School of Letters Begins Sixth Year

The Sewanee School of Letters, the University's graduate program in literature and creative writing, will welcome 70 students and visiting faculty this summer from around the country for its sixth summer session.

A new lecture in songwriting will be offered this year. This discussion will be led by Radney Foster, C'81, and Darden Smith at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, June 16, in Gailor Auditorium. This event is free and open to the public.

Foster, a Sewanee graduate from Texas, has returned often to the Mountain to perform. He was part of the successful duo Foster and Lloyd in the 1980s before going solo in 1992. Smith, also from Texas, has been recording since 1986 with 13 albums to his credit. A folk artist, his records have won commercial success and critical praise. The two writers are also friends and have collaborated often.

The Sewanee School of Letters is a master's program in English and in creative writing for students who have only summers to devote to study.

The faculty consists of Sewanee professors from English and allied departments and faculty from other campuses. The curriculum of the program is designed to permit students to complete coursework for the M.A. or M.F.A. in four or five summer sessions.

Watch the Messenger for information about other readings and lectures throughout the school's six-week term.

Youth Peace Summit Hosted by Fire on the Mountain

by Ashley Charlton, Special to the Messenger

Fire on the Mountain, the Episcopal Youth Coalition sponsored by St. James and Otey Parish, hosted a two-day interfaith summit as part of its Sons and Daughters of Abraham Project to learn more about people of other faiths and build relationships with them.

"We have a group of committed teenagers who believe that they can make a difference and change the world," said longtime Otey Parish youth minister Betty Carpenter.

Carpenter was the director of the two-day summit in late April that brought together 75 high school and college students—among them Christians, Jews and Muslims—to explore a greater understanding of their shared Abrahamic faiths.

"The Youth Peace Summit provided a forum for discovery of the things that bring us together," said Carpenter. "In joining our faiths under this common cause, we empower youth to change the things that keep us apart and a forum to learn what can bring us together."

The attendees' first activity at the DuBose Conference Center was a casual panel discussion led by college students from Vanderbilt, MTSU and Sewanee. Each discussion leader talked about how their particular faith and beliefs had impacted their lives.

"It's interfaith activities like this that help us understand each other," said Sofia Yusuf, a Muslim college student attending the summit.

Afterwards, Muslim participants watched their Christian peers conduct Compline, an evening prayer service, while the Christian youth later observed the Islamic worship traditions.

"Even among our differences, the weekend was filled with the presence of God," said Keith McFarland, a high school-aged Christian from Sewanee.

The summit continued with small group activities and a question-and-answer session that was a time of honest sharing interjected with laughter. Most of the participants came from urban centers, so a hike along the Perimeter Trail was a special treat. The hike ended at the Memorial Cross, where the Rev. Joe Porter and Imam Mohamad Ahmed concluded with prayers.

"It was the perfect ending," said Carpenter.

The Youth Peace Summit served as a culmination of the Sons and Daughters of Abraham Project, a two-year-long program developed by Carpenter. Young people from Fire on the Mountain first met the summit's Muslim participants in January 2009 at the Islamic Center of Nashville. Last summer, the Sewanee youth joined their Muslim peers and prepared bagged lunches at the mosque, then delivered the food to locals left homeless by middle Tennessee's May floods.

The Sons and Daughters of Abraham Project made quite an impression on its participants, including eighth-grade Fire on the Mountain member Emily Masters of Monteagle, who won the regional 4-H public speaking competition with an essay on religious tolerance based on her experiences.

In her speech, Masters described the project as an "opportunity to meet with youth groups of different religions to share interesting information about how we worship and to learn exactly what religious tolerance means." Following the success of the recent interfaith youth peace summit in Tennessee, event planners and participants turned their attention toward their next faith exploration in Alabama.

"We just returned from Alabama from a successful summer outreach mission," said Carpenter. She and a group of 10 high-school students from across the Mountain performed community service at Church of the Advent in Lillian and helped with a camp for underprivileged children.

CHILD ADVOCACY TRAINING To the Editor:

On June 4, the Manchester Arts Center hosted a two-hour program offered by the Children's Advocacy Center called "Darkness to Light." This is a program every parent, educator and anyone else interested in the well-being of children should have attended. Heather Kleinfeld did a fine job in presenting this informative program.

We, as a nation, need to become more aware of the problem of child abuse and take an active interest in learning how we can help to prevent it. Child abuse occurs in one of every four children. Please don't take it for granted that it can't happen to you or those you love. Through this program, you can learn to recognize the signs of a predator and the signs that abused children give when they are crying out for someone to come to their aid.

