

University 2015 Commencement Weekend Events Set

The University's 2014–15 academic year comes to a close May 8–10 with three ceremonies marking graduation weekend on the Mountain. Commencement and Baccalaureate ceremonies will be held for students from the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Letters and the School of Theology. Two honorary degrees will be presented during the School of Theology Commencement and four, during the Baccalaureate ceremony.

Honorary degrees will be presented to the Rt. Rev. Robert Skirving, bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina, and to the Most Rev. Thabo Cecil Makgoba, the Anglican archbishop of Cape Town, who will also preach during the May 8 School of Theology Commencement service.

Robert M. Gates, former secretary of defense and former president of Texas A&M University; Mary Moore Dwyer, president and CEO of IESAbroad (Institute for the International Education of Students); F. Robertson Hershey, headmaster of Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va.; and Jefferson Allen McMahan, C'76, White's Professor of Moral Philosophy at the University of Oxford, will receive honorary degrees during the May 9 Baccalaureate ceremony. Gates will give the Baccalaureate address during the service.

On Sunday, May 10, a Convocation for Conferring of Degrees will be at 10 a.m. in All Saints' Chapel (tickets required) for the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Letters. A luncheon honoring the Class of 2015 graduates will follow.

All three services will be streamed live on the university's website for those unable to attend.

Mary M. Dwyer is president and CEO of IES Abroad, the Institute for the International Education of Students, one of the nation's oldest and largest non-profit study abroad program providers, offering more than 125 programs around the world. She was the lead researcher on a 50-year longitudinal impact study to measure the effect of study abroad on student's academic careers, personal

Conversation Between Gates and Meacham

Former secretary of defense Robert Gates and Pulitzer Prize-winning author Jon Meacham will discuss "A World in Flux: American Power and Principle, Past, Present, and Future" at 3 p.m. Friday, May 8, in Guerry Auditorium.

A book signing with Robert Gates, from 4 to 4:30 p.m. in the Guerry Auditorium lobby, will follow the discussion.

Gates will be on the Sewanee campus as the university's Baccalaureate speaker.

Jon Meacham, a 1991 Sewanee graduate, received the Pulitzer Prize for "American Lion," his 2008 biography of Andrew Jackson. His most recent book, the New York Times best seller "Thomas Jefferson: The Art of Power," celebrates Jefferson's skills as a practical politician. He is also the author of "Franklin and Winston" and "American Gospel," as well as an upcoming book about former President George Herbert Walker Bush. Executive editor and executive vice president of Random House, Meacham is a contributing editor to Time magazine, a former editor of Newsweek, and a regular contributor on "Meet the Press," "Morning Joe" and "Charlie Rose."

Emily Masters recently received Summa Cum Laude recognition from Chattanooga State Community College. She will graduate in May from Grundy County High School as the Valedictorian. She has a 4.0 GPA, with a 99 average over her four years in high school while she completed an associate degree at Chattanooga State with 64 semester hours of college credit. Emily is the daughter of Elizabeth and Brian Masters of Monteagle. She will attend Berea College this fall on a full scholarship.

Council Wants to Hear from Community

Single-Stream Recycling a Goal of University

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the April 27 meeting of the Sewanee Community Council, Vice-Chancellor John McCardell thanked council representatives and community members for participating in the picnic and informal meeting with the University trustees on April 23. A discussion followed about how to improve the effectiveness of the council in giving voice to community concerns.

In the past, the community interaction with the University trustees occurred at a town meeting where the community heard reports from University entities such as the Lease Committee and then had an opportunity to raise questions.

A council meeting visitor commented that a single question often dominated the discussion. Council representatives voiced approval of having an opportunity to talk one-on-one with trustees. Representative David Coe said, "I was impressed with the interest the trustees showed in our small town issues."

Responding to the complaint that some community members missed the town meeting format, council representative Barbara Schlicting said, "We could have updates here, and grievances should be brought here." McCardell agreed. "This is the place where those things should be brought first," he said. Council representative Phil White suggested prior to the next trustees' visit in October, the council invite the community to air grievances and raise issues at a council meeting designated for that purpose.

Coe suggested the council again host a gathering where Council representatives meet with their constituent like the event held in March 2013.

To make council representation more democratic, a committee composed

Herbarium Hike to Piney Point

The community of plants that grow on the sandstone outcrops along the trail to Piney Point, including the rare elf orpine, is a special one. Meet Sewanee Herbarium curator Yolande Gottfried at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, May 2, at the tennis courts at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, beyond the football field, for this moderate one-to-two-hour walk.

Wear appropriate shoes. Risks involved in hiking include physical exertion, rough terrain, forces of nature and other hazards not present in everyday life. Picking flowers and digging plants are prohibited in all of the natural areas where these walks take place.

For more information call the Herbarium, 598-3346, or email <ygottfri@sewanee.edu>.

Directions are available on the Herbarium website, <la.sewanee.edu/herbarium/>, under the calendar of events.

Fourth of July 2015

"Sewanee Purple Mountain Majesty"

It's time to start thinking about Sewanee's Fourth of July celebration. This year's theme is "Sewanee Purple Mountain Majesty." The planning committee is accepting nominations for grand marshal of the parade. The person nominated should exhibit community involvement and be someone who has made a significant contribution to our life together. Please send the name and a brief description of why you are nominating this person by June 1 to Jade Barry at <jademcbee@gmail.com>.

It takes many volunteers to make Sewanee's Fourth of July events happen. Help is needed with the parade, with organizing the events of the day and by serving on the planning committee. If you are interested in helping, contact Barry or attend the next committee meeting. The planning committee will be meeting from now until the big day. Meetings are at 5 p.m., Tuesdays, at the Sewanee Senior Center, on the following dates: May 12, May 26, June 2, June 9, June 16, June 23, June 30 and July 1.

CAC OFFERS THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Community Action Committee (CAC), I would like to thank all who made the first annual Hunger Walk such a huge success. It was Rotary Club president John Goodson's vision and the hard work of so many volunteers that made this amazing event possible.

