Wall to Present Haines Lecture

The English Department at the University of the South invites the public to the annual Haines Lecture by Wendy Wall, titled "Poet in the Making: Salvation, Matter, and Cosmology in Hester Pulter's Works."

Imagine a recently discovered 17th-century manuscript that interweaves anguished poetic meditations on regicide, sin, child-loss, and loneliness with the thrill of astronomical, atomic, and chemical discoveries. "In Poems Breathed Forth by the Noble Hadassas," a previously unknown English female writer named Hester Pulter offers striking poems that mix detailed scientific knowledge with the poetic techniques refined by John Donne and George Herbert. In her poetry, Pulter capitalizes on the vivid mobility of matter to concoct her own peculiar theory of making, personhood, and salvation. What new perspectives on faith, science, and poetics do these poems reveal? How do they document modes of intellectual production previously invisible to scholars? And, how might we use 21st-century technologies to infuse Pulter's poems with the mobility that she so valued?

Wall is a professor of English and director of the Alice Kaplan Institute for the Humanities at Northwestern University. The lecture will take place at 4:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 13, in Convocation Hall, followed by a reception.

The Haines Lecture Series is funded in memory of Stacy Allen Haines, 1919-1983.

Sewanee Elementary students read more than 69,000 minutes this summer. The following students read the most number of minutes in their grade. From left to right: Cabell Thompson (first grade), Benjamin Rudd (kindergarten), Maggie Lu Rudd (third grade), Kyla Kilgore (second grade), Miren Colbert (fourth grade), and Eliza Griffey (fifth grade). These Summer Super Readers were recognized at a Friday morning assembly.

Historic Vote on Mountain Goat Trail Crossing:

Monteagle to Apply for $1M Grant

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At a special called meeting Sept. 4, the Monteagle City Council voted to authorize the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance (MGTA) to write a grant on the town's behalf, requesting up to $1 million to get the trail across the interstate. Following the route the railroad once used to transport coal from the Plateau, the walking and biking trail will extend from Cowan to Palmer when complete.

"For 10 years we've been trying to figure out how to bridge the interstate," said MGTA President Nate Wilson.

If Monteagle receives the funds requested in the Southeast Development District (SDD) Multimodal Grant, the town will be required to pay 5 percent of the construction costs, up to $25,000 per year over a two year period. On the first vote, Vice Mayor Jessica Blalock and Mayor David Sampley voted against the resolution authorizing the grant application, with alderman Kenneth Gipson and Ron Terrill voting yes.

"As a candidate for mayor, I promised not to spend money putting the town in debt," Sampley said.

"We don't have the money to do this," stressed County Recorder Debbie Taylor. "Our budget is pretty tight."

"What if we cover the $50,000?" Wilson asked. "The MGTA can commit to do that, as well as to paying any loan costs associated with the project."

The council recessed to discuss Wilson's offer.

Upon returning, the council voted unanimously in favor of the proposal. Alderperson Suzie Zeman was absent.

"The second largest industry in the state is tourism," Wilson said, commenting on the potential benefits of the trail. An economic impact study conducted by the Babson Center projected the trail would generate $1.2 million annual revenue for Grundy County. The largest portion of that would go to Monteagle since it has motels and levies an occupancy tax. Wilson noted—"Research indicates if there is 25 miles or more of trail, bike users spend the night."

"The trail will pay for itself with revenue," Wilson insisted.

Jimmy Hall to Perform at Eighth Annual AngelFest

The eighth annual Angel Fest will be Friday, Sept. 28, at the Angel Park and throughout downtown Sewanee. Joseph's Remodeling Solutions is sponsoring the family fun and children's activities, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Children's activities include inflatables; animals; cotton candy and shaved ice; crafts; face painting; glow bracelets and temporary tattoos; make your own marshmallow poppers; corn hole; and ladder toss, bubbles and sidewalk chalk. The children's events will end at 7 p.m. There will be an arts and crafts market, and the local farmers' market. There will be food and drink for purchase from local businesses.

Jimmy Hall, with original Willette, Donna Hall Foster, special guest, Kenny Greenberg, and Michael Rudder and Shaun Furman will take the stage at 7 p.m.; bring a chair or a blanket.

Jimmy Hall first gained notoriety as the lead vocalist, saxophonist, and harmonica player for the band Wet Willie, which emerged from Mobile, Alabama in 1970. His unique brand of R&B-infused rock and roll swagger propelled the group's "Keep On Smilin'" to the Top 10 on the Billboard singles chart in 1974. After five albums with Capricorn Records, Wet Willie moved to the Epic label in 1977, carrying the singles "Street Corner Serenade" and "Weekend" to the Top 40. As a solo artist, Jimmy appeared in the Top 40 yet again with "I'm Happy That Love Has Found You" in 1980. His songs have been recorded by Gregg Allman, The Marshall Tucker Band, The Amazing Rhythm Aces, Blackberry Smoke, Johnny Russell, and others. Jimmy has been a vocalist and bandleader for Hank Williams Jr. since the 1980s. Jimmy is an inductee of both the Georgia Music Hall of Fame and the Alabama Music Hall of Fame. He has toured as a vocalist with Jeff Beck's U.S. tour over the years.

The Reverse Raffle drawing, a chance to win up to $5,000, will also be held during the event. Tickets, $100, are still available from local businesses and online at <www.sewaneevillage.com/park/>. Proceeds benefit Housing Sewanee.

The Sewanee Business Alliance along with other AngelFest sponsors offer this event free to the community. For more information go to <<http://sewaneangelfest.blogspot.com/?m=1>>.

Village Planning Update: Bookstore and Grocery News

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

News about the bookstore and specialty food market led the discussion at the September Village Planning update meeting hosted by Frank Gladu, Special Assistant to the Vice-Chancellor. Tasked with overseeing the plan, Gladu has identified five priority projects, with the new bookstore and mixed-use grocery-apartment building currently topping the list. The bookstore is expected to be open by the beginning of the next academic year and the mixed-use food market and apartment building has taken a leap forward with a developer interested in the project.

