

Downtown Development Update

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

“There are five priority projects we hope to realize in the next five years,” said Frank Gladu, Special Assistant to the Vice-Chancellor, providing an overview of changes Sewanee residents can expect as the University pursues implementing the Sewanee Village Plan.

The 2011 University Master Plan included revisioning the downtown area, and two years ago, the University retained town planner Brian Wright to create a road map for that vision.

The five projects on the front burner are the Highway 41A intersection, a grocery-type market, housing, relocating the University bookstore to downtown and a village green.

Construction to narrow Highway 41A will begin in early 2018, according to Gladu. “Narrowing the highway will calm traffic and make crossing less intimidating,” Gladu said. To further foster user friendliness, the intersection plan approved by the Tennessee Department for Transportation calls for street lights, sidewalks and a pedestrian activated crosswalk.

Redesigning the intersection is key since realization of the other four priorities will give residents increasing occasion to cross to the non-campus side of the highway.

In the Hair Depot’s current location, plans call for a grocery store type market

School Board Finalizes Budget; Approves Bean Contract

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the June 22 special called meeting, the Franklin County School Board finalized the budget for the 2017–18 school year, requesting an $842,000 increase in property tax revenue compared to last year. The board also approved a two-year contract for newly appointed director of schools Stanley Bean, who will take office July 1, replacing Director Amie Lonas who recently resigned.

Lonas’ draft budget recommended requesting a $492,000 increase in property tax revenue, citing a 6.9 percent increase in medical insurance costs (total $405,000) and $562,000 decrease in Basic Education Program (BEP) funding from the state.

“The only place we can get the additional revenue needed is from property taxes,” Lonas said. Property values in the county have increased, she explained, but the state’s recommendation is to keep the amount collected at the same level by decreasing the value of the penny.

If the property tax rate remained the same, the county would collect $2 million more in property tax revenue, Lonas noted.

Lonas stressed that paying 90 percent of medical insurance was a crucial “recruiting incentive.”

Board member Gary Hanger agreed. “If we start making teachers pay more of the insurance, they’ll look to other systems for employment.”

Lonas’ draft budget also included a 2 percent salary increase for both certified and support employees. For the coming year, the state is requiring $487,000 of the BEP money go for raising teachers’ salaries, she said, and a 2 percent increase was needed to meet that goal.

Lonas expressed concern that the budget would require the school system to draw $2 million from the fund balance, leaving only $2.8 million in the fund balance at the end of the 2017–18 school year. “This is not sustainable,” Lonas insisted.

Sewanee school board representative Adam Tucker proposed the board request an additional $350,000 in property tax revenue, half of the amount

Bond and Ward to Perform at All Saints’ Chapel

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

Peter Bond, trumpet professor for the Sewanee Summer Music Festival, will play with university organist and choirmaster Geoffrey Ward during the service in All Saint’s Chapel on Sunday, July 2.

Bond, who is entering his sixth SSMF summer, first began his summer stint in Sewanee as a substitute for a colleague at the festival.

“Peter and I met last summer in the dining hall at the salad bar, and I looked at him, and I said ‘I don’t know you, but I know you’re the trumpet professor, and it’s been a treat to hear you play,’” said Ward. “I told him that if it was ever an option, I’d love to have him play at All Saints’, and he lit up.”

And so the planning began.

“It’s always great to be here. It’s also nice to interact with musicians and people who live here—to not just come in and go away,” said Bond. “It’s like you’re contributing to the life of the community.”

It was this aspect of the Sewanee community that made agreeing to take part in a Sunday service so easy.

Both Bond and Ward said it is what they hope will be the beginning of a valuable partnership between the SSMF and the chapel.

Pop-Up Sale Will Offer Art, Rugs and Champagne

by Kevin Cummings
Messenger Staff Writer

Pearl’s Fine Dining opened in December under new ownership with rave reviews for the braised beef brisket, but on Sunday, July 2, the eatery will boast creations other than culinary art.

From 1 to 7 p.m., Pearl’s Pop Up Art & Rug Sale will display Turkish and Persian rugs from Morningside Rugs & Art in Atlanta, as well as works from Stanford Fine Art gallery in Nashville and Becky Braddock Pottery in Chattanooga.

“Perhaps the concept of ‘pop up retail’ is better known in urban environs. It is just that...it pops up one day and is gone, if not the next, soon thereafter,” said Lucy Keeble, owner of Morningside Rugs & Art. “Robert Tyler agreed to let us use his space as he is keen to bring new folks in for the sale hoping that they will come back one day very soon for dinner.”

Keeble said Tyler, Pearl’s manager, along with his wife Susie, will host the event, which includes free canapés and champagne.

“It will be a convivial affair,” Keeble said.

Lydia Denkler, director of Stanford Fine Arts, said the gallery

Monteagle Council Considers Midterm Alderman Election; Approves Budget

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the June 26 meeting, the Monteagle Town Council voted to appoint Chris Ladd to fill one of two vacant alderman seats. The motion to appoint John Knost to fill the other vacancy failed to receive a second.

