County Schools Face Budget Shortfall

Changes Made to Out-of-County Bus Routes

by K. G. Beavers, Messenger Staff Writer

The Franklin County school board met in a work session on May 5 to discuss the proposed 2014–15 budget, bus routes and review of section 6 policies concerning students, including a discussion of corporal punishment.

The proposed budget was discussed at length. At the April 7 regular meeting, the draft budget showed a $1.2 million shortage, which included increases in insurance costs and retirement. At that time, the board asked Rebecca Sharber, director of schools, to come back with a budget that had a $3 million fund balance. Sharber reported she was unable to cut the budget to that degree.

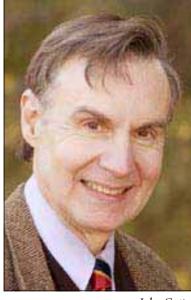

Sharber made proposed cuts to the draft April budget to get to a $2.1 million fund balance in the proposed budget. Those cuts include decreasing regular instruction positions, moving to a seven-period day instead of a block schedule at Franklin County High School, reducing some part-time positions and only paying 90 percent of insurance for certified employees. She also took out monies for instructional supplies, including computers and technology, library book allocations and $100 per teacher to help alleviate the reading program costs.

"People will not lose their jobs. They will just be moved to those positions where resignations, retirements or not eligible for rehire occurred," said Sharber. This change could affect four elementary and four high school positions.

With those cuts and if the board approves the insurance cut, the proposed fund balance will be approximately $2.4 million. The proposed revenue is approximately $41.6 million and the proposed expenditures are approximately

"We are affecting the quality of our education," said school board chairman Chris Guess. "We are talking about cutting textbooks when we should be expanding our e-readers and iPads. We are losing the quality of education offered when we have to cut programs. What we are proposing is offering basic

Director of Finance Andrea Smith advised the board to address the classified and certified insurance in this budget. Currently, classified employees pay 10 his service on June 30. He will then percent of their medical coverage. If this proposed budget is approved, certireturn to the faculty, following a leave fied employees will pay 10 percent of their coverage, which is $54 a month for of absence. Before coming to Sewanee single coverage. The state pays 45 percent of the insurance costs, and the rest in 2004, Gatta taught for a number comes from county funds. Sewanee Students Host Fishing Rodeo

The Sewanee Sportsman's House held its second annual Youth Fishing Rodeo recently at Running Knob Hollow Lake. The fun-filled event included 25 children in grades 1–5, competing in these categories: most fish, the biggest fish and the smallest fish. Trophies were awarded at weigh-in. Almost all the young anglers caught multiple bass and blue gill.

At noon, a hot dog lunch and a trophy ceremony capped off a beautiful day of fishing. In the 1st and 2nd grade age group, Hunter Weaver won the award for biggest fish, Macey Green won the award for smallest fish, and Eliza Jacobs won the award for most fish. In the 3rd–5th grade group, Alex Waldrop won the biggest fish award, and David Dolack won both the most fish and the smallest fish awards.

"This is an exciting event for the Sportsman's House," said Clayton Dickson. "We look forward to hosting it again next year because we think it's

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School Commencement Weekend May 16-18

On Sunday, May 18, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School will graduate the class of 2014 at the school's outdoor altar.

The year-end festivities begin with Baccalaureate at 5:30 p.m., Friday, May 16. The speaker will be Bob Hoagland, director of technology and long-time SAS faculty member. Following the service, seniors and their guests will proceed to the Senior Banquet in the Robinson Dining Hall. The evening ends with the Senior Lead Out and Presentation of the Annies in McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts. This event is an opportunity for each senior to be recognized with a poem or song written and performed by members of the SAS faculty.

Saturday, May 17, is Honors Day. The ceremony will be at 10 a.m. at the outdoor altar. A reception sponsored by the Parents' Council will be in Simmonds Hall afterward. Students' creative work will be on exhibit in the adjacent Art Gallery at that time and throughout the weekend.

The Commencement Eucharist and Exercises begin at 10 a.m., Sunday, May 18. Following the service and the official closing of the school year, there will be a reception in the Spencer Room.

The 55 members of the Class of 2014 will matriculate in the fall at outstanding colleges and universities across the country, from the University of Montana family reunion will be from 11 a.m. to Wellesley College.

Jake Mallory, a junior at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, helped the SAS team win the 400-meter dash at the recent track meet. He also placed second in the 200-meter dash.

Upcoming Meetings

The Hospitality Shop will be open 10 a.m.-12 p.m., Saturday, May 10, and will then be closed until it reopens at 9:30 a.m., Tuesday, May 27. Donations are gratefully received and may be left in the bin at the rear of the shop.

Sewanee Woman's Club Gathers Monday

The Sewanee Woman's Club will meet at 12 p.m., Monday, May 12, at the DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle.

Sewanee religion professor Sid Brown will present "Reading the Bible to My Cat: Animal Religion." May is traditionally "Hat Month," so guests are encouraged to wear a pretty Easter bonnet for the occasion.

There is an optional social hour at 11:30 a.m. Lunch is served at noon. Programs begin at 12:30 p.m., with club business following around 1 p.m.

The annual dues are $5. These dues and the proceeds of the club's fund-raising events support Thurmond Library and community projects. Women of Sewanee and surrounding areas are welcome to attend.

Yes on 1 Information Meeting Monday

Tennessee Right to Life/Yes on 1 will have an informational meeting at 6 p.m., Monday, May 12, in the Franklin County Annex Community Room, 855 Dinah Shore Blvd., Winchester.