The contractor bid process is open on the bookstore, Gladu said. Describing the design, he explained the two sections of the bookstore would be joined in the rear. One side will sell trade books and the other side will sell "Sewanee spirit" items and gifts. A basement area will be devoted to student textbooks and course materials. The building will also offer outdoor and indoor seating courts.

The current bookstore site will become the home of a new Wellness Center for students and faculty. The center will include student health, counseling, and exercise components, as well as providing a home base for the Sewanee Outing Program, according to Gladu. The Fowler Center will continue to be the sports and fitness facility for public use.

The University hopes to break ground on the Wellness Center this fall, Gladu said. Plans are underway to move the current bookstore to a temporary location pending completion of the new bookstore.

The Bishop's Common, the former location of the bookstore, is being considered as the bookstore's temporary home.

The mixed-use grocery and apartment building is slated for location on the lot currently occupied by the Hair Depot. The recently completed conceptual design shows the market front door facing the intersection. The 10,000 square foot ground floor might house other retail businesses in addition to a grocery, Gladu said. By comparison, the Sewanee Market convenience store is only 1,800 square feet. The mixed-use building will have apartments on the top two stories. The third floor apartments will feature balconies to give the building a more aesthetically compelling appearance. Parking will be in the rear.

"The potential developer is really on board with what we had in mind," Gladu said, "and the architect got from the beginning what we were trying to do."

From the outset, housing has been a key component of the Sewanee Village Plan.

To address the employee housing shortage, the University intends to make additional sites available where employees can build, Gladu said. The University may also offer financial assistance to employees who want to build, especially first time-home owners. With the exception of Parson's Green, only employees can build on the Domain.

The Village Plan calls for as many as 100 housing units in the 45-acre business district, both apartments and developer-built

HUNGER WALK THANK-YOU

To the Editor:

I write with deep gratitude and thanks to all who helped make the fourth annual Hunger Walk a huge success.

Food security is real and the Hunger Walk helps to raise the awareness that there is still much work to be done.

The funds raised by the efforts of Monteagle/Sewanee Rotary and given to CAC will be used for direct services to those who seek our help. The planning committee, sponsors, title sponsor, food donations, Vistas and students all coming together to make lives better for those in need, it doesn't get much better than that. Thank you also to The Sewanee Mountain Messenger for great publicity. It was a wonderful event and after a few months of catching our breath we will be planning the fifth annual Hunger Walk.

Gratefully,
Betty Carpenter, Director
Community Action Committee

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace continues Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Chandler Davenport, a senior in the college, will be sharing her story with us. This informal worship service is designed for students and community members, featuring student-led acoustic music, a different guest speaker each week, and Holy Communion. This semester, each of our speakers will meditate on the act of Breaking Ground. We will explore the idea that breaking ground—beginning something new or forging into unfamiliar territory—is a holy, if laborious, act. We want to believe that diving into a new venture, reconstructing a torn relationship, or starting a fresh phase of life will be easy, but when we encounter experiences and perspectives unlike our own, our instinct is to retreat to the familiar and forget the unknown. This semester, we will explore how the vulnerability of newness molds us into the resilient and accepting being God created us to be. Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep if you have any questions. We hope to see you there—bring a friend.

The Catechumenate continues this Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 7 p.m. in the Bairnwick Women’s Center. Catechumenate, from a Greek word meaning “learning and exploring,” is a place where we explore what it means to be a human being and what it means to be a person of faith in our community. This is a great place to meet new people and build relationships. Food, prayer, questions, and conversation power this process.

Email Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> for directions or more information.

Chapman’s Chapel Church of the Nazarene

Chapman’s Chapel Church of the Nazarene will host the annual Ladies of Royal Descent Fall Conference beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8. All ladies are invited to attend. Guest Speaker, Linda Boyette, and Worship Leader, Kim McLean, will be featured. Contact Nadine Myers at (931) 247-8699 or Dot Jackson at (931) 383-9065 to register.

On Sunday, Sept. 23, Chapman’s Chapel Church of the Nazarene will celebrate its annual Homecoming and Friends’ Day. Sunday School and singing will begin at 9:30 and Worship at 10:45. A fellowship meal will follow. The public is invited to attend. Chapman’s Chapel Church of the Nazarene is located at 273 Chapman Chapel Rd.

Christ Church Monteagle

During this week so much is happening that we may forget altogether to remember the horrible attacks on Sept. 11. Now that nearly two decades have passed, a generation has entered college who have never known a world where the United States has not been involved in wars.

Christ Church Monteagle will mark this fateful week with special prayers at the 10:30 a.m. service on Sept. 9. Bishop William Millsaps will be the celebrant and preacher.

The Sunday School is starting another year, and the light lunches will continue at noon.

Christ Church Celebration

Christ Church, the oldest continuously operating Episcopal Church on the South Cumberland Plateau, will celebrate its 150th anniversary, Sept. 8-9. The public is invited to the community celebration, which dates its beginning from an outdoor service at a sawmill in Tracy City in 1868. Registration for the event begins Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Father Adamz Memorial Parish House with complimentary coffee and pastries. The parish house will also be the site of exhibits.

Music begins at 11 a.m., followed by a barbecue at noon. Music continues that afternoon.

On Sunday, Sept. 9, starting at 11 a.m., there will be a traditional worship service in the church, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, followed by a reception in the parish house.

For more information, visit the church’s website at <www.christ-church-tc.org>.

Otey Parish

This Sunday, the Lectionary Class will explore Sunday’s gospel, in the Claiborne Parish House, Adult Education Room. Children ages 3–11 are invited to meet their friends for Godly Play. Youth Ministry will be in Brooks Hall. Infants 6 weeks to children 4-years-old are invited to the nursery beginning at 8:30 a.m. There will be nursery for both services and the Sunday School Hour.