Please learn more about the Children's Advocacy Center and its programs; take action and begin today to become an advocate for children.

Letters to the Editor Policy

Letters to the Editor are welcome at the Sewanee Mountain Messenger and are a vital part of our community's conversation. Letters need to be no longer than 250 words and may be edited for space and clarity. Letters and/or their author must have some relationship to our community. We do not accept letters on national topics from individuals who live outside our circulation area. Please include your name, address and a daytime telephone number with your letter. You may mail it to us at Sewanee Mountain Messenger, P.O. Box 296, Sewanee TN 37375, or come by our office, 418 St. Mary's Ln., or send an e-mail to me at <news_messgr@bellsouth.net>.—LW

Calling All Readers and Writers

A Letter from the Editor:

Janet Graham and I have been publishing the Sewanee Mountain Messenger for about six months now, and we've made a variety of changes since we took over. We want you, the reader, to tell us what you think about the changes—from the new calendar format to the different typeface. We care about what you think. So, please give us your honest feedback. Learning what you like and don't like is the only way we can know if we're serving our audience.

We've also begun adding columnists to the paper, adding new "voices" to the pages. Many people have expressed an interest in writing their own column for the Messenger. If you've always wanted to write for a newspaper, here's your chance.

Prospective columnists should send an e-mail to <news_messgr@bellsouth.net> that contains these things: the "pitch"—the one- or two-sentence summary of what your column will be about, a brief description of why you'd make a great columnist for our paper and two sample columns, each no longer than 400 words. Columns and their authors need to have some relationship with our Mountain, need to be relevant to local issues (a column on the history and background of underwater basket weaving won't make it, nor will a column on geopolitics) and should not duplicate columns that already exist. Read the other terrific columnists who write for us and look to them for inspiration. They set a high standard for writing.

Send your information to me no later than Friday, July 1, and we'll see what happens. Among the many changes taking place in the Messenger is the layout and use of space, and this will determine in part how many new columnists we take on and how often we publish them.

And, for those of you who simply want to write on occasion and tell us what you are passionate about, I remind you that the Letters to the Editor section is one of the most widely read parts of our paper. We encourage healthy, respectful debate on a wide range of topics in this section.

Thank you to the many people who make this work possible. We could not produce a free, weekly, community newspaper without the faithful support of our advertisers, the generosity of the Community Chest and printing assistance from the University of the South. Together, we make community in this beautiful place we call home.

—Laura Willis

SUD Begins Local Hydrant Flushing This Month

The Sewanee Utility District (SUD) will be flushing fire hydrants within the district during June and July.

During flushing, the hydrant is opened to allow any sediment and stale water to be removed from the main water line. Flushing must be performed annually to comply with state law and to ensure the highest quality of water possible. During flushing, some discoloration may be noticed but is of no health risk. Additionally, there may be a momentary loss of water pressure while the hydrant is open.

SUD anticipates beginning flushing at the water tanks and moving out towards outlying areas. Therefore, areas near town will be flushed first and the areas of Sherwood Road, Midway and Jump Off will be flushed in that order.

Flushing will be performed between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to reduce inconvenience. If you have any questions, please contact the utility at 598-5611.

Sewanee Alum is "Jeopardy" Champion

Sewanee residents Laurie Saxton and Tommy Hewitt recently traveled to Ocracoke Island, N.C., where they met Charles Temple, C'95, the newly crowned teacher tournament champion on the television game show "Jeopardy."

Temple has taught English for the past eight years at Ocracoke School, one of North Carolina's smallest public schools that encompasses all grades, kindergarten through seniors in high school. Saxton and Hewitt also met Flavia Burton, an ESL teacher originally from Nashville who had two nieces and a nephew attend Sewanee (including Sophia, C'13).

"Temple and Burton are determined to send one of the island's students to Sewanee," Saxton said.

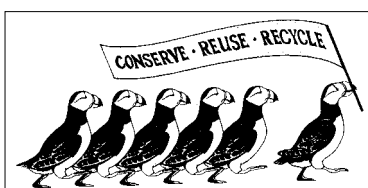

Ocracoke School has 151 students, 29 of them in the high school where Temple teaches. Temple's winning episode aired during the school's prom. Students wanted to watch their teacher in the finals, so they were shuttled by school bus to a local restaurant in time to watch the episode and then loaded back onto the bus to return to the dance.

