Monteagle Council Approves Rezoning for Truck Stop

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

After hearing from nine residents in opposition and two in favor, the Monteagle council voted to rezone an approximate 6-acre parcel from R-3 to C-3. More than 40 people attended the March 29 meeting. The parcel is a portion of a 20-acre tract owned by RBT Enterprises. RBT hopes to construct a Petro Travel Center catering to truck drivers at the site.

Among those who spoke during the public comment period was Monteagle resident Greg Rollins who recently returned from traveling across the country with his wife. "We struggled to find a truck stop we would be proud to live next to," Rollins said. He reported observing trash blowing from the truck stop site to neighboring property at every location the couple visited.

Resident and retired engineer Jim Waller provided documentation showing drainage "from the north end of [the proposed truck stop site]...flowing into Laurel Lake." Monteagle's primary water supply. Waller also noted there were 13 water wells in the area and an underground aquifer, which sloped toward Laurel Lake.

Residential and commercial property owner Debra Reed expressed concern about truck drivers emptying their urine jugs on the asphalt. "It will go where the water goes," Reed said.

Resident and commercial truck driver Kyle Lewis acknowledged, "Rollins' account of truck stops is close to accurate." Lewis said he had seen abandoned urine bottles in parking lots, but "only gross people dump their urine out." Lewis stressed, "Monteagle has always had a truck stop...most of Marion County and Grundy County is already ate up with drugs. [Another] truck stop is not going to add to the problem...I believe we need it."

Resident Mary Beth Best, who lives adjacent to the proposed truck stop, quoted from Monteagle ordinances which promised "to preserve individual property rights while also protecting other citizens and businesses from unsafe and incompatible land uses." "You [the council] are obligated to protect our properties," Best said. "We were here first."

RBT investor Rodney Kilgore noted the property in question had C-3 zoning when RBT purchased it. (The zoning was declared invalid due to inadequate meeting notice. See Messenger, Nov. 4, 2020.)

"There is a truck stop next to us," Kilgore said. "Why are we any different?"

Resident Billy Moon said water runoff from Kilgore's Rocky Top business washed out his parent's driveway. "Rocky Top has never tried to be a neighbor to the community," Moon insisted. (The

'Preaching to Meddling,' An Autobiography of Desegregation

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

NewSouth Books recently released Seawanee resident Francis X. Walter's "From Preaching to Meddling: A White Minister in the Civil Rights Movement." In this memoir the national and personal mirror intersect. The reader sees both the nation and man struggling under the mantle of racial bias that spawned the 1960s era desegregation movement.

Walter's fourth grade teacher blamed the Civil War on northern sea captains' wives angry because their slaves died from the cold. "If we can't have 'em, they can't either," the wives reportedly complained sparking the war. Children's literature popular in Walter's childhood recounted happy relations between master and slave and the sad plight of disenfranchised plantation owners. Two factors shake the foundation of the cultural racism of which Walter grew up in the midst. From the Creole people he lived among in his preschool years Walter learned, "There is no such thing as pure black or pure white." From his mother Martha Marsh Walter, he learned to be guided by what he calls her "sense of simple justice."

When Walter's mother discovered deep seated racism within the Episcopal church community of Mobile, Ala., she vowed "to never again be part of it." Walter followed in his mother's footsteps. The reader sees Walter pushing back against the racial divide. Glimpsing a few illustrations shows a pattern.

When Walter invites Mobile's black Episcopal chaplain Father Cole to speak to his church youth group, the vestry demands Walter uninvite him. A few years later, the white Mobile Episcopal church women plan a luncheon to celebrate Walter's ordination and graduation from the University of the South School of Theology. Walter's insistence Father Cole be invited earns the reply, "Francis, you're going to have communion with him; do you need to eat with him, too?"

When Father Cole leaves Mobile, Walter requests and receives permission from the bishop to serve as the chaplain of Mobile's black church. But Walter's sister's father-in-law intervenes. He promises to bankrupt Walter's father's business and has the power to make good on the threat.