The weather cooperated, 200 people registered for the walk, the food was outstanding, and live music added to the celebration of the day. It is our hope that we raised awareness of food insecurity that exists in our community. Together we can make a difference. Your participation in the Hunger Walk means you already have. With deep gratitude.

Betty Carpenter, Director

TVA Sets New Date for Sherwood Outage

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has scheduled two power outages for DREMC members living in the communities of Sherwood and Anderson of Franklin County.

The outages are scheduled for 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., on Saturday, May 9; and 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 30.

These outages are necessary for TVA to replace several bad poles. It will affect all consumers in the Sherwood and Anderson area, but will not affect consumers in Sewanee, Cowan and Sinking Cove. In the event of inclement weather on either date, the necessary repairs will be completed in the fall.

Duck River Electric appreciates the cooperation and understanding of its members during this planned outage as it strives to improve the reliability of the electric system.

Pantry Sunday on May 3

Pantry Sunday for the Community Action Committee (CAC) is Sunday, May 3, for participating churches: St. James, Otey, Cumberland Presbyterian and All Saints' Chapel. Please bring your food offerings to Sunday services. The typical bag of groceries includes: rice, beans, pasta, macaroni and cheese, peanut butter, and cans of vegetables, fruit, and soup. The cost for a complete bag is less than $15.

The CAC is an outreach ministry of Otey Parish, with generous support from the Sewanee Community Chest and individuals across the Mountain. For more than 40 years, the CAC has provided support for persons in the greater Sewanee community. For more information contact the CAC at 598-5927.

The Bonnaroo Works Fund (BWF) is the charitable arm of the world-renowned Bonnaroo Music and Arts Festival. BWF's objective is to support organizations that advance the arts, education and environmental causes, predominantly in Middle Tennessee, but also nationwide. Since the inception of Bonnaroo in 2002, more than $7 million has been donated to over 100 causes and projects. Miller will describe those that have been funded by the BWF in our area.

New members are always welcome to join the Academy ($12 annual fee). For more information call Anne Davis at (931) 924-4465.

SUD Reallocates Budget Funds

by Leslie Lytle,
Messenger Staff Writer

At the April 28 meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the Sewanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties, the board approved SUD Manager Ben Beavers' request to reallocate funds in the 2015 capital improvements budget. The board also responded to two customer requests for bill adjustments.

In keeping with Beavers' recommendation, lift station rehabilitation was deferred until 2016, and funds designated for a water reuse study and for inflow and infiltration repair were reduced. The freed-up funds will enable SUD to pay for a pressure boosting station in Midway and sewer system inspection and cleaning by the firm Sani-Tech.

Sani-Tech will inspect manholes, clean sewer lines and inspect sewer lines via closed circuit television for damage. Two-thirds of SUD's sewer lines have already been inspected by a video camera. Inspecting the remaining 22,000 feet will enable SUD to determine which sections of line most need repair. Inflow and infiltration of water into SUD's aging sewer lines increases SUD's wastewater treatment costs. In March, inflow and infiltration accounted for nearly three-fourths of the wastewater SUD treated.

The board reviewed two customer requests for bill adjustments. According to SUD's adjustment policy, when a leak occurs between the meter and the residence foundation, SUD will reduce the customer's bill by half. The policy limits customers to one adjustment every three years and a lifetime total of three adjustments. Unaccounted-for leaks do not qualify for an adjustment.

One customer applying for an adjustment was denied because he received an adjustment two years ago. The other customer had no explanation for the 72,000 gallons of water used during her absence, resulting in a $700 bill. A plumber found no sign of leaks, and the water meter tested as accurate.

The customer's children visited the house every other day during her absence and observed no sign of excess water use. A water hose left on or a running toilet could account for the high usage, Beavers said.

"Unless there is some compelling evidence the meter is wrong, it's very difficult for us to forgive a bill," commissioner Ken Smith said.

Forestry professor Scott Torreano updated the board on the trial wetlands slated for construction at the SUD wastewater treatment plant in conjunction with a research project undertaken jointly by the University of the South and the University of Georgia. Student interns will begin collecting data in late May, Torreano said. The interns will be required to sign a waiver defining liability and site use restrictions. Torreano recommended Beavers contact the University attorney if SUD had stipulations to add to the waiver.

The next meeting of the SUD board is scheduled for May 19, a week earlier than usual to avoid conflicts posed by Memorial Day.

The American Chemical Society's Chattanooga chapter honored John Bordley (right) for his 50 years of membership in the society. Bordley gave a talk at the group's April 23 meeting in Sewanee. Presenting the award is James Dillard of Chattanooga.

Hartman Receives Leadership Award

Eric Hartman, Sewanee's vice president of institutional effectiveness and risk management, and former dean of students, is the 2015 recipient of the Robert Bradshaw Small College Advocate Award. The award is given to a student affairs administrator with a proven meritorious leadership and service record bettering the advancement of smaller institutions of higher learning. He will receive the award at the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA) Region III summer conference in June.

NASPA is the primary association for student affairs professionals.

In the announcement, NASPA cited "Eric's many years of devotion at Sewanee, within the Associated Colleges of the South, and for the other institutions in the consortium."

School of Theology Senior Prizes Announced

The School of Theology community gathered in the Chapel of the Apostles on April 22 for a Eucharist in celebration of the upcoming commencement.

At the luncheon following the service, the Rt. Rev. J. Neil Alexander, dean of the School of Theology, accompanied by Vice-Chancellor John M. McCardell Jr. and the School's academic dean, the Rev. Canon Jim Turrell, presented the School of Theology awards.

The School of Theology Prize in Biblical Studies was awarded to Joseph Robert Woodfin, an M. Div. student from the Diocese of Tennessee. Woodfin was also awarded the School of Theology Prize in Historical Studies. During his time at Sewanee, Woodfin received a Griffin Scholarship, the Freeman Award for Merit and served as student body president. "I am honored to have received these prizes from the School of Theology, and honored to have lived and worked with my wonderful classmates for the last three years," said Woodfin.

