RAM Free Medical Clinic Serves Hundreds at Fowler

More than 500 people were seen at the Remote Area Medical (RAM) dental, vision and medical clinic on May 19–20 at the Fowler Center. All services were free, with no eligibility requirements, and were offered on a first-come, first-served basis. The clinic was hosted by the Franklin and Grundy County Health Councils and the University.

"We were overwhelmed by expressions of gratitude," said Ty Wilkinson, the event's organizer. He said they were thanked by "people who had slept in their cars overnight to wait patiently for hours on bleachers before exiting Fowler with mouths packed full of gauze and/or wearing new eyeglasses." By Sunday afternoon, he said, "most of us felt that we should be thanking them for what we had received."

The RAM clinic was intended for those without medical insurance or those who are under-insured, unemployed, under-employed, and/or cannot afford to pay. It was held at the Fowler Center. The clinic opened at 6 a.m. each day, with patients arriving late the night before to secure a ticket for services and a place in line.

Transforming the Fowler Center into a clinic required months of preparation, an effort led by Marty Hawkins, Laurie Kianka and Reggie Vachon. Bruce Baird recruited more than 20 dentists; Laurie Saxton and Parker Oliver coordinated communications; and Kana Goldsmith solicited food donations to maintain a break room for the volunteers who worked long hours.

The clinic provided services to 525 patients; about 85 percent were from Franklin, Marion, Grundy or surrounding counties. A small percentage of patients came from out of state. There were 749 total medical, dental or vision service "encounters" over the two-day clinic. Almost half the services provided were dental, with significant activity in vision care as well. The value of the services provided is estimated at $220,478.

Almost 250 volunteers participated, including about 100 medical professionals and more than 130 other volunteers (including 25 Sewanee students). Medical professionals came from Kansas, Illinois, New York and Florida, as well as from across Tennessee. Most of the non-medical volunteers were from the local area.

Council Approves Garbage Contract with Long

Resolution on Quarry and Bylaw Revision Pending

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the May 21 meeting, the Sewanee Community Council approved a four-year contract for garbage service with Joe B. Long. The council deferred a vote on a resolution defining the Council's position on a proposed rock quarry in the Greenhaw community and on a bylaw revision altering residence requirements for council members.

Providing background on garbage collection in Sewanee, University chief financial officer Jerry Forster said Joe B. Long, who has provided the service for many years, reduced his rate last year from $24.85 to $22 per month to remain competitive with a bidder based in Winchester. Long agreed to keep the rate at $22 for the coming year and proposed a $.75 per year increase in July of 2013, 2014 and 2015. After discussion, the Council approved a four-year contract at the fixed rate that Long requested for the next two years, with the rate in the third and fourth year subject to negotiation. Council representative Chet Seigmund proposed that low-income residents not be charged for garbage collection. Vice-Chancellor John McCardell said the possible impact of that policy on other services needed to be considered. Representative Theresa Shackelford said the Community Action Committee often addressed the needs of low-income residents. The council will take up the issue again at the June meeting.

Council representative Annie Armour presented a resolution supporting "the efforts of the Greenhaw community to prevent Tinsley Company from constructing a rock quarry and asphalt plant in Greenhaw." [See adjacent story.] Representative Michael Hurst expressed concern that too little was known about what measures the Greenhaw community was taking to prevent the construction. Vice-Chancellor McCardell echoed Hurst's position, saying it was not clear from the resolution what the Council was supporting. Provost John Swallow will convene a committee composed of Armour and council representative David Coe to revise the resolution for the June meeting.

The Council approved that Hurst serve as election officer for the coming year. Swallow proposed a resolution to the Council's bylaws about the residential requirements of council members. Currently, the bylaws state that council representatives need to reside in the district for which they seek election. Due to a misunderstanding, Hurst was elected to serve as a District 1 representative, although he resides in District 4. To enable Hurst to continue to serve in District 1, Swallow proposed the bylaw be revised to read, "A person seeking election as a district representative must live in the district or on either side of a boundary street."

The Council will vote on the bylaws revision in June.

Citing an incident where a resident's dog was mangled by strays, Seigmund questioned what measures could be taken to prevent such occurrences. Police Chief Robert White

SAS Alumni Weekend Begins

St. Andrew's-Sewanee hosts 350 alumni and friends on the Mountain today for the school's annual Alumni Weekend, June 1–3.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee, formed by the merger of Sewanee Academy and St. Andrew's School in 1981, welcomes the alumni of its parent schools, including St. Mary's School and the Sewanee Military Academy (SMA). Although milestone reunions (such as the 5th and 25th) will be well-represented, many SAS alumni make this an annual trip.

Live jazz and dinner kicks off the weekend on Friday. The Classes of 1962 from St. Andrew's, St. Mary's and SMA will celebrate their 50th reunion.

Saturday's highlights include films and performances, ballroom dancing, swimming and canoeing, and skeet. The weekend concludes on Sunday morning with a Holy Eucharist service at St. Andrew's Chapel and brunch.

Several Saturday events are open to the public. At 10:30 a.m., there will be a screening of the documentary film "The Final Salute" by John Scanlan (SMA '58) in McCrory Hall. At 1:30 p.m., there will be an Alumni Weekend Creative Expression Assembly in McCrory in honor of long-time SAS faculty member Barbara Carden.

Stuart Harrod (SAS '82) and the Culprits will offer a rolling concert (on the backs of bikes) on the Mountain Goat Trail at 2:30 p.m., beginning at the SAS end. Harrod is the founder of Folkbike Re-cyclery, a non-profit that recycles and redistributes bikes and publicizes its work through moving concerts.

On Sunday, beginning at 9:15 a.m., the Highlander Drum and Pipe Corps from Chattanooga will accompany SMA alumni in the annual re-enactment of their Sunday marches from Quintard Hall to All Saints' Chapel. People are encouraged to line University Avenue to observe the event.

This year's Distinguished Alumni Award will be given posthumously to award-winning filmmaker and undersea photographer Mike deGruy (SMA '70). DeGruy produced and hosted films for the BBC, PBS, National Geographic and the Discovery Channels. He died in a plane crash last February while on assignment in Australia. There will also be several memorial services, including the liturgy for Peggy Martin, widow of the Rev. Franklin Martin, former St. Andrew's headmaster.

