One Frame Shop Closes, Another Opens

by Kevin Cummings, Messenger Staff Writer

Mindy Melton is packing up when her son Wyatt comes through the shop door on the last day of business for Corners Custom Framing in Sewanee.

When asked why she started Corners in February 2009, Wyatt raises his hand. She was catering when she was pregnant with him and needed something less physically demanding, so she opened the shop.

"I don't think my time could have been better spent in the past 9 years than being here, in this community," Melton said. "I truly have appreciated everyone and getting to know all the different people."

Melton learned the framing trade while working at her ex-husband's frame shop in Florida in the 1990s. She tears up a few times talking about closing the store, but said it was too much to operate the shop and a bar she purchased last year, "The V" in Montecle.

"It's a little overwhelming, it's emotional," she said, "but I can't imagine handing it over to anyone better."

Sewanee resident Harriet Runkle recently purchased all of Melton's assets inside the store and will open a new frame shop and art gallery in the same location, between Sewanee Dry Cleaners and Shenanigans.

Runkle, a longtime educator, artist and former gallery director, said "Frame Gallery Custom Frames and Art" will exhibit artwork, host art parties for kids and adults, and contribute in other ways to Sewanee's rich creativity.

"I want it to be a business that supports the arts and supports children," Runkle said, "and to be another fun thing to do in Sewanee."

She said she feels that she is coming full circle with the business. In college at the University of Tennessee, when she was dating her husband John, now an architect and a priest, she told him she had dreams of owning her own gallery.

For Melton, she hopes to do more writing in her spare time, "confessional prose," and also focus on The V, a venue she said allows hardworking musicians

SUD Record Voter Turnout: Evans Elected Commissioner

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

In a neck-to-neck race with record voter turnout, the vote count at the Jan. 23 Sewanee Utility District (SUD) Commissioners' meeting favored Paul Evans by a two-vote margin, electing Evans to a four-year term as SUD commissioner. Forty-four SUD customers cast ballots in the commissioner election, the highest voter turnout on record. In past commissioner elections, the highest voter turnout recorded was 28 votes. Evans will be sworn in at the next meeting on Feb. 27.

Turning to regular business, SUD Manager Ben Beavers presented a proposal from the engineering firm Robert G. Campbell and Associates for surveying, probing, design and related work in conjunction with replacing the deteriorating cast iron water lines on Florida and South Carolina avenues.

Beavers said the price quoted by the engineering firm, $20,000, was less than 8 percent of the estimated construction cost, the customary engineering rate. He cautioned the engineering probe on Florida Avenue might show more rock than expected. He identified three possible strategies for replacing the line depending on what the engineers' assessment revealed: bursting the pipe and sliding a new pipe into the channel created, digging up the line and replacing it, or moving the line. Regardless of the technique, the line will be replaced to the far side of the customer meter and a new meter installed at SUD's expense.

"We should have a pretty good idea what replacing the line will cost by the time we get to the bid process," Beavers said. SUD hopes to combine the Florida and South Carolina projects, yielding an 8 to 15 percent savings, but Beavers will ask contractors to bid the jobs both separately and together.

The board approved the engineering proposal.

Commissioner Ronnie Hoosier raised a question regarding a SUD customer whose house burned. The customer moved to another home with well water, wanted to connect to SUD service, and asked if he could move the meter from the property at his former home site.

"The short answer is no," Beavers said. When he first became manager, the board allowed a customer changing homes to move the meter "against my advice," Beavers explained. "Once the meter is installed it becomes part of the property. That's the generally accepted practice."

No policy governs customer requests to move meters. Board President Charlie Smith said he tended to agree with Beavers, but a policy was needed.

"Choosing to move to a different house is different from being forced to move due to a fire," Hoosier stressed, arguing for a policy that took into account natural disasters.

"People buying the property would expect a meter to be there because there's a meter box," observed Commissioner Art Hanson.

"I think we should discuss it more rather than just say 'no,'" said Commissioner Randall Henley.

Grundy County Volunteer Stars Awards Recipients

Several years ago Volunteer Tennessee initiated the Governor's Volunteer Stars Awards, a recognition program designed to recognize the outstanding service of those who volunteer in various ways throughout their local Tennessee communities. This year, two award recipients, one youth and one adult in each county will be recognized by Gov. Bill Haslam on March 11. This celebration will illustrate the importance of civic participation and service to improve overall community norms. Representing Grundy County are Kendale James and Thomas Rollins.

"Volunteers play a critical role in the success of Tennessee communities across the state," said Grundy County Mayor Michael Brady. "Through non-profit organizations, national service programs, faith-based organizations, and neighbor-helping-neighbor, outstanding volunteer service is part of our state heritage. In fact, the annual value of Tennessee volunteers is $3.4 billion. As the Volunteer State, we must continue to foster this sense of service and civic responsibility. In an effort to encourage more Grundy County citizens to help improve our community through volunteerism, Volunteer Tennessee has instituted this statewide volunteer recognition program, the Governor's Volunteer Stars Awards," said Brady.

"The Grundy County Mayor's Office is happy to help organize and promote volunteerism in Grundy County, while recognizing the efforts of those who go above and beyond the call of duty every day by making a difference in the lives of others," said Brady.

Community Council Circulating Housing Survey;

Funding Decisions Pending

by Leslie Lytle

Messenger Staff Writer

At the Jan. 22 Community Council meeting, representative Kate Reed asked council members to circulate a survey on behalf of the Housing Study Committee charged by the University to make recommendations on housing policy and practices, and to determine if current policy and practices met the needs of the community.