With his victory, Temple earned $100,000 and secured a spot in the show's Tournament of Champions later this year.

Meditation Series Begins in July

"Commitment to Love: Four Weeks of Meditation to Enhance Your Life" is the title of a four-week series offered at St. Mary's Sewanee beginning July 12.

On Tuesdays, 7-8:30 p.m., through August 2, professor Sid Brown will teach some fundamental practices of love revealed in Buddhist texts.

"Love is the practice of wishing someone well, no matter how you feel, no matter the person, no matter the circumstances," Brown said. "That wishing someone well can change the world."

Through short talks, discussions, guided meditation and silent meditation, the course will look at texts and offer support as participants explore a daily practice of meditation.

"One need not be a Buddhist to benefit from these practices," she said. "They are easily part of anyone's everyday commitment to living a happier life."

Brown is an associate professor of religion at Sewanee. She has been studying Buddhism and Buddhist meditation since 1982, and has lived and studied in India, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Japan and the U.S. She has published two books: "The Journey of One Buddhist Nun" and "A Buddhist in the Classroom."

The fee for this course is $75. To register or get more details call 598-5342.

Church News

This Week At Otey Parish

Otey Parish will celebrate Pentecost, the church's birthday and the coming of the Holy Spirit, on Sunday, June 12, with Holy Eucharist at 8:50 a.m. and 11 a.m. Between and after services, there will be birthday cake and fellowship in the parish hall. Adults will also have the opportunity to attend the Lectionary class led by Pete Trenchi. Children may attend supervised play in the nursery or playground. Childcare is available from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Pentecost At Christ Church

Due to the very dry weather, and the increased risk of a grass fire, Christ Church will forego the fireworks that have greeted Pentecost there for many years. But they plan to have lots of balloons and a party on Sunday, June 12, the date of the Feast of Pentecost this year. Bishop William Millsaps is scheduled to preach.

"Pentecost is a celebration shared by many churches and, in Northern Europe, by whole towns. The Day of Pentecost can be called the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the Church. It is, indeed, a 'wow' day," Millsaps said.

The service begins at 10:30 a.m. with lunch following. Mary Ellen Haley, the assistant treasurer of Christ Church, will celebrate her 95th birthday.

St. James Activities

At 9 a.m., Sunday, June 12, St. James will have its annual outdoor Eucharist in the St. James Pavilion (weather permitting) in celebration of the gift of the Holy Spirit. A potluck luncheon follows the celebration—bring your favorite "feast food" to share.

First Friday Fun returns to St. James on July 1 and August 5 for families and friends to come together for fun, enjoy each other's company, and to share a meal. First Friday Fun begins at 6 p.m.

Haven of Hope Offers Crisis Aid

Haven of Hope, an emergency shelter located in Manchester, provides safety education and support to victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking in six middle Tennessee counties, including Franklin County.

Mona Mason, executive director of Haven of Hope, said a misconception about domestic abuse is that leaving the abuser is always the safest option. She said that 73 percent of emergency room visits by abused women occur after separation from the violent partner, and that 75 percent of women who are killed by their partners or husbands are murdered at or after separation. "Don't judge a victim's actions or inactions," she said. "Reach out. Become aware of what you can do to make a positive, supportive difference in the life of a victim."

Haven of Hope's crisis hot line is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week at (800) 435-7739 or (931)-680-3011.

Tallulah's Wine Lounge Open in Monteagle

Monteagle Inn and Retreat Center held its grand opening of Tallulah's Wine Lounge on June 4. Twenty wines were offered by the glass, many for only $5. The guests had premium cheeses, fruit and Italian meats while enjoying their wines.

The lounge was named after Tallulah Bankhead, who was co-owner Jim Harmon's maternal great-great-aunt.

"I spent a week with her in New York when I was 16," he said. "And that was an interesting week," he said of his time with the famously flamboyant actress.

For nominating the chosen name, Laura and Devin McClendon of Brentwood received a free night's lodging at the inn and a $100 credit at Tallulah's. Tallulah's Wine Lounge is open until 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings or by appointment, and is located at 204 West Main St. in Monteagle. The lounge features more than 200 wines from around the world in all price ranges, with a number available by the glass. They also offer hors d'oeuvres and cheese plates.

Owners Harmon and Lee Green invite you to drop by and "unwined," enjoy your favorite wine or discover a new favorite.