The vacancies resulted from the resignation of Alderman Rusty Leonard and Alderwoman Delores Knott. Interested candidates were required to attend the May meeting. Only Knost and Ladd attended.

Alderman Kenneth Bishop initially made a motion to appoint both Knost and Ladd, but Mayor David Sampley said the candidates needed to be voted on separately. Bishop’s motion to appoint Knost failed to receive a second. Bishop seconded Vice-Mayor Jessica Blalock’s motion to appoint Ladd, and the motion received unanimous approval.

But following the vote, Bishop withdrew his second.

“In that case, we can’t do anything,” Sampley said. The vote was declared invalid at the meeting. City Recorder Debbie Taylor later consulted with MTAS (the Municipal Technical Advisory Service) who said the vote stood.

Yellow Dandies at Angel Park

Friday Nights in the Park, sponsored by the Sewanee Business Alliance (SBA), continues today (Friday), June 30, with the Yellow Dandies. The rain location is the American Legion Hall.

University Avenue will be closed at 6 p.m. for the annual outdoor family event, with food and drink from local vendors available for purchase. The entertainers play from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the Angel Park Pavilion. This event is free and open to the public.

The Yellow Dandies, including accomplished musicians and St. Andrew’s-Sewanee alumni Keystone Hill (Bailey Hill) and Ben Hood (Ben Ayers), combines, as they describe it “old-time string band music with the weirdness of Zappa, the heart of Hartford, and the idiotic fury of The Pogues.” Hill and Hood are joined by Wink Crittendon on bass and Aerin de Russy on fiddle. Hill, Hood, and the Yellow Dandies are out to showcase American folk music’s wild roots and introduce it to new audiences in a provocative way.

The SBA is sponsoring a reverse raffle to benefit Angel Park and the Community Action Committee, with a chance for participants to win up to $10,000.

Tickets are $100 each, and no more than 500 tickets will be sold. Tickets are for sale at the following local businesses: Locals, Woody’s Bicycles, Lemon Fair, The Blue Chair and University Realty. Tickets may also be purchased online at <sewaneeangelpark.com>.

During each Friday Nights in the Park event, there will be a drawing for a special prize. The ticket drawn will be placed back in the pool for another chance to win. On the last night, July 14, the $10,000 grand prize drawing will be held. Participants do not have to be present to win.

The rest of the lineup for Friday Nights in the park is The Top Tier Band on July 7, and C-Mac and the Madras Men on July 14.

OUR FLAG

To the Editor:

I have been going through the man things that I have accumulated during my lifetime and the enclosed article about our flag was among them.

"I'm Your Flag! Hello, remember me? Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star-Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your flag—the flag of the United States of America."

There are so many people who have forgotten the Pledge of Allegiance and no longer stand when the flag passes by. With all of the battles that are raging throughout the world, it is time for our people to draw closer together and protect our freedom. During my lifetime, World War II brought our people closer together and everyone worked to end the war. No one complained because there was rationing. There were few males in Sewanee, and women filled the jobs that the men had done. We had more than 250 local residents in service. There were metal drives and the people scoured dump sites for metal. Many Civil War guns went into the piles and the Civil War cannon that stood by the Cross went back to war.

When I saw this article about the flag, it made me think that it is time for all of us to count our blessings and work together.

Ina M. Myers, Sewanee ■

Students in grades K–third learned about their surroundings and mountain living during a month long summer camp centered around mountain heritage at Monteagle Elementary School. Themes included farming, coal mining, blacksmithing, beekeeping, quilting, canning, animals, logging, folklore, artisans and musicians. The MES summer camp incorporated reading, writing, STEAM activities, field trips, guest speakers and much more to enhance their summer learning experience.

CELEBRATE THE BIRTH OF THE UNITED STATES

To the Editor:

The last two years, just prior to the Fourth of July parade while people gathered along University Avenue, motorcyclists with the Rebel Battle flag came roaring back and forth, taking advantage of the crowd to make fools of themselves. They evidently don't understand that the Civil War was a rebellion against the United States of America and that July 4 is a celebration of the birth of the United States, not the Confederacy. The irony of the idiotic juxtaposition of flying the Rebel Battle Flag alongside of the American Flag is, apparently lost on them.

I propose that we, as a community, celebrate our Grand Marshals and the Fourth of July by simply turning our backs and chairs when these churlish "Rebel" motorcyclists who seek our attention much the same as two-year-old children, come roaring through our midst. Let us, simply, turn our backs. Spread the word.

four to five times the size of the local convenience market. The grocery will offer fresh produce, meats, dairy products and foods to prepare meals with, rather than just ready-to-eat foods.

Not far from the grocery, in a wooded area adjacent to Prince Lane (catty-corner to the Community Center), the design projects cottage court type housing with as many as 42 living spaces.

The plan also envisions nine single-family residences, multi-family homes with as many as 25 living spaces, and apartments on the upper level of all commercial buildings on both sides of the highway.