Development Economist Randall Gross created the survey. In June, the University retained Gross to assess market conditions in conjunction with advancing the Sewanee Village Plan. The Housing Study Committee, composed of faculty and staff, already circulated the survey in electronic form among faculty, staff and alumni.

Council representative Charles Whitmer suggested making an electronic version of the survey available to community members and announcing the survey on the community online bulletin board Sewanee Classifieds. For those community members not on the online bulletin board, please contact a council representative for a survey.

Elder Care Facility Struggles Under Regulations Burden

by Leslie Lytle

Messenger Staff Writer

Two years ago the Sheltering Arms elder care facility in Palmer, Tenn., learned they would be required to install a sprinkler system to comply with fire safety regulations. "We've only been inspected once," said Janie Roberts whose family started offering care for the elderly in their home 17 years ago.

Sheltering Arms has applied for licensure as an assisted living facility, which differs from a residential home for the aged in providing medical services and a higher level of care. In addition to holding her healthcare

Letters

TWO IMPORTANT POINTS

To the Editor:

John Bratton's excellent Jan. 19 letter makes two very important points regarding other recent comments on The War Between the States. One is that the entire "matter is even more complex ...than either have been presented." Additionally, Mr. Bratton emphasizes "...removal of the Kirby-Smith memorial was a mistake, and should be restored to its original location."

I think the words of the late Fr. John O'Donohue (in his book "Eternal Echoes") are very relevant and appropriate here: "There is a tendency now in revisionist history to explain the past in terms of movements of the contemporary time....The suffering of the people is forgotten; they become faceless, mere ciphers of a trend or dynamic of history. To sanitize history is to blaspheme against memory. Equally, to become obsessed with the past is to paralyze the future."

Robert Childress, Sewanee

RIVENDELL CLOSING

To the Editor:

Rivendell Writers' Colony, one of the nation's most cherished residency programs for authors, will close at the end of March. I plan to transform the property into a center for spiritual healing and exploration — something I have dreamed of doing since childhood.

Rivendell's tremendous success makes my decision to change directions painful. In five years, we have helped hundreds of writers reach countless readers. Carmen Toussaint, the executive director, deserves all credit for the program's stature. She is tireless, loving and intelligent; she will be a tremendous asset to whatever organization she chooses to serve next.

Church News

All Saints’ Chapel

Growing in Grace will continue Sunday evening, Jan. 28 at 6:30 p.m. in All Saints’ Chapel. Our time together features a different speaker each week, student-led acoustic music, and a Eucharist in the round. Our speakers this semester will address significant gathering places in their lives. Christ assures us in “where two or three are gathered in my name, I am there among them” (Matthew 18:20, NRSV). We return again and again to certain communities and physical spaces in the hope of also being in the presence of something divine. Where are those places for us? Who are the people we become our purest selves in? How do we experience Christ’s presence when only two or three stand with us? Elizabeth Harden, a middler (second year student) at the School of Theology and the yearlong intern at All Saints’, will share her perspective on these queries. Email Kayla Deep <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu> to hear more.

The Catechumenate will continue Wed., Jan. 31, at 7 p.m. in the Women’s Center. Coffee and desserts will be provided. Based around fellowship, study, openness, and conversation, the Catechumenate serves as a foundational piece for the Christian faith, as well as a forum for discussion for people of all backgrounds. This week we will reorient ourselves in this new semester and will explore the Creeds of the Church. All are welcome. For more information, please contact Lay Chaplain Kayla Deep at <kayla.deep@sewanee.edu>.

Community Ash Wednesday Service

In addition to contacting Community Council representatives to access a paper version of the survey, the Lease Office has also agreed to help provide surveys. There are paper copies of the survey at the Lease Office and completed surveys can be returned to the Lease Office. Surveys should be returned by Feb. 4.

Community Funding Project Chair Pixie Dozier said the review committee had voted to recommend four grant proposals with decisions on three other proposals pending. The council sponsored program earmarks $10,000 annually to fund projects that enhance the community and improve the quality of life of residents. The council will award $20,000 in 2018 since no awards were made in 2017.

Funding the four projects already approved for recommendation will leave a balance of $9,800, Dozier said. The review committee has asked for additional proposals with an April 1 deadline and suggested the committee wait until then to make recommendations to the council.

Provost Nancy Berner pointed out awarding the full amount requested to the other three candidates would use up the entire $20,000 earmarked for 2018 disbursement.

Whitmer stressed some of the proposals were timely and recommended an earlier final-approval vote by the council.

The council will meet on Feb. 26 to vote on the committee's confirmed recommendations.

Updating the Council on discussion with a group of community members who recommend formation of a Parks Commission, Berner said she and Vice Chancellor John McCardell "agree it would be a good thing." The outstanding question according to Berner is who will the commission report to, the Community Council or the Sewanee Civic Association (SCA)?

"The issue is where the authority resides to receive the Parks Commission's recommendations," McCardell said.

Providing background, SCA Parks Committee chair Stephen Burnett said the Parks Commission idea arose out of discussions about how to address the Ball Park's desperate need for renovation and rehabilitation. The SCA spearheaded restoration of Elliott Park and provides oversight for the Dog Park.

Burnett noted that no other group reported to the Community Council. The question of who was responsible for maintenance at other Sewanee parks also entered into the equation, Burnett pointed out.

On behalf of council representative Pam Byerly, who is overseeing the project, Berner announced the annual Community/Greek Life Clean-up Day planned for early March. PKE sorority will spearhead the student campaign. Facilities Management will supply black plastic garbage bags, Berner said, and the Franklin County Sheriff's Department will pick up filled bags. Byerly hoped council representatives would help organize cleanup efforts in their districts.