Walter withdraws his request, and the bishop sends him to serve as rector of St. James Church in Eufaula. The church fires him. Among his sins, teaching the confirmation class the "body of believers...includes all sorts of people." When Walter asks the class if they would use the N-word in talking to a person of color, one youth replies, "What would I talk to one about?"

Walter found his true calling as director of the Selma Inter-Religious Project (SIP). The inter-faith organization worked against the backdrop of the 1965 Voting Rights Act in Black Belt counties in and around Selma, Ala. White landlords punished African-Americans who registered to vote with eviction, recalling loans, and physical threats. Uncounted homeless took refuge in a tent city.

SIP's efforts included interviewing punished would-be voters to collect evidence for possible legal recourse. On one interview expedition, Walter observed a stunning homemade quilt on a clothesline. The woman who lived at the ramshackle house hid from him. Later he managed to make her acquaintance and that of other area African-American quilters. With Walter's encouragement and the assistance of a New York City friend who found buyers, the Freedom Quilting Bee cooperative formed, bringing income and pride to women who lived in destitute poverty.

In another victory, SIP helped organize pulp wood industry wood cutters to take action. Impoverished blacks and whites joined forces in one of the first interracial strikes in the country. They won a more equitable sales unit standard.

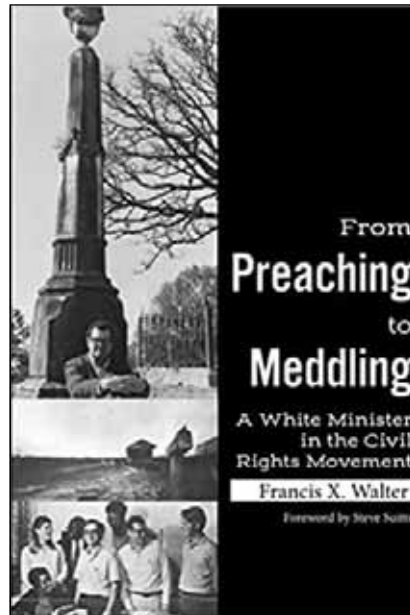

Then there were the insane asylum detainees in SIP's orbit, white people held under court order for observation at Bryce Hospital. Their crime: socially interacting with blacks.

Generous with his praise for the many who joined him in the desegregation struggle, Walter tells his story with humility. Among his confessions, "I can't type." His wife Faye Walter and Seawanee resident Kathy Hammond typed the book manuscript.

Walter "spent most of his life" writing the book, according to his wife. He said of current voter suppression efforts, "It's sickening. [Those who] can't win any other way, don't want people to vote." He pointed to proposed legislation making it illegal to give water to people standing in line waiting to cast their ballot.

"Raise your children to not be racist and not be class oriented," Walter advises. Bringing that advice home, he said, "My mother was what compelled me to write this book."

Reading "From Preaching to Meddling" prompts gut-level learning, learning with an emotional core.

Vandalism at All Saints'

On Friday night, March 26, the Seawanee Police Department received reports via LiveSafe of vandalism occurring in All Saints' Chapel. Officers were dispatched immediately and arrived within minutes. As of March 30, an investigation into the vandalism is ongoing. The items damaged include small stained glass windows in two exterior doors, two exterior lights, a decorative case, and a candelabra, among other items. The Facilities Management Department is working to ascertain the cost of the damage. The vandalism will not have any effect on Holy Week services, and All Saints' Chapel will remain open as usual.

Franklin County Teacher Dismissal Recommended

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At a March 30 special called meeting of the Franklin County School Board, Director of Schools Stanley Bean recommended dismissal of a Clark Memorial Elementary tenured teacher. Bean presented the board with a copy of the charges for dismissal.

The board unanimously approved a motion that if any of the charges were true, the dismissal was warranted. In addition, the motion stated the teacher charged has the right to a hearing. Request for a hearing must be made within 30 days.

