

Civic Association Honors Helen Bailey and Sewanee Youth Soccer

New Award Given to Elizabeth Clark Duncan

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

In keeping with a time-honored tradition stretching back 30 years, the highlight of the April 17 Sewanee Civic Association meeting was presentation of the Community Service Award. Choosing to recognize both an individual and an organization in 2013, the Civic Association named Helen Bailey and Sewanee Youth Soccer as the award recipients.

Kathleen O'Donohue, who nominated Bailey, described her as a behind-the-scenes presence, "humble and quietly effective." As a Sewanee Elementary School (SES) teacher from the mid-1970s to 1994, Bailey's "gentle, caring discipline" inspired students to rise to her high expectations. After retiring, Bailey became an avid community volunteer, giving generously of her time to SES, the Community Action Committee, Folks at Home, Emerald-Hodgson Hospital Auxiliary, Otey Parish and Thurmond Memorial Library, stepping forward to do whatever needed done. Bailey was also celebrated for her habit of walking to wherever she goes in the community.

Sewanee Youth Soccer (SYS) began in 1988, establishing affiliation with the American Youth Soccer Organization in 1994. SYS offers children from the Mountain an opportunity to play soccer in an environment of balanced teams, positive coaching and equal participation, guided by a philosophy of "everyone plays."

Yearly, more than 30 volunteers come together to make SYS possible. Community members, aided by University and St. Andrew's-Sewanee School students, maintain and line the fields, coach, referee and run the concession stand, attending to the details that makes SYS a special place for Mountain children.

Volunteers Jen Bachman and Ty Burnette accepted the award on behalf of SYS. Burnette also praised Kiki Beavers, who presented the award, saying, "Without Kiki, SYS wouldn't have happened."

Civic Association president Theresa Shackelford announced a new award to recognize a Civic Association member for their contributions to the organization.

The first Sewanee Civic Association Lifetime Achievement Award was given to Elizabeth Clark Duncan. Past president Duncan continues to serve on the board and as manager of Sewanee Classifieds email list. Shackelford credited Duncan with "rejuvenation" of the organization.

Plaques listing the Community Service Award recipients and the Lifetime Achievement Award recipients will be displayed in the Sewanee Community Center.

Tracy City Looks Ahead to a Bright Future

by Seth Layne, Special to the Messenger

What would $1.5 million do for a community such as Tracy City? We will soon have an answer to this question. For the last several months, individuals have been working tirelessly. The city has been awarded grants that total about $1.2 million. With a $300,000 loan that fulfills the matching requirements of the grants, the small town of Tracy City could see a life-altering amount of money used for the mutual benefit of its citizens. The grants include renovations to the old Grundy County High School, new sidewalks and street lamps in downtown and the construction of Tracy's portion of the Mountain Goat Trail.

The old, beautiful building that was Grundy County High School is dear to many people. The grant for renovations to the facility would focus on bringing the building up to code, renovating the front wing and restoring the gymnasium. The city hopes the building will be used for a variety of purposes, such as sporting events and rental space for the public. The classrooms will also be available for lease for anything from doctor's and lawyer's offices, to clinics and shops and parties, as well as vocational classes from local technical schools.

Tracy City was accepted recently to the Tennessee Main Street Program. This highly competitive program accepted only six towns in the state this year. The city has two grants for sidewalks and street lamps to beautify downtown and to make it easier for citizens and tourists to enjoy the many opportunities. These grants will be instrumental in helping Tracy's Revitalization Committee achieve its goals of enhancing Main Street and making the city a great place to visit.

The Mountain Goat Trail is a remarkable venture. Many remember the train that used to come from Cowan to Palmer, the Mountain Goat. Many have told about how the conductor would throw candy and gum to children as it passed through town. The railroad in Grundy County used to be a vital part of the area's culture. With the leadership of the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance, Tracy City has approved funds for easements and construction of walking and bike trails for the five-mile portion in Tracy City. This paved trail will preserve the history of the great Mountain Goat and will provide the citizens of Tracy and the surrounding area with a beautiful place to exercise and to enjoy their town.

The process of attaining a loan has not been easy. A $300,000 loan for a small town such as Tracy City can be a risky thing. It has been met with stiff

Letters

KUDOS, BOY SCOUTS

To the Editor:

Kudos to the Boy Scouts and their troop leader, Speed Baranco, for their recent food drive for the Community Action Committee. The scouts collected more than 300 pounds of canned goods to stock the shelves. This effort will go a long way in feeding the hungry of our Sewanee community. Great work, guys!

GREAT GENEROSITY

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the whole Sewanee community for their generosity shown to a local war veteran. A lot of organizations were unwilling or unable to help. The little town of Sewanee didn't disappoint. Our community always seems to pull through when someone needs them the most. Thank God and all the Sewanee Angels and thank the anonymous donation from a little church in our community. We are greatly blessed to live where we live. Thanks once again.

