

Folks at Home Receives Major Gift

Folks at Home (F@H) has established an endowment fund after receiving a very generous gift. "Last April one extraordinary, totally unexpected response to our annual fund-raising letter came from David and Debra Humphreys, who live in Missouri," said Laurence Alvarez, the secretary-treasurer of F@H. "David's connection to Sewanee is that he is an alumnus of the College and former chair of the University's Board of Regents."

Alvarez reports that Humphreys sent a note saying "We are happy to help Folks at Home in their good work" and included a check for $50,000.

With the consent of the couple, the F@H board decided to use this money to begin an endowment. "The money now has been invested long-term for income and growth," Alvarez said.

Kris Gosling, president of the F@H board, said "the gift affirms the long-term future of Folks at Home. It provides financial security in volatile economic times."

"Folks at Home has grown from a grass-roots vision and a sponsored project of Otey Memorial Parish to a serious partner and important resource, connecting community and coordinating access to care and services in the Sewanee and the South Cumberland region. In 2011 we effectuated over 866 services, compared to 500 in 2010, which was our first year in operation," stated Kathleen O'Donohue, executive director.

Folks at Home is a local nonprofit organization developed for and dedicated to assisting its members in continuing a dignified and comfortable lifestyle in the community through coordination of services they need during elder years. For more information contact F@H at 598-0303, email <folksathomesewanee@gmail.com> or drop by for a visit in the "Blue House" at 400 University Ave.

Are "Creation, Evolution & God" Compatible?

Saturday Conference Considers These Issues

The topic "Creation, Evolution and God" will be the focus of attention Saturday, Sept. 22, at a day-long conference in Quarry Auditorium. The event begins at 9:30 a.m. and is free and open to the public.

Cynthia Crysdale, professor of Christian ethics and theology at the University, has organized the event, which will address the question of whether the classical Christian understanding of God as unchanging, omnipotent and beneficent is still coherent in the face of a modern scientific understanding of the cosmos.

"Despite claims that evolutionary science rules out belief in a transcendent God, or that we must now adjust our view of God to accommodate change, these scholars insist that modern science and traditional theology are completely compatible," Crysdale said. These issues and their implications will be the focus of a series of presentations at the conference.

Presenters at the event include Neil Ormerod, a professor of theology at Australian Catholic University, Sydney, who is co-author with Crysdale of the forthcoming "Creator God, Evolving World."

John Haight, senior research fellow at Woodstock Theological Center at Georgetown University, will give a lecture at 3:30 p.m., today, Sept. 21, on the theological issues arising from the advent of evolutionary theory after Charles Darwin. At 1:15 p.m., Saturday, he will join Rebecca A. Wright, Benedict Professor of Old Testament, at the School of Theology, to address the question: "God Talk: What Kind of Creator Do We Have?"

Sewanee biologist David Haskell and Domain manager Nate Wilson will discuss "Evolution: Is It All An Accident?"

Also speaking will be School of Theology professor Rob MacSwain and religion professor Tam Parker; Mollie Roberts, a student at the School of Theology, and Louisa T. Parsons, rector of St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church, Ooltewah.

For the complete schedule, go to <<http://theology.sewanee.edu/academics/creation-evolution-and-god>>.

Otey Names New CAC Director

Betty Carpenter has been named as the interim director of the Community Action Committee (CAC), announced the Rev. Joe Ballard, rector of Otey Memorial Parish Church.

The Community Action Committee is an outreach ministry of Otey Parish that provides food and financial assistance to families in need in the greater Sewanee community.

"Betty has graciously agreed to help CAC until we get into the new parish hall," Ballard said. Construction of the new building will begin in November. CAC is currently in the "Yellow House" at 58 Lake O'Donnell Rd.

Carpenter has been a long-time staff member at Otey, serving as the director of Fire on the Mountain, the area-wide youth group. She will continue in this role.

"Betty has many gifts that she brings to CAC," said Ballard. "She is compassionate, generous and creative. We are delighted with her leading this ministry, which is the pride of Otey Parish."

CAC has been serving the greater Sewanee community for 38 years. Its work is made possible by financial support from Otey Parish, the Community Chest, and donors across the area. CAC's current hours are: Mondays, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.; Tuesdays and Fridays, 9-11 a.m.; Wednesdays and Thursdays, 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.

For more information, call the CAC at 598-5927.