On Nov. 4, Tennesseeans will have the opportunity to vote on a proposed amendment that adds a new section to Article I of the Constitution of Tennessee to read: "Nothing in this Constitution secures or protects a right to abortion or requires the funding of an abortion. The people retain the right through their elected state representatives and state senators to enact, amend or repeal statutes regarding abortion, including, but not limited to, circumstances of pregnancy resulting from rape or incest or when necessary to save the life of the mother."

Yes on 1 is a community-based outreach effort to raise awareness about this proposed constitutional amendment. For more information contact Yolande Gottfried at 598-5327 or <ygottfri@sewanee.edu>.

Daughters of the King

The Daughters of the Kingwill meet at 5 p.m., Tuesday, May 13, in the St. James Church parish hall. The focus of the meeting is, "Spiritual Gifts —What are they? How do you identify them?" (I Corinthians 12:1–12). All are welcome to attend the meeting. The mission of the order is the extension of Christ's Kingdom through prayer, service and evangelism. The vision of the order is to know Christ, to make him known to others and to become reflections of Christ's love throughout the world.

Rotary Club Meetings

The Grundy County Rotary Club meets at 11:30 a.m., Tuesdays, at Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City.

The Monteagle/Sewanee Rotary Club will host a single combined meeting at 12 p.m., Thursday, May 15, at the Blue Chair Tavern. The speaker will be fellow Rotarian Charles Warne, who will discuss "Rotary Global Grants for Haiti Projects." The public is welcome.

EQB Meets on Wednesday

EQB Club members will meet at 12 p.m., Wednesday, May 14, at St. Mary's Sewanee for lunch and conversation.

F@H Care Partners' Support Group

The Folks at Home care partners' support group meets each Thursday at 1:30 p.m., in Brooks Hall. F@H executive director Kathleen O'Donohue said that the "care partner concept" redefines people's roles and responsibilities. It acknowledges that opportunities to give and receive are abundant and experienced by everyone involved in the care relationship. Care partners work together toward mutual objectives and benefits. For more information call Folks at Home at 598-0303.

Potluck Luncheon for Garden Club

The Sewanee Garden Club's final meeting of the season is at 11:30 a.m., Monday, May 19. The group will enjoy a potluck luncheon along-side Jane Flynn's garden at 190 Virginia Ave., Sewanee. Members and interested community members are welcome to attend.

In a break from tradition, the group will not have a plant auction at its final meeting, as members are busy planning for a plant sale that will be at the Sewanee Farmers' Market 8:30 a.m.–12 p.m., Saturday, May 24. Members may bring plants to the potluck luncheon so that the plants can be transported to the market.

For more information call Judy Magavero at (931) 924-3118 or email <jmagavero@blomand.net>.

Fourth of July Planning on May 20

Sewanee's Fourth of July planning committee will meet at 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 20, in the Sewanee Senior Center. Future meetings will be on June 3, June 10, June 17, June 24 and July 1. This is a great way to make new friends, give back to the community, and help with this great Sewanee tradition.

Children's Center Spring Meeting May 22

The Sewanee Children's Center will have its spring membership meeting at 5:30 p.m., Thursday, May 22, in Lower Cravens Hall. Families of children enrolled at the center are encouraged to stop by to learn about the activities since the last membership meeting, as well as get updates on upcoming events, plans and the renovation to the

The meeting will last about an hour, including time for pizza and social time. Find out about volunteer and co-op opportunities as well as get a chance to talk with director Larry Sims and all the teachers, as well as fellow parents, in a relaxed social setting.

Gardeners' Market Opens May 24

The Sewanee Gardeners' Market, open every Saturday morning, 8–10 a.m., in the summer, will have its opening day on Saturday, May 24. The Market is located on Highway 41 A, next to Hawkins Lane and the Mountain Goat Trail.

Locally grown vegetables, flowers, plants, homemade items and meat are available from area folks. For more information call Linda Barry at 598-9059.

Touch-A-Truck at SCC May 17

The Sewanee Children's Center (SCC) will host Touch-a-Truck, a fun event for the whole family, 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Saturday, May 17, at the Cravens Hall parking lot (in front of the Tennessee Williams Center) on Kentucky Avenue in Sewanee. Children of all ages are invited to see and interact with exciting service, recreational, construction and emergency vehicles.

Admission is free, although donations are always appreciated. SCC will also have hot dogs, hamburgers, snow cones and other items for sale and activities for kids, including crafts, face painting and more.

All proceeds benefit the Sewanee Children's Center, which offers affordable, high-quality child care and preschool programs for children. SCC also is supported with funds from the Community Chest.

Christ Church Monteagle will celebrate Mother's Day with a special meal after the 10:30 a.m. service, Sunday, May 11. They will have meals to go available for anyone who would like to take a meal to a mother, grandmother or anyone who is confined to home.

"We also send good wishes and congratulations to all who are graduating," said Bishop William Millsaps.

Harrison Chapel Methodist Church

Harrison Chapel Methodist Church invites all to a special Mother's Day service at 11 a.m., Sunday, May 11, honoring all mothers.

Homecoming will be observed on Sunday, May 18. Bro. Matthew Meeks will be guest minister. The Sullivans from McMinnville will be special singers. Lunch will be served about 1 p.m. Each Sunday, Harrison Chapel has Sunday School at 10 a.m., worship services at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Wednesday evening worship begins at 7 p.m. For more info call Ann Pack at 598-5359.

Morton Memorial Food Ministry

Members and friends of Morton Memorial Methodist Church will gather at 9 a.m., Saturday, May 10, to offer food to Marion and Grundy county residents.