The School of Theology Prize in Theology and Ethics was awarded to Sarah Leanne Miller, an M.Div. student from the Diocese of Alabama. Miller shared the Freeman Award for Merit with Woodfin during her middler year and served on the Task Force to Reimagine the Episcopal Church. "I am deeply grateful to have spent three years being formed by a dedicated faculty and a loving community of peers," Miller said.

The School of Theology Prize in Practical Theology was awarded to Bonnie Gordy Underwood, an M.Div. student from the Diocese of Atlanta. Underwood also received a Griffin Scholarship and served as head sacristan at the Chapel of the Apostles.

She is active in efforts to advance international education policy and practice and is a frequent speaker in the field, including topics such as study abroad trends, outcomes assessment and evaluation systems. Prior to joining IES, Dwyer was a faculty member in the College of Medicine at the University of Illinois at Chicago. She holds a bachelor of arts from Mundelein College, a master's degree in educational leadership and a doctorate in public policy analysis from the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Robert M. Gates served as the U.S. secretary of defense from 2006 to 2011. Before becoming secretary of defense, Gates was the president of Texas A&M University (2002–06). Gates spent nearly 27 years as an intelligence professional with the Central Intelligence Agency. He was deputy national security adviser for President George H. W. Bush from 1989 to 1991, and served as director of Central Intelligence from 1991 until 1993. In 2011 President Barack Obama awarded him the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor. Gates received a bachelor's degree from the College of William & Mary, a master's degree from Indiana University, and a doctorate in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University. He was installed as chancellor of the College of William & Mary in 2012.

F. Robertson "Rob" Hershey is the 11th headmaster of Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va., serving in that role since 1998. Hershey began his independent school career at Woodberry Forest School, where he taught history and economics; he later served in many other roles, including assistant headmaster and associate headmaster. Hershey has led several campus renewal projects at Episcopal. He earned a bachelor's degree from Williams College and a master's of education from the University of Virginia.

Jefferson Allen McMahan, C'76, is White's Professor of Moral Philosophy at the University of Oxford. McMahan has written and lectured extensively on the metaphysics of death and the ethics of killing. A significant portion of his work is dedicated to the re-examination and revision of traditional just war theory using contemporary ethical theory. McMahan earned a bachelor of arts in English at Sewanee and then did graduate work in philosophy at Corpus Christi College, Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar. He received a doctorate in 1986. He was previously on the faculty at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and Rutgers University. His publications include "The Ethics of Killing: Problems at the Margins of Life," "Killing in War" and "The Morality of Nationalism" and "Ethics and Humanity."

School of Theology Announces Commencement Plans

The Most Rev. Dr. Thabo Cecil Makgoba, Anglican archbishop of Cape Town, South Africa, will be the Commencement speaker at this year's School of Theology service on Friday, May 8. Makgoba will also receive an honorary doctor of divinity degree, along with the Rt. Rev. Robert Skirving, bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina.

Commencement will take place at 10 a.m., Friday, May 8, in All Saints' Chapel, followed by a celebratory luncheon in McClurg Hall. The service will be live-streamed for those unable to attend. The link to the feed is on the home page of the school's website, <www.theology.sewanee.edu>.

Makgoba has served as the archbishop and head of the Anglican Church of Southern Africa since 2008 and is the youngest bishop elected to this office. In 2008, he was decorated by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Rowan Williams, with the Cross of St. Augustine for his role within the Anglican Communion. In 2012, he was inaugurated as the chancellor of the University of the Western Cape. Makgoba holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, and a Ph.D. from the University of Cape Town for his thesis on spirituality in the South African mining workplace. He received the Ernest Oppenheimer Memorial Trust Scholarship to support this research. Makgoba gives frequent lectures and panel discussions on topics including fostering political stability in Africa, the major theological shifts of the 21st century, restoring faith in economics and rethinking values in the post-crisis world.

Skirving was ordained as the eighth bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina in 2014. He earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, followed by a master of divinity degree from Huron University College, London, Ontario. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1986, and served two years as assistant curate at Church of St. John the Evangelist, London, Ontario, with particular responsibility for youth ministry. In 1988, he assumed pastoral leadership of three small congregations in Kent County, Ontario, and worked to strengthen the collaborative ministry of these congregations. In 1992, he was called as rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, a growing suburban congregation in Brantford, Ontario, and led a campaign to significantly expand their facilities. He completed the coursework for a doctor of ministry degree from Seabury Institute, Evanston, Ill. From 1999 to 2004, he served as rector of Bishop Cronyn Memorial Church in London, Ontario, before moving to the United States as rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Midland, Mich. Skirving supported St. John's in extensive local and global outreach ministries, including a partnership with the Episcopal Church in the Dominican Republic to build a new church in San Isidro.

Second Harvest Partners with Walmart

Walmart has launched a new campaign, "Fight Hunger, Spark Change," to help food banks across the United States, including Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee. The campaign runs through Sunday, May 3.

One in six people in America struggles with hunger at some point during the year, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Hunger is a nationwide problem with local implications in every community.

Second Harvest announced the annual "Map the Meal Gap" results in April, which revealed that 5,840 individuals in Franklin County, including 2,200 children, are food insecure. Franklin County's food insecurity rate of 14.3% increased by 0.4% year over year, and the child food insecurity rate of 24.8% decreased by 0.2%.

There are three ways the public can participate in the effort:

1. Take a picture of six friends who share a commitment to fight hunger. Then, post it on Facebook, Instagram or Twitter with the hashtag #WeSparkChange. For each public post Walmart will donate $10, up to a maximum donation of $1.5 million, to Feeding America/Second Harvest.

2. Walmart customers can purchase one of 240 participating products in Walmart stores, and the supplier will make a donation to help Feeding America and Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee.

3. Walmart customers can make a donation on behalf of Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee at the register during checkout.

This is Walmart's tenth year partnering with Feeding America nationally to fight against hunger and the second annual "Fight Hunger. Spark Change" campaign.