BOOKLET RETURNED HOME

To the Editor:

My Highlander Folk School material has been returned! A very nice lady had borrowed my small booklet to make a copy of it. I thought she would return it the next Saturday after she borrowed it. She didn't think I was in a big hurry to get it back, but she returned this item.

Thanks to the folks who helped me on this. I guess she read my letter in the Messenger and brought it back. She apologized for keeping it longer than I thought she would. This lady is a very special and very kind lady. I hope I didn't embarrass her by writing to you about this.

I have been collecting history on Grundy County for 73 years, starting at age 14 while in grammar school. Many thanks to all of you and this very nice lady.

South Cumberland Plateau Time Bank Announces Name

Folks at Home received a $14,973 grant in 2012 from the Community Fund of the South Cumberland Plateau to develop a time bank. Time bank director Susan Holmes announced that the time bank now has a name, South Cumberland Plateau Timebank (SCPT), and is building its membership across the community: "There is a core economy (family, neighborhood, community, civil society, networks and informal support systems) that is analogous to a computer's operating system; many powerful specific programs don't work if the core economy goes down," said Edgar Cahn, founder of TimeBanks USA.

The vision of the SCPT is to promote cohesive communities across the South Cumberland Plateau, where people of different ages, backgrounds and abilities interact with each other on an equal footing and with mutual respect and understanding.

In Baltimore, time banking has provided services for the elderly and allowed them to remain in their homes. In Chicago, more than 4,800 students have received computers through time dollars they earned by tutoring others. In Portland, Maine, time bank volunteers weatherized almost 100 homes in 2010.

Every member's time is valued equally, Holmes said, whether a member is offering professional legal advice, repairing a kitchen sink or making home visits for companionship. For every hour that a member spends providing a service to another member, they earn one time dollar. Then, that member can spend his or her time dollars on the services of any other SCPT member. It does not matter what your age, education or skill set is. Your hour is worth the same as another.

The SCPT will be made up of individual members, organizational affiliates and business partners. Membership is $20 year for individuals, $30 for families and $50 for organizations. Membership fees may be worked in time-dollar hours.

Holmes is the time banker who will match SCPT members with services. Contact the SCPT office at (931) 598-0303 or (423) 280-1480; by email to <oficefolksathome@gmail.com> or stop by the Blue House, 400 University Ave.

Pre-K and Kindergarten Age Changes

The Tennessee Department of Education would like to make residents aware of a new law signed by Gov. Bill Haslam on April 8, and its impact on pre-K and kindergarten enrollment birth date requirements for the next two school years. Changes will take effect in the 2013-14 school year. The new law states:

Children must be 4 years of age on or before Aug. 31, 2013, as well as meet other currently defined criteria to enroll in voluntary pre-K in 2013-14.

Children must be 4 years of age on or before Aug. 15, 2014, as well as meet other currently defined criteria to enroll in voluntary pre-K in 2014-15.

The impact of this law on kindergarten enrollment eligibility for the next two years is as follows:

Children enrolled in a Local Education Agency (LEA)-operated pre-K program, a Head Start program, or a state accredited non-public school pre-K program in the 2012-13 school year who turn 5 between Sept. 1 and Sept. 30, 2013 are grandfathered into kindergarten for the 2013-14 school year.

Children enrolled in an LEA-operated pre-K, a Head Start program, or a state accredited non-public school pre-K program in the 2013-14 school year who turn 5 between Aug. 16 and Aug. 31, 2014 are grandfathered into kindergarten for the 2014-15 school year.

A VIEW FROM THE DUMP

by Francis Walter

I miss the old dump. I miss the patterns: Parking my truck first at the recycling paper/plastic/aluminum bin. Then walking to the metal bin with attendant excitement, maybe to find something to liberate. Or to feel the rewarding flush of outrage over non-metallic leavings. Then back to the truck, easing it to the compactor, there to pass the time with Tommy. Finally, while the truck is still parked, to walk a few feet to the cardboard bins to slip in the flattened Amazon.com boxes.

This satisfying, efficient pattern is not duplicated at the new dump. Something seems amiss. Is there a feng shui for dumps? Perhaps.

As one drives into the new place, it is still as natural to head for the aluminum/plastic/paper bin as it was at the old dump. But the bin's approach is at an ungainly angle. The truck's nose angles in, and when others are there, it must be backed out. At the old dump, one could park parallel or line up. You know, chummy.

The placement of this bin is not just a traffic engineering issue but a social one. The old dump's layout set up opportunities to send courteous messages through several parking strategies, as if to say: "I parked at a comfortable distance behind you. I'm in no hurry; take your time." or "I'm parked close in; you can pull up alongside me." or "Come on around. I've left room for you to get ahead of me if you feel the need."

It is hard to show courtesy in the new configuration, and lack of courtesy can breed resentment. As I get older (and older) it seems my imagination slips out of gear more often. At the new bin, imagination conjures up one of those law-abiding, licensed-to-carry-gun-owners we've been hearing about, who—having had a bad week—takes my ill-parked truck personally as the last straw. Pow! The fantasy concludes: At least the hospital is close.