"We believe in walking with persons who are living in the weight of wondering where their next meal is going to come from," said pastor Amanda Diamond.

Families in need of assistance are invited to receive 50–60 pounds of food and share in a hot meal at the church. For more information call (931) 924-2192.

Otey Memorial Parish Church

On Sunday, May 11, Otey Parish welcomes Mark and Susan Powell at 10 a.m. in Brooks Hall. The Powells are with TeachBeyond, a group that provides spiritual formation for more than 170 missionaries in Kandern, Germany.

Godly Play classes and the lectionary class will meet in their regular locations. Nursery care is available for infants six weeks to children 5 years old from 8:30 a.m. until after the second service

Otey Parish will have a family Eucharist, followed by a picnic potluck supper at 5 p.m., Sunday, May 18. The parish will provide an entree and nonalcoholic beverages. Parishioners are asked to bring a side dish or a dessert.

Please RSVP for supper to Pratt Paterson at <prattpaterson@gmail.com>. While this is called a "family" Eucharist, the naming of the service is intended to suggest a more casual, child-friendly service, though of course all are welcome. Subsequent dates will be June 23, July 13 and Aug. 10.

Vacation Bible School Meeting May 17

There will be a planning meeting for this summer's Vacation Bible School at 10 a.m., Saturday, May 17, in the St. James parish hall. "Workshop of Wonders—Imagine and Build with God" is the theme for the community-wide VBS hosted by St. James, July 7–11. Sponsoring churches are St. James, Southeastern Tennessee Episcopal Ministries and Otey Parish. Volunteers are needed for music leader (DVD provided), crafts, outdoor activities, snacks, group guides, science activity related to the scripture for the day and Bible storyteller. of the South, serving in that role since the consortium began in 1991. Sixteen national liberal arts colleges and universities—including Sewanee—across 12 southern states make up the Associated Colleges of the South (ACS).

Anderson's leadership is often cited as a key component of the consortium's success in serving its 30,000 students and 3,000 faculty members, strengthening academic programs and broadening opportunities for students. One-Day Outreach Program on May 17

The Franklin County One-Day Community Outreach event will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, May 17, on the Square in downtown Winchester. The day is an opportunity for the local community to provide food, clothing, healthcare and dental care for families in need.

To participate in the event and receive services, individuals must sign in at the registration tent, which will be located at the intersection of South High Street and Second Avenue SW (the streets will be closed). There is no designated parking.

Volunteers will be needed to assist in preparing for the one-day event, as well as to work on the outreach day. Financial donations are also needed.

Sponsored by the Southern Tennessee Christian Medical and Dental Association, the goal of the day is to "share Christ with the people of Franklin County and show his love by providing the most basic needs."

The group plans to have doctors and nurses offering general medical screenings, including blood pressure checks, blood sugar checks and blood chemistry and mammography where indicated. Dentists and hygienists will be offering tooth extractions and cleanings. Local churches and agencies are partnering to collect food, clothing and shoes.

For more information or to participate call (931) 636-7688 or go to <www.facebook.com/franklincoun tyoneday>.

proposed budget.

We cannot keep spending our fund balance," said Kevin Caroland, school board chairman. "We have not received any new money from the county commission in 10 years. There is a revenue problem, and we have gone to the fund balance each year to pay for increased expenses. There is no more fund

Starting in the 2014–15 school year, two bus routes will be changed. This includes the bus that goes out-of-county to the Marion County portion of Sewanee in Jump Off, and the bus that travels in Huntland to take children to school out-of-zone to Broadview, South Middle and Franklin County High School. These changes will affect 29 students.

"We do not have to provide transportation to out-of-county or out-of-zone students," said Sharber. "These students are welcome at the Franklin County schools, but we will not be providing transportation for them."

In new business, the board discussed the Section 6 policies concerning students. Many of the policies had minor changes. Policy 6.400—Promoting Student Welfare—will encompass three policies to include a student guidance program, school health services, student psychological services, wellness plans and student social services.

School board member Chris McDonough of Sewanee proposed eliminating Policy 6.314—Corporal Punishment.

"My position has nothing to do with the way people privately discipline their children. What people do in their own homes raising their own children is none of the county's business," said McDonough

"In my opinion, the schools should model safe and respectful public interacis counter to that spirit. While it once made sense for the schools to act in loco cumberland.com>. parentis, in the place of parents, concerning discipline, it is now time to rethink the policy in terms of children's personal safety and future behavior as citizens."

A few board members expressed their opposition to eliminating the policy. Discussion will continue at the next school board meeting at 6:30 p.m., Monday, May 12, at the board office, 215 S. College St., Winchester.

For more information concerning these policies, go to < http://www.board docs.com/tn/Franklin/Board.nsf/Public>.

Animal Welfare Group Seeks Donations for Yard Sale

The Animal Alliance South Cumberland (AASC) will host itsArtful Yard Sale on Saturday, May 24 (rain date: June 6), and is soliciting items of any kind to benefit the organization. Any donation would help continue the AASC's low cost spay/neuter program, but especially slightly used household items, art, pottery, furniture, pet supplies, glassware, tools or toys. To make a donation, call an Animal Alliance volunteer at (931) 235-9006.

The yard sale will be outside the Monteagle Elementary School, providing plenty of parking space. "Do that spring cleaning now," said organizer Kathy Bouldin, "and let those things you don't need benefit a truly worthy organization. And then come to the sale to find things you do need at a real bargain.

