommy to “tell that man who writes the column not to call this ‘The Dump,’ but to call it ‘The Recycling Center,’” so Tommy told me. It gave me pause because I’ve come to like the title. “View from the Recycling Center” lacks the same punch. But I could agree with their point.

My New Testament professor, Dr. Rhys, used to say, “We’ve all got axes to grind.” The ladies’ suggestion was a good ax, worth grinding.

Franklin County calls its sites “Convenience Centers.” This targets our sense of efficiency, making it easy for us, and so we also believe that our dollars are well spent.

“Convenience,” as a word, has a history with me. In the 1960s I joined the brave black citizens of Wilcox County, Ala., who waged a struggle that took a life, lost some their jobs and their homes, and imprisoned some, to increase their ballots in the ballot boxes from zero to numbers reflecting their approximate 80 percent of the county’s population.

Back then vehicles were scarce and were essential to attend mass meetings, to organize and protest. I heard over and over, “We don’t have no convenience,” which I learned meant, “We don’t have a vehicle.” Having my own “convenience” was way more important to the movement than anything else I might say or do. I did a lot of hauling.

The chair of the board of the Freedom Quilting Bee of Wilcox County, Mrs. Callie Young, kept a clean kitchen despite no plumbing, a wood stove and a bare pine plank floor. One evening as I watched her sweeping the kitchen with a Johnson-grass broom, she smiled and said, “That’s my convenience,” pointing to a shiny knot hole in the floor into which she scooted the trash.

What do these county trash outposts make it convenient for us to do? Do they effectively turn our discards into aluminum pie pans, cereal boxes, motorcycle fenders, plastic toys, or cardboard boxes? No. Sad to say, only a small proportion of discards are reborn into something useful. Price fluctuations often make it unprofitable—dollar-wise—to recycle cardboard, plastic or newspapers. The battered topless cardboard bins don’t keep out the rain. Mushy, rained-on cardboard is not recycled. New bins? Are they beyond the county’s budget? The University has reported it now costs it money, not earns it, to recycle glass.

Recycle Center or Dump? I guess it depends on your political style. I keep the following quote by Turgenev over my desk:

Marianna belonged to a special class of unhappy persons...

Justice satisfies them but does not rejoice them, while injustice, which they are very keen in detecting, revolts them to the very depths of their being.

That’s me. So I’ll stick with “View from the Dump” to scorn the failing of our culture to do anything about our waste of resources. And be grateful to the two ladies for their use of language as encouragement.

A group of the students at Tracy City Elementary who have taken a pledge to walk 100 miles in 100 days.

LEAPs Initiative in Grundy Elementary Schools

At the North Elementary and Tracy City Elementary Lottery for Education: After-school Programs (LEAPs), Matthew Griffith from the Bridge in Monteagle recently came to the schools and taught about health and nutrition.

LEAPs works to provide a safe, educationally enriching, fun and rewarding experience for elementary school students in Grundy County. Children have the opportunity to engage in activities that will benefit them emotionally, physically and educationally. The program includes crafts, sports and games, snacks, art and music, field trips, and other creative and cultural activities. Most of the time each day will be allotted for homework and tutorial assistance, particularly in the areas of reading and math.

At the “Fruit Guy” program, Griffith turned several pieces of fruit into art, served a delicious dinner, then allowed the kids to eat the art/fruit. Griffith also led a discussion on the importance of health and nutrition. This event was planned in conjunction with the “100 Miles in 100 Days” program sponsored by the Grundy County Health Council designed to help kids eat right and stay physically active. Students, faculty and staff have all pledged to walk 100 miles in 100 days this year.

Since 1985, Tennessee’s Extended Learning Programs, administered by the state Education Department, have provided learning and enrichment activities for children, youth and their families. Tennessee receives additional after-school funding through the LEAPs initiative in which unclaimed lottery prizes go toward specific educational programs, including early childhood programs and after-school programs.