"The variety of residence types will make housing in Sewanee more affordable," Gladu said. "We don't really have that now. The cost of large homes creates a market that's very challenging for someone starting out."

"The residence variety called for in the plan is also making Sewanee attractive to developers," he pointed out.

"We're close to reaching an agreement with several developers, both in residential and commercial components of the plan," Gladu said. He cited the grocery, bookstore and Southern Tennessee Regional Health Systems (STRHS) interest in locating a clinic in downtown Sewanee.

One scenario under consideration by STRHS is a clinic with rotating specialties.

Gladu wants to see relocating the bookstore to downtown "on a faster track." The bookstore will continue to offer student course materials. "We're evaluating sites," Gladu said. "Once we decide on a site, it will take another couple months to design the structure, and probably a year for construction."

Plans call for the village green to be located on the present Sewanee Market lot. "We envision the green as a place for people to gather, a site for festivals and perhaps a location for the Sewanee Gardeners' Market," Gladu explained, noting that parking on the bordering streets was a possibility.

Gladu assumed the role of Special Assistant to the Vice Chancellor in January allowing him to focus full time on the senior living project Arcadia and downtown development. His office in the Lease Office "Blue House" at 400 University Avenue makes him easily accessible to residents who have questions about the Village Plan. You can also reach him at <fxgladu@sewanee.edu>.

The Downtown Development project will host an open house from noon to 2 p.m., Tuesday, July 4, at the Lease Office.

Needs such as affordable housing and a grocery have been on Sewanee's wish list for a long time, Gladu insisted, but "if we'd allowed the real estate market to do what it wanted to do when it wanted to do it, the result would be a hodgepodge." He sees the Village Plan as a way for these dreams to be realized while preserving the character of the Sewanee village long-time residents love.

Following up on the suggestion of a visitor, Sampley will contact the election commission to check on the legality of a midterm election to fill the remaining vacancy. "It would be expensive," Sampley cautioned.

The council approved the 2017-2018 budget. The budget calls for the purchase of two new police cruisers. Police Chief Virgil McNeese said the state contract listed the price as $29,310 each, noting that last year the cost was $35,000. The council approved the purchase at the 2017 contract price.

Fire Chief Mike Holmes said he only received two replies to his request for quotes on the repair of engine number one. Taylor said two quotes were sufficient if an effort had been made to get three quotes.

The council approved Holmes' recommendation to have the repair done by the Monteagle Rocky Top Truck Stop, the low bidder at $55,045. "I prefer local, and they're equipped to do it," Holmes said. He noted the department would have easy access to equipment on the truck if needed.

The council also approved Holmes request to enter into an Automatic Mutual Aid contract with Pelham Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

"We need an additional contract to get an upgrade on our ISO rating," Holmes said. The department already has a contract with Sewanee and in the past had a contract with Tracy City, "but it was very one sided," according to Holmes.

The council approved on second reading rezoning to accommodate a concrete plant even though negotiations fell through with the company considering locating in Monteagle. "We may be able to find another concrete company," said realtor Jimmy Jernigan. "There's no concrete plant on the mountain. There's a definite need."

Codes Enforcement officer Earl Geary said he'd prioritized eight out of 19 property maintenance issues. The owners of two structures had completed the legal process necessary for the city to proceed with demolition, but Geary stressed, "The city won't be reimbursed for the cost of the demo until the properties sell."

If the city chooses to perform maintenance, such as mowing the grass on neglected property, the city could place a lien on the property to recover expenses," Geary said.

A visitor proposed the city hire an officer to assist Geary. "He's overwhelmed. These old houses have been here for years. If we want the town cleaned up, we need to do something."

"Think about what you may need so far as help is concerned and get back to us," Sampley advised Geary.

Updating the council on progress in selecting an auditor, Sampley said the city's accountant recommended accepting the $17,000 bid from BCS accounting services. Last year's audit cost $35,000. The board approved the recommendation.

Blalock heads up the Parks and Recreation Department. Bishop asked if Blalock serving as both an alderman and department head violated policy. Taylor will research the question with MTAS.

The alderman discussed availing themselves of MTAS training. The council meets next Monday, July 24.

necessary to implement the 2 percent salary increases for certified and support employees (total cost, $700,000).

The board incorporated Tucker's suggestion and amended the budget, increasing the total property tax revenue request to $10.1 million. The board approved the budget unanimously.

Turning to the contract of newly appointed director of schools Stanley Bean, Board Chair Cleijo Walker said, "The salary amount must be above the highest paid salary we have, which is $98,500."

The board unanimously approved board member Lance Williams' recommendation they set Bean's salary at $108,500, which is 10 percent above the current highest salary.

Leading up to the final vote on approval of the contract, Tucker announced, "I am voting 'no,' but it's not due to lack of faith in Stanley Bean. You'll have my full support," Tucker said, turning to address Bean. "I can't approve the contract because of the way we got here. I'd vote 'yes,' if we'd conducted a search."

