A book signing with Brooks will be 2-3 p.m., Friday, May 10, at the University Bookstore.

Brooks will be on campus as the University's Baccalaureate speaker on Saturday, May 11.

Brooks is also a frequent analyst on NPR's "All Things Considered."

Meacham, a 1991 Sewanee graduate, received the Pulitzer Prize for "American Lion," his 2008 biography of Andrew Jackson. His most recent book, the New York Times best seller "Thomas Jefferson: The Art of Power," celebrates Jefferson's skills as a practical politician.

He is also the author of "Franklin and Winston" and "American Gospel." Executive editor and executive vice president of Random House, Meacham is a contributing editor to Time magazine and a former editor of Newsweek.

Farm Development on Breakfield Road

By Gina Raicovich and David Haskell, Special to the Messenger

The University Farm is growing, and we need your help. In the coming months, we'll be bringing beekeeping and small livestock operations to Breakfield Road. Our new projects will teach us what kind of operations will best complement the land and the educational mission of our program. They will also give our summer interns some great opportunities for hands-on learning. These are exciting developments, and we hope that the community will enjoy seeing these examples of education in action.

Over the next couple of years, what are now abandoned agricultural fields and outbuildings will be filled with new life, enlivening the view along Breakfield Road. This spring and summer you can expect to see goats and pigs in the paddocks around the barn and old dairy, cover crops in the fields next to the old dairy and chickens in the University garden. These projects will entail the need for close attention to neighborliness and animal welfare by the larger Sewanee community. In

Summer Music Festival Announces 2013 Season

The schedule for the 57th season of the Sewanee Summer Music Festival has been announced and includes a blend of traditional activities and new events and venues, including an event at the new golf course. More than 30 concerts, 13 of which will be free to the public, will be presented by 200 students, 25 faculty artists and five guest artists in over seven venues around the Cumberland Plateau.

The season will commence with the Opening Night Gala on June 22, when the Festival Orchestra, an ensemble comprised of the 2013 faculty artists and guest artists, will perform under the baton of Maestro Más-Arocas works by Mason Bates and others.

Traditional concerts include the Faculty Artist Series, Saturdays in the Garth and Symphony Sundays that will highlight unique modern and traditional repertoire combinations such as "The Rite of Spring," Symphonie fantastique and Shostokovich Symphony No. 5. A world premiere of an orchestral piece named "Entre Dos Luces (Solea por Bulerias)" by SSMF double bass professor Sidney King will also be performed on July 7 by the Cumberland Orchestra. The SSMF will host world-renowned conductors including Cristian Macelaru, Carl St. Clair, Christopher Warren-Green, Katherine Kilburn and the newly appointed SSMF Conductor-in-Residence, Octavio Más-Arocas. Full details of the season and ticketing information can be found at <ssmf.inticketing.com>.

The second Hike to a Concert will take place on the bluff-view hole of the new Sewanee golf course on July 3. A hike, led by the Sewanee Outing Program, will occur before the concert, ending directly at the golf course for concert time. In addition, a bike ride, led by Woody Deutsch from Woody's Bicycles, will also start before the concert and will take participants around the Sewanee campus to key highlights, including the Cross, Green's View, the Chapel of the Apostles and others before ending at the golf course. Reservations are required for these events.

A new feature this year is the inclusion of the Blue Chair Tavern as a concert venue. All Wednesday night concerts will be streamed live at the Blue Chair Tavern on the big screen TV, where patrons can enjoy a refreshing beverage along with world-class music. A special thanks to this year's corporate sponsors: Joseph's Remodeling, Myers Point, Locals, the Blue Chair and the Sewanee Business Alliance, along with all of the individual donors and supporters who make this unique musical experience possible.

SAS Players Preview "The Ants" Before Fringe Festival

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's theatre program offers its final production of the year, "The Ants," Friday through Sunday, May 3-5, in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts. The show tonight, May 3, and Saturday, May 4, are at 7 p.m.; the Sunday, May 5, performance is at 4 p.m.

This production of "The Ants" will be presented in August when the troupe travels to the 2013 Fringe Festival in Edinburgh, Scotland.

"Thank you to the entire Sewanee community for supporting the work of the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Theatre this school year as we fund-raise our way to Scotland," said Robie Jackson, SAS performing arts coordinator.

"If you saw our production of 'The Ants' last year, you will be seeing quite a different version of the show this weekend," Jackson said.

The production is one hour in length, is appropriate for all ages and combines humor, science, imagination, music and the writings of world-renowned entomologists E.O. Wilson and Bert Hölldobler.

Ticket prices are $20 for adults and $10 for students. Jackson emphasized that no one will be turned away.

"If last year's prices ($10 for adults and $7 for students) fit your budget more comfortably, please feel welcome to use these admission prices," she said.

Next year, all SAS productions will return to the regular admission price.

THEFT AT TAYLOR'S

To the Editor:

On Saturday evening the surveillance camera at Taylor's observed as two large Japanese maples were taken from behind our building.

Since the incident was recorded, we are able to identify the thief.

We do not want to prosecute, but because of the value of the trees we will be forced to do so. Please bring them back by Monday, and we will not pursue the issue.

SMITH BENEFIT THANK YOUS

To the Editor:

On April 6 we were reminded once again that we truly live in a special place. A benefit for Kevin Smith, a young man who is battling cancer, was held at the Sewanee Senior Citizens Center. The turnout and response went beyond our hopes and dreams. The weather even cooperated, and we had our first real day of spring weather. FRIDAY SCHOOL A SUCCESS

To the Editor:

The 36th Annual Friday School has concluded at Sewanee Elementary School. There are so many people to thank for their contributions.

Bess Jenkins, who was new to the community in the fall, led this year's Friday School, from soliciting volunteers to being a presence during the activities. Bess sent an email to all of the volunteers thanking them for their efforts. I would like to quote her email: "I've talked to many students over the last month, and each and every one was thrilled with their Friday School class. The look on their faces, as they lined up to get on the bus or walked to their classroom, was priceless."