Keep Greenhaw Green Fights Rock Quarry

People living along Greenhaw Road, near Decherd and the Alto community, are fighting plans for a rock quarry on 181 acres acquired by the owner of Tinsley Asphalt Company. The area is west of the Domain in the valley, between Old Alto Road and Highway 41A.

On July 19, a vote will be held to determine whether to strip-annex the land to the city of Decherd in order for it to be rezoned as industrial to allow for the quarry. The only Decherd residents who will be allowed to vote are two members of the Tinsley family.

A group of residents who own property adjacent to the quarry site has filed a temporary restraining order to halt the July election. Circuit Judge J. Curtis Smith postponed making a decision at the "show cause hearing" about the restraining order on May 30.

Statewide Organizing for Community eMpowerment (SOCM) members joined Greenhaw Road residents when they formed the Keep Greenhaw Green Coalition to coordinate a sustained campaign opposing the quarry. The group has been active since 2010 and will continue to fight plans for the quarry. SOCM members and residential groups are concerned, not only about the disregard for fair processes that is occurring in Decherd, with only members of the Tinsley

Letters

THANK YOU FROM SES To the Editor:

To our parents and the myriad of volunteers, "Thank you for another successful school year." It is you who make Sewanee Elementary School such a special place for our children. From our Friday School volunteers, reading tutors, science fair judges, Partners in Education, to our parent volunteers and coaches, we wouldn't be SES without you.

To quote from the last line of the SES Alma Mater, "Friends forever, learning ever, SES all hail." We are truly a community of learners. I consider myself most fortunate to be part of the team."

MANY MADE RAMA SUCCESS To the Editor:

We would like to express our profound gratitude to all who served in the RAM clinic held in Sewanee May 19–20. The clinic was an extraordinary event that brought together more than 100 people from our community to work with RAM and other volunteers to provide much-needed dental, vision and medical services to our neighbors.

Under the direction of Ty Wilkinson, members of the county health councils, the Sewanee community, and University staff participated in months of planning and preparation.

Twenty-five Sewanee students, led by Dixon Myers, returned to campus after classes had ended to help set up, work and break down the clinic. Volunteers rose well before dawn and worked 13-hour shifts. They spent the night in parking lots to greet patients as they arrived, shuttled patients to the Fowler Center, and registered them for services beginning at 5:30 a.m. Others worked in triage, the vision, dental and medical clinics, and guided patients through stations.

Many helped Chef Rick Wright and Sarah Gunn serve healthy delicious meals to more than 200 volunteers. The Sewanee Police Department coordinated security throughout the weekend, which passed without incident.

All of this was made possible by a University administration that enthusiastically supported the idea.

In the end, more than 500 patients were served, many our neighbors, coworkers and family of children with whom our kids play and attend school. What started out as a "project" unfolded as a gift. We were overwhelmed by the gratitude shown by patients and gratified to share this experience with those whose paths don't normally cross our own. We recognized the needs of our neighbors and worked closely together as only a true community can. So, thank you to all for making this clinic a success. We were humbled and privileged to work alongside you.

Promoting Small Business Success in SE Tennessee

Southeast Tennessee Development District, in partnership with the Chambers of Commerce from Marion County, Grundy County, Monteagle Mountain, Sequatchie County and Bledsoe County, held an Entrepreneurial Resource Rally in May in Kimball.

The event was based on the idea of "Planting Seeds of Success for Small Businesses." Opening remarks were made by Marion County Mayor John Graham; Monteagle Mayor Marilyn Nixon was also in attendance. Discussions were held between the audience and the panelists, who included: Cindy Day (Dutch Maid Bakery, Tracy City); Hoyle and Ann Heiskell (Clean Sweep, Jasper); Jerry Don Thomas (First Community Financial, Monteagle); Jim Harmon (Monteagle Inn, Monteagle); Bruno Durant (Silver Bait Farm, Altamont); Jess Wilson (Cumberland Farmers' Market, Sewanee).

Representatives from the following businesses and agencies also attended: the Small and Minority-Owned Business Assistance Program, the Southeast Industrial Development Association, the Small Business Development Center, USDA Rural Development program, the Company Lab and the Enterprise Center of Chattanooga, University of Tennessee Extension office, the Babson Center for Global Commerce at the University of the South, and Citizens TriCounty Bank. Breakfast, lunch and snacks were provided by Carol's Southern Country Cooking of Jasper, the Dixie Freeze in South Pittsburg and Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City. Chip Manning, director of the Babson Center, was the keynote speaker; he spoke on the "Five P's of Entrepreneurship: Passion, Perseverance, Patience, People and Purpose."

Food Vendors, Crafters and Floats Needed

Come be part of Sewanee's 26th annual Fourth of July celebration, "A Yankee Doodle Fourth."

Here's how: If you would like to exhibit at the crafts fair, call Bracie Parker at (931) 691-4791 by June 10.

If you would like to be a food vendor, contact Birdie McBee at 598-9798 before June 30.

If your group would like to have a float in the parade, call Tracy Hall at (931) 636-3266.

All craft and food vendors must be pre-registered to participate in this year's Fourth of July celebration.

Mark your calendars for the best Fourth of July celebration on this or any other planet. Guaranteed.

Jump Off Fire Hall Potluck and Fund-Raiser

Jump Off Fire Hall's potluck dinner and fund-raiser will be at 5:30 p.m., on Friday, June 15, at the Fire Hall. Bring a side dish or dessert and a donation for the project. Main dishes and drinks will be provided.

This event will raise money to purchase a mini-pumper truck, which has four-wheel drive and a 250-gallon carry capacity. It will enable firefighters to navigate difficult roads and driveways more quickly to begin fire suppression in advance of the larger trucks.

German Seminar in Sewanee

Sommer in Sewanee, a German language and cultural seminar, returns to Sewanee on June 17, with Richard Apgar of Chattanooga and Roland Fischer of Linz, Austria, serving as co-directors.

"The seminar is an exciting opportunity for teachers of German, students and other German speakers to use German in a total immersion environment," Fischer said.

The topic for 2012 is "Wanderlust: Reisen in Deutschland, Österreich und der Schweiz." It will explore the German fascination with traveling and offer workshops on the many beautiful regions in the German-speaking world.

All programs of the seminar are open to the public and commence daily through June 30 at 10:30 a.m. in the Gailor Hall Language Lab on the University campus. A full schedule is available at <http://german.sewanee.edu/about/sommer/>.

