Food Hub Links Farm and Business

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

Steve Ahearn, a former Long Island deli owner, didn't have many opportunities to climb down from his tractor in Coalmont and sell beef, so he partnered with the South Cumberland Food Hub.

"I wanted more retail sales and they do all the footwork," he said. "I've got my hands full with the farm here and I wanted to stretch out a little more and didn't really have the time."

The Food Hub acts as a direct channel between growers within 50 miles of Sewanee and local restaurants and stores by finding customers, negotiating prices and delivering the food. Ahearn, who runs Double A Farms with his wife Donna, was on the other side of the market when he owned five delis in the Long Island area. Now through the Food Hub he provides beef to restaurants, as well as the University of the South and St. Andrew's-Sewanee School.

Laura Damron, coordinator of the program, said the Hub's goal is altruistic, helping producers and growers increase profits and providing quality, local proteins and in-season produce.

"The idea is that we coordinate the direct sale and we only cover our costs instead of making a profit," she said. "We're trying to get more of the value of the product into the farmers' hands, because there are many reselling organizations. We focus on forming relationships and representing small local independent farms."

There is an underbelly in agriculture, Damron noted, where the farmer makes less money dealing with resellers such as food service companies. She added produce through the Food Hub is often fresher, usually picked within hours of delivery to customers.

The freshness, competitive pricing and availability of more specialty produce are reasons why High Point restaurant in Monteagle uses the Food Hub, said chef Eric Gibson.

"The quality has thus far been outstanding, and it helps the local economy. We are not a large corporation and survive on local business. It is only fair to funnel some of that back in to the local economy, if at all possible," he said.

"We primarily order vegetables for our chef's selection vegetable, which has been changing much more frequently with the Food Hub's involvement," Gibson added.

Restaurants and stores ordering specialty produce are also enhancing the variety of products available to local residents. For instance, Damron said when a restaurant such as High Point orders multi-colored cauliflower or yellow filet beans, the farmer will have excess they sell at outdoor markets. She cited bok choy as another less common item gaining popularity.

"They're expanding the diet, increasing the nutrition of the local population due to the fact that white table cloth restaurants want those types of products," she said.

A relationship with school systems is another source of pride for the Food Hub, especially when underprivileged students have access to fresh nutritious foods.

Intergenerational Vacation Bible School Offered at Otey Memorial

Otey Memorial Parish will offer an intergenerational dinner and learning series, VB-U's, a twist on Vacation Bible School, the last week of June. The series takes place on four evenings, Monday–Thursday, June 27–30, and is open to the entire community. There is no charge for dinner or the program which will take place at Otey's Claiborne Parish Hall. Participants can register at <VB-U's2016.eventbrite.com>.

Dinner will be served at 5:15 p.m. Activities will take place from 6–8 p.m., with the nursery available for infants and very young children. The program is based on Micah 6:8 and will explore doing justice, loving mercy and walking humbly through a variety of mediums. Activities will include discussion panels, Godly Play stories, a poetry workshop, group and individual art projects, a sacred journey and a drum circle.

On Monday, June 27, Regan Schutz will tell a Godly Play story. Activity choices are a drum circle and sharing led by Leslie Lytle, April Minkler and Barbara Prunty, or a discussion on local social justice issues, historically and today. Special guest speakers for the discussion include: Robin Bates, one of the plaintiffs for the desegregation of Sewanee Elementary School; Allie Mae Faxon, one of the founders of the Franklin County High School Gay Straight Alliance; Jennie Turrell sponsor of the club FCHS Gay Straight Alliance; and the Rev. Canon Jim Turrell from the School of Theology. Both Faxon and Jennie Turrell have been widely honored for their work with the GSA this year.

Tuesday, June 28, will feature Teresa Phares as storyteller. The Rev. Betty Carpenter, director of the Community Action Committee, will host hands-on mission activities for all ages. Please bring a canned good or other non-perishable item for this activity. There will also be special music by Bazzania! Or attend a writing workshop with Sewanee English professor Jennifer Michael exploring how to use poetry to call out injustice.

Wednesday, June 29, Rebecca Van de Ven will tell a Godly Play story, then share contemplative music during two art projects. Carol Sampson has designed a group mosaic project. Laura Willis will guide another project using collage to express the grief of injustice. Alternatively, participants may join the Rev. Bude Van Dyke for a pilgrimage to a sacred Native American site.