Amy Donald also provided support and publicity. Kudos to both of these fine volunteers. I also would like to thank the volunteers who led the classes: Erin Cassell, Pam Cochran, Amy Patterson, Georgia Hewitt, Courtney and Bubba Smith, Cat Dye, Karen Love, Casey Milford, David Poggi, Christy Sanson, Margaret Matens, Robert Black, Tommy Laurendine, Carly Woodfin, Jennifer Bachman and Woody Deutsch. Several University students also coordinated classes. Many thanks to Allie Horick, Nancy Lilly and Lucy Hebb. Kiki Beavers also contributed to Friday School with her wealth of knowledge and history of the process.

Sewanee Elementary is a very special school because of the involvement of parents and the entire community. Many thanks to all of you.

ST. MARY'S HONORS MEEKS

To the Editor:

The staff, board and friends of St. Mary's Sewanee wish to publicly thank Tracey Meeks of Meeks Specialty Craft and his staff for their labor, skill and care in the construction of our new Phase I residential building and meeting room.

Tracey and his local crew from here on the Mountain have worked tirelessly and through all sorts of conditions and challenges to create a masterpiece of 20 double-occupancy guest rooms with private baths and flow-through ventilation, as well as having porches for bluff views. Many materials came from the Plateau and were purchased locally.

Every aspect of the project features green technology to maximize open space: the use of recycled and regionally manufactured materials, zero use of CFC-based refrigerant, extremely high-efficient heating and cooling systems, naturally ventilated indoor spaces, use of low-VOC paints and stains, and controllability of thermal comfort systems, with daylight filling 75 percent of the inside space.

There is much talent here on the Plateau, and we are grateful to Meeks Specialty Craft for offering their gifts of craftsmanship on our behalf. If you have not yet seen our beautiful new rooms and meeting space, I hope you will stop by soon for a tour. Or better yet, join us for a retreat and a personal time away to rest, renew and reconnect.

SAS STUDENTS HELP OUT

To the Editor:

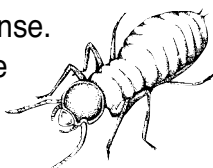

I would like to thank Lizzie Duncan and her intrepid group of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School students for coming out to Stillpoint on Earth Day and forging a path through the woods so we could connect with the Mountain Goat Trail. They braved rain and wind and cleared a beautiful path and edged it with fallen limbs. I've been wanting to do that for quite a while, and they made it a reality. Now we can not only do talk therapy but walk therapy as well! Thanks everyone!

New Windows Dedication Set at Sewanee Cumberland Presbyterian

Sewanee Cumberland Presbyterian Church is having a special dedication of its new stained glass windows at 9 a.m., Sunday, May 5.

The picturesque Sewanee Cumberland Presbyterian Church (SCPC), built in 1892 on a grassy hillside, looks like the typical "church in the dale." Built on land purchased from G.M. Ray and wife, Jennie, on June 11, 1891, and from Tennessee Coal and Iron Railroad Company on Sept. 14, 1891, the church was built immediately. Records of the church go back to Sept. 16, 1892. The members recently replaced the worn windows with the new stained glass windows. The Rev. Harry Green of McMinnville, pastor from 1989 to December 2011, will be the guest speaker. The church is located about one mile off Hwy. 41A and U.S. 64 bypass on Bob Stewman Road. Brunch in the fellowship room will follow the service.

The window committee consisted of Ronald Terrill, Amy Sargent and Paul Mooney. After much searching and talk, they came up with a design. Rev. Green wanted to depict the life of Christ within the windows. Last fall, the committee traveled to the Church Stained Glass Company and finalized their design. The old windows were taken out and used in other projects. The intention was to make the church a welcoming and worshipful sanctuary.

Window one portrays the shepherds receiving the news that Christ will be born. It was given anonymously in thanksgiving to God.

Window two depicts the birth of Jesus. It was given by the Paul Mooney family in honor of Evelyn Mooney, who served the church so faithfully as teacher, pianist, secretary and bookkeeper until her death in 2004.

Window three shows Christ in the temple as a child. This window was given by Shirley and Paul Mooney in honor of Shirley's son, Barney Joe Nunley.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Sewanee

Window four portrays Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist. It was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Terrill, life-long neighbors of the SCPC. Emma Grace Terrill was a member of the church.

Window five depicts Jesus preaching the Sermon on the Mount. It was given by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Raines of Memphis, who are frequent visitors to SCPC and who wished to honor former pastor Green.

Window six shows prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane, given by members of the Nunley family, honoring their parents and all parents who pray for their children.

Window seven depicts the crucifixion of Christ. This window was given by members of the congregation to honor Theron Myers, a dedicated Christian preacher, teacher and elder.

Window eight shows the resurrection of Christ. It was given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tucker in memory of their son Edward "Buddy" Tucker, a member of SCPC until his death in 2007.

Window nine portrays Jesus as the Good Shepherd, to honor the Church's former pastors. The Rev. Simpson was the first on record, until 1907; some other ministers who have served are the Revs. E.L. McWilliams, John Harley, Eshman, Johnson, W.B. Spraker, Beverly Johnson, Charles Hendershot, L.E. Baird, O.J. Woodward, S.O. McAdoo, B.J. Hancock, Charles Dancy, Hillman Moore, Harry Green and Steve Diamond.

Window 10, the final window, shows Jesus standing at the door knocking, to honor the church elders, beginning with the founders in 1892: the Looneys, Hamiltons, Collins, Myers and Johnsons. Elders now serving are Paul Mooney, John Sargent and Billy Terrill.

particular, it will be important to honor the existing Domain rules about dogs: keeping them under control at all times. University rules currently do not allow dog owners to leave their pets to roam unsupervised; adherence to this rule will be all the more important as the University's agricultural projects continue to grow. Even the most well-mannered of family pets can forget its good upbringing if it gets in with livestock.

The livestock will be well-fenced, and we ask that visitors not reach inside the fencing or attempt to feed the animals. Please enjoy the animals' antics and beauty from outside the fence. This will ensure the welfare of both people and animals. Dietary novelties or food "treats" can be particularly dangerous. Too much attention, especially boisterous attention from strangers, can also cause harm. If you are interested in visiting with the animals please refer to our website, <www.s.sewanee.edu/academics/farm/>, for special events and volunteer hours when farm personnel will be available to help you.

The changes on Breakfield Road are part of the University's plan to renew and refine the agrarian practices that were a part of life on the Mountain for many decades. This work is part of a larger sustainability initiative, aimed at making the University a national leader in environmental studies. Our goal is to grow an ecologically sensitive agricultural operation that will feed bodies and minds.