New Clinic to Open in Monteagle

Health screenings, food, physicians will be available

The Monteagle Multispecialty Clinic, "the M," will host an open house, 4:30–6 p.m., Thursday, June 23, at its new office located at 25 Spring St.

Experienced physicians will be available to answer questions about the facility, provide practice schedules, and get to know their new neighbors in the surrounding communities. In addition, nursing staff will be available to provide free blood pressure checks and other health screenings. Anyone wishing to know more about the physicians or the facility is invited to attend this relaxed, informal event.

The clinic will have physicians specializing in cardiology, general surgery, gynecology, orthopedics, podiatry, urology and more, and will also see new patients. The clinic operates under the auspices of Grandview Medical Center in Jasper.

"We believe the clinic fulfills a local desire for more convenient access to some of the medical specialties needed in the area," Bruce Baldwin, Grandview CEO, said. "Our goal is to work with local independent family physicians by providing their patients access to quality specialist care that's closer to their homes."

Cedar Rock Development To Support Mountain Goat Trail

$10,000 Check To Be Presented During Ground Breaking

The Mountain Goat Trail (MGT) is getting a big boost from a new neighbor. LAR Development, the team behind Cedar Rock, a new community nestled just below Sewanee, will present the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance with a $10,000 donation at its ground-breaking celebration set from 6 to 8 p.m. for Saturday, June 18, at Cedar Rock.

Cedar Rock is a collection of 100 home sites set across 790 acres of mountainside views. The property's home sites are a minimum of five acres; part of the development is adjacent to where part of the MGT will be constructed.

"The Mountain Goat Trail is a fantastic example of what a public-private partnership can achieve in a community," said Luis Ruiz, president of LAR Development. "We aren't just absentee developers. We have two homes under construction in Cedar Rock for my own family and I am excited to meet our neighbors. Personally, I am an avid cyclist, so the opportunity to be part of the Mountain Goat Trail is terrific."

The Mountain Goat Railroad was initially constructed in 1853 as a rail spur from the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad. Since then, the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance has been working to convert the now abandoned train line into a hiking and biking corridor through Franklin and Grundy Counties. While the first phase of the trail linking Sewanee to St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is complete, the donation from Cedar Rock will help in the construction of the next two phases.

"This area of Tennessee has been a destination for outdoor enthusiasts for years," said Janice Thomas, president of the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance. "But, the Mountain Goat Trail represents more than that. It's our link to enhanced community ties, stronger tourism and economic development. It also reflects the community's dedication to a healthy lifestyle."

In addition to the initial $10,000 donation, LAR Development will also donate an additional $1,000 for each lot sold at Cedar Rock in the name of the lot's new owner. If all 100 proposed home sites are sold, that amounts to another $110,000 towards the completion of the Mountain Goat Trail. It's a donation that Ruiz isn't only proud of, but knows will be put to good use within the community.

"The Mountain Goat Trail is a link to this area's past, yet stands as symbol of this area's future," he said. "We hope that showing our commitment to the project will ignite interest from other donors to step up, so people can enjoy the trail for generations to come."

New Marketing Director Hired at University

Parker Oliver, C'89, has been named executive director of marketing and communications at the University of the South. Oliver has more than 20 years of experience supporting education, financial services and consumer technology. He has led teams at marketing agencies to serve clients, including Loyola University (School of Nursing and School of Law), the University of Utah, Microsoft and Iomega.

"Parker will play a central role as we work to advance the name and reputation of this great university, to make Sewanee a less well-kept secret," said Vice-Chancellor John McCardell. "I am delighted that Parker is returning to his alma mater."

During the search to hire the new executive director, McCardell said, the office of marketing and communications has done a "splendid job" under the leadership of interim executive director Laurie Saxton.

"The office not only continued its regular course of business, but each member of the marketing and communications staff worked with great dedication to develop and execute the plan to communicate and publicize Sewanee's 10 percent fee reduction, leading to unprecedented media coverage for the University," he said.

An English major at Sewanee, Oliver lettered in both football and baseball, and served as sports editor for the Purple. He and his wife, Katie, have two children, Emmie, 17, and Tommy, 13.