Bouldin said the group has provided spaying and neutering for 2,664 dogs and cats since the program began, which translates into the prevention of thousands of unwanted puppies and kittens being born and left on county roads. Spaying and neutering is a solution to the pet overpopulation problem

"In these hard economic times, we hope people will remember the AASC with their donations of items, as well as money," Bouldin said. "Animals suffer in hard times, often as much as their human owners, when the only recourse for some families is to abandon a pet or leave it on the side of the road, hoping someone else will take them in."

AASC also has openings on its next spay/neuter transport, so set up an tion. Policy 6.314, which allows adults to paddle children who are not their own, appointment today. Call (931) 235-9006 or go to < www.animalalliancesouth

When You Need a Police Officer, a Fire Trúck or an Ambulance

Always dial "911" for fire or suspicious smokė, medical emergencies and police emergencies.

Sewanee residents should only call 598-1111 for non-emergency issues.

I have been invited to a couple of graduation parties this coming weekend, and I'm wondering what's appropriate to say to the graduates? Do you say, "congratulations," "best wishes," or "God help you?"

Hoping to Avoid an Awkward Conversation

Dear Awkward,

Though seniors at most colleges and universities greet graduation with a sense of elation akin to prisoners who've just had their life sentence commuted, if you ask Sewanee seniors whether they're excited about graduating, they'll look at you like you've just told them their house burned down and their favorite labradoodle was in it. It's a touchy subject.

And do not ask them what they're doing after they graduate. Their eyes will get that blank look like sharks have, and they'll suddenly need to refill their drinks. Some of them will say, "I'm supposed to do something?," while others will just burst into tears. Parents will occasionally step in to proudly proclaim that their son/daughter has an internship at their best friend's uncle's cousin's feed store or is in the competitive wait staff training program at the local Chili's, but, in the name of all that's holy, do not ask how much they'll get paid. It's an internship, which is synonymous for indentured servant. Even third-world sweatshop workers make more money, but "internship" looks better on a résumé.

A vast majority of the graduates will go to great lengths to stay on the Mountain just a bit longer, either by working at Shenanigans and setting up camp at the tent city in Manigault Park or by claiming one of the numerous "sustainability" internships that will sustain their illusions of not having to live in the real world, and their parents' basements, for a few more months.

So, when talking to graduating seniors, focus on the here-and-now, compliment their pretty new sundress, admire their sharp Vineyard Vines tie or commend the height of their platform sandals. Indulge their newfound nostalgia; ask them what is their favorite part of the Perimeter Trail, what was their favorite class, etc., but do not use the word "last" as in "How was your last meal at McClurg?" or "Wow, that's the last time you're going to sing the alma mater!," or you'll be sorry. What you can do, if the conversation starts to go south, is remind them that they can always come back; everyone does. After all, it is home.

I missed the Open House for the new Sewanee Inn. Can you tell me what it's like?

Frustrated Gawker

Dear Gawker,

The adjectives that come to mind—fabulous, grand, elegant, classy, big, supercalifragilisticexpialidocious—do not even begin to adequately describe the transformation of our beloved no-tell mo-tel Sewanee Inn into this, which is known on the website tab as 'Boutique Hotel Sewanee," which does sound rather pretentious. "Come stay at Boutique Hotel Sewanee while your children get a Boutique Éducation from the University of the South," but never mind that. Walking into the enormous lobby is sort of like walking into the Metropolitan Museum of Art or the Taj Mahal. Visitors stopped, gasped for breath and reached for their wallets, but within a few seconds of looking around, they knew they were still in Sewanee and began to relax, a little.

The wood helps a lot; the dark carved wooden staircase on the right looks a lot like the staircase in Convocation Hall. (What? You didn't know there was a staircase in Convocation? Go find it.) Lining the wall opposite the grand staircase are portraits of Sewanee's friendly and familiar bishops, whose eyes follow guests as they head to the bedrooms on the second floor. Those bedrooms, suites and bathrooms are so luxurious that the Sewanee Inn staff had to stop more than a few visitors from disrobing for a shower or climbing into the 300-thread count sheets for an afternoon nap.

Back downstairs, your eyes are drawn to the centerpiece of the grand lobby: a giant double fireplace. On the other side of it is the sunlit sitting room where you can have tea by the fire and pretend you're in a Jane Austen novel: you're Elizabeth Bennett watching Mr. Darcy play nine holes. Down the hall to the left is the Audubon Gallery and the magnificent dining hall/ballroom where Sewanee brides and grooms will dance to "Brick House" in royal style.

To the very left of the lobby is what I predict will become the most utilized portion of the new Inn, Behold How Good!— the bar and grill, a place professors have long fantasized about. This is where Happy Hour will be called "Office Hours" and they can belly-up to the marble bar top and get AAUP discounts on drinks with names such as "Dante's Inferno," "Master of the Domain," "Henry's Fifth," "Porchlit," "Fallen Angel" or "Stumbling the Land." If they cannot make it home after a few of these, the new Inn has plenty of rooms, and perhaps there's a discount if you charge it to your department.

The Sewanee Inn is, in a word, stunning. Go see for yourself.

FCHS Cadets Earn National Accolades

The National Defense Cadet Corps (NDCC) at Franklin County High cy-shelter for victims in danger, as well School has earned three major awards this year.

The group was notified that it received the Distinguished Unit Award with Merit for NDCC. This is the first time the group has won this award. The announcement came from Maj. Don Bailey, inspector for Region 6 Air Force Junior ROTC, based at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. Out of 150 units in the educational information to victims in region, only 16 received this honor. This is the highest award a unit can receive.

Col. Cameron Gilbert, director of Air Force Junior ROTC units said, "The cadets are outstanding; very professional and totally invested in their program and the impact it has on the school and their community." He also included his appreciation for the strong support the program receives from FCHS principal Greg Mantooth.