"In the past, I did my road and got others in the neighborhood to help," council member Louise Irwin said.

The council will receive details about the date of the cleanup by email.

Beavers recommended that if the board approved the request, the customer should pay the tap fee cost of installing a meter, but waive the new service fees related to impact on the system since "the impact was already there."

Beavers will research when the meter was installed and what fees were paid. Beavers will also consult with Tennessee Association of Utility Districts' attorney Don Scholes to determine if any laws govern the practice of moving meters.

Pointing to the recent cold weather and frequent burst water lines, Beavers provided an overview of customers' experience with SUD leak insurance through Dec. 31. From August when the policy went into effect, customers made 13 claims. The insurance company paid seven claims and denied two (a toilet running issue and a water heater leak); four claim are pending. No customers reported issues with the insurance company, Beavers said, and no customers opted out of carrying the policy. The insurance cost $1.30 per month with the average claim paid $240. SUD has incurred no cost for lost water. In the past, SUD absorbed half the cost of customer leaks.

another place to play on the touring circuit. But as she centers her attention on other art forms, Melton said she will miss framing for the community.

"I enjoy people and their different tastes and likes and being able to work with them to come up with exactly what they're looking for. I think that's the best part," she said. "It's hard to be that eclectic in your own home but you get to enjoy all the different things this way—and really good art."

Runkle said she is building on Melton's foundation and love for framing. "I'm continuing what Mindy started," she said. "Even though I'm changing the name, I'm still in the same space, I'm continuing her good work. The whole process has been great between us."

Frame Gallery Custom Frames and Art is now open and Runkle said any pending work during the transition will be completed. She also noted there are plans for some interior modifications to the shop.

administrator's license, Roberts is a registered nurse. The Sheltering Arms staff also includes a licensed dietician, certified nursing assistants, visiting physician Dr. John McKeown, and two visiting nurse practitioners.

The pending assisted living licensure would allow Sheltering Arms to house six residents. The facility currently offers care to four. "We could easily fill 30 beds, but we don't want to get too big," said Roberts who along with her husband Jamie owns and manages the facility. "We want to continue to give one-on-one care."

Prior to applying for the pending licensure Sheltering Arms operated as a private home. The state offers a sprinkler system exemption for residential homes for the aged with 11 or fewer residents. But, Sheltering Arms decided to pursue an assisted living credential. "The state is trying to eliminate the residential homes for the aged altogether," Roberts said.

She also cited concerns about the more stringent evacuation plan required in unsprinklered facilities. "It used to be you had to be able to get everyone out in 13 minutes or less, but now it's three minutes. I don't know that we could do that," she acknowledged, even though all residents are housed on the first floor and rooms exit into a wide hallway.

Lack of a sprinkler system was the only shortcoming noted by the Health Department inspector. "We don't have a problem with complying," Roberts insisted, "but we don't have the money." Cost estimates range from $53,000 to $120,000.

Sheltering Arms has employed an architect who will draw up plans for a sprinkler installation and submit them to the state. According to Roberts, the architect found the facility readily amenable to the renovation.

In the hope of raising funds to assist the facility in paying for the costly renovation, Sheltering Arms has set up a GoFundMe page on Facebook and opened an account at Citizens Tri-County Bank, where supporters can make contributions.

Stars Award Honoree in the youth category is Kendale James. Kendale is a 15-year-old honor student at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School. Kendale and her parents Dale and Lisa James and brother, Kayson, live in Tracy City. She is the granddaughter of Buddy and Teresa Wiggins, and Larry and Susan James. She is a member of the SAS varsity volleyball team, clock operator for both the middle school and high school basketball teams, and an asset to the musical and technical theatre programs. She also has aspirations of becoming a marine biologist and recently applied to the Teen Volunteer Program at the Tennessee Aquarium in Chattanooga.

Kendale is responsible for not only initiating, but also implementing, a county-wide program that benefits children. As part of the curriculum at St. Andrew's-Sewanee School, all upper school students are required to obtain 15 hours of community service per year. Between her school and sports schedule, she was having a difficult time finding opportunities that did not interfere with her schedule.

She and her mom discussed programs that they had heard about in surrounding areas that collect new or very gently used small stuffed animals for police officers to carry in their patrol cars. The animals are then given to small children that have experienced, or are experiencing, a traumatic event.

Kendale loved the idea so she began doing some investigating. Concerned that Sheriff Shrum might not respond to an email from a young girl, she and her mom sat down and composed an email to the Sheriff asking if Grundy County had such a program. Kendale named her program "Buddy Bears."

She explained, "These events could be a car accident, house fire, being removed from the home, or just being a witness to an event that scares them." Sheriff Shrum quickly responded that Grundy County did not have such a program in place, but was happy to get on board.

Kendale began collecting boxes, making fliers and asking local businesses if they would be a drop-off location. She began to advertise via Facebook, and the response was overwhelming.

The partnership between the Grundy County Sheriff's Office and Thomas Rollins, Grundy County Honoree for the Governor's Volunteer of the Year.

Kendale has proven to be a successful one. "Buddy Bears" benefits the entire county and any visitors that meet with unexpected circumstances. In the first three months, more than 500 animals were collected. Due to limited storage space, Kendale asked for, and was granted, permission from Monteagle Police Chief, Virgil McNeese, to make donations to the Monteagle Police Department, which patrols in both Grundy and Marion Counties. Donations have slowed tremendously, so Kendale no longer makes rounds to collect bears, but gladly accepts donations when requested.

