Sewanee Bridge Program Concludes on Saturday

The Bridge Program in Math and Science at Sewanee, a three-week residential experience for high-performing rising high school seniors, comes to an end this week with final presentations by students at 10 a.m., Saturday, July 9, in Gailor Auditorium.

Selection for this program is based on academic performance, particularly in math and science, as well as the potential to contribute to campus diversity. It is designed to be a bridge between high school and college, with a goal of attracting students who also want to bridge cultural, religious, economic and regional boundaries.

The students in this year's program have come to Sewanee from near and far—from Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, to California, Honduras and Nepal, and points in between. In addition to being high-achieving scholars, the students are also outstanding athletes, budding researchers and dedicated volunteers in their communities.

During their time on campus, the students have gathered data for the Smithsonian-Harvard Minor Planet Center under the direction of astronomy professor Doug Durig. They have been studying fractals and chaos theory taught by physics professor Ben Szapiro and learning how to solve murder mysteries with differential equations in a calculus class taught by associate professor of mathematics Emily Puckette. In addition to hiking, swimming and canoeing in their free time, the Bridge students also demonstrated their dancing skills in the Fourth of July parade, thanks to the tutelage of choreographer Bexter Richardson, C'11.

The Bridge Program is directed by Tina Nader. Eric Benjamin is the associate director. They receive assistance from mentors Mary Grace Bowring (C'12), Steven Liu (Bridge '09, C'14), Miriam Pate (Bridge '06, C'11), Isiah Robinson (Bridge '06, C'11). Annie Armour is the head resident for the program.

Community members are welcome to attend the presentations that conclude the three-week program.

Online Farmer's Market Connects Community

by Christopher Poole C'11, Special to the Messenger

The Cumberland Farmer's Market has connected the traditional farmer's market with an online purchasing system, making access to locally grown food flexible and easy to almost anyone in the Sewanee community. The group's website, <sewaneelocallygrown.net>, offers a wide range of products, from eggs, produce, meat and native plants, to wool and fleece, soaps and handmade dog treats. All items are provided by local growers and are available for pre-order through the website's well-organized market page.

Ordering begins each week at 5 p.m. on Saturday and continues through 10 a.m. on Monday. Local growers fill their orders and deliver them to the Sewanee Community Center, where customers pick up their purchases every Tuesday from 4:30 to 5:45 p.m.

The market's founder and organizer, Jess Wilson, was inspired by Athens Locally Grown, a market that launched a website in 2001 to connect customers and local growers in Georgia. She believed that Sewanee could support a similar project, and in 2006, while selling her produce on Saturday mornings at the Sewanee Gardener's Market, she began talking to other local growers about supporting a different kind of market. The resulting Cumberland Farmer's Market launched its website in January 2007. There are almost 1,000 accounts on the website, with 100–120 orders per week this summer, Wilson said.

The Sewanee Gardener's Market continues on Saturday mornings, too.

"The good old-fashioned community-building, friendly experience people enjoy in a bustling local farmer's market has now been combined with modern internet technology to better serve residents," Wilson said. "Supporting our local farmers and artisans has now been made easy."

Shoppers can order from home on their computer, know in advance about the farmers and their practices, and pick up their order on Tuesdays at the Sewanee Community Center. At pickup time, a new level of community-building takes place as people talk about what they have ordered and what they will cook that night.

The online market began with 10 participating local growers and has expanded to 63 growers who are located across Tennessee's South Cumberland region. Between 15 and 20 growers consistently participate in the market from week to week. The market is very convenient for people who want to purchase healthy, local food and know in advance what will be available.

"The setup also works well for farmers," Wilson said. "It's easier to have things pre-ordered before harvesting."

The market has built connections across the Mountain community, but it also represents a wider impact on the local economy.

"The market gives an opportunity for local food to be useful in developing a locally based economy," she said.

Growers reach a wider range of customers, and customers have access to local products that might otherwise be difficult to obtain. Businesses also benefit. Local restaurants such as Shenanigans, Julia's and IvyWild often contact local growers for products through the Cumberland Farmer's Market. Through this market, local products can play a part in Sewanee's greater economic market.