Grease

110 minutes • PG-13 • Admission $3

Here's a chance to see an old favorite on the big screen. "Grease" is a classic, the biggest box-office draw of 1978, starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, who were both just starting their careers. It is a 1950s high school love story, a Romeo-and-Juliet romance set in California with bobby socks, drive-ins, drag races Frankie Avalon and leather jackets. There are great performances from Didi Conn, Stockard Channing and Jeff Conaway. But really, "Grease" is all about the dancing and the music, with its iconic BeeGee's title song, "Hopelessly Devoted to You," and my favorite, "Beauty School Drop Out." Rated PG-13 for sexual content including references, teen smoking and drinking, and language. —LW

"The Dixie Swim Club" at Cannon County Arts Center

The Cannon County Art Center is staging a production of "The Dixie Swim Club," a comedy about five southern women whose friendships began on their college swim team, for a three-weekend run ending June 18.

"The Dixie Swim Club" focuses on four weekends and spans a period of 33 years. As their lives unfold and the years pass, these women increasingly rely on one another, through advice and raucous repartee, to get through the challenges (men, sex, marriage, parenting, divorce, aging) that life flings at them.

The play is directed by Donald Fann; the cast includes Jacqueline LeDuc, Candi Ford, Karen Wainright, Marcia Melton and Melanie Nistad.

Shows are at 7:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and at 2 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets for "The Dixie Swim Club" are $10, with discounts available for students, seniors and groups. For more information call (800) 235-9073 or go to <www.artscenterofcc.com>.

SSMF on the Radio This Year

WUTS 91.3 FM, the University's campus radio station, will become "Sewanee Summer Music Festival Radio" for about six weeks this summer, according to Will Cate, technical director for the station.

During this time, WUTS will broadcast a format of mostly classical and jazz music, including live broadcasts of most of the major concerts of the festival. These concerts will also stream live over the internet, so anyone anywhere in the world can listen via the station's website, <www.wutsmf.org>. A schedule of concerts and other special programming will be available on the website soon.

"We're excited to be partnering with the Summer Music Festival in this venture. It helps raise the profile of our little station, which up until recently, used to go dark (i.e., off the air) during the summer," said Cate, who is a media technician for the University. Last year, for the first time, WUTS continued broadcasting in computer-automated form throughout the summer months.

WUTS has just begun its 40th year of operation, having first gone on-the-air in the Spring of 1972. The station plays a wide variety of rock, blues, jazz, folk, ethnic and classical music. The student-manager for the coming 2011–12 school year is Emma Volk (C'12).

"Cumulus, Metaphysical," a set of five oil paintings by Edward Carlos, graces the lobby of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts.

Carlos Extends Loan of "Cumulus Metaphysical" to McCrory

If you have had the opportunity to attend an event in St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's McCrory Hall for the Performing Arts, you have no doubt enjoyed the beautiful paintings that adorn the lobby. "Cumulus, Metaphysical" is a set of five oil paintings by Sewanee artist Edward Carlos. Carlos provided the paintings on loan to the school for the dedication of McCrory in 2009 and recently extended the loan of the paintings through June 2011.

"The paintings were to be removed in March," explained Carlos. "But when I learned that Sean Bridgers would be receiving a Distinguished Alumnus Award at this year's Alumni Weekend, I wanted to be sure that the paintings were there for the event."

Bridgers, a 1986 graduate of SAS, is a distinguished television and movie actor and a good friend of the Carlos family. Carlos had the opportunity to direct Sean in his first ever theatrical production when he was a student at SAS. Later this month, the paintings will be moved to IONA: Art Sanctuary on Garnertown Road in Sewanee.

Carlos chaired the fine arts department and directed the University Gallery at the University of the South, where he taught for 34 years. His artwork spans a variety of media and subjects, including large atmospheric paintings such as "Cumulus, Metaphysical", small and large-scale landscapes, portraits, photographs, and sculpture. His wife, Sarah, taught math at SAS and their three children attended the school.

Clothing Designer to Lecture at Shakerag on Wednesday

The first session of the Shakerag Workshops begins Sunday, June 12. The public is invited to attend the first in the Shakerag Lecture Series. Clothing designer Manuel Cuevas of Nashville will speak at 7 p.m., Wednesday, June 15, in McCrory Hall.

Cuevas is a costumer and an artist who has designed clothing for presidents, athletes, dancers, artists and movie stars. Often referred to as the "Rhinestone Rembrandt," Manuel said "I do for artists what they need—not what they think they need." Cuevas has created numerous remarkable ensembles, including Elvis' signature gold lamé suit.