The 2017-18 Governor's Volunteer Stars Award Honoree in the adult category is Thomas Rollins. Rollins and his wife live in Altamont. His service began more than 75 years ago when he entered into the military as a very young man during WWII. This Memorial Day found him placing American Flags on the graves of the 60 Veterans in his hometown cemetery as he has done for nearly two decades. He wears his Army uniform to participate in various patriotic events and to many schools. He speaks to the children about history and the value of education. He always reminds them that they are the future leaders of America.

When he served as Scout Master, he led many hikes through the forests of Grundy County and had numerous fishing trips. Thomas also served his community as fireman, alderman, and director on the Farm Bureau. He held an office in the local American Legion for 60 years and was on the first Grundy County Planning Committee. He is a member of the Grundy County Veteran's Association. He has also served on two local cemetery committees with his presence, donations and physical labor.

"It is an honor to recognize Mr. Rollins and Ms. James as the Grundy County Honorees for the Governor's Volunteer of the Year," said Brady.

"Mr. Rollins is a true Patriot, through serving our country as a young soldier in WWII to being a true champion for our local veterans and their families at the young age of 91. Whether it's serving on committees, plowing someone's garden, or being the unofficial life guard at the local swimming hole, Mr. Rollins delights in serving others. His servant's heart makes him a worthy Honoree.

"Ms. James has exhibited, at a very early age, the wonderful traits of giving back to the community and a heart of wanting to make a difference. We are so thankful for all of our Volunteers," said Brady.

Global Cybercrime Expert to Lecture Jan. 30

Greg Esslinger, C'91, a senior executive with an international risk management firm, will lecture on the rapidly evolving threats to businesses and individuals posed by cybercrime and corruption.

The speech, titled "Collision of Cultures: Cybercrime, Bribery and International Business," takes place at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 30, in Gailor Auditorium.

Esslinger is a senior partner at Control Risks, a global risk-management firm providing counsel to clients on crisis management, protecting employees in high-risk environments, defending against cybercriminals, and ensuring that firms are in compliance with international regulations on corruption.

Esslinger argues that the breadth and depth of digital interconnectedness is vastly expanding the risks individuals, companies and societies face. Not only are traditional criminals exploiting this networked world, but nation-states themselves and politically and socially motivated groups are emerging as a potent threat.

In addition to traditional crimes like extortion, bribery, and kidnapping, motivated by personal financial gain, new actors and governments are employing cybercrime techniques to achieve ideological and geo-strategic objectives.

The Internet of Things (IoT) connects billions of devices, ranging from mundane household thermostats to intricate global transport networks, exposes businesses, individuals and societies to a new level of vulnerability.

Esslinger calls the IoT "the front line choke point or attack point" for the wave of new cybercrime.

"The challenge," he adds, "is making people aware and developing an understanding of the importance" of robust defenses against cybercrime. This task is made more complex by the stark differences in cultural, political, and historical values in different societies.

After graduating from Sewanee with an English major, Esslinger earned a law degree from Georgia State University College of Law.

He spent five years with the FBI, working on international terrorism and terrorist financing investigations. His career in the public and private sectors has taken him to more than 40 countries across the globe.

Esslinger's visit to Sewanee is sponsored by the Babson Center for Global Commerce and the Office of the Dean of the College. He is the 2018 Easter Semester Bryan Viewpoints Speaker, a lecture series made possible by a generous gift from Peggy and J.F. Bryan IV, C'65.

For more information about the Babson Center or Esslinger's visit, contact Stephanny Hopkins <skhopkins@sewanee.edu> or Stacey O'Sullivan <smosulli@sewanee.edu>.

Values in Action, Trinity Institute's 47th National Theological Conference

The Beecken Center of the School of Theology will be a partner site for the Feb. 2-3, theological conference Values in Action. Held at Trinity Church Wall Street in New York City, the conference will be streamed live in Hargrove Auditorium at the School of Theology. Participants will explore how deep-rooted partnerships, grounded in core values, are essential to the success of nearly every social justice initiative, and how the impact of actions—individually and organizationally—can be amplified through values-based partnerships.

The conference will open Friday, Feb. 2, with worship led by the Most Rev. Michael Curry, presiding bishop of The Episcopal Church, followed by a keynote address by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Jose Antonio Vargas. Saturday's schedule will feature a conversation with Michelle Alexander, author of "The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness"; a talk by Pádraig Ó Tuama, poet, author, and leader of the Corrymeela Community; a panel discussion with Deirdre Good, Andrea Weiss and Adnan A. Zulfiqar on the non-partisan campaign American Values Religious Voices; a talk by priest and political strategist the Rev. Elizabeth M. Edman; and several opportunities for group reflection.

Karen Meridith, interim director of the Beecken Center and executive director of Education for Ministry (EfM) says, "The Beecken Center is pleased to partner with Trinity Church Wall Street to make real-time participation in this important conversation available to our local community."

The Rev. Dr. William Lupfer, rector of Trinity Church Wall Street, said "We make the greatest impact when we are working toward one purpose following one vision. That vision springs from shared values. Learning to discern our common values requires dedication and intention, but brings great rewards for our congregations, neighborhoods, and the world."

The conference is free and open to the public. It will begin at 6 p.m., Feb. 2, and will conclude 3:30 p.m., Feb. 3. Visit <beeckencenter.sewanee.edu/events/trinity-institute-2018> or bit.ly/trinity-2018 or email <beecken.center@sewanee.edu> for more information.

