Menu Changes, New Hours at Shenanigans

Shenanigans is making changes to its schedule and refining its menu, effective immediately.

The Sewanee landmark will be closed on Mondays and Tuesdays, and also at lunchtime on Wednesdays, said restaurant owner Ward Cammack. It will open for dinner at 5 p.m. Wednesdays and remain open through Sunday. Until early August, Shenanigans will serve lunch and dinner on Sunday; after that, it will be open for Sunday lunch only.

"These changes give us the opportunity to focus our attention more directly in order to enhance our customer value proposition," Cammack said in a recent interview. "With our schedule in the past, it was not sustainable to be open for spells when there are few customers and with so many employees needed to fill the schedule, consistency of quality was more of a challenge."

At the same time as changing its days of operation, co-owner Shelley Cammack said that the restaurant would be offering some new items.

"We will have more imaginative fresh salads with healthy dressings and fruit," she said, "with an increasing array of new specials, which have been a real driver for us."

The menu changes the Cammacks have brought to Shenanigans have been well-received, they said. "The salmon and Peruvian chicken burritos are now some of our most popular items," Ward said.

The hours of operation are also affected by these changes.

"Once the grill closes at 9 p.m., it will be 'last call' for anyone remaining in the restaurant," Ward said, noting that the staff would begin the end-of-the-day cleanup and plan to have the restaurant closed by 10 p.m. It will continue to be available for special events, such as post-wedding receptions and private parties.

"We love being in Sewanee and are committed to having a restaurant where people can come and eat and share together," Ward said.

2012–13 School Budget Still in Limbo

by K. G. Beavers,
Messenger Staff Writer

The Franklin County School Board met in a work session on July 2 to discuss the 2012–13 budget and re-view the bus transportation services contract.

Director of Schools Rebecca Sharber reported that the proposed revenue for the 2012–13 school year is approximately $42 million. The proposed expenditures are approximately $44 million.

The revenue from the appraised tax value has not been made official. Sharber said the numbers from the 2011–12 school year were used for this year's budget. The sales tax revenue is the same number each year, and anything over that amount is used to pay off the debt services. Some revenues and expenditures for the budget have not yet been finalized.

School board chairman Chris Guess said the estimated 2011–12 fund balance as of June 30 was at approximately $3.1 million. The estimated fund balance as of July 1 is approximately $5 million, the increase attributed to lower spending than planned.

"We spent approximately $2 million less than what was budgeted for last year," Guess said. "We continue to have mandates from the state such as raises and insurance increases, but we get no more local money. We are not overspending."

In the meantime, Guess said, "we have vacancies that need to be filled and maintenance issues that need to be addressed."

By law, the school board is required to keep 3 percent of its expected revenue in a reserve fund. The school board is proposing to use approximately $2 million of its fund balance to balance the budget.

A resolution was presented requesting that the Franklin County Commission fully fund the "maintenance of effort" for the school system. Franklin County is required by state law to fund the school system each year by providing an amount at least equal to the amount in the prior year's budget. The county commission has not fully funded this maintenance of effort for the past three years.

As of June 30, 2011, the total accumulated deficiency was $1,084,544. The school board is requesting that the

Angel Park Music Series

The Angel Park Summer Music Series continues at 6:30 p.m. tonight, July 6, with Slandered Banshee, an Irish music group comprised of Regina Rourk Childress, Burki Gladstone, Leslie Lytle, Roger McCoy, April Minkler and Jeanie Stephenson.

The Angel Park is located in the Sewanee village between the Lemon Fair and the American Legion Hall. Food and drink will be available. Bring a lawn chair or a blanket to enjoy the music with friends.

Next Friday, July 13, participants in the Sewanee Summer Music Festival will perform at 5 p.m. [Please note the earlier time.]

Record-Breaking Heat Across the Area

The hot, dry weather at the end of June and in early July broke a number of long-standing records, but the Sewanee area has not yet been declared in any stage of drought.

Ben Beavers, manager of the Sewanee Utility District, and two members of the SUD board met on July 3 with the managers of Big Creek and Tracy City water districts, as well as the Monteagle mayor, Marilyn Nixon, and other representatives of the Monteagle water system. This group gathers as the South Cumberland Regional Drought Committee to monitor water levels.

