

Sewanee Marks 25 Years of Work in Jamaica

In January of this year, 16 Sewanee college students and six staff members traveled to Jamaica on an outreach trip, marking the 25th year of Sewanee's involvement in service work in Kingston. This year's trip focused on two organizations: the Alpha Boys' School and the Trench Town Culture Yard, each with different historical connections to Sewanee's program.

"Alpha is a school where we worked in 1990 and have not had the opportunity to return," said Sewanee outreach coordinator Dixon Myers. "Through a conversation with the administration at the school, we were able to offer our skills in videography, and we are now editing a series of short promotional films for this distinguished institution, and the Culture Yard is a living museum where we have had an ongoing relationship since 1998."

Both of these organizations have had a significant influence in the development of Jamaican music. Alpha Boys' School, established in 1880 by the Catholic Church, was founded as a "school for wayward boys" and became known for its disciplined music program, graduating renowned performers who contributed to the sound of Ska, Bluebeat and Reggae genres. The Trench Town Culture Yard is the home of Reggae legend Bob Marley. This site, part of the Jamaica National Heritage Trust, is one section of a housing scheme built in the 1940s to meet the demand of rural Jamaicans moving to the city. The city architect's concept of creating an urban public housing space, while being mindful of replicating the close relationships of a rural community, has often led to the statement, "Bob Marley did not make Trench Town; Trench Town

Corker to Students: "We Want a Stable World"

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

A stable world translates into "good paying jobs in Tennessee," Senator Bob Corker said, addressing the community on April 9 in a lecture sponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce. Corker spoke to a full house, with Gailor Auditorium packed to capacity and others viewing his talk via closed circuit TV.

"Terrorism pales in comparison to other international issues our nation is dealing with," Corker said.

Corker was recently elected chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He talked briefly about Russia's efforts to suppress the westernization of the Ukraine, China's strategy for expanding its territorial waters, and human trafficking, but he devoted his remarks primarily to deterring Iran from developing nuclear weapons.

Dozier Honored for Community Service

Association Approves Elliott Park Plans

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the April 15 dinner meeting, the Sewanee Civic Association honored Pixie Dozier with the Community Service Award for her selfless and compassionate work on behalf of others, particularly her volunteer work with the Community Action Committee and other Sewanee organizations.

Surprised and pleased by the honor, Dozier said, "The CAC has been my main project for 35 years. We couldn't do what we do without the support of the whole community."

Dozier served as the board chair of the CAC for more than a decade, seeing the CAC through difficult times. She staffed the office, delivered food, visited CAC clients, organized volunteers and did whatever was needed to make sure that people in need were cared for in a loving and respectful way.

Dozier has also played a vital role in the Sewanee Woman's Club, the Sewanee Garden Club, the Emerald-Hodgson Hospital Auxiliary, and was recently elected to serve a three-year term on the Sewanee Community Council.

During the business portion of the meeting, Civic Association President Kiki Beavers thanked Community Chest fund drive chairs Marilyn and Tom Phelps. The fund drive surpassed the $106,000 goal, raising a total of $106,352.

The Civic Association elected the following officers for the 2015-16 academic year: Kiki Beavers, president; Lynn Stubblefield, vice-president; Lisa Rung, treasurer; Cameron Swallow, secretary; Aaron Welch, member at large; Elizabeth Clark Duncan, director of Classifieds; and Stephen Burnett, Parks Committee chair.

A project of the Parks Committee for more than two years, the Elliott Park restoration reached a milestone with the members of the Civic Association approving a design with an estimated cost of $65,000.

The Parks Committee presented three designs for consideration. The recommended design approved by

National Day of Silence

Today, Friday, April 17, is the National Day of Silence, a student-led action across the United States that works to create safer schools for all, particularly for students who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transexual, or other gender identity or expressions.

The day is an opportunity for Sewanee students, faculty and staff to take a form of silence to call attention to the silencing effect of anti-LGBT bullying and harassment in schools.

"Breaking the Silence Week" locally is sponsored by Spectrum, the Gender and Sexual Diversity House, the Bairnwick Women's Center, Sewanee Interfaith, and the Diversity and Reconciliation Committee of the School of Theology.

School Board Selects New Director of Schools

Tennessee Native to Lead Franklin County System

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

The Franklin County School Board will offer the director of schools position to Amie Lonas, dean of academics and acting vice president for academic affairs at Joint Special Operations University at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla.

At a special called meeting on April 13, the board voted five to three, selecting Lonas over Stanley Bean, principal at North Middle School in Winchester, and Michael Murphy, superintendant at St. Clair R-XIII School District in St. Clair, Mo.

Raised in Dayton, Tenn., Lonas earned a bachelor's degree from University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, a master's degree from University of Tennessee-Knoxville, and worked in the Maryville and Jefferson City public schools. During her time as a principal in Jefferson City, she earned an Ed.D. in educational leadership from Vanderbilt University.

After serving an eight-month tour in Iraq as an Air Force Reserve officer, she assumed her present position in adult education at MacDill Air Force Base.

Lonas said in her application for the director position, "I have missed the rewards of working at the secondary level and in my home state of Tennessee."

Adam Tucker, Sewanee's school board representative, said this about Lonas: "She's very bright. She combines a good mind with compassionate empathy and an appropriate level of firmness and the ability to make hard decisions."

Board chairman Kevin Caroland said his goal was to have a signed contract by the next board meeting on Monday, April 20. Caroland asked the board to "give me latitude to negotiate on the salary."

Advertised salary range for the position was $95,000-$115,000. The board set a salary upper limit of $110,000 and a $6,000 maximum for relocation expenses.

Amie Lonas

The director's annual salary is set for the four-year contract term. The director's salary only increases when the state mandates a percentage across-the-board increase for certified school employees. Director of Schools Rebecca Sharber received a 1.5 percent raise during her seven years of service. Sharber's contract ends on June 30.

At the next board meeting, the board will address collecting student cell phones during TCAP testing to prevent disruption; demolition of the old Franklin County High School field house; selling the Oak Grove School; and approval of the 2015-16 school board budget.

TRAILS & TRILLIUMS SUCCESS To the Editor:

Sandwiched between two weeks of rainy weather, a miraculous two days of nothing but sunshine made the 12th perennial Trails and Trilliums Festival a huge success. New this year was a Children's Choir performance on Friday and a keynote presentation by Richard Louv on Saturday night. Many thanks are in order.