ADASH OF SPICE

by Ryan Currie

To the Sewanee class of 2015:

We often speak about political matters by using the analogy of the body. Diverse thinkers, including Plato, St. Paul, Shakespeare and Hobbes, have described human society in anatomical terms for centuries, and the metaphor of the body politic is so pervasive that we are almost always unconscious of it being used. President Obama is our “head of state”; we might say Joe Biden is his “right-hand man”; and the very word “constitution” denotes the organization of our government, as well as the health of our own bodies.

Just because we think and talk this way so often does not make the body politic a cliché. Au contraire, it is vitally useful, and frankly I’m not sure how else I could speak the things I’m feeling right now as we conclude another year of academic life in Sewanee.

We are members of the University, and that is an important thing: The word “member” denotes in more than one sense a part of the human body, the real thing made of flesh and blood, our physical presence in the world that bumps into all kinds of other bodies, that is as subject to pain as to pleasure, and will one day die and decompose and become food for millions of other living things with their own vulnerable bodies.

Membership also involves activity: the purpose of the stomach is to digest, of legs to walk. In the case of a school it is necessary that the activity of most of its members—you, its students—is missionary. The typical student is educated and formed in Sewanee for life elsewhere, for a lifelong mission to serve humanity in all kinds of ways: as doctors, lawyers, priests, teachers, cooks, musicians and innumerable other vocations. At the end of the graduation ceremonies on May 10, the vice-chancellor will charge graduating seniors with the explicit commission: “Chosen and now honored youths, see to it that you bear yourselves with uprightness and integrity, to the glory of God, to the honor of the state, and to the good name of this University. Farewell, and may God bless you.” Through your membership, luvenes dilecti et exornati [chosen and now honored youths], Sewanee works in a multitude of places across the whole world.

There are other members of this community, though, whose missions and vocations tie them to this place: professors, administrators, workers in the dining hall and dormitories. And as one such member still here after being given that charge two years ago at my own graduation, I want to say something:

We will miss you.

When you pass through those gates on your way out of the Domain after graduation, even though campus looks deserted, there are still a few of us here. In those days I have felt like an amputee with phantom pains in limbs—members—that aren’t there. There are spaces that should hold your bodies: choir stalls in All Saints’ Chapel, rocking chairs on porches, bleachers at the football field, desks in classrooms, fraternity house lawns. But in the first days after Commencement, all those spaces seem empty and aching. Sewanee becomes peaceful, but vague, flattened and quiet: everything seems disembodied.

But I say only “seems” and not “is.” I will try to console myself. In Sewanee the eyes still see, and the tongue still tastes, the ears hear, and the heart beats. Your physical separation from us is painful, but not mortal. For those of you who find it painful to leave, know this: we are a body with wounds and scars, suffering for the moment, but we are still alive and—through you—reaching out to embrace the whole world.

of Pam Byerly, John Flynn, Barbara Schlichting, Theresa Shackelford and John Swallow will address redrawing district boundaries to equalize population distribution, electing at-large representatives, and possibly reducing term lengths from four to two years.

The council approved meeting dates for 2015–16, scheduling regular meetings for Aug. 31, Oct. 16, Jan. 25, Mar. 28 and May 23. On non-meeting months, a day was reserved for a meeting if community issues dictated a need.

Community members recommended new signage at two locations, a blue “Hospital” sign at the entrance to Emerald Hodgson Hospital and a “Trucks Entering Highway” sign at the junction of Hwy. 41A and Finney Lane. Sewanee police chief Marie Eldridge will contact the Franklin County Highway Department about these requests.

Updating the council on recycling and trash collection concerns, Michael Gardner the University’s director of physical plant services, said the University’s goal is to adopt single-stream recycling, where the recycling items do not require sorting. In doing so, however, it may make it necessary to have separate vendors for residential and University trash collection.

Franklin County Solid Waste Management does not offer single-stream recycling, Gardner said, and there are no Franklin County vendors that offer the service. Gardner said discussion was underway with four vendors, including the current service provider, Joe B. Long.

Gardner plans to have a contract proposal at the next council meeting scheduled for June 22.

MES Honors Maloof for Service to School

Monteagle Elementary School recently honored Greg Maloof for his dedication and support of the school. Janet Layne, MES principal, said Maloof contributes in many ways to the school. He speaks each month to the seventh- and eighth-grade classes about current events; he donates funds for an eighth-grade trip to the American Village in Montevallo, Ala.; he purchased the STAR Reading program for MES; and he sponsors two eighth-grade honors during Awards Day each year.

"We feel truly blessed to have such a kind and generous benefactor in our community," Layne said.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

by Elizabeth Ellis

The DUFF

7:30 p.m. • Friday–Sunday, May 1–3
2015 • PG-13 • 101 minutes

A “My Fair Lady” for the teens of the 21st century, this comedy revolves around the inevitable truth that everyone in high school needs to find a way to accept themselves and one another to survive the brutal social scene. Despite being everything to the contrary, Bianca (Mae Whitman) learns from a brutally honest jock, Wesley, that she is a “DUFF” in her group of friends, which stands for Designated Ugly Fat Friend. Having been a DUFF myself during my teen years, I can understand Bianca’s outrage when it is laid so bare to her. As she begins looking at photos of her and her friends, she sees that she is not conventionally pretty and doesn’t dress as well as her counterparts. Bianca makes a deal with Wesley to help her get out of the DUFF zone before she graduates. But instead of becoming popular for her looks, she becomes popular for her enlightened understanding: While it is a positive thing to improve yourself, what is even better is staying true to the essence of who you are and helping eradicate the ruthless labels that we impose on one another. Rated PG-13 for crude and sexual material throughout, some language and partying, this film is appropriate for teenagers, older adults and families of older children.

Three Sopranos in St. Luke's

Sewanee freshman Anna Burklin, mezzo-soprano; senior Emily Williams, soprano; and senior Rebecca Manseau, soprano, from the studio of Susan Rupert will present an evening of classical art song and opera favorites at 7:30 p.m., today (Friday), May 1, in St. Luke's Chapel. Junior Linda Kleinfeld will accompany them on the piano.

Burklin will sing “Habanera” from “Carmen.” Williams will offer “Voi che sapete” from the “Marriage of Figaro.” Manseau will present the stunning aria “Steal me sweet thief” from Menotti's “The Old Maid and the Thief.”