Sewanee Senior Receives Award for Research

Anna Alikhani, C’14, a politics major and Posse Scholar, received an honorable mention from the Council on Undergraduate Research (CUR) for the poster she submitted to its “Posters on the Hill” session. Alikhani’s work was among the top 10 percent of the more than 600 submissions received from undergraduate researchers across the United States. Her project, “Reproductive Health Policies in Sub-Saharan Africa: A Look at Five Factors and Their Impact on Policies,” was based on research Alikhani has undertaken in collaboration with Sewanee professor of political science Amy Patterson and former visiting professor and Brown Foundation Fellow Canon Gideon Byamugisha.

The project studied the impact of religious majorities, percent of women in government, donor aid programs, democracy and female literacy rates on reproductive health policies, specifically contraceptive distribution, in Africa.

The Posse Scholars program identifies multicultural public high school students with extraordinary academic and leadership potential who may be overlooked by traditional college selection processes. Posse offers the opportunity to pursue personal and academic excellence by placing them in supportive, multicultural teams—Posses—of 10 students. Posse partner colleges such as Sewanee award the scholars four-year, full-tuition scholarships.

Founded in 1978, CUR’s mission is to support and promote high-quality undergraduate student-faculty collaborative research and scholarship.

AT THE MOVIES

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE
Friday–Sunday, March 7–9, 7:30 p.m.
12 Years a Slave

Rated R • 134 minutes

Full of actors you've barely seen before and offering a powerful depiction of slavery in the 19th century, "12 Years a Slave" will be one of the best movies of our generation, and I'm not the only one who believes this. It won "Best Picture" earlier this month at the Academy Awards. Much like "Schindler's List," it tells a story that is hard to witness, but is beautifully made. Director Steve McQueen takes an unflinching look at the true story of Solomon Northup, a free black man from upstate New York who is abducted and sold into slavery. A historian I know said it was the most accurate movie about the topic he'd ever seen. Another historian said, "Americans like their history movies to be uplifting and redemptive. '12 Years a Slave' is neither, but it is important for all Americans to see." I found the violence very difficult to watch, but I think that's what McQueen intended. Rated R for violence and cruelty, some nudity and brief sexuality. —LW

The Mountain Critics

And the winner is ... we have a tie!

Steve Burnett and Katy Morreau both correctly predicted seven out of seven of the Academy's winners in all the major Oscar categories, including the tiebreaker. They both won a Julia's Fine Foods gift certificate and two movie passes to the Sewanee Union Theatre.

Thanks to all who participated in the Mountain Critics Oscar Pool, to Julia's and the SUT for donating prizes. See you at the movies!

Master Class in African Dance on Saturday

Madia Cooper, an assistant professor of dance at Middle Tennessee State University, will teach an African dance master class at 1 p.m., Saturday, March 8, in the Tennessee Williams dance studio. The class is free and open to the public.

Cooper will focus on traditional West African dances and songs from Ghana, Liberia, Guinea and Senegal. Participants will be introduced to movement vocabulary of the African Diaspora and Caribbean cultures. Live drumming will accompany the dancers.

Cooper earned an M.F.A. in dance performance and choreography from the College at Brockport. Her company credits include the Brenau Dance Ensemble, Gainesville Theater Alliance, Sankofa African Dance Ensemble and the Bill Evans Dance Company.

She is currently the assistant director of administration for the New York Summer School of the Arts in conjunction with the New York State Board of Education held at Skidmore College.

The Theatre Arts Department and the Office of Multi-Cultural Affairs are the sponsors of this event. For more information, contact Courtney World at 598-3263 or email <coworld@sewanee.edu>.

Sewanee Sports News

Track & Field

Led by four wins, the Sewanee track and field teams wrapped up its indoor season with the annual Sewanee Invitational on March 1. In the field events, Amelia Gray won the women's pole vault (2.14m) and took fourth in the shot put (9.30m). In the men's pole vault, Will DuBose won over Birmingham-Southern's Hank Ballard with a mark of 3.35m. Amy Nelson then won the women's weight throw with a final throw of 11.69m.