Grundy County Historical Society Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of Members of the Grundy County Historical Society will be at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 9, at the Heritage Center located at 465 Railroad Ave. in Tracy City. The public is welcome. Jack Murrah, the former president of Lyndhurst Foundation in Chattanooga, will address the meeting on "Strengthening Community with a Community Foundation." The Lyndhurst Foundation was instrumental in the revitalization of Chattanooga. Murrah now lives in Monteagle and is on the steering committee of the Community Fund of the South Cumberland Plateau.

Board elections will be held after the presentation. Nominations may be made from the floor. The following people have been nominated: vice president—Lanny Bell of Tracy City; chair of the Tennessee Consolidated Coal Company Library and Research Center committee—Janelle L. Taylor of Pelham; chair of the publications and publicity committee—Sue Bouldin Parrott of Tracy City; director at large (from the membership)—Michael Brady of Tarlton Valley; director at large (from the community)—Von Unruh of Monteagle.

Jansenius Honored For Communications Leadership

Jeanne Jansenius, the University's director of telecommunications and technology infrastructure services, has been honored with a special award by ACUTA, the Association for Information Communications Technology Professionals in Higher Education.

The Ruth A. Michalecki Leadership Award recognizes outstanding leadership by a member. Jansenius has been an ACUTA member since 1995, serving the organization as President in 2002–03. Jansenius has worked at the University since 1989.

"ACUTA is strong because its members are not only very capable, but are also willing to share their leadership skills and their technology and management expertise," said Corinne Hoch, Executive Director of ACUTA. "Jeanne is a tremendous asset to ACUTA and a role model to many. We are honored to recognize her contributions to our association."

Church News

Christ Church, Monteagle

The last of the great feasts or celebrations of Christian festivals until Transfiguration in early August will be kept at Christ Church Monteagle on June 3. On this Sunday both children and adults will carry icons and symbols of the Holy Trinity. Several hymns were written especially for Trinity Sunday, and some will be sung that day.

Christ Church's Wednesday service at noon will continue all summer, as will the 10:30 a.m. Sunday service followed by lunch. Sometimes people cannot arrive in time for the services, but are welcome to come for the meal.

Fire on the Mountain

Fire on the Mountain will host a party, 4-6 p.m., Wednesday, June 6, at St. Mark's Community Center for residents of the neighborhood. This event is part of Fire on the Mountain's "Mission Week on the Mountain." For more information contact Betty Carpenter at 598-5926.

First Baptist, Monteagle

First Baptist Church of Monteagle is hosting "Day Camp for K.A.'s (Kids in Action)" on Thursday, June 14. The day will include a picnic and games. Four student missionaries from the Duck River Baptist Association will be present. The camp is for children ages 3 through 12; adults are welcome to help.

For more information, call Jennifer Smiley at (931) 924-4054.

Otey Parish

On Sunday, June 3, Otey Parish will remember Trinity Sunday with the celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 8:50 a.m. and 11 a.m. During the Sunday School hour, the Lectionary Class, led by Pete Trenchi, will explore John 3:1-17, the story of Jesus and Nicodemus. Child care is available from 8:30 a.m. until after the coffee hour, which follows the second service.

Trinity, Winchester

Trinity Episcopal Church in Winchester will host a gospel concert with Archeen Larry and the Mt. Sinai Missionary Baptist Church Choir today, June 1. There will be a potluck dinner beginning at 5 p.m., with the singing beginning at 6:30 p.m. This is a free concert and all are welcome; please bring a covered dish to share. Trinity is located at 213 1st. Ave. NW, just off the square. Other musical events are being planned for the community for the summer.

CAC Pantry Sunday

Pantry Sunday for the Community Action Committee (CAC) is Sunday, June 3 for participating churches: St. James, Otey, Cumberland Presbyterian and All Saints' Chapel.

Please bring your food offerings to Sunday services.

The typical bag of groceries includes: rice, beans, pasta, macaroni and cheese, peanut butter, and cans of vegetables, fruit and soup. The cost for a complete bag is less than $15.

Sewanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties Water Quality Report 2011

Is my drinking water safe?

Yes, our water meets all of EPA's health standards. We have conducted numerous tests for over 80 contaminants that may be in drinking water. As you'll see in the chart below, we detected only 11 of these contaminants. We found all of these contaminants at safe levels.

What is the source of my water?

Your water, which is surface water, comes from Lakes O'Donnell and Jackson. Our goal is to protect our water from contaminants and we are working with the State to determine the vulnerability of our water source to potential contamination. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) has prepared a Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP) Report for the untreated water sources serving this water system. The SWAP Report assesses the susceptibility of untreated water sources to potential contamination. To ensure safe drinking water, all public water systems treat and routinely test their water. Water sources have been rated as reasonably susceptible, moderately susceptible or slightly susceptible based on geologic factors and human activities in the vicinity of the water source. The Sewanee Utility District of Franklin and Marion Counties (SUD) sources rated as slightly susceptible to potential contamination.

An explanation of Tennessee's Source Water Assessment Program, the Source Water Assessment summaries, susceptibility scorings and the overall TDEC report to EPA can be viewed online at www.state.tn.us/environment/dws/dwassess.shtml, or you may contact the Water System to obtain copies of specific assessments.

Why are there contaminants in my water?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. Community water systems are required to disclose the detection of contaminants; however, bottled water companies are not required to comply with this regulation. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

For more information about your drinking water, please call Water Superintendent James Smartt at 598-5201.

Este informe contiene información muy importante. Tradúscalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

How can I get involved?

Our Board of Commissioners meets on the fourth Tuesday of every month at 5:00 PM at the Utility Office. Please feel free to participate in these meetings. The SUD Board is elected and consists of five members. Each member serves a four-year term. Decisions by the Board on customer complaints brought before the Board under the District's complaint policy may be reviewed by the Utility Management Review Board of the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation pursuant to Section 7-82-703 (7) of Tennessee Code Annotated. You can also visit our website, <www.sewaneeutility.org>, for more information.

Is our water system meeting other rules that govern our operations?

The State and EPA require us to test and report on our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety. We have met all of these requirements. Results of unregulated contaminant analysis are available upon request. We want you to know that we pay attention to all the rules.

Other Information

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation prescribe regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. SUD's water treatment processes are designed to reduce any such substances to levels well below any health concern. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Due to all water containing dissolved contaminants, occasionally your water may exhibit slight discoloration. We strive to maintain the standards to prevent this. We at SUD work around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect our water sources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life and our children's future.