"By buying fresh, locally produced foods, people are not only supporting the better health of themselves and their family, they are also promoting a healthier planet through decreased dependence on the fossil fuels, chemicals and the packaging needed to mass produce and ship foods long distances; a vibrant local economy through supporting local businesses; and the continued survival of the family farm and an honest and worthy means of making a living," Wilson said.

Braden and Rapp will present "The Strayhorn Project," a tribute to Duke Ellington's legendary collaborator Billy Strayhorn. At 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 9, the Faculty Chamber Music Series will present works for wind trio and solo marimba, along with Debussy's "Cello Sonata" and Smetana's "Piano Trio in G Minor."

On Sunday, July 10, Maestra Laura Jackson will conduct the Sewanee Symphony in Gandolfi's "The Garden of Cosmic Speculation" and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 6, The Pathétique." The Cumberland Orchestra will open the afternoon under the direction of Joseph Lee, who is the conductor of the University's own Sewanee Symphony Orchestra. The Cumberland Orchestra will perform Borodin's "Polovtsian Dances" and Gustav Holst's "Mars" movement from "The Planets." They will also perform Robert J. Bradshaw's "Basically a Thermodynamic Phenomenon," which is dedicated to those who lost their homes, communities and loved ones in the Southern storms of 2011. Maestra Jackson will present a free conductor talk at 1:30 p.m., and the concert will begin at 2:30 p.m.

All events will be in Guerry Auditorium. Tickets can be purchased at the door or online at <sewaneemusicfestival.org>. WUTS 91.3 FM, the University's campus radio station, will offer live broadcasts of most of the major concerts of the festival. These concerts will also stream live via the station's website, <www.wutsfm.org>. Live video streaming is available for most concerts on the SSMF website.

Evans Completes Eagle Scout Project on Trail

Will Evans of Sewanee, with help from members of Boy Scout Troop 14, the community and the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance, has completed a bridge on the Mountain Goat Trail that he began last spring. The project was a part of Evans' process to become an Eagle Scout and was done over several weeks.

The bridge is a much-needed connection on the Mountain Goat Trail for walkers, runners and cyclists crossing a 15-foot stream in safety, avoiding traffic on busy Highway 41. While Evans, scouts, and community members provided the labor, the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance provided the money necessary for materials. Sustainable, environmentally friendly materials were used in the project. Evans has now completed the requirements for Eagle Scout rank and is awaiting his final board of review.

Weather Alerts in Sewanee

Guests on campus and visitors to our area should be aware that the Sewanee Police Department can inform residents in a variety of ways in case of severe weather or other emergency.

Voice sirens now provide clear, uniform warnings instantaneously. The wailing tone is used when there is a severe weather warning issued by the National Weather Service, such as a tornado warning or a severe thunderstorm warning. The alert tones are the same for tornado warnings and severe thunderstorm warnings and will always be activated when there is dangerous weather.

The new sirens are located in front of Elliott Hall and near McGee Field.

CCJP Seeking Delegates

The Cumberland Center for Justice and Peace is seeking delegates to attend Camp Anytown, a week-long human relations and leadership program for high school students. CCJP funds Camp Anytown delegates through its Dora Turner Scholarship, established in honor of the Franklin County civil rights activist and long-time CCJP member.

Students who attend the residential camp will gain awareness about stereotypes and discrimination while examining their own identities and experiences. They will gain skills in leadership, conflict negotiations, communications and the importance of advocacy.

Applications are due July 15. Camp Anytown will take place Aug. 1-6 at Hillmont Camp in White Bluff, Tenn. Contact Leslie Lytle at <sllytle@blo mand.net> or by phone at 598-9979 for the application forms.

Weekend Café by Kids at Legion Hall

Mason Goodson and Casey Wofford are organizing a two-day café in downtown Sewanee that will serve breakfast and brunch today and Saturday, July 8-9. Located in the American Legion Hall, the Pancosm Café will be serving a variety of homemade items from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. The name of the cafe, Pancosm, stands for Pancakes are Awesome. The rising eighth-graders will donate 15 percent of their profits to the Franklin County Animal Harbor.

Goodson said that she and Wofford have been planning this for more than five years.

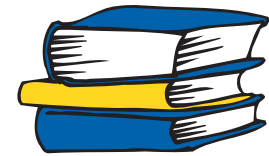

"I have always loved to cook and every time I went to Casey's house, I would make pancakes for breakfast, and she would be the waitress," Goodson said. "We made a menu and everything and it was just playing, but now that we are going into eighth grade, we wanted to try and actually do it. Our parents are behind us 100 percent!" The café will be run entirely by kids.