First to our host, the Monteagle Sunday School Assembly, and our sponsors, including the South Cumberland Community Fund, Tennessee Aquarium, Tennessee State Parks, Citizens State Bank, Doug Ferris, John Canale, Lodge Cookware, Piggy Wiggly, Sewanee Realty, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Adams and the Corner Market Catering Company. Also, to the University of the South, including the Collaborative for Southern Appalachian and Place-Based Studies, the education department, the office of Community Engagement and the office of Environmental Stewardship. A special thanks to the University's "How, then Shall We Live" program.

To our award winners, Yolande and Robin Gottfried, Sherry Guyear, Bonnie McCardell, Emily Partin and Karen Yu.

To our local artists, musicians and vendors who said "yes" when invited to participate in Art for the Park.

To our amazing volunteers, who presented programs, led hikes, led children's activities, created a dazzling art exhibition, hosted two elegant evening events, took photographs and registered more than 1,500 attendees for this event.

And to each of you who came out to celebrate wonderful weather, our woods, our talents and the worthwhile cause of the Friends of the South Cumberland, our heartfelt thanks.

Linda Parrish

THE BIBLE THE STATE BOOK? To the Editor:

An open letter to State Senator Ken Yager:

As an Episcopal priest, I am concerned about the proposal in the General Assembly to make the Bible the State Book of Tennessee. Those putting this proposal forward seem ignorant of the hurt and offense it will cause many Tennessee residents, including Christians. While the scriptures are not copyrighted, they belong to believers, not to the State.

Which Bible does this Assembly propose to bring under its jurisdiction—the Bible of the Catholic Church? The Anglican Communion, including our Episcopal Church, doesn't endorse the Roman Catholic canon, but includes some of its books under the heading Apocryphal Books. What about the Bible of the Orthodox Churches? Proponents may have in mind the King James Version as handed down from God, but which KJV? The original has the Apocryphal Books, but Queen Victoria, Lutheran-bred, told the royal printer to omit them forthwith.

Now for something completely different. Which translation of whichever Bible you pick, will you use? Will you stick to Hebrew or Greek? If not, one of the English translations? A suggestion would be that proponents print their own preference in their own language to be titled the "Bible for Dummies."

Francis Walter, Sewanee ■

FAMILY SAYS THANK YOU To the Editor:

Thank you from the family of Karen L. Bailey. To the many friends and relatives who have been so kind with cards, food, thought and prayers, I say thank you from the bottom of my heart. The last seven months have been so hard, but through the Lord's help and all your prayers, we walk day by day. Love each and every one of you.

TVA Outage in Sherwood April 25

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has scheduled a power outage for Duck River Electric Membership Corporation members living in the communities of Sherwood and Anderson of Franklin County.

The outage is scheduled for 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., Saturday, April 25.

This outage is necessary for TVA to replace several bad poles. It will affect all consumers in the Sherwood and Anderson area, but will not affect consumers in Sewanee, Cowan and Sinking Cove.

In the event of inclement weather, the outage will be rescheduled for May 23.

Duck River Electric appreciates the cooperation and understanding of its members during this planned outage, as it strives to improve the reliability of the electric system.

Vacation Bible School Planning Begins

Planning is beginning for the community-wide Vacation Bible School, which will be June 22–26, at St. James Episcopal Church in Midway. This year's theme is "G Force: God's Love in Action."

The first meeting will be at 5 p.m., Thursday, April 23, in the St. James Parish Hall.

VBS organizers will need youth and adult volunteers to provide leadership and assistance for the week-long event.

The week is based upon a rotation model, with crafts, Bible study and science activities linked to the scripture for the day, music, recreation and outreach.

For more information or to offer assistance, email the Rev. Linda Hutton at <justlinda@charter.net>.

Hunger Walk to Benefit Morton & CAC on April 25

Monteagle Sewanee Rotary, in partnership with the Community Action Committee of Sewanee, Morton Memorial United Methodist Church of Monteagle and the Mountain Goat Trail, is sponsoring the first annual Hunger Walk. On Saturday, April 25, the walk will begin at the Sewanee Angel Park; registration is at 9 a.m., with the walk beginning at 10 a.m.

Participants will walk to Pearls Café on the Mountain Goat Trail and return to Otey Parish, a total of five miles. The Hunger Walk will end at Claiborne Parish House, where a complimentary lunch will be served to all registrants. Registration for the event is $10 per person. Register or find more information online at <www.thehungerwalk.com> or call (931) 968-1127.

At the 110th state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, DAR state regent Susan Thomas (left) presented a donation to the Honor Flight of Middle Tennessee, which was accepted by retired Sgt. Maj. Larry E. Williams. For more information about these flights, contact Williams at (931) 924-3000.

the organization includes swing sets, a balance beam, bridge, climbing structures (a mushroom and monkey bars), spinning elements and a musical component.

Other criteria met by the approved design include use of natural and local materials. The retaining wall will use Sewanee stone.

The less costly design option, $50,000, used substantially more plastic and metal in play elements. The more costly option, $76,000, included more play elements.

The park will be ADA compliant and accessible, with access ramps at the adjoining sidewalk and parking lot.

Plans call for a community build in September with the designer, Game-Time, overseeing the work.

University Physical Plant Services (PPS) has verbally agreed to "light maintenance" once the park is completed, Burnett said. The Parks Committee plans to enter into a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the University to define ownership and maintenance responsibilities. Once drawn up, the MOU will be presented to the Civic Association membership for review.

Burnett thanked PPS for their ongoing help with site preparation and design considerations. He also thanked the Sewanee Community Council, which recently awarded the project $5,000 for playground equipment.

With a design approved, fund-raising will begin. Burnett estimated the final cost at $70,000, naming several unbudgeted expenses: base material, retaining walls, drainage and ADA access ramping.

made Bob Marley."

While considering sites for the group, Myers and Sewanee art professor Greg Pond recruited and organized a group of talented student videographers from Pond's film studies classes. Natalie Baxter, C'07, a film producer for CBS in New York and a former student of Pond's, joined the group as primary video instructor, interviewing a cast of Alpha personalities ranging from former teachers to present-day students. Rose Cochran, C'17, enthusiastically voiced, "It was amazing to get this kind of hands-on experience in a foreign country, to meet such amazing people and to have someone like Natalie, who works in the business, to teach us the ropes."

Another portion of the group worked through a long list of building projects in the Culture Yard, by repairing 35 of the original windows, building three dining tables and two sets of chairs and constructing two concrete wheelchair ramps. The tabletops were intricately set with mosaic tiles depicting contemporary community members of Trench Town. The students were taught these skills by Sewanee craftsman Bill Mauzy, aided by several talented Jamaicans.

Sewanee students and staff have been working on the Culture Yard project since its original renovation as a tourist site in 1998.

"This strikes at the heart of development work. What happens at the Culture Yard and its ability to draw tourists effects the food stand on the corner, the craft producers in the neighborhood, the tour guide industry and on and on" said Myers.

