

Arcadia at Sewanee Considering Developers, Sites

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

This summer, the Arcadia at Sewanee Board of Trustees will work to reach an agreement with one of three developers to build a planned assisted living facility.

Developers will visit Sewanee and tour potential sites this summer, and the board has requested proposals by Sept. 5, said Thomas Phelps, vice president of the Arcadia Board of Trustees.

"That's what the summer's going to be all about, evaluating developers and the developers evaluating us," Phelps said.

All three developers, which includes one nonprofit, are located within two hours of Sewanee, Phelps said. The board selected the trio based on each fully completing the required application process out of about eight developers contacted.

The timeline and site for Arcadia, as well as the size and design, are still undetermined, Phelps noted. The University has identified three sites for consideration—off Castleberry Drive near IvyWild restaurant; in a wooded area off Alabama Avenue and Highway 41A; and off Missouri Avenue behind the Convenience Center, said Frank Gladu, University of the South vice president for administrative services and ex-officio member of Arcadia's board.

SUD Approves New Sewer Adjustment Policy

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

"In order to qualify for an adjustment to their sewer bill, the customer needs to be able to verify the water did not enter the sewer collection system," said SUD Board President Charlie Smith, reviewing the stipulations of the new sewer adjustment policy approved by the board at the May 23 meeting.

Formerly one policy covered sewer and water bill adjustments, but SUD's recent decision to offer leak insurance made separate policies necessary.

To qualify for an adjustment to their sewer bill, the disputed bill must be greater than the customer's average bill over the course of the last 12 months. For qualifying adjustments, the sewer portion of the bill will be recalculated to the amount of the average bill.

On the suggestion of commissioner Randall Henley, the board limited adjustments to one per calendar year. "The sewer adjustment policy and water adjustment policy should match," Henley said, citing the water adjustment policy, which also limits adjustments to one per calendar year.

Under the new water adjustment policy, customers covered by leak insurance will only be responsible for the portion of leaked water equal to their 12-month average bill. All customers will be automatically

61st SSMF Season Begins June 17

by Bailey Basham
Messenger Staff Writer

In just a couple of weeks, more than 200 musicians from around the globe will flock to the Mountain for chances to hone in on their skills and gain performance experience.

The Sewanee Summer Music Festival (SSMF) will enter its 61st year, kicking off music classes and performances on June 17. Since 1957, the SSMF has been a space for student musicians to gain knowledge via instrumental lessons and experience performing for the community.

Every student participates in private lessons, chamber ensembles and one of the two student orchestras. More than 30 concerts are presented during the four-week festival by the student musicians and their mentor artist faculty.

Ruth Cobb, assistant director of marketing and development, has been involved with the SSMF for three summers. Cobb said that, though there have been changes through the decades, the festival's purpose first and foremost is always the students.

"The festival is known for the attention and focus given to students, with many faculty maintaining contact with their students throughout the year, offering guidance in auditions and college applications," said Cobb. "Musicians from all over the globe land here, and the festival is where many of these students will get their start, making valuable connections and gaining performing experience."

Some familiar faces, along with a few new international musicians, will fill the role of conductor each week for the 61st season of the festival.

"Everyone involved loves and is concerned with the success of the festival. It offers so much for so many people," said Cobb.

Fans of the festival will have seven opportunities to catch a performance by the faculty chamber music orchestra and four more by the student orchestra throughout the season. Winners of the Jacqueline Avenet Concerto Competition will perform on Thursday, July 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Patrons of the Sewanee Summer Music Festival should note several changes in this year's ticket sales and take advantage of considerable savings by purchasing online in advance. Tickets are available for purchase prior to the concerts on the SSMF website <ssmf.sewanee.edu> for $15. Entry will be $20 at the door.

Season tickets are available for $90 online at <ssmf.sewanee.edu>. Payment is made by credit card and the tickets may be picked up prior to any concert in the lobby of Guerry Auditorium.

SSMF is unable to accept phone orders for tickets.

Community Council Reviews Dog Policy and Council's Role

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

"I think it's time we put teeth in the dog policy," said council representative David Coe at the May 22 Sewanee Community Council meeting, calling attention to concerns of a local resident who has repeatedly suffered harassment and been bitten by unleashed dogs. The Council also discussed strategies for increasing the council's realm of influence, received an update on the proposed Greenhaw quarry and learned about plans to locate nine historical markers in the Sewanee area along the Bell Trail of Tears route.