VILLAGE REPORT

by Frank X. Gladu

The new year is off to a flying start and 2018 is promising to be a defining year for the Sewanee Village. The most recent activity has centered on the continued evaluation of the areas on both sides of Prince Lane for the building of housing units including single family, multifamily, townhouses, duplexes and apartments. Specifically, on the south side of Prince Lane, you may have noticed some flagging and boundary taping have occurred in order to see what this area will allow us to build. Additional vegetation thinning at the rear of the lot will be scheduled as we want to fully evaluate the site to identify the best locations to build the single family homes on this 2-acre site. This area at times is a wet one and much evaluation is being done to fully understand how the water flows on the site in order to best factor it into the development.

I will be continuing the monthly update meetings in 2018 on the first Tuesday of each month. Each meeting will be held at 10 a.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. at the Blue Chair. The format of these meetings will be a general update on the progress of the priority projects as well as other developments for the first half of the meeting. The priority projects are: the narrowing of US 41-A; the bookstore; a mixed use building for apartments and a grocery store; create a variety of housing types; and the Village Green gathering space. The second half of the meeting will focus on a specific item providing a greater level of detail as well as input and discussion about it. Some possible featured items could be: the design of the road project; storm water management; parking; market conditions; other in fill projects, etc. The Tuesday, Feb. 6 update meeting will feature a discussion about future topics.

In closing, I wanted to pay tribute to Louis Rice Jr. who passed away last week and whose funeral service is tomorrow at 11 a.m. in All Saints' Chapel. Louis was involved with many aspects of Sewanee. I personally had the opportunity to work with him on the Arcadia at Sewanee senior living initiative where he served on its inaugural board of trustees and with the Village development project. Louis was steadfastly supportive of the Village project. I could always go to him for advice and thoughts about the Village. He had a passion for this small town and cared deeply about its development. He wanted it to be a vibrant place with thriving businesses that served both Sewanee residents and visitors. Louis could be blunt at times and he was always unfiltered. He wanted something done without endless talk about it. He offered real solutions and often committed time and treasure to back up his ideas and opinions. He was someone who I could rely upon for an honest opinion and I will miss him greatly.

Louis, say hi to Tom Watson for me.

HEARING HEALTH NEWS

by Debbie Gamache,
M.S. CCC-A Audiologist

WHY TWO EARS?

Humans are equipped with two ears as an efficient system to gather information about their environment. With two ears we can distinguish the direction of sound, for example the direction of a truck on the road, a voice, or train whistle. This is nature's way of protecting us. In addition processing sound from both ears helps us to understand speech better, especially with background noise. Not only is hearing with two ears immeasurably better than with one, it is nature's way!

Hearing is very important to our daily living. If you suspect that you or a family member has hearing loss, please contact us at Debbie Gamache's The Hearing Center LLC. Our audiologist can explain your hearing loss and how your hearing loss affects your ability to communicate with family and friends. Hearing solutions that are appropriate for your loss will also be discussed. We are located at 705 NW Atlantic St. Suite B, Tullahoma. We can be reached at 931-393-2051. Please visit our website for more information at www.thehearingcenterllc.com.

Make a Difference Day Returns March 3

Plans are under way for the second annual Make a Difference Day, a day of service focused on the eight elementary schools across the Plateau. Sponsored by South Cumberland Community Fund (SCCF), last year's event brought together more than 400 volunteers to paint murals, organize libraries, clean out gardens, and generally support the local schools in completing projects that may not fit into their regular budgets.

SCCF has allocated $1,000 for each of the schools, which include Sewanee Elementary, Monteagle Elementary, and the six elementary schools of Grundy County. AmeriCorps VISTA members are currently working with school principals and staff to determine projects that can be completed in the four hour period.

The service day will run from 8 a.m. to noon and will be held rain or shine. All volunteers will receive T-shirts, and a light breakfast will be available. As an added activity, volunteers will write letters of thanks to all school employees and local first responders. Sign-ups will be available online and at each school starting in February.

For more information contact AmeriCorps VISTA Adele McAllister at <scsfvista@gmail.com> or visit SCCF's website at <www.southcumberland-communityfund.org>.

American Shakespeare Center Presents: Macbeth

The Sewanee School of Letters invites the community to a special performance of Macbeth at 7 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 15, in Guerry Auditorium.

From the first words of the play until the title character loses his head, Shakespeare's shortest tragedy is also his most unrelenting examination of the dark side of humanity. Driven to bloody deeds by their lust for power and supernatural predictions, Macbeth and his Lady fight to hold on to their ill-gotten throne, their sanity, and each other, by any means necessary.

The American Shakespeare Center brings a unique performance style to Sewanee, blending Shakespeare's stagecraft with modern sensibility. The company uses Shakespeare's Staging Conditions: universal lighting, minimal sets, character doubling, cross-gender casting, and live music. Its productions have been hailed by the Washington Post as "shamelessly entertaining" and by the Boston Globe as "phenomenal...bursting with energy."

Doors will open at 6:30 p.m., with period music from the company beginning at that time.

The performance will be in memory of School of Letters faculty member Ann Jennalie Cook, distinguished Shakespeare scholar, who passed away last summer. Through the generosity of one of Cook's many grateful students at the School of Letters, we are able to honor her with this performance of Macbeth.

Special thanks to the Sewanee Performing Arts Series, and to the Department of English, the Department of Humanities, the Department of Theater and Dance, the Department of Medieval Studies, Writing Across the Curriculum, and the Center for Speaking and Learning.