The men's 4x800m relay team of Paul Sands, Alec Hill, Bradford Lepik and Amiel Emerson dominated the race with a time of 8:22.18.

Basketball

Conference-rival Rhodes led from start to finish, as the Lynx topped the Sewanee men's basketball team, 78-64, in the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) tournament on Feb. 28. An 18-4 run to start the game helped Rhodes defeat the Sewanee women's basketball team, 70-50, in the SAA tournament on Feb. 28.

Lacrosse

Despite having to change its lineup, the Sewanee women's lacrosse team dominated visiting Carthage, 16-7, on March 2. In goal, Crawford Horan was outstanding, finishing with a career-high 11 saves.

Four goals and four assists by Ellie Murphy helped the team to a 22-9 win over Hendrix on Feb. 28. Overall, Murphy finished with eight points and five shots.

A match-high three goals by Davis Brown helped the Sewanee men's lacrosse team to an 8-7 win over Kenyon on March 2. The Tigers jumped in front early, after Matthew Stiefel ripped a shot in from Hayden Byrd. Brown then pushed Sewanee's lead to 2-0 with a goal with 6:48 left in the first period. A goal by Stiefel and an unassisted shot by Michael Morris gave Sewanee a 4-1 lead. Along with Davis, Byrd finished with two assists while Morris added a goal and two assists. In goal, Tommy Healy earned his second win this season with 10 saves.

Tennis

The No. 15 Sewanee women's tennis team breezed past visiting Kenyon College on March 1 by a score of 8-1. Overall, the Tigers dropped only one set and a tiebreaker in singles, while winning all three doubles matches.

Despite an outstanding effort, the Sewanee men's tennis team dropped a 7-2 decision against Kenyon on March 1. The Tigers won at No. 4 when Eric Roddy defeated Nick Fiashetti in a close 7-5, 7-6 (2) contest. The final win by Sewanee came by Scott Gallimore as he outlasted Tristan Kate at No. 5 6-4, 4-6, 10-7.

Men's Golf

The Sewanee men's golf team closed out its first tournament, the Callaway Collegiate, with a 14th-place finish on March 2.

Saer Brown finished 33rd with a two-day 157. Timothy Walter was a shot back from Brown and finished in 38th place.

SAS Winter Athletic Awards

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School recently honored basketball, swimming and wrestling athletes at the Winter Athletic Awards. After individual teams met with coaches prior to the event, all athletes and families met in McCrory Hall for presentation of the Most Improved Player, the Most Valuable Player, and the Coaches Award winners. The players on the team select MIP and MVP.

Season highlights included:

The boys' basketball team finished with a 10-9 record. Eric Baynard was selected to the All-District team.

Senior basketball player Michaela Shackelford surpassed the 1,000-point mark for her career.

The girls' varsity swim team went 16-1 for the season and won the Division runner-up trophy. The boys' record was 16-2, and they placed third in division standing. Twelve swimmers—Erin Berner-Coe, Lucy Howick, Kayley McDowell, Eliza McNair, Eva Miller, Marisa Wilson, Joshua Alvarez, Matthew Baranco, Ethan Evans, Till Liesner, Daniel McNair and Sam Smith—participated in the regional meet. Smith and Evans qualified to go to the state swim meet. At the Snowball Invitational in January, the boys' team came in first, with the girls' team placing fourth. Howick broke the school record in the 50 breaststroke.

The wrestlers wrapped up their regular season with the Division II State Individual Qualifiers in February. Seth Horton secured a place in the state tournament. Hannah Dempsey, Ferah Fortune and Abby Mainzer participated in the girls' state wrestling tournament. Mainzer won the gold medal at the state tournament, and Fortune placed fourth. Mainzer finished the season with an 11-4 record.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

The hottest competition in town this week is the semifinal round of the 2014 Slam Dunk BBQ contest. In this event, eight faculty-led teams of six students are creating recipes, slow cooking pork, grilling ribs and tasting brisket. Each team is paired with a local expert from an area restaurant and has the opportunity to cook in a professional kitchen. Students are treated to personal time with their professors in an outside-the-classroom experience. Professors Rob Bachman, Virginia Craighill, Deb McGrath and Woody Register, along with their student team, will compete Monday night, March 10, at McClurg Dining Hall in the pork shoulder and wings event. On Friday, March 28, will be another round with Nancy Berner, Doug Williams, John Grammer and Scott Wilson standing over smoky BBQ pits to prepare ribs and brisket.