Thursday, June 30, James Goodmann will tell a story that brings the week's activities together. Goodmann and Karen Meridith will facilitate discussion, synthesis, and response as participants consider their next steps after this experience. The Rev. Rob Lamborn will celebrate Eucharist at the outdoor cross behind Brooks Hall to close the series. For more information contact Jeannie Babb at <oteyformation@gmail.com>.

FURTHER ILLUSTRATION To the Editor:

Marilyn Phelp's thought provoking letter in the June 20 issue with a professional diagnosis of Donald Trump's psychiatric disorders brought to mind a further illustration in support of the views cited by her.

Trump, with no military experience, claims to "know more than the generals." So obviously he disagrees with our nation's military leadership in their resistance to ISIS and if elected president, would overrule our military's supreme commanders.

As Commander in Chief, a deluded Trump would be among the most dangerous leaders in the world.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

To the Editor:

On Sunday before Memorial Day, my family and I drove to the Eastern Star Cemetery from our home in Georgia to place flowers on my parents' and other family members' graves. I am a Mountain native, being raised in the Midway community, and I easily call Sewanee home.

As I was decorating, I had a horrendous fall. I knew I was hurt, but my pride somehow kept me from screaming.

A gentleman named Fred Tucker came over from his mother's grave to help get me upright. He first introduced himself and told us where he lived. We knew the house. It was almost like he wanted to reassure us.

I want to acknowledge his generosity, kindness and thoughtfulness publicly and to also let Sewanee be proud of him.

After returning to Georgia, I went to my doctor on Tuesday, to discover I had fractured ribs, scrapes and a lot of bruises all over.

Thank you, Freddie Tucker, for being where you were, what you are and who you are. Your help was appreciated.

'Sunday Diversions' Begin

The Sewanee Summer Music Festival (SSMF) introduces a new activity to Sunday afternoons in Sewanee. "Sunday Diversions" are six free local tours and events to enjoy prior to the Sunday student orchestral concerts each week. Tours start at 1 p.m. at the designated location—look for the purple balloons. There are events scheduled each week indoors and outdoors—June 26, July 10 and July 17. Tours will finish in time for participants to attend the Cumberland Orchestra Concert at 3 p.m. followed by the Sewanee Symphony Orchestra at 4 p.m. Further details are available on the website <ssmf.sewanee.edu> or by calling 598-1903.

Meet at 1 p.m. at the gazebo near the intersection of South Carolina and Florida Avenues for an hour's walk through Abbo's Alley with Mary Priestley or Yolande Gottfried. The ravine has a sparkling creek bordered by ferns, wildflowers, native shrubs and hardwood trees. Tennis or hiking shoes are recommended. (In the event of rain, please refer to Sewanee Herbarium option at the end.)

Woody himself will take you on a bicycle tour of the campus. Meet at Woody's Bicycles, Reed Lane and Highway 41A (just behind Shenanigan's Restaurant), at 1 p.m. to rent a bike and helmet, or bring your own.

John Bordley, Ray Gotko or a student musician will lead you up 124 steps to Shapard Tower Carillon to visit the 56 bells and how they are played. Gather at the tower on the south lawn near the entrance to All Saints' Chapel (as you face the chapel from University Avenue, the tower entrance is on the right side of the building). The tour finishes in time to enjoy the 2:15 p.m. carillon concert outdoors. Note: the carillon tour takes place regardless of weather.

For the avid indoorsman (or in case of uncooperative weather), there are several tours available.

Meet Waring McCrady just inside the front door of All Saints' Chapel on University Avenue at 1 p.m. for a tour of the windows and sculpture. McCrady was involved in the design of many of the stained glass windows, and with his wife and daughter created many of the small statues and sculptures throughout the chapel.

Meet Gail Watson or another bell ringer at 1 p.m. just inside Breslin Tower (connected to Convocation Hall on University Avenue at Georgia Ave.) to climb stairs up to the Bentley Bells. You'll find out why change-ringing is offered as a P.E. class at the University.

University professor Tam Carlson or a student assistant will provide a guided tour of duPont Library's extraordinary Ralston Listening Library. Meet in the lobby of the library at 1 p.m.

If the weather discourages walking through Abbo's Alley, Mary Priestley or Yolande Gottfried will introduce you to all the plants and trees on Sewanee's 13,000 acre domain. Meet across from duPont Library at the east entrance to Snowden Hall to discover the Sewanee Herbarium. Note: this tour is only offered if weather prevents Abbo's Alley walk.