"All systems reported on their raw water situation, and it was determined that none of the systems meet the criteria for Stage 1 water restrictions (voluntary limiting)," Beavers said, "so no restrictions were set."

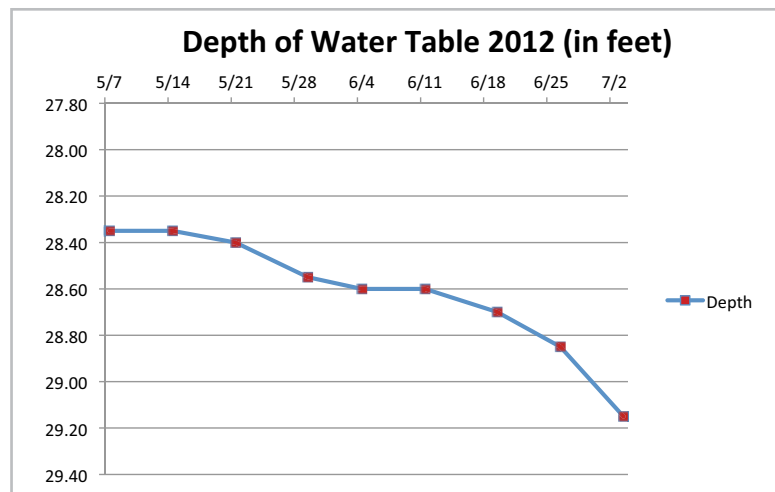

The June 30 high temperature of 101 degrees broke all known records in Sewanee as the hottest day ever recorded. The previous record was 99 degrees on July 18, 1980. For all of the week's weather statistics, see the box on page 10.

Nicole Nunley, the forestry and geology lab coordinator at the University, provided information on the declining depth of the water table.

"The graph (below) shows the depth to the water table below ground level on central campus as measured weekly at Snowden Hall," she said. "Depths will vary from location to location across the plateau. Since all groundwater is derived from rain, fluctuations in the water table are the result of recent rain history," Nunley said. This information will become part of the weekly weather report in the Messenger on the Nature page.

For the month of June, total rainfall measured 1.47 inches. "This is not the driest year on record," she said, "but we are on track for perhaps the driest year yet." The instruments used for the official readings are behind Snowden Hall

"To Kill a Mockingbird" Anniversary At Assembly

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of the release of the film "To Kill a Mockingbird," the Monteagle Sunday School Assembly (MSSA) will feature "An Evening with Mary Badham, a.k.a. 'Scout' in To Kill A Mockingbird" at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, July 10, in Warren Chapel.

Badham was selected for the role of "Scout" in the adaptation of Harper Lee's novel at the age of 10. She was nominated for an Oscar as Best Supporting Actress and at the time was the youngest person ever nominated.

Over the years, Badham maintained a close friendship with Gregory Peck, (Atticus Finch in the film). Now, Badham lectures to audiences internationally about the social justice issues portrayed in the book and the film. Badham was featured in a similar presentation at the White House in April.

In conjunction with Badham's presentation, there will be a showing of the documentary film "Hey, Boo: Harper Lee and To Kill a Mockingbird" at 4 p.m. on Monday, July 9, in Warren Chapel.

PEARL'S OPENING SOON To the Editor:

We wanted to let everyone know how very much we appreciate your outpouring of support and good wishes on our reopening of Pearl's Foggy Mountain Cafe. We have been working feverishly to get ready for our opening.

We have been lucky in having the wonderful remodeling help of Rick Duncan, who has helped us transform this building into a bright, shiny penny. His work is unmatched. Steve Winney and his crew have repainted and lightened the restaurant into a beautiful showplace on the Mountain. Dave Harback and his friends have helped put on the crowning touches. Matt Combs has worked on getting us new equipment, help in finding resources and been able to answer any question we had. Houston Jones has been here all week cleaning and helping bring the shine back to this glorious Pearl. Chef George Stevenson and I have been working on new menus and saving your favorite dishes. We thank you all for your help and unending faith.