Clark Memorial is the ninth school in the system the teacher recommended for dismissal has been transferred to as a result of performance issues. The charges include inappropriate restraint procedures and physically grabbing students; leaving students unattended; canceling class without authority or approval; making unkind and demeaning comments to students; and making disrespectful and disparaging remarks to colleagues.

Bean also updated the board on the recent receipt of $9.6 million in ESSER III funds. ESSER (Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief) is federal money allocated to K-12 educational entities to prevent, prepare for, and respond to impacts of COVID-19. This is the third distribution.

Bean said the ESSER guidelines had changed. Formerly 20 percent of the money needed to be spent on after school programs, but that stipulation no longer applies. The other significant change extended the date for spending the ESSER funds to 2024.

Mandy Tu Presents Final TEDxUniversityoftheSouth Talk, April 7

TEDxUniversityoftheSouth has included seven nights of talks and performances followed by live Q&A with the speakers. Originally planned as a live event in March 2020, TEDxUniversityoftheSouth moved to a virtual format this spring. The weekly events began in February and will conclude Wednesday, April 7, at 6 p.m. via Zoom.

A TEDx event is a local program of TED-like talks organized by and shared with the community. These virtual events are intended to spark deep discussion and connections, and give the community an opportunity to ask questions and dive into the topics.

Wednesday, April 7, Mandy Moe Pwint Tu, C'21, will speak about "Why creativity is challenging for minority students." Minority students face a wide range of challenges at predominantly white institutions and they may find that their creative pursuits come secondary to fostering inclusive spaces. Drawing from her own experience as an international student, Tu describes the difficulty she has faced in striving for inclusion at the University of the South while simultaneously cultivating her creative work.

Mandy Moe Pwint Tu is a senior English major at the University of the South. She is a creative writer and community activist from Yangon, Myanmar. Growing up a woman and an artist under a military dictatorship, she used language to find her voice until writing became an act of survival. At 21, Tu co-founded the Yangon Literary Magazine, providing a platform for young and emerging Burmese writers to showcase their work. At Seawanee, she has been involved in a number of diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives, serving as the president of the Organization for Cross-Cultural Understanding (OCCU) for two years and as the Order of the Gown president this year. Tu hopes to continue fighting for inclusion and belonging in every space she enters.

RESOLUTION IN SUPPORT OF VICE CHANCELLOR REUBEN BRIGETY

To the Editor:

We, the Board of Directors of DuBose Conference Center, an Episcopal camp and conference center have long enjoyed our relationship with the University of the South, Sewanee. The acts of harassment towards Vice-Chancellor Reuben Brigety and his family as reported in Dr. Brigety's remarks at All Saints' Chapel on Feb. 7, 2021, are completely unacceptable, and we condemn those actions and any other acts of racism on the campus of the University.

We at DuBose Conference Center offer our support to Dr. Brigety and his family and look forward to our continued partnership with him and with the University.

"Grant, O God, that your holy and life-giving Spirit may so move every human heart [and especially the hearts of the people of this land], that barriers which divide us may crumble, suspicions disappear and hatreds cease; that our divisions being healed, we may live in justice and peace through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen." [A prayer for Social Justice, Book of Common Prayer, p. 823].

The liturgy for Holy Saturday is at 10:30 a.m., on April 3. The Great Vigil of Easter (with incense) will be at 8 p.m.

Christ Church

Christ Church has a noon service on Good Friday which is a service called Tenebrae. This service is a group of readings from Holy Scripture recounting the last full day of Jesus life from the prayers in the Garden through the arrest and trial and crucifixion. Hymns are sung between the Lessons and the lit candles are put out one at a time. The service concludes with ‘Were you there when they crucified my Lord.’ The service is less than an hour long and we hope that many will avail themselves of this opportunity to share in a Good Friday Service.

On Saturday there is a very brief service at noon. After this service the preparation for Easter Day begins. People may bring extra Easter lilies if they wish to do so. We plan for visitors on Easter Day, and we also help prepare ‘meals to go,’ so that those who are home bound can be included.