The Adult Forum will begin at 9:45 a.m. in St Mark’s Hall of the Parish House at Otey and conclude at 10:45 a.m. Coffee and tea are provided. All are welcome! The best-selling book by Jon Meacham, “The Soul of America: The Battle for Our Better Angels,” will be the subject of presentations and discussion. ## Fall Heritage Festival Celebrates a Fifth Year in Cowan

The Fall Heritage Festival returns to Cowan September 21-23, filling the Cowan Railroad Museum Park with art, history, music, food, and tons of free activities for kids of all ages. The free community-driven event celebrates the region's traditions and history as well as showcasing the continuing talents, creativity and diversity of its residents. This year features an expanded free Kids Zone, historical demonstrations and living history, vendors, arts and crafts, and of course, festival food.

"This festival is a gem that many people overlook," said Mark Ledbetter, chairman of the festival. "There is truly something for everyone at the Fall Heritage Festival."

Highlights of the festival schedule include Fireworks both Friday and Saturday evenings; a cruise-in on Friday; and Corn Hole Tournament on Saturday.

"We're excited about the expanded Kids Zone," said Mary Lou Brown. "The train rides were a big hit last year, and will be offering free rides both Saturday and Sunday. The Balloon Man will also be appearing on Saturday. New additions include plinko, duck pond, feed the pig, ring toss, monster bean bag toss, barrel crawl and tire obstacle course."

Bad Nayer will headline the entertainment on Friday night with focus on danceable R&B, rock and country.

Saturday night will feature Alison McCormick, known for her sultry powerful vocals and undeniable charisma; featuring a mix of Rock, Blues, Jazz, Soul, Country and so much more. Joining Alison will be David Ewing on keyboards, Bill Hullett on guitar, Debbie Hullett on bass, and Mitch McElwain on rhythm.

The fun begins Friday at 5 p.m. and runs until 9 p.m., and resumes Saturday at 10 a.m. through 9 p.m. Fireworks will be at 8:30 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday. Sunday hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The festival is free to the public, and made possible by the generous donations from regional businesses and individuals. Major sponsors include the City of Cowan, Rogers Group, Inc., Cowan Development Co., Russell-Barnett Automotive Family, and many more.

For additional information, please see the festival's website at <www.FallHeritageFestival.info>, <www.facebook.com/FallHeritageFestival>, email <info@FallHeritageFestival.info> or leave a message at (931) 563-3868.

The council discussed borrowing the $50,000 from the $486,000 capital outlay budget earmarked for a new fire hall, but expressed concern about the money being replaced. Monteagle does not levy an income tax. The town's revenue is limited to proceeds from the occupancy tax, gasoline tax, and sales tax revenue from retail businesses and restaurants.

The grant funding, if received, will complete the trail from Dollar General to Tower Community Bank. Conversation is underway with the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) about using the old railroad bridge to span the interstate, Wilson said. In support of the project, TDOT will conduct a free structural assessment of the bridge.

Also in the project's favor is money earmarked for sidewalks in the area of the interstate exits, Wilson pointed out. Portions of the sidewalks could be used for the trail.

Wilson expects the grant application to score high because of the connectivity the trail affords and because it fits in well with the state's infrastructure plan. Grundy County Mayor Michael Brady had intended to apply for funding for a similar project. Brady's project had lower connectivity impact, and Brady has agreed to put his energy behind the MGT interstate crossing proposal.

Wilson said the multi-modal grant was a historic opportunity since in the past SDD money for rural projects typically went to roads.

The SDD Rural Project Organization will score the grant applicants on Sept. 19. City and county mayors in the district are voting members.

single family homes. The types of single-family homes proposed include three or four home clusters, cottage court groupings of small homes facing one another, and attached homes like duplexes, triplexes, and townhouses.

"Variety is crucial to changing the housing inventory in Sewanee," Gladu said. For Village housing, employees will have buyer's priority throughout the sale negotiation process. In the event the price decreases in negotiation with a non-employee buyer, employees will have the option to override the non-employee's bid.

Providing an update on other priority projects, Gladu said TDOT continued to grapple with the proposal to narrow Highway 41A to calm traffic. Design work on the Village Green was expected to begin in the near future given impetus by a donor gift earmarked for that purpose.

"There's much perched on the horizon," Gladu stressed. "What happens in the next year will be telling."

Sign Up for the New Sewanee Seminars Short Courses

The Center of Lifelong Learning at the University of the South is offering five new short courses and spaces are filling up quickly. Please contact Dan Backlund at <lifelong@sewanee.edu> for further information and to register for these exciting classes before they are full. The enrollment fee for each course is only $60 and includes six hours of formal learning time.

Dan Backlund, professor of theatre will offer "Did You Order the Kit? — Wait — Where Does Scenery Really Come From?" from 2–4 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 19, Sept. 26, Oct. 3 and Oct. 10. You will explore the amazing process of scenic design from the first reading of the script to a realized performance of the musical "Cabaret" that opens at the Tennessee Williams Center on Oct. 26. Discussion includes analysis, internal and external research, idea generation, design creation, working drawing creation and design execution. We will be able to see the scenery being built, painted, and installed, culminating in a performance of our 20th anniversary celebration show.

Dr. George Bowers with Animal Care Center will explore "Did curiosity kill the cat? What about the dog?" Answers to pet questions ranging from the origin of pets as companions, how dogs and cats experience the world, the basics of proper nutrition, and daily care at all life stages. The course will be 2–4 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 18, Sept. 25, Oct. 9 and Oct. 16.

Garden designer June Mays will discuss "Late Bloomers — Gardening in the Second Half of Life." We will cover having fun in the garden, garden tours here and abroad, some great gardening books to read, overcoming problems like deer, making your outdoor space look great, maintenance tips, sources for plants, people who can help you, and groups to join. We will visit some great gardens in the Sewanee area and talk about some of the best sources for purchasing great garden plants. Each participant should purchase a copy of "Late Bloomer: How to Garden with Comfort, Ease, and Simplicity in the Second Half of Life" by Jan Bills. Used and new books are available on <amazon.com>. The class will be 1–3 p.m., Monday, Sept. 24, Oct. 1, Oct. 8 and Oct. 15.