All of this slow cooking and secret recipes lead to student-faculty interaction on a college campus where community just happens. "Community" is a word we use a lot around here to describe this feeling of Sewanee togetherness that is as natural as fog in February. In a busy world where your long distance friends are but a few finger taps away, and their faces can appear on your phone's screen in an instant, we sometimes need a helpful nudge toward intentionally building local community that is forged through multiple respectful relationships where students, staff, local residents and faculty care deeply about one another. In the buildup to our contest, each team is gathering together in local restaurants or in the homes of faculty members to practice. Decisions have to be made, roles assigned and responsibilities accepted. I like my BBQ with coleslaw and beans, and you can't win by spooning it out of a jar. Cooking is like anything else. What you put into the pot is what you get out on the plate.

When I was a college student (about 150 years ago), my biggest worry was where to get carbon paper for my typewriter. Today's students are navigating a culture where relationships can be microwaved in a minute more easily than slow cooked over several years. Change is the new normal, and conformity means more than figuring out what boots are in style this fall. Colleges are faced with a student culture that deals with drug and alcohol issues, hazing, sexual misconduct and an active social life on top of academic and athletic commitments. The answers to these problems are not as clear as distilled water in a beaker or the slope of a parallel line. Solutions to problems come in the form of caring, commitment to others and respect for all. We are truly a community when we look out for one another and accept those who prefer their ribs slathered in tomato sauce and brown sugar over those of us who like apple cider vinegar and red pepper on our pulled pork.

On April 5, the University will sponsor the second annual Slam Dunk Final Four BBQ Championship in McClurg. Winning recipes from the various teams will be on the menu for dinner and represent hours of grilling, tasting and hopefully, talking. The big screen will feature the NCAA Final Four basketball games, and we can all gather to eat and meet someone new: maybe a student, a professor, a community member or someone who likes Duke when you know that Carolina wears the only real shade of blue. The bonds that are formed over a shared meal, a well-fought battle and living on a Mountain where real friends are more plentiful than Facebook posts: these are what give meaning to a simple word, "community."

To learn more or to participate, go to <http://cornerstone.sewanee.edu> and share your recipe for adding one more stone to what we are building together.

In addition to coaching tennis, John Shackelford is now a special assistant to Vice-Chancellor John McCardell working on the University's Cornerstone Initiative that seeks to draw on the strength of the unique community to foster positive and respectful relationships on the Sewanee campus.

NATURENOTES

By Jean Yeatman

Carolina Chickadee

Carolina Chickadee

"I looked out my side window," Jean Yeatman reports, "and saw two Carolina Chickadees excavating a nesting cavity at about eight feet off the ground. I had read that they would do this, but had never seen it. Their beaks are so small you would not think this was possible, but the wood in this small tree was so punky that they seemed to have no trouble. Both adults worked about two weeks at digging the hole, which may be six to eight inches deep in this soft wood. The nest is made of soft plant down, fibers, moss, hair, fur and feathers, matted together. The egg-laying often begins in March, with four to eight white eggs speckled with reddish brown. The male feeds the incubating female, and helps care for the young during their 17 days in the nest. When they get off the nest, they will often come as a family to the bird feeders."

This tiny gray bird has a black cap and black bib framing a white cheek patch. Its call is "chick-a-dee-dee-dee," and a whistled "fee-bee, fee-bay." These are year-round residents for us.

New birds to my ground feeding area on March 3 were a male Red-winged Blackbird, with his epaulets partially covered, just the yellow stripe on the wing showing, and two females. Next, three male Brown-headed Cowbirds came, accompanied by two females.