"Our ability to contribute over the long term has had lasting, visible results. Right now, several positive indicators exist in this neighborhood, one that has seen a lot of ups and downs. The tourists coming through are from Japan, Belgium, Germany, Brazil and Pennsylvania. It is amazing the influence Reggae has had worldwide, and its roots are right here."

Sewanee history professor Matthew Mitchell joined the group for four days. Following the work assignments, students stepped 450 years back in time and visited Port Royal, located at the mouth of Kingston Harbour, a place that was once the shipping and privateering capital of the Caribbean. This provided a golden opportunity for Mitchell, whose expertise is in British and Irish history 1500–1850, to teach from the location. History major Janie Hannon, C'15, whose concentration has been on the civil rights movement in the American South, said that after being in Kingston, she understands much better how the Caribbean and the slave trade in this region influenced the South. His lecture at Port Royal was filmed and will eventually be part of a series.

"I know this was a positive experience for the students and staff and every trip reminds me of how important it is to have a long-term relationship with the people at these sites and keep returning year after year," Myers said.

At Tucker's request, the section in the policy dealing with corporal punishment will be deferred to the May meeting for discussion. Tucker proposes a change from the present "opt-out" policy to an "opt-in" policy that would require parents to give permission for corporal punishment of their children. The change would provide the school system with greater legal protection and also encourage parents to think more diligently about the decision, Tucker said.

Looking at the budget for next year, Sharber said she expected total revenue and expenses to be similar to 2014–15. Caroland cautioned that decreasing enrollment trends will likely result in $700,000 less revenue from the state in the next few years. The decrease in enrollment is consistent from school to school, Caroland said, and averages out to two to three students per class, which doesn't justify decreasing the number of teachers.

Insurance Marketplace Enrollment Closes April 30

For those who have not enrolled to buy private health care insurance, with possible tax credit support, the Health Insurance Marketplace will reopen for enrollment through April 30. This period is open only for those who recently became aware of the tax penalty they have been subject to for not having a qualified insurance plan.

The best way to enroll is to call the American Exchange, (888) 995-1674.

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) announced a special enrollment period for individuals and families in Federally Facilitated Marketplace (FFM) states (including Tennessee) who did not have health coverage in 2014 and are subject to the penalty when they file their 2014 taxes.

CMS will provide consumers with an opportunity to purchase health insurance coverage through April 30. Those eligible for this special enrollment period live in FFM states and:

—are not currently enrolled in 2015 coverage (whether through the FFM, an employer or other source like the individual marketplace);

—attest that they are or will be subject to the fee for not having health coverage for all or part of 2014 when they file their 2014 taxes; and

—attest that they first became aware of, or understood the implications of the requirement to maintain minimum essential coverage (MEC) after the end of open enrollment (February 15, 2015) in connection with preparing their 2014 taxes.

Opinions differed widely about the April 2 "verbal political agreement with Iran," Corker said. Iran expects the economic sanctions imposed to pressure them into compliance to be lifted, but the details of the agreement have yet to be laid out. Iran has three nuclear facilities, two capable of producing weapons grade nuclear material.

"We don't know," what's going on at these facilities, Corker said, and "We don't know if Iran is trustworthy."

Corker will advance bipartisan legislation requiring the final agreement be made public; giving Congress authority to approve the agreement, with sanctions remaining in place if approval is denied; and requiring the president to certify Iran is in compliance every 90 days.

The goal of the agreement, he said, was to increase the "breakout time," the time it will take Iran to develop nuclear weapons, from three months, where it stands now, to a year, in the hope that over the ten-year span of the agreement, the political climate improves.

"We're the richest nation in the world," Corker said, "with only 4.5 percent of the world's population, but with 22 percent of its GDP." "We want a stable world," he said, in order to maintain that economic advantage.

Asked what the federal government was doing to strengthen the economic stability of rural communities by supporting the growth of small businesses, Corker said there were "too many regulatory burdens on small businesses," and he wanted to see that change. "The pendulum needs to swing more back toward the center."

Responding to concerns about human trafficking in Tennessee, particularly prostitution, Corker said a bill sponsored by U.S. Senator John Cornyn (R-Texas) will "tweak existing laws" to enable the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation (TBI) to utilize surveillance to address the problem. Men and women are advertised for sale on the internet, Corker said, but existing laws hamper the TBI's ability to deal with the issue.

Corker's "End Modern Slavery Initiative" focuses on slavery and human trafficking outside U.S. borders. Corker became passionate about ending slavery and human trafficking after talking with 20 young women from the Philippines who had been forced into sexual servitude.

Carolyn Hoagland

Hoagland to Lead University Farm

The University has named Carolyn Hoagland as the new manager of the University Farm. "Her numerous strengths are a perfect match for the next phase of development of the University Farm as an integral part of our stewardship and sustainability efforts," said Marvin Pate, director of sustainability integration at Sewanee.

Hoagland is finishing a Ph.D. in soil and crop science from Colorado State University, where she also completed a master's degree. She is a soil ecologist with dedication to sustainability principles and student collaboration.

"We look forward to her ability to bridge cross-disciplinary boundaries and to lead consensus-building efforts, as the University Farm continues to grow and diversify," Pate said.

Hoagland will be familiar to many in the community, as she moved to the Sewanee area in 1999 and lived here for 12 years before embarking on her graduate education. While in Sewanee, she was involved with Sewanee Utility District, the South Cumberland Regional Land Trust and led the process to establish a farm at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School.

Pate said Hoagland's leadership will follow that of Gina Raicovich, who brought the University Farm out of hibernation through heroic efforts and positioned it for this next exciting step in its future.

Peterman Wins State Community Service Award

Sewanee professor Jim Peterman is the recipient of a 2015 Harold Love Outstanding Community Service Award. The awards are presented by the Tennessee Higher Education Commission to recognize demonstrated effectiveness in public service. Each year, five students and five faculty or staff members are honored from colleges statewide.

Peterman, professor of philosophy and director of community engagement at Sewanee, was nominated for his work to transform communities on the South Cumberland Plateau: building partnerships with community leaders, launching new service programs for students, pioneering the use of course-based community engagement, and creating new connections with the Corporation for National and Community Service through a VISTA program on campus.

In helping transform the community, Peterman also transformed his career. As a professor, he determined that teaching philosophy must be connected to the real problems faced by people in our communities. In his long-standing commitment to community engagement, he advocated for and eventually created Sewanee's Office of Community Engagement, of which he is now the director. He was recently recognized by the Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace for his extraordinary community service.