Maryellen McCone and Richard Barrali return with "Hit the Reset Button!" Studies are showing that a mindfulness meditation practice can have profound effects on the structure of the brain. One of the most significant is a study done in 2011 at Harvard by Sara Lazar and her team. The study showed increases in the cortical thickness in the hippocampus, which governs learning and memory, and decreases in brain cell volume in the amygdala, which is that part of the brain associated with fear, anxiety, and stress. This can make a significant impact of our tendency to be reactive and to continue old patterns of behavior whether they are helpful or not. Another consistent finding in the research literature is that greater self-compassion is linked to less anxiety and depression. Coupling a mindfulness practice with self-compassion can literally change our brain in ways that can allow us to change our response to life's inherent stress and live in a state of equanimity. The course will be 10 a.m.–noon, Thursday, Oct. 25, Nov. 1, Nov. 8 and Nov. 15.

Sarah Sherwood offers "Introduction to Archaeology (or what Indiana Jones doesn't want you to know)." In this short course we will begin with an overview of archaeology (why, how, etc.) in a 40-minute lecture format. This will also include an overview of the prehistory of the Plateau and nearby Tennessee Valley. We will also look at a range of artifacts and how and why we study them from historic and prehistoric sites. The first part of each class will be in the lab and the second half will be working on the excavation at Rebel's Rest with students who are taking a half credit cultural resource practicum class. You may work at whatever physical level you want, from being on your hands and knees digging to standing and searching the sieves for artifacts to sitting and washing artifacts. All these tasks are important parts of the process. The course will be 12:30–2:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 27, Oct. 4, Oct. 11 and Oct. 25.

FROM THE HERITAGE CENTER

Grundy County Historical Society

Heritage Center

The Heritage Center is owned and operated by Grundy County Historical Society. Its mission is to inspire all of the people and communities of the South Cumberland Plateau, its coves and valleys, to understand who they are and how they are connected in history with interrelated pathways. In furtherance of this mission a plan has been adopted and is being implemented by enhancing knowledge of the cultural, historical, and intellectual background of the region for the benefit of the residents, their cultural and economic interests.

The Heritage Center consists of an historic facility located at 465 Railroad Ave., in Tracy City. It includes a museum that depicts and interprets historical themes that have grown out of the region that have had significant impact on national or international history. It further includes a library and research center for family, cultural and historical research. The facility also contains an assembly hall that displays materials that depict and interpret the cultural background and life of the region. The assembly hall is equipped with audio visual equipment that is used in scheduled presentations as well as videos and documentaries.

The first phase of the development of a park by the Town of Tracy City is in progress across from the Heritage Center on Railroad Avenue. This phase involves the construction of a portion of a bicycle path along the former right of way of the Mountain Goat Railroad. The Heritage Center has agreed for its assembly hall becoming an adjunct to the park, where, among other things, park visitors can view documentaries that depict the origin of the New South at Tracy City with the development and operation of the coal, coke, iron and steel industries in the South following the American Civil War. In addition, until permanent rest room facilities are constructed in the park, the rest room facilities at the Heritage Center will be made available to park visitors.

The Heritage Center looks forward to presenting future articles concerning historical themes and exhibits featured at the Heritage Center as well as cultural and human interest stories.

Readers are invited to visit the Heritage Center Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Go to <http://grundycountyhistoricalsociety.com> for more information.

WDPC Hosts CO.STARTERS Program

The Winchester Downtown Program (WDPC) is set to kick off its first CO.STARTERS nine-week cohort on Sept. 11. This program is made possible through a Tennessee Economic and Community Development Main Street Entrepreneur Grant. The program will be held each Tuesday through Nov. 6, from 5:30–8:30 p.m. at the Winchester Livery, 122 N. Jefferson St., located just off the historic Winchester Square.

Those who have an idea for a business, or have an existing business looking to become more sustainable or launch a new product or service, are encouraged to sign up and attend.

CO.STARTERS is a nine-week, cohort-based program that equips entrepreneurs and small business owners of all kinds with the insights, relationships and tools needed to turn ideas into action. Participants enter into a facilitator-led, collaborative process with a small and supportive group of 10–15 like-minded peers.

CO.STARTERS certified facilitators are experienced business owners from the community who guide participants through the program by asking the right questions, drawing on the knowledge in the room, and using available resources and connections in the community to point participants in the right direction.

During the nine weeks, entrepreneurs develop and fine-tune their ideas using the CO.STARTERS Canvas, critically examining every part and determining next steps through real-time feedback from people in the community. Participants leave the program with a deeper understanding of how to create a sustainable venture, articulate their models, and repeat the process with the next great idea.

The investment for this nine-week program is a special introductory rate of $350.

Sewanee-UTC Collaboration Generates Series on the Lynching of Ed Johnson

The Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation at the University of the South is partnering with the Department of History at the University of Tennessee Chattanooga and the Ed Johnson Project in Chattanooga to host a series of events titled "The Lynching of Ed Johnson in Chattanooga: A Critical Discussion of the History of Racial Violence in the U.S."

The series, Sept. 16-18, features a documentary screening and two public lectures by Illinois State University's Amy Wood, award-winning historian and professor of post-Civil War American cultural history and the history of the U.S. South.

In 1906, Ed Johnson, an African American man from Chattanooga, was unjustly convicted of raping a white woman and sentenced to death. When the U.S. Supreme Court intervened with a stay of execution, a mob of whites stormed the jail, took Johnson, and hanged him from the Walnut Street Bridge. His last words were, "God bless you all, I am a innocent man."

"We are very pleased that we have been able to work with our colleagues at UTC and the Ed Johnson team to bring one of the leading scholars of lynching in America to our campuses to help us all better understand the broad ramifications and lasting impact of this horrific crime a century ago," said Woody Register, professor of history and director of Sewanee's Slavery Project.

"The mob that lynched Ed Johnson aimed to terrorize African Americans near and far. Those who know Ely Green's autobiography may recall that Green reports hearing in Sewanee about the lynching and the distress it caused African Americans shortly after it happened."