Stokes Organ Recital Monday

William Stokes, C'16, will present an organ recital at 7 p.m., Monday, May 4, in All Saints' Chapel. The program includes “Prelude,” “Fugue” and “Chaconne” by Dietrich Buxtehude, two Schübler Chorales by J.S. Bach and a group of organ works by Johannes Brahms.

Crossroads Café

There will be live music at Crossroads Café this week. Robin Gottfried and Friends will perform at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 6. Regina Childress and Friends will perform at 6:30 p.m., Friday, May 8. For more information call 598-9988.

Fiber artist and part-time Sewanee resident Diane Getty is having a solo show, “An Ordinary Life,” at School 33 now through May 30. “Wonder Woman” (above) is part of the show. School 33 Art Center is located at 1427 Light St. Baltimore; it is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesday–Saturday.

Community Arts Show in Cowan Interprets Flowers

The “Flowers” Community Arts Show is open now through June 13 at Artisan Depot in Cowan. The artists' reception will be at 5 p.m., today (Friday), May 1, at the gallery.

This show focuses on various interpretations of flowers, including garden themes related to mothers and grandmothers in a variety of media ranging from handwoven works to watercolor, all created by local artists.

Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 201 Cumberland St. East in Cowan. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays. For more information about upcoming community art shows, the gallery or the guild go to <www.fcguild.wordpress.com> or contact Diana Lamb at (931) 308-4130.

Dogwood Festival in Winchester

The Winchester Dogwood Festival is today (Friday), May 1 through Sunday, May 3, a three-day celebration of the nursery industry in Franklin County, where nurserymen have patented more flowering dogwoods than anywhere else in the world.

All events are located in downtown Winchester, and admission is free.

There is music each day, including headliner “38 Special,” who will play at 8 p.m., Saturday, May 2. Also, there will be a kid's tent, a car show and a tractor show, a school art show, a dog show and a parade.

For the full schedule and more information go to <www.winchesterdogwoodfestival.com>.

A Touchstone Energy® Cooperative

Attention Consumers of Duck River Electric Membership Corporation

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has scheduled two power outages for DREMC members living in the communities of Sherwood and Anderson of Franklin County.

These outages are scheduled for Saturday, May 9th and Saturday, May 30th from 6:00 a.m. until approximately 10:00 a.m.

These outages are necessary for TVA to replace several bad poles and will affect all consumers in the Sherwood and Anderson area, but will not affect consumers in Sewanee, Cowan and Sinking Cove. In the event of inclement weather on either one of these dates, the necessary repairs will be completed in the Fall.

Duck River Electric appreciates the cooperation and understanding of its members during this planned outage as we strive to improve the reliability of the electric system.

Tennessee Craft Celebration in Nashville

Nearly 200 of the region's finest craft artists will come together in Centennial Park today through Sunday, May 1–3, for the 44th Annual Spring Tennessee Craft Fair. Among the local artists participating are Merissa Tobler and Jeanie Stephenson of Sewanee and Barbara Coffelt of Winchester.

As Tennessee Craft (formerly known as TACA) celebrates its 50th anniversary in 2015, this Nashville tradition endures as the premiere connecting point between artists and shoppers in Middle Tennessee.

Visitors will explore one-of-a-kind, handcrafted treasures, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., today and Saturday; Sunday, the hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Functional and decorative pieces in clay, wood, glass, fiber and more will be available to purchase.

"Aside from the work itself, the best part of our fair is the artists," Teri Alea, executive director of Tennessee Craft, said. "Artists are on-site all weekend sharing their work, stories and processes with shoppers. That connection between artists and fairgoers makes finding that special something even more memorable."

Families can enjoy the activities found in the Publix Kids' Tent, this year with a zero waste initiative. Thanks to community support, children of all ages will be inspired to create craft with recycled materials.

Additionally, fairgoers can visit the Demonstration Tent and find the "next big thing" in an Emerging Makers Tent.

The Metropolitan Airport Authority will provide a free shuttle service for visitors. Shuttles will run in 15-minute loops from the HCA Parking Lots, located on Park Plaza, to the Tennessee Craft Fair on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. All guests are encouraged to use this service.

As always, this dog-friendly event is free and open to the public. For more information go to < www.tennessee-craft.org >.

McMahan Book Signing on May 9

Jefferson Allen McMahan, C'76, Rhodes Scholar and White's Professor of Moral Philosophy at the University of Oxford, will have a book signing at noon, Saturday, May 9, in McClurg Dining Hall.

The signing will follow the University's Baccalaureate Service, during which McMahan will receive an honorary degree.

Two of his books, "The Ethics of Killing: Problems at the Margins of Life" and "Killing in War" will be available for purchase at the event.

McMahan's recent work focuses on the timely topics of ethics of killing in war, as self-defense, and as a mode of punishment. His work is acclaimed for its combination of philosophical rigor and accessibility to non-specialists.

In addition to his books, McMahan has written numerous journal articles, as well as opinion columns for the New York Times and Huffington Post.

McMahan earned a bachelor of arts degree in English at Sewanee and then did graduate work in philosophy at Corpus Christi College, Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar.

LOOKSATBOOKS

by Pat Wiser for Friends of duPont Library

Soon the January freeze and April showers (i.e., downpours) will be a distant memory. Soon we'll all be kvetching about the heat, fleeing to shade and icy drinks. What books will enhance your escape? A few ideas from my list:

For early morning coffee on the front porch, I'm saving Nashville writer Ann Patchett's collection of previously published essays, "This is the Story of a Happy Marriage." Tempting offerings include the prolific author's account of her childhood struggle with reading. I did enjoy a vivid account of her learning to scale a six-foot wall for Los Angeles Police Academy try-outs in "The Wall." In reality, the essay's subject is the warmth and pride shared with her father, a longtime policeman. The strong father-daughter bond was revealed yet again, sadly, in Patchett's February newspaper commentary describing regular flights to California during her dad's last days.