Dog Park Announces First Board Members

The Sewanee Dog Park has elected its governing board. It is comprised of Phil White, Caroline Shoemaker, Mesha Provo, Tim Provo, Helen Logaglio, Mark Studdtmann and Margaret Babbitt.

The Sewanee Dog Park will be located on the left (west) side of Lake Cheston Road between the first service road and the open picnic area. The entrance gate will face the road and is near the Lake Cheston picnic area and the gravel parking lot. The park will be divided into two sections—one for small dogs, approximately 20 percent of the park, and the remainder for large dogs. The fence will be approximately 820 linear feet, five feet high and will be constructed of marine-grade posts and rails, with 2 by 4 inch galvanized woven wire.

Waste stations will be purchased, each with a sign, bag dispenser and waste can. Waste station signs will state "Dog Waste Station" and the attached bag dispenser sign reads "Please clean up after your dog." The park rules sign will be attached to the entrance gate. Large dog area and small dog area signs will be attached to the respective transfer gate.

The Sewanee Dog Park will be handicapped accessible. There will be a bridge-way provided over the drainage ditch for convenient access.

Donations for the park are still being accepted and can be sent to the Sewanee Dog Park, Southern Community Bank, P.O. Box 39, Sewanee, TN 37375.

Emerald-Hodgson Auxiliary Spring Luncheon

On April 24 the Emerald-Hodgson Hospital staff gave its annual spring luncheon for members of the EHH Auxiliary in appreciation for their support.

The volunteers enjoyed a delicious lunch, wonderful camaraderie and a bit of a fashion show by members who wore clothes they had purchased from the auxiliary's Hospitality Shop.

Auxiliary president Martha Meeks introduced administrator Ralph Underwood, who called on nursing director Carla Sandlin to thank the group for their support of the hospital. She also expressed gratitude for the personal support the auxiliary had given her for nursing school.

The volunteers also heard from Kendra Meeks, who has recently received her LPN degree from Tennessee Tech with the help of a Mary Phillips Kirby-Smith Scholarship from the Auxiliary.

The gathering then heard a very informative and interesting talk by nurse Steve Wickham about the new findings and developments in the treatment of diabetes. Wickham leads classes in Grundy County for people interested in better managing their diabetes and gave examples of how successful the new techniques have been.

Auxiliary secretary Elizabeth Koella gave the report of the Mary Phillips Kirby-Smith Scholarship Committee and announced the winners of this year's education scholarships: Miah Gray and Shonna Miles from Franklin County and Whitney Winton and Taylor Fincher from Grundy County.

After the business meeting, Meeks closed with a challenge to members to each bring a new person to the fall luncheon, in hopes of increasing the membership. She also thanked the hospital staff for the lunch.

Sewanee Quarter Auctions for Charity

Benefiting Local Girl Scout Troop
Tuesday, May 14
American Legion Hall on University Ave. in Sewanee
(Parking available on University Ave or behind the Legion Hall)

Doors open at 5:45 p.m.
Auction begins at approximately 6 p.m.

Home-based, direct sales and small businesses have donated items for auction to raise money for local charities. Items auctioned for two to five quarters each.

How it works: Check in at front desk. Purchase a paddle for $2 and receive an entry for the door prize. Find your seat, the auction begins shortly. The quarter auction will be explained, and then the charity will come up and give a short explanation of their program. Next, the vendors will introduce themselves and their company, describe the item they have donated with its value, and the amount of quarters it takes to bid on them. Each guest that wants to bid will pay their quarters to volunteers collecting them and hold their paddle in the air. A number is then drawn. If it's your number and you have paid your quarters, you win that item! We will have an intermission between rounds of the auction to allow time to see the vendors, get your door prize slip signed, purchase items or to book parties. A 50/50 cash raffle is also available: $1 per ticket or $5 for 10 tickets. All money raised from paddles, auction, and half of the 50/50 raffle goes to the charity of the month.

MEET YOUR NEIGHBOR

Trink Beasley

by Kevin Cummings
Messenger Staff Writer

A sticker of the back of her wheelchair reads, "Who Would Jesus Bomb?" A few years ago she donned an Afghani burqa during a peace vigil to protest civilian deaths in war.

Marion "Trink" Beasley, 92, was slowed by a stroke in 2008, but her humanitarian spirit is strong, and the sophisticated adventurer is still evident despite challenges to speech and movement.

Her daughter, Gabrielle, along with caregiver Stephanie Faxon, sat in on a recent interview with Trink in the living room of her South Carolina Avenue home.

"You were a born innovator," Gabrielle tells her mom. "You were born a wild child. That's all I can tell you. Neither of your brothers were like you."

"Thank goodness," Trink replies.

In 1943 she graduated from the University of Wisconsin, where her father, Albert Goedgen, sat on the board of trustees. Gabrielle recalls a painful lesson Trink learned right before graduating.

"She thought, 'I'm going to get the best graduation gift because I'm the only one of my siblings to graduate from my father's alma mater,'" Gabrielle says.

When asked what she wanted for a graduation gift, Trink jokingly told her dad, "a strawberry sundae."

He wrote her a check for 50 cents and said, "In the future, always make sure you ask for what you really want."

Trink says she never got over that gift, but she always tried to ask for what she really wanted after that. What she wanted after college was to leave Wisconsin and find adventure, so Trink became an air traffic controller in Cincinnati. This was in a time before radar, in a job typically filled by men. Many of the men who might have held this job were fighting in WWII.

"During the war, women were accepted doing everything and then after the war, we were put back in what men thought was our place," Trink says.

Trink made her own place, however, and from directing planes, she joined the American Red Cross. She met one of her best friends at orientation in Washington, D.C., "Boo" (Sanborn) Cravens of Sewanee. The duo roomed together on a ship to Calcutta and shared a tent in India during their service. Today, Boo, 91, lives just a few streets away from her old friend Trink. It was on a visit to Boo's house in Sewanee in spring 1948 when Trink met William Boddie (W.B.) Rogers Beasley, a graduate of the University of the South.

Rogers fell in love almost instantly, but Trink took a moment longer. She thought he had a baby face, and she considered herself a mature woman of the world, having served in the Red Cross in India, Germany and Italy and compiled quite a collection of shoes. He was only a year younger, though, and despite his baby face, Trink and Rogers were engaged within a month.