At the outset of the meeting, Franklin County Education Association (FCEA) President Anna Mullin addressed the board expressing concern about the manner in which Bean was appointed to the office of director of schools. "The decision that took place was not legal," Mullin said, insisting she spoke as a parent and community member, not as an FCEA representative. "You didn't follow your policy at all. I have no issue with Mr. Bean and hope his tenure is successful. I am not trying to change anything. But if you can disregard that policy, you can disregard others. I hope in the future, the board will carefully consider before taking any action that is contradictory to current policy." Note: The policy identifies practices and procedures for conducting a search for and reviewing the credentials of qualified applicants. The board appointed Bean without conducting a candidate search or review.

Like Tucker, board member Sara Liechty said she was unable to vote in favor of the contract. "I tie my concerns to those of Miss Mullins. I'll fully support Stanley Bean, and I recognize his strong support in the community, but policy was violated. I know Bean needs a contract, so I can't vote against it, but nor I can't vote it."

In the roll call vote that followed, Tucker voted, "no," and Liechty voted, "present," with the other six board members voting for approval.

Defending her motion at the June 12 meeting to appoint Stanley Bean director of schools, board member Linda Jones said a number of constituents contacted her and advised, "Don't do a search. Appoint Stanley Bean." Jones noted Bean was the runner up in the review process that resulted in Lomas' selection. "I don't apologize for making that motion," Jones said. "When I arrived at the meeting on June 12, I saw school attorney Chuck Cagel's proposal and timeline for conducting a search, and I thought, 'Why in the world would we wait until September to select a director when we have someone who can do the job.'"

The board meets next on Monday, July 10.

the parish through a long-range visioning process that resulted in master planning and a $4.2 million successful capital campaign to renovate the 1859 National Historic Landmark Church and eliminate the parish's debt to acquire adjacent property in downtown Huntsville. After physically "building the Church," Anderson spent his energy and leadership "building the church spiritually in formation, mission, and ministry," embracing the Catechumenate for new member incorporation, RenewalWorks Spiritual Development Ministries of Forward Movement and expanding the parish's outreach efforts including establishing one of the south's premier local Grower's and Artisan Markets, The Greene Street Market at Nativity. Nativity has a long tradition of supporting Centering Prayer, and Anderson is in the process of becoming a certified Centering Prayer Workshop Facilitator through Contemplative Outreach.

Before his tenure at Nativity, Anderson served as Rector of Grace Church in Anderson, S.C., where he led the parish through extensive strategic planning and a capital campaign to renovate and expand the historic church. Anderson initially served in ordained ministry at the Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta, Ga., as Canon Educator for Children, Youth and Family Ministries, embracing and leading a vision for ministry that saw tremendous growth.

R. Dale Grimes, President of the Board of Trustees of St. Mary's Sewanee, said "The Board of Trustees is thrilled to welcome Andy as the new executive director of St. Mary's Sewanee. Andy is absolutely the right person to take on these duties at this time. He brings to St. Mary's Sewanee his extensive experience in spiritual development programming and activities, service to and leadership in the Episcopal Church, financial and administrative acumen and significant and proven fundraising ability. We are excited about the possibilities for our future with Andy as our Executive Director as we enter a new phase of growth in programming and campus development."

In recent years, St. Mary's Sewanee has accomplished a number of goals in the plans envisioned by the Board. The Anna House, completed four years ago as the Center's newest lodging facility, has been fully brought on line, providing more hospitality options for its guests by allowing accommodation of larger groups as well as simultaneous use by multiple groups. The quality and number of its programs have increased, including a new relationship with the Shalem Institute for Spiritual Formation, which has commenced a four-part program, the Soul of Leadership, at St. Mary's Sewanee. Many other programs offered by long-time St. Mary's Sewanee presenters have been able to make use of the Center's new and upgraded facilities on a year-round basis.

Anderson returns to the Mountain with the enthusiasm and skills to lead St. Mary's Sewanee forward in this ongoing expansion of facilities and programs. "I first experienced St. Mary's as a thin holy place of spiritual connection to God on an Advent Quiet Day my first year at the School of Theology in 1991. I returned to St. Mary's many times during seminary years to know the quiet and refreshment from the beauty of holiness St. Mary's offers," Anderson remarks. "After beginning a Centering Prayer practice in the late 1990s, I began attending retreats and other events at St. Mary's. It's a part of my spiritual DNA and has continued to enrich and enliven my life and ministry. I have been nurtured by St. Mary's mission and its heart of prayerfulness and it will be a privilege to give back to this sacred and beautiful place that has given so much to me and to others. I am excited to continue my journey in the capacity as Executive Director and look forward to the great work of building upon what John Runkle and the fine staff and St. Mary's Board have launched. I believe in our mission, having served with fundraising efforts to help get us where we are today. I look forward to leading the efforts to allow others to be a part of contributing to St. Mary's mission with their time, talent and financial resources."