'I could not be prouder because this year the cadets 'exceeded expectations' during a headquarters unit inspection from Maj. Bailey and surpassed over 1,000 hours in community service," said Everett Smith, chief master sergeant (931) 723-3852. To make a donation of the Air Force and unit leader. "The cadets continue to energize me with their enthusiasm." Smith also noted that the Tennessee Department of Energy and Conservation selected Franklin County High School's NDCC as the Tennessee Senior School of the Year for environmental achievement. This is the fourth year in a row that the group has won this honor. The project submission was sent to Washington, D.C., for additional judging at the Department of Energy and Franklin and Bedford counties, the was awarded the National Energy Education Development Project's National Senior Finalist award.

The National Defense Cadet Corps is similar to the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (JROTC) except that it is funded by schools that choose to pursue a unit without financial assistance from the Department of Defense. The Franklin County High School unit was established in 2006.

SAS Students Take First Step on National Merit Road

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School juniors Ethan Evans and Fields Ford have met the requirements to enter the 2014 National Merit Scholarship Program. They have qualified for this distinction based on their scores on the 2013 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT), having scored among the 50,000 highest-scoring participants of some 1.5 million

Ethan is the son of Amy and Jon Evans of Sewanee. He is a high honors student and has received awards for outstanding performance in algebra, geometry, English and studio art. Ethan has served as an SAS Ambassador, Honor Council member, and is currently a Proctor. An outstanding actor and musician, he has been cast in principal roles in numerous theatre productions, including "Oliver!," "The Ants" and "Sweeney Todd," and is a member of the school ensemble, "Take Note." Ethan is also a state-qualifying swimmer and an Eagle scout. He studied for a semester at the Cloud Forest School in Monteverde, Costa Rica, and has taken classes in biology and art at the University of the South. He recently published a paper with a Sewanee student based on coral reef research conducted in Belize. Ethan will be attending the Tennessee Governor's School for the Humanities in June.

Fields is the son of Beth Pride and Steve Ford of Sewanee. In addition to his academic achievements, he is an outstanding artist and photographer. Fields has received awards for outstanding performance in biology, Latin, Spanish, conceptual physics and world history. An avid mountain biker, he was co-captain of the SAS team, which is a member of the Tennessee High School Cycling League. Last fall the mountain bike team finished the season as the number one team in Tennessee and the number two team in the league. He received the 2013 MVP award for mountain biking. Over spring break, Fields, along with 11 SAS students and two faculty members, traveled to Jamaica to offer friendship and labor to the economically impoverished community of Trench Town. He has also earned a black belt in Wado Ryu karate.

Of the more than 50,000 high scorers nationwide, about 16,000 will be named National Merit Semifinalists, and approximately 34,000 others will be commended for their performance on the PSAT/NMSQT. These distinctions will be announced in September.

Beavers Selected for Vanderbilt Program

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School student John Beavers has been accepted to attend the 2014 Vanderbilt Summer Academy (VSA), a program for academically gifted students in grades eight-12 hosted by Vanderbilt University's Programs for Talented Youth (PTÝ).

Students who attend VSA are among the brightest in the country, scoring in the top tier on academic achievement tests such as the SAT and ACT.

"VSA classes develop students" critical thinking skills, encourage intellectual exploration and teach them how to thrive in a college classroom setting," says PTY Executive Director Tamra Stambaugh. "Students are able to push their intellectual limits alongside peers who also appreciate the sheer joy of learning and discovery."

VSA consists of one-week, twoweek and three-week sessions, each featuring challenging courses taught in university classrooms and laboratories by Vanderbilt scholars. The caliber of VSA's teaching staff and students' access to university resources make VSA unique among summer academic programs for gifted youth.

John has chosen to attend the theatre program, "Playing the Page and Reading the Stage.

Vanderbilt University's Programs for Talented Youth seeks to identify and support academically talented youth from diverse educational, racial and economic backgrounds by providing academic acceleration, challenge and balance to their lives. In addition to VSA, PTY provides educational opportunities for students and their parents and educators year-round. For more information about PTY go to <pty. vanderbilt.edu>.

WELCOME, UNIVERSITY VISITORS! HOPE YOU ENJOY YOUR STAY!

An open letter to the South Cumberland Community from the South Cumberland Regional Land Trust Board of Directors

In 1992 the South Cumberland Regional Land Trust (SCRLT) was formed to protect 1100 acres of land in the Jump Off area near Sewanee. This land of mostly forest, pristine bluffs, and sites of significant ecological, historical, and cultural importance was the first property SCRLT procured. Since then, the SCRLT has worked in cooperation with many other like-minded groups and individuals to further protect significant land in the region through conservation easements and the outright purchase of two other properties: Bluebell Island on the Elk River, and 208 acres of Shakerag Hollow which SCRLT bought, established a conservation easement with the Land Trust for Tennessee to protect, and then donated to the University of the South.

The original covenant made for the Jump Off land was to keep the forested land "forever wild" to be enjoyed for generations. The "forever wild" covenant means that no cutting of trees is allowed under any circumstances and we are bound to uphold that. The intent is to allow the uncleared land to go back to old growth forest and continue to exist as one of the few islands of old growth forest in the region. This land has been an outdoor classroom and a living laboratory for research and study by students and individuals for years. As more and more of the forests and bluffs in the area are cleared and developed, the SCRLT will continue to protect more than a mile of untouched bluff and over 1000 acres of forest.