Blue Chair Bakery Expands with Tavern

When Jimmy Wilson agreed to volunteer for the Blue Monarch, he never imagined he would end up owning the Blue Chair Bakery and Cafe and now opening the Blue Chair Tavern. But life for Wilson has been full of interesting twists and turns.

Wilson, who graduated from Sewanee in 1973, has worked as a banker, an attorney and an entrepreneur before buying the Blue Chair from Susan Binkley. Wilson said he is thrilled with the success of the Blue Chair and now, the positive reception the Blue Chair Tavern is having in its opening days.

"We wanted to create a place where people could come—town and gown—to share a meal, have a beer, watch a ballgame, and enjoy each other's company," Wilson said recently.

The Blue Chair Tavern is located at 41 University Ave., in the building that formerly housed Sweet CeCe's, the original Blue Chair Bakery, and before that, the Sewanee Mountain Messenger offices.

Wilson, along with his wife, Sarah, C'89, now owns both Blue Chair buildings, and the businesses are linked in many ways.

"I am lucky to have the very talented Michael Shrum managing all the operations," Wilson said. "And Dave Hill is running the Tavern. We have a great team."

The Blue Chair Tavern serves a variety of beers, many brewed by the Jackalope Brewing Company of Nashville, of which the Wilsons are part owners. Jackalope is known for its small-batch craft beers.

The Tavern is starting out with a small menu of appetizers and snacks. Three televisions in the space are usually tuned into sports events around the globe.

The restaurant features a beautiful antique oak bar that Wilson bought almost 25 years ago in Oxford, Miss. Part of the 30-foot bar is in his Brentwood home; the rest has now found a home in the Blue Chair Tavern.

Looking to the future, Wilson hopes to use the spaces of the two restaurants more fluidly. He wants to make it available for private parties and special events.

"I love the way the Village is developing," Wilson said. "Sarah and I are really glad to be a part of it. We love the Angel Park and all the other good things going on here."

The Blue Chair Tavern is open on Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays, 4-10:30 p.m.; on Saturdays and Sundays, it is open 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m.; and closed on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Letter

DIFFERENT TAKE ON POLITICS

To the Editor:

John Corbett's letter in the Sept. 14 issue of the Messenger accurately described the conditions under which the acts he referred to were passed, but that is not the whole picture. All these measures—from Social Security to Medicare—were initiated by Democratic administrations. Some attempt at undermining these benefits continues to this day, as is the case with Paul Ryan.

Some years ago Sewanee alumni went to Washington on a trip hosted by successful young Republicans, most of whom were serving in the Bush administration. Harry McPherson, C'49, was the only Democrat to participate in the event. McPherson had been legal counsel to President Johnson.

McPherson told the group of being present in the Oval Office when Johnson had the Civil Rights Act (1964) on his desk ready to sign. Before signing, Johnson said, "When I sign this bill, the solid South [Democratic] will become solid Republican."

Race was a major factor in dividing the political parties then. Whether race is still a factor now is a matter of conjecture.

Correction

In John Corbett's Sept. 14 letter, an editing error misstated the facts. The corrected portion of Corbett's letter is below:

The vote tallies I was able to gather from government documents tell the story:

Social Security Act 1935. In the House of Representatives—Yeas: Democrats 284, Republicans 81; Nays: Democrats 15, Republicans 15. In the Senate—Yeas: Democrats 60, Republicans 16; Nays: Democrats 1, Republicans 5. Do the math. While most Republicans voted for the bill, their opposition or support had no bearing on the outcome, they simply had no power to oppose anything.

Energy Aid Available

Assistance is provided through direct energy payments to the energy provider for households with income below 150 percent of the Federal income guideline. Proof of the total household income for the past eight weeks is required to determine eligibility. The Social Security card for each household member must be provided, along with a current energy bill.

For more information call 967-1438.

Seminary Begins Exchange Program

The School of Theology has begun an exchange program with Westcott House, Cambridge, U.K., for seminarians to experience prayer, study and community life abroad in their middler year. The program takes place during the Advent semester.

The Rev. Benjamin King, assistant professor of church history, and the Rev. James Turrell, associate dean for academic affairs, both in Sewanee, felt that an integral part of a seminary education is the ability to experience Anglicanism in its many traditions, which Westcott House offers.