A native of Statesboro, Ga., Anderson holds a Doctor of Ministry and a Masters of Divinity honoris causa from The School of Theology at Sewanee, a Masters of Business Administration in Finance from Georgia State University and a Bachelor of Arts in History from the University of Georgia. Prior to ordination in 1994, Anderson had a successful career in corporate banking with the SunTrust Banks. He has served the wider church and Sewanee in many capacities and looks forward to strengthening St. Mary's connections to the wider Church as well as in interfaith collaborations. He and his wife Tippy have been married for almost 36 years and have two adult children, Case and Sally, who like Andy and Tippy, consider Sewanee home.

The Parade

The Sewanee Fourth of July parade will begin at 2 p.m. starting at the Sewanee Market and will travel through town, turning on to Hall Street and ending in the parking lot behind the Hospitality Shop. All sirens will be turned off at the Kirby-Smith monument.

To enter the parade, contact Leigh Anne Couch at 598-5068. Please note: All entrants in the parade must complete and return an entry form. Form is online at <themountainnow.com>.

Attention Parade Bicyclists

Part of what makes Sewanee's parade so sweet on the Fourth is that whole families can be involved, from a toddler pulled in a wagon to kids on tricycles, training wheels, and bikes. Some years, it can be like a mini Tour de France! If you and your kids want to be in the parade this year, please fill out a parade entry form and meet at Woody's on the Fourth of July at 1 p.m. Woody will judge the best decorated bicycles this year and in addition to a medal, the first-place winner will get a special prize from Woody's shop (Thank you, Woody!).

All bicyclists will be lead by a parade volunteer over to the Shenanigan's parking lot facing University Avenue, where they will join the parade when it passes. The parade ends at Hall Avenue just before the Hospital. We'll turn right at Hall and then right again into the big parking lot that runs behind the Hospitality Shop.

To ride your bike in the parade, you will need an entry form; to be at Woody's no later than 1:40 p.m. (or 1 p.m., if you want to be in best decorated bike contest); a helmet; and an adult accompanying all children under 16.

Food and Drink III

There will be music and barbecue in Angel Park featuring the Thumping Richards, Sewanee's premier R&B band, following the parade.

Air Show and Rides

Weather permitting, the Air Show will take place at 3:30 p.m. at the Sewanee Airport.

Airplane rides will be available for adults and children after the parade until 6 p.m. at the Sewanee Airport.

Silent Auction at Locals

Tennessee Craft-South Chapter will offer unique, regional works of art via silent auction on Tuesday, July 4, from noon until 3 p.m. in Locals at 49 University Ave., Sewanee, between Regions Bank and the Blue Chair. All proceeds directly benefit Tennessee Craft - South and its parent organization, Tennessee Craft.

Bids will be taken on works in wood, clay, fiber, metal, glass and mixed media created by members of Tennessee Craft - South, an artist-run organization dedicated to supporting and promoting the arts in the region. The Silent Auction has proved to be a great success, as each year the bidders become more skillful and strategic in acquiring that special piece of art. There will also be the "Buy It Now" option that was very popular last year, so be sure to stop in early.

Tennessee Craft - South is one of six active regional chapters of artists and craftspeople belonging to Tennessee Craft (formerly known as TACA), a state-wide non-profit organization founded to encourage, develop and promote regional crafts and craftspeople.

Tennessee Craft - South sponsors the annual Holiday Tour in Sewanee and Monteagle, as well as an art exhibit of work by members at the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School gallery.

For more information on Tennessee Craft or our local chapter please visit <www.tennesseecrafts.org>. For information about Locals, call 598-0400 or visit <www.myspoint.com/locals/>. For information about the auction contact Mary Lynch at <mlynchtn@charter.net>.

Additional Parade Information

Line up begins at noon on Lake O'Donnell Road—judging begins at 12:30 p.m. Please enter Lake O'Donnell at the end closest to the airport. Bicycles are to be at Woody's Bike Shop at 1 p.m. for the best decorated bike contest. All parade entries must be in place by 1 p.m.

We appreciate your help in making the parade safe and enjoyable for everyone.

If you will be throwing candy, please be sure to throw it as close to the curb as you can. We want to keep our little ones as safe as possible by keeping them from running out into the road.

If you have a horn or other type of loud noise, please turn it off when your parade entry reaches the Kirby-Smith Monument. There are those who do not like to hear the sirens and they will be seated at or near the hospital. Due to insurance precautions, we will once again be asking that you sign a release form. Someone will be there the day of the parade to take care of this.

And last but not least, if you will be riding a motorcycle or four-wheeler, please wear your helmet and be very cautious in your driving. Remember, there are children all along the parade route. Your help in this will be greatly appreciated.

sharing their gifts at All Saints' going forward. I think this is a great way to get that process started and in the future," said Ward. "I hope we are able to get [the student] musicians involved in the musical life of the chapel, as it is the center of the university and the primary academic room we use on campus."