Modern and Contemporary Art Exhibit at Archives Gallery

The exhibition "Modern and Contemporary Art: Selected Works from the Permanent Art Collection" will be on display at the University of the South in the University Archives Gallery from Feb. 5–July 31, 2018. Representative works from the early 20th century will be shown, including artists Kathe Kollwitz, Alexander Calder and Josef Albers. More recent work by Robert Rauschenberg and the conceptual photographs of Laurel Nakadate will also be on exhibit.

Many of the works of art are from generous donations received by the University or purchases made by University acquisitions. Dr. Jeffrey Thompson, chair of the Art, Art History, and Visual Studies Department, will give a talk about some of the highlights of the exhibition at 5:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 8, in the Lytle Reading Room in University Archives. A reception will follow.

'Citizens Band' Panel Discussion

The University Art Gallery (UAG) presents Angelica Mesiti's immersive 4-channel HD video installation "Citizens Band." "Citizens Band" is on view in the University Art Gallery through April 13.

Everyone is invited at 5 p.m., today (Friday), Jan. 26, in Convocation Hall, for a conversation about "Citizens Band" with faculty members Mila Dragojević (politics), César Leal (music) and Shana Minkin (international and global studies). Reception to follow. The event is free and open to the public.

Mesiti shares with viewers intimate and dignified musical performances by four separate people. Each, lost in memory, performs music from his or her birthplace in the urban environment of an adopted home. Loïs Geraldine Zongo, born in Cameroon, drums on the water of a public swimming pool in Paris, practicing the akutuk, or water drumming, taught to her by her grandmother. Mohammed Lamourie, an Algerian refugee, sings and plays a song by the assassinated Raï musician Cheb Hasni on the Métro. Bukchuluun Ganburged (Bukhu), a Mongolian throat singer, plays the morin khuur (horse-hair fiddle) on a street corner in a suburb of Sydney, and Sudanese-born Asim Goreshi whistles in the front seat of his Brisbane cab. Their accomplished performances carve out transcendent moments. Musical traditions and their performers find and make new homes while recalling the old. Deeply personal, quiet moments are made universal.

This exhibition has been made possible with the support of the Friends of the University Art Gallery, and Art, Art History and Visual Studies.

The University Art Gallery is located on Georgia Avenue. The gallery is free, accessible and open to the public. Hours are 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon–4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Please note that the UAG is closed during academic breaks. Call (931) 598-1223 for more information, visit the website at <gallery.sewanee.edu> or follow us on Facebook.

Celebrating Jazz in Sewanee

A landmark concert in the history of American music gets long overdue recognition in February. Back in April 1961, eight years before the Woodstock Festival and eight years after Duke Ellington's last pop hit, the Modern Jazz Quartet (MJQ) was heard for the first time in the South, performing to a rapt audience at the University of the South. At this point the progressive MJQ was not yet the household name it would become later; it had landed in Sewanee entirely thanks to the efforts of the student Jazz Society.

At 2 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 11, in Guerry Auditorium, the University of the South pays tribute to that landmark event by hosting another momentous concert, the Aaron Diehl Quartet in performance, reviving the songs played by the MJQ back in '61. Aaron Diehl, celebrated for his virtuosity as both jazz and classical pianist, brings the outstanding vibraphonist Warren Wolf along with Paul Sikivie, bass, and Peter Van Nostrand, drums—altogether forming an ensemble exceptionally capable of handling the MJQ book. For tickets to this concert go to <https://sewanee.afford.com/PPT/MakeAPayment>.

In conjunction with the MJQ symposium, surviving members of the Sewanee Jazz Society will celebrate a reunion Feb. 8 and 9.

Several divisions of the University underwrite these events: the Vice-Chancellor's Office, Lectures Committee, Performing Arts Series, Office of Minority Affairs, Office of Alumni and Parent Programs, Departments of Music and History, Program in American Studies, along with the Sewanee Project on Slavery, Race, and Reconciliation.

For more information about specific dates, times, locations and registration and ticket charges, visit <www.sewanee.edu/mjqinsewanee>.

Surviving the Teen Years

What's it really like to be a teenager? Not years most of us would voluntarily re-visit, despite the thrill of first love and that wonderful belief that life (yours especially) goes on forever and will only keep improving with each new hurdle overcome.

I've got three young adult novels now which answer that question in very different ways. I'm not including another I'm re-reading, "Anna Karenina," despite the adolescent behavior of its protagonists. I suppose teenager Kitty's devastation when she's jilted by Vronsky is much like the broken hearts of girls everywhere. But somehow the swirling pink tulle of her ball gown and the speed with which her wealthy parents whisk her abroad to recover her spirits get in the way of the realism for me.

Anyway, I'm having a hard time reading about Russian society right now because Ruth Sepetys' "Between Shades of Gray" is the story of a 15-year-old Lithuanian girl, Lina, who is arrested by the Soviets in the middle of the night and deported with her mother and brother and thousands of other Lithuanians, Estonians and Latvians to Siberia as part of Stalin's determination to erase those countries from his map. This novel is so compelling I can't stop reading. I will each character to survive; I race on in hope that some Soviet, somewhere, will display the least spark of compassion, maybe allow the deportees a scrap more than the piece of bread they live on while doing heavy labor in the freezing cold of the Siberian steppes. Instead Lina and her family are sentenced to 25 years of hard labor and sent, unbelievably, to the top of the Arctic Circle to build a fish factory for the Soviets who live in heated brick houses while the prisoners scrounge driftwood, moss, and mud from the frozen ground to build the most primitive of huts to provide some protection from the brutal cold.