Do I need to take special precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice from their health care providers about not only their drinking water, but food preparation, personal hygiene, and precautions in handling infants and pets. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead in Drinking Water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. The Sewanee Utility District is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Water System Security

Following the events of September 2001, we realize that our customers are concerned about the security of their drinking water. We urge the public to report any suspicious activities at any utility facilities, including treatment plants, pumping stations, tanks, fire hydrants, etc., to 598-5611.

Water Quality Data

What does this chart mean?

- MCLG: Maximum Contaminant Level Goal, or the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- MCL: Maximum Contaminant Level, or the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.
- MRDL: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level: the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.
- MRDLG: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal: the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- BDL: Below Detection Level: laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present at a level that can be detected.

Contaminant	Violation Yes/No	Level Detected	Range of Detections	Date of Sample	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Total Coliform Bacteria	NO	1		2011		0	<2 positive samples	Naturally present in the environment

Halocetic Acids (HAA5)	NO	26	13-43	2011	ppb	N/A	60	By-product of drinking water disinfection.
Total Organic Carbon ⁵	NO	1.00	1.00-1.00	2011	ppm	TT	TT	Naturally present in the environment.

Contaminant	Violation Yes/No	Level Found	Range of Detections	Date of Sample	Unit Measurement	MRDLG	MRDL	Likely Source of Contamination
Chlorine	NO	1.9	.90-2.4	2011	ppm	4	4	Water additive used to control microbes.

- AL: Action Level, or the concentration of a contaminant which, when exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l): explained as a relation to time and money as one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter: explained as a relation to time and money as one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- NTU: Nephelometric Turbidity Unit: nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.
- TT: Treatment Technique, or a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

During the most recent round of Lead and Copper testing, 0 out of 20 households sampled contained concentrations exceeding the action level.

² Infants and young children are typically more vulnerable to lead in drinking water than the general population. It is possible that lead levels at your home may be higher than at other homes in the community as a result of materials used in your home's plumbing. If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, you may wish to have your water tested and flush your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using tap water. Additional information is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

³ Nitrate in drinking water at levels above 10 ppm is a health risk for infants of less than six months of age. High nitrate levels in drinking water can cause blue baby syndrome. Nitrate levels may rise quickly for short periods of time because of rainfall or agricultural activity. If you are caring for an infant you should ask advice from your health care provider.

⁵ We have met all treatment technique requirements for Total Organic Carbon removal.

A VIEW FROM THE DUMP

by Francis Walter

I have salvaged three items from the Dump, not counting the big tin cans I use for cleaning paint brushes.

One is a roll of fence wire which is endlessly useful. The other two are a cast-iron frying pan and a cast-iron Dutch oven from the "Tin and Steel" bin. The frying pan took a lot of work with a steel brush, then a fresh curing. I gave the Dutch oven to friends who will not cook in aluminum.

The "Tin and Steel" bin, my favorite, is always the last place I visit. Some day I may even find there a 1930s Diehl oscillating electric fan with brass blades, just like my grandmother's.

There is now a sign on that bin telling people not to walk into it. One side is open, leaving three sides closed, and the sides are tall. If you are inside rooting around and someone innocently throws some metal over a high side, you could get hurt. I only go in after checking to see that no one is approaching.

Walking to my pickup truck one day with a trifling thing I'd salvaged, someone called out in a helpful tone, "You better watch it. You're not supposed to do that."

He directed me to a new posting on the bulletin board attached to the small house the Dump manager uses. It bore the full authority of Franklin County declaring that, like Hades, anything could come into the Dump, but no Orpheus should try to take anything out.

This was a Rule.

Serious.

Throw a rule at me, and it enters my soul. But I heard myself telling my fellow dumpster that I would disobey that rule the minute I saw something I or a friend could use.

Let them arrest me. I will fight.

confirmed that Sewanee had a leash law stating that dogs must be restrained or under control of their owner. The police pick up unrestrained and untended dogs and make an effort to locate their owners. The fine for the first violation is $100 and $150 for the second violation. After a third violation, the dog must be removed from the Domain.

A visitor expressed concern about the job security of employees at the Sewanee Market since the University has purchased the business. Forster said the business was leased through December and after that time, on a month-by-month basis. The University, Forster said, had no voice in hiring or firing employees at the present. Future use of the Market is being reviewed by the urban planners who will make a recommendation later this year. Representative Shirley Taylor said that when the bookstore changed hands, she was given the option of staying on as a University employee.

The next meeting of the Community Council is scheduled for Monday, June 25.

family being allowed to vote, but also the environmental destruction the quarry could cause.

"This area offers a plethora of spectacular places to hike, cave, fish, hunt and breathe fresh air in quiet surroundings," SOCM member Philip Lorenz said. "It also has its share of lower income residents struggling to make ends meet. But the last thing Franklin County needs is another quarry, especially when it is being railroaded down people's throats, and leaving the residents of Greenhaw with no way to have a fair say over their part of the community."

Beverly Campbell-Meaker, a SOCM member who lives in Decherd, said she was worried that the approval of a quarry on Greenhaw Road would represent a setback for her community.

"I feel it will destroy the good works that have gone into building up the community, as well as being a trashy and unsightly eyesore in what is now a beautiful natural area," Campbell-Meaker said. "I am sure there are already resources available for obtaining rocks, gravel and such without destroying this part of the Greenhaw community."

Georgia Hewitt, a SOCM member in the nearby community of Alto, questioned the wisdom of industrial activity in this corner of Franklin County, especially when weighed against the potential damage to the environment and the standard of living for people in the area.

"I believe it is a guise for greed and market domination at the cost of our local watersheds and quality of life," Hewitt said. "I would never live near a quarry. I would fear for the stability of the land, the noise and the negative effect on livestock and crops."

LIKETO WATCH

by Kiki Beavers

Reunion

There are moments that come along and define your life. It could be something as simple as a line from a book, a verse from a song, or a scene from a movie that takes you back to a specific place and a time. Usually, these "aha" moments make me think of old friends, and how people have come in and out of my life.

Molly, Linda, Sue, Allison, Kim and I were inseparable at school. We were roommates, teammates and classmates. The six of us went through everything together. We played rousing games of backgammon and spades. We consoled each other through hardships and stupid boy troubles. We could talk to each other as best friends, sisters and competitors. During school breaks, we went to Molly's or to Kim's house for a visit. The six of us were a family, and Sewanee Academy was our home.