In his letter nominating Peterman, Vice-Chancellor John McCardell said, "Jim Peterman has redefined what a philosophy professor can achieve by creating strong partnerships, seeking out new opportunities for service, and learning from everyone he meets. His work is intensely practical, and he brings to it an ability to overcome obstacles through cheerful tenacity. I believe that he amply represents the values that are raised up through this award."

"I am deeply appreciative of my colleagues, as well as our community partners who nominated me for the Harold Love award," said Peterman. "Without them and many others, including the Bonner and Canale service interns and our VISTA volunteers, I would not be doing what I do. Community engagement, like many other things, takes a village. This award is a recognition of the work of all of us."

Peterman will be honored next week at a reception in Nashville. The Harold Love award requires demonstrated public service beyond the scope of a nominee's regular job, as well as evidence of the success of his or her service. It was created by the Tennessee General Assembly in 1991.

Performing Arts Camp Set for Summer

Performing Arts Camp 2015 will be from 10 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday, June 22–26, at the Sewanee Community Center. Approximately 12–15 spots are available.

Participants will learn all kinds of dance styles, working with different media to tell stories through movement. They will also study acting, improvisation, working with props and different styles of music, storytelling, musical theater, costuming, music, crafting and choreography. The fee is $95 per child. To reserve a place contact teacher Debbie Blinder at <debbie@fullcirclecandles.com>.

Healing Programs for Women

Eva Malaspino will offer her program, "All Women are Healers," 10 a.m.–noon, Saturday, April 18, at Stillpoint in Sewanee. The first meeting will discuss energy healing modalities and their application to daily life. There will be hands-on demonstrations, as well as group participation exercises that help develop awareness of body energy fields.

Future classes will include "Sacred Spaces," "Self Healing," and "Healing Through Journaling." Though there are a series of classes, each one stands alone. There is a $15 fee for participation, and pre-registration is suggested due to space limitations. For more information or to make a reservation contact Malaspino at (423) 413-0094 or by email, <firstfemale13@yahoo.com>.

Nontombi Naomi Tutu

Naomi Tutu will be SAS Baccalaureate Speaker

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School has announced that race and gender justice activist Nontombi Naomi Tutu will be the baccalaureate speaker during commencement weekend. Tutu will speak at 5:30 p.m., Friday, May 15, at the Outdoor Altar on the campus of SAS.

"We are so pleased to have the passion and perspective from a woman of such deep experience and faith as Naomi Tutu come to speak to our students," said the Rev. John Thomas, head of school. "We are honored she accepted our invitation."

Naomi is the third child of Archbishop Desmond Tutu and Nomalizo Leah Tutu. She was born in South Africa and had the opportunity to live in many communities and countries. She was educated in Swaziland, the United States and England, and has divided her adult life between South Africa and the United States. Growing up the "daughter of ..." has offered her many opportunities and challenges in her life. Most important of these has been the challenge to follow her own path and role in building a better world. She has taken up the challenge and channeled the opportunities she has been given to raise her voice as a champion for the dignity of all.

The challenges of growing up black and female in apartheid South Africa have been the foundation of Naomi Tutu's life as an activist for human rights. Those experiences taught her that the whole human family loses when situations of oppression are accepted, and how the teaching and preaching of hate and division injure us all.

In addition to speaking and preaching, Tutu has established Nozizwe Consulting. Nozizwe means "Mother of Many Lands" in Xhosa and is the name she was given by her maternal grandmother. The guiding principle of Nozizwe Consulting is to bring different groups together to learn from and celebrate their differences, while acknowledging their shared humanity.

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Commencement weekend events will be May 15–17. Tutu's son, Mpilo, is a member of this year's 44-member graduating class.

Honors Day is Saturday, May 16, at 10 a.m. The commencement Eucharist and Exercises begin at 10 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Attention Consumers of Duck River Electric Membership Corporation

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has scheduled a power outage for DREMC members living in the communities of Sherwood and Anderson of Franklin County.

The outage is scheduled for Saturday, April 25, from 6:00 a.m. until approximately 10:00 a.m.

This outage is necessary for TVA to replace several bad poles. This outage will affect all consumers in the Sherwood and Anderson area but will not affect consumers in Sewanee, Cowan and Sinking Cove. In the event of inclement weather, the outage will be rescheduled for May 23.

Duck River Electric appreciates the cooperation and understanding of its members during this planned outage as we strive to improve the reliability of the electric system.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

by Elizabeth Ellis

Sir Toby, The Critic's valiant sidekick: Every good critic needs a good rating system, and there's nothing on the planet more critical than cats, so one movie each week is rated from one to five Tobys. The more Tobys there are, the better it is!

Sir Toby

American Sniper

7:30 p.m. • Thursday-Monday, April 16-20
2014 • Rated R • 132 minutes

This Clint Eastwood-directed film focuses on the personal true narrative of Navy SEAL sniper Chris Kyle, played by Bradley Cooper. Hailing from Texas, Kyle, who was murdered in 2013, is lauded by the U.S. Armed Forces as one of its finest snipers and credited with more than 161 kills. Riveting and sometimes heart-wrenching, Cooper packed on massive weight to bulk up for the role, and worked with Kyle's wife, Taya, to get a sense of what the man was like in his private life. In interviews, Cooper says that at the heart of "American Sniper" is a deep love story about two people who struggle with the psychological aftermath of the tours and the toll it takes on Kyle. Winner of one Oscar, it is rated R for disturbing war violence and language throughout, and is best suited for older teens and adults.

Leviathan

7:30 p.m. • Tuesday, April 21
2014 • Rated R • 140 minutes

This Russian film takes place on a small coastal town in the Barents Sea, part of the Arctic Ocean. There, Kolya and his family live peacefully, until a corrupt mayor of the town decides that Kolya's property on the waterfront is prime real estate and threatens to take it all away from him. Kolya fights back by calling on an old friend in Moscow who is a fierce attorney to help them fight back. Nominated for Best Foreign Language Film of the Year in this year's Oscar race, the eye of the camera captures all the rough blue-grey hues of the bitterly cold landscape that provides the perfect backdrop for this raw story of grit and determination against corruption. The deceptively simple plotline scales its way into a broad commentary on Russia's brutal past and present challenges as a country today. Rated R for language and some sexuality and graphic nudity, this one is best left for older teens and adult audiences who can enjoy its subtle nuances and hard-hitting plot.