Each June, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School welcomes aspiring artists to Shakerag Workshops for two one-week sessions of studio classes. This year the sessions will be June 12–18 and June 19–25 with a focus on 10 different media, including felt-making, basketry, surface design, dyeing, photography, journaling, digital arts, clay, book arts and jewelry. Professional artists teach the courses. Almost all of the Shakerag classes are open to a range of participants, and beginners and professionals take classes together. Shakerag is known for its inclusive atmosphere and the vitality of classes. For more information go to <www.shakerag.org>.

Wade Hall Earns Gold LEED Certification

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School's Wade Hall for the Sciences has been awarded LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) gold certification by the U.S. Green Building Council. Wade Hall, dedicated last fall, was rated LEED gold for the sustainable components incorporated into the structure's design and construction.

"I am delighted to have our commitment to sustainability confirmed in this very public and universally approved way," said the Rev. John Thomas, head of school. "The beautiful 550-acre campus that SAS occupies is one of our greatest assets. This building is a gift to that inheritance." The building was constructed for just $2.1 million—on time and within budget. "Wade Hall represents the best possibilities in school construction," Thomas said. "The design was a true collaboration between teachers, administrators and our architects, Franklin Associates of Chattanooga. We have proven that sustainable design does not have to be expensive design."

The 8,200 square-foot building includes five classroom/laboratories for instruction in physics, chemistry, biology, environmental science and middle school sciences, an outdoor classroom, abundant storage space and common space for students to study and congregate. The science commons, made possible in part by a gift from the Edward E. Ford Foundation, houses an electronic dashboard that displays energy and water usage.

Wade Hall's environmentally friendly design and construction include:

Solar orientation: Wade Hall is located and oriented to take advantage of the sun as a source of free lighting. Because the long axis of the building is in an east-west direction, daylight easily and carefully enters the classrooms. This provides natural light to the occupants, and helps to reduce the need for artificial lighting during the school day.

Thermal envelope: Advanced framing and insulating techniques, heat reflective roofing and high-performance glass minimizes thermal energy transfer through the envelope of the building. This helps keep students comfortable without over-utilizing mechanical air conditioning.

Embodied energy: Materials and systems with high recycled content and that are easily recycled and regionally sourced keep the embodied energies of the building low.

High efficiency HVAC: Natural ventilation and a high efficiency mechanical system combine to handle the heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC). This variable refrigerant volume (VRV) system provides a high level of individual control while using a fraction of the energy of a traditional system. Operable windows both at occupant level and near the ceiling where hot air can be exhausted provide natural ventilation.

Indoor environment quality: Low-to-no volatile organic compound materials and finishes in the building reduce off-gassing and maintain a high level of indoor air quality. Visual and physical access to the outdoors is available from most spaces within the building.

New Members of Sewanee Hall of Fame Named

Sewanee athletic director Mark Webb has announced that two teams and six individuals have been selected for induction into the Sewanee Athletics Hall of Fame as the Class of 2011. The inductees will be honored during Hall of Fame Weekend, September 2-3. The class will also be introduced at halftime of the Tigers' first football game of the season on September 3 against Earlham College. The 2011 inductees are:

The 1988 and 1989 Men's Tennis Teams: The 1988 team finished the season with a 25-4 overall record, a CAC Championship, and a 10th-place finish at the NCAA Championships. The team featured six All-Conference performers and one All-American and won 12 consecutive matches heading into the NCAA Championships. The team blanked eight different opponents and boasted a 10-4 home record. Team members included Pat Guerri, Tim Lufkin, David Dye, Ken Alexander, Chuck Cobb, Boyd Douglas, Ramsay Sims, John Cladakis, Matt Farley and Clay Duncan.

The 1989 team topped the previous year's performance with a CAC Championship and a seventh-place finish at the NCAA Championships. The '89 squad compiled a 17-8 overall record, including a 10-1 showing at home. The team featured seven All-Conference honorees and one All-American, Academic All-American, and National Senior Player of the Year in Pat Guerri. Team members included Guerri, Lufkin, Alexander, Dye, Bill Guerri, Jim McCurtain, Farley, Duncan, Sims, Madison Michael, Cladakis, Scott Hudmon, Ramsey McCrory, and Steve Costa. Both teams were coached by current Tiger tennis coach John Shackelford.

Bill Barry served as the head athletic trainer for the Sewanee athletic department for 25 years after arriving on the Mountain in 1969. Prior to his time at Sewanee, Barry served as an assistant trainer at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. After retiring from his post as head athletic trainer, he took on the role of facilities and business manager for the athletic department, a role he still serves in today. Barry was inducted into the Tennessee Athletic Trainers Hall of Fame in 2001. During his time as a trainer at Sewanee, he worked more than 300 consecutive football games, home and away.