It was during our junior year when the final talks and the subsequent merger of the two boarding schools on the Mountain happened. Although I disagreed with the idea, the reality was that two boarding schools could not be sustained on the Mountain.

Instead of being worried about tests, college applications and SAT dates, we wondered from which school would we graduate during that tumultuous year. Together with other students, and some alumni and faculty, we tried to make our voice heard opposing the merger. We called school trustees. We wrote letters. We attended meetings. We strategized over the lunch table. We fought back with everything a group of teenagers could come up with. We tried to save our school family and our home.

A couple of weeks after the merger was approved, the six of us sat in a movie theatre watching "Taps." The movie stars Timothy Hutton (who earned a Golden Globe nomination for his portrayal of Cadet Major Moreland), and Tom Cruise and Sean Penn at the beginning of their movie careers. "Taps" was considered a teen drama, but Oscar winners George C. Scott ("Patton") and Hutton ("Ordinary People") are in leading roles. The movie is beautifully filmed, and one can already see the movie-star promise in Penn.

"Taps" is about honor, tradition and fighting back. In the movie, the military academy is going to be closed so that condominiums can be built on the site. The cadets take matters into their own hands to try and stop the demolition, and they have to face the real military during the siege.

"We have a home here. We think it is something worth defending," Moreland says in the film.

Watching this movie helped us reconcile the hopelessness of our situation. Sometimes you get to choose your path, and sometimes your path is chosen for you. We felt helpless when life decisions were made that were beyond our control, and wanted to do something to stop it. Not that we would have resorted to pick up arms and fight that way, but it felt good to consider another option through watching the film. This was our home, and we were right to defend it.

Five of us went to another school for our senior year, St. Mary's College in Raleigh. Molly stayed here to attend the newly merged school. Of the six, only three have ever returned back to our precious Mountain.

For a while, the Academy campus just sat there. Vacant. Gray. Sacred. Cold. It was too much to even drive by our previous home during those early years of the merger. We would never, ever, be together like that again.

As the latest SAS alumni weekend approaches, Molly will be back for her reunion, and what I consider to be my 30th high school reunion. She is part of my family, and the Mountain is still my home. I do not think she would want to see "Taps" again, but she would understand why I would like to watch.

Evans Research Paper Accepted for Academic Journal

Will Evans of Sewanee, a 2012 graduate of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, has had a research paper accepted for publication in the peer-reviewed journal, "Papers and Pubs: Interdisciplinary Journal of Undergraduate Research" published by North Georgia College & State University.

His manuscript is about sponges and brittlestars in Belize ("Distribution and abundance of Ophiothrix suensonii on sponge vs. non-sponge habitat at Whale Shoals patch reef, Belize"). He also received honorable mention for a poster in the Zoology section of the Tennessee Academy Sciences last fall.

The editor of the journal wrote to Evans, "We are proud to showcase excellent student work such as yours."

Evans is the son of Amy and Jon Evans.

SES Summer Super Reading Program Begins

The Sewanee Elementary School PTO is sponsoring a summer reading program for rising first- through fifth-graders. There are several local libraries available in order to get books of your choice to read. These libraries also have their own summer reading programs available.

The top readers in each grade will receive prizes, including a $25 gift certificate from Barnes & Noble and passes to the Franklin County Swim-plex. Barnes & Noble will also display the photos of the five winners with their favorite books in the children's section of the Sewanee store in the fall. They will also let the five winners pick a book to donate to SES Library.

A flyer containing the reading log and more information is available at the participating libraries: Thurmond Memorial Library in Otey Parish Hall, Sewanee (Monday–Friday, 9–11 a.m., 598-5926); May Justus Memorial Library, Monteagle (Mondays, 10 a.m.–6 p.m., and Tuesdays–Fridays, 8 a.m.–4 p.m., <www.librarytechnology.org/lwc-displaylibrary.pl?RC=6316>; Franklin County Public Library, Winchester (Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m.–5 p.m., and on Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m.–8 p.m.); and duPont Library in Sewanee (summer hours beginning June 11: Monday–Thursday, 8 a.m.–11 p.m., Friday 8 a.m.–8 p.m.).

A Column for Young Adult Readers and Adults Who Appreciate The Genre

by Margaret Stephens

Sherlocked!

May 6 was a significant Sunday in Sewanee. Bishop Bauerschmidt visited St. James, children everywhere began preparing for Mother's Day (right?), and the second season of "Sherlock" finally aired on PBS's Masterpiece Mystery.

Die-hard "Sherlock" fans, of course, had already YouTubed all three episodes when they came out in Britain several months ago. ("Unfair!" cried at least one viewer. "Network torture!" another.) One teen marked off the wait by folding daily origami Black Lotuses (a reference from the first season) which she taped up around (and around) her room. It was a long winter.

Why am I writing about British television when I review books? The thing is, the PBS series is doing for Sir Arthur Conan Doyle what Peter Jackson's "Lord of the Rings" film trilogy did for Tolkien. Not hurting Tolkien any, either, since Martin Freeman, who plays Sherlock's straight-man sidekick John Watson in "Sherlock," will star as Bilbo Baggins in the upcoming film "The Hobbit" (only 196 days until its release Dec. 14, but who's counting!).

Teens are reading "Sherlock Holmes," tweeting about Sherlock Holmes, blogging about Sherlock Holmes. There's a fairly intelligent podcast, "The Baker Street Babes," by a group of young women around the world that analyzes "the canon"—original Conan Doyle stories and their various adaptations—with the careful ferocity of a team of graduate students deconstructing "Moby Dick."

Television is driving teens to books.

Those of you who grew up with Granada Television's adaptation with Jeremy Brett as Holmes, set very faithfully in Victorian London, may be appalled to see that the BBC Sherlock lives at 221B Baker Street in the present day and makes fullest use of technology in his work. He is seen texting "Wrong! Wrong! Wrong!" to the journalists listening to Detective Inspector Lestrade's explanation of a series of murders and deploying Dr. Watson and wi-fi to Skype a murder scene. (So that Sherlock doesn't have to get dressed and leave his apartment.) Watson doesn't write up the cases for the Strand magazine; he blogs about them, their titles tweaked just enough to pay homage to the original stories while letting you know you're in the 21st century. (e.g. "The Geek (instead of Greek) Interpreter.")

I know I was. Appalled at the idea of a modern Sherlock, that is.