Breakfast at Tiffany's

7:30 p.m. • Wednesday, April 22
1961 • Not Rated • 115 minutes

With her upswept hairdos, body-hugging dresses, and independent streak, Audrey Hepburn set the attitude and style for thousands of women with her Oscar-winning performance as NYC it-girl Holly Golightly. On the surface, she is a sleek, sophisticated socialite who gets paid to be a pretty face to take men out on the town and show them the city lights. In reality she is living in a partially furnished apartment on the East Side with a cat with no name and is forever misplacing her keys. Paul Varjak, played memorably by George Peppard, is a struggling writer who becomes Holly's neighbor, and he becomes enamored of her struggle to find real integrity underneath her glittering but insubstantial social circles. Although Mickey Rooney's turn playing an absent-minded Japanese neighbor is definitely offensive by today's standards, the love story stands the test of time with the haunting "Moon River" theme by Henry Mancini and solid writing by Truman Capote.

The Imitation Game

7:30 p.m. • Thursday-Monday, April 30-May 4
2014 • Rated PG-13 • 114 minutes

How does one break an unbreakable code? Based on the biographical book "Alan Turing: The Enigma" by Andrew Hodges, Turing is played by Benedict Cumberbatch, who is portrayed as a dismissive, brilliant loner who prefers manipulating numbers over dealing with social situations. He is hired by the British government to help decrypt Enigma, a communication machine used by the Nazis. The problem is Enigma is recoded every day, making the codes from the previous day obsolete. While the team of mathematicians work tirelessly to crack Enigma's secrets, Turing decides to fight fire with fire and build a machine—that would become a precursor to today's computer technology—that would immediately decode anything coming out of Enigma on any day. The entrance of Joan (Keira Knightley), the lone woman on the team, helps soften Turing's rough edges and brings cooperation between Turing and the other team members to handle the intense pressure they are all working under. "The Imitation Game" won an Oscar this year for Best Writing and Adapted Screenplay by Graham Moore. Rated PG-13 for sexual references, mature thematic material and smoking, this film is an intense and fascinating historical ride that may be too sophisticated for the very young, but an absolute thrill ride for everyone else.

Celebrated Composer Returns to Sewanee for Workshops & Concert

Composer Sydney King returns to Sewanee for the world premiere of his "Tangos Descarados" commissioned by the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra. "Tangos Descarados" will be performed by the SSO during its concert "Concierto! Musics from Latin America" at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 24, in Guerry Auditorium at the University of the South.

King's compositions have been performed by artists and ensembles throughout the country. A gifted teacher, King serves as professor of double bass and music education at the University of Louisville School of Music. He has served on the faculty of the Sewanee Summer Music Festival since 2006. In 2011 and 2015, he was named Teacher of the Year by the Kentucky chapter of the American String Teachers Association.

In conjunction with "Concierto! Musics from Latin America," the SSO and King are hosting two workshops that are open to the public.

"Discovering Cultures through Music," will be at 3 p.m., Friday, April 24, in Gailor Auditorium. King and members of the SSO will discuss how the study of musical traditions increases one's understanding of cultural characteristics.

"Strings and the Music of the Cumberland Plateau," will be at noon, Saturday, April 25, in McClurg Dining Hall. Music teachers in the region and those interested in music pedagogy are invited to exchange thoughts about the development of new pedagogical repertoire for all levels of string players and students inspired by musical influences from the Cumberland Plateau region. A $40 stipend is available to the first 20 music teachers in the area who register and attend, and lunch will be provided.

Through a grant from the Collaborative for Southern Appalachian and Place-Based Studies all events are free and open to the public, and free parking is available. For more information email <orchestra@sewanee.edu>.

West Releases New Doctornorm Music CD

Norman West of Sewanee, also known as "Doctornorm," has released a new CD, "The Message is the Music," which includes 13 original songs and one cover. West is a clinical psychologist who also teaches at the University of the South.

The official CD release party will be 7–10 p.m., Saturday, April 25, at the Village Tavern in Sewanee. The $15 cover charge includes a copy of the CD, a digital download card of the entire album, buy-one-get-one beer, free wine and hors d'oeuvres. Additional singer/songwriters performing include Bob DeYoung, Amy Beville and Mitch Collins.

Doctornorm has been performing since age 15 when he and Dru Schenck formed a rock band with three friends who were students at Sewanee Military Academy. He subsequently played in a very successful folk group, The Innside Five. This group competed against 75 other bands in Tennessee to win a recording contract with Dot Records. Their single, "Going Away for to Leave You," was released nationwide.

Doctornorm has performed for years on the mountain, having played at Moonshine Maggie's, Lorena's Coffee Shop, Smoke'n B's Barbecue, the Smokehouse and private house concerts. He has played in Chattanooga at the Southern Gentleman's Steak House, Sugar's Ribs, Meo Mio's and MaGoos.

He has performed for several national conventions in Nashville, as well as in Kansas City, Mo. Last year he performed at the Smoky Mountain Songwriters Festival at Loco Burro in Gatlinburg. Most recently he has performed at Local's Bar and Grill in Ackworth, Ga.; Fahrenheit's Pub and Grill in Panama City Beach, Fla.; and the Celtic Cup in Tullahoma.

Doctornorm's CD is available online at CDBaby, Amazon, iTunes, Rhapsody, Spotify and other outlets.

Franklin County Arts Guild Hosts Microbrewery Tasting on Saturday

Franklin County Arts Guild presents Arts & Ales, a tasting celebration of the art of brewing, on Saturday, April 18, at Monterey Station in Cowan. More than a dozen microbreweries will be at the event, as well as art exhibits, live music and brewing demonstrations. Festivities will begin at noon and run until 4:30 p.m.

Microbrew samples will be available from Sierra Nevada, Leinenkugel's, the Black Abby Brewing Company, Blue Moon, Straight to Ale of Huntsville, Old Shed Down South Brewing of Tullahoma, Samuel Adams, Fat Bottom Brewing, Wooden Skiff of Hilton Head, Singing River Brewing Company, Lagunitas Brewing Company, Blackstone Brewing Company of Nashville and Tennessee Brew Works "Finely Tuned Beer." IDs will be checked at the door; you must be 21 to attend.

Tickets for the event are $20 per person in advance or $25 at the door. A "designated driver's ticket" is available for $10 at the door (no tasting). Tickets can be purchased online at <www.artsandales.com>.

Songwriter and musician Dana Rogers will perform at the event. Her musical style is an American mosaic of acoustic finger-style jazz, funk, soul, pop and rock. She has been performing professionally since 1997.

Among artists exhibiting their work is Nancy Wallace, an award-winning creator of artist's books using the methods of monks in the fourth century, including binding with exposed Coptic stitching. G. Dwain Adams will exhibit both his bird carvings and bird watercolors. He says the art of seeing a bird emerge from a wood block keeps him carving. He carves decorative decoys, as well as smaller songbirds. He also works in watercolor.