In a letter announcing the wedding, her parents wrote that William was "a high-grade, intelligent young man and Marion thinks he is '1,000 percent' (as it should be)."

She and Rogers, who was a physician, built quite a life together, moving 29 times in their 50 years of marriage to locales around the country and world on humanitarian and medical missionary efforts.

She joined the good doctor as he helped create leper colonies in Liberia, work with nurse midwives in Kentucky, aid with family planning in India and assist doctors in Indonesia. There were dozens of other stops along the way and while Rogers practiced medicine, Trink also helped save and better lives, and delved into a number of new occupations.

She was a social worker and lab technician in Memphis, and a county librarian in Kentucky, bringing in artists, plays for children and modern artwork that ruffled a few conservative feathers. She also taught high school reading in Liberia and worked at the New York Botanical Garden.

Out of all the jobs she had in her life, she says air traffic controller is her favorite because it was daring and kept her on edge. Trink does have a dream job that she never realized, driving an 18-wheeler around the country.

During a break in the interview, her caregiver, Stephanie, comes over to Trink's wheelchair.

"I think you and your husband are awesome," she says. "It's an honor for me to work for you."

In 1990, the Beasleys retired to Sewanee, filling their house with furniture from around the world, including a Chinese marriage bed from Indonesia. They didn't really start collecting furniture until the 1980s; it made moving a lot easier.

The Beasleys were active in the Sewanee Music Festival, the Garden Club and other organizations in the community, and were key players in improving Abbo's Alley, the scenic walking trails and gardens on campus. Trink's Terrace, named in her honor, hosts picnic tables near the koi pond. She still feeds the fish and is an active benefactor in the community.

As our interview concludes, Gabrielle recalls the worry her adventurous parents caused her, such as in 1984 when they went riding around New Delhi in a taxi during the riots after Indira Gandhi was assassinated. There was also the nighttime trek along the edge of Victoria Falls in Zimbabwe with a stranger they had just met at dinner.

"How many angels did it take to protect you two? I mean, really, how crazy is that?" Gabrielle asks. "They just had faith in people and trusted people, and they were always open to adventure."

Trink says she would traverse the treacherous falls again in a heartbeat.

Trink Beasley: How She Got Her Nickname

Marion "Trink" Beasley's older brother dubbed her with her nickname when she returned home to Green Bay from boarding school at Milwaukee-Downer Seminary.

Her dad gave her the nickname of Gadget, playing off their last name of Goedgen.

"You're not a gadget; a gadget is something useful. You're a trinket," her brother Gene teased.

Trinket became Trink. Marion may or may not have kept the nickname to annoy her mother.

Three SAS Students Earn Next Step in National Merit Scholar Process

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School juniors Spencer Fugate, Eliza McNair and Ruth Swallow have met the requirements to enter the 2014 National Merit Scholarship Program. They have qualified for this distinction based on their scores on the 2012 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT), having scored among the 50,000 highest-scoring participants of some 1.5 million program entrants.

Spencer Fugate is the son of Bobbi and Russell Fugate of Tracy City. In addition to his outstanding academic achievement, Spencer provides technical assistance to McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts. He has received recognition for his academic work in English and Latin, including recently receiving the Magna Cum Laude award for his performance on the National Latin Exam in Latin IV.

Eliza McNair, daughter of Emily and Sam McNair of Monteagle, is currently on leave from SAS as she explores Central America with the Traveling School. Eliza is a three-season athlete competing in soccer, swimming and softball. She has received awards for outstanding performance in English, Latin, history and algebra and has provided service to the community as a tutor at Tracy City Elementary School.

Ruth Swallow is the daughter of Cameron and John Swallow of Sewanee. Ruth received the 2013 Mountain Mirror Writing Award. An outstanding musician and poet, Ruth performs with the University Choir and is a frequent contributor to the St. Andrew's-Sewanee's theatre program, creative expression assemblies and evening performances.

Of the more than 50,000 high scorers nationwide, about 16,000 will be named National Merit Semifinalists and approximately 34,000 others will be commended for their performance on the PSAT/NMSQT. These distinctions will be announced in September.

Franklin County Summer School Registration

The Franklin County Board of Education will have summer school for middle school and high school students, 8 a.m. to noon, weekdays, June 3–28. Middle school students will be at North Middle School. High school students will be at Franklin County High School.

Middle School Summer School: English, reading and math will be covered. If a student has failed two or three core curriculum courses during the school year, the student must attend summer school to move on to the next grade level. If a student has failed more than three core curriculum courses during the school year, the student must repeat the grade.

Students may register at the middle school they currently attend 8:30–10 a.m., Tuesday, May 28. There is no fee for Franklin County middle school students; the fee for out-of-county students is $150. Franklin County students will be given first consideration for placement.

All days missed in summer school must be made up. Any students accumulating five absences will be dropped from summer school and will be retained in the previous grade. For more information or to register by phone, call Patti Limbaugh or Diana Spaulding at the Franklin County Board of Education, 967-0626.

High School Summer Program: Students will be assigned to one of the two three-hour sessions, either 7–10 a.m., or 10 a.m.–1 p.m., weekdays. The course offered will be Credit Recovery.

Students may register at the guidance office at FCHS until May 28. After that date contact Shelia Boyett at the main office at FCHS, 967-2821 or 967-4848.

The fee for high school students to attend summer school will be $50 for Franklin County residents and $150 for students who attend an out-of-county school. The $50 fee will be refunded to Franklin County students who complete their coursework.

Students who attend an out-of-county school who enroll and attend the first day of class will not be able to receive a refund. These students are responsible for ensuring the class is accepted at their school.

Bake Sale Teaches Math, Gives to Charities

The students in RocketShip Math, a learning enrichment program, have found a delicious way to learn math.

On Tuesday, May 7, 4:30–5:30 p.m., the students will be selling cookies at the Sewanee Community Center in conjunction with the Cumberland Farmer's Market.

Three kinds of cookies will be offered: cinnamon-molasses, chocolate-chip-pecan and lemon-shortbread cookies. Customers can choose from three charities.