Then I watched the first episode and, well, I was hooked. The shows are fast-paced and witty; Benedict Cumberbatch as Sherlock is, to borrow a "Baker Street Babe" term, "absolutely brilliant." As are Martin Freeman's Watson, Rupert Graves' Lestrade, and, oh, yes, Andrew Scott as an incredibly evil and probably insane master criminal Moriarty (with a cell phone whose ringtone is "Stayin' Alive" from "Saturday Night Fever," proof of both his insanity and the show's weird and wacky humor).

We've had a rule in our house since forever that before you watch a film adaptation, you have to read the book. I'd make an exception in this case. If you watch "Sherlock," you're going to crave more, which can only drive you straight to Conan Doyle. You'll want to hunt for clues into the fascinatingly enigmatic Sherlock's character. And if you don't read the originals, you're going to miss half the fun, since the show drops references and inside jokes all over the place.

How can you watch "Scandal in Belgravia" and not rush to the original "Scandal in Bohemia" to find out more about the real Irene Adler? I mean, you know she couldn't have been a dominatrix in Victoria's England. After last Sunday's terrifying "Hound of the Baskervilles," you want to read for yourself what in the Conan Doyle story drives Henry Baskerville to the point of madness as, in the episode, he's made paranoid to the point of insanity by—

But you need to watch it yourself. And read. Maybe not all 56 stories plus the four novels, but at least some of the classics in the collection, "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes." Definitely "The Final Problem" from Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes" so you understand what happened at Reichenbach Falls. Which is going to make you want to read the immediate sequel, "The Adventure of the Empty House" from "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," which is going to make you want to watch the Jeremy Brett version of the same.

Which may lead you to the also-wonderful mystery novels of Laurie R. King, who gives to a 50-something retired Holmes a young female partner, beginning in "The Beekeeper's Apprentice."

All of which might turn you into a Baker Street Irregular. Or even a Baker Street Babe.

And make you as impatient as the rest of us for the final episode of season two of "Sherlock," "Reichenbach," which airs Sunday on PBS' Masterpiece Mystery.

Plateau Community Fund Now Accepting Proposals

The Community Fund of the South Cumberland Plateau (CFSCP) is now accepting proposals for its fall grant cycle. CFSCP continues to receive donations to support the effort to strengthen community and improve lives in the South Cumberland Plateau area, from Beersheba Springs to Sewanee and from Pelham to Palmer. Citizens State Bank recently donated $5,000 to CFSCP. According to CFSCP co-chair Scott Parrish, this brings the total for funds raised to date to $189,000, 76 percent of its goal.

Grants ranging from $1,000 to $15,000 will be awarded in five areas of interest: economic development (entrepreneurial incubation programs, job training and career development initiatives), basic needs (increasing access to health care, food, clothing and shelter and prevention programs), family, youth and elder support (nutrition programs, transportation and innovative early childhood initiatives), community and recreational improvements (farmers' markets, community gardens, affordable housing and support of recreation areas, state and local parks) and arts and preservation (programs in traditional folk art and music and preservation of historical landmarks).

For more information or the grant application, contact Shirley Winn, CFSCP administrator, at (931) 636-2840 or email to <admin@cfscp.org>.

Grundy Co. Rotary School Program

The Grundy County Rotary Club recently presented the "Don't METH With Us" program to all of the fifth-, sixth- and seventh-graders throughout the Grundy County School system.

The students heard from club members about the dangers of the drug methamphetamine and then watched a video of one of the Rotarians, a retired Chemistry professor, which showed how easily the chemicals used to make meth can ignite and explode. At the conclusion, each child had the opportunity to go aboard the Meth Task Force exhibit trailer to see some of the horrors of drug use.

The students received a T-shirt with the logo "We Are The Future, Don't METH With Us," a wrist band, and a Rotary Service Medal key chain. Almost 500 children participated in the program.

The Grundy County Rotary Club meets at 11:30 a.m., Tuesdays, at the Dutch Maid Bakery in Tracy City. All are welcome to attend.

We're glad you're reading the Messenger!

Grundy County Health Clinic Staff Member Honored

Daryl Adams of the Grundy County Health Department has been honored for her outstanding contributions to women's health by the National Health Service Corps (NHSC). As NHSC celebrates the 40th anniversary of its program this year, it is featuring the work of outstanding clinicians.

Adams works with the Grundy County Health Department, where she expands the reach of the clinic beyond its four walls and into the community. When she first met a patient who had never come to the clinic for a mammogram or screening, Adams knew it was her obligation to work with the clinic to raise awareness of the resources available to the community.

She presented the idea of putting up flyers and inviting women to the clinic to learn about how to get mammograms for free—an initiative that has been very successful. With the dedication and commitment of the clinic, the effort has become an annual event known as "Mountain Tops and Bottoms: A Woman's Health Event."

For many without medical coverage or reliable income, primary health care providers are essential to the prevention and treatment of major health conditions. Adams is one such provider.

Area Artists' Watercolors on Display at Artisan Depot

The featured art at the Artisan Depot gallery is work by members of Patricia Underwood's watercolor class. Members of the class with works in the show include Ruth Benson, Sherry Cardwell, Joanne Cooper, Carol Foreman, Judy Grealis, Charles Hubbard, Joanne Naylor, Jim Poteet, Mary Priestley, Jennifer Redstreak and Georgie Speers.

Underwood's interest in watercolor was sparked after taking an adult education class in the mid-1980s while living in Arizona. She knew she was hooked after the first class and continued to learn as much as she could about the medium. Her mastery of watercolor is evident in her expressive subject matter, which includes bears, marine life and the clear crisp Aspen trees of Flagstaff, Ariz., where she resided from 1982 until 2002.

Underwood has taught watercolor at the Center for the Arts in Cowan for a number of years. She is the vice-president of the Franklin County Arts Guild.

The exhibit will be up until mid-June. Artisan Depot gallery is located at 201 Cumberland St. East, Cowan. For more information call (931) 636-0169.

Rise of the Planet of the Apes

Rated PG-13 • 120 minutes • $3

"Rise of the Planet of the Apes" is a creative and interesting update of the "Apes" franchise. James Franco and Frieda Pinto star in the film, but the real star is actor Andy Serkis as the ape Caesar. Through a variety of special effects, Serkis and director Rupert Wyatt convincingly portray the ape as a creature of emotion and intelligence. The scene on the Golden Gate Bridge may rank up there with King Kong on the Empire State Building for its memorable actions on a beloved landmark. Rated PG-13 for intense and frightening sequences of action and violence.