Hamp Bass, C'88, was a standout football and track athlete for the Tigers. Bass captained the 1987 football team and earned four letters in the sport. He was named an All-CAC offensive lineman his senior year. In track, Bass qualified twice for the NCAA Championships and was an All-American in both 1986 and 1988. He earned four track letters and was a two-time All-CAC honoree and was the top points earner his senior season.

Joseph S. Bean, C'31, (deceased) was an All-American tackle for the Tiger football team. Bean played at a time when Sewanee competed in the SEC. He also competed on the track team, participating in the discus for three seasons. Bean was also a three-year letterman for the Tiger basketball team.

Father-daughter duo Rob Chapman, C'73, and Jane H. Chapman Fisher, C'02, are being inducted together with the Hall of Fame Class of 2011. Rob was a standout golfer for the Tigers, while Jane was one of the most decorated swimmers in school and conference history. The elder Chapman was a four-year letter winner on the men's golf team. He earned a pair of T.I.C. Individual Championships, earning wins his sophomore and senior season, and was part of two CAC Championship teams. Chapman was the CAC individual runner-up in 1970 and won the tournament outright in 1972. Jane holds 11 SCAC swimming titles, more than any person in conference history. She is still the school record holder in four events (50 free, 100 free, 200 free, and 500 free) and holds SCAC records in the 200 and 500 freestyles. She is still ranked in the top-five in five conference events. Jane was the SCAC Female Swimmer-of-the-Year three times and in 1999 she became the SCAC's first-ever All-American female swimmer after placing sixth in the 200 free at the NCAA Division III Championships. She repeated as an All-American in 2000.

Jody Gee, C'61, played tackle for the Tiger football team for four seasons, earning three letters under legendary coach Shirley Majors. Gee served as captain of the 1960 squad and was a letterman on the 1958 team that went 8-0. Gee was honored as an All-American at tackle in 1960.

Eight Division III Southeastern Colleges To Form New Athletic Conference

Seven members of the NCAA Division III Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference (SCAC) announced this week that they are leaving the conference effective July 1, 2012, to form a new athletic conference beginning with the 2012-13 season. The announcement was made in Atlanta at the 2011 annual meeting of SCAC presidents.

Spanning six states, the new conference will include Birmingham-Southern College in Alabama, Centre College in Kentucky, Hendrix College in Arkansas, Millsaps College in Mississippi, Oglethorpe University in Georgia, and Rhodes College and Sewanee. Joining them to create the new eight-member conference will be Berry College in Rome, Ga.

The new conference is being formed to foster athletic competition and cooperation among academically selective, residential liberal arts colleges located in the southeastern region of the United States. The geographic focus will result in reduced travel time and costs, while still allowing for a strong conference of like-minded institutions, all of which integrate competitive athletics into the whole of the student's educational experience.

"Given the success of the SCAC over the last 20 years, the decision to start anew was difficult," said University of the South Vice-Chancellor John McCardell. "This is a positive move for Sewanee and for its scholar-athletes. We are pleased to be joining these other seven small liberal arts institutions in a new conference that will be a good fit academically and athletically."

Formed in 1991, the SCAC grew out of the College Athletic Conference, which was formed in 1962 by three of the colleges in the new conference (Centre, Rhodes and Sewanee). The new conference will continue in this same tradition of academic and athletic excellence.

Jay Gardiner, who currently serves as athletics director at Oglethorpe, will serve as the new conference's interim commissioner. Oglethorpe president Lawrence Schall, who currently chairs the SCAC executive committee, will serve as convener of the conference's Presidential Council during the 2011-12 academic year. Brian Chafin, athletics director at Centre, will serve as convener of the Athletics Director Council in 2011-12.

The new conference's first official meeting took place immediately following the conclusion of the 2011 annual SCAC meeting.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

The Brown Thrasher's Song

Brown Thrashers are year-round inhabitants of Sewanee and like mockingbirds, mimic the calls and songs of other birds, including lost baby chickens. Their songs can be distinguished from those of the mockingbird by counting the number of times the syllables of the mimicked tunes are repeated. The thrasher sings in couplets, while the mocker repeats each syllable at least four or five times. Listen to each bird. Thrashers are in many yards in Sewanee. A mocker inhabits the trees by the Sewanee post office and sings high up on a tree or house roof. Thrashers feed on the ground, scratching the dry leaves to get insects, worms and small lizards. Mockers like berries and insects, both flying and on trees. Thrashers are incorrectly called Long-tailed Thrasher, which is in a different bird family. Look for the spotted white chest and rusty head, tail and back. The nest can be on the ground or in a brush pile, bush or small tree. It is composed of twigs, rootlets and leaves. The eggs are quite pretty, thickly speckled with tiny speckles in cinnamon or rufous brown, and three to six in number.