Coe called for rigid enforcement of the current dog policy, signage making dog owners aware of the policy, and favored amending the policy to require dogs be restrained on a leash.

"Under the current dog policy, dogs must be under the owner's control," said council representative Theresa Shackelford. "I think that's adequate. Dogs on a leash can't get exercise."

"If your dogs on a leash, you must exercise with your dog," Coe countered.

Franklin County Commissioner Helen Stapleton said dogs needed a larger area than the dog park to run. "One trail or area of the domain could be designated for off-leash dogs," Stapleton suggested.

The council will take up the dog policy at a future meeting, with a view to possible amendments.

Revisiting the frequently discussed topic of the council's role, Shackelford said, "the council has become stagnant and impotent. Some council members don't participate except for coming to meetings." She attributed the apathy, in part, to the decision to meet less frequently and to the practice of the

THANK YOU TO SCHLICHTING

To the Editor:

On behalf of Housing Sewanee Inc. (HSI) we would like to express our appreciation for the collaborative work that Barbara Schlichting, former Superintendent of Leases for the University, put into our efforts to create affordable and decent housing for many residents on the domain. She was instrumental in negotiating leases for HSI clients, raised funds to raze older structures, and provided a deep understanding and pastoral presence for community leaseholders. The staff of that office operate at a professional level and often go under the radar as far as acknowledgement. Thank you and we hope you continue to serve this community in whatever capacity comes your way.

S. Dixon Myers, President, Housing Sewanee Inc. ■

COMMUNITY CHEST REACHES GOAL

To the Editor:

Thanks to all of you, the Community Chest has reached its most ambitious goal ever of $116,850!

This year's Chest will provide funds for 26 organizations that requested basic needs funding for elder care, food, books, housing, scholarships, recreational spaces, spay/neuter programs for animals, and funding for the local elementary school.

The Sewanee Civic Association has sponsored the Community Chest since 1943. Over the last decade the Community Chest has raised and given more than $1 million for local organizations.

The mission of the Sewanee Community Chest is to support those organizations who serve the common good. You wonderful donors have made more good happen in this community and we are so thankful.

Susan Holmes, on behalf of the Sewanee Civic Association ■

GAMBLING WITH HEALTHCARE

To the Editor:

I have never gambled at a casino and I do not like to gamble. But gambling is legal; that is, fair gambling. Unfair gambling is cheating, and is illegal, and might be dangerous. It has been pointed out by many people that an insurance is a (legal) gamble. You pay your premium to ensure that you will have your medical bills covered, if need be. Or, you go without paying your premium, and risk financial or physical disaster if you get sick. That is how the game is played and that is fair and legal. But suppose the insurance company decides they are not going to insure a certain segment of the population, say people who have illnesses or have a history of past illnesses. This lowers the insurer's risk and essentially "stacks the deck." The sick people have to "ante up" more money to get in the game, and the rules are different for them. This amounts to unfair gambling, which is illegal. It is cheating.

Apparently, the Republican led House of Representatives does not recognize unfairness or illegality in that the American Healthcare Act recently and narrowly passed, allows insurers to again cherry pick customers and create high risk pools of historically ill people. Excluding people from insurance who have been ill was made illegal by the Affordable Healthcare Act ("Obamacare"). Now the Republican led House seeks to make cheating legal again.

Do you want to play poker with someone who cheats and plays with a stacked deck? If your answer is no, call or write Senators Alexander and Corker and urge them to remove high risk pools from the House's version of healthcare legislation.

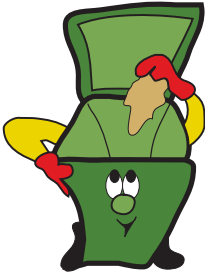

Thomas F. Phelps, M.D. Sewanee ■

Church News

Christ Church Monteagle

After the 40 days of Eastertide and the 10 days of Ascensiontide, we have arrived at the day of Pentecost. The service and the day's activities will begin around 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, and continue into the festive lunch and the early afternoon. Bishop Millsaps will be the preacher and Christ Church invites everyone to stop in and to enjoy the beauty of several new hangings and vestments in the color of red, which is surprisingly the traditional choice, in spite of the usage of "Whitsunday," which prevails in Great Britain. "Whitsun Ale" will not be served, but a wonderful punchbowl will be part of the party.