We had good intentions for being ready for you all by July 1, but please be assured we will be open in July. We just have a few more I's to dot and T's to cross. And for all of those wonderful people who have applied to come and work with us, thank you, too. We look forward to working with you, and having a great place for you to come to every day. With our thanks and good wishes.

CARING FOR THE SICK AND SUFFERING To the Editor:

I have been in medical practice in Chattanooga since 1975 and have watched my patients deal with the devastating consequences of chronic disabling diseases which come out of the blue to strike individuals from ages 1 to 90. No one deserves this suffering, nor can we predict when and whom it will strike. One of the most devastating consequences of chronic disease is that its sufferers are often dropped from medical insurance coverage and find it impossible to get needed care.

President Obama's healthcare plan ("Americare," not "Obamacare") is a compassionate remedy of this great injustice. It is not the whole answer to our healthcare problems—we must better control costs by decreasing so many unnecessary MRIs, CTs and bone density studies—but President Obama's initiative is a giant step to having the richest country in the world take care of its sick and suffering citizens.

county fund this deficit by decreasing the amount that the school board is required to pay on its debt repayment by $250,000 per year, until the debt is repaid.

For the bus transportation services contract, beginning in 2012–13 and continuing through 2015–16, the following changes for compensation were made:

Each of the 39 bus drivers will get base pay, plus a seat rate ($16.27 x 9 months x number of seats) and mileage rate ($1.07 x 180 days x number of miles). The mileage rate was increased to $1.07 from $0.80. A fuel supplement is paid when the cost of diesel exceeds $3.73 a gallon. The mileage rate and fuel supplement will be reviewed annually.

This proposed contract is under review by the bus contractors before it is considered for approval at the July 9 school board meeting.

on campus; these were begun by the U.S. Forest Service in 1958.

According to hydrologist Martin Knoll, there are some interesting trends in rainfall that have been recorded for the last 100 years.

"This is not as bad as the 2007 drought, yet," said Knoll. Lake Jackson is 6 feet below as of July 3.

In 2007, Sewanee received only 35 inches of rainfall for the entire year. So far this year, through June 30, Sewanee has received 17 inches of rain. At this point in 2007, year-to-date rainfall totaled 16.27 inches.

Beavers assured residents that Sewanee has "plenty of water."

Carillon Events for July

Beginning this weekend and through Sunday, July 22, there will be quite a few carillon recitals. On Sunday, July 8, Anton Fleisner will perform at 4:45 p.m. Anton has played here each of the last several summers and does a fine job. He just graduated from Princeton University.

As part of the Sewanee Church Music Conference program, Ray Gotko will play at 4:30 p.m., Friday, July 13, before the Evensong service. Evensong is probably my favorite service at All Saints' Chapel, and since the music conference participants present an excellent program each year, I encourage you to attend both Ray's recital and the service itself.

On July 15, two of my students and I will present a concert of carillon duets. I have always enjoyed playing duets—clarinet, bassoon, piano—and now I particularly enjoy duets on the carillon. Charlene Williamson, a first-grade teacher in Winchester, has been playing for just a year, but she has made great progress. We played duets for the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, and I think that you will enjoy them (four classical country dances and three Anglo-American folk songs, both sets composed or arranged by Ronald Barnes).

Ray Gotko has been playing for two years and is enjoying the transition from piano to carillon. On July 15, we will play three pieces originally written in the 1700s and 1800s, arranged for carillon. We will close with what is probably my favorite carillon duet, Barnes' "A Carillon Concerto for Two to Play." Since I have played it here before with both Sam Hammond and with John Hammond, you may recognize the piece.

The summer season closes on July 22 with a concert by me. I will play some spirituals, including a medley by Brown Foundation fellow Prakash Wright; three arrangements of music from Nepal; two of my favorite arrangements by Laura Whipple; a major piece, "Passacaglia Antiqua per Campanae" by recent visitor Geert D'hollander; and close with Eventide.

its water are not dangerously low yet, he said. In addition to Lake Jackson being below normal, Lake O'Donnell is down about 2 feet from normal. And, since the 2007 drought, SUD has a new intake at Lake O'Donnell that can draw more water than before.