There are two other things. One must approach the compactor by going 'round Robin Hood's barn. Ain't no other way. It is too close to the enclosing fence, which is not evident to the newcomer. So Tommy has to retrieve a broken metal chair or two, a piece of sheet metal or whatnot and spray paint arrows on them, directing vehicular traffic. People run over the signs, leaving Tommy to replace them. If someone does come to the compactor the wrong way, one vehicle must back up.

The other thing is the alignment of Tommy's little house, such that he cannot see the cardboard or metal bins if the weather keeps him in. In the old dump he could be inside and have a clear line of sight to every bin. When asked who had designed the new dump, he said, "They said a computer did it."

A computer, at least the one that laid out the new dump, has limitations. It cannot look into the darkness of the human heart. Tommy says the number of inappropriate deposits in those bins has gone way up since the move. Why? We fallen creatures know that now he cannot see us. Dead dogs and skunks, shards of glass, noxious liquids and unflattened boxes appeared even under his watchful eyes at the old dump.

A few of us remember the radio drama "The Shadow" that opened with a bone-chilling laugh preceded by these measured lines, "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knows!" And that computer doesn't.

opposition by some in our community. A primary argument against the loan is that the city simply cannot afford it, while others argue that it will do nothing to improve the city. Upon my [author Seth Layne's] request, Brad Harris from the Municipal Technical Advisory Service (MTAS) visited from Knoxville to look at the city's 2012 audit. After reviewing the city's finances, Harris assured the Board of Mayor and Aldermen that the loan is feasible, given the city's current financial standing. Upon approval from the state comptroller's office, Tracy City will proceed with all necessary measures to accomplish these goals.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen of Tracy City requests that the public partner with them in this revitalization of Tracy City. As a community, Tracy City has never been more ready for positive change. The city has been given an extraordinary opportunity to make this into what its citizens already know that it is—a wonderful place to live and a beautiful place to visit. In the business portion of the meeting the membership approved the budget for fiscal year 2013-14. Classified subscriptions, dues and meals support the anticipated expenses that include the fee for the Classifieds host Group Spaces, reinstating tax-exempt status and liability insurance for the board, officers and members.

The membership also approved the slate of officers for the coming year: Susan Holmes, president; Kiki Beavers, vice-president; Kim Seavey, secretary; Lisa Rung, treasurer; and Lynn Stubblefield, member at large.

Parks committee chair Stephen Burnett reported that Memorandum of Understanding agreements had been signed with the University and the dog park board to formalize Civic Association oversight of the dog park. Burnett said the parks committee is also overseeing repair of the Little League scoreboard, so games can be held there.

Earth Week: The Genesis of Environmental Protection

In the beginning, when environmental protection and consciousness was in its nascent stages, the extracurricular calendar of April was a formless void lacking any clear order, a time when most organizations were trying to cram in one last event to end the year with a bang. While 43 years have passed since the first Earth Day in 1970, this proverb still holds true at Sewanee. But out of the chaos of the last full week of classes, order can still be created. This year, a large number of these end-of-the-year events are planned in conjunction with Earth Week, lasting from April 21 to April 28.

On the first day, Sunday, April 21, the Sustainability House will show the 2011 documentary film "The Island President," which describes the struggles of then Maldivian president Mohamed Nasheed as he battled to protect his island nation from the effects of climate change. The screening will be at 7:30 p.m. in Blackman Auditorium.

The second day, the official Earth Day—Monday, April 22—the office of environmental stewardship and sustainability will host an Earth Week Coffee Kickoff at 3:30 p.m. in Harris Commons in Spencer Hall, featuring an array of desserts and bubble tea, as well as a selection of various faculty and staff who have been instrumental in sustainability endeavors on campus. This will be followed by a lecture by Patrick Dean discussing Hudson Stuck's 100th anniversary of summiting Mt. Denali. The talk, hosted by the Friends of the Library, will be at 4:30 p.m. in Convocation Hall. Monday evening, at 7 p.m. in Gailor Auditorium, author James Hunt will present his lecture, "Restless Fire: Young John Muir's Thousand-Mile Walk to the Gulf."

The next day, Tuesday, April 23, the Environmental Residents will present two screenings of the television show "Planet Earth." These will be at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the Sewanee Union Theater. Admission is free. Also that evening, the nine residents of the Sustainability House will present their individual projects, which include research on socially responsible investment, sustainability literacy, as well as operations issues such as laundry efficiency. The presentations will take place at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall.

On Wednesday, April 24, there will be an art presentation featuring the work of students from Pradip Malde's "Lens and the Landscape" class, followed by a catered dinner and discussion. The event will be held in Convocation Hall at 6:30 p.m. (reservations required). For more information contact Jordan Long by email, <longjm0@sewanee.edu>.