The series represents an unusual but important collaboration of three organizations that are investigating the history of race and racial injustice in their respective communities.

Sewanee's Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation is a six-year endeavor by the university to study and understand its historic entanglements with the institution of slavery and slavery's legacies in the long century of racial injustice after the end of the Civil War.

"We think this event series can bring different intellectual communities together, share the historical knowledge about the Ed Johnson lynching with a larger audience, and inspire awareness about continuing issues surrounding racial injustices in the Chattanooga area," said Susan Eckelmann Berghel, assistant professor of history and director of Africana studies at UTC.

Amy Wood specializes in post-Civil War American cultural history. She is the author of "Lynching and Spectacle: Witnessing Racial Violence in America, 1890-1940," which won the Lillian Smith Book Award and was a finalist for the Los Angeles Times Book Award in History. She is also the author of numerous essays and articles on the history and memory of lynching.

Taking place on both the Sewanee and UTC campuses, the events are scheduled for Sunday through Tuesday, Sept. 16, 17, and 18.

On Sunday, Sept. 16, a documentary about the lynching and its aftermath will be screened at 4 p.m. (CDT) in Gailor Auditorium on the University of the South's campus. The documentary is produced by the Ed Johnson Project in Chattanooga, which also is constructing a monument in downtown Chattanooga that preserves public memory of Johnson's life and murder.

Wood's first lecture, "The Lynching of Ed Johnson in Historical Perspective," will be given at UTC's Derthick Hall (room 101) on Monday at 4 p.m. (CDT) and live-streamed in Sewanee's Gailor Auditorium.

Wood's second lecture, "The Legacy of Lynching in American Life," will be delivered at 4:30 p.m. (CDT), Tuesday, Sept. 18, in Convocation Hall at the University of the South.

Beginning with this series, the Sewanee Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation will be live-streaming many of the events it sponsors this year to share its work with the broader Sewanee community.

All of the events may be viewed online by following the link on the Sewanee Project's web page, <<http://www.sewanee.edu/sewanee-slavery/>>, or on its Facebook page, <<https://www.facebook.com/SewaneeProjectonRaceandReconciliation/>>.

FOODFORTHOUGHT

Emily Heid, South Cumberland Farmers' Market

The Scoop on Local Apples

Roxbury Russet, Arkansas Black, Hudson's Golden Gym, Hoople's Antique Gold, Pendragon, and Turley Winesap—this is just a sampling of the many different apple varieties being grown on the Cumberland Plateau.

Mark Preslar's orchard in Sewanee includes many of the fancy-named older varieties, like Pendragon, which is a red-fleshed English cultivar that has been grown since the 12th century and has surprisingly high levels of healthy compounds, including flavonoids. In his orchard, you'll also find Roxbury Russet, a wonderful cider variety that is high in sugars and flavor compounds. It's the oldest known apple cultivar bred in the United States, and it's primarily kept by heirloom growers. According to Preslar, Russets are not preferred for large scale production, despite their resistance to disease and good flavor, because most consumers are more inclined to buy shiny-skinned apples. He has found the Russets to be more flavorful and better for cider making than many other cultivars.

Preslar's orchard began with a sampling of older southern cultivars but since has grown to include English and European cider cultivars. His main goal is to identify cultivars that are best suited to growing in our unique climate and environment. "One of the biggest challenges to growing apples in Sewanee," he shared, "is that we have a vibrant ecosystem that is just teeming with life." A whole plethora of bacterial, viral, and fungal infections, as well as insect pests present challenges to apple cultivation. Organic treatments like neem oil and kaolin clay help to keep pest and disease problems at bay, but it's an ongoing battle. In addition to the aforementioned threats, late hard frosts, which are not uncommon on the Plateau, can be fatal. Preslar paints the trunks of his trees white to detract sunlight and keep the trees from breaking dormancy prematurely.

Wheeler's Orchard on Fredonia Mountain, just outside of Dunlap, experiences many of the same challenges with pests and disease. Jane Mauldin, whose father established the orchard in the 1970s, now operates the sustainable orchard with her siblings. One of the root causes of the pest and disease issues that Mauldin identifies is the length of the growing season. Although the longer growing season allows for greater apple production, it also means that the trees suffer the impact of two generations of insect pests.

At Wheeler's, Mauldin and her family combat problems with an approach that takes into account the health of the people on their farm, the health of the apple trees, and the health of the surrounding ecosystem. This involves integrating organic and conventional treatments and administering them with precise measurement and timing. Organic-approved treatments are preferred, but some conventional treatments are used when the organic alternative is too harsh on the trees.

Copper, for example, is a common organic-approved treatment for bacterial and fungal infections that can build up in the soil and contaminate it over time. It's phototoxic, which allows it to kill the infections that it treats, however it can also damage the tissue of the apple trees. At Wheeler's Orchard, copper is sprayed at the very beginning of the growing season to control fire blight, a bacteria that attacks blooms and shoots. It has been found to be too damaging to use after the trees have begun putting on leaves.

Herbicides are administered sparingly to control poison ivy in the orchard for the safety of workers and visitors. The orchard is dependent on wild pollination, so keeping the environment surrounding the trees hospitable to bees and other pollinators is integral to the success of the operation.

The management practices employed at the orchard are just as important as the treatments administered for pest and disease issues. Regular pruning, for instance, allows the leaves and fruit more access to sunlight, improving the health of the trees and the flavor of the apples.

Mauldin is hopeful about the future success of the orchard as she and her family continue to expand into different cultivars with better resistance, including older varieties like Hardy Cumberland and Arkansas Black. This year, their Gala apples have been coming in strong, and the Jonagolds, Blushing Goldens, and Turley Winesaps should be coming along in the next few weeks.

Wheeler's offers pick-your-own and also has a farm stand where you can buy their cider and other apple-y treats. You can also visit Wheeler's Orchard online at <<https://www.wheelersorchard.com>>.