Christ Episcopal

At 10 a.m., Sunday, June 4, for the Feast of Pentecost, Trinity, Winchester and Christ Church, Alto will have a joint celebration, hosted by Alto.

The Rev. Amy Lamborn, STEM Vicar, will be the celebrant and preacher. All members are encouraged to attend this festive worship service and stay for a pot-luck brunch. (You might also wear red which is the color of the day.) There will not be a service at Trinity on June 4.

Christ the King Anglican

Christ the King Anglican Church is hosting Dave Ramsey's Financial Peace University beginning Sunday, June 4 at 2 p.m. The class is nine weeks long and will be located at 1241 Cumberland St., Decherd. Preregistration is required. Contact Erin Kunz at (931) 841-9124 or <erinckunz@icloud.com> for more information.\

Cumberland Presbyterian

Sewanee Cumberland Presbyterian Church on Cumberland Circle is celebrating its 125th anniversary at 11 a.m., Sunday, June 11. Join them at their homecoming for the worship service followed by lunch and a singing that afternoon.

Midway Baptist Church

Everyone is invited to attend Mission Adventures, which will be each Wednesday during the month of June at the Midway Baptist Church. Each week will be an adventure to four wonderful countries and learn about the Missionaries from those countries. Each week we will be introduced to a missionary from a country. We will do a craft from that country, and we will taste snacks from that country. We will also learn how we too can be a missionary wherever we go. Countries include Africa on June 7, Asia on June 14, India on June 21 and Latin America on June 28. Each week the adventures begin at 6 p.m. and will continue until 8 p.m. Ages for these adventures are 3 to adult.

Otey Parish

This Sunday, June 4, Otey will celebrate the 11 a.m. Eucharist and invites the Sewanee community to join us at Angel Park. There will be a picnic following the service and we will enjoy the music of Bazzania. Otey will provide barbecue, buns, slaw, and chips. Last names beginning A-M, bring salad or side for 6-8. Last names beginning N-Z, bring desserts. Please bring utensils, and a nonperishable food or paper item for CAC. Bring a lawn chair and water bottle and plan to come at 10:45 a.m. to set up your chairs for the service. Rain Plan: back in the church at Otey. Arcadia (from page 1)

"We're not committed to those three sites," Gladu said. "Those are the ones we've identified and the ones we've talked about. When we are able to secure a developer, the conversation with the developer is going to have a lot of input into where to locate it."

One of the issues is that land in Sewanee is on a leasehold and it remains to be seen what agreement developers can reach with the University and how that agreement will impact project financing.

Community leaders have considered an assisted living facility for many years, stemming from the fact that some elderly people in need of extra care must leave Sewanee because there is no assisted living facility here. Arcadia will feature a nursing staff onsite 24 hours per day, as well as providing lawn care, meals, transportation and other assistance.

"There are a lot of people who leave here because they don't have a choice," Phelps said. "That's what we want to stop. We want to stop the brain drain that's happening here. We're losing bright minds and that's why Arcadia was formed."

A survey process conducted by Arcadia in January and February among approximately 70 people, showed a very strong desire for assisted living here. Among the desired amenities, survey participants rated quality meal service, a space for gardening, and transportation availability high on the list.

Surveys have also shown a strong desire for an independent living option, essentially an apartment community for elderly people who require very little assistance with daily needs. Phelps said the plan is for an assisted living facility, with an independent living option a possibility.

An Arcadia working group has met regularly for more than three years and in 2016 the group formed its Board of Trustees. At its May 21 meeting, board members Louis Rice and Kathleen O'Donohue rotated off the board, and the board selected former Vanderbilt University Hospital Chief of Staff Walter Merrill and veteran consultant and fundraising specialist Jane Eaves as new board members. The board also re-appointed Linda Lankewicz as president.