Conservation measures in 2007 were imposed in July, when Lake Jackson was down 10 feet and Lake O'Donnell was down 2.5 feet.

The Tennessee Department of Agriculture's Division of Forestry is asking the public to refrain from debris burning until significant precipitation is received and to avoid other activities that could cause fire.

"Most areas of the state are experiencing very hot and dry conditions with low humidity," state forester Steven Scott said. "We're urging citizens to avoid burning until conditions improve."

Art Show at Mooney's

The Hall Gallery at Mooney's Market and Emporium will feature the art of Betty Roberts this month. The show will open with a reception for the artist at 5 p.m., Friday, July 13.

The show features 24 canvas paintings and an assortment of decorative items. Roberts is a native of Sewanee currently living in Monteagle. She is a prolific folk artist, using acrylic paints to adorn furniture, pottery, lamps and found wood objects when canvas is unavailable. Her images include Native American figures, patriotic themes, mythical figures, animals and regular people doing regular things. When asked where she finds her inspiration, Roberts replied that painting is "like watching television, the images just unfold."

Mooney's is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and is located across from the sand plant at 1265 West Main St., Monteagle. For more information call (931) 924-7400.

Sewanee Artists Showcase Talents in Nashville

Nick Evans, a member of the Sewanee-based band the Culprits, will play at Nashville's famed Bluebird Café on Sunday, July 8. His performance is part of the Bluebird's Writer's Night hosted by Steve Goodie. The show begins at 8 p.m. There is no cover charge, and seating is first-come, first-served. Evans is a student at Davidson College, a 2010 graduate of St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, and the son of Amy and Jon Evans of Sewanee.

John Holleman, theater and film teacher at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School is directing his play, "Pokerface," at the Darkhorse Theater July 6–14. The sharp-witted, probing piece captures both the humor and the pathos of two modern American men plagued by, as the playwright puts it, "too, too much leisure time."

Performances will be Friday and Saturday, July 6–7, and Thursday–Saturday, July 12–14. Admission is $10. After the Nashville run, "Pokerface" travels to Chicago.

THE VISITING TEAM

by Kiki Beavers

There is a point in a young athletic career when you think you know better than the coach. Sometimes you absolutely have to go with what you know. This happened with my teammates during a basketball tournament. We were the undefeated Blue Devils from Najmah, Saudi Arabia. Everyone on the team lived there because our parents worked for Aramco, the American Arabian oil company.

This team had Karen from New York, who could perimeter shoot and pass with deadly accuracy. We had Mary from California, a dandy point guard. We had two girls who I think were from Texas, and there was no doubt they were going to end up with the ball. The team also had a post player from Tennessee. I was at least half a foot taller and 20 pounds heavier than most girls.

After winning the regular season and the school tournament, Aramco decided to fly us to Riyadh to play. Our regular coach could not come with us, so the school sent Coach Wertheimer on the trip.

Coach "W" liked to use his whiteboard to diagram intricate plays that were marvelous if you understood angles and the laws of physics. We were in ninth grade. We knew pass, cut, pivot, shoot, rebound and go straight back up. We knew our places on defense. We had always been successful with what we knew.

We won the first two games of the tournament with this coach that we barely knew. Then came the final round. Coach "W" drew a new play, "the wheel," and he had to use three sections of his whiteboard to explain it to us. We were losing 10-0 at the half.

At halftime, Coach "W" tried again to explain why this play would work. My teammates looked at him, then we looked at each other. As we headed back onto the court, we put our hands together and said, "Jungle Ball." We knew it was okay to lose, and perhaps the time had come. But it was not okay to lose by not scoring any points.

In the second half, we played like we always had. We ignored the coach's whiteboard and his repeated attempts to get us to run his play. As the score crept back to a normal basketball score, Coach "W" gave up on "the wheel." He let us play our game. We lost the tournament, but Karen and Mary were named to the all-tournament team.