Anna Kathryn Anderson will exhibit a number of pieces that include work in pen-and-ink wash drawings, acrylics, oil on linen, charcoal and figure studies in charcoal. In addition, she will be demonstrating a number of mixed media techniques for interested attendees.

Frances Perea will be demonstrating Artist Trading Card techniques. Margie Gallagher will also be exhibiting watercolor and pen-and-ink drawings inspired by her scanning and transmission electron microscopy work research work on rockfish. Marsha Carnahan will be showing her plein air work in acrylic. Jennie Flatt will demonstrate block printing. Joe Butler will demonstrate bottle cork crafting.

Franklin County Lawn and Landscaping and Merrill/Rigsby Properties are sponsors of the event, which is a fundraiser for Franklin County Arts Guild. Proceeds will be used to promote visual and performing arts in Franklin County.

For more information go to <http://facebook.com/artsandales> or call (931) 308-4130.

University Choir Presents Spring Concert

The University Choir will present its annual Spring Concert at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 22, in All Saints' Chapel.

The program includes music from several historical periods: Handel's "Coronation Anthem—Zadok the Priest," two motets by Johannes Brahms, former King's Singer Bob Chilcott's Nidaros Jazz Mass, accompanied by a jazz trio led by professor Kash Wright, and the "Te Deum in C for Maria Theresa" by Franz Joseph Haydn.

The concert is under the direction of professor of music and University organist Robert Delcamp.

Art Workshops on April 25 at SAS Gallery

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is hosting a day-long celebration of art by eighth- through 12th-grade students from across the region on Saturday, April 25. Mira Gerard, a 1986 graduate of SAS, will offer the event's keynote address at 9:15 a.m. in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts.

Workshops on Saturday, April 25, will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Reservations are required to attend; the cost is $10 for lunch. Workshops will be:

Paul Ward, Composition in Photography—Every photographer is responsible for what ends up in their photographs. Learn techniques and approaches that professional photojournalists use when deciding what to include in the composition of an image and what to omit. Participants will have photography assignments, and work will be assessed during the workshop. Class requirements: digital camera (with freshly charged battery) and memory card.

Kimerlen Moore, STEAM and Art Education—In this workshop, an assortment of materials that are unique to the elementary classroom will be introduced, and several projects using these materials will be completed. A cardboard sculpture project based on Alexander Calder's work will be one of these projects, in addition to two different printmaking approaches and a Matisse lesson integrating math, science and art.

Judy Condon, Mask Making in Clay—Our faces convey so much meaning without a word being uttered—so much psychological weight just with the lift of an eyebrow or the furrow of a brow. Facial expressions are powerful conveyors of meaning. In this mask-making workshop, we will explore how to use clay expressively to form a mask with facial features, textures and colors that all together tell a story without words.

Greg Pond, Introduction to 3D Printing—This workshop will introduce the basics of Computer Aided Design (CAD) and 3D Printing. Students will learn how to create CAD models with software and a 3D scanner that are suitable for printing. This class will provide an overview of the range of possibilities offered by 3D printing and related new technologies.

The day will conclude with a gallery reception from 3 to 4:30 p.m. St. Andrew's-Sewanee School invited teachers and students of area schools to submit up to 20 pieces of eighth–12th grade art. Both two-dimensional and three-dimensional works were eligible. Gerard selected 44 works from 77 entries to be exhibited. She will announce the Merit awards during the celebration.

The public is invited to view the exhibit in the SAS Gallery weekdays through April 25 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This is free and open to the public. Contact Gallery Director Molly Schaefer at (931) 598-5651 extension 3151, or <sasgallery@sasweb.org> for more information.

SAS Middle School Tennis Team Earns Victories

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school tennis team competed on April 9 against Tullahoma. The girls' team won, 5-2. Tessa Shackelford, Anna Post and Jenna Black each garnered singles wins, followed by doubles victories from Shackelford and Post, and Black and Mary Brooks Donald. The boys' team played well, but was unable to put together a win, falling 6-0.

On April 11, SAS hosted Harding Academy. It was a morning of great tennis, with both teams earning victories. On the girls' side, Shackelford, Post and Black won singles matches, and Shackelford and Donald teamed up to win their doubles match. The boys' team played some of its best tennis yet. Nathan King and Tim Nelson each won two singles matches. King and Nelson then captured a doubles win, as did Nelson and Cole Palmertree. The middle school girls' record is now 3-1, and the boys' are 1-3.

Volleyball Teams in Action

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school volleyball team defeated Pelham Elementary, 25-10 and 25-15, and North Elementary School, 25-15 and 25-20, on April 13 at SAS.

In the Pelham match, Morgan Phares recorded four aces and two kills; Mary B. Smith had four aces; Saje Mangru had two aces and two digs; Katie Finn Hurst posted two kills; Kendal James had four aces; and Cate Bachman had two aces and two digs.

The junior varsity team lost to Pelham, 17-15. Lauren Wockasen, Zoe Wallace, Megan Griffith and Isabella Randolph turned in strong performances for SAS.

In the middle school junior varsity match against North, Phares had three aces; Smith posted two aces; Hurst had three aces and two digs; and Bachman, two aces. The team defeated North, 15-13, with a strong serving performance by Polly Thurman.

On April 10, the Lady Mountain Lions took on their tough rival, Monteagle Elementary, as well as the Swiss Memorial Elementary volleyball team. The middle school varsity fell to both teams after three sets in each match, and the junior varsity lost to Swiss, but came back with a win over the Monteagle Hornets.

Smith led the varsity team in the Swiss match with seven aces, two kills, and three assists. Hurst also stepped up with four kills and two aces. Phares had the leading amount of serve receptions of the night.

During the Monteagle match, Bachman acquired six service points, and Mangru led in digs. For junior varsity, Wallace and Wockasen drove their team toward a win over Monteagle with their service points and digs. Wockasen had three aces, and Wallace had two aces and five digs.

The Lady Mountain Lions will face Pelham and North at home on April 20.

SAS Varsity Tennis Update

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School varsity boys' and girls' tennis teams traveled to Chattanooga on April 9 to play Webb School of Knoxville. Webb Knoxville was a formidable opponent. The SAS teams fought hard, making their opponents work for every point, but SAS fell, 7-0.

On April 10, the girls' team hosted St. Cecilia Academy. While SAS had its chances, they were unable to convert any singles wins, dropping two matches in the third set.

St. Cecilia forfeited the No. 1 and No. 2 doubles matches, making the final score 5-2.

On April 13, the teams traveled to Warren County High School. It was a tight match for the boys. Filip Martyni-Orenowicz and Aubrey Black fought back from a 4-7 deficit to win, 9-7, at No. 2 doubles.