The first exchange began in the summer of 2012 to allow time for the students to settle in before the term began. The School of Theology welcomed Lewis Connolly of Westcott House, while Alice Hodgkins, T'14, is studying in Cambridge.

"Both seminarians are taking the same course of study that they would in their respective seminaries," said King. "But what makes this program so attractive is the ability to see another part of the world and its church life."

King is an alumnus of Westcott House and experienced a similar program while seeking his theology degree.

Both schools of theology emphasize the importance of contextual education fulfilling required time in the parishes of their surrounding community and beyond.

GREENLIVIN'

by Daniel Church

The Year of the Orange Fence

While on a recent walk around campus with Reggie Vachon, assistant director of physical plant services at the University, he remarked that this academic year would henceforth be known as "The Year of the Orange Fence" at Sewanee. And any quick visit to campus will indeed reveal new construction in numerous locations.

The first, and perhaps most obvious, of these projects is the construction of new chilled water piping, buried in trenches through the Quad, across University Avenue and down South Carolina Avenue. This will provide a highly efficient form of central cooling to a building cluster that includes Cannon Hall, the new dormitory adjacent to Cannon and a future student union on the site of Thompson Union. A new third chiller will be added in lower Gailor Hall that uses state-of-the-art frictionless magnetic-bearing technology that is 60 percent more efficient than the existing chillers. The piping to the Cannon-area cluster connects those buildings to the Gailor plant. University Avenue is expected to be repaired in the next several weeks.

A large number of central campus buildings, including Gailor Hall, McClurg Dining Hall, Woods Lab and Spencer Hall, All Saints Chapel, Carnegie Hall, Snowden Hall and Van Ness Hall are already connected to the existing Gailor cooling plant. Once finished, the new chiller will have the capacity to eventually provide air conditioning for Guerrey Hall, Walsh-Ellett, Convocation Hall and McCrady Hall, among other buildings. An independent engineering study showed that the frictionless central chiller will use half as much energy as individual building chillers for these buildings. The $1.1 million chiller project is expected to be completed by Spring 2013.

In a related project, Cannon Hall dormitory is undergoing an extensive renovation. When constructed in 1926, Cannon Hall was recognized as one of the finest dorms in the country, but years of heavy usage have seen the dorm slip into a dilapidated condition. This year's renovation is the first major renovation of the dorm since 2005. The LEED-silver equivalent renovation will have new central heating and air, LED lighting, highly efficient sinks, showers and toilets, reduced parking to encourage walking, a stormwater management system featuring a rain garden, a larger, more functional kitchen, as well as the use of wood harvested from on the Domain. The dorm, which will be coed for the first time, is expected to be back in use by Spring 2013.

The renovation of Cannon Hall will be accompanied by the construction of a new all-freshman dormitory between Cannon and Fulford halls. A large outdoor sitting area that will also serve as an outdoor classroom will connect the two dormitories. The renovated Cannon Hall and the new dormitory, a combined $10.9 million project, will house about 150 students. The intent of the construction of the new dorm is to draw more students back to housing in the heart of campus.

And if all of this orange fencing around campus isn't enough, the McGriff Alumni House is in the middle of constructing a new patio, the library is installing fiber optic and technology improvements, and the demolition and construction of the new Sewanee Inn is expected to begin in the next several months.

An old adage used by college admissions offices states that any construction on campus is a good sign, signifying improvements and expansion. Not only does this new construction signify great improvements, but it also indicates Sewanee's continued and growing commitment to sustainability. Growth often carries a negative connotation, as many see it inherently having negative environmental consequences. Sewanee's new growth, however, bucks this trend by not only incorporating sustainable design elements such as local wood, but also anticipating for continued expansion and installing a highly energy efficient HVAC system that will support the institution's continued commitment to carbon neutrality.

Daniel Church, C'11, is the assistant sustainability coordinator at Sewanee and will be updating the community about campus activities through this new column.

Margot Burns Chosen for Seminar

St. Andrew's-Sewanee School math teacher Margot Burns was recently selected to attend the Seminar for High School Educators on Business and Financial Responsibility. Sponsored by Price Waterhouse Coopers and University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, the seminar is a three-day intensive learning experience where educators can deepen their knowledge and teaching skills about financial literacy and business.

She will be one of 150 public and private high school teachers, principals, administrators and superintendents attending the Sept. 28-30 seminar.