Goodson is head chef, Kate Butler is the assistant chef. Wofford is the head waitress with help from Isabel Butler, Sophie Wofford and Mary B. Smith. Margaret Wilson will be the hostess, and Joshua Alvarez will be the bus boy.

Menu items include pancakes, waffles, French toast and bagels, and side items of fruit, bacon or eggs. Coffee, milk and juice will be available also.

Story Time at Brooks Hall

Assistant Chief of Police Marie Ethridge will be the featured reader at 10 a.m., Wednesday, July 13, at Thurmond Library's Story Time on the porch at Brooks Hall. The final session will be at 10 a.m., Wednesday, July 20, when readers will be members of the Sewanee Fire Department. "Watch for a surprise to celebrate this last reading," said program organizer Theresa Shackelford.

61st Church Music Conference at DuBose and All Saints' this Week

Keith Shafer

The 61st Annual Sewanee Church Music Conference will begin Monday, July 11, and last through the week, closing on Sunday, July 17. It includes a number of events open to the public.

More than 150 church musicians from around the country will be in residence at the DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle.

This year, the conference features a distinguished faculty headed by Dale Adelman, canon for music at the Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta; Todd Wilson, chairman of the organ department at the Cleveland Institute of Music and director of music at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral; and the Rev. Barbara Cawthorne Crafton, priest, author and founder of "The Geranium Farm" blog.

Keith Shafer, director of music of St. Paul's Church, Augusta, Georgia, is this year's conference director.

Three events during the week are of interest to the Sewanee community.

At 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 12, Todd Wilson will have an organ recital in All Saints' Chapel. There will be choral Evensong at 5 p.m., Friday, July 15, at All Saints' Chapel. On Sunday, July 17, the conference choir will sing during the 11 a.m. Eucharist at All Saint's Chapel.

TINTINNABULATIONS

by John Bordley

The Sewanee Summer Carillon Series will continue through Sunday, July 24. At 4:45 p.m., Sunday, July 10, I will play a program of music from the Advent season, a season of the church year that is rich in wonderful hymns. Since December in Sewanee is not the best time for listening to the carillon, I decided to play a summer concert of these hymns so that listeners could enjoy the sounds of Advent. I wanted to headline the program "Advent in August" because of the alliteration. But the concert, of course, is in July, and since "Advent in July" doesn't sound as catchy, I decided to call it, "Advent in the Summer." Featured will be two triptychs written for Sewanee's carillon.

Anna Kasprzycka, a native of Poland, will play at 5 p.m., Wednesday, July 13. She is on tour, giving nine concerts following the combined meeting of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America and the World Carillon Federation, which just ended in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Anna received her master's degree diploma in the theory of music in 2004 from Gdansk's Academy of Music and studied carillon in Gdansk (Poland) and in Leuven and Mechelen (Belgium). Her program will include arrangements of five Chopin piano selections, compositions and arrangements by other Polish composers, and some blues and jazz numbers.

Richard Shadinger, university carillonneur at Belmont University in Nashville, will play on Sunday, July 17 (he has performed here for several summers). Mary McFarland, carillonneur at First Presbyterian Church, Belmont, N.C., will play on Sunday, July 24. Mary began her carillon studies here at Sewanee in the 1980s when a visitor, Todd Fair, taught a carillon course in conjunction with what was then the Sewanee Summer Music Center (now the Sewanee Summer Music Festival).

Please remember Anna's performance is at 5 p.m., Wednesday.

"The Mermaid and the Dog That Found Her" by Carol Sampson

Artisan Depot Hosts Carol Sampson Art Show

Carol Sampson of Sewanee is the featured artist during July and August at the Artisan Depot gallery in Cowan. The opening reception for the new "Art of the Print" exhibit will be 5–7 p.m., today, July 8.

Sampson started creating art 20 years ago. She immediately found it a wonderful source of expressing her love of all of creation and combination of colors. She continued to learn by taking classes and workshops.

"I soon found my style to represent a naive perspective with a flat juxtaposition of figures in the composition," Sampson said. "I feel I have an intuition for color. My subject matter most often uses animal figures combined with design elements. Most people say my paintings make them happy and smile."