On Easter morning the service begins at 10:45 a.m. This is a traditional service of Holy Communion with hymns, and the greetings and lessons, which have come down through the ages. Our emphasis is to remind people that Easter is a whole season, and not just a day. Easter isn’t ‘over’ until Ascension Day! We know that this seems unreal to many people, but it is real and it is a fact of the history of the liturgical year.

Cowan Church Services

April 2, Community Good Friday Service, 5 p.m. at St. Agnes’. The various Cowan churches will gather at St. Agnes’ for a service that recalls Jesus’ arrest, trial, crucifixion, death and burial. Pastors from the local churches will each share a scripture lesson and a solemn prayer.

April 4, Easter Sunrise Service, 6:30 a.m. at Cowan Montgomery Cemetery. Come and celebrate the discovery of the Empty Tomb and the joyful news that Jesus is risen! There will also be a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. at Goshen Cemetery, 1262 Williams Cove Rd., between Cowan and Winchester.

Otey Memorial Parish

Good Friday services are offered in St. Mark’s Hall with masks and distancing at noon and 5 p.m.

On Easter Day, Holy Eucharist in person (with masks and distancing) will be offered outside at 11 a.m., weather permitting. In case of rain, the 11am service will take place in the church with limited seating, and overflow in St. Mark’s Hall. The 8:30 a.m. service will be streamed on our Facebook page, and will also be available afterward there and on our YouTube channel. The 8:30 a.m. service is also offered in person in the church for people who are at least two weeks past the entire course of COVID vaccination, still with masks and distancing. Advance signup for the 8:30 service is required; please contact <admin@oteyparish.org>.

Weather permitting, a children’s Easter egg hunt will take place outside at 10:15 a.m. Godly Play, Sunday Forum and Fire on the Mountain Sunday School will not meet on Easter Day, but will resume April 11.

CAC continues its work of serving the needy with food and in other ways. Director David Goodpaster is staffing CAC, taking sensible precautions while serving people in need 9–11 a.m., Monday through Friday. Please call (931) 598-5927.

Parish staff members are combining in-person and remote work. Contact the staff member directly, call the office (931-598-5926), or send an email to <admin@oteyparish.org>.

Heritage Center Expansion

Oliver W. Jervis, President of Grundy County Historical Society, has announced the beginning of work on renovation of the recently acquired Nelson Layne Law Offices. The expansion of the Heritage Center in Tracy City will include an annex to the existing library and research center, an administrative office for membership operation and a teaching center. The acquisition adds 2,000 square feet to the existing 5,700 square feet of space to the Heritage Center and also land for the expansion of the Heritage Center's outdoor exhibit area.

The general contractor for the project is Rob Matlock Construction Co. of Sewanee. Henley Electric and Plumbing, LLC of Monteagle is the contractor for the electrical and plumbing work. Jamey Chernicky of Tracy City has been engaged to install fencing and signage for the outdoor exhibit area.

The design for the improvements have been prepared by Architect Patton Watkins of Sewanee. The planning for the teaching center has included input from Daniel Backlund of Sewanee. The University of the South has donated items from its renovation of Carnegie Hall on the Sewanee campus. These include lightening fixtures for ceiling installation, ceiling fans, two projector screens, two tract lighting systems, and three display boards.

The project is scheduled to be completed in the summer of 2021.

The Heritage Center is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are no admission charges; donations are welcome.

20-acre RBT tract includes the Rocky Top Truck Stop and calls for incorporating that business into the travel center. (See Messenger, July 10, 2020.)

City engineer Travis Wilson provided preliminary results from the sanitary sewer system study currently underway. T. Wilson based his observations on a heavy 2.5-inch rainfall event. T. Wilson explained rain water should not be going into the sanitary sewer system, but rather into storm water drains. The excessive inflow and infiltration (I&I) "taxes the waste water treatment plant." In summary T. Wilson said, the central pump station had sufficient capacity, but the main pump station was operating at "90 percent capacity during wet weather...most of the I&I is coming from the north side of Main Street."