Burns will learn to teach various financial literacy subjects to students and receive free access to ready-made curricula in 18 different subject areas. "We are excited to have Margot participating in this seminar," said SAS Academic Dean Jeff Bell. "During our vision workshops last year, our alumni identified personal finance as one of the areas in which they wished they had more training. This has also been a theme of many national polls on financial literacy. Margot's experience will be useful to all of us as we seek to integrate opportunities for more practical financial knowledge into our courses."

Sewanee Students Making a Difference at Blue Monarch

At a time when some may think college students are only concerned about themselves, this has not been the case for many students from the University.

"We are overwhelmed with the energetic enthusiasm and genuine interest in helping us," said Susan Binkley, founder and director of Blue Monarch, a local residential recovery program for women and their children. "It is impressive and touching that these offers are truly genuine and from the heart."

This summer was a significant one in the life of Blue Monarch, which opened its doors in 2003. Sewanee graduate Katherine Rogers (with the help of students Chandler Sowden, Bea Troxel and Andrew Bradshaw) directed the first summer camp for the children of Blue Monarch through a grant from the Lilly Foundation. The activities included camping, building a fort, a shaving cream fight and lots of swimming. It provided rich experiences with precious memories for children who have typically missed the chance to enjoy being a kid.

Sewanee student Courtney Moseley arrived with two vehicles packed full of paper goods and canned foods she had collected over the summer for Blue Monarch through donation drives of her own and extreme couponing.

Mary Ottley and Hope Faulk, student leaders at Sewanee's Women's Center, and Anna Flock of Theta Pi have ambitious and exciting plans for the upcoming months.

"We have been extremely grateful that some of the plans include actually establishing relationships with our women and children and not just helping from a distance," said Binkley. "It's exciting to see students develop a heart for philanthropy and volunteerism that will shape who they become through the years."

For volunteer opportunities or more information about Blue Monarch, go to <www.bluemonarch.org> or e-mail <susan@bluemonarch.org>.

An Invitation to Join a Bible Study

A Bible Study Group is being formed by the Cowan Fellowship Church for its members and anyone else in the community who would like to participate in a study of the Gospel of John.

The Gospel of John contains some of the greatest passages in the Bible like "In the beginning was the Word. . ." "For God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son. . ." "I am the Good Shepherd. . ." "In my Father's house are many dwelling places. . ."

The study group will meet from 6:30 to 8 pm on the eight Thursday evenings from September 27 to November 15, meeting at the Fellowship Church, located on East Cumberland Street in Cowan. The study of John will be concluded with another series of meetings during the season of Lent.

The study leader will be Sherwood Ebey, who is an Elder in the Presbyterian Church and a retired professor of the University of the South.

If you wish to accept this invitation to participate in this Thursday evening Bible Study Group, please contact Sherwood Ebey (at 598-5883 or sebey@cafes.net) so you can obtain a copy of the study book which will be used.

AT THE MOVIES

Sewanee Union Theatre This Week

Friday–Sunday, Sept. 21–Sept. 23, 7:30 p.m.

The Hunger Games

Rated PG-13 • 142 minutes • $3

Based on the first installment of the very popular young adult series by Suzanne Collins, "The Hunger Games" is a chilling story set in the future, when battles between teenagers becomes fodder for television programming. Jennifer Lawrence stars as Katniss, the generous and good person who takes her sister's place in the so-called Games, the winner of which is the only teenager alive at the end. Stanley Tucci, Elizabeth Banks and Woody Harrelson each have memorable supporting parts. Rated PG-13 for intense violent thematic material and disturbing images, all involving teens.

Sewanee Union Theatre Next Week

Wednesday–Sunday, Sept. 26–Sept. 30, 7:30 p.m.

Moonrise Kingdom

Rated PG-13 • 94 minutes • $3

Wes Anderson has made another delightful, quirky movie, "Moonrise Kingdom," set in the mid-1960s about two 12-year-olds who fall in love. There are adults in the film (Bill Murray, Edward Norton, Francis McDormand, Bruce Willis), but the focus is on the two very precious children. Each of them is trying to run away from something, perhaps growing up, and together they find adventure and wonder. With gorgeous cinematography, terrific music and period-perfect accents, "Moonrise Kingdom" is enchanting. Rated PG-13 for sexual content and smoking. —LW

Hastings and Ende Art Show in Nashville

"The Essence of Our Ticking," a joint exhibition of the works of Sewanee artists Jack Hastings and Arlyn Ende will open on Saturday, Oct. 6, at the Tinney Contemporary Gallery in Nashville and runs until Nov. 11.