An early sentence as she is dragged from home sums up what her life becomes: "It was the last time I would look into a real mirror for more than a decade."

Somehow Lina, a gifted artist, keeps her spirit and her drawing alive.

Another view of "real teenage life" comes in Jacqueline Woodson's "If You Come Softly." This shorter novel is a Romeo and Juliet romance between two upper-class New York teens: Ellie, who is white and Jewish, and Jeremiah, who is black. Woodson's novels are usually spot-on in their portrayal of adolescents, especially in the inner city. For some reason, this book didn't ring true to me. It seemed like the author had a concept in mind, rather than living, breathing characters. It makes a timely point with the recent focus on Black Lives Matter, but that very relevancy somehow clouds the portrayal of the teenagers.

Ironically, the teens in local author Mark Edens' "Death Be Not Pwned" ring much truer than those in Woodson's book, even though Edens' novel contains the fantastical figure of Death, an elderly man with black hooded robe and scythe. Seventeen-year-old Michael runs over him one night when he is out delivering pizza orders in his ramshackle pickup truck. Death then decides that Michael will be his transportation to his "appointments," and Michael has to squeeze this grim chauffeur-duty into a life already full of high school, a part time job, and trying to complete a college application essay for Harvard. And—girls. Michael is a teenage male, after all. The dialogue between him and his friend and fellow video-gamer Travis is absolutely pitch-perfect in its depiction of adolescent male language. And thought-process. I should know; I had two of them myself, one of whom spent many hours with Edens' son playing video games at their house talking about everything under the sun. Especially girls.

Edens' book is hilarious, all the writing as clear and sharp as its dialogue. If I had space, I'd pull quotes from every page to prove my point. Instead, I'll just say, read this book.

Running in Memphis: Lynx Outpace Tigers

The Sewanee men's basketball team found their niche against Rhodes on Jan. 19: transition points against a fast-paced club. But the full-court pressure of Rhodes got to the visitors late, as the Lynx downed the Tigers, 124-104, in Memphis.

The shootout was on from the start against the Lynx, the third-highest scoring team in all of NCAA Division III. The teams played seesaw in the first half, but it was Rhodes who pushed a 7-2 run in the final 1:12 of the first half to lead 56-48 after 20 minutes of play.

Sewanee may have made less field goals than Rhodes (21 to 19) in the first half, but the Purple and Gold clipped a 63.3 percent mark (19-of-30) from the floor in the second half.

Sewanee came out strong in the second half, going on an 8-2 run in the first 2:07 of the period to cut the deficit to two points, 58-56, and the back-and-forth battle continued.

At the under-12 media timeout, Sewanee trailed 81-75; Rhodes took off on offense again to push their lead to double digits for the first time, going on a 10-5 run to push the lead to 91-80 in favor of the home team with nine-and-a-half minutes to go.

Sewanee attempted another run with 7:31 to go and trailing by 16 points, 100-84, but the Lynx held off the Tiger charge late and scored 124 for a team that averages 110.8 per game.

Rhodes, for the majority of the contest, used full-court pressure, and Sewanee was able to break the pressure for some transition opportunities, scoring 45 off the fast break.

Sewanee's Adrian Thomas led all scorers with 27 points on 11-of-13 shooting. The sophomore added seven rebounds and three assists.

Off the bench, the Tigers' Sean McDonough went 10-of-15 from the floor en route to a 26-point performance, a season-best for the freshman, who added three dimes.

Sewanee's Hunter Buescher scored 22 points thanks to going 9-of-10 from the charity stripe, while Luke Smith scored nine and collected five boards and five assists.

As a team, Sewanee went 34-of-57 (59.6 percent) from the field and 31-of-41 (75.6 percent) from the free throw line.

Rhodes Defeats Sewanee Women

The Sewanee women's basketball team had a 33-29 halftime lead on the road, but a Rhodes College 12-0 run to open the second half was the deciding factor in the Jan. 19 Southern Athletic Association contest. Sewanee fell to Rhodes, 83-62.

Bella Taylor led the Tigers' offense with 29 points, adding seven steals and five boards, four on the offensive glass.

Hannah McCormack dropped 16 points for Sewanee with eight rebounds.

McCormack is 94 points away from the 1,000-point mark with 906. If she accomplishes this feat, she would be the 15th Sewanee women's basketball player all-time to hit the mark and the second this season, joining Taylor, who surpassed the 1,000-point mark in her career on Dec. 29.

The Tigers controlled the offensive glass, corraling 15 shots off the goal to their opponent's 10.

Rhodes' Allie Young scored 32.

Women's B-Ball Falls Short on Hardcourt

The Sewanee women's basketball team outscored the Warriors of Hendrix College 30-27 in the fourth quarter, but it was not enough as the visitors fell 75-66 on Jan. 21 in Conway, Ark.

The Tigers (6-11, 1-6) were neck-and-neck with the Warriors (13-5, 5-2) to start the contest, trailing 18-17 after 10 minutes of action.

The second and third quarters belonged to the home team, who outscored Sewanee 30-19, while out-rebounding the Tigers 25-10.

Sewanee made a fourth quarter push to keep the contest close. Trailing by 13, 66-53, with 6:30 to go, the Tigers went on a 7-0 run in about a minute span to cut the deficit to two possessions.

The deficit would only get as low as six in the period, as Hendrix made its free throws late to seal the contest.

Sewanee's Bella Taylor recorded her third 30-point game and the ninth of her career with 32 points on 11-of-24 shooting. Eighteen of her 32 came in the final period.