Melissa Livesay, director of the Franklin County School Nutrition program, said the program started ordering from the Food Hub two years ago, adding items such as strawberries, lettuce, sweet potatoes and watermelons to lunch plates.

The University of the South, another customer, is committed to supporting local, sustainable producers, said Sewanee executive chef Rick Wright, who is also a Food Hub board member. The University has fried chicken Sundays with locally-raised chickens, and eggs, beef and produce from the Food Hub are peppered throughout the McClurg Dining Hall buffet.

Wright said he wants more restaurants, stores and institutions to become Food Hub customers to strengthen the network.

The Food Hub is part of the Rooted Here organization, which also oversees the South Cumberland Farmer's Market. Jess Wilson, an integral part of the effort, said organizers started the Food Hub four years ago with a grant from groups and individuals from the Sewanee community, and matching USDA funds.

A lot of volunteer work is required to make the program successful, Damron noted, and a willingness from chefs and business owners to consider alternatives to food service companies.

"It has to be driven by someone who's inspired by the local product," she said.

MARC Donates Children's Books to Library

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

The Marion Animal Resource Connection (MARC) recently donated three children's books to the Monteagle May Justus Memorial Library.

"Children love books about animals," said librarian Karen Tittle, who plans to display the books in the new titles section. "They sound like good candidates for the children's Summer Reading program."

Animal stories abound in children's literature, but the books presented by MARC carry a special message echoing the nonprofit's mission statement.

"MARC's goal is to improve the lives of animals and people through education and spay-neuter advocacy," said education director Anne Grindle. "Implicit in that goal is the knowledge that kindness to animals and kindness to our fellow human beings go hand in hand, while the converse is also true. According to the American Humane Association, 68 percent of battered women reported violence toward their animals."

MARC also donated children's books to three other Marion County libraries. MARC hosts a pet care education board at the libraries it serves and hopes to expand the education program to other area libraries as funds become available.

The stories told in the children's books donated by MARC have happy endings to real-life circumstances which sometimes end badly—a dog raised in a puppy mill, a neglected Easter gift rabbit and a true story set in Tennessee about a friendship between an elephant and dog. Look for these titles at the library: "A Home for Dakota" by Jan Zita Grover, "The Forgotten Rabbit" by Nancy Furstinger and "Tarra and Bella" by Carol Buckley.

For more information go to <www.marc4change.org>. Donations can be mailed to MARC, P.O. Box 153, Jasper, TN 37347.

Keep Food Cool as Temperatures Heat Up

Summer months are great for grilling. And that means you don't have to use electricity to operate the oven or stove—or cool a hot kitchen. It's a great way to be energy efficient and save, but don't stop with energy efficient cooking methods. Use these simple tips to keep your food—and your bill—cool this summer:

Fill the fridge. Full refrigerators and freezers don't have to work as hard to cool the warm air that enters when you open the door. If you are busy freezing fresh vegetables from the garden for winter use, this should be easy. If not, use jugs of water or ice bags in the freezer to keep your fridge full and cool;

Do some maintenance. When was the last time you moved your refrigerator away from the wall? Pull the unit away from the wall and spend a few minutes cleaning the coils. When the coils are clean, the refrigerator cycles on and off less, saving you money;

Check your settings. You probably don't need to keep your refrigerator and freezer on the coldest settings. Your refrigerator can be set between 36 and 38 degrees, while your freezer can be set anywhere from 0 to five degrees;

Wait to put the leftovers away. If those burgers are still hot from the grill, let them cool off a little before you put them in the fridge. Of course, health and safety come first, and you should never consume food that has been sitting out too long, but waiting just a few minutes to put hot food away will mean your fridge isn't working as hard to cool it down;

Shut the door. The more you open the door of your refrigerator and freezer, the more cold air escapes and warm air gets in. Of course you have to open the door to get food in and out, but an organized fridge means less time spent staring at containers of mystery. For more information on making your home more energy efficient and saving money on your electric bill visit <www.svalleyec.com>.

Digital Collection Honors World War I Soldiers

The Tennessee State Library & Archives is commemorating the 100-year anniversary of World War I by launching a new digital collection on TeVA (Tennessee Virtual Archive). The Tennessee World War I Gold Star Records, 1918–1924, is a memorial collection honoring Tennessee servicemen who died during the Great War. Soldiers' records offer insights into early 20th century life and the loss experienced by servicemen and their families.