George Hodgman's memoir, "Bettyville," will appeal to anyone who has been a parent's caregiver (or just likes interesting personal narrative). Moving in with his mother started as a visit for her 91st birthday; the freelance editor from Manhattan decided to stay after observing her condition. The crisp prose chronicle of a new life in his small Missouri hometown and loving, exasperated portrait of his indomitable mother promise absorbing reading.

After missing Richard Louv's Trails & Trilliums keynote address, I was pleased that duPont Library has two copies of "Last Child in the Woods: Saving our Children from Nature-Deficit Disorder." Reviewers say that Louv pulls together new research on positive effects of time in the natural world for today's "wired generation." His practical, simple suggestions will be helpful as we entice children from iPads to outdoors.

In the midst of fun on lakes and trails, I'll be discreet with my own screen time, as I sneakily revisit the PBS "Masterpiece" adaptation of Hilary Mantel's fact-fiction piece of 16th-century English history. The TV series uses the first title of her trilogy, "Wolf Hall" and includes material from the second, "Bring up the Bodies." The third book will be released later this year. Writing largely from the perspective of Thomas Cromwell, the enigmatic adviser to Henry VIII, Mantel creatively fills in blanks about a figure who lacks his king's historical documentation. DuPont Library offers both books, and DVDs are on early order. Announce plans to abandon family and chores before you dive in.

July 14 brings the release of Harper Lee's novel, "Go Set a Watchman." Written before "To Kill a Mockingbird," it is set 20 years later, with the grown-up Scout visiting her aging father, Atticus. When editors rejected this book and convinced Lee to develop its flashbacks of Scout's childhood, she produced "Mockingbird." Released in 1960, it is her only published novel to date. When publicity for the first work appeared last year, fears of coercion generated public debate about the writer's competence. I was among the dubious until State of Alabama investigators concluded that the frail writer is fully able to authorize publication. As we'd expect, distributors report record-breaking pre-orders.

For children's summer reading, watch for an upcoming issue with great ideas from local librarians, teachers and parents.

SAS Hosts First Home Track Meet of the Season

On April 21, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School hosted its first varsity home meet of the season against South Pittsburg High School and Franklin County High School.

The SAS middle school team competed as exhibition runners and illustrated a promising future for the school's track and field program. The top scorer for the varsity girls' team was eighth-grader Ty Klekotta (Monteagle), who placed first in the 1,600-meter run; first in the 100-meter high hurdles; second in the high jump; and fourth in the long jump.

The second highest scorer for the SAS girls was sophomore Evelyn Seavey (Monteagle), who won both the long jump and the 800-meter dash, and came in second in the 3,200-meter run.

On the varsity boys' side, captains and seniors Eric Baynard (East Point, Ga.) and Jake Mallory (Winchester) each earned 10 points for their team. Baynard placed second in the triple jump and 200-meter dash and third in the 100 and 400-meter dash. Mallory flew to victories in both the 400 and the 200.

Other shining moments for the SAS varsity team included wins on both the boys' side and the girls' side in the 3,200 by freshman James Hudson (Jasper) and captain and junior Sadie Graves (Sewanee).

The SAS female throwers had a great day, earning their team 16 points. Sophomore Sarah Johnson (Gruetli-Laager) won the shot put and placed third in the discus.

Freshman Laurel Wall (Winchester) came in third in the shot put, and sophomore Ferah Fortune (Jonesboro, Ga.) won the discus throw.

The SAS middle school team competed exceptionally well against three varsity teams, with sixth-grader Sarah Grace Burns (Sewanee) leading the way by winning the high jump and 300-meter hurdles and coming in second in the 100-meter hurdles.

Sprinter Caroline Hiers (Sewanee, sixth grade) placed fourth in both the 100 and 200, and Sarah Beth Hobby (South Pittsburg, seventh grade) was runner-up in the 300-meter hurdles and the 1,600.

Seventh-grader Lucy Carroll (Sewanee) finished in a strong third place in the 400, and Adeline Smith (Tullahoma, sixth grade) came in fifth in the 200. Seventh-graders Gabriel Pongdee (Tracy City) and Drake Cardin (Jasper) broke their own school records in the 400 and the shot put respectively.

Middle School Soccer Season Comes to a Close

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's boys' middle school soccer team fell to Cascade Middle School 1-0 on April 22 in the opening round of the league tournament.

For the first 50 minutes the match remained scoreless with both teams placing eight shots on frame. Cascade scored the winning goal on a quick counter attack with eight minutes left in the match. Despite falling short the Mountain Lions fought hard throughout and continued to show progress as a team. Goalkeeper Larson Heitzenrater made some spectacular saves and played hard in his last middle school match alongside his classmates John Beavers, Spencer David and Alexander Milford.

"It has been a privilege to coach this team," said coach Margot Burns. "We struggled to find the back of the net, but showed progress throughout the season and showed real character when confronted with defeat."

SAS Tennis Update

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School varsity girls' tennis team played a close match against Webb-Bell Buckle on April 21, falling, 4-3.

Ester Yang (No. 1) and Lindsay Rhys (No. 5) each earned singles wins, while Yang and Mason Goodson added a win at No. 1 doubles. Hailey Nelson and Sarah Simons battled in their exhibition doubles match to prevail, 9-7. The girls' team had a tough time against the Franklin Road Academy team on April 24, losing 6-1. Yang and Goodson won their doubles match, and Rhys and Nelson won at the No. 3 exhibition position.

In its last regular season match, the girls finished strong with a win on April 28 against Friendship Christian School during Senior Day, 5-2. Ester Yang (No. 1), Grace Liu (No. 4) and senior Lindsay Rhys (No. 5) earned singles wins. The SAS girls swept the doubles, with Yang and Goodson victorious at No. 1 and Fey Shen and Liu on top at No. 2.

The SAS boys' tennis team fell, 6-1, against Webb-Bell Buckle. Filip Martyni-Orenowicz and Aubrey Black fought hard, but ultimately lost, 9-7, in doubles. Black sought revenge in singles at the No. 4 position, earning the sole win for the day. The SAS boys faced a strong Donelson Christian Academy team on April 23. A battle at number No. 3 singles was the highlight of the match, with Black ultimately falling in a third-set tiebreaker.