Students at Sewanee Elementary participate in the annual Field Day, a highlight of the school year. SES appreciates the many parent volunteers who donate their time to help run the stations and help make the day so much fun. PE teacher David Gilliam organizes the event.

enrolled in the ServLine leak insurance program effective Aug. 1.

Customers will receive information about the program with their next three water bills. To decline participation, customers should phone (931) 386-3885. Customers declining coverage will not qualify for water bill adjustments. The insurance costs customers $1.30 per month.

To qualify for a water bill adjustment, "the leak must not be readily evident to a reasonable person," commissioner Karen Singer stressed. For full details on the leak adjustment policy visit the SUD website <www.sewaneeutility.org>. Smith said SUD manager Ben Beavers reported customer response to the decision to offer leak insurance had been "favorable."

The leak insurance does not cover waterline repair, sewer line repair, or high sewer bills resulting from leaks. Customers can independently enroll in ServLine plans offering water line repair ($4.40 per month) and sewer line repair ($6 per month) by phoning (931) 386-3885.

Reporting on customer concerns, Henley said he'd received several complaints about odor from the Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP) spray fields. Smith speculated the odor could be due to heavy rainfall and a large amount of water being pumped to keep lagoon levels manageable.

Henley will research the issue with the WWTP to determine the cause.

The board meets next on June 20. Representatives from the University of Georgia will report on the Constructed Wetlands Project at the WWTP jointly sponsored by UGA and the University of the South.

agenda committee resolving issues without council input.

"I'd like to figure out a way to use the position to be more powerful," Shackelford stressed, suggesting possible collaboration with the Business Alliance and Sewanee Civic Association.

"The council's role has always been to advise the administration," said council representative Louise Irwin.

"The problem isn't structural but cultural," Coe said. "Sewanee is a company town. People frequently hold the opinion, 'It's the University's town, and nothing can be done.'"

Swallow pointed to recent efforts to increase engagement in the council, including reapportioning representation and the Project Funding program, which allocates $10,000 annually for community enhancement to be awarded at the Council's discretion.

Shackelford said the amount of the award was perhaps "stingy" and "many of the projects proposed should likely be the University's responsibility, not the community's." Shackelford cited the example of sidewalks.

Council representative Flournoy Rogers questioned the council's rightful "focus" and pointed out, "There are no sidewalks where I live."

"I was led to believe there were efforts to move the body to more than an advisory role when I ran for a seat on the council," said representative Charles Whitmer.

Shackelford will collate the suggestions and concerns and present them to the council for review.

At the council's request, Sewanee area Franklin County Commissioners Johnny Hughes and Helen Stapleton updated the council on renewed efforts to locate a rock quarry in the Greenhaw community.

Providing background, Hughes said the Tinsley family first requested rezoning for purposes of establishing a quarry in 2008. The county commission voted down the request 12 to four. The Tinsleys then unsuccessfully pursued annexation by Cowan, Decherd, Winchester and Monteagle, hoping one of these municipalities would accommodate the rezoning request. The Tinsley's brought the request back to the commission this past March, but withdrew the petition just prior to the meeting and asked that the commission take it up in June.

"I expect a close vote," Hughes said.

Unswayed by the promise of 10 new jobs, Greenhaw residents strongly oppose the rezoning, according to Hughes. Proponents of the quarry argue competition with the other area rock provider, Rogers Group, will save the county $70,000 to $500,000 annually. Hughes, however, pointed out that the county owns a quarry and although it's only equipped to produce crusher-run rock, the quarry could be upgraded to produce all types of rock at a cost of $2-3 million.

Depending on wind directions, dust from the quarry could negatively impact the Domain, Stapleton said.

"The administration has no position on the issue," Swallow said.

"Judging from phone calls and emails, most mountain area residents oppose the rezoning," Hughes said.

Shackelford suggested the council pass a resolution affirming opposition to rezoning, but Stapleton said the gesture was unnecessary—"Johnny and I are already convinced." Both Stapleton and Hughes plan to vote against the rezoning.

The Council's next scheduled meeting is August 28.

said. "Two months ago the provost, a personal friend, contacted me. There was a position open, although different from the position I applied for previously. He asked if he could resubmit my resume."