The gold star tradition began after the United States entered World War I in 1917. While men boarded trains and ships bound for military camps or foreign shores, their families proudly hung small flags with blue stars in windows to announce that they had loved ones who were in the service. In less than two years, around 4,000 Tennesseans' blue stars were exchanged for gold ones as families received notice of their loved ones' deaths.

After the war ended, Americans incorporated the gold stars in their commemorative efforts at home and abroad. As a part of these efforts, more than 1,000 records of "gold star boys" were collected by the Tennessee Historical Committee, the Library & Archives and county "mother-chairmen." The records collected include a broad range of materials, such as soldier portraits, family histories and battlefield correspondence.

"Thanks to the work of the historical committee, the volunteers in each county and the staff of the Library & Archives, we have a strong record of Tennesseans who sacrificed their lives in World War I," Secretary of State Tre Hargett said. "We owe a debt of gratitude to those who had the foresight years ago to preserve those records. The material contained within Tennessee's gold star collection gives us so much insight into one of the bloodiest conflicts in our country's history."

People who access the new online collection can search for information in a number of ways —by soldier names, cities, counties or service information. One notable feature is the "browse by military branch option," which allows users to easily find records of servicemen in the Army, Marine Corps, Navy or Air Service (a precursor to the Air Force).

Genealogical researchers will find information such as the names of soldiers' parents and next-of-kin useful in reconstructing information from the 1890 Census, the records of which were almost completely lost in a 1921 fire. Historians will discover valuable primary source material in correspondence from the homefront and the battlefield.

The digital collection currently provides access to 601 soldiers' records with surnames 'A' through 'H,' which represents about half of the total collection. Files can be downloaded directly from the site for research purposes. The collection is projected to be completed by Veterans Day, formerly known as Armistice Day in honor of the cease fire that ended World War I.

Center for Religion and Environment Program

On June 10, eight participants completed the residency portion of the University's Center for Religion and Environment's pilot noncredit certificate program, Contemplation and Care for Creation. Participants came from Colorado, New Mexico, Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee.

The two-week residency involved daily grounding in nature contemplation and explorations of biblical environmental theology, socioeconomics and preparation for two-year long practicums.

Using the Center's program, Living in an Icon, Alive in the World, participants began a year's formation in natural contemplation steeped in traditional Christian monastic practices. Their experiences at Sewanee of these practices informed their exploration of how creation is integrally involved in fundamental Christian concepts such as the Incarnation, the Passion and Resurrection and Pentecost. The program then examined some of the implications for society of these reflections, thereby laying the foundation for each student to develop a project during the next year to address some environmental concern. The program exceeded the expectations of everyone, leading the participants to want to stay even longer and to find ways to assist the program in the future. They will return for a three-day wrap-up next May.

For more information on the program email the Center at <cre@sewanee.edu>, or go to <<http://sewanee.edu/resources/cre/focus-areas/>>.

Gov. Bill Haslam and TDEC Commissioner Bob Martineau present Henry "Woody" McLaughlin of Nashville and Monteagle with the 2016 Robert Sparks Walker Lifetime Achievement Award in recognition of his decades of work with the Friends of South Cumberland State Park.

Gov. Haslam and TDEC Present Henry "Woody" McLaughlin with Lifetime Achievement Award

Tennessee Gov. Bill Haslam and Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) Commissioner Bob Martineau presented Henry "Woody" McLaughlin with the Robert Sparks Walker Lifetime Achievement Award at the 2016 Governor's Environmental Stewardship Awards on June 15. A native of Nashville, McLaughlin and his wife Pookie have had a second home in Monteagle for decades, and he devoted more than 25 years to the work of the Friends of South Cumberland State Park.

"Woody's tireless, good-natured approach to fostering positive working relationships while achieving real conservation results has been essential to preserving priority lands and protecting some of the most special places we enjoy today at South Cumberland State Park," said Bob Martineau, TDEC Commissioner. "We are grateful for his personal commitment and quiet leadership, and we salute the dedicated teamwork demonstrated by the FSC that have made a real and lasting difference for that state park and those who love it."

McLaughlin said, "I want to express my great appreciation for the confidence and honor you have placed in me. In looking at the past honorees, I am greatly humbled. The ones I have known are titans in making our public lands better places for us and especially for future generations. I cannot fully express my appreciation to the many dedicated members of the Friends except to say that I wish we could all be honored as a team."