On Thursday, April 25, the Green House will host a cleanup of the Upper West Branch of Barnes Branch between McCrady Hall and Highway 41A. Meet at the Green House at the intersection of Alabama and Mitchell Avenues at 2 p.m. if you are interested in helping out. Also on Thursday, alumnus Jonathan Meiberg (C'97) will give a lecture, "The Moth and the Milky Way—In Search of the Obvious in Nature," where he will discuss the intersection of art and nature. The lecture will be at 4:30 p.m. in Convocation Hall.

On Friday, April 26, the annual Scholarship Sewanee will take place, where college students will present their research projects. Presentations will occur all afternoon in the Harris Commons in Spencer Hall.

Earth Week will be capped by a busy weekend. Saturday, April 27, brings the Sixth Annual Sewaneroo, presented by the Mountaintop Musicians, at the Lake Cheston amphitheater. Jonathan Meiberg's band, Shearwater of Austin, Texas, will headline. Other acts include Hotel Oscar of Destin, Fla., and Star and Macey of Memphis, as well as an assortment of student bands including the University Jazz Band. The concert will last from 1 p.m. until 1 a.m. Also be sure to check out the "Pie Your Dean" event hosted by the Community Engagement House, which will take place at the amphitheater. Proceeds will benefit the Food with Friends program.

The week comes to an end on Sunday, April 28, with a fund-raising lunch for the Sewanee-Haiti Partnership for Carbon Sequestration. The Haitian-themed lunch will be at 12:30 p.m. in the University Quad; tickets are $10. That afternoon the Environmental Residents and the Values and Arts Living and Learning Community are hosting an Environmental Art Show, featuring work by both professional and student artists. The art show will begin at 3:00 p.m., on both the Spencer Quad and in Spencer Hall. The evening will conclude with a final dinner with Vice-Chancellor McCardell hosted by the Green Convene (by invitation only).

And on Monday, we will all rest, before exams commence on Friday. This year's Earth Week looks to be Sewanee's busiest and most exciting yet. Be sure to check out some of the many events occurring on campus this next week.

CONVENIENCE/ RECYCLING CENTER HOURS

The Convenience Center for household garbage, trash and recycling is located on Missouri Avenue. Its regular hours are: Monday, 1-6 p.m.; Tuesday through Friday, 3-6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.; Closed Sunday. Closed on national holidays. Honor Mom With a Gift to Blue Monarch

Blue Monarch, an area nonprofit organization that provides a one- to two-year program to help addicted and abused women and their children, is inviting everyone to consider honoring someone for Mother's Day with a charitable gift to the organization.

"If you had a mother who gave you unconditional love and a sense of security, or if you know an extraordinary mother who deserves some recognition, please consider honoring her or her memory with a gift to Blue Monarch. Your gift can change the life of a child by changing the life of a mother," said founder Susan Binkley.

Through hands-on parenting coaching and life skills classes at Blue Monarch, mothers learn to parent their children nonviolently and provide them with a safe, loving and structured home. Even when they may not have had an ideal childhood themselves, Blue Monarch mothers want their own children to have something more.

Donations can be mailed to Blue Monarch at P.O. Box 1207, Monteagle, TN 37356. If you provide the address, Blue Monarch will mail your honoree a special Mother's Day card with your customized message inside. In order for your honoree to receive her gift in time for Mother's Day, Blue Monarch will need to receive your gift no later than April 29.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE
Friday–Sunday, April 19–21, 7:30 p.m.
Zero Dark Thirty
 Rated R • 157 minutes • $3

Maya (Jessica Chastain) is a CIA agent who has spent her career trying to track down Osama bin Laden. She divides her time between the Middle East to work with a team of agents, and Washington, D.C., where she is not taken seriously at the agency (maybe because she is young or maybe because she is a woman). Chastain offers a terrific performance, and director Kathryn Bigelow ("The Hurt Locker") gives the film a gritty, realistic look. "Zero Dark Thirty" was controversial because many thought that it misrepresented an actual event; others defended it as a work of fiction informed by history. Either way, be prepared for some very graphic scenes of torture and death. Rated R for strong violence, including brutal, disturbing images and for language.

FREE EARTH WEEK FILM
Tuesday, April 23, 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.
Planet Earth
 Rated G • Free

As part of the Earth Week celebration, Sewanee's Environmental Residents will present the television show "Planet Earth." This award-winning series, directed by David Attenborough, is beautifully filmed, carefully researched and thoughtfully presented.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE
Thursday–Sunday, April 25–28, 7:30 p.m.
The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey
 Rated PG-13 • 169 minutes • $3

Bilbo Baggins (Martin Freeman) must save Middle Earth from destruction by a fierce dragon named Smaug in this first part of director Peter Jackson's adaptation of J.R.R. Tolkien's classic novel. Gandolf (Ian McKellan) guides Bilbo and the band of dwarves on the adventure. Jackson's award-winning adaptation of the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy earned him respect from Tolkien lovers, but reviews on this new series were mixed. If you are a fan of the book, you'll likely enjoy the movie. Rated PG-13 for extended sequences of intense fantasy action violence, and frightening images.—LW

Sewanee Union Theatre is changing its ticket prices beginning on June 1. Students (through college) will be $3, but non-students will be $4. (Concession prices will remain the same, though, with popcorn still only $1!)