She has studied with Bob Pennebaker, head of the art department at Belhaven College in Jackson, Miss., and in 1998, she had a one-person show in Jackson. Some of the designs from that show will be recreated in a few pieces for this show.

"Most of the pieces will be prints I have created and rolled with color and painted," Sampson said. "A few pieces will be all paintbrush. The art will be on tile, watercolor paper and masonite board."

Work by other local print-makers may also be exhibited as part of the show. The Artisan Depot is located at 201 Cumberland Street East in Cowan. For information call (931) 636-0169.

Drawing on the blue-collar roots of its community, the organization focuses on self-sufficiency, fiscal responsibility and social entrepreneurship. The center is partially funded by the Tennessee Arts Commission, Southern Arts Federation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Arts Center is located on 1424 John Bragg Highway, just west of the town of Woodbury, approximately 20 minutes from Murfreesboro, Manchester, and McMinnville and one hour southeast of Nashville. # Edens Talks About Film and TV Writing

Sewanee resident and native Tennessean Mark Edens will give a lecture at 4 p.m., Sunday, July 10, at the Cowan Center for the Arts on “An Insider’s Look at How and Why Television Shows and Movies Get Made.”

Edens has been writing for television and movies for more than 20 years. His credits include TV movies for CBS, ABC and the Disney Channel, episodes of “In the Heat of the Night,” “Falcon Crest” and “Young Hercules.” For more information, go to <www.cowancenterforthearts.org>.

Author Lecture on Thursday

Scholar David Wyatt, author of the recent, acclaimed critical study “Secret Histories: Reading Twentieth-Century American Literature,” will lecture on “Writing Secret Histories,” at 5 p.m., Thursday, July 14, in Gailor Auditorium. His talk is sponsored by the Sewanee School of Letters and is open to the public.

Wyatt is the author of several literary studies (“The Fall Into Eden” and “Out of the Sixties: Storytelling and the Vietnam Generation”), the memoir “And the War Came” and a history of California, “Five Fires.”

School of Letters Director John Grammer said, “Wyatt’s writing is characterized by its critical acumen and scholarly depth, its effortless interdisciplinary and graceful prose and by its willingness to surrender the scholar’s mask of impersonality by foregrounding the critic’s own life and experience.”

“Secret Histories,” an overview of modern American writing from Frank Norris to Phillip Roth, Toni Morrison and Cormac McCarthy, is the distillation of a lifetime of teaching this material to students at the University of Virginia and the University of Maryland, where he currently serves as professor of English.

What A Wonderful Fourth of July Celebration!

Flag Raising Sets the Stage

Abbo's Alley was the first holiday stop for many, as community members and their guests gathered for the 38th annual raising of the flag.

Accompanied by Sewanee Summer Music Festival students, the crowd began the morning by singing traditional American anthems. The Rev. Joe Ballard offered a story and prayer, and the colors were raised by St. Andrew's-Sewanee Boy Scout Troop 14. The crowd then headed to the Zucker, Smith and Pond homes for coffee, juice, baked goods and fellowship.

The Fourth of July Brass Quintet was comprised of Nathan Hudson, Andrew Jang, Stephen Munson, Hunter Todd and Eric Pashia under the direction of Eric Bubacz.

Participating scouts included Fields Ford, Matthew Baranco, Wyatt Lindlau, Mack Lindlau, Jim Kershner, Forrest Pilkington, Sam Smith, Thomas Goldsmith, Nick Mays, Elliot Duncan, Ethan Evans and Will Evans, with assistance from leaders Speed Baranco and Paul Lindlau.

Special kudos go to Margaret Beaumont Zucker (chair) and her husband, Elliott, along with Pete and Karen Smith and James and Suzanne Pond, hosts; and the Friends of Abbo's Alley, event sponsors.

A Big "Thank You" to the Community

"It's hard to believe that it has been 25 years" said Louise Irwin, head of the Sewanee Fourth of July planning committee. A core group of Louise Irwin, Tracie Sherrill, Sue Hawkins and Bonnie Green oversaw the work of the planning committee again this year.

"Beginning with the SSMF concerts and street dance on Saturday and ending with the fireworks and music on Monday night, it was a wonderful Fourth in Sewanee" Irwin said. "Without the folks who are willing to chair events, this beloved celebration could not take place. Thanks to all of them!"