McLaughlin received the award for his passion for the land and people of South Cumberland State Park, especially the Fiery Gizzard Trail. His love of the park—dating back to his days as a student at the University of the South—his knowledge of real estate and his ties to Nashville made him a leading voice on the FSC board of directors when it was established in 1993. He served on the board for 18 years.

In 2002, when the South Cumberland State Park master plan identified several nearby parcels and natural features that were worthy of protection but under threat of development or sale to timber companies, FSC decided to launch the Saving Great Spaces Campaign with a goal of raising $500,000 to preserve the beauty of the park. McLaughlin's business acumen, his range of contacts and his determination were major factors in the board's decision to take on this challenge.

During this multi-year campaign, McLaughlin served as president of the Friends group, and he worked tirelessly to encourage others to join the effort. He made personal donations to the campaign and was invaluable in contacting local, state and federal leaders to secure their help. In the end, more than $600,000 was raised by the Friends, and McLaughlin was instrumental in helping to obtain an additional $2 million in federal funding, $3.5 million in grant funding from the Tennessee Heritage Conservation Trust Fund and $2.5 million from the State Lands Acquisition Fund. The campaign leveraged nearly $8 million in total resources, adding 5,495 acres of priority land at Savage Gulf and the Fiery Gizzard.

McLaughlin was recently instrumental in helping secure a 100-acre tract of land that included the most visible line of bluffs seen from the renowned Stone Door Overlook, ensuring that view will be preserved.

THE INSATIABLE CRITIC

by Elizabeth Ellis

The Sewanee Union Theatre has everything from superheroes to freebie gothic ghosts coming up this week! Read on for your friendly neighborhood Critic's Netflix summer streaming recommendation!

Stars are so overused, and there's nothing on the planet more critical than cats, so one feature each week is rated from one to five Jackaroos. The more Jackaroos there are, the better it is!

Batman v. Superman: Dawn of Justice

7:30 p.m., Sunday, June 26 and Monday, June 27
2016, Rated PG-13, 151 minutes

Being a superhero isn't all its cracked up to be. Following the destruction of Metropolis due to an epic battle waged by Superman (Henry Cavill) that left behind mass casualties, public officials begin to turn a jaundiced eye on the Man of Steel, wondering if it is wise to let a man with such power run free in the streets. Bruce Wayne (Ben Affleck), who has been covertly operating as Batman for nearly two decades in Gotham City, is also horrified by the death count and vows to put a stop to Superman himself. Director Zack Snyder has lofty plans for a film sparking a deep moral philosophical debate but it never quite gets off the ground due to a jumbled plotline hampered by a plethora of special effects, combined with an extended running time of more than two hours. There are a few inspired performances—Jeremy Irons provides a solid cameo as the long-suffering Alfred, Bruce Wayne's butler, and Affleck surprised everyone with a somber, serious take on Batman's character. But far too much energy is expended on trivial things such as an under-utilized Lois Lane (Amy Adams) constantly being rescued by the 'Supes.' However, with top-notch special effects and an all-too-brief entrance of Wonder Woman, it is possible to turn your mind off and simply enjoy it for the popcorn powerhouse that it is. Rated PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and action as well as some sensuality, this film is best reserved for older children accompanied by parents and adults.

Crimson Peak

7:30 p.m., Tuesday, June 28

2015, Rated R, 120 minutes

From the lavishly creative mind of Mexican writer and director Guillermo del Toro comes a story about the ultimate haunted house presented in the spirit of high Victorian Gothic. This film is being shown as a special public presentation by the Gothic Literature class being taught this summer as part of the Sewanee School of Letters by Kelly Malone. Mia Wasikowska, pale as a ghost, plays Edith Cushing, a young writer who is obsessed with the supernatural. Cushing catches the eye of Sir Thomas Sharpe of Allerdale Hall played by a dashing Tom Hiddleston, who is impressed by her professional drive and literary acumen. Gratified to find a man that takes her seriously as a writer, she quickly falls for him and after their marriage, he whisks her away back to his mansion of a home. There, the darker machinations of the plot begin to unfurl with increasing suspense and tension as Cushing begins to understand that all is not as it seems. Rated R for bloody violence, sexual content and brief strong language, this is a ghost story with teeth that is best suited for adults, and pre-teens accompanied by parents.

Summer Netflix Streaming Recommendation!