Once SUT has changed its ticket prices, it will introduce new passes. After June 1, SUT will not accept any passes currently in circulation.

Coalmont Students to Debut in Grundy Area Arts Council Project

The Coalmont Elementary School Stage will become a 1931 setting as 12 of the school's students will bring to life a story penned by beloved local author May Justus.

At 7 p.m., Saturday, April 27, and 4 p.m., Sunday, April 28, the group will perform "The Other Side of the Mountain."

The theater project's director, Catalina Jordan Alvarez, chose and adapted Justus's book "The Other Side of the Mountain," with copyright permission granted by the University of Tennessee.

This is a Grundy Area Creative Endeavors (GrACE) pilot project, made possible by the Community Fund for the South Cumberland Plateau.

The play is about a little girl, Glory, who knew only about one side of Little Twin Mountain, and then in a wonderful year, learns many things through hearing about the big world that exists on the other side of the mountain. Students who are acting in the project are Bailey Brown, Katie Brown, Brittany Cunningham, Will Jackson, Charley Meeks, Harley Nunley, Ally Ramsey, Haley Sanders, Christopher Smallwood, Savannah Smith, Elly Stamper and Jillian Wise. Incorporated into the play are renditions of local traditional music and reminders of treasured customs.

Production assistance includes: sound design by Linda Heck and Addison Willis; set design by Ruth Isabel Guerra; lighting design by Dan Pate; and production facilitation by Linda Heck.

Theatre Sewanee Presents "An Evening of Shakespeare"

Theatre Sewanee will present its spring production, "The Marriage of True Minds: An Evening of Shakespeare," at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday, April 24–27, and at 2 p.m., Sunday, April 28, at the Tennessee Williams Center.

The production, directed by professor David Landon, will explore the theme of marriage in Shakespeare, featuring scenes from "Romeo and Juliet," "As You Like It" and "Much Ado About Nothing," as well as scenes from "Hamlet," "Othello" and "All's Well That Ends Well."

The evening will also feature original music by James Carlson, choreography under the supervision of Chase Brantley and Rebekah Hildebrandt, and an acting ensemble of talented undergraduates: Elise Anderson, Chase Brantley, Michael Caskey, Lily Davenport, Rebecca Hildebrandt, Burkette Huey, Charlotte La Nasa, Alex Linton, Haley Poole, Cody Snead, Megan Quick, Sarah Weldon, Pagie Wilson, Hunter Woolwine and Audrey Yatdon Tchoukua.

The stage design—taking its inspiration from Shakespeare's Globe—is by Andrew Philpo. Costumes are by Jennifer Matthews, lighting is by Beckett Scott, and technical direction is by Samantha Gribben. The stage manager is Tyler Fawcett.

The performance is free, but reservations are recommended and can be made by calling 598-3260.

I LIKE TO WATCH

by Kiki Beavers

I have always liked to watch movies and TV shows about the undead. I guess I am looking for all available answers on what exactly happens when I die. Thinking about alternatives is another sign that I will be weighed, measured and found wanting on Judgment Day.

Watching androids, mummies, vampires and zombies was a great way to spend a Saturday afternoon when I was younger. Even today, the undead are among us on screens both big and small. People taken over by a virus and not quite acting the way humans should ("Night of the Living Dead," 1968). The androids created to look like humans and carry out authentic human interactions ("Blade Runner," 1982). I do not ever forget when the Borg in "Star Trek: First Contact" (1996) acted as one to assimilate us all. In "Frankenstein" (1994), the monster was created from various body parts, but was alive, and felt abandonment and misery. In "Dracula" (1992), vampires are the sexier of the undead, but not exactly human or exactly inhuman either.

(Fun Fact: Boris Karloff portrayed at least three of the undead: "Frankenstein" (1931), "The Mummy" (1932) and "The Walking Dead" (1936).)

If I get to pick the type of undead I become, I am fairly certain I do not want to end up as a zombie. They rot and eat human flesh. Zombies are in some ways physically identical to humans, but "appear lifeless, apathetic or completely unresponsive to their surroundings." Oh no. This is me before morning coffee.

(Fun Fact: The Center for Disease Control has a survival guide in case of a zombie apocalyptic world. <<http://www.cdc.gov/phpr/zombies.htm>>.)

I know the undead are not real. Yet, I still watch for signs that the undead are among the living. Zombies I watch for include: the common, reanimated and infecting people with the virus via a bite; the voodoo, reanimated by a witch doctor with poisons; the intelligent, the ones who retain their personalities; or the social media, those who are not quite dead but not quite alive.