Lonas agreed, but didn't expect anything to come of it. "No big deal, I thought." However, a request for a phone interview followed and soon afterwards an offer.

"It's similar to the position I held before I came here," Lonas explained. At Joint Special Operations University at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Fla., Lonas served as acting vice president for academic affairs. Her duties as academic dean will be overseeing faculty, academics and curriculum operations—a role her leadership as director of schools has shown her to be particularly well suited for.

"I'm sad to see Dr. Lonas go," said Franklin County School Board Chair Cleijo Walker. "She has been such a visionary and has implemented great programs for our students." According to Walker, the normal process in such circumstances is to appoint an interim director and then post the job to begin the search for a new director. "I can't give any specifics yet, as the board won't meet in official session to discuss this until June 12."

Immediately prior to her appointment at MacDill Air Force Base, Lonas served an eight month tour in Iraq as an Air Force Reserve officer. Raised in Dayton, Tenn., she earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, her master's from University of Tennessee-Knoxville, and went on to work in the Maryville and Jefferson City public schools, during her time as a principal in Jefferson City receiving an Ed.D. from Vanderbilt University.

"The board is tasked with finding someone who will continue the positive momentum that we have going for us," Walker said. "It will be hard to replace Dr. Lonas, but I understand that her new job offers a great opportunity for her."

The mission of the Joint Forces Staff College is to educate national security professionals to plan and execute joint, multinational and interagency operations by instilling a commitment to joint, multinational and interagency teamwork, attitudes and perspectives.

"The position at the Joint Forces Staff College wasn't something I was looking for," Lonas said. "I kept waiting for roadblocks telling me, 'Don't do it,' but there weren't any. When things like this happen I think they're meant to be—that it's what God wants me to do."

Sewanee Provost John Swallow Named President of Carthage College

University of the South Executive Vice President and Provost John Swallow, C'89, will become the 23rd president of Carthage College in Kenosha, Wisc. He was elected on May 19 by the Carthage Board of Trustees and will begin his work there in July.

Swallow has served Sewanee in a number of ways since his return to campus in 2011 to serve as acting provost. In April 2012 he was named provost of the University, and in 2014 added the title of executive vice president in recognition of his duties as chief operating officer of the College. He also served on both the Board of Trustees (elected 2001) and Board of Regents (elected 2007).

"John's selection for the Carthage presidency is in recognition of his leadership at Sewanee, his dedication to students, and his long-time advocacy for the liberal arts," said Vice-Chancellor John McCardell. "As provost John has been a steady and wise partner. I shall deeply miss his counsel, his devotion, his breadth of interest in the work of the University, and the quiet competence he brings to every task he undertakes. All of Sewanee can be proud of this achievement of one our own."

"I'm so honored to have been part of Sewanee's growth and development these past six years, and grateful for the extraordinary privilege of working closely with Vice-Chancellor John McCardell," Swallow said. "Cameron and I are thrilled by the new adventure ahead of us, and will be glad to welcome Sewanee friends to the shore of Lake Michigan."

Swallow will remain provost at Sewanee until June 30. He is the University's chief academic and operating officer and professor of mathematics and humanities. He has been responsible for strategic planning and execution, day-to-day operations, and the institution's operating budget, as well as overseeing several offices and programs. Before returning to Sewanee, he was the Kimbrough Professor of Mathematics and Humanities at Davidson College and vice chair pro tem of the Davidson faculty.

SCCF Announces Spring 2017 Grant Recipients

"This year we received a record number of proposals from 27 organizations. We look forward to celebrating the tremendous commitment that these organizations make toward strengthening the future of our shared community. In addition, we reflect back on our growth on the Plateau by acknowledging the impact of all our past grantees through our fifth-year anniversary celebration," said Marshall Graves, SCCF board chairman.

The following organizations will receive grants:

Animal Alliance South Cumberland—$1,000 to support an expansion of their pet spaying and neutering program to include lower-middle income families;

Swiss Memorial Elementary School—$7,550 supports purchase of a technology package for the gymnasium that will include a new sound system, a projector, and a screen. This equipment will be used for regular programming as well as community outreach events;

Tracy City Elementary School—$10,000 for the creation of a U-shaped walking track that will connect with the future Mountain Goat Trail.