The children will analyze the cost of ingredients and donate the profits to each customer's charity of choice. Charities and cookies will be compared by popularity, as well as by the amount of money received from sales. Children's graphs showcasing the results of these comparisons will be shown at the Farmer's Market on May 21.

RocketShip Math will celebrate the end of the school year at the American Legion Hall on Thursday, May 23. Grades K–3 will gather 3–4 p.m., and grades 4–8 will gather 4–5 p.m.

Rocket Ship Math will offer tutoring using hands-on multi-sensorial math activities in the summer.

New Requirements Added to Voter ID Law

Secretary of State Tre Hargett has announced amendments to the state's voter photo identification law.

The General Assembly amended Tennessee's voter photo identification law during its recently concluded legislative session, Hargett said. Amendments sponsored by Senator Bill Ketron (R-Murfreesboro) and Representative Susan Lynn (R-Mount Juliet) clarify and strengthen the law that was successfully implemented during the 2012 election cycle, he said.

Voters may no longer use photo IDs issued by other states as acceptable forms of identification when voting in person. This change mirrors similar laws in other states, including Indiana. Indiana's photo ID law has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

"Our poll workers will be ready to implement these changes in our next election," said Franklin County Administrator of Elections Margaret Ottley.

The amendments passed by the legislature also explicitly exclude photo IDs issued by counties and municipalities. These changes took effect when the amended law was signed by Governor Bill Haslam this week.

"The General Assembly continues to enact laws that protect the integrity of the ballot box," said Hargett. "I am grateful that our legislators continue to seek out policies to ensure that only eligible voters may cast their ballots in Tennessee."

The next elections in the state are May 6, 2014 (county primaries, if needed), August 7, 2014 (state primaries and county general election) and November 4, 2014 (state and federal general election).

Examples of acceptable forms of identification, whether current or expired, include Tennessee driver licenses, U.S. passports, Department of Safety photo ID cards, U.S. military photo IDs and other photo IDs issued by the federal or Tennessee state governments.

Voters without one of these forms of identification may obtain free photo IDs for voting at Tennessee Department of Safety driver service centers.

Children at the University Child Care Center took a field trip recently to learn about birds and their habitats. They took a nature walk and then visited the University's anatomy lab in Spencer Hall. Professor Deborah McGrath (above left) talked to the children and their teachers about biology and the environment.

Grant Money Available to Help SNAP Program Expand to Farmers' Markets

Agriculture Undersecretary Kevin Concannon announced expanded eligibility for USDA grants to improve access to fresh produce and healthy foods by Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) recipients at farmers' markets. Last year the USDA announced the availability of $4 million in funding to expand the availability of wireless point-of-sale equipment in farmers' markets not currently accepting SNAP benefits. The new action expands eligibility for grant funds to include direct marketing farmers, as well as farmers' markets. Funds may be used to purchase or lease equipment or pay for wireless access.

"These grants increase the availability of fresh fruits and vegetables to SNAP customers and further encourage them to purchase and prepare healthy foods for their families using SNAP benefits," said Concannon. "In general, research shows that about 20 cents of every SNAP dollar spent on food ends up in the pocket of American farmers. Installing wireless technology at farmers' markets expands the customer base for markets and increases the share of the SNAP dollar that goes directly back to local farmers and into local economies."

The USDA has made expanding SNAP recipients' access to fresh fruits and vegetables through farmers' markets a priority in recent years. In 2008, about 750 farmers' markets and direct marketing farmers accepted SNAP. In 2012, over 3,200 participated — a four-fold increase in markets, which was accompanied by a six-fold increase in redemptions at these outlets.

Along with other criteria, a farmers' market is defined as a multi-stall market where farmer-producers sell agricultural products, particularly fresh fruits and vegetables (but also meat products, dairy products, and/or grains), directly to the general public at a central or fixed location. Direct marketing farmers are individual producers of agricultural products. In order to qualify for the funding announced today, the direct marketing farmer must sell products at a market stall within a farmers' market that is not currently participating in SNAP.

Research shows that many farmers' markets and direct marketing farmers value their ability to accept SNAP as a means to attract a wider customer base and increase sales. At the same time, a significant number cited the cost of electronic benefit transfer (EBT) equipment as a barrier to accepting SNAP. These findings and others are part of the USDA's "Nutrition Assistance at Farmers' Markets: Understanding Current Operations" report released last week. This new announcement helps to address this barrier by supporting farmers' markets and direct marketing farmers in obtaining and operating EBT technology.

To find out more about available farmers' market equipment funding or to learn more about accepting SNAP benefits at area farmers' markets, go to <www.fns.usda.gov/snap/ebt/fm.htm>.

SNAP, formerly known as food stamps, touches the lives of one in four Americans over the course of a year. These programs work together to form a national safety net against hunger.

Go to <www.fns.usda.gov> for more information about federal nutrition assistance programs.

PEDESTRIANS and BIKERS – EXERCISE CAUTION!

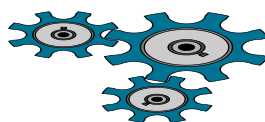

When you are out getting your exercise, following a few simple rules will keep you on the go. When biking on Sewanee side-walks, cyclists should slow down when passing pedestrians since some may not hear a warning bike bell and know to step to the right. Walkers should walk on the left-hand side of the road, traveling against the traffic; bicyclers should travel in the right-hand lane, going with the flow of traffic. During the day, both walkers and bikers should wear clothing of bright, easily seen colors, and, from dusk on, wear light, reflective clothing. In any case, don't just assume drivers can see you. Be on the lookout ... for your own safety.

SEWANEE UNION THEATRE
Friday–Sunday, May 3–5, 7:30 p.m.
Django Unchained
Rated R • 165 minutes • $3

This Oscar-winning film is a story of a freed slave and a bounty hunter in pursuit to rescue Django's wife from a cruel plantation owner. Christof Waltz co-stars as the bounty hunter and richly deserved his Best Supporting Actor Oscar. Samuel L. Jackson's portrayal as Stephen, the senior house slave, is remarkable. Rated R for strong graphic violence, a vicious fight, language and nudity.

Last Chance for SUT passes

Sewanee Union Theatre is changing its ticket prices beginning on June 1. Students (through college) will be $3, but non-students will be $4. (Concession prices will remain the same, though, with popcorn still only $1!)