Preparation for the duo began when Bond arrived on the mountain. The two have prepared pieces by George Frideric Handel and Tomaso Giovanni Albinoni, pieces that, according to Ward, will feature Bond on trumpet and Ward on the organ. Ward, who studied trumpet at university, said the organ and the trumpet are a beautiful pairing.

For Bond, the point of students coming to the mountain for the festival is to learn all they can, and having access to professional musicians like Ward on campus is a benefit.

"Later on, perhaps I can bring my students over, and they can learn how to play a wedding or how to play a worship service. Trumpet players do a lot of this kind of work, and this is an opportunity for students to learn even more," said Bond.

Ward said Bond's presence in the Sewanee community as an instructor for the festival is a "gift that keeps on giving."

"Any time you get to interact with anyone who is at the top of their profession is an opportunity to learn, be educated and be inspired. He's really immersing himself in the festival and the community, and it's to our benefit," said Ward. "It's wonderful to have Peter here to help inspire us in our worship experience. It reminds us that this is one of the great centers of teaching and learning in the country."

Bond and Ward will play together during the 11 a.m., Sunday service on July 2 in All Saints' Chapel.

The Monteagle Sunday School Assembly in Monteagle continues its 135th consecutive summer season of enrichment with an interdenominational worship service Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Assembly's Warren Chapel. The eight-week season will continue through Sunday, Aug. 6, featuring numerous visiting lecturers who will present morning and evening programs in Warren Chapel that are open free of charge to the public; unless otherwise noted, morning lectures begin at 10:45 a.m. and evening lectures at 8:15 p.m. Anyone interested in a full schedule of the Monteagle Assembly's 2017 program is welcome to pick one up at the Assembly Office, call (931) 924-2286, or to peruse the schedule on the Assembly's website at <www.mssa1882.org>.

The ongoing development of the Mountain Goat Trail is the subject of Sewanee Domain Manager Nate Wilson's talk Monday, July 3 at 10:45 a.m. Nate, who lives in Monteagle, is the president of the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance (MGTA). After recently completing an extension of the paved Mountain Goat Trail from Sewanee to Monteagle, the MGTA is now exploring further extension of the trail through Monteagle.

What would a July 4 week be without yummy food? New York Times bestselling author Anne Byrn returns to the Assembly Wednesday morning, July 5, to share the real stories behind America's great cakes. Whether the cake was a layer, Bundt, chocolate or spice, sheet cake or cupcakes, whether made with white sugar or molasses and frosted or unfrosted, that cake said much about America when it was first baked. Our nation's good times, hard times, our melting pot of immigrants, the cultures, fads, fashions, the wars, the inventions, the Presidents and the sheer American spirit have all contributed to the cakes we have baked and the ones that endure today in our recipe boxes. In her book, "American Cake" (Rodale, 2016), Byrn looks through the lens of cake to better understand who we are. And right on time for our nation's birthday, Byrn takes us on a confectionary journey from Colonial Gingerbread to Jam Cake to Fannie Farmer's first brownies, to Lady Baltimore, to Red Velvet, to flourless chocolate cakes, to today's Tres Leches and Chocoflan. Building on her morning lecture, Byrn will lead a cooking demo Wednesday, July 5, at 2:30 p.m. in Harton Hall. In the kitchen, she will bake four cakes from various periods in American history. After we discuss their ingredients, pans, methods, similarities, differences, when they were served and to whom, we will taste cakes.

Thursday, July 6, at 8:15 p.m., private furniture dealer and consultant in southern decorative Anne McPherson will share what she knows about "Fans, Fish, Tassels, and Bellflowers: The Idiosyncratic Inlaid Furniture of Northeastern Tennessee." The cabinetmakers from Greene and Washington Counties constructed furniture decorated with very frolicsome inlay. Largely isolated from the East Coast and even from other parts of the southern backcountry, these craftsmen created a body of work that is now recognized as having been made in northeastern Tennessee. This lecture will examine the design influences which crossed very permeable county and state lines and how idiosyncratic inlay motifs that seem distinct to one cabinetmaking shop in one county often appear in modified form in the work of shops in another county.

The Chattanooga Symphony and Opera's string ensemble will perform Friday, July 7, at 8 p.m. in the Auditorium.

Additional free events this week include the following:

Wednesday, July 5, 8:15 p.m., Pulliam Center: Screening of the documentary "Reel Injun: On the Trail of the Hollywood Indian" (PG, 2009).

Friday, July 7, 10:45 a.m., Warren Chapel: "Seeking to Reclaim the Church's Biblical Commitment to Bodies and Spirits," with Dr. Scott Morris.

specializes in American and European paintings, sculpture and works on paper from the 19th century to present.

Denkler has been an art consultant and dealer for more than a decade in New York and Nashville. Her mother, Margaret Woods, and two sisters live in the Clifftops community in Monteagle. She said she's excited to show gallery selections at her "second home" on the Mountain.

"As the newest member of the (Stanford) team, I bring experience in the planning and organization of a broad range of projects from advising individuals in the creation and growth of private collections to providing curatorial advice and consultations for galleries, museums, interior designers and other institutions," Denkler said.