Before voting, several council members offered observations on the RBT proposal.

Alderwoman Dorraine Parmley said the council received a petition with 218 signatures opposing the rezoning and a petition with 168 signatures in favor of it. "We want to keep the neighbors happy," Parmley said, "but we also want to keep the revenue coming in...and this is looking really good."

"I don't see it as a conflict to have a Petro Travel Center at an exit where we want people to exit," Alderman Nate Wilson said. Encouraging traffic to exit could help support local business and tourism, he argued. N. Wilson said he spoke at length with both the neighbors and developers—"I feel really proud about the agreements we've come to and the way the site plan is going to be revised." He pointed to a buffer wall, landscaping, and other measures to address noise, light, and sound pollution.

Alderwoman Jessica Favaloro asked, "if the truck stop doesn't happen, what happens in the future for economic development here?" Favaloro speculated other developers would decline considering Monteagle for fear of being sued or otherwise denied.

The council unanimously approved the rezoning on the first reading. The planning commission will take up the site plan at the April 6 meeting.

In other business, the council approved hiring David Green, former Sewanee Fire Department chief, to serve as a consultant to the Monteagle Fire Department. Green's salary will be $5,000 for the first six months. Green has over 50 years' experience as a fire fighter.

Mayor Marilyn Campbell Rodman announced Sparkle Week would be the second week of May. Monteagle employees will pick up trash residents place at curbside. The city will not collect tires, batteries or building supplies.

The Monteagle Easter egg hunt will be at 5 p.m., Saturday, April 3, at Hannah Pickett Park.

James K. Shook School

In the History of the School it is reported: “In the summer of 1888 the citizens of Tracy City became convinced that the building used as a schoolhouse for their children was inadequate, inconvenient, and entirely unsuitable for the purpose. Nor was its location, so near the railroad considered proper or safe for the children. The subject was much discussed, pro and con, but the means to build a modern and substantial schoolhouse were not in sight. ‘What are we to do?’ was asked by all good citizens of each other.” In June 1888 the citizens met with Alfred Montgomery Shook, the General Manager of Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company. He stated that it was his desire to benefit every employee of the railroad company and also every citizen of the town by building a modern schoolhouse for them, at his own expense, with the “provision that the people of Tracy City should make him an acceptable guaranty to keep up a good school by sending their children to it regularly, and by subscribing a monthly sum to employ a sufficient and efficient faculty when the free school money is exhausted.” On July 8, 1888, a contract was entered into with nearly every citizen signing and accepted by Shook as the guaranty he had required.

The school was to be a free school as long as the public fund kept it in operation. When the public fund was exhausted, the school was to be kept in operation by subscriptions. In that event it was to be kept open only to subscribers and those who signed the contract.

The school was to be operated by a three person Board of Education, one of whom was to be selected by Shook and two selected by the employees of Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company and other citizens of Tracy City who subscribed to the operation fund. By 1893 the board was increased to five persons.

Rev. E. J. McCroskey was principal of the school during the first four years of operation. After his resignation, Rev. W. G. Dillon was elected to succeed McCroskey. Dillon served as principal until 1904 when he was named cashier of the newly chartered First National Bank of Tracy City.

The school named James K. Shook School, in honor of Shook's father, was located on the hill between 12th and 14th streets east of the current U.S. Highway 41 (Main Street) in Tracy City. It was the stateliest landmark in Grundy County. The building was brick, elaborately trimmed with Kentucky sandstone. There were eight large recitation rooms, each with the capacity to seat 50 students. There was an auditorium, seated with 400 opera chairs. The floor of the auditorium as sloped into a Shakespearian style stage. There were also two small rooms used for a music room and library. The building was furnished throughout with automatic desks and seats. It was heated and ventilated, hot air furnished with three large Smead furnaces.