SAS Students Take Advantage of College Enrollment

In addition to taking advanced courses in math and sciences at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, outstanding SAS juniors and seniors are encouraged to take college courses for credit (and for free) at the University of the South, one of the country's top liberal arts colleges. This semester, 12 students are enrolled in 14 classes at the University, including: Elementary German I, Atlantic Britons 1500-1850 (History), Elementary Arabic, Calculus I, Ethics and Anthropocene (Religious Studies), Introduction to Cultural Anthropology, Cultural Survey of Spain I, Introduction to Macroeconomics, Intermediate French, Classical Mythology, and Calculus I.

"SAS students learn to hold their own and excel in a college setting with college-aged classmates," said Director of College Counseling Dan Monahan. "Proven ability to balance a college course workload and excel in those courses give them a real boost in the college admission process and when they begin their college careers."

Approximately 20 percent of last year's graduating class graduated with college credit. The 48 members of the Class of 2018 received acceptances to 120 different colleges and universities and enrolled in 32 different schools. They were offered more than $8.3 million in merit awards.

Diplomas Available for Veterans

If you did not receive your high school diploma due to entry into the U.S. Armed Forces, you may now be awarded a high school diploma by your local high school.

Tennessee state law allows for the awarding of high school diplomas to the honorable men and women who stepped forward to serve their country.

Veterans who fall into this category should contact their local school superintendent to register their name and to request the awarding of a high school diploma. You will have to present your military discharge papers.

For assistance, contact Sergeant Major Larry E. Williams at (931) 924-3000, or (931) 224-3226, email at <tennesseans2@blomand.net>.

MES Celebrates Attendance

Monteagle Elementary is focused on student attendance. On Aug. 28, MES recognized the students who had perfect attendance for the first 15 days. There were 129 students who had been in attendance for every minute of the first 15 days of school. Each student placed a ticket into a bucket for a drawing for gift cards. Each month, a ticket will be drawn and a $15 gift card will be presented to the student. Tickets can be earned for every 15 days of perfect attendance.

Tigers Don't Leave Tracks! Program

Tigers Don't Leave Tracks!—aimed at educating students about sustainability and helping them reduce their use of single-use plastics, continues at Sewanee Elementary.

Show your support by continuing to bring your reusable bags to local businesses. Mooney's, The Lemon Fair, Village Wine and Spirits, and Monteagle Wine and Spirits are all making donations to the school every time you bring your own bag.

The Piggly Wiggly is hosting a draw in support of the project. When you bring your own bags to The Pig, write the name of a teacher or a class on the back of your receipt (grade 2, Mrs. Camp's class, Principal's Choice, etc.) and put it in the Tigers Don't Leave Tracks! jar at the front of the store. Those receipts will be collected periodically and entered in prize draws. The winning classes will receive sturdy Klean Kanteen water bottles for everyone. Together, we can give reusable water bottles to all the children in the school and help them in their efforts.

Thank you for supporting Tigers Don't Leave Tracks! and Sewanee Elementary.

September Festival of the Arts at IONA

The August Festival of Arts at IONA: Art Sanctuary begins Tuesday, Sept. 11, with readings and art exhibits. The public is welcome, all events are free and parking is available.

A photography exhibit "Angels Are Here" by Trudy Cunningha will be available Sept. 11–13, from 5 to 7 p.m. Refreshments are served after each program. IONA is at 630 Garnertown Rd., in Sewanee.

Cunningham will present her work at 5 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 11. Cunningham sees the world through the lens of a camera, but she is more a cropper than a photographer. What you see is what caught her eye again, this time on the computer as she reviewed and ordered some results from her pointing and shooting photos.

This exhibit includes 40 or more Sewanee faces that caught Trudy's attention over the last 17 years, a few other faces, and photos of other places where angels gather. If you remember seeing Trudy and her camera in a room or event in Sewanee, you may recognize your earlier self on the wall at IONA.

Readings on Sept. 11 include creative fiction by Brooks Egerton; poetry by Sally Hubbard; and a reading by author Dudley Delffs.

On Wednesday, Sept. 12, readers include Chris McDonough with creative writing; Jeannie Babb reading poetry; poetry with Shelby Knauss; and creative fiction by Patrick Dean.

Thursday, Sept. 13 will feature gardening by Lee Stapleton; creative writing by Laura Willis; and letters to the editor by Helen Stapleton.

IONA: Art Sanctuary, founded by artist Ed Carlos, exists to offer a place for writers and artists to share their creative work with each other and the community, and our emphasis is the source: creativity and spirituality.

The Motherhood Blues

In the blur of those endless nights when you hold your breath for fear the lightest motion of air will wake the new baby you've finally fed and rocked to sleep, you're sure that this is the hardest part of parenthood.

I have news for you young parents, though you'll be too tired to take it in. The hardest part is way down the road, long after those first sleepless months; those rainy afternoons of staggering around the house with a toddler attached to one leg; the first orthodontist bill; teenage hissy fits.

The hardest part is when your no-longer-physically-a-child child leaves home for good.

I'm not talking about college here: that's just the warm-up.

I'm talking about the day your child (for to you she is and always will be) backs out the driveway in a car piled high with most of the stuff you've wanted picked up off her floor all those years. Heading out to the great world for that first post-graduation job, with, from now on, holidays no longer about "going home" for weeks at a time, but about visiting the old folks.

It's a wrench I experienced myself this summer when my youngest moved to Louisville. Imagine my gratitude to find the experience beautifully portrayed in a poignant scene from the book I happened to be reading, Bess Streeter Aldrich's novel of the Nebraska plains, "A Lantern in her Hand."

"Abbie (the mother) waved and smiled—waved and smiled,—as long as they were in sight. ... And, whether she has driven away in a lumber-wagon or a limousine, the mother whose daughter has left her for the first time, will understand why Abbie Deal ran blindly into her bedroom and shut the door."