An opening reception will be held at the gallery 6–9 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 6. The artists will also be available for conversation in the gallery at 6 p.m., Friday, Oct. 5.

The exhibition captures and crystallizes the range, depth and diversity of two artists whose creative partnership spans five decades. The title, from one of Hastings's poems, alludes to the nature and heart of their journey.

"I began my career prepared to paint frescoes, with training in Mexico where I was privileged to observe Diego Rivera at work," Hastings said. "The influences of that ancient culture impressed me with the relationship between art and architecture, which became the aesthetic that remained the basis and focus of my life's work as a sculptor. My materials range from clay to stone to metal, and I invent the tools and methods to shape and bring them to life."

About her influences, Ende said, "I spent a dreamy Southern childhood as an incessant scribbler and stitcher whose imagination matured under the influence of Matisse, Klee and contemporary Scandinavian designers. I build my two-dimensional designs from myriad individual pieces of colored materials, fitting them together as a slowly revealed puzzle. My abstract imagery arcs toward metaphor and is often inspired by Jack's writings."

Together or separately, the couple has lived on dredge boats, towboats, in converted warehouses, in an old pottery factory, on Manhattan's Bleecker Street and Upper East Side, on two islands, in a handmade Arizona adobe, and on a hillside farm. Deepwoods Studios is now their home and workplace, situated on a wooded hill overlooking a lake in Sewanee.

"Inside this serene ecosystem," Ende said, "we 'elders of the tribe' continue to experience life and create our artworks with the daily reminders that beauty and possibility are found in every place and in every phase of being."

Tinney Contemporary Gallery is located at 237 5th Avenue North, Nashville, (615) 255-7816, <www.tinneycontemporary.com>.

Edwin Ashcraft, Johannes Leonhardt, Mitchell Foster and Max Richards rounded out the top five for SAS with fourth-, fifth-, sixth-, and eighth-place finishes, respectively. SAS middle schoolers Jacob Hanson and Sophia Patterson showed promise for the young SAS team.

SAS Golf Now 14-2

Jenna Burris led SAS with 39, followed by Tommy Oliver and Andrew Heitzenrater with 41.

Thomas Puri shot 44 and Justin Stubblefield had a 45.

Lady Mountain Lions Are 6-6

On Sept. 11 the SAS women's soccer team took on the Webb School of Knoxville. The Lady Mountain Lions played with tremendous effort throughout the first half. The halftime score was a mere 1-0 in favor of Webb.

Early in the second half, Webb scored another goal. SAS made a rebuttal with Alex Berner-Coe finishing a free kick taken by Helen Wilson. Goalie Katie Craighill played a great game and finished out with 22 saves. Webb won by a final score of 7-1.

On Sept. 13, the Lady Mountain Lions traveled to Zion Christian Academy. The team adapted their play very well after a major positional change partway into the first half. The game ended in a 2-0 loss. Marissa Wilson had an excellent defensive game for the Lady Mountain Lions.

The Lady Mountain Lions won against Ezell-Harding on Sept. 18 by a score of 4-1.

Berner-Coe fired home two goals in the first half and another in the second. Sam Weigand added a goal with a great chip over the goalie off of a cross from Berner-Coe.

Berner-Coe, playing forward, and Wilson, playing center mid, had great touches and continually distributed the ball well. Craighill had playing time all over the field, showing her versatility in the positions of goalie, center back and forward.

Women Runners Finish Third

Led by a number of great finishes, the Sewanee cross country team wrapped up its second meet of this season on Sept. 15 at Vanderbilt.

Battling humid weather and a number of top teams, the men's squad placed 10th, while the women's team finished third.

Hudson Robb led Sewanee with a 19th-place finish (27:01.20). Clay Bond placed 32nd. Jason Grimes (76th), Ameil Emerson (84th) and Alec Hill (85th) rounded out the top-five finishers for Sewanee.

In the women's race, Ansley McDurmon (24:38.00) finished 10th for Sewanee. Amy Lee followed in 13th (24:52.90) and Cara Martin in 20th. Willow Smith (22nd) and Zoe Dubin (37th) rounded out the top-five finishers for Sewanee.