Braddock has worked in various mediums, but she said making pots is a special passion.

"My pottery is wheel-thrown and hand-built from stoneware and porcelain clays," she said. "I love fish and birds and perching them on top of my pots. I never fail to get a rush from modeling a Carolina wren from Carolina clay. I continue to be challenged by the creative possibilities of being a potter."

A Sewanee graduate, Keeble has collected rugs for more than 40 years.

"I hand-pick hand-knotted Turkish, Persian and Moroccan vegetable-dyed beauties from around the world, be they vintage, semi-antique or antique," she said. "I offer both investment and museum quality rugs, but also expect my more affordable rugs to stand the test of time."

Keeble said she plans to bring a variety of smaller room-size rugs, accent rugs and runners to the event.

"I like to encourage people to think of their floors, more like their walls, as large canvases upon which to draw," she said. "We often look down when we walk about our homes, so doesn't it make sense that we should put some art under our feet?"

She also plans to bring some intriguing items, possibilities include a rare antique tea caddy, a mid-century Matador sculpture, Turkish kilim pillow covers and flow blue china.

Dede Clements, owner of Edgeworth Inn, a co-sponsor of the event, came up with the idea for the pop-up art show. She is an art collector and promotor, who co-chairs Art for the Park at Trails & Trilliums. Through the Edgeworth Inn, Clements also represents Sewanee artist Bob Short.

ANGELWITH AN ATTITUDE

by Virginia Craighill

Dear Angel,

I noticed that there is no longer a Cat Show in the Sewanee 4th of July line-up. I have been adopting cats all year in the hopes of having some prize-winning feline entries in this year's contest. Now what am I supposed to do with all these cats?

*Signed,
Hissing Mad*

Dear Hissy Fit,

For many years, Sewanee did have a 4th of July Cat Show, as cat owners insisted on equal-opportunity pet exploitation with the Mutt Show. They hauled their reluctant fluffy friends over to Manigault Park, forcing them to compete in an undignified contest for "Fluffiest Tail," "Most Unusual Markings," and the humiliating "Biggest Cat" prizes. No cat owners ever succeeded in dressing their cat up in a costume without serious injury to themselves, as far as I know, so they had to get by with decorating their cages instead. Un-medicated cats (the Cat Show Judges insisted on testing all contestants for performance enhancing drugs) are generally crowd-averse, and it was a pathetic sight to see these fine intelligent animals held up for public inspection and the fondling of strangers.

Unlike their drooling canine counterparts, cats are proud and independent creatures, as you must know by now, and they tolerated this abuse for as long as they could, but in 2015 Sewanee cats unionized and forced the shutdown of the 4th of July Cat Show, much to the dismay of those who enjoy good cat jokes and love ogling Sewanee's finest examples of feline pulchritude. Hopefully the audience members can satisfy their prurient desires through the internet's Dark Web of kitten memes and cat videos.

But your question is what to do with the accumulation of cats? My first answer would be to spay and neuter them immediately. Second, I might suggest seeing which ones do best on a leash and can learn tricks on command, then enter those in the Mutt Show, if winning prizes is what you're all about. The judges will balk (as will the cats), but any decent lawyer could threaten them with a discrimination suit. And if all else fails, set your phone on video and start recording. You will always find an audience online.

*That's all for meow,
Angel with an Attitude*

Dear Angel,

I left town for a while and came back to Sewanee to find some strange alterations in the landscape, such as the straw-covered patch of earth in the Lake Cheston parking lot and the brightly-colored obnoxious plastic signs all over the trails. What's going on here?

Signed, YSR Never Change!

Dear Alummi,

Scientists have determined that the "straw-covered patch of earth" at Cheston is actually a crop circle, one of those mysterious large circular markings found all over the world that appear almost overnight. Crop circles are sometimes thought to be left by flying saucers when aliens come to earth for unknown purposes. Not only that, but large boulders have materialized in the same lot, suggesting some Stonehenge-like sacrificial altar or barbecue pit will be set up.

Scoff if you will, but the Cheston Parking Lot Crop and Stone Circle coincides with many high-profile disappearances of University officials. For example, the Provost has taken a position as the president of a college in "Wisconsin." We all know that Wisconsin is a made-up state. Dean Hagi is also leaving, but would the Dean of Fun actually want to give up the joys of dealing with Greek shenanigans in the middle of the night to work at a college with no fraternities or sororities? I think not. One answer: Alien Abduction.

So how did the aliens find their way around? That's simple: the new signage. Thanks to the efforts of the University to make sure all visitors can find sites on campus easily, the UFO was able to land, and its occupants made their way across the domain, hiked the Perimeter Trail, abducted administrators, and impregnated the goats. That's right – another mystery solved. How else would you explain the birth of 19+ goat kids with no billy goats in the compound? Aliens.

Now that they are familiar with Sewanee, perhaps these Extraterrestrials will decide to enroll their offspring in Sewanee's C'21, as it seems the entering class is a little down. We could always use a few more Intelligent Life Forms in the freshman class.