The school opened for the fall term 1890. The students were promoted from grade to grade on reaching an average of 75 percent as disclosed by two written examinations, one at the end of each five months. The object of the school was to fit the students for the practical affairs of life and to train them to think and reason for themselves. Neatness, promptness, accuracy, faithfulness to duty, and development of a high sense of honor in the habits of the students was the goal of the curriculum.

The first eighth grade class was graduated in 1892; the first 10th grade class in 1895; the first 11th grade class in 1915; and the first 12th grade class in 1920. The last high school class to graduate was the class of 1928; thereafter the school reverted to an eighth grade curriculum that continued until May 22, 1976 when the building was razed by fire of arsonists, a major loss to the community and its citizens.

The Heritage Center has a scale model of the front portion of James K. Shook School prepared by Jack Baggenstoss and James Lewis Dozier from original architectural drawings and some components of the building saved from the fire, including one of the bronze numbers from the clock in the tower and the clock tower bell.

The author of this article is Oliver W. Jervis of the Heritage Center. Readers are invited to visit the Heritage Center Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.–4 p.m., and Saturday 10 a.m.–2 p.m.

Mountain Goat Trail Race Returns on April 24

The seventh Mountain Goat Trail Race will have a unique format this year when it takes place on Saturday, April 24.

A two-mile race for Grundy and Monteagle elementary-school students in Tracy City at 8:30 a.m. will be followed by a 5K for University of the South students in Sewanee, co-sponsored by the Office of Campus Activities, at 10 a.m. A virtual 5K option will be offered for all others who want to participate.

This year's race also honors Mountain Outfitters, which has been the event's chief sponsor since the first running in 2014. "For the first time, we won't be having the post-race festivities at Mountain Outfitters, so we felt it was important to publicly thank the Burnett family and everyone at Mountain Outfitters for their support. Hopefully next year we'll be back to our traditional format," Dean said.

More details and activities will be announced as they are added.

Women's Tennis Secures Second Straight Shutout

The No. 32 University of the South women's tennis team finished a weekend shutout of Centre College, blanking the Colonels for a second straight day, 9-0, March 28, from the Bruton-Guerry Tennis Center.

Prior to the match on Sunday, Sewanee's lone senior Catherine Owen was honored. A four-year letterwinner with the program, she participated in the 2019 NCAA Singles Championships and is a three-year member of the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) Regular Season and Tournament Championship teams.

Sewanee took care of doubles play, allowing just six points to the opposition. Catherine Owen/Emma Smith and Natalia Nassar/Nicole Nowak allowed just one point each in the No. 1 and No. 2 flights, respectively.

In singles, the Tigers cruised to a sweep. Owen recorded a 7-6, 6-3 win over No. 43 Katharine Sherman at the No. 1 point for her fifth win of the 2021 campaign.

Caroline Adams picked up her sixth win of the year with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Ella Rueff at the No. 2 point.

Nicole Nowak also won her fifth match of the year with a 6-0, 6-1 triumph of Caroline Stallings at the No. 4 point.

Since Sewanee and Centre became founding members of the SAA in 2013, the Tigers have dominated the series, winning all 10 regular season meetings and outscoring the Colonels, 81-9.

SAS Varsity Boys' Soccer Ties Tullahoma

In their season opener on March 26, the St. Andrew's-Sewanee School varsity boys' soccer team tied Tullahoma High School, 1-1.

Tyler Rodgers, a junior from Sewanee, found the back of the net early for the Mountain Lions with an assist from Luke Garner, a ninth grader from Sewanee.

SAS maintained this lead well into the second half of an intense game. "When we combine into the final third of the field, we're competitive," said SAS head coach Geoffrey Smith.

In goal, Ryan Ostrowski, a sophomore from Monteagle, made several critical saves, and the back line, including Spears Askew, Mac Croom, Myers Gorrell, and Cecil Rodgers (all of Sewanee) worked tirelessly and effectively as a defensive unit.

After a messy scramble inside the SAS box, Tullahoma converted a penalty kick for the equalizer.