SCCF in partnership with the student Philanthropy Internship at the University of the South will be making additional funds available in the fall. Organizations on this list are eligible to apply for a second round of grants by either extending their proposals or applying for a new project that meets SCCF Grant Priorities.

Established in 2012, South Cumberland Community Fund works to improve the quality of life across the Plateau by increasing philanthropy and supporting leadership of the area's communities, schools, and nonprofit organizations. Since its founding, SCCF has reinvested nearly $750,000 in projects that benefit the Plateau.

Outside Inn Rendezvous 2017

The Outside Inn Rendezvous 2017 is a performance reunion of artists, musicians and actors that will take place on June 9 and 10 in Cravens Hall in Sewanee. Five hours of continuous entertainment will be featured each evening of the weekend. This year, the reunion will be themed as "Moulin Rouge" and will include the artistic performances, and the production, backstage and house skills of University alums, professors and spouses. Everyone on the Mountain is invited to attend.

The Outside Inn was the coffee house and performance venue for Sewanee Arts, a student-led organization at the College that thrived on the Mountain from 1972–1983. The original building is now the Ayres Multicultural Center. The Outside Inn was open each weekend during the school year and had live entertainment including jazz, folk, performance art, and a variety of teas, coffee and snacks.

The Outside Inn Rendezvous 2017 will feature professor Kash Wright as he joins the house jazz band, which includes Tony Winters, Billy and Leigh DuBose and Towson Engsborg. Jim Chickering, Wendy Arthur, Em Chitty, Tom Potts, Margaret Fleming and Tica Gibson will perform solo sets.

On Saturday evening, there will be a special performance of "My Father's War," the highly-acclaimed drama written and performed by Carole Ponder and Robert Kiefer. "My Father's War" tells the true story of Herschel Ponder, a WWII fighter pilot, and his struggles with the aftermath of combat. Musical sets will be performed both before and after this special dramatic presentation.

Tony Winters will have an art gallery in the foyer of Cravens Hall during the Rendezvous. A silent auction of themed baskets to benefit marginalized youth in Southern Appalachia will be in the same area. Doors open at 6 p.m. both nights. Admission is free and open to the public. Donations are welcomed.

A Couple Creates with Color

The Franklin County Arts Guild announces the opening of a unique double members show running through July 2, with a meet the artists reception 5–7 p.m., today (Friday), June 2.

The artists grew up and lived in different parts of the county until they met on the internet in 1996 and married in 1997. They live in Monteagle on 10 acres, keep an organic garden, and have five rescued dogs. They are engaged in the community and have been co-directors of the Grundy County Food Bank for the past 7 years.

Originally from St. Louis, Mo., Carol Van den Bosch moved with her family to Winchester in 1951, went to school here and after obtaining a degree from the University of Tennessee, returned to a teaching career in Franklin County. Since she was a single mom Carolyn also took up a second career as a caterer.

In 2006, she began her work and study of Pique Assiette a style of mosaic art that incorporates pieces of broken ceramics—plates, dishes, cups, tiles—and other found objects into the design. She says, "It is the upmost in recycling with materials finding a second life in art; something to be treasured, admired, and speaks volumes of its creator. This art form has truly opened a door of creativity in me. As a child of the 50s, I was taught to 'color within the lines' and we all know how that stifles one's openness to spontaneous creativity. Working with color and the unique designs of the individual cut makes this work like putting together a puzzle never knowing what a piece will look like until it is completed. Making more than 500 pieces in the past 10 plus years, I have made wall hangings, lamps, table tops, jewelry, belt buckles and light switch covers." You can check out her Flickr website for a gallery collection of all the mosaic pieces she has made <<http://www.flickr.com/photos/chinachipper/>>.

Glenn Van den Bosch was born in Denver, Colo., and spent his formative years exploring the beautiful Rocky Mountains before going off to see the world complements of the U.S. Navy. After completing a degree in Psychology and a minor in Science at Calvin College, in Grand Rapids, he became interested in education and became a teacher and school principal in the small town of Goshen, New York. During this time he followed his interest in school administration to graduate school and later moved his family to California where he served as Principal of Ripon Christian High School. About the time he was retiring from teaching he met Carol Conover on the internet and made the move across the country.