Recently there have been several unfortunate incidents involving climbing and vandalism, and the cutting of trees below these pristine bluffs on land owned by the SCRLT. This is especially troubling as these bluffs are the most sacrosanct part of the land and a major reason the land is protected; they have significant ecological and historical value. We have identified the parties responsible for this damage and are confident that they knew full well that the actions they chose to engage in were contrary to the goals and covenants established for this land.

As a result of this damaging behavior, the board members of the SCRLT, as property owners and stewards of this land, have an obligation to address these problems and prevent them from happening again.

It is our privilege to be stewards of this extraordinary property and we invite a respectful dialogue with those who hold competing interests. At the same time, we are obligated to ensure that the conservation values that form the basis of our organization are upheld.

Sewanee Joins New Sustainability Consortium

Planet Forward, a consortium of colleges and universities dedicated to highlighting issues of sustainability through story-telling and student engagement, announced on May 1 that the University of the South has joined the effort.

Sewanee is one of only a handful of liberal arts colleges to have attained a silver ranking from the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE) Sustainability Tracking, Assessment & Rating System (STARS). Planet Forward is based at George Washington University and has attracted the support of non-governmental organizations and higher education partners since it was founded in 2009.

"This is an exciting time for colleges and universities around the country and around the world," said Planet Forward founder Frank Sesno, director of the School of Media and Public Affairs at George Washington. "We are delighted to partner with Sewanee to combine multimedia story-telling with active engagement of policy makers by students around sustainability, climate change, food insecurity and the host of issues facing our planet."

"We are very inspired by Planet Forward's mission to connect students to issues like climate, food, water and energy," said Marvin Pate, director of sustainability integration at Sewanee. "We believe in the value of partnerships for strengthening and pride in her descriptions. We global communications around critical issues like sustainability."

Partner institutions will send students to the April 2015 Planet Forward Summit in Washington, DC, and will provide content for a daily website, <www.planetforward.org>. Partnering schools will also collaborate on internships and student engagement projects and programs for sustainability. The University of Arizona and Middlebury College are now joining Planet Forward. George Washington University also announced that former undersecretary of state for public diplomacy and public affairs, Tara Sonenshine, a Distinguished Fellow at the School of Media and Public Affairs, will lead the strategic planning and stakeholder relationships with institutional partners for Planet Forward.

by Kevin Cummings Messenger Staff Writer

Arlyn Ende shares her life over coffee and fresh-baked banana bread on a May morning.

For 53 years, she and her husband—artist, author, poet and musician Jack Hastings—created and designed side-by-side in a multitude of media. Arlyn's textiles and Jack's mobiles and sculptures have added life and beauty to airports, gardens, hospitals, corporate offices and homes around the country.

Before coffee, Arlyn guides me in Sewanee. The sun is heavy today but nimbly dancing among his work. I can see Jack's sweat, skill and focus happily for 23 years, raising all their in the concrete and hear Arlyn's love own food, playing music, and trading finally sit down on pillows outside the As the years came on and farm life studio door, and Dust the cat paces in the archway.

Arlyn says she couldn't sleep the night before.

"It is difficult to share my life this way, but I'm going to try to be as forthcoming as you want me to be," she says.

Let's start in New Orleans, where as a kid, Arlyn grew tired of painting magnolias in the museum art classes her mother took her to each Saturday.

"I found myself resisting the expected and trying new ways to express myself," she says. "My sketches were often imaginary rather than the still life in front of me."

After college and Art Institute studies, Arlyn designed clothes as FogEater, in her boutique in Tucson, Ariz. During the summers FogEater moved to their home on Block Island in Rhode Island. Arlyn still spends a few weeks a year on the island she and Jack loved.

"The fact that Sewanee is an enclave of very interesting artists, intellectuals, scientists, free thinkers and community-minded people— a lot of that reminds me of Block Island. I feel like the two locales have a natural link," she says.

Between her art commissions and dress-designing, Arlyn directed art galleries in New Orleans, New York and for eight years here in Sewanee at the University.

It bears the marks of decades of friends and through her husband's carved con-musicians who sat around it on Block crete sculptures outside their studio Island and on Arlyn and Jack's farm in Cannon County, Tenn.

On that 85-acre farm they lived goat's milk and cheese with neighbors. grew more challenging, Sewanee was the next creative space. They learned about the Domain from Sewanee artists they met at a craft fair in Nashville.

"We'd passed Sewanee numerous see what magic lay beyond Exit 134," Arlyn notes.

She opens a portfolio on the table and tells me about the process she used to create tufted wool textiles for Vanderbilt Hospital walls or a hand-We leave Dust in the yard and go made-paper piece themed around the Edwards Aquifer for friends in San

"I'm very sensitive to the spaces I design for and the people who use those spaces," she says.

If a textile piece happens to be too big for Arlyn's 13-foot loom, she enlists the help of master rug maker Paul V'Soske in Grand Rapids, Mich.

My final tour of the day is among the tools, mobiles and sculptures in Jack's studio space. Last summer when Jack died, Arlyn lost her best friend, but his legacy lives on in his work.

When I leave, I am in awe of the woman and the man, and hoping I can bring my girlfriend to see their art. I'd times driving between Chattanooga also like a slice of that sourdough waland Nashville, but we never stopped to ut bread that Arlyn says I just missed.

Makris Publishes Sixth Book About Sewanee

"The People That Made Sewanee" is the sixth book that Patricia Short Makris has published about the history of this town.

"The first mountaineer settlers who arrived on Sewanee Mountain had to start from scratch, with only the items they managed to bring with them," Makris said. Through hard work they cleared the land, built houses, grew crops, hunted and raised animals to feed their families, and virtually learned to live off the land."