Margaret Beaumont Zucker organized the flag raising at Abbo's Alley with help from the Friends of Abbo's Alley, Speed Baranco and Boy Scout Troop 14, emcee Doug Cameron and the brass quintet from the Sewanee Summer Music Festival. The Rev. Joe Ballard started the day with a wonderful story about George Washington and then led the group with a prayer. Bonnie Green organized the Arts and Crafts show, which was full of wonderfully creative people and their wares. Sewanee's Fourth of July celebration can build an appetite, and Clara Stephens made sure there were plenty of food vendors with delicious offerings.

Peggy Pate handled the Cat's Meow with grace, and Flournoy Rogers and Kathy Hamman organized the tasty Cake Decorating Contest, offering free samples to the crowd.

The Mutt Show always draws a huge crowd, and Jim Pierce and his judges and crew did an outstanding job. Bonnie and John McCardell kept things splashing at the Dunking Booth, while Bobbye Ballard, Barbara Prunty, Susan Holmes and Diane Fleming did a terrific job organizing the children's games.

And what would a Fourth of July celebration be without a parade? Tracie Sherrill made sure it was a memorable centerpiece of the day. Geraldine Hewitt Piccard and David Green were honored as Grand Marshals, and there were floats, cyclists, twirlers, a band, dancers, horses and antique cars. Catherine Cavagnaro oversaw the Air Show and Rebecca Gibson took care of the airplane rides.

As the events moved to Lake Cheston, Charlie Smith and Friends provided music, followed by the ever-popular local band The Culprits, who played well into the evening. And as always, the brightest point of the day was the amazing fireworks show provided by the Sewanee Fire Department, led by David Green.

"This event could not happen without the help of so many people," Irwin said. Sue Hawkins takes care of the money as our treasurer, Ed Camp made sure there were Port a-Potties, Karen and Bob Keele set up the shuttle buses, and Ann Oliver made sure the tents were up and ready.

Bill Barton was a terrific publicity chair. Larry Prince and John Green picked up and set up the dunking booth and then packed it up, always an unheralded job.

Many thanks to the Sewanee Community Chest for its generous financial support. Thanks also to the Sewanee Leaseholders Association, the sponsor of the annual event. Of course none of this would be possible without the whole-hearted support of the University and the many employees who work behind the scenes, including Wayne Caldwell, who sees that at the end of the day, our community looks as neat and clean as it did in the morning.

The Sewanee Fourth of July organizing committee wishes to thank all the volunteers who made this such a wonderful event.

"Even if you were not named here, we know who you are and we are deeply grateful for all that you do," Irwin said. "I think we should also thank all of the people who came out and simply enjoyed the day. After all, that's why we do this," she said.

"It's one more reason why Sewanee is such a wonderful community."

The Grand Prize was awarded to Maty Partin, age 14 from Pelham, who designed and baked "Celebrating Memories." She entered in the category of Best Decorated Cake 13 and older. Maty's three-tiered fresh strawberry cake with white icing was decorated with berries, colorful fireworks and edible photos taken from the Sewanee Mountain Messenger's coverage of past Fourth of July celebrations. Her cake contained 48 eggs, which she harvested from the chickens that she and her family raise on their farm.

First-place winners were Best Decorated Cake, 13 and older—Amy Burns, (25 Years of Cupcakes); Best Decorated Cake, 12 and younger—Genevieve Rogers and Sloan Jolly, (Revolutionary War Warning); Best Tasting Cake, 13 and older—Jade Sanders, (4th of July); and Best Extreme Cake—Jeannie Vraciu, assisted by friends Beata Cunningham, Marilyn Webb and all three husbands (Pop, Pop, Pop).

All of the cakes won red ribbons for their distinctive qualities. Other cakes in the Best Decorated, 13 and older category, were designed by Bronwyn Westling (Victory Garden), Zelig Hummer (Fireworks), Emma Butterworth (Sewanee Angel) and Eric Obermiller assisted by Rachel (Cross Section of Independence).

In the Best Decorated, 12 and younger category, ribbons were awarded to Laralin Dixon (Strawberry Kiwi Cake), Julia Sumpter (Many Flags), Sadie Lloyd (Eagle Cake), Nicholas Sargent (Berry Patriotic) and Will Irwin (4th Cupcakes).