Hannah McCormack scored 18 points and had two steals.

For Hendrix, Leah Boehl and Heather Prowse each scored 15 for the Warriors. Prowse added nine boards and four assists.

The second half of the SAA schedule is set to begin today (Friday), when the Tigers return home to square off with Rhodes. The opening tip is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Sewanee Men Win Against Rhodes in the Pool

With three events to go in the meet, the Sewanee men's swimming and diving team used a strong finish, winning the 200-yard breaststroke, the 400-yard freestyle relay and the 1,650-yard freestyle events to seal a victory over Rhodes College on Jan. 20.

In the 103-101 road win, Sewanee's Lee Haber contributed in two of the final three events that led to the Sewanee comeback: the 200-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard freestyle relay. The freshman missed his season best in the 200 by three seconds, but still won the event with a time of 2 minutes, 12.61 seconds.

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, the Atlanta, Ga. native, along with Owen Pearson, Andrew Freibert and Robert Coles won the event with a 3:23.90 finish.

In the final event, the 1,650-yard freestyle, Sewanee's James Hoyt captured the victory with a 17:39.59 finish, ahead of the second swimmer by 29 seconds. Haber also captured a win in the 200-yard individual medley, finishing with a time of 2:00.86, missing his season-best by four seconds.

In the 400-yard medley, Carl Failing, Kipling Kilmas, Hoyt and Jacob Finco won with a 3:38.62 finish.

Freibert, along with his joint win in 400 free relay, won the 50-yard free with a 22.26-second mark. Failing claimed the 200-yard backstroke event with a 2:05.20 time.

On the women's side, Rhodes defeated Sewanee 135 to 57. Sewanee's Meghan Mulhern won the 500-yard freestyle, swimming to a 5:38.66 time. Winning the event with ease, she was 17 seconds ahead of Katherine Smith of Rhodes who finished second.

In the 400-yard relay, the Sewanee quartet of Adelle Dennis, Jenny Norrenberg, Isabel Kirby and Kate del Balzo swam to a winning time of 4:25.87.

The 2017-18 season will conclude on Jan. 26 with Senior Day at the Fowler Center Natatorium, as the Tigers will host the Panthers of Birmingham-Southern. The meet starts at 3 p.m.

Men's Basketball Squad Handles Hendrix

The Sewanee men's basketball team had four players hit double figures on Jan. 21 in a road win over Hendrix, 83-70.

Thanks to an Oglethorpe loss on the road at Birmingham-Southern, the Tigers are now within a game of the Southern Athletic Association (SAA) lead with the second half of the conference schedule forthcoming.

Sewanee (9-8) pushed out to a 15-2 start in the first seven minutes of the contest and gave the Warriors (4-14) their first field goal at the 12:52 mark.

Hendrix rallied to cut the deficit to 10 points, 40-30, late in the opening half, but the Tigers would maintain a double-digit lead headed into the locker room, leading 44-34.

The Warriors made it a 16-4 run to start the second half and the home team did not allow a Tiger-made field goal for the first 5:26 of the half.

Thanks to the run, Hendrix took the lead for the first time in the contest, 50-48, with 12:57 left in the game.

Trailing by two, Sewanee went on an 11-3 run to regain the momentum and the lead for the Purple and Gold, 59-53, at the under 8-minute media timeout.

Hendrix, with 5:20 left, cut the deficit back to one point, 66-65, but Sewanee held off the late charge thanks to a 17-of-22 performance from the charity stripe in the final half of the contest.

Sewanee's Adrian Thomas had a strong second half, recording all of his 18 points in the final 20 minutes. He made it a double-double with 14 boards, six on the offensive glass, for his fifth of the year.

Luke Smith also scored 18 points and contributed six rebounds.

The Tigers' Hunter Buescher made all nine of his shots from the free throw line en route to a 17-point performance.

Matt Lee added 15 points for Sewanee in the road win.

For Hendrix, Preston Smith led all scorers with 25 points, while Kam Brasfield and Marcis Hall added 15 points each.

Coming into play on Jan. 21, Oglethorpe, 6-0 in the SAA, was ahead by two games on Sewanee, Birmingham-Southern College and Centre for the SAA lead, who had identical 4-2 conference records.

After wins on Jan. 21 by BSC, Centre and Sewanee and a loss by Oglethorpe, the lead is down to one game. The Tigers play at home against Rhodes today (Friday). Tip is slated for 8 p.m.

Rhododendron at 40° and above.

Measuring Cold by Rhododendrons

Margaret Matens reports that during this frigid weather, you can actually tell the temperature by the leaves of the rhododendron.

During the winter, rhododendron leaves droop and curl in response to cold temperatures. It's their way of protecting themselves from dehydration. The leaves of rhododendrons respond to cold by first drooping, then curling up.

If you don't have a thermometer handy, look at the lovely native rhododendron.

At temperatures above freezing, the leaves extend at about right angles from the stems.

Just below freezing, the leaves droop downwards, but remain flattened. At 25 degrees, or thereabouts, the leaves droop and curl, and by 20 degrees, they are curled so tightly that they look like green pencils.

Once the temperature drops below 20, they can't curl up much tighter, and you will have to use a "store-bought" thermometer.

BARDTOVERSE

by Phoebe Bates

Birthday of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jan. 30, 1882

"Remember, remember always, that all of us, you and I especially, are descended from immigrants and revolutionists."

"I'm not the smartest fellow in the world, but I can sure pick smart colleagues."

"The list of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have little."