Chef

2014, Rated R, 114 minutes

This heartwarming story written, directed, and starring Jon Favreau explores the challenges of one man balancing his floundering career as a famed gourmet chef and the rocky relationship with his young son Percy. Favreau plays Los Angeles-based chef Carl Casper whose creativity is being stifled by domineering restaurant owner Riva, played by a delightfully cantankerous Dustin Hoffman. When popular food critic Ramsey Michel (Oliver Platt) tears Casper's cooking skills apart on the printed page, Casper realizes his life needs a major overhaul. When his ex-wife (the stunning Sophia Vergara), whom he is on good terms with, suggests he start a food truck, at first Casper is incredulous—but prompted by Percy, he decides to max out his credit cards and take a chance on a new culinary adventure. Helping out is his old friend and co-worker Martin (John Leguizamo), and through hard work and perseverance they begin an unforgettable road trip from Miami back to Los Angeles, delighting customers along the way with delicious Cuban street food. Rated R for strong language and some suggestive references, this sleeper hit is available for streaming on Netflix. It is appropriate for older children accompanied by parents as well as for adults and shouldn't be a deterrent for anyone who enjoys a great film about fathers and sons.

School of Letters Public Events

Each summer the School of Letters invites writers, poets, publishers and scholars to speak each week the school is in session. These events are free and open to the public.

On Tuesday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m., there will be a film screening of Crimson Peak (2015) at the Sewanee Union Theatre. Directed by Guillermo del Toro, this film is 119 min., and rated R. In the aftermath of a family tragedy, an aspiring author is torn between love for her childhood friend and the temptation of a mysterious outsider. Trying to escape the ghosts of her past, she is swept away to a house that breathes, bleeds—and remembers. The film screening is offered in conjunction with the Gothic in Literature course taught by Kelly Malone.

"What Was the New Journalism? A Dialogue with John Grammer and Neil Shea" will be at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 29, in Gailor Auditorium with a reception following in Gailor Atrium.

Marshall Frady called it an "odd unchurched coupling between the novel and journalism." Tom Wolfe gave it the name that stuck, "the New Journalism," a designation John Sullivan glosses like this: "the long, weird, quasi-essayistic, documentary-infused magazine piece, a form older than the novel, despite a heritable instinct in critics to continually be calling it New." New or old, the form experienced a remarkable flowering in the 1960s and early 1970s, when writers like Frady and Wolfe—and Mailer and Talese and King and Morris—created a remarkable moment in American letters, one that continues to inspire writers like Sullivan. Grammer and Shea discuss the moment and its influence on nonfiction writing today.

Jennine Capó Crucet is the author of two books, most recently the novel "Make Your Home Among Strangers" (St. Martin's Press). Her story collection, "How to Leave Hialeah," won the Iowa Short Fiction Award, the John Gardner Book Prize and was named a Best Book of the Year by The Miami Herald, the Miami New Times and the Latinidad List. Her writing has appeared in Guernica, Ploughshares, Epoch, The Rumpus, Prairie Schooner and other magazines. She's the fiction editor of PEN Center USA's Handbook for Writers, a comprehensive writing manual used in high schools nationally as part of PEN's Writers in the Schools programs. A former sketch comedienne and National Public Radio scriptwriter, she's worked extensively as a writing coach and college advisor for high school students and also led the Young Artists' Workshop (exclusively for high school writers) at the Port Townsend Writers' Conference for three years. A winner of an O. Henry Prize and a Bread Loaf Fellow, she received her B.A. from Cornell University and her M.F.A. from the University of Minnesota, where she was also an instructor. She grew up in Miami but now lives in Lincoln, Neb., where she's an assistant professor of creative writing at the University of Nebraska. This reading will be at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 6, in Gailor Auditorium with a reception and book signing following in Gailor Atrium.

On Wednesday, July 13, at 4:30 p.m., in Gailor Auditorium, the School of Letters M.F.A. candidates will read from their work.

Painting by Connie Keetle.

Stirling's Coffee House to Display Local Artist's Work

Stirling's Coffee House is displaying Connie Keetle's "Sense of Place: Sewanee Impressions" paintings through Saturday, Aug. 20. The opening for the art show will be Saturday, July 2, from 3 to 5 p.m. All are invited to attend.

Keetle received her B.F.A. from Kansas City Art Institute. She primarily grew up in Vermont, enjoying countless hours of freedom exploring and loving the land around her.