It's an older book, first published in 1928 and re-issued in 1956, by a woman who herself witnessed some of the pioneer life she writes about so movingly. Think "Little House on the Prairie" from the mother's point of view. We live with Abby Deal from eager childhood to old age, from graceful girl determined to fulfill her dream of becoming a fine lady like her legendary aristocratic Scottish grandmother, to sturdy pioneer wife and mother whose days are devoted not to fine art but to keeping her family alive. Most of them, that is, who remain fed, clothed and even educated despite weather extremes and plagues of grasshoppers that year after year decimate the crops. What happens to Abby's ambition to express her deepest feelings through her gifts for singing and painting? Well, no spoilers here, but as those of you also at a certain age know well, "life happens."

Once you're addicted to the Deal family, you'll be as delighted as I that there's a sequel to Abby's story, "A White Bird Flying," which begins two days after the final events in Lantern. Aldrich, considered one of Nebraska's finest writers, created, among other things, nine novels and more than one hundred stories. One, Miss Bishop, following the life of a gifted teacher, was made into a film I'd love to see, "Cheers for Miss Bishop," which sounds a lot like another filmed novel you may remember, "Good Morning, Miss Dove" (though the latter is set during World War Two). I found both White Bird and Miss Bishop in duPont Library, and plan to look for more of Aldrich's work.

Books, after all, can help fill in a little of the void left by departing children.

'Conversation about Close Encounters' at IONA

At IONA: Art Sanctuary, "Conversations about Close Encounters" will be at 4 p.m., Friday, Sept. 14. The session will introduce the idea and experiencing of encounters by relating an early encounter that initiated Edward Carlos to his creativity and eventual painting and drawing.

The event of an aurora borealis was a spiritual awakening at a young age for Carlos in contrast to another experience of the same time period dealing with an amoral political movement and threats to his parents that awakened him to another aspect of human endangerment.

Carlos views these encounters as an experiencing in consciousness, the many levels of awareness, especially connected with mystical consciousness in the vein of the Judaic merkavah (chariot) tradition and historical evolution from the experiences of Ezekiel and Enoch.

On Sunday, Sept. 16, at 1 p.m., Carlos will present another such close encounter that occurred in Sewanee proper, which reinforced the implication that these occasions are spiritual in nature and a blessing. The physicality of mutual existence between creativity and spirituality is the gist of the presentation since the encounter involved Manigault Park beside the theologs' dormitory at that time. Multiple levels of consciousness are means to a development of the lessons provided with these events.

For both occasions, after a half-hour presentation, the conversation will open for those attending to ask questions and for general discussion (including sharing of similar experiences if others so wish). If you are curious about such mysteries, you are most welcome. Carlos will accept challenging questions, if not hostile in nature. All are welcome.

IONA: Art Sanctuary is located at 630 Garnertown Rd., 2.8 miles from downtown Sewanee. From Hwy. 41A north turn left onto the Sherwood Road, Hwy. 56-S and turn right onto Garnertown Road. The entrance to IONA is at the foot of the hill, a sign indicated to the left of the short lane through a small wooded area opening onto a large mowed field for parking.

Tiger Women's Soccer Squad Ties Huntingdon

Match number one of the 2018 season for the Sewanee women's soccer program ended in a 1-1 draw thanks to a second half goal by the Tigers on Aug. 31 at Puett Field.

Neither team found the back of the net in the first 45 minutes. The Hawks had a chance in the 11th minute to break the scoring, but a save by freshman Hannah Judycki kept the contest scoreless.

In the 40th minute, the Tigers had one of their best opportunities to score in the opening half. After a corner kick by Dayla LaRocque, the Tigers were caught offside attempting to score.

The first score of the match came around the 53rd minute, as Huntingdon struck with a goal by Sam Curtis off an Erika Gebhard assist.

Sewanee found the back of the net in the 65th minute after Savannah Williams forced the Hawks' goalie, Kylie Kersh, out of the box to save a shot. Kersh lost control and Paige Rupp answered with a

Tigers Tame Eastern Mennonite in Field Hockey

The Sewanee field hockey team netted four goals in the first half en route to a 5-2 win over Eastern Mennonite University (EMU) on Sept. 2.

Sewanee (1-1) started the contest with three goals in the first 11 minutes of the contest. Ceara Caffrey found Milly Etheridge's pass for the first goal in the fourth minute.

A short time later, Etheridge's netted a goal at the six-minute mark.

Etheridge found life again in the 11th minute with her second goal of the game to put Sewanee ahead 3-0.

In the 29th minute, Caffrey netted her second goal of the contest and fifth of the season to make it 4-0, which would hold until the intermission.

EMU (1-1) was not only held scoreless by the home team at the half, but they did not record a shot until the 41st minute. The Royals would break the shutout with goals in the 53rd and 57th minutes.

Two minutes after Eastern Mennonite scored their second goal of the event, Etheridge found Buckley Norman's pass for the hat trick and her fourth goal of the season.

On the day, the Tigers finished with 35 shots, allowing only five to the visitors.

With less than 15 seconds left in the second overtime, Huntingdon drew a foul to give Sewanee a free kick from about 30 yards out.

LaRocque took the shot with two seconds left on the clock, but as the horn sounded, the Hawks' Kersh saved the shot to end the match in a 1-1 tie.

The Tigers were limited to five shots in regulation, but the team attempted two shots in the second overtime.

LaRocque and Williams each had two shots for the Tigers.

Judycki (0-0-1), in her first collegiate match, stopped three shots in 110 minutes of action.

NATURENOTES

by Yolande Gottfried

Late Summer Spiders

These days it seems that one cannot walk out the door (or walk down a trail, or work in the garden) without, literally, running into a spider web. The Orange Shamrock Spider, Araneus, an orb-weaver, seems to particularly prefer doorways, windows, and porches. This spider has rather short legs and a large round abdomen. The female builds the web. The web is attached to some fairly distant branch or other structure, which the spider has reached by parachuting on the wind by a silk thread to establish a bridge. From there she can drop by other threads to begin building the web. They seem to be particularly active in the evening and night hours, rebuilding the web each time, and sometimes removing the web during the day.