Makris writes about when Episcopal Bishop Charles Quintard came to the Mountain after the Civil War.

"The decision was made to build a village along with the University of the South," she said. "The mountaineers and cove dwellers were prepared. Already trained, they immediately became the main part of the workforce that constructed the beautiful buildings that make Sewanee so unique."

This book provides stories, as well as the names and occupations of those people who helped to make Sewanee what it is today. There is an index of more than 500 family names listed and about 200 photographs, plus a transcribed copy of the 1940 census records of families living at Sewanee.

There are stories about the littleknown railroad and mining community of Tracyville; St. Mary's; Midway; Jump Off; the Sherwood Road area; Pack Town; and Bob Town. Also included is a story about the Sewanee Steam Laundry, with the names of its employees; names and some photos of stonemasons; the Hayes Mill; Samuel Hoge's Store, now known as Shenanigans; and a story about Barnes Stagecoach Inn.

Tours of the Bell Towers

On Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10, from 2 to 3:30 p.m., both Shapard Tower and Breslin Tower will be open for visitors. While tours of the carillon and change-ringing towers are available from time to time, there are several new features this time.

This will be the first time that both towers will have "open doors" at the same time. Although the times for playing the two instruments are coordinated and published on a calendar that appears in the narthex of the chapel and on the website < www.sewanee.edu/carillon>, the only "live" connection is that Ray Gotko is involved with both instruments. He is one of the three carillonneurs at Sewanee and an instructor for the change-ringers.

Tours of the carillon tower have traditionally involved a guide taking a group up into the tower. This style of tour has its problems: limits on how many people can be in one group, having sign-up lists, people not showing up, people showing up who didn't sign up, people coming late ... You get the idea.

Tours of the Breslin Tower ringing room can accommodate perhaps a few more people than the carillon playing cabin, but space is still limited when guests visit the belfry.

This time visitors can come and go as they like in both towers. There will be information signs and a new brochure in the carillon tower. Charlene Williamson is producing these new items as a project for her Associate Carillonneur exam with the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America. Charlene has been taking lessons for three years and has played the Tuesday concerts almost every week in 2014. This examination was introduced about two years ago by the guild as a possible precursor to the traditional (full) Carillonneur examination. One of the requirements for the new process is a project on the broad topic of carillon history. Charlene has chosen the history of the Sewanee carillon, and thus the new materials.

In the carillon tower, there will be one person halfway up the tower (about 60 steps!), where the eight big bells are, and another person all the way up (124 steps), where the playing cabin is and where the rack with the 48 smaller bells starts.

Visitors will be able to pause and read the new signs as they go higher and higher. On a clear day, the view from the parapet at the playing cabin level is spectacular. As of May 4, there were two new baby squabs and several eggs in the makeshift nests that the adult pigeons make. Charlene and I will be guides on Friday; Ray and I will be there on Saturday.

In Breslin Tower, visitors can climb the 60 steps to the ringing room where Gail Watson, tower captain of the Sewanee ringers, will greet them. Visitors will be able to see a demonstration of changeringing and view the bells in the belfry. Ray will assist her on Friday, and student Rachel Rodgers will assist on Saturday.

Trivia question: At how many locations in the U.S. would you be able to visit both a carillon tower and a change-ringing tower?

Answer: Four. Sewanee, Smith College (Northampton, Mass.), the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., and the University of Chicago.

Rivendell Announces Wendell Berry Fellow

Rivendell Writers' Colony has named theologian and scholar Norman Wirzba to be the first Wendell Berry New Agrarian Fellow at Rivendell.

"We are so deeply pleased that Norman is our first recipient of this award honoring Wendell Berry," said Carmen Thompson, director of Rivendell.

Wendell recommended Norman to us as a very important voice for the New Agrarians, who embodies Eco-logical, Economical, and Eco-spiritual approaches to the land and community. Wendell Berry is the benchmark, and we are grateful to be able to honor him annually in this way. Of course, Sewanee's literary history with the original Agrarians makes it all the more special for us," she said.

As a Berry Fellow, Wirzba will participate in the awarding of future fellowships, adding continuity and community to the process. Readings and discussions are also planned for the Berry Fellows during their time at Rivendell.

Wirzba is professor of theology and ecology at Duke Divinity School and research professor at Duke's Nicholas School of the Environment, where he pursues research and teaching interests at the intersections of theology, philosophy, ecology, and agrarian and environmental studies. He has published and edited a number of books, including "The Art of the Commonplace: Agrarian Essays of Wendell Berry."

Rivendell Writers' Colony aims to inspire and educate the imagination by offering programs, workshops, and residencies to both published authors and aspiring writers. Rivendell nurtures spiritual growth and personal wellness by providing educational and experiential programs for the mind, body and spirit, while working to preserve the natural beauty of a Tennessee mountaintop. I was born a prince. At least that is what my mother led me to believe.

When she would make me a sandwich as a child, she would trim off any ounce of fat from the roast beef, cut the crust from the bread, spread the mustard carefully and evenly, and tear apart the lettuce in small manageable bites. I would watch admiringly and approvingly, and she would finish by adding a needed lesson: "Anything worth doing is worth doing right." If we had company and someone spoke harshly or gossiped

SAS Track & Field Hosts FCHS For Final Meet

On May 2, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School hosted Franklin County High School for the final home meet of the season. Both teams had strong showings; the SAS girls came out over the FCHS girls 48-45, and on the boys side, the Rebels beat the Mountain Lions 63-38.