Men's Golf Opens Season

As a team Sewanee fired a 310 total. Saer Brown tied for 20th with 74. Cole Parrish (t-55) fired 78, and Nate Buhler (t-84) finished with 84.

Alex Hess closed out the Tigers' scores with an 18-hole 99.

Tigers Lose Close Football Game to Maryville

Two late touchdowns in the second half proved to be the difference, as Sewanee lost a close 24-17 game at Maryville on Sept. 15.

After the Scots jumped out to an early 10-0 lead, Sewanee responded. With 6:07 left in the first half, Jase Brooks capped off an 11-play 47-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown run.

After the Tigers held Maryville to a four and out, Sewanee got the ball back with 4:32 left until halftime. On its ensuing drive, Sewanee marched 67 yards on 14 plays. After three consecutive rushes by Cody Daniel, kicker Garrett Schlosser tied the game with a 36-yard field goal.

In the second half, Sewanee took its first lead when quarterback Curtis Johnson connected a pass to Brooks for a 22-yard score. Maryville's offense picked up. The Scots tied the game with 11:14 left, with a touchdown from four yards out.

Later in the fourth quarter, Maryville took the lead on a 10-yard touchdown pass with 6:55 to play. Down 24-17, Sewanee did manage two more offensive possessions. However, neither drive was converted into points.

Maryville slightly out-gained Sewanee in total yards, 372-366. Despite being held to 269 yards on the ground, the Tigers passed for a season-high 97 yards.

Sewanee forced two interceptions and one fumble. Defensive back J.D. Crabtree, who finished with one interception, led Sewanee with 12 tackles. On offense, Johnson led the Tigers with 144 yards of total offense and one touchdown.

OVERTIME

by John Shackelford

Do you remember that game we used to play when we were kids? You'd ask your friend the question, "If you were stranded on a deserted island and could only have one possession, what would you take?" My choices usually involved a ball in whatever season we happened to be playing at the time. Today, I imagine the choices begin with something that has an Apple logo on the outside. Eventually you would work your way around to realizing that the only true answer is, "If I could only have one thing, I would take my friend."

This has never really been a column about sports. It's a column about the things and the people I love. My friends have been my teammates, my players, my daughters and the people in this town who make Sewanee such a special place to live and work. I have written about Jumpin' Jimmy Purcell, with whom I played basketball and tennis as a kid. Together we terrorized our neighbors into hating the sound of bouncing basketballs on the early morning sidewalks. I have written about my Dad, who showered me with love by throwing or hitting a ball to me as the sun went down. And I told you about my daughters, who give me more just watching one ballgame than I could ever give back in a lifetime.

Friendship is a funny thing. Teammates make great lifelong acquaintances because you go through so much together. When you share the same pain, the same jubilation, the same sweaty locker room long enough, you get pretty close. As a sophomore in college, my tennis coach told our team we'd have a new guy joining us from the U.S. Marine Corps. He was supposed to be pretty tough and would compete for one of our top spots. Naturally, I hated him before I even met him.

We went for a team run on that first day. It had always been my role to push everyone to finish first as the team leader. Harvey, the ex-Marine, didn't know how to finish second. He ran harder, I ran faster. He pushed to the front of the pack. I pushed forward, too. When we finished, we were exactly even and both exhausted to our limits. The rest of the guys were nowhere in sight. The respect we had for each other on that day began a friendship that still lives today.

Harvey has served the Drug Enforcement Administration for the past 25 years in the less-welcoming settings of Guatemala, Columbia, Mexico, Alaska and beyond. Today, he is in Kabul working as an instructor with the Afghan police. Every time I read about a car bomb or a new shooting, I think of the friend who I ran with, lifted weights with, played tennis alongside and the man who stood beside me when I got married.

My wife, Conchie, and I were lucky that many years ago, the University gave us the chance to work together in jobs that we both love doing. Bill Huyck, the athletic director at the time, asked me if I would be interested in coaching both the women's and the men's tennis teams. I told him I wasn't smart enough or nimble enough to handle both teams, but I had a good idea of someone that could handle the women's job. He offered Conchie a yearly salary that could feed us for maybe a week, but we both got to wear shorts to work, and the tan was free. I never wanted to marry any of those sweaty guys that were my teammates and friends, but 29 years ago today I got this pretty girl with long legs to marry me. She has been my best friend ever since.