Several close matches characterized the boys' next match on April 24 against Franklin Road Academy. Edward Kang earned the only win, at No. 4 doubles. Senior Yudong Yin lost, 7-9; Black fell, 8-9, and Kang and Black let their doubles match slip by 6-8. On Senior Day, April 28, against Friendship Christian, all seniors won. Yin held off his opponent, senior Jason Shao won his singles exhibition match, and Shao and John Grammer won in doubles exhibition.

Girls' Middle School Tennis Team Wins Two at Home

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School middle school girls' tennis team continued its winning streak on April 22 at home, topping Harris Middle School, 4-3. Tessa Shackelford, Anna Post and Jenna Black all earned singles wins, and Shackelford and Post added one more in doubles.

The middle school boys fell, 7-2, with Nathan King and Tim Nelson each earning a singles win.

Against Mt. Juliet Christian School on April 24, the girls dominated, with each member of the team earning a win: Shackelford, Post, Black, Mary Brooks Donald and Hannah Ohlemeier. Both girls' and boys' teams close the season on May 4 against Westwood Middle School.

The Camp Forest Football Club Lady Lightning competed in their first tournament of the spring season the weekend of April 26 at the Huntsville Spring Classic and reached the finals before falling to the No. 5-ranked team in Alabama. On their way to the finals, they beat the 11th- and 12th-ranked Alabama U-10 teams. Pictured are (seated, from left) Edie Paterson (Sewanee), Khloe Dwyer (Winchester), Joanna House (Tullahoma), Haley Campbell (Winchester) and Ella Masters (Monteagle); (standing) Avery Brewer (Tullahoma), Carley Rigsby (Winchester), Libby Neubauer (Belvidere), Reagan Rogers (Tullahoma), Lucy Cassell (Sewanee), Hannah Martin (Cowan), Jessica Velasquez (Shelbyville), and coaches Brian Masters and Curtis Brewer.

SAS Baseball Topples Riverside Christian

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee Mountain Lions traveled to play the Knights of Riverside Christian Academy on April 24 and defeated the host team 7-3. Casey Willis pitched a complete game, allowing two earned runs while striking out seven.

SAS opened the game loading the bases on singles by Riley Rhoton, Levi Higgins and Sam Thomas after two outs, but were unable to score. The Knights countered in their half of the first inning with two runs on two hits and an error.

The Mountain Lions came back in the second inning, as Blaise Zeitler continued his hot hitting by opening the inning with a single and advanced to second on an error. Charlie Jenkins followed with a RBI single and advanced to third on an error.

Willis walked, before Briar Sain produced a sacrifice RBI to tie the score. Rhoton and Higgins were hit by pitches to load the bases and two consecutive wild pitches scored both. Thomas and Christian Hanger coaxed walks, before Higgins scored on another wild pitch. SAS batted a round to make the score 5-2.

The Knights threatened again in the third inning, when Willis walked the leadoff batter, but he was erased on an attempted steal on a perfect throw from SAS catcher Rhoton. The next Knights' batters had a single and a walk before a fielder's choice produced the second out. With runners at second and third, the batter lined what appeared to be a two-run single, before Thomas made a spectacular diving grab.

"Sam's play absolutely was the defensive play of the year thus far and was a game changer," said coach James Barry. "We have talked to our players about defense being a key and work on diving drills during practice."

SAS added a single run in the sixth inning, as Willis singled and stole second and third before Rhoton hit an RBI single.

SAS extended the lead in the seventh, when Higgins singled, and Thomas walked. Hanger put down a sacrifice bunt to advance the runners, before Higgins scored on a fielder's choice.

"I thought our team came out after the opening inning and made a statement," Barry said. "RCA is undefeated in their conference, and we knew this would be a close contest."

Dombrowski, Murphy Earn Top Honors in Women's Lacrosse

Led by Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Coach of the Year Michele Dombrowski and SAA Offensive Player of the Year Ellie Murphy, the Sewanee women's lacrosse team earned a number of conference postseason awards.

Leading Sewanee to a 16-0 regular season and a 17-1 overall record, Dombrowski earned her second-ever SAA Coach of the Year honor.

During the season, Sewanee posted the best regular season record in school history since 1963. The Tigers also set the school's longest winning streak while ranking second in the nation in scoring. Sewanee also ranked nationally in scoring margin (10th), win percentage (second) and in draws (eighth). Along the season, Sewanee also defeated previously unbeaten Rhodes and Piedmont.

Men's Lacrosse Dominates SAA Awards

Led by Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Defensive Player of the Year, Selby Austin, and SAA Newcomer of the Year, Robbie Berndt, the Sewanee men's lacrosse team had 10 scholar-athletes earn accolades on the All-SAA list, the league announced on April 28.

Along with their individual awards, Austin and Berndt were also named to the All-SAA first team. They were joined by teammates Matthew Stiefel, Cotter Brown, Hal Smith and George Pratt.

Matt McJunkin and Jake Rubenstein were selected to the All-SAA second team, while Jimmy Parker and Wil Rainer were named to the All-SAA honorable mention Team.

Austin, a sophomore goalkeeper from Rossville, Tenn., was a big key on a Sewanee defense that ranked first in the SAA.

Along with helping Sewanee to the SAA regular season and tournament championships, Austin led the SAA in goals-against (90) and goals-against average (7.83), while also ranking third in save percentage at 56.1 percent.

Additionally, Austin's record minding the net was 10-2 for a league-best 83 win percentage.

Berndt, a freshman attacker from Virginia Beach, Va., emerged as the Tigers' go-to scorer in 2015. Once in conference play, Berndt led the league-only stats in points (31), goals (25), shots (63) and shots on goal (44).

Though voting occurred prior to the postseason tournament, Berndt affirmed his SAA Newcomer of the Year selection by leading Sewanee back from a deficit in the title match with four goals scored, including the game-winner, in the Tigers' 7-6 victory.

Stiefel, a 2014 All-SAA honorable mention selection, joined his teammates on the first team after scoring 21 goals and having 17 assists.