His interest in acrylic painting grew in the early 1990s as one of his winter time activities and has become one of his hobbies since then. He says that he "enjoys the contrasts of bright colors on a canvas and this has become my trademark, all the more surprising when you realize that I am colorblind."

Four Panels

The Artisan Depot is operated by the Franklin County Arts Guild and is located at 204 Cumberland St. East, Cowan. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

For more information about upcoming community art shows, the gallery or the guild go to <www.fcaguild.wordpress.com>, or contact Diana Lamb at (931) 308-4130.

LOOKSATBOOKS

by Pat Wiser for Friends of duPont Library

Summer Reading

As they aim their rain boots toward summer, Sewanee Elementary School children have plans. They've signed up to read under a tree, on the beach, to a pet or with a friend. Some will read in a funny voice, no doubt enlivening road trips. Most plan to read 20 minutes or more daily.

Third grader Eliot Sparacio recommends "The Day the Crayons Came Home," sequel to Drew Daywalt's hilarious "The Day the Crayons Quit" when disgruntled crayons walked off their crayon box job site. After giggling through Annie Barrows' first three "Ivy and Bean" books about well-intentioned girls whose schemes often land them in trouble, my granddaughter is ready for the next three, all perfect for early readers ready for chapter books. SES fourth grader Saida Thomas' choice of "Land of Stories: Mother Goose Diaries" would be fun for reading with kids old enough to enjoy the iconic figure's gossiping with Elizabeth I and rocking out at Woodstock.

Saida's book is a companion to Chris Colfer's "Land of Stories" series. "The Wishing Spell" introduces 11-year-old twins Alex and Conner who fall into their grandmother's cherished storybook, discovering Queen Snow White and King Charming, a Big Bad Wolf pack, and Jack of beanstalk fame and boyfriend of fugitive Goldilocks. (The bears pressed charges!) Popular with strong readers in upper elementary school, the tale of adventure can be read aloud to children who recognize the updated fairy tale figures. Colfer, TV show "Glee's" actor-singer turned writer, creates engaging characters, but his debut work is written in uneven style with some details inappropriate for listeners under age 8.

Rising St. Andrews-Sewanee eighth grader Autumn Welch will hip-hop into summer singing lyrics from the play "Hamilton." She is fond of composer/lyricist/star Lin-Manuel Miranda's presentation of the libretto in a gorgeous book with photos, more than 200 footnotes and the account of an idea's transformation into a Broadway hit about a founding father. The musical's CD is available in duPont Library's Main Music Collection; the book is on order. Lisa Hartmann and her family enjoyed a performance of "The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time" and recommend the book for ages 12 and up. Mark Haddon's novel features a mathematically gifted, autistic 15-year-old whose investigation of the murder of a neighbor's dog turns up a second mystery with clues pointing toward his own house. This young adult novel is on the SAS summer reading list for ninth graders, and it's on my list too.

Switching age groups and genre, neighbor Tommy Hewitt tells us that Tom Clavin's "Dodge City: Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson, and the Wickedest Town in the American West" is a great read with "fascinating stuff about Wyatt, Bat, Doc {Holliday} and Katy Elder." For a vastly different setting, consider Molly Delorme's suggestion, "Into Thin Air: A Personal Account of the Mt. Everest Disaster" by Jon Krakauer. The journalist uses his talent for vivid detail as he chronicles the 1996 ascent when eight climbers were killed.

Mysteries are popular vacation reading, but even our favorite authors can disappoint. In G. M. Maillet's sixth Father Max book, "Devil's Breath," a body washes up near Nether Monkslip, drawing the vicar into the investigation. Hollywood stereotypes on a yacht cruise supplant the usual zany villagers; I confess to leaving the scene before glamour and greed led our hero to a solution. Much more satisfying was "When the Music's Over" by Peter Robinson. Set in Yorkshire, his latest Alan Banks novel brings an engaging plot and strong characters, plus a view of the area's social issues. Suspenseful and graphic, not for the faint of heart.