Yudong Yin earned a default at No. 5 singles. Martyni-Orenowicz added a singles win at No. 2, and Black battled from behind at No. 4, finally winning, 8-6, and clinching the team win. Missing its No. 1 player, the girls' team was unable to find its groove, losing to Warren County, 6-0.

Finally, on April 14, SAS hosted Shelbyville. The boys' continued to dig deep. Martyni-Orenowicz and Black took the No. 2 doubles match, 8-1. In singles action, Joshua Bramwell-Butcher won at No. 1, Edward Kang won at No. 3, and Aubrey Black won at No. 4.

The girls' team was forced to fight hard, playing out of position due to sick players. Unfortunately, the girls fell, 5-2.

Hailey Nelson earned a win at No. 5 singles. Nelson and Lindsay Rhys teamed up at No. 2 doubles for the girls' second win of the evening.

The boys' team record improved to 3-3, while the girls' record fell to 2-5.

SAS Hires Brewster as New Golf Coach

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School has named John Brewster as the golf coach for the 2015-16 season. Brewster will succeed coach Dan Hatfield, who retired at the end of the season.

Brewster has a bachelor's degree in economics from Sewanee and a master of landscape architecture degree from the University of Georgia. He is the assistant golf professional, PGA Apprentice Level 1, at The Course in Sewanee.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School ended its regular season with a 16-1 record.

The team placed second in the Division II-A regional meet and qualified for the TSSAA Division II-A state golf championship, where they finished fifth with a two-day total of 689. SAS junior Tommy Oliver finished sixth overall.

Baynard Selected to All-State Team

St. Andrew's-Sewanee's Eric Baynard was selected to the 2014-15 Tennessee Sports Writers Association All-State Basketball Team. Baynard's 13 points and five assists per game made him a key player in the Mountain Lions' 16-8 season.

"Eric has been part of three winning seasons at SAS," said head coach Rob Zeitler. "His ability to run the offense and remain calm under pressure has been a real asset to our team. Eric's grit and toughness has set the tone for our teams during the last four years."

Baynard, son of Le Shawn and Chandra Baynard of East Point, Ga., is a senior boarding student at SAS. He is a Claiborne Scholarship recipient, which is awarded to boarding students who have the strength to lead, the aptitude for academic excellence and the desire to serve.

He is also an honors student and is in the SAS House Program Leadership as vice-president. Baynard has been selected to the Division II-A All-District team in basketball for two seasons in a row. He has also received Most Valuable Player honors in basketball and track and field. Baynard holds the school record in the decathlon.

Sewanee Swimming and Diving Teams Offer Clinic

Local youth swimmers have an opportunity to work on skills at the Sewanee swim and dive team's clinic on April 25 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Age requirements are: 4–6-year-olds must be able to get in the water by themselves; 7–8 must be able to swim the length of the pool by themselves; 9–10 must be able to swim one stroke legally; 11 and up must be able to swim two strokes legally.

Swimmers and divers will receive one-on-one attention in a relaxed group environment. The 4–6-year-old swimmers will work on developmental swimming techniques; 7–8-year-olds will receive technique work for all strokes (depending on ability). Ages 9 and above will work on technique, turns and starts for each stroke.

Divers will work together on skills and techniques. To be eligible for the clinic, divers must be able to swim in the deep end by themselves, but no other skills are necessary.

Swimmers and divers will divide for the first hour, and for the last half hour, participants will come together for fun and competitive relays.

Cost is $30 per swimmer/diver; family rate for two swimmers/divers is $55, and for three swimmers/divers, the cost is $80. Payment will be accepted on the day of the clinic. All proceeds go to the Sewanee swim and dive team training trip. For more information email <h2o@sewanee tigersharks.com>.

Summers to Coach Tigersharks

Alyssa Summers, Mountain Aquatic Club assistant coach, former Lawrence University swimmer, and professor of biology and biochemistry at the University of the South, will coach the Sewanee Tigersharks for the summer season.

Nan Long has agreed to be the rookie coach for this season, and Sewanee swim coach Max Obermiller will work with silver and gold swimmers in the evenings.

Summers started her swim career at the age of 10 on a summer league team and then moved to year-round swimming with the Vancouver Swim Club in Washington and then with the Multnomah Aquatic Club in Portland, Ore., in high school.

She attended Lawrence University, where she was a national team member and the Midwest Conference Swimmer of the Year in 1997, 1998 and 1999.

Summers set several Lawrence University records, three of which are still standing. She was inducted into the Lawrence Hall of Fame in 2010.

In addition to her strong background as a swimmer and coach with the local Mountain Aquatic Club, Summers has served as the assistant coach for the Appleton YMCA swim team, assistant coach for Nike summer swim camps and was a swim instructor for Vanderbilt Summer Swim.

She is married to Rich Summers and lives in Sewanee with her two children, Anara, 5, and Eli, 22 months.

Nan Long spent six years as the 10 and under coach with Tullahoma Swim Club, served as assistant coach for the Tigersharks one summer and spent two years teaching private swim lessons.

Additionally, she was the assistant coach of the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School swim team for three years, head coach for four years, and was named Coach of the Year in 2013.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

In the fall of 1988, during my third year of coaching tennis at the University, a young man from Bozeman, Mont., showed up on campus and told me that he wanted to try out for the team. Although Montana is sometimes known to be a hotbed of rodeo recruits, there were more freckles on this young man's face than there are tennis courts in the Western states. Ramsey McGrory (C'92) told me that his father John had graduated from Sewanee in 1952 and was now an Episcopal priest back home in Montana. Ramsey told me there would be one problem with him being on the tennis team: He wouldn't be available to practice or play one weekend a month while he was serving in the Army Reserves. With a backhand that found the bleachers as often as it hit the baseline, how could I turn this young man down?

One day, in the middle of his senior year, Ramsey came to our house with all his possessions neatly folded into a couple of duffle bags. He was in his brown and green camouflage uniform and told us that his unit had been called up to head to the Middle East for Operation Desert Storm.

"Could I store my college gear in your attic for a few months?" Ramsey was never a star for Tiger tennis, but you cannot put a price on the value of a young man to a team who chooses to spend his weekends serving his country rather than serving his buddies from a keg.

Today I have a young man on my team who has written several wonderful columns for the Messenger in this space. Eric Roddy is a junior from Chattanooga with a 4.0 GPA who wins 90 percent of his tennis matches and volunteers eight hours a week in the Grundy County Schools as a Bonner Scholar. He changes his major about as often as Ramsey applied zinc oxide to his nose back in the early 90s, but I remember that as a high school senior, Eric told me he wanted to be in sports journalism. (He currently writes a blog about his beloved Miami Dolphins.) Eric needed an internship this summer to kick-start his career in who-knows-what field. I had advised Eric three years ago that the liberal arts specialize in preparing us just for who-knows-what. Ramsey runs ad sales and publishing in New York City for Scout.com, a sports website that oozes testosterone through your laptop screen. These two guys needed to meet.