We spent about $100 on our wedding and most of that was on the used dress, the pretzels for the reception and the twenty bucks I paid the pastor. My wife is a pretty emotional woman, and as the minister read our vows, a small mascara-filled tear began to roll down Conchie's cheek. That let me know she thought this was a pretty good idea.

There is a moment when you are supposed to kiss the bride, but what I remember is raising my thumb and wiping away that tear. It was kind of a "my yin to your yang" beginning that has continued all this time. I love my wife, and she gave me four gifts that take my breath away every morning and every night. I consider myself a lucky man to have so many good friends. I am even luckier in that if I ever happened to be stranded on a deserted island, I know exactly who I am going to take.

NATURENOTES

By Harry and Jean Yeatman

Jean Yeatman reports that she and Harry recently drove down to Sinking Cove with some friends and saw a very large flock of turkeys in a field. This was a very good year for turkeys, evident in the abundance of young birds.

Most of the year gobblers flock together away from the hens and young. One spring the Yeatmans had five toms living in their pasture, and when it was time for mating, they witnessed a fight between two toms. The birds twined their necks together and shoved each other about until one lay on the ground exhausted. Before the winner could enjoy his victory, a third tom came up and challenged him, and the fighting started all over again.

Turkeys prefer open woods with some clearings. They eat acorns, hickory nuts, beechnuts, wild grapes, dogwood and other fruits. They eat grain, seeds and in summer, large insects.

Wild turkeys are slimmer, darker and more streamlined than domestic ones. The male has a long beard, more head color and more iridescence in its feathers than the female, which is smaller and lighter.

The Yeatmans have two toms living in their pasture now, and Jean says that it's fun watching them chase insects and graze on knotweed.

Spay/Neuter Program for Large Dogs

Animal Alliance South Cumberland has funds available this year to spay or neuter large dogs (40 pounds or more), according to Kathy Bouldin.

Pet owners who do not spay and neuter their pets before they litter are the greatest cause of pet overpopulation, Bouldin said. "It's simple math: A male and a female dog breed. On average, six puppies are born. These six puppies are given away or abandoned and have not been fixed, so they reproduce within the year and have or help make an average of six more puppies each. The original mama dog has her second litter. Including the original mama dog, papa dog, first litter of six puppies, their first litter, and the mama dog's second litter, there are now approximately 50 dogs," she said. "Fifty dogs and puppies, 48 of which could have been prevented if the owners of the mama and papa dogs had called Animal Alliance."

Call Animal Alliance at (931) 235-9006 for more information on this program.

Pets of the Week

Meet Boots and Guinness Stout

The Franklin County Humane Society's Animal Harbor offers these two delightful pets for adoption.

Boots is a lovely, sophisticated Tuxedo who would prefer a quiet life with adults or older children. She is declawed, so she must be an indoor cat. Boots is negative for FeLV and FIV, house-trained, up-to-date on shots and spayed.

Guinness Stout looks macho for a cute little Shih Tzu, so they gave him a name to match his manliness. Macho as he is, Guinness also enjoys a nice cuddle and would love to be a lap dog. Guinness is up-to-date on shots and neutered.

Animal Harbor has a limited-time special on Tuesdays and Thursdays, when you can adopt a tabby at a 50 percent discount, plus get a free bag of cat food. Every Friday is Black Friday at Animal Harbor. On Fridays, adoption fees will be reduced 50 percent for black or mostly black pets more than four months old who have been at Animal Harbor for more than a month. Pets adopted from Animal Harbor qualify for a free post-adoption wellness exam by local veterinarians.

Call Animal Harbor at 962-4472 for information and check out the other pets at <www.animalharbor.com>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Scott and Phoebe Bates

Law, say the gardeners, is the sun,
Law is the one
All gardeners obey
To-morrow, yesterday, and to-day.

Law is the wisdom of the old
The impotent grandfathers shrilly scold;
The grandchildren put out a treble tongue,
Law is the senses of the young.

Law, says the priest with a priestly look,
Expounding to an unpriestly people,
Law is the words in my priestly book,
Law is my pulpit and my steeple ...

... Others say, Law is our Fate;
Others say, Law is our State;
Others say, others say
Law is no more,
Law has gone away.

And always the loud angry crowd
Very angry and very loud
Law is We,
And always the soft idiot softly Me ...

—“Law, Say the Gardeners, is the Sun”
by W. H. Auden