Best, Angel

Levinson-LaBrosse Next SOL Reader

Each summer the School of Letters invites writers, poets, publishers and scholars to speak each week that school is in session. These events are free and open to the public. A reception follows.

At 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 5, in Guerry Auditorium, Alana Levinson-LaBrosse will read. Levinson-LaBrosse is a translator, poet and teacher who has lived and worked in Iraq for the last six years. She served as the founding chair of the English Department at the American University of Iraq, Sulaimani (AUIS). She received her M.F.A. at Warren Wilson and M.Ed from the University of Virginia.

"Handful of Salt" (The Word Works, 2016) introduced Kajal Ahmad's poetry to English. A new and selected works of Abdulla Pashew is forthcoming from Phoneme Media in 2017. Poems, translations and essays have appeared in Epiphany, The Iowa Review, Words Without Borders, and the Poetry Society of America. She is currently co-director at AUIS' Kashkul.

This event is co-sponsored with the Friends of duPont Library. For more School of Letters events, go to <letters.sewanee.edu>.

Summer Festival of Artists and Authors at IONA

The Summer Festival of Artists and Authors at IONA: Art Sanctuary continues with readings and art exhibits. The public is welcome, all events are free and parking is available. Pippa Browne's exhibition of paintings, "dogs as fantasy angel spirits and carers of the dark," continues through July 2.

The final reading at 5 p.m., today (Friday), June 30, features Erika Cannon, Kevin Cummings and Elizabeth Savage. A reception will follow.

Cannon is a storyteller. She wrote short novels in elementary school, chronicled school life in junior high and high school yearbooks, majored in journalism at the University of South Carolina, then told stories of small town life in the Sumter Daily Item, one of the country's last afternoon newspapers.

She continues her storytelling through a blog, As We Live <as-we-live.com>, in which she looks at moments of her life through the filter of scripture, and tries to listen for God's direction. Cannon lives in Sewanee with husband Michael, a student at the School of Theology, and daughter Isabel.

Cummings is a poet, journalist and freelance writer, and co-founder of Sewanee Poetry Night (now Sewanee Spoken Word). He will perform poetry at IONA that is visceral, truth-seeking and occasionally frilly. Cummings has written for numerous publications and served as editor, publisher and reporter at various newspapers in Oregon, the Dakotas, Tennessee and Georgia. Kevin is currently a staff writer and sports editor for the Sewanee Mountain Messenger.

Savage is a native of southwestern Indiana. She lives in Newburgh and teaches high school English in Mount Carmel, Ill. She has a short story published on "1 in 1000." She is an M.F.A. student of poetry at the Sewanee School of Letters.

On July 1-2, from 1 to 3 p.m., IONA is open for viewings of Browne's paintings. IONA: Art Sanctuary is located at 630 Garnertown Road.

Columbine.

Oregon Flora and Fauna

Once again we have been spending time in the high desert around Bend, Oregon. On Pilot Butte, we saw rock chucks, or yellow-bellied marmots. Sitting up eating grasses, they look like little woodchuck or prairie dogs, but then they make a dash for their burrows in the ground and one sees their squirrel-like tails. They are also known as ground squirrels. I'm also fairly confident in my identification of a black-throated sparrow, a common resident of this arid hillside environment.

This is the first time we've been there in the spring, and I wish I could have identified all the wildflowers and grasses. One notable flower was the silverleaf phacelia, very hairy with a scorpioid inflorescence such as our phacelia and waterleafs have. It attracted numerous pollinators. The dominant tree was the western juniper.

Along the Deschutes River we hiked in an area with much Douglas fir. More wildflowers, including the same wild columbine as in our area, as well as a little lupine, Indian paintbrush, and many others, allowed us to experience spring again. —reported by Yolande Gottfried

HEARING HEALTH NEWS
by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist
IMPROVING THE QUALITY OF LIFE

According to a study by the National Council on the Aging (NCOA), older persons with hearing loss who don't wear hearing instruments are more likely to report sadness, depression, worry, anxiety, paranoia, reduced social activity, and greater amounts of emotional turmoil and insecurity. The NCOA conducted a large-scale survey of people over the age of 50 with hearing loss to determine the effects of untreated hearing loss on the quality of life. Among other things, this study reports that the majority of properly fitted hearing instrument users reported a significant improvement in the quality of life from using hearing instruments including improved relationships and higher confidence and a more optimistic perspective on life overall.

Talk, listen, smile, and live again with custom fitted hearing instruments from Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center LLC. BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;
Alike the conquerer sleeps;
And Time the ruined bridge has swept
Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream,
We set today a votive stone;
That memory may their deed redeem
When, like poor sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit, that made those heroes dare
To die, and leave their children free,
Bid Time and Nature gently spare
The shaft we raise to them and thee.

Concord Hymn (July 4, 1837), by Ralph Waldo Emerson

"There, I guess King George will be able to read that."
John Hancock, affixing a bold signature to the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776.