Ramsey offered Eric an internship this summer writing about sports, putting Elizabeth Grammer's lessons to use when editing copy, and fetching his coffee whenever needed. Internships in NYC don't exactly pay the rent on summer apartments that can cost more than a house in Tennessee, so Ramsey and his wife, Courtney, graciously offered to let Eric live in their house this summer and take the train into Manhattan every morning in exchange for a few tennis lessons for their children.

My daughter Sadie, who is a junior at Middlebury College, also found an internship in New York through a Sewanee connection with one of our former players, Laura Fanjoy (C'07) who was her big sister in Sewanee's "Big People for Little People" program. Laura's old boss from her first job was now a CEO of a fashion company and after a couple of interviews, Sadie was employed for the summer just like Eric. Two of my players will be working this summer as interns for another former Tiger, Wyatt Harper, Sewanee's C'09 valedictorian, who is director of finance for the Andy Roddick Foundation. A year ago Wyatt reached out to some of his tennis connections to help my oldest daughter, Avery, find her first job out of college in Austin, Texas.

Bronte Goodhue, who plays number one on the women's tennis team and is currently a three-time All-American, will be working for the investment banking firm Allen & Company after her graduation in May. A guy with my salary doesn't have a lot of investment bankers in NYC listed among the contacts on his phone, so I called a couple of Tiger Tennis alums that have invested a dollar or two outside of their native Alabama. I told them Bronte was the real deal and could add, subtract and do derivatives better than she could volley. These guys love Sewanee, and they picked up the phone to call friends on Wall Street. Bronte interviewed, did an intensely competitive internship last summer and is now gainfully employed after graduation.

When I called Ramsey last week to thank him for all he is doing for Eric, he said, "I remember what Sewanee did for me. This is my way of paying that back." I have got to tell you: that makes lacing up my tennis shoes everyday more than just a little worthwhile.

Dragonfly Beauties

This is the time of year when Odonates (dragonflies and damselflies) begin to emerge on the Domain, reports Robley Hood. Wherever there is a body of water, there is likely to be a population of these fascinating insects. Over the last five years or so, Hood has been photographing and studying Odonates, and since being challenged to create a species list by biology professor Kirk Zigler in May 2011, she has recorded 36 species of dragonfly and 25 of damselfly.

In the past weeks, she has seen Fragile Forktails, Common Green Darners, Springtime Darner, Common Baskettails, Blue Corporals and Carolina Saddlebags. A set of three short videos taken by Hood of a dragonfly emergence may be seen here: <mydailysnap.blogspot.com/2015/04/easter-emergence.html>.

Trails & Trilliums Shakerag Report

After two walks through Shakerag for the Trails & Trilliums event, Yolande Gottfried offers the following report:

"All three species of trillium were in bloom: Little Sweet Betsy (toadshade), Large-flowered (white), and Southern Red (sulcate). Other outstanding bloomers were Purple Phacelia covering large boulders and the forest floor, Celandine Poppy at or just past peak, Blue Cohosh, Dwarf Larkspur, Rue Anemone, Blue Phlox, and Giant or Star Chickweed. Some Halberd-leaved Violets were still in bloom, along with Smooth Yellow Violet, Long-spurred Violet, Common Blue Violet, Sweet White Violet and the latest blooming violet there, Canada Violet, just starting. There was plenty of Yellow Mandarin and more Spotted Mandarin than I have ever seen there before, with Wild Oats in bloom near the Piney Point Trail and Large-flowered Bellwort just starting to open elsewhere. Solomon's Seal and Solomon's Plume were still in bud. Also spotted were Bluets, Spring-beauties, Carrion flower, Yellowroot and Jack-in-the-Pulpit. Still in bud or just starting to open: Baneberry (Doll's-eyes), Sweet Cicely, Foamflower, Saxifrage, Wild Geranium and May-apple. The very earliest flowers were already past blooming or with the occasional flower: Dutchman's Breeches, Hepatica, Salt-and-pepper, Trout Lily, Bloodroot and Toothworts. Interesting leaves of plants that will bloom later in the year include Appalachian Bunchflower, Waterleaf, Indian Cucumber Root, Spiderwort, Wild Yam, Lion's Foot and Lady's-thumb."

Huge Crayfish Found

Jack Bailey and his dad, Jim, found this crayfish (above) measuring a whopping 6 inches long, in the creek beside Boy Scout Park in Tracy City. They took it out of the water only briefly to get a photo. Unfortunately they found it dead three days later. Most crayfish grow to about 4-4.5 inches, so this was a big one!

Herbarium Garlic Mustard Pull

Garlic Mustard Pull—Sun., April 26, 1:30 p.m.

Join Mary Priestley and the Sewanee Herbarium for a garlic mustard pull on Sunday, April 26. Meet at Morgan's Steep at 1:30 p.m.

Garlic mustard is an invasive exotic plant threatening to take over some sensitive areas of our forest. It is easy to pull (even good to eat when young and tender!). No equipment is necessary, but bring work gloves.

Pets of the Week

Meet Apollo and Chunk

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Apollo is one of a litter of four, so he gets along well with other cats. He is playful, curious and a cuddle-bug after getting to know you. His favorite playmate is his sister, Athena. These two would be so happy to find a home together—two beautiful kittens to provide double the fun and love. Apollo and Athena are negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and altered.

Chunk is a funny little Terrier mix who is 2-3 years old. If you come to the Harbor, you'll have the opportunity to spend a few minutes gaining his trust. He may act tough, but if you sit in his kennel for about five minutes, he will sneak right up into your lap and be a friend for life. Chunk is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees are reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is now open at its new shelter at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information, and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the eighteenth of April, in Seventy-five;
Hardly a man is still alive,
Who remembers that famous day and year . . .

—from Paul Revere's Ride
by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Is it one if by land, two if by sea?
Or two if by land, Or what?
What farms, what villages are those to be Roused from their midnight rut?

Worry, worry worry. There! A light?
Of course not. But for an empty head
I'd quit this profitless, cold post to plot
The Revolution home in bed.

Yet if the British do the Tower hunts me down
Then I mount swiftly, then I fiercely ride
Bearing fresh news of the infamous Crown
To agitate the countryside.

But if the British do,
I wonder, is it one by land or two?

—“Paul Revere's Ride” by Reed Whittemore, from “The Past, the Future, the Present,”