During back-to-back games against Wittenberg and Centre, the Jacksonville, Fla., native netted nine goals and two assists. In fact, that helped Stiefel score in all but six matches this season. That included six multiple-goal contests.

As a player that controlled the pace in the midfield, Brown earned first-team honors after finishing with 11 goals, 13 assists and 24 points. The junior captain closed the year with four assists in the two SAA tournament matches. That extended Brown's streak of eight straight contests with at least one point.

Along with Brown, Smith, the other Tiger captain, dominated the face-off line. The lone Sewanee senior finished with 146 wins and 95 ground balls. Both ranked second among all SAA players.

Finally, Pratt grabbed a spot on the first team as a defender. After finishing with a goal against Wittenberg, Pratt ranked 28th in the SAA in caused turnovers (10) and finished with 13 ground balls.

NATURENOTES

Smokies Spring Wildflower Pilgrimage

Yolande and Robin Gottfried report that they saw six of the 10 species of trillium on a recent trip to the Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

"Yellow trillium was everywhere, more or less filling the niche that Little Sweet Betsy does in our area. There was also the Sweet White trillium with large flowers on a stalk above quite large leaves—dinner plate size, sometimes. At higher elevations it was replaced with the white form of Wakerobin or Stinking Willy, with smaller, less cup-shaped flowers. Also at higher elevations was the lovely Painted trillium, white with a red splash at the base of the petals, a northern species at the southern end of its range. Another treat was Vasey's trillium, large with a nodding deep red flower below the whorl of leaves. The Large-flowered white trillium, same as in Shakerag, was there, too.

"Heading up to 5,000 feet at Newfound Gap was like going back in time to early spring. The slopes were white with abundantly blooming Carolina silverbells and some Allegheny serviceberry, a different species from the one in our area. On the ground were masses of white fringed phacelia, a tiny winter annual that puts on quite a show at that time of year.

"Of course, photographers were beating a path, literally, to any Yellow Lady Slippers, and we saw some lovely specimens of those, plus the occasional showy orchids. For fern lovers, there was the dwarf bristle fern on the 'ceiling' of a rock crevice, also sheltering lovely liverworts and mountain saxifrage, and on the trail further up that slope, maidenhair spleenwort. The intermediate wood fern was one of the most common ferns in the park, where we would find marginal wood fern in our area. The names refer to the position of the spore-bearing structures on the underside of the fronds.

"The abundance and variety of wildflowers, of course, defy coverage in this space. Go and see if you ever get the chance," the Gottfrieds said.

Red-Shouldered Hawk flying to its nest (in the upper right).

Nesting Red-Shouldered Hawks

On April 24, Laura Willis reports that she was dive-bombed by a Red-Shouldered Hawk when she was getting too near the hawk's nest, which must contain newly born chicks.

The Red-Shouldered Hawks have nested in the Willis yard for more than a decade. It is impossible to tell if it is the same pair of hawks each year, but the hawks have been in their current nest for more than a dozen years. It is located about 60 feet up, in a white oak tree; even from the ground, the nest looks huge. Throughout the year, the hawks hunt in the stream located near the nest and along the edge of Running Knob Hollow Lake.

On this recent siting, the hawk was perched on the edge of the nest mid-morning. Willis reports, "With a camera in hand, I walked down our driveway, getting closer and closer to the nest, taking pictures. I watched the pair of raptors move in and out of the nest, calling in their distinctive, loud voice. I love these hawks and was happy to see them out and active.

"One hawk seemed to be 'talking' to me (anthropomorphism, I know). She sounded so close, when ... SWOOOSH!!!! She flew at me, her wings flapping right near my head. I could feel her glide past me. She was talking to me: Leave my nest alone!

"Primal fear propelled me up to the house. I went inside, pulled on a dark ball cap (thinking that would camouflage me) and went back in the front yard to pull weeds. I heard the hawks talking in the distance and was happily clearing the yard, when SWOOOSH!!!! The hawk flew right near my head again! I went inside for the rest of the day."

A few days later, on April 29, Willis reports that she observed (from a safe distance) one of the hawks perched on the side of the nest, bending over as if grooming or feeding small chicks.

Tracy City Market Seeks Vendors

Organizers of the Tracy City/ Grundy County Farmers Market are seeking additional vendors to participate in this year's market.

The requirements are simple: the product must be locally grown or locally made. Farm products at market have included plants, herbs, fruit, vegetables, meat and eggs. Crafts have included jams, baked goods, pot holders, soap, quilts, jewelry and leather goods.

Being part of the market is free to start; if a vendor sells more than $25 of goods in a day, there is a $2 fee. For more information contact market manager Darlene Seagroves at (931) 592-6803.

Twenty people came out to pull garlic mustard around and below Morgan's Steep on April 26. College students and community members joined together to make this the Sewanee Herbarium's most successful garlic mustard pull to-date. About 20 bags of the invasive weed (pictured above) were hauled away by physical plant services, who burned the plants, for which the Herbarium is grateful.

Pets of the Week

Meet Lacy and Sheba

Lacy

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Lacy is a 3-year-old Shepherd/Collie mix who has a sweet personality and is great with children. She adores anyone who gives her affection. Lacy would love to have a forever home, and she would be happiest as the only dog in the family. She is house-trained, heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

All Sheba wants is someone to play and cuddle with. She is an elegant, independent and observant young adult Tabby. Sheba loves to have her head scratched and will reach out for your hand if she thinks you should be petting her, but you are neglecting your duty. She is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Sheba

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees are reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Animal Harbor is now open at its new shelter at 56 Nor-Nan Rd., off AEDC Road in Winchester.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information, and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets.

Please help Animal Harbor by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P.O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Then came fair May, the fayrest mayd on ground,
Dekt all with dainties of her season's pride,
And throwing flowers out of her lap around:
Upon two brethren's shoulders she did ride,
The twinnes of Leda; which on either side
Supported her, like their sovaine queen.
Lord! how all creatures laughed, when her they spide
And leapt and daunc't as they had ravisht beene!
And Cupid self about her fluttered all in greene.

—Edmund Spencer