Wind Players' Extravaganza of Chamber Music at Otey Parish

On Saturday, June 9, at 2 p.m., Otey Parish will host an afternoon of chamber music, ranging from proper to playful, from contemporary to classical with a twist, with a little bit of something for everyone.

Oboist and concert organizer Rebecca Van de Ven will be joined by fellow Sewanee faculty member Fred Nelson, trombone; freelancer Milica Nelson, cello; two members of the Nashville Symphony, James Button, principal oboe, and Roger Weismeyer, English horn; and Hunter Thomas, principal bassoonist of the Huntsville Symphony and a faculty member in the Sewanee Summer Music Festival. Their offerings will include some lively Huapangos, a near-premier of a piece by Michael Alec Rose, Mozart and the saucy rhythmic melody of Bizet's "Carmen Suite," among others.

Guests may make a tax-deductible donation to Otey Parish's Capital Campaign Fund in lieu of a ticket purchase. In addition to church activities, the parish hall is home to many other organizations such as the Sewanee Children's Center, Alcoholics Anonymous, the Thurmond Library and the Community Action Committee. More than 25 community groups use the parish hall regularly.

"Project Dance" Camp

There is still time to sign up for Project Dance, a summer dance camp for kids. The first session is June 4–8; the second session is July 16–20. It is designed for children ages 7 and older.

Children will learn about modern and improvisational dance, working with different media to tell stories through movement.

Themes planned for the June camp week are Music and Prop Day, Storytelling Day, and Performance Day. Each day there will be a modern technique class followed by working on the theme of the day through art, music, improv and dance.

For more information, including class times, or to sign up, contact instructor Debbie Welch at (423) 637-3849 and by email, <debbie@fullcirclecandles.com>.

"Feast Your Eyes" Show at In-Town Gallery

Doug McCoy will exhibit a collection of his new acrylic and ink paintings and drawings, "Feast Your Eyes," during June at In-Town Gallery. He seeks to delight the viewer through the use of minute details. The opening reception is 5–8 p.m. (EDT), today, June 1, at the Gallery.

As a lifetime resident of Chattanooga, McCoy's ink drawings are familiar to many people, but this new exhibit will feature a shift in style.

"I wanted to try some new imagery while still maintaining the level of detail my collectors love. This new work is influenced by Escher and the Pop Art movement," he explained.

By using repetition of line and design, the art invites the viewer to feast their eyes on the intimate dots and strokes. The medium is applied with small-tipped brushes and pens onto cotton canvas or cold-pressed watercolor paper.

McCoy has exhibited at the Four Bridges Arts Festival and is a top-selling artist at the Chattanooga Market. Local collectors include the TVA corporate offices and many medical professionals.

In-Town Gallery is one of the oldest cooperative galleries in the nation. It presents the original work of more than 30 regional studio artists. It is located at 26A Frazier Ave., Chattanooga. For more information, call (423) 267-9214, or visit <www.intowngallery.com>.

SAS Tennis Season Ends

In the quarterfinals of the Division IIA State Tennis Tournament on May 25, Sadie Shackelford of Sewanee fell to Claire Sullivan of St. George's Independent School, 6-2 and 6-1.

This was her fifth consecutive state tournament appearance. She was state champion in 2008 and 2009, runner-up in 2010, and semifinalist in 2011.

"Sadie ends an amazing tennis career at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School with an 85-8 singles record and a 51-3 doubles record," coach Kelley Black said. She will play tennis at Middlebury College next year.

The St. Andrew's-Sewanee boys' tennis team traveled to Jackson, Tenn., on May 17 to play University School of Jackson in the SAS boys' first substate appearance.

As the fourth-place team in the East region, SAS faced the first-place team in the West region. Unfortunately, University School proved too tough. The SAS boys lost 0-5.

The 2012 season marks the SAS boys' most successful tennis season. With all players returning next year, the team looks to continue its success.

Team members included Justin Stubblefield, Patrick Toomey, Slater Goodson, William Zhang, Joel Lee and Andrew Heitzenrater.

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School fields 26 interscholastic teams in 12 sports, plus club teams in mountain biking and dance. More than 60 percent of its students participate in sports.

These St. Andrew's-Sewanee School students were recently honored as the Most Improved Player at the SAS Spring Athletic Awards (from left): Abby Mainzer (softball); Stella Parris (softball); Levi Higgins (baseball); Preston Nephew (track and field); Andrew Heitzenrater (tennis); Nick Mays (baseball); Monica Molina (tennis) and Spencer Wilson (soccer). Tigers Earn IHSA Service Award

The Sewanee Tigers earned the inaugural Intercollegiate Horse Show Association's (IHSA) Service Award for their annual fund-raiser, "Horses in the Hood," which supports a nonprofit organization based in California that helps send inner-city children to horseback riding camp each summer.

Each year, the equestrian team raises money to send one child to one week of camp.

This past fall, Sewanee raised enough money to send two children to the camp.

Sewanee first submitted for the award in the medium team competition at the regional level. After submitting their presentation, the Tigers continued to the zone level, where they again won their division. From there, Sewanee won the first-year honor after a committee of judges ranked Sewanee's philanthropic efforts as the best in the IHSA National Show Medium Division.

"We are thrilled to win this award because we want to raise awareness of the great things that 'Horses in the Hood' is doing," said coach Megan Taylor. "Hopefully, more people will want to get involved with this organization, so that more children can benefit from time spent with horses."

Boat Shed Repurposed for Hay Barn

With the launching of Tim Keith-Lucas' boat, the Santa Catalina, the area on Breakfield Road has been returned to the University and is now called "Leroy's Loafing Barn."

Leroy is the Keith-Lucas' horse that lives at the University Equestrian Center.

"I bought Leroy when he was 19, and offered him to the Equestrian Program as a school horse," Lisa Keith-Lucas said recently. "I rode him on weekends."

Leroy was retired in May 2011 at the age of 31 after being used in Sewanee classes and has carried riders in several IHSA regional, zone and national championships. She said Leroy is a double-registered buckskin Quarterhorse (both his breed and color are registered).

Tim Keith-Lucas said, "Leroy has taught generations of beginner riders at the college, because he has the peculiar trait of doing absolutely nothing until told what to do by the rider and then doing exactly that."