Ginger

Hunter

Pets of the Week

Meet Ginger & Hunter

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Ginger is a darling little 6-month-old Chihuahua/Terrier mix with hours of entertainment to offer. She wants a warm lap to snuggle in when she's not playing with her family. Ginger is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Hunter is a sweet kitty who survived in the woods for quite a while before he figured out that being a pet cat was really the best way to spend his life. He found a nice lady to take him in temporarily, and now he's at Animal Harbor waiting for his forever home. Hunter is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Donations may be sent to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Daffodil Day Festival in Bell Buckle

Bell Buckle will hold its 36th annual Daffodil Day Festival on Saturday, March 15.

For more than 100 years, Bell Buckle has been known for its daffodil-lined roads and farmlands, turning the entire town into a glowing sunray of springtime.

Thanks to Webb School's founder who began the mass plantings, Sawney Webb, a host of golden daffodils welcomes all those who visit the tiny, picturesque town.

The Daffodil Flower Show will be at the Bell Buckle Banquet Hall with many specimen and arrangement divisions.

There will be gardening and honey/beekeeping seminars while entries for the daffodil show are being accepted. All events are free to the public.

Vendors offering bulbs, spring bedding plants, honey, crafts and much more will be scattered throughout the town.

For the 14th year, Bell Buckle will be recognized as a Tree City USA, the smallest Tree City in the state. As part of the celebration, free tree seedlings will be given away throughout the day. Seedlings this year are Black Cherry, Chickasaw Plum, and Native Sweet Pecan. The 2014 Notable Tree of Bell Buckle will be named during the event.

For more information go to <www.bellbucklechamber.com> or call (931) 389-9663.

Perimeter Trail Hike on March 15

If your bucket list includes walking the full length of the Perimeter Trail, join members of the Tennessee Trails Association and do it the easy way, in pieces, on the third Saturday of each month, from now through May.

The group will meet at 9 a.m., Saturday, March 15, at the Blue Chair. They will carpool to the three or four-mile section for the day and eat lunch together afterward.

They plan to complete the 22 miles of the trail in eight increments and welcome hikers of any age.

Call Sally Hubbard at 598-5338 for more information.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

January's bearable

In spite of bad report.
Though February's terrible,
It's short.

With snows in proper season
Each burdens down the larch.
But March is full of treason,
And I hate March

Hold your hats and duck, boys, March is nearly due,
The sleet is on the windowpane, the slush is on the shoe.
The pneumococcus carols a loud, triumphant song,
And not a holiday's in sight the whole month long.

On many a wedding present
In June my ducats fly
The temperature's unpleasant
In July.
As August airs grow olden,
Hay fever's what I've got.
But any time seems golden
Compared to you-know-what.

Pick your shovels up, lads, you'll never know reprieve,
For March is on the threshold with a blizzard up its sleeve,
With a pussy-willow fable that is feeble on its facts,
And a brand-new estimation of your extra income tax.

—From "Songs for a Personal Prejudice" by Phyllis McGinley

[Note: McGinley died in 1978 when income tax day was March 15.]

2460 Castlerock Court in Clifftops

Built by a Certified Green Contractor, this home has it all! Over 1200 feet of brow rim provides a perfect site on which to place a 3881 sf, 4 bedroom, 3.5 bath home. The great room has a 28 ft. tall wood-burning fireplace with western cedar ceiling and a wall of windows to the panoramic southeasterly view of receding ridgetops and valley floor. A light-filled 20x14 dining room encourages conversation. Two elegant master suites are on the main level, two guest bedrooms above. A 24x23 finished bonus room, a screened porch with second fireplace and an oversized two-car garage complete this Geo-Thermal home with low, low electric bills. The kitchen has a center island, convection, gas and electric appliances for ease in entertaining. Outside, you are nestled on the brow amid wildflower gardens, stone outcroppings and 5.18 acres of tall Tennessee timber. If this sounds like your mountaintop home, call Ray at 931-235-3365 to set up a very private showing! MLS#1518851. $1,150,000.