FCA Golf Tourney at Bear Trace July 16

The fourth annual Franklin County Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) golf tournament, which will be held on Saturday, July 16, at Bear Trace Golf Course in Winchester, is taking registrations now.

The event, which benefits our local schools' FCA huddle groups, begins at 11:30 a.m. with a complimentary lunch of burgers and hotdogs before the 1 p.m. shotgun start.

The tournament is a four-man scramble with prizes awarded to the team with the overall lowest score and also to the top three teams in each of the two, possibly three flights. The number of flights will be based on the number of participants. Players with the longest drive and hitting closest to the pin will be given individual prizes. There will also be a putting contest sponsored by Badcock Furniture and a hole-in-one contest sponsored by Pirates Cove Marine and First Vision Bank.

Proceeds from the tournament will be used to fund huddle groups at Franklin County High School, Huntland High School, St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, North Middle School, South Middle School and the University of the South. Proceeds will also be used to provide scholarships to FCA summer camps for members of these groups. The vision of the FCA is to see the world impacted for Jesus Christ through the influence of athletes and coaches. Participation in this tournament will help the local chapters realize this vision.

To register in advance or for more information, call Dennis Meeks at 598-0159, Stanley Bean at 967-0469 or Jimmy Davis at 962-0469. The entry fee is $300 per team and includes golf cart fees.

Youth Soccer Registration Continues

Mountain Youth Soccer, an American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) member region, is extending early registration for the upcoming fall season.

It is critical to the formation of possible teams in Tracy City and Monteagle, as well as the older age groups, that players be signed up during this early time period. There are some age-group teams that will not form if there is not enough interest.

Registration is $45, and scholarships are available. After July 15, the fee goes up to $65. Mountain Youth Soccer is open to all players, ages 4–14. The child must be 4 by July 31, 2011, and must not turn 14 until after July 31, 2013, in order to participate.

To register now, send an email to Ty Burnette at <burnette@blomand.net> and put "soccer registration" in the subject line.

OVERTIME

by Conchie Shackelford

Happy 50th Birthday, John (Part I)

In high school, my friends and I always talked about what our husband would look like. I said mine would be a tall, dark tennis pro. I guess you could say it was love at first sight when I met my husband in the University of North Carolina-Wilmington cafeteria my sophomore year. My brother walked over to the table where I was eating dinner and said, "Conchie, I'd like you to meet the new freshman on the tennis team, John Shackelford."

During the beginning of our courtship, he'd knock on my window, I'd crawl out, and we'd go for walks around campus. There was a tennis court behind my dorm, and he used to practice there. I loved to watch him—he was so graceful, so calm.

I went to every single one of his home matches. I would set goals for how many matches he had to win each year, and he always did it. He still holds the record for the most wins at UNCW. John was always winning awards—sportsmanship award, most valuable player—and he always dressed impeccably.

I had no formal training in tennis before I met John. He showed me what topspin was. Everything I know about tennis I learned from him. John and I played mixed doubles tournaments, and I would get mad at him because he would hold back against the woman, while our male opponent was still hitting his first serve against me. John said we would win anyway. We always did.

My junior year, I moved to the beach. I didn't have a car, so John bought me a blue Raleigh bike, and I'd ride six miles every day to school. The next year he moved to the beach too, and we'd ride our bikes everywhere. He rode his bike 15 miles to and from work each day. One day, someone cut the lock on my bike and stole it. John bought me an even nicer bike.

I had to take out student loans for college. Sometimes it took a while before the money came in, but I didn't have to worry because I knew John would take care of me. Our favorite place to eat was Western Sizzlin'. You could get a burger, fries and tea for $5. When he had extra money, we'd splurge and get a salad.

One day, during John's senior year, we were grocery shopping and I said to him, "Are we going to get married or something?" He said, "Of course, how about next fall?" That summer he was the head pro at Asheville Country Club and I was his shop girl. It was late August, and he said, "Let's get married in three weeks." John's father had tickets to a Braves game for that weekend, so we moved it up a week.

We had a cookout for our rehearsal dinner and cake and punch at the church for our reception. After the wedding, I changed into shorts and tennis shoes. John and I walked hand-in-hand down the street, me with my wedding dress folded over my arm. A woman stopped us and asked if we had just been married. We said yes, and she said, "Let me give you some advice. It's not all give, and it's not all take. It's a little bit of both." We repeat her advice often as an inside joke between us.