Zombie signs I watch for include: when you speak, it comes out as a moan; you smell bad; you shuffle when you walk; you want to consume at all costs; you cannot look away from your iPhone; or you have a constant urge to update your Facebook.

(Fun Fact: Under most state law definitions, zombies would be considered alive. (Chodorow, Adam. 2012. "Death and Taxes and Zombies." Iowa Law Review.)

I think the person sitting across from me in the coffee shop is not really human. Of course she is alive because she is sitting there, drinking coffee and working on her computer. I cannot help but think there are too many signs pointing to why she may not be human. The zombie apocalypse may have started. I wonder if there is hope enough to correct it.

There is no hope seen when watching "The Walking Dead." This TV series depicts a post-apocalyptic world filled with biters. The human survivors are trying to stay alive, keeping away from the flesh eaters and bad intentions of other survivors. In "Warm Bodies" (2013), there is a glimmer of hope. R is a different sort of zombie who begins to regain his humanity. At first he dreams only because of the brain he just has eaten. Then he becomes attracted to a human girl. As he begins to dream and hope on his own, a change happens to him and the undead. They become human.

I watch for signs I may already be infected. I fear I do not interact with humans as I should. I Google for information, Facebook to stay in touch, send emails and texts instead of picking up the phone to call someone. In this digital age, computers auto-correct my spelling and grammar to the point where I do not even have to think about the mechanics. The digital age has changed the way I interact with you and the way we interact with each other.

(Fun Fact: Confused.com said, "The zombie apocalypse is already upon us. Social media has turned many of us into drones. We've checked out of the real world to obsessively, compulsively, and often unwittingly check our various accounts.")

To the coffee drinker who has yet to look up from your computer: I am not going to eat you. I am just watching for signs.

SAS Baseball Wins Thriller

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee baseball team defeated Lancaster Christian Academy in extra innings by a score of 10-9 on April 13. Casey Willis pitched in relief of Alex Tinsley to pick up the win. This game was a thrilling contest, where both teams came from behind before SAS earned the victory in the eighth inning.

SAS opened the scoring in the first inning as Willis doubled with two out, and Edwin Ashcraft followed with an RBI double for the home team.

SAS extended the lead to 4-0 in the second inning as Riley Rhoton walked with one out, and Sam Thomas reached on an error. Tinsley followed with a single to score one run before Levi Higgins doubled home two runs.

The score remained 4-0 until the sixth inning, when LCA scored nine runs on seven hits and two walks with a couple of costly SAS errors in the inning to take a 9-4 lead.

SAS rebounded by scoring five runs in the bottom of the sixth to tie the score. Thomas and JR Clay opened the inning as they drew back-to-back walks. Tinsley doubled to score Thomas, and Higgins singled to score Clay. With two outs, Russell Mays followed with the second of his three doubles for the contest, to score Tinsley and Higgins and cut the lead to 9-8. Addison Beene followed with a clutch single to score Mays and tie the contest.

Willis shut down LCA in the seventh inning, and SAS threatened to win the contest in the bottom of the seventh. With two outs, Tinsley walked and then stole second. Higgins walked, and each runner stole to put runners at second and third. Willis followed with a fly ball to right field, when LCA right fielder Austin Brooks made a spectacular diving catch to extend the contest.

Another shut down inning by Willis and the SAS defense in the eighth allowed SAS another opportunity to win the contest. With one out, Mays continued his hot hitting with a long double. Beene was intentionally walked, and Rhoton was hit by a pitch to load the bases. After a strike-out, Clay coaxed an RBI walk to give the Mountain Lions the hard-fought and exciting victory.

Varsity Soccer Loses to King's Academy

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee varsity soccer team took on King's Academy on April 12 in a district match-up. As usual, SAS came out hard and fast and scored before the seven-minute mark. Takumi Morozumi was able to knock the ball across the line after some confusion in the box. That was as good as it would get for the Mountain Lions. King's Academy then scored four unanswered goals. SAS did not challenge every ball and was out-hustled. Tinashe Zimbwa was able to get one back in the goal in the 63rd minute from the penalty spot.

SAS Summer Camps

St. Andrew's-Sewanee is offering summer camps for 2013. Summer offerings for children include basketball camp, soccer camp and two sessions of outdoor adventure camp.

For adults, SAS is offering the residential art Shakerag Workshops.

For more information or to register, go to <www.sasweb.org>.

MS Volleyball Now 6-0

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee middle school volleyball team defeated Palmer on April 15, 25-8 and 27-25. Shyanne Griffith scored the final two points in the second game to seal the win. Erin Berner-Coe recorded five aces; Mariel Rinck had one ace; Kyra Wilson had one ace. The win was a great team effort.

On April 16, the volleyball team improved to 6-0 as they defeated Pelham, 25-6, 25-10 and 25-15. Lexie Laurendine recorded four kills, six assists and five digs; Berner-Coe had one ace and six digs; Addie Babcock had one ace; Rachel Alvarez had six digs; Wilson had one ace; and Mary Katherine Jolly had one block and five kills.