When we got back to Najmah, Coach "W" called a practice. There was one more tournament, but first we had to run numerous "suicides" for not listening to the coach during the game.

Years later I became a coach. Going into a Big Eight tournament during my second year, we were down by four points, and nothing was working. For every good thing we did, the other team would score four to our two points.

I put down my whiteboard and called a time out. Ashley, Anneke, Ali, Elise and Larnie, all girls from Tennessee, looked at me. We stacked our hands together as I explained "Jungle Ball." In that 30-second timeout, they understood. They made it to the next round, winning by three points.

Sometimes it is okay to just go with what you know.

The players on the Sewanee Elementary School's basketball teams were honored at the end of the school year. Trophies were presented to each player, and the teams were congratulated for their hard work during the season.

Tennis Teams Add Recruits

The University men's and women's tennis teams have earned Top 25 national recruiting rankings, according to the Tennis Recruiting Network. For the women's team, Conchie Shackelford's program ranked 17th. On the men's side, John Shackelford announced that the Tigers' class ranked 19th. The men's commitments include Connor Winkler (Shreveport, La.), Sean Laughlin (New Orleans, La.) Eric Roddy (Chattanooga, Tenn.), Nelson Jetmundsen (Birmingham, Ala.) and three other future student-athletes.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Armadillos on the Mountain

A lot of people have called Jean and Harry Yeatman lately about seeing dead armadillos along the roadside. "For the last four or five years we have been aware of their being in this area, but now they seem to be more numerous," according to Jean.

Solid plates of bony mail separated by a flexible series of bands encase the body. This armor offers some protection against dogs, coyotes and other predators. Also, if they are pursued they can dig underground in two minutes using their long stout claws, and it is almost impossible to pull one out of a hole.

They feed day and night, and insects comprise 85 percent of their diet, along with some fruit and eggs. The mother has four identical babies (all the same gender) in the spring and raises them in a burrow underground.

Armadillos can catch leprosy, and they are used in research on this disease, as it can be grown on their feet.

Census Counts More Than 400 Butterflies

The results of Sewanee's 16th annual butterfly census on Saturday, June 30, suggest that the Mountain continues to support a diverse and vibrant butterfly population, although the butterflies have been stressed by this summer's unusually hot and dry weather.

Observers identified more than 400 individual butterflies—a new record for the count—but found only 24 different species, a lower number than usual.

The census, led by biologist David Haskell and author David B. Coe, covered most of the Sewanee area. Counters started the day downtown, then met up with other counters at Lake Cheston, and made stops at several sites, including the horse farm, the Cross, the Mountain Goat Trail, Abbo's Alley, Lake O'Donnell, and the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School campus. With temperatures reaching triple digits, the counters logged only about four miles on foot, but covered over twenty by car.

With so much of the Sewanee environment parched, butterflies in the area seemed to cluster in gardens and other areas with a steady supply of water. This may explain why the count of individual butterflies, 414, was so high this year. There are not necessarily more butterflies in Sewanee, but those that are present are far easier to find. The low total of species is more representative of a population under strain because of the weather.

Highlights of the day included several Red-banded Hairstreaks (small gray butterflies with brilliant orange and white banding on their wings) and three Gulf Fritillaries (large orange butterflies with bold silver spotting).

The sizzling temperatures held down the number of participants, but the census organizers were fortunate to receive help from a pair of enthusiastic volunteers. They would like to thank Louise Kennedy and Tam Parker for joining them during the count.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

According to the Kinsey report
ev'ry average man you know much prefers to play his favorite sport
when the temperature is low but when the thermometer goes way up and the weather is sizzling hot Mister Adam for his madam is not cause it's too too
it's too darn hot, it's too darn hot It's too too too too darn hot

I'd like to call on my baby tonight
and give my all to my baby tonight
I'd like to call on my baby tonight
and give my all to my baby tonight
but I can't play ball with my baby tonight cause it's too darn hot it's too darn hot

I'd like to meet with my baby tonight
get off my feet with my baby tonight
I'd like to meet with my baby tonight
get off my feet with my baby tonight
but no repeat with my baby tonight
cause it's too darn hot it's too darn hot...