At the top of my list is "Mockingbird Songs: My Friendship With Harper Lee," by Wayne Flynt, Auburn history professor and confidante of the supposedly reclusive author of "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Go Set a Watchman." I was hooked when I opened the book and saw a facsimile of a letter from Ms. Lee transferred to the front and back endpapers. Drawing heavily from their correspondence, Flynt's account is reviewed as the only work that the late author might have accepted, and one that brings a fuller sense of the mysterious and beloved literary figure. I don't dare begin reading until the time is right for pots of tea and a muted phone.

Most titles are available or on order for duPont Library. I wish you all a summer filled with tea and books.

The Franklin County Arts Guild invites original contributions from Franklin County artists of all ages in any media for inclusion in its Community Arts Shows at the Artisan Depot. Individuals wishing to submit work for the next community show "Vacation" should submit their work at the Artisan Depot from June 15-18 during gallery operating hours. Each artist is invited to explore the theme in their own interpretation and have fun with it.

SAS Track and Field Regional Action

On May 16 and May 18, St. Andrew's-Sewanee traveled to GPS in Chattanooga for the regional track meet.

Freshman Sarah Beth Hobby had a standout performance placing first in the Long Jump with a distance of 15'6", earning a spot in the state meet on May 25. Hobby also took third in the triple jump with a distance of 30'6.5". Other SAS athletes who had good showings in the field events portion of the meet on Tuesday were sophomore Jaylen Tillman, third in shot put with a season best 42 feet and 10.5 inches, followed by junior Justin Elgouhary who threw 40 feet for the first time in his high school career. Sarah Grace Burns took third in long jump, clearing 4'10".

Davila Falls Just Short in the NCAA Singles Championship

Despite fighting hard in the longest singles match in the 2017 NCAA Singles Championship, Sewanee women's tennis student-athlete Clementina Davila fell just short of another All-American honor with a Round of 32 loss at the Champions Club on May 25.

In a defensive contest, Davila lost twice in two straight tiebreakers falling to Kenyon's Diana Aboubakare 7-6, 7-6.

Davila, who was a 2016 All-American in doubles with former Tiger great Lindsey Liles, was named the ITA Atlantic South Player to Watch this spring.

Davila finished the season nationally ranked and was again an All-SAA First-Team selection.

Schober Becomes a Three-Time All-American

For the third time in his outstanding career, Sewanee men's tennis student-athlete Avery Schober earned All-American honors after he won in the Round of 32 during the morning session of the NCAA Singles Tournament at the Champions Club.

Schober opened the national event with a perfect 6-0 set against Johnny Wu of Washington University in St. Louis. Schober continued to play well early in the second before Wu fought back. Eventually, Schober rallied back winning the final two games to advance to the Sweet 16.

In the next round, Schober again got off to a strong start. The two-time Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Player of the Year opened play against Nikolai Parodi of Claremont-Mudd-Scripps (CMS) with an early 3-0 lead. Parodi finally broke Schober and answered back by winning three of the next four contests.

CMS's No. 1 player eventually closed out the set at 6-4 after he won the final three games.

In the second set, Schober took an early 2-1 lead. However, Parodi answered back again winning two of the next three games. From there, the CMS All-American never looked back. Schober tied the contest at 3-3, before Parodi held serve and served at the match at 7-5.

NATURENOTES

Monarch caterpillar on white milkweed.

Monarch Caterpillars

Monarch butterfly caterpillars have been observed on milkweed in the Sewanee area this spring, indicating that adults do indeed migrate north through our region from their overwintering grounds in Mexico, and lay eggs here. Yolande Gottfried spotted a couple on the native white milkweed on their property and Mary Davis reported some on milkweed in her yard.

The caterpillars take about two weeks to mature, then enter the pupa or chrysalis stage, where they spend another two weeks before emerging as adults. The adults will travel further north, as the monarch goes through around four generations before finally migrating south to the overwintering grounds. While the caterpillars feed only on milkweed, accumulating toxins from that plant to discourage predators, the adults feed on nectar from a wide variety of flowers, many from the aster family such as thistles, coneflowers and goldenrod.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

When June is come, then all the day
I'll sit with my love in the scented hay;
And watch the sunspot palaces high;
That the white clouds build in the breezy sky

She singeth, and I do make her a song,
And read sweet poems the whole day long:
Unseen as we lie in the haybuilt home.
O life is delight when June is come.