SAS Baseball Drops One

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee baseball team fell to host Whitwell Tigers by a score of 6-3 on April 15. Pitcher Edwin Ashcraft allowed only two earned runs in pitching the complete game for the Mountain Lions.

Whitwell opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning as Chase White singled, and after a walk to Bailey Kilgore, both scored on an error and a wild pitch.

SAS answered by scoring a single run in the second inning as Ashcraft reached on an error and stole second. Addison Beene followed with a walk. Both players advanced on a wild pitch before an infield single by Sam Thomas scored Ashcraft. Beene was thrown out at the plate to end the inning.

Whitwell countered with two more runs in the bottom of the second as after two outs, the Tigers had consecutive hits and a walk before another SAS error led to two runs.

SAS bounced back in the third inning when after one out, Alex Tinsley singled and stole second. Levi Higgins walked, and both players advanced on a wild pitch. With two outs, Ashcraft delivered a clutch two-run single to close the score to 4-3.

Whitwell closed out the scoring in the fourth inning when they extended the lead to 6-3, as SAS made another costly error to allow an unearned run.

SAS could not put together another threat against the Tigers. Ashcraft shut Whitwell down for the remainder of the contest.

Tinsley, Ashcraft, Russell Mays and Thomas led SAS in hitting. Defensively, Tinsley made several sparkling plays. Beene and Mays turned three double plays.

Tigers Stay Hot With Sweep of Johnson Univ.

The Sewanee baseball team, winners of six out of its last seven games, earned a pair of victories at Johnson University on April 16.

Michael Walker picked up four hits and drove in six runs to lead Sewanee's 17-hit barrage in the Tigers' 15-0 blanking of Johnson in the first game of the doubleheader. Walker's hits included a three-run homer in the top of the fifth inning and a double.

Blake Williams turned in a perfect four-for-four effort and scored four runs, while Ben Clune, Jack Whaley and Nate Barnett had two hits each. Allen Thigpen had one hit and three RBIs.

Southpaw Lee Schurknight picked up the win on the mound for the Tigers. Schurknight allowed only one hit in four full innings of work.

In the second game of the afternoon doubleheader, Charles Warren pitched three shutout innings to record the win as the Tigers cruised to a 15-4 win.

Jacob Walker had three hits in three trips to the plate and drove in three runs to lead the Tigers' offensive attack. Jack Rogers and Whaley had two hits apiece. Rogers and Clune had three RBIs, while Michael Walker added two more, giving him eight for the doubleheader.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

This past Friday my lovely wife, Conchie, and I were scheduled to drive the men's and women's tennis teams to Jackson, Miss., for weekend tennis matches against Millsaps College. We decided that she would drive the students who finished class early and leave Sewanee at 1 p.m. I would wait for the lab rats who didn't get out of class until late afternoon.

As my group departed campus around 4 p.m., Conchie called from the road to let me know that the interstate was moving very slowly due to two traffic accidents that narrowed the highway to one lane. So I took my group on a different route. We headed down Sherwood Road through Stevenson, Ala., on our way to Birmingham in order to avoid the bottleneck on I-24.

The spring day was perfect for traveling the back roads through our neighbors' farms. My students were begging me to cut off the thumping music from the van's stereo so they could spend quiet time on a Friday afternoon reading philosophy or working through multidimensional calculus problems.

Well, not really. But I needed some entertaining company for the drive, so I asked if anyone wanted to play the game "Cows and Steeples." These students are part of a generation of kids who have grown up with iPhones, iPads, universal wireless connections and social media links to friends outside of our van and all across the world. They had no idea about how to play a game in which you simply count cows on your side of the road and then have your whole herd erased if you pass a church with a steeple. The tennis players were skeptical and somewhat reluctant to play along as we began, but you cannot put eight hyper-competitive people into a van and offer them a way to keep score without a battle ensuing.

Soon we were debating: How many cows were actually in a certain field? And did a church with a simple cross nailed to the tin roof count as a steeple?

Time was flying, we were laughing, and no one was eager to get to Jackson anytime soon. One girl from Carmel, Calif., who asked, "What happens if we don't see any steeples?" After passing 12 churches and six farms in seven miles, she learned why this area is called the Bible belt.

Each time I do this, there is one student who sits in the back, stays quiet and observes the give-and-take of life on the road. An effective method of drawing this person into the conversation is to appoint them as the final judge of all things considered to be either Holstein or wholesome. This person gets to decide if there really were 10 cows in that field or if it was just an old horse standing in the shadows of the tree line.

About 15 years ago I had a player who remained very placid throughout the long journey. When we arrived at our hotel late that night, I asked him in front of the entire team what he had learned through the playing of our traditional country-road trip game. He looked at me very seriously and said, "Coach, it only takes one steeple." Soon this phrase became our motto and rallying cry for the season every time we fell behind and needed a turnaround for victory.