Once SUT has changed its ticket prices, it will introduce new passes. After June 1, SUT will not accept any passes currently in circulation.

Poet Judyth Hill at Mooney's

The first public event last year at Mooney's Market and Emporium was a poetry reading by Judyth Hill. This year she returns to the community.

Mooney's will host a reading by Hill and a book signing at 6 p.m., Sunday, May 5.

Hill lives in the Jalpa valley, just outside San Miguel de Allende, Mexico, and she tours the United States each spring. Educated at Sarah Lawrence College, she was later apprenticed with poets Robert Bly, and Gioia Timpanelli.

She is the recipient of grants from the Witter Bynner Poetry Foundation, the McCune Foundation, and New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities. Hill conducts workshops at writing conferences, and many museums, including the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum and the International Museum of Folk Art in Santa Fe.

She continues to be the annual poet-in-residence at many schools and offers writing classes online. Her seventh collection of poems, "Dazzling Wobble," was released by Future Cycle press this year.

This event is free and open to the public.

Mooney's is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and is located across from the sand plant at 1265 West Main St., Monteagle. To reach the store, call (931) 924-7400. For more information about Hill's reading, contact Lynn Cimino-Hurt at (931) 691-2703.

Stitt Kicks Off Literary Program at Rivendell

Chef and author Frank Stitt spoke to a group of about 30 people at Rivendell Writers' Colony in Sewanee on April 27. Stitt, the author of "Southern Table" and "Bottega Favorita," was joined by his wife, Pardis. He talked about the creative process of writing and cooking.

In collaboration with the University's literary programs, bookstores and the Southern Foodways Alliance, Rivendell Writers' Colony offers talks and workshops, fellowships and retreats for writers.

Carmen Thompson, director of Rivendell, said "We're proud to kick things off with such a world-famous chef as Frank Stitt."

Rivendell Writers' Colony seeks to offer a place for literature, culture and the natural beauty of the Plateau to meet and mingle. It also seeks to build on the literary legacy of Rivendell and Brinkwood, former home of William Alexander Percy and Walker Percy.

It offers educational opportunities for aspiring writers through programs, workshops and residencies. Go to <www.rivendellwriterscolony.org> for more information.

Lexie Laurendine recorded seven aces, five kills and six assists; Hannah True had two aces and four digs; Mary Katherine Jolly had seven kills and three assists; Erin Berner-Coe had one ace and six kills; Madison Gilliam had two aces and one kill; Carolyn Bruce added one kill; Addie Babcock had three digs; and Liesal Wall had two digs.

SAS Soccer Update

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee varsity soccer team traveled to Donelson Christian Academy on April 25 in their last district match-up of the season. The teams matched up well, but small mistakes, once again, proved to be SAS's downfall. The contest ended 4-1. Max Reinhardt gave SAS a consolation goal from the penalty spot late in the game.

SAS hosted Mt. Juliet Christian Academy on April 30 in their last home game of the season and their senior night.

Raban Von Spiegel scored two minutes into the contest with an assist from Takumi Morozumi. Then, 11 minutes later, Morozumi added another goal after a cross from Reinhardt. In the 25th minute, SAS's Tinashe Zimbwa scored from the penalty spot after Tommy Oliver was taken down in the box, breaking his nose. Ten minutes later, senior defender Michael Ross scored his first-ever SAS goal off a corner kick. With six minutes left in the half, Von Spiegel added another goal. MJCA added a goal in the second half. The game ended 5-1.

Sewanee Men's Lacrosse Wins SAA in Double OT

Michael Morris fired in a game-winning shot from eight yards out to help the Sewanee men's lacrosse team win one of four Southern Athletic Association (SAA) championships for the Tiger athletic department on April 28.

Morris's attempt capped off an incredible match, when the Tigers outlasted the Vikings, 12-11, in double overtime.

Both teams made runs early. After the Tigers took a 3-1 lead by the end of the first period, Berry responded in the second behind a 4-2 rally.

With both teams tied at 5-5 entering the third period, goals pushed the Vikings ahead by two, 7-5, with 12:18 left.

Sewanee did not quit. Four straight goals by Pierce Leonard, Drew Lincoln and Reed Daniel helped the Tigers retake the lead, 9-7, with 9:16 to play.

After Sewanee scored two out of the next three goals, Berry pushed back with late scores, which forced the match into overtime.

In the first overtime period, Sewanee outshot Berry, 5-1. Unfortunately, of those attempts, Sewanee had only one great look at the goal when Davis Brown's shot went off the top crossbar.

In the second overtime frame, Hal Smith set up the winning play after he forced the face-off into Sewanee's offensive zone, where Cotter Brown picked up the ground ball and found Morris.

Lincoln and Leonard led Sewanee with three goals. Brown, Daniel and Morris each pitched in two scores, while C. Brown had three assists.

On defense, keeper Tommy Healy finished with 10 saves.

With the SAA Tournament complete, Sewanee will now wait one week to see if they get an invitation to the upcoming NCAA tournament as an at-large bid.

Neil and Link Win NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships

Sewanee senior student-athletes Sara Neil and Phillip Link have been awarded NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships. The scholarships are awarded to student-athletes who excel academically and athletically and who are in their final year of intercollegiate athletic competition. Neil and Link are both swimmers.

A three-time Academic All-American and All-Conference Academic honoree, Neil has compiled a 3.93 cumulative GPA as a biochemistry major. She is a member of the Omicron Delta Kappa National Leadership Honor Society, the Alpha Epsilon Delta National Medical Society and the Order of Gownsmen. Neil serves as the treasurer of the Theta Pi Sorority and is on the Student Alumni Leadership Council.

Neil was recently accepted to the College of Pharmacy at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, where she will begin in the fall.

In the pool, Neil leaves Sewanee as a six-time school and Southern Athletic Association (SAA) record holder. Over her career, Neil was a 13-time All-Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference (SCAC) selection and a 2012-13 All-SAA First-Team honoree.

A two-time Academic All-American and three-time All-SCAC Academic selection, Link has compiled a 3.49 cumulative GPA as a biochemistry major. He also serves as the president of Omicron Delta Kappa National Leadership Honor Society and as the Vice-President of Alpha Epsilon Delta National Medical Society. Link is a member of the Order of Gownsmen, a Presidential Scholar and serves as the treasurer of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

After he graduates, Link plans on enrolling in medical school.