Eighth-grader James Hudson established two SAS middle school records in the triple jump and 3200-meter run. He is the current middle school leader with four records under his belt. Sixth-grader Sarah Beth Hobby won the triple jump, breaking her own school record twice.

 $SAS\ captain\ Sarah\ Beavers\ swept\ both\ throwing\ events\ with\ a\ throw\ of\ 27'8"$ in the shot put and 78'10.5" in the discus. Ninth-grader Max LaFrenier placed fourth in the boys' discus.

SAS Soccer in Playoff

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee School varsity boys' soccer team hosted Ezell Harding on May 1 in the first round of the district playoffs. Ezell was the first to go ahead, after an SAS defensive error. SAS fired back to level the score and then take the lead through Sam Smith. Both goals came after Smith made great individual runs through Ezell's back line, powering past the defense and finishing calmly into the back of the net.

A third goal came from Takumi Morozumi, who made a wonderful diagonal run across the back line and finished off a pass from Noah McIndoo. Ezell then pulled one back after a foul in the box led to a penalty kick, making the score 3-2. This spurred SAS on, and Morozumi found the net after he latched onto a through ball from Andrew Heitzenrater. The fifth and final goal came from Smith, completing his hat trick. SAS won, 5-2.

On May 3 the team traveled to Webb-Knox in a district semifinal match-up. Webb-Knox took a 4-0 lead in the first half after SAS errors and a lot of badluck. Smith scored for SAS in the second half. The game ended 4-1.

Brown Thrashers

"There is a pair of Brown Thrashers running around my yard!" Jean Yeatman reports. "This is a large bird, 11.5 inches long. The body is reddish-brown above and heavily streaked below. The eyes of the adult are yellow, and when seen from straight on, they have a very stern look. The Thrasher likes to sit on an exposed branch of a tree, where it sings a long series of varied melodious phrases in couplets. The calls include a sharp 'spuck' and a low 'churr.'

"They have built a nest," she continued, "quite large and made of sticks, small roots, bark and leaves, lined with horsehair or fine rootlets, about a foot off the ground in a laurel thicket on my bluff. It is said that the name "Thrasher" comes from the manner in which they thrash the leaves about with their long bills, sometimes tossing them overhead, while looking for insects, worms and other small prey. They will eat some fruit, also. Their preferred habitat is overgrown fields, woodland margins and residential neighborhoods, and they spend the whole year with us.

'The Pink Ladyslipper Orchids are in bloom now," Jean concluded.

"Monteagle Steps"

Only steps from the Assembly North Gate lie four 1+ acre lots elegantly dressed in virgin timber that reach high into the clouds from a blanket of mountain laurel, dogwoods, redbuds and sugar maples. Listen quietly to the spring-fed creek as it meanders through the property until it crashes over the falls into the stone-lined swimming hole that cooled Unaka campers from 1911 to 1936. The old stone steps are still there, welcoming all to its cool respite from the summer heat. Interior bluff views, beautiful rock formations, privacy, security and convenience are but a few of the features of this unique property located near the end of Central Avenue.

This unique property, once the heart of historic Camp Unaka, offers a private retreat for those Assembly families whose children and grandchildren have simply outgrown their cottage. There is now a way to enjoy our beloved mountain during all seasons in a new home that blends into the woods, is just a few steps from the Assembly but has all of the modern comforts of home. Sewanee grads might want to secure their place on the mountain for the future.

This unique property is offered by Dr. and Mrs. George B. Elder, whose family has summered in the Assembly for seven generations. You are invited to call George or Suzanne and schedule a leisurely stroll or golf cart ride through this rare and inviting property.

Rain Barrel Gardening Seminar

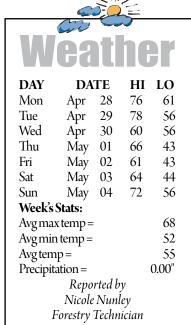

The University of Tennessee Extension in Grundy County is hosting a free seminar on rain barrel gardening at 1:30 p.m., Monday, May 19, at the UT Extension Office in Coalmont.

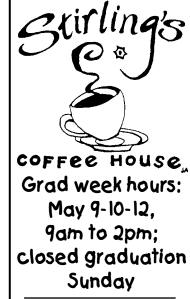

Creig C. Kimbro, UT extension agent, said, "Did you know that a one-inch rain event can generate up to 626 gallons of water on a 1,000 square foot roof? That is enough to fill more than 10 55-gallon drums." This program will include information on how to save money, collect rainwater and use it to irrigate a lawn and garden. Kimbro asks that people planning on attending please call to confirm their attendance.

Kimbro said there are many different benefits to collecting rain water. Some of these include irrigation usage, filling bird baths, washing cars, reducing demands on municipal water sources, reducing flooding, lowering water bills and recharging groundwater. The rain barrel water gardening seminar will be an opportunity to learn about conserving rainwater in case of future rain shortages.

The UT Extension Office is located on 27 Phipps St., Coalmont, in front of the Grundy County EMS building and Coalmont post office. For more information or to RSVP for the workshop, call the extension office at (931) 592-3971 or email Kimbro at <ckimbro@utk.edu>.

UT Extension offers its programs to all eligible persons regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, religion or veteran status, and is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Primros

Pets of the Week

Meet Primrose and Rosie

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Primrose is a small 7-month-old Terrier mix who is extremely sweet and playful. If you give her a little time to build her trust in you, she will give you lots of love and laughs. Primrose is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Rosie is a sweet Birman-mix kitty who is in search of a soft-spoken older person to care for her. She's been very sad since her person passed away, and she needs a quiet home without other cats where she can be doted on. Rosie is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than 4 months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Ânimal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.