Animal Harbor Joins Program to Save Dogs

Earlier this week, a PetSmart Charities Rescue Waggin' vehicle arrived at the Franklin County Humane Society Animal Harbor in Belvidere to pick up 21 dogs and puppies for a ride that will save their lives.

Since May, 2010, Animal Harbor has sent homeless dogs and puppies aboard the Rescue Waggin' vehicle for transport to other animal shelters where there are more adopters seeking dogs. So far, the Humane Society has sent 181 dogs on this lifesaving ride to a new shelter. Dogs are generally adopted within a week of arriving at the new shelter.

"Our mission is to save pets' lives," said Pat Thompson, president of the board of Animal Harbor. "Until we can get everyone to sterilize their pets, the Rescue Waggin' program will continue to be an important tool to help us save more lives every month." PetSmart Charities Rescue Waggin' program operates under professionally developed industry standards for humane transport. As one of 60 shelter partners in the program, Animal Harbor is also eligible for funding to expand spay/neuter services for cats and dogs, as well as receive professional consultation to improve shelter facilities and operations.

The Rescue Waggin' Program provides animal shelters with a viable alternative to euthanasia. More than 45,000 dogs and puppies have been saved nationwide since the program began in 2004.

June is Adopt-A-Shelter-Cat Month

To celebrate Adopt-a-Shelter-Cat Month, Animal Harbor is offering a substantial discount on the adoption fee for adult cats for the entire month of June.

For some families, a cat is better pet choice than a dog because they are a little easier to care for. Cats are very clean, make great companions and are great at keeping mice away.

Animal Harbor has dozens of cats from which to choose. They have a special room where visitors can go in and socialize with the free-roaming cats. They have cats of every color, size and personality. In the intake cages, there are many new cats and plenty of spring kittens that will be ready for adoption soon. In the cat community room, there are lots of adult cats and older kittens.

Tokkie is a cat who really stands out. She is always snuggled on the boss's lap or in her chair... she must be really special to have that privilege, so why is she still at the shelter? Perhaps because one of her rear legs had to be amputated three years ago. This doesn't seem to bother Tokkie—the only restriction she has is that she must stay inside.

Please visit Animal Harbor to find the perfect cat for you. All of Animal Harbor's cats are already spayed or neutered.

"When you adopt a cat from a shelter, you not only get the pleasure of knowing that you gave one cat a good home, you also open up a space for the shelter to save another life, so you've really helped two cats, not just one," organizers said.

 When you are out getting your exercise, following a few simple rules will keep you on the go. When biking on Sewanee sidewalks, cyclists should slow down when passing pedestrians since some may not hear a warning bike bell and know to step to the right. Walkers should walk on the left-hand side of the road, traveling against the traffic; bicyclists should travel in the right-hand lane, going with the flow of traffic. During the day, both walkers and bikers should wear clothing of bright, easily seen colors, and, from dusk on, wear light, reflective clothing. In any case, don't just assume drivers can see you. Be on the lookout ... for your own safety.

BARD TOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

... There wasn't any real change, it was just a heat spell,
A rain spell, a funny summer, a weather-man's joke,
In spite of the geraniums three feet high
In the tin-can gardens of Hester and Desbrosses.
New York was New York. It couldn't turn inside out.
When they got the news from Woods Hole about the Gulf Stream,
The Times ran an adequate story.
But nobody reads those stories but science cranks....

Talking with an old watchman, beside the first
Raw girders of the new Planetopolis building
(Ten thousand brine-cooled offices, each with shower)
He saw a dark line creeping across the rubble
And turned a flashlight on it.

"Say, buddy," he said,
"You better look out for those ants. They eat wood, you know, They'll have your shack down in no time."

The watchman spat.
"Oh, they've quit eating wood," he said, in a casual voice,
"I thought everybody knew that."

—and reaching down,
He pried from the insect's jaws the bright crumb of steel.

—From "Metropolitan Nightmare"
by Stephen Vincent Benét (1898–1943)