"When I think of sense of place," said Keetle, "it's about embracing the human connection to our world through a creative process, to delight in the dynamic relationships between self, spirit, and matter on a deeper level. All of these paintings are personal impressions of, and dialogues with, the magical places that inspire me. Through the creative process, the world around me appears richer and clearer, and I notice nuances everywhere that otherwise I may not have appreciated."

Keetle was born in Maryland and primarily grew up in Vermont. There she enjoyed countless hours of freedom exploring and loving the land around her.

The close bonds to nature forged in her youth have inspired her passions in art and life. This showing of her artwork is her recent expression of finding the essence of this place called Sewanee, her home.

The Lemon Fairy Tale

Once upon a time—a long, long time ago in Sewanee, it was the Fourth of July. There were no celebrations. No parade. Boo Cravens was sad. She called the children in town—“Decorate your bicycles. Let’s have a parade!”

So they did, little children and big children rode their bicycles with bright streamers down University Avenue. It was a little parade—no trucks, no floats, no horses and no bands. Just Sewanee children led by Boo. This parade continued for a number of years. Then some people got together and thought, “let’s have a big celebration for the Fourth.”

The Lemon Fairy has watched the fun grow and everybody works together for this special day. Thank you Boo for getting us started more than 30 years ago!

Now we have a street dance, food, games, fireworks and a big parade. Even cats and dogs join in! Boo’s little Fourth of July children now have children of their own. You can see them on their bikes July 4.

Fourth of July Parade Entries

The Sewanee Fourth of July Committee invites everyone to attend the festivities and participate in the parade. They would like to have as many entries as possible. So gather up family, friends or coworkers and come join the fun. All entries are welcome. They can be musical, clowns, bicycles, horses, floats, baton twirlers, beauty pageant winners or cars to name a few.

There will be three trophies awarded in the following categories: best float (an entry is considered a float if it consists of a flatbed trailer being pulled by a vehicle), best decorated vehicle and best horse drawn entry. Ribbons will be given for best decorated bicycle. Judging for the entries will begin at 1 p.m. This year the parade will line up behind Sewanee Market and travel uphill.

A few points about the parade. When throwing candy, please be sure to throw it as close to the curb as you can in order to keep the children as safe as possible by keeping them from running out into the road. Because of insurance precautions, release forms will need to be signed the day of the parade in order to participate. Please wear a helmet when riding a motorcycle or four-wheeler and be very cautious while driving. Remember, there are children all along the parade route. Your help in this will be greatly appreciated.

To enter the parade contact Louise Irwin at 598-5864. She will need to know a contact person and contact information for the entry, type of entry and approximate length of the entry. Please enter by Thursday, June 30.

PEDESTRIANS and BIKERS – EXERCISE CAUTION!

When you are out getting your exercise, following a few simple rules will keep you on the go. When biking, cyclists should loudly announce their presence about 75 feet before passing pedestrians and slow down, since some may not hear a warning bike bell and know to step to the right. On roadways, walkers should walk on the left-hand side of the road, traveling against the traffic; bicyclers should travel in the right-hand lane, going with the flow of traffic. During the day, both walkers and bikers should wear clothing of bright, easily seen colors, and, from dusk on, wear light, reflective clothing. In any case, don't just assume drivers can see you. Be on the lookout ... for your own safety.

Summertime Frog Song

In the early spring, our pond rang with the sound of spring peepers and occasionally the trill of the American toad. In other areas, the up-land chorus frog was heard. Now the cast has changed. Most prominent are the northern cricket frogs, singing day and night and sounding as if they are rapidly tapping small stones together. They are members of the tree frog family but lack enlarged toe pads so they do not climb trees. Instead they can leap yard-long distances, though they are only an inch or so long.

Gray tree frogs do climb trees and can be heard in various places away from water, calling sporadically. It is hard to describe their call—sort of a hoarse “waah”—plus there may be two species with different calls. Their call often seems to be associated with rain, either when it is threatening to rain or afterwards. They can also change color. Sometimes we see them clinging to our windows, probably hoping for insects attracted to the light.

Then there are the green frogs, lining the edges of the pond and hopping into the water with a loud “eeek” when disturbed. They also call with a sound like a plucked rubber band or banjo string. Sometimes in the middle of the night we hear the hoarse chuckling of the southern leopard frog, as if it is talking to itself. They are similar in appearance to the green frogs. The one song we hope not to hear is the deep “jug-o-rum” of the bullfrog. These bullies of the pond will eat everything else.