"During preseason, we practiced well as a team, and we have a great season ahead," said Porter Neubauer, a senior from Belvidere.

Men's Tennis Completes Weekend Sweep of Centre

The No. 21 University of the South men's tennis team secured a weekend sweep of Centre College with a 7-2 triumph, March 28, from the Guerry Indoor Courts.

Sewanee celebrated its three seniors on Senior Day: Alejandro Becker, Jack Metzger and Ryan Olps.

Despite the Colonels winning the No. 1 doubles point, the Tigers went on to win the other two points to take the 2-1 advantage. What helped Sewanee claim the lead was the No. 2 doubles team of Thomas Harrison/Hugh Graham. Going into a tiebreak, the team posted the 7-4 win to take the point, 8-7.

Sewanee secured the match with five of six singles wins. Jax Harbour went to a tiebreak in both of his sets with Danny Nelson, but the freshman prevailed with a 7-6, 7-6 win.

Ryan Olps, Noah Holsclaw and Peyton Erck posted a shutout set in their respective wins. Erck allowed just one point to Ian Cowan at the No. 6 flight.

NATURENOTES

by Yolande Gottfried

Hummingbirds

Richard Candler reports that he “had my first ruby-throated hummer of the season show up March 27. A male. According to eBird, the online citizen science ornithology project out of Cornell University, this is right on schedule for the species which usually arrives in Franklin County the last week of March, although apparently this sighting would be the earliest recorded by a few days. Whenever I see my first hummer I always know to check the buckeye blooms which are timed to open at their arrival!” Leonard King spotted his first hummer just two days later, on March 29. Freddy Tucker said he saw a male hummingbird in his yard on March 30.

Hummingbirds are native only to the New World. There are over 300 species, but the ruby-throated hummingbird is the only hummingbird that breeds east of the Mississippi River. It lays two eggs the size of pearls in a nest held together with spider silk. They are indeed attracted to red tubular flowers like those of the red buckeye. Some of the western species, such as the rufous hummingbird, are rare visitors to the East in fall and winter.

The early European observers were amazed by hummingbirds. At first they thought they were a cross between an insect and a bird, since they hover in mid-air and can even fly backwards. The Europeans met Aztec kings who wore cloaks made entirely of hummingbird skins. In the latter part of the 19th century, hundreds of thousands of hummingbird skins were shipped from South America to Europe for use in the millinery trade, for collections, and for other uses. It is hard to imagine bales of hummingbird skins, or how they survived to be among us still after such a slaughter.

Moose

Erland

Pets of the Week Meet Moose & Erland

Moose is a mature chihuahua/rat terrier mix. You would never guess this spunky guy was eight years old, but he is. Moose is a little fearful, but has such a sweet personality and just needs to be in an adult only home. Moose is good with other dogs, loves adults, and even cats. Moose has a fatty tumor on his tail, but not to worry it is benign. Moose has become the trusted lobby dog and a favorite of everyone who meets him. Moose loves to run, likes other small dogs, and loves walks outside. He can also be a couch buddy and loves to be in the lap of his hooman. Moose is up-to-date on vaccinations, neutered, heartworm-negative, and micro-chipped. Don't let his ripened age discourage you- he has many happy healthy years ahead.

Erland is a one-year-old solid black cat. His name means King of the Mountain, which he certainly is. He will melt your heart with his sweet personality and charm. He loves to play and doesn't meet a stranger. He is a charmer at heart and has been known to win over quite a few hearts here at the shelter. He is wonderful with people and other cats and would be a great forever companion. Can you give this sweet soul a second chance at a wonderful life?

17th Trails and Trilliums Registration Open

The Friends of South Cumberland State Park's 17th Trails and Trilliums fundraiser has been set for April 9-11. Registration is now open.

This year's event will feature socially distant, outdoor activities, including family-friendly hikes, a native plant sale and demonstrations. To register or learn more, visit <<https://www.trailsandtrilliums.org>>.