In the garden, one might find the beautiful garden spider or writing spider, a black and yellow Argiope with an inch-long body, the distinctive zigzag pattern in the center of the web, built in shrubs or small trees. This large spider can catch grasshoppers and katydids.

The spiders that seem to prefer building across paths and trails in the woods are the much smaller Micrathena, also an orb-weaver, with a hard, glossy, spiny abdomen.

Dewy mornings in late summer may highlight the ground-level webs of the funnel-weavers. The messy web spread across the grass, or perhaps a crevice on the porch, has a funnel in the center where the spider hides. If not disturbed, one might catch a glimpse of the spider waiting inside the funnel for the vibration in the web that signals the arrival of prey. The spider will dash out, bite the prey, and carry it back into the funnel. Agelenopsis has a body over half an inch long plus long hairy legs.

Tickets Available for the Goldenrod Gala

The second annual Goldenrod Gala — a “night out for nature” and an important fundraiser for the Friends of South Cumberland State Park — will be going underground on Saturday, Oct. 6, at The Caverns, about 10 minutes north of Monteagle. This year’s Gala will feature the music and stagecraft of the Grammy-nominated WannaBeatles, with the artisan-style buffet dinner crafted by Ivy Wild Catering. This year’s Gala takes place in the dramatic new performance hall at The Caverns, which is also the new home of the popular PBS television series “Bluegrass Underground.” This year’s Gala will also feature a silent version of the very popular Adventure Auction, offering unique, off trail nature expeditions led by expert guides.

Ivy Wild Catering, based in Sewanee, has been selected to provide an artisan-style buffet dinner for the Goldenrod Gala. Although Ivy Wild’s restaurant operation has recently changed direction, the catering service continues its eight-year tradition of providing unique and delectable dishes, with an emphasis on locally-sourced ingredients.

The WannaBeatles have created an amazing musical tribute experience that combines great Beatles classics with hilarious on stage antics, audience involvement and award winning entertainment. The WannaBeatles use their multi-instrumental skills to recreate all eras of the Beatles song catalogue. They have appeared with such renowned artists as Wynonna Judd, Phil Keaggy, and Jonny Lang. Their upbeat performances at The Tennessee Performing Arts Center, The Music City Bowl, and Georgia’s New Year’s Eve Peach Drop earned them enthusiastic reviews and standing ovations.

Proceeds from the Goldenrod Gala support a wide range of Friends’ initiatives on behalf of South Cumberland State Park. A limited number of tables and individual seats are still available, and may be reserved online at <GoldenrodGala.org>. Reservations are required by Sept. 20. The Friends are also seeking business sponsors and donors to sign-on in support of the Goldenrod Gala and its mission for the Park. ### Sunday, Sept. 9

Big Bluff Views ($5)—Join Park Ranger and State Naturalist Randy Hedgepath at 10 a.m. at Greeter Falls trailhead, just past 550 Greeter Falls Rd., Altamont, for an easy 5-mile walk along the bluffs to see the beautiful overlooks of the upper Big Creek Gulf, start at Greeter Falls Trailhead near Altamont and walking out past Alum Gap and back. Nature along the trail will be explained and the pace will be leisurely.

Friday, Sept. 14

Sunset Hike ($5)—Meet Park Ranger Aaron Reid at 7 p.m. at Stone Door parking lot, 1183 Stone Door Rd., Beersheba Springs, for an easy 2-mile hike to see the beautiful Stone Door and overlooks. Like a giant door left ajar, the crack is 10 feet wide and 100 feet deep. The surrounding cliffs offer spectacular views across the Savage Gulf State Natural Area. The overlooks are especially beautiful at twilight. This is a unique opportunity so see the Stone Door at night, as the trails close to visitors at dark. Wear sturdy shoes; bring a bottle of water and headlamp/flashlight.

The South Cumberland State Park Visitors’ Center is located on Highway 41 South between Monteagle and Tracy City and is open 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m. seven days a week. For more information call (931) 924-2980.

Bike Across Tennessee

Hundreds of cyclists from nearly 30 different states will converge on the Cumberland Plateau on Sept. 15–20 for Tennessee State Parks’ annual Bicycle Ride Across Tennessee (BRAT).

The 29th annual ride will wind riders through some of Tennessee’s most scenic and charming communities, including Pikeville, Spencer, McMinnville, Winchester and Lynchburg. Each day will feature loop rides returning to overnight at Fall Creek Falls and Tims Ford State Parks. Riders will pass key attractions along the way including Rock Island State Park, Cumberland Caverns and Jack Daniel’s Distillery.

“Every year we introduce riders to different state parks and different communities in Tennessee so they can experience how special these places are,” said Brock Hill, deputy commissioner of the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation. “For nearly 30 years we have hosted cyclists and their families among the beauty of Tennessee State Parks and this year’s ride won’t disappoint.”

The ride is non-competitive and suitable for a range of skill levels. Riders can register for the ride through Sept. 9. Registration begins at $85 for a one-day trip and $510 for the full 380-mile trip. The fee includes a fully supported route, camping at two state park base-camps, hot showers, meals (breakfast and supper), live entertainment and interpretive programming as well as an event T-shirt. Cabin and RV campground lodging is also available for an additional fee.

The BRAT is sponsored by Tennessee State Parks and benefits the Tennessee Park Rangers Association, the Cumberland Trail State Scenic Trail, Fall Creek Falls State Park and Tims Ford State Park.

More information can be found at <www.thebrat.org>.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

When you are already here you appear to be only a name that tells you whether you are present or not and for now it seems as though you are still summer still the high familiar endless summer

yet with a glint
of bronze in the chill mornings and the late yellow petals of the mullein fluttering on the stalks that lean over their broken
shadows across the cracked ground

but they all know that you have come
the seed heads of the sage
the whispering birds with nowhere to hide you to keep you for later

you
who fly with them

you who are neither before nor after you who arrive
with blue plums
that have fallen through the night

perfect in the dew

—To the Light of September, by W.S. Merwin