In the pool, Link holds three school and SAA records and was an eight-time All-SCAC selection. This past season, Link led Sewanee to a close second-place finish at the 2013 SAA championships and was First-Team All-SAA honoree.

A four-time qualifier for the NCAA Championships, Link earned NCAA All-American honors in the men's 100 and 200 Breaststroke events in 2011-12.

Warm Wins Another Title

Led again by Sally Warm, the Sewanee track and field teams wrapped up their 2013 Southern Athletic Association championships on April 27.

After winning the long jump on April 26, Warm topped the field of 11 competitors in the women's triple jump on April 27. After a strong first jump, Warm fouled two out of her next three attempts. Then on her fifth jump, Warm rose to the occasion with a leap of 11.14m.

In the men's 800-meter run, Amiel

Emerson placed second with a time of 1:58.16.

Also in the men's meet, Sewanee kept its second-day momentum going in the distance races. First, in the men's 1500 meters, Clay Bond finished sixth with a time of 4:11.41. Hudson Robb placed fifth in the men's 5000-meter run with a mark of 16:09.43.

Overall, Sewanee finished in fifth place in the men's standings, while the women's team placed seventh.

Women's Tiger Tennis Wins SAA Championship

The No. 15 Sewanee women's team capped off an incredible Southern Athletic Association season as the Tigers won the first-ever SAA women's tennis championship with a 5-0 win over Berry on April 28.

Sewanee opened with a perfect 8-0 victory at No. 3 doubles, when Annie Veron and Julia Wood blanked Heidi Seabaugh and Lib Lockett.

After an 8-1 win at No. 2 by Anne Garland and Bronte Goodhue, the Tigers' sister duo of Jenny and Lindsey Liles earned an 8-5 win at No. 1 over Jenn Tinnell and Emma O'Reilly.

With a commanding 3-0 lead heading into singles, Sewanee dominated the remaining three wins.

At No. 5 Garland blew out Seabaugh in straight sets by a score of 6-0, 6-1.

Then moments later, Veron sealed the title for Sewanee when she defeated Kaleigh Carpenter 6-1, 6-3.

With its 18-5 record and a No. 15 national ITA ranking, Sewanee will now wait to see its draw in the upcoming NCAA tournament.

Men's Tiger Tennis Defeats Rhodes

The Sewanee men's tennis team became the first of four Sewanee athletic programs to win Southern Athletic Association (SAA) championships on April 28, as the Tigers defeated long-time rival Rhodes, 5-1, inside the Fowler Center.

Sewanee opened with a win at No. 3 doubles when Grant Hopkins teamed up with Eric Roddy to win by a score of 8-1. After a long match Rhodes earned its first and only point when Colin Perry and Elliot Blatt topped Connor Winkler and Levi Joy. However, the success for the Lynx was short-lived after Rand Jackson and Sean Laughlin outlasted Sanders Phelps and Rob Steinwedell, 8-6.

Roddy opened the single wins at No. 4 when he dominated his opponent in straight sets. Winkler then gave the Tigers a 4-1 lead when he topped Perry by a 6-0, 6-1 score. Needing only one point to secure the title, all eyes turned to Jackson. After taking the first set 6-3, he prevailed in the second by a score of 6-2.

Equestrian Team Earns Best Finish

The Sewanee equestrian team had its best finish ever at the ANRC National Intercollegiate Equestrian Championship on April 24.

The Tigers placed eighth in the Written, fifth in the Program, fourth in the Derby and ninth in the Medal. With all those results, Sewanee finished fourth overall in the final team standings.

In the Novice Division, Blain Lewis opened with a win in the Written phase, while Holly Higgins was second. Lewis and Higgins combined to finish sixth in the Program, eighth in the Derby and fifth in the Medal phase.

In the National Division, Lillibet Motion, Ann Marie Walker, Allan Palmer and Kaylee Beauchamp competed against 34 competitors and 11 other teams.

Women's Lacrosse Wins Championship

A season-high five goals by Molly Arnold and Olivia Vietor helped the Sewanee women's lacrosse team win one of four Southern Athletic Association (SAA) championships for the Tiger athletic department on April 28.

Brita Brudvig finished with a career-high four assists, which helped the Tigers to a 19-13 victory over SAA rival Centre.

Early on Sewanee was in control after the Tigers jumped out in front, 5-1, behind goals from Sally Anne Greenwood, Vietor, Mallory Grimm and Arnold.

After a brief spurt from Centre, Ellie Murphy gave Sewanee a 6-3 lead after she scored the first of her three goals on the afternoon.

The Tigers opened the second half on a strong scoring run. Sewanee netted six of the first seven goals to take a commanding 15-8 advantage with 19:54 left.

Just when it looked like Sewanee would blow out the Colonels, Centre responded, pulling within four, 15-11, with 11:44 to play.

With the momentum suddenly on Centre's side, Arnold rose to the occasion for Sewanee. During the next three minutes, she scored three straight times to give the Tigers an 18-11 lead with only 7:11 left.

From there, Centre would find the back of the net twice, and Greenwood would add one more goal to finalize the score.

Along with Arnold and Vietor, the Tigers' third senior captain, Anna Morrow, finished with a game-high six ground balls, five draw controls and two caused turnovers.

As a team, Sewanee finished with 14 assists on its 19 goals. Eight Tigers had at least one point.

Sammy Strasburger capped on an incredible first year as a Tiger with 12 saves. Sewanee ends its season with a 13-6 record. During their careers, Vietor, Arnold and Morrow led the Tigers to four conference championship matches and two league titles (SAA, 2013; and SCAC, 2011).

Javadi Earns SAA Honors

Women's golfer Emily Javadi won a Southern Athletic Association (SAA) championship after she earned medalist honors at the SAA Women's Golf Tournament at the Highland Park Golf Course in Birmingham, Ala.

Javadi played well against a tough field. She won the event with a three-round 223. Her final round of 73 was tied for the low round of the day, which gave Javadi a six-stroke advantage.

As a team, Sewanee fired a 987 total to finish fourth. Nationally ranked Centre won the three-day event with a 942.

Host Birmingham-Southern finished second with a 942 total, while Rhodes placed third after a 970.