The festival will be held on the grounds of the DuBose Conference Center in Monteagle, using their large outdoor pavilion. Overhill Gardens of Knoxville, one of the foremost native plant nurseries in the state, will bring an array of native plants, just in time for gardens. Pre-registration will be required for all events in order to facilitate social distancing. Visit <www.trailsandtrilliums.org> for more festival details and to register.

As a safer alternative to guided hikes, the Friends will also offer a varied slate of hike choices with a trail host at each trailhead to welcome and orient hikers. More than 30 hikes on 15 different trails are scheduled during the three-day festival, with offerings in each of the park's three sectors: Lost Cove, Fiery Gizzard and Savage Gulf. Detailed descriptions and level of difficulty for each hike will be posted on the Trails and Trilliums website.

The line-up of programs includes tree identification by State Naturalist Randy Hedgepath, gardening with native plants by June Mays, and a panel on the legacy of the late Mack Prichard, Tennessee's first State Naturalist. Other presentations will focus on bats, honey bees, fungus, edible plants and wildflowers. A demonstration will teach the art of making wreaths using found items from nature. Editor and author Mary Priestley of Sewanee will give a “sneak peek” of the third edition of “Under the Sun at Sewanee,” to be published this spring.

The annual Cumberland Wild Forum topic will be “The Three Faces of South Cumberland: What the Park Faces in the Future.” South Cumberland Park Manager George Shinn and Friends President John Hille will discuss key challenges facing the park— including increased visitation and added acreage—plus plans for the future.

The first Family Adventure Hike along the Meadow Trail at the park's welcome center in Monteagle has also been planned. As families hike the 1.5-mile loop trail, they will be searching for hidden fairy houses and gnome homes, watching pioneer re-enactors in action, exploring a fort tunnel, completing a scavenger hunt, and more. This family event is free, but registration is required.

State Park Offerings

Please note: To confirm that these events will occur as listed go to <<http://tnstateparks.com/parks/events/southcumberland/#/?park=south-cumberland>> or call (931) 924-2980.

This trail is considered strenuous due to the boulder crossings and elevation changes that will occur on the way to and from the destination of Horseshoe Falls. Please wear sturdy shoes, appropriate clothing for the weather, and bring plenty of water and lunch/snacks. There will be a break to eat at the Falls. The ranger will identify wildflowers along the way and there will be plenty of opportunities to take pictures.

Introduction to Backpacking Workshop ($75) (Registration deadline is April 10). Meet Park Ranger Ryan Harris at 8:45 a.m. CDT at 1183 Stone Door Rd., Beersheba Springs, to learn the essentials of backpacking and hiking a 9-mile round trip hike in Savage Gulf Natural Area. Then we'll prepare dinner.

On Sunday we will cook breakfast and pack up and hike out to see some of the most epic views in the Park. Everyone will head back home and leave at noon on Sunday, having had an amazing experience of the outdoors. Lunch and dinner will be provided for Saturday as well as Breakfast on Sunday and snacks for the weekend. You are welcome to bring your own food for the weekend as well. This workshop is open to all ages; however, children and minors must be accompanied by an adult. The Silent Singer

by Len Roberts

The girls sang better than the boys, their voices reaching All the way to God, Sister Ann Zita insisted during those practice sessions
when I was told to mouth do, re, mi,
but to go no higher,
when I was told to stand in back and form a perfect O with my lips
although no word was ever to come out, the silent singer in that third-grade class
during the Christmas Pageant and Easter Week, the birth and death of Christ lip-synched
but unsung
while my relatives, friends and parents
praised my baritone,
how low my voice was,
Balancing those higher, more childlike tones,
my father said,
Adding depth, my mother said,
Thank God they had my huskiness to bring all that tinniness to earth,
my great-aunt whispered,
so I believed for many years in miracles myself,
the words I'd never sung reaching their ears
in the perfect pitch, the perfect tone, while the others stuttered in their all-too-human voices to praise the Lord.