We hope the red-shouldered hawk that patrols the pond and the occasional visit from a great blue heron will keep the bullfrogs and their tadpoles, which are large and take two years to transform, under control. The bullfrogs are usually the last to begin calling so we are keeping our fingers crossed.

Stucky

Bashful

Pets of the Week

Meet Stucky and Bashful

Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Stucky is a dear little fluffy orange Tabby kitten who wants nothing more than a snuggle and someone to play with. He enjoys the company of other kitties and small dogs, but he would happily find his place in any home. Stucky is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots, microchipped and neutered.

Bashful (as his name may have hinted) is a rather shy puppy whose trust and affection must be earned. If you want a loyal companion, and you have a large sofa or a nice yard for him to call home, this 6-month-old Great Pyrenees mix may be the guy for you. Bashful is heartworm-negative, up-to-date on shots, microchipped and neutered.

Animal Harbor is now in its new shelter at 56 Nor-Nan Road, off AEDC Road in Winchester. Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information, and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter the drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help Animal Harbor continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to Animal Harbor, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

SCSP Requests Help for Fiery Gizzard Reroute

The Fiery Gizzard Trail must undergo a second reroute due to another landowner requesting the trail no longer run through his private property.

A portion of the trail must be rerouted roughly 1.5 miles before Dec. 1. If the project is not completed by Dec. 1, a portion of the trail will have to be closed, making a full hike through impossible.

South Cumberland State Park officials Jason Reynolds and Park Greer will be leading work days this summer to reroute the trail. The help of the community is requested for these workdays every Saturday morning beginning at 9 a.m. The work is estimated to take three to four hours.

To participate, community members can meet rangers Jason and Park at 131 Fiery Gizzard Road in Tracy City to be carpooled to the work site. Work gloves, plenty of water and snacks or lunch are recommended. Work on the sites will be strenuous, but no help will be turned away, regardless of age or ability.

For more information contact Reynolds at <Jason.Reynolds@tn.gov>.

Sewanee Herbarium Offers Summer Activities

Abbo's Alley Walks—Sundays
June 26, July 10 and July 17

The Herbarium is offering walks through Sewanee's Abbott Cotten Martin Ravine Garden in conjunction with the Sewanee Summer Music Festival concerts. Meet at 1 p.m. at the gazebo in the Alley just off South Carolina Avenue for this easy one-hour stroll through the garden.

Wear appropriate shoes on all of the Abbo's Alley walks. Risks involved in hiking include physical exertion, rough terrain, forces of nature and other hazards not present in everyday life. Picking flowers and digging plants are prohibited in all of the above-mentioned natural areas.

For more information on these events call the Herbarium at 598-3346.

Directions are available at the Herbarium website <http://lal.sewanee.edu/herbarium>.

Nature Journaling

A group meets for nature journaling on Thursdays, 9–11 a.m. Bring an unlined journal (or a few sheets of unlined paper) and a pen or pencil. No experience is needed. In nice weather, the group gathers at Lake Cheston; otherwise, the group meets in the Herbarium in Spencer Hall, room 171. For more information, contact Mary Priestley <mpriestley@sewanee.edu>.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS
 by Debbie Gamache,
 M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

THE SILENT EPIDEMIC

Hearing loss is so prevalent among Americans that it is sometimes referred to as the "silent epidemic." According to estimates, 35 million Americans currently experience some degree of hearing loss. Approximately 1 in 3 persons over the age of 65 have hearing loss. Recent research reports note a growing number of persons between the ages of 45 and 64 have experienced hearing loss. This number has increased by 26% over the past few decades. A medical diagnostic hearing evaluation is recommended as part of a comprehensive physical for those in this age range.

At Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center LLC our primary mission is to help the hearing impaired improve their quality of life through education, advanced technology and friendly compassionate service. For answers to your questions by a knowledgeable audiologist please contact us at 931-393-2051. We are located at 705 NW Atlantic St. Suite B, Tullahoma. You can visit our website at <www.thehearingcenterllc.com>.

On Writing

I have always been pushed by the negative. The apparent failure of a play sends me back to my typewriter that very night before the reviews are out. I am more compelled to get back to work than if I had a success.
—Tennessee Williams

I get up very morning determined to both change the world and have one hell of a good time. Sometimes this makes planning my day difficult.