About the naming of the barn, he said, "He's been loved by many, so the Loafing Barn is in his name. Lisa has been involved in the equestrian program since she was a freshman at Sewanee."

THE VISITING TEAM

by Clayton Felts

Sewanee Coaches Lead by Example

Throughout this athletic season, I have written about a number of outstanding student-athletes here at Sewanee. These include such people as Watson Fellowship recipient Blair Barrows, or Wooden Cup nominee Watson Hartsoe. These stories tell how these outstanding individuals strive to be great, both on and off the field. What is often overlooked, however, are the men and women that help to mold these student-athletes while they are here on the Mountain. These individuals, Sewanee's coaches, are often the ones teaching each Tiger student-athlete about honor, integrity, sportsmanship and commitment.

At Sewanee, our coaches teach student-athletes to be leaders in the community. By helping a student-athlete become involved in reading to local school children or helping the underprivileged abroad, coaches connect their student-athletes with community needs.

Sewanee's coaches regularly practice what they teach during Sewanee Elementary School's Friday School, which began in 1977.

Like so many others in the community who help Friday School, Sewanee men's soccer coaches David Poggi and Kelly Wolverton, men's basketball coach Bubba Smith, former football coach Robert Black and football coach Tommy Laurendine volunteered their time and give back to SES. All these men taught SES students drills, proper technique and most of all, how to have fun playing sports.

"Kelly and I look forward to Friday School every year," said Poggi. "My kids attend SES, and events such as this are what make this community such a special place to live."

"Friday School is one my favorite things I get to do each year at school," said SES third-grader Meredith Foster. "All the volunteers teach us a lot, and we have fun doing it."

More than fundamentals and skills, it was the coaches' ability to develop character and self-confidence that impressed SES principal Mike Maxon.

"Thankfully, the athletic department has always taken a keen interest in helping with this program," said Maxon. "What stands out every year is how each coach instills in our youth positive character traits such as sportsmanship, perseverance and discipline. These are the type of qualities that produce positive citizens in this ever-changing world."

Coaching is an honorable profession with a huge responsibility. At its core, coaching is not about the money or the fame. Instead, it is about helping young people figure out who they are, who they want to be and how to get there. Here at Sewanee, our coaches are no different. They are the ones standing right behind our current, and maybe future outstanding student-athletes every step of the way.

Clayton Felts is the sports information director at Sewanee.

John Shackelford is taking the summer off from writing "Overtime." His column will return in the fall.

Tell them you read it here!

Coachwhip Snake Encounter

"As I stepped out onto my porch one afternoon," reports Jean Yeatman, "I glanced down to see a coachwhip snake lying there. This is a very rare snake for this area; I have not seen one in the 62 years we have lived here.

"I called Harry to come and admire it, and he picked it up. We found it very tame, so we took it to a friend, Deb McGrath, to give to her son. She was so enamored with it, she kept it for herself. We asked if she would play with it for a few days and then let it go, which she did.

"A week later I was walking out our stone walk, and found a king snake of the milk snake variety. I picked it up, and it was very tame. It was a cold day, and it seemed to like wrapping around my arm to get warm. This is also a rare snake for our area. It eats poisonous snakes, so after admiring it, I put it back on the walk."

Large Bobcat Sighted Near Local Home

On May 25, around 5:30 p.m., a very big bobcat emerged from the wooded hillside near the home of Peggy Thoits (in the Rattlesnake Springs area) and looked up at the screened-in porch where she sat with her two dogs. Its body was brown, and it had a bobbed tail and black rings on its legs. It looked "roly-poly big," she said, "well nourished or perhaps a pregnant female." The dogs barked, the big cat looked at the porch and then turned and walked down into the cove out of sight. About an hour later Peggy heard a panicky deer making repeated alarm calls and moving rapidly through the woods on the hillside on the other side of her house.

Mountain Goat Trail & Dave's Set June Event

Dave's Modern Tavern in Monteagle, in conjunction with the Hereford Beef Association, will host a fund-raiser for the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance on Saturday, June 30.

"We are so grateful to the Hereford Beef Association and Dave's Modern Tavern for putting on this event," said Janice Thomas, board president of the Alliance. "We appreciate their support of the Mountain Goat Trail – and look forward to the day when people can ride their bikes on the trail all the way to Dave's."

Several activities are being planned as part of the event, including a walk/bike to Dave's on the Monteagle bike lanes, a lecture on the Mountain Goat Trail at the Monteagle Sunday School Assembly chapel, live music and a demonstration of rodeo roping. Watch the Messenger for more details later in June.

Pets of the Week: Meet Shawnee & Penny

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Shawnee is a beautiful adult Rottweiler girl who will make a devoted companion. She is sweet as can be and like most Rotties, she is a big baby. Shawnee is up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Lovely Penny is a Torbie kitten with big green eyes. She is a calm, quiet kitty who loves to snuggle. Penny is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor! On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets over four months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on the site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Ask about their low-income spay/neuter program.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

June 1, 1898—Birthday of John Masefield

Laugh and be merry, remember, better the world with a song,
Better the world with a blow in the teeth of a wrong.
Laugh, for the time is brief, a thread the length of a span.
Laugh, and be proud to belong to the old proud pageant of man.

Laugh and be merry: remember in olden time,
God made Heaven and Earth for joy He took in a rhyme,
Made them, and filled them full with the strong red wine of his mirth,
The splendid joy of the stars: the joy of the earth.

So we must laugh and drink from the deep blue cup of the sky,
Join the jubilant song of the great stars sweeping by,
Laugh, and battle, and work, and drink of the wine outpoured
In the dear green earth, the sign of the joy of the Lord.

—“Laugh and Be Merry” by John Masefield

The Cumberland Plateau is the world’s longest hardwood forested plateau. Widely considered one of the most biologically rich regions on earth. Rivaling the biodiversity of tropical rainforests. It is the home of Myers Point.

Seize your once in a lifetime opportunity! Many will call it a great investment. Others will call it the perfect community of like-minded neighbors. For all who desire to live surrounded by nature, history, beauty, quality and serenity, you’ll want to call it home.

- 480-acre private gated community
- 24 exclusive home sites; lakeside living or bluff vista life
- Timeless, organic, craftsman architecture standards
- Land Trust of Tennessee perpetually protected forests
- Over four miles of walking and riding trails
- Community barn, pastures, resting benches, and fire pit
- Panoramic views of Champion Cove, Lost Cove and the Cumberland Plateau
- Minutes from The University of the South