On Sunday afternoon as we returned home from Mississippi, I decided to take my fifth-grade daughter to see the movie "42" about Jackie Robinson's life as a barrier-breaking pioneer in the big league baseball. Much like the students riding in my van who only knew a world filled with electronic games, instant-picture messages and 140-word Tweets, my daughter has grown up in a time and in a welcoming community devoid of much visible racism or prejudice. The thought of throwing a baseball at a man's head because his skin was brown or requiring him to use a separate toilet and sleep in a segregated hotel is entirely foreign to the world she knows. For almost half her life, the president of the United States has been a man with the same skin tone as Jackie Robinson.

As we walked out of the theater, my little girl had lots of questions about the Brooklyn Dodger's number 42 and how different things were in 1947. She wanted to understand what role his ground-breaking bravery played in changing today's world for those who followed. I didn't have a lot of answers for her any better than, "Sometimes... it only takes one steeple."

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Indigo Bunting

Jean Yeatman reports that this week, the "Jewel in the Crown of Spring," a male Indigo Bunting, appeared at the Yeatmans' bird feeder. "When you see this bird in a ray of sunshine," she said, "he seems to glow a magnificent blue. It is prisms in the feathers which causes this effect, not color itself. We have not yet seen the female, who is a dull brown, but we hope she will appear, and they will nest in our yard as they have done in the past. Their nest is made in low bushes or briar patches, of leaves and grasses, and from four to five pale-bluish-white eggs are laid.

This smallish Finch ranges in eastern North America from southern Canada down to Mississippi for its breeding area, and winters in the West Indies, when the male's feathers are dull brown with a few flecks of blue.

Jean and her son, Clay Yeatman, walked down to their lake Sunday morning to see how the goose nest was doing. Alas, predators had destroyed it, and all that was left was a jumble of leaves, goose down, and three shells of eaten eggs. There had been a bobcat footprint in the sand at Jean's horse barn, and she suspects it broke up the nest.

"Farther along the lake edge," she continued, "We discovered a huge number of egg strings of the American Toad [illustrated at left]. A closer look showed masses of newly-hatched tadpoles; over this were newts swimming about, feasting upon the tadpoles, but there were hundreds of tadpoles, so we should have lots of baby toads later this spring."

A Sewanee fashion statement.

Upcoming Herbarium Events

The Sewanee Herbarium announces the following opportunities to experience the beauty of the Mountain; each will be led by Mary Priestley.

Shakerag Hollow is Sewanee's "Mecca" for wildflower lovers, and the flowers should be diverse and abundant. Meet at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, April 21, at the Green's View parking lot (past the golf course). This hike is two miles, moderate-to-strenuous, with one fairly challenging incline.

A place that rivals Shakerag Hollow for number and diversity of spring wildflowers is the section of the South Cumberland State Recreation Area called Collins West. Meet at 9:30 a.m., Saturday, April 27, at the Collins West trailhead, in Gruetli-Laager. Bring lunch and water. This is a six-mile, strenuous hike. For directions contact the South Cumberland State Park Visitors' Center, (931) 924-2980.

On Sunday, April 28, join in an ongoing attempt to control garlic mustard, an invasive exotic plant that is trying to take over some sensitive areas of the forest. It is easy to pull and even good to eat when young and tender. No equipment is necessary, but work gloves are suggested. Meet at 1:30 p.m. at Morgan's Steep in Sewanee.

Wear appropriate shoes on all of these walks. Risks involved in hiking include physical exertion, rough terrain, forces of nature and other hazards not present in everyday life.

State Park Offerings

Sunday, April 21

Natural Bridge Cleanup—Join Ranger Jason at 11 a.m., at Natural Bridge parking lot to help clean-up trash. Bring gloves.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

... Go down to Kew in lilac-time, in lilac-time, in lilac-time;
Go down to Kew in lilac-time (it isn't far from London!)
And you shall wander hand in hand with love in summer's wonderland;
Go down to Kew in lilac-time (it isn't far from London!)

The cherry-trees are seas of bloom and soft perfume and sweet perfume,
The cherry-trees are seas of bloom (and oh, so near to London!)
And there they say, when dawn is high and all the world's a blaze of sky
The cuckoo, though he's very shy, will sing a song for London.

The Dorian nightingale is rare and yet they say you'll hear him there
At Kew, at Kew in lilac-time (and oh, so near to London!)
The linnet and the throstle, too, and after dark the long halloo
And golden-eyed tu-whit, tu-whoo, of owls that ogle London.

For Noah hardly knew a bird of any kind that isn't heard
At Kew, at Kew in lilac-time (and oh, so near to London!)
And when the rose begins to pout and all the chestnut spires are out
You'll hear the rest without a doubt all chorusing for London:—

Come down to Kew in lilac-time, in lilac-time, in lilac-time ...

—from "The Barrel-Organ" by Alfred Noyes