After we got married, John worked as the head coach at the University of North Carolina-Asheville. Then he got a call from the athletic director at Sewanee. The University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill coach had recommended him for a coaching position here. John came to Sewanee for the interview, and when he was offered the job he told me, "I really want to take this."

We moved to Sewanee in 1986, and here we are still.

Happy 50th birthday, husband. I love you.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Dragonflies

Jean and Harry Yeatman have spent recent evenings on their deck watching and cheering the dragonflies flying overhead catching flying insects—mosquitoes, black flies and fruit flies. Dragonflies lay eggs on water plants or in the water, and the nymphs that hatch out increase in size by stages. These crawl around the water plants and bottom mud, and they feed on tadpoles, water insects and minnows. When they are the proper size, they come to the emergent vegetation, expand their wings and look for prey. When Harry was taking entomology at Cornell University, the instructor showed the class how adult dragonflies catch mosquito larvae and pupae as they come to the surface. Adult dragonflies are the favorite prey of small falcons, which catch them out of the sky. Male and female dragonflies are marked differently on their wings. This confuses amateur entomologists. Look for the adults of both sexes daytime and evenings. They are wonderful friends for catching insects that bite us. Look for the big eyes and paper-thin wings—two on each side.

Rocky Raccoon

Miree Wood sent this photograph of a recent visitor. She writes, "Maybe I should open a zoo, though there are many who think I already have!"

Precious

Gypsy

Pets of the Week

Precious and Gypsy

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Animal Harbor has so many different pets, they go from "diva" to "darling." Gypsy, a long-haired Torbie (a tortoiseshell-colored Tabby), is the perfect diva. She is stunning, and she loves attention. Precious is a little Jack Russell Terrier whose name fits her perfectly. She's a cuddler who loves being a lap dog. Gypsy is negative for FeLV and FIV, and both Gypsy and Precious are spayed and up-to-date on shots.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out their other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>. Enter their drawing on this site for a free spay or neuter for one of your pets. Please help the Humane Society continue to save abandoned pets by sending your donations to the Franklin County Humane Society, P. O. Box 187, Winchester, TN 37398.

Sewanee Herbarium

Nature Journaling

Nature Journaling with Mary Priestley continues at 8:30 a.m., Thursdays. Experienced in but not an "authority" on nature journaling, Mary has been practicing it for close to 10 years. This is not a workshop. Rather, it is an invitation to set aside any or all Thursday mornings in July for nature journaling. Meet at the gazebo in Abbo's Alley. Bring a notebook (preferably small and unlined), a pen or pencil, and something to sit on if you wish. Come as early or as late as you like and stay for however long you like.

For more information on future Sewanee Herbarium events, contact Yolande Gottfried at 598-3346 or by e-mail at <ygottfri@sewanee.edu>.

 When you are out getting your exercise, following a few simple rules will keep you on the go. When biking on Sewanee side-walks, cyclists should slow down when passing pedestrians since some may not hear a warning bike bell and know to step to the right. Walkers should walk on the left-hand side of the road, traveling against the traffic; bicyclers should travel in the right-hand lane, going with the flow of traffic. During the day, both walkers and bikers should wear clothing of bright, easily seen colors, and, from dusk on, wear light, reflective clothing. In any case, don't just assume drivers can see you. Be on the lookout ... for your own safety.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

July 8, 1621, Birthday of Jean de la Fontaine

A grasshopper, having sung
All summer long,
Found himself a bit deprived
When the winter winds arrived—
Not a single fly to eat,
Or worm, or any other meat—
He went, therefore,
To the ant next door,
Asking the loan of a few small grains
To alleviate his hunger pains
And tide him over till the spring.
"I'll pay you back," he said, "sure thing,
Before July; I'll pay in full,
On my honor as an animal!
Interest and principle—"
The ant a lender she was not,
(It was a flaw in her character)
"What did you do when the weather was hot?"
She asked of her borrower.
"I sang if you please, both night and day,
Whenever I had the chance."
"That's very nice. You sang you say;
OK. Now you can dance."

—"The Grasshopper and the Ant"
by Jean de la Fontaine
(translation from the French)