Alison Eeley capped off an outstanding weekend with a 78 on Sunday. Eeley finished sixth, after she finished with a three-round 234.

Jenna King placed 16th with a 245, while Helen Kennedy finished 34th with a 285.

Makayla Cardwell closed out the tournament with a 39th place finish (319). Ellen Ruppert finished in 41st (323).

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

I am not ashamed to admit that I am a man easily moved to tears. Not the big rolling-down-your-cheeks variety, but if I'm watching one of my girls graduate, or if I hear a story about a cancer survivor beating the odds and coming back to win a big race, then here they come, just welling up, allowing myself to truly feel the moment. A couple of weeks ago, the Nebraska football team dressed out 7-year-old brain cancer patient Jack Hoffman and helped him to run a 60-yard zig-zag touchdown in front of 66,000 screaming fans in their spring game. The whole Cornhusker team hoisted him onto their shoulders in the end zone afterwards. I was one of the 7.7 million views on YouTube.

Yep, here they come.

This was a big weekend for Sewanee athletics. Freshman Emily Javadi won medalist honors at the SAA women's golf championships in Birmingham. Both the women's and men's lacrosse teams brought home the SAA conference championships in the rain on muddy McGee Field. Just across the Walter Bryant Bridge behind the Fowler Center, the women's and men's tennis teams were busy capturing the SAA tennis titles indoors. If you are counting, that is five championships in one day. Junior Michael Morris rifled in a goal in double overtime to clinch the championship in sudden death for the men's lacrosse team. Do you think he'll remember that shot a few years from now? I don't know his parents, but I am guessing they were a little excited when that ball found the back of the net. Maybe a small tear among those raindrops when they had time to stop cheering. Each championship, each game and each athlete, had a story to tell and a path to get there. These stories won't grow old anytime soon.

If I have to reach back and find one of my favorite sports moments, it doesn't get any better than rounding the bases as a 10-year-old and watching my walk-off grand slam drop behind the fence. It was 1971, and I can still see the ball disappearing on the far side of the fence and my dad clapping in the dugout. Athletes go through a thousand ups and downs on their way to holding that trophy. If it were so easy, everyone would do it. When you are a college student faced with papers, exams, commitments, relationships with friends and pressure from all directions, it is not hard to question why you are swimming every morning at 6 a.m., hitting golf balls in the dark or lifting weights when football season is months away and your arms are three reps past sore.

A few weeks ago one of my guys was in a slump. The questions were there for him. Is all of this really worth it? Haven't I hit enough balls over the net in my lifetime? So I asked him to reach back and remember the time that sports were fun. What was your best moment? I asked him. His teammates could easily share stories of high school state championships or home run shots. But he was not in the mood to play along, so the question died without a positive memory to jostle him back into knowing why this was worth the sacrifices you have to make as an athlete. After a few days of soul searching, this young man was able to admit to himself that the reason he wasn't getting satisfaction from tennis was simply because he wasn't investing enough of himself toward the benefit of others. He changed, went to work, became a leader and started his new story.

Like all five of these championships, our match was filled with momentum swings for each team, moments when you can't predict who will win. Needing just one more match for the team title over rival Rhodes College, this same young man with a 3.7 GPA and countless hours of tennis lessons and practice behind him, scampered around the court battling for the decisive match point. When his final volley escaped the reach of Rhodes' top player, his arms reached overhead, and the racket dropped in jubilation. His victory was not one for himself, but one for his team. He had overcome the demon questions that haunt every competitor at some point, and he left defeat far behind. As his teammates swarmed the court, I saw his dad applauding from the balcony, knowing where his son stood now and where he had come from. As I met the player at mid-court, he looked at me and said, "There's your answer coach. That's my moment."

Yep, here they come.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Blue Grosbeak

Jean Yeatman reports that she and Harry have had a Blue Grosbeak at their feeding area all week. "We are so pleased to have this bird in our yard," she said, "as we have not seen one in the Sewanee region since before the Equestrian Center was built on Breakfield Road, where these birds used to nest."

"The Blue Grosbeak is a fairly common bird of the southern United States," she continued. "It is found along hedgerows and roadsides, in thickets and shrubby areas, farmlands, woodland borders, streams and ditch banks. Its diet consists of a wide variety of insects, seeds and grains. It has a large breeding range, from central California across the United States to southern New York and southward. It winters from Mexico south to Panama, and in the Bahamas and Cuba. It is six to seven-and-a-half inches long with a large, heavy conical bill. The male is a deep blue with two rusty wing bars; the upper one is broad and the lower one, narrow. The female is a warm brown, darker above, with two rust-to-buff-colored wing bars; her rump is tinged with blue."

"This morning, April 29," she remarked with pleasure, "we have a new brood of Carolina Wrens in the yard. They are just out of their nest and are flitting about, exploring this new world of theirs, after being in the nest for about a week. One is sitting in a magnolia tree looking around; another, on the ground, has just caught a small moth, which it has shaken and pecked and swallowed. Still others are on the deck, flying from chair to table. These reddish-brown juveniles with their short tails have come out of the nest with the instinct to hunt, and are going about it at a great rate," she concluded.

Risks involved in hiking include physical exertion, rough terrain, forces of nature and other hazards not present in everyday life. Picking flowers and digging plants are prohibited in all of these natural areas.

Pets of the Week

Meet Kimmy & Mallory

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Kimmy is a sweetheart Heeler-mix girl with tons of love to give to her new family. She is athletic and affectionate, and she knows how to sit when asked. Kimmy will make a good watchdog. She is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Mallory is an 8-month-old beauty. She is sleek, soft and sweet as she can be and quite the lady. Mallory is used to living inside and would prefer to be the only pet. She is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

’Tis merry in greenwood—thus runs the old lay,—
In the gladsome month of lively May,
When the wild birds’ song on stem and spray
Invites to forest bower;
Then rears the ash his airy crest,
Then shines the birch in silver vest,
And the beech in glistening leaves is drest,
And dark between shows the oaks’ proud breast;
Like a chieftain’s frowning tower
Though a thousand branches join their screen.
Yet the broken sunbeams glance between,
And tip the leaves with lighter green,
Dull is the heart that loves not then
The deep recess of the wildwood glen,
Where roe and red-deer find sheltering den,
When the sun is in his power.
