Arcadia at Sewanee Reports Results of Survey

Arcadia at Sewanee received encouraging results from a survey launched in November to determine the demand for a continuing care retirement community (CCRC) in Sewanee. The survey was conducted by ProMatura, a national consulting firm that is recognized as one of the strongest possible advisors for such projects. The Arcadia at Sewanee Board of Directors is grateful to the alumni, retired and current faculty and staff, and area residents who dedicated their time to complete the survey. The number of responses enabled ProMatura to make its recommendations with a high degree of confidence.

Arcadia's Board is diligently working toward next steps which include active discussions with the University of the South regarding possible sites for the CCRC. Below is a summary of ProMatura's conclusions and recommendations.

The results indicate sufficient demand to support a CCRC on or near the University domain. ProMatura recommends that Arcadia continue its work to develop a retirement community of up to 140 units with approximately 70 percent being independent living, 20 percent assisted living, and 10 percent memory care units. ProMatura further recommends that Arcadia at Sewanee identify a strong CCRC developer and initiate financing options.

ProMatura recommends a mix of one- and two-bedroom independent living apartments of 800 to 1,500 square feet, and cottages of up to 2,200 square feet.

The survey indicates that any of several location types would be workable, including in a woodland area on the Domain, or near "Downtown Sewanee," or with a bluff view near the Domain. Several possible sites are under active discussion.

Supporting observations and conclusions include:

Nearly 90 percent of respondents indicate that they feel positive or very positive about Sewanee as a potential location;

Just over 50 percent of the respondents are alumni, reside in Tennessee, with a high concentration living in Sewanee and its surrounding communities;

Services rated as most essential include dedicated assisted living and memory care apartments, scheduled shuttle service to University venues and events, and opportunities for lifelong learning;

Desired amenities include a restaurant style dining room, tech and computer services, a library/reading room, and a fitness center;

More than half the respondents indicate they are interested in inter-generational friendships;

Approximately one third of the respondents requested to be kept informed of Arcadia at Sewanee's progress toward establishing a CCRC.

ProMatura noted that arrangements for access to state-of-the-art healthcare will be an important consideration.

Arcadia's Board looks forward to sharing developments during the coming months, and updates can be found on Arcadia's new website at <https://www.arcadiaatsewanee.org/>.

Sewanee Council: Arcadia, Bike Lanes, Housing

by Leslie Lytle, Messenger Staff Writer

At the March 27 Sewanee Community Council meeting, the council heard updates on the Arcadia Senior Living Facility survey, an effort to curtail bike lane parking, and the six houses being built by Sewanee Village Ventures. The council welcomed new member Evelyn Patton, appointed a representative to serve on the SVV advisory committee and announced meeting dates for 2023-2024.

Reporting on the Arcadia survey soliciting interest in a Sewanee senior living facility, John Solomon called the response "very encouraging" and said the results supported "pursuing development and fund raising." [See Solomon's account on Arcadia] Solomon said he anticipated decisions about size and location, on or off the domain, would follow from meetings with an investment banker and the Blakeford Senior Living Facility in Nashville.

Council members Bill Harper and Laura Willis put flyers on cars for three days, "nice notes," to discourage bike lane parking. Willis said when she confronted people parking in bike lanes they responded, "Everybody else parks here." Harper said signs allowing "special events" parking were left out four or five days and "there's no evidence on any support from the police." "It's more complicated than telling people not to park there until there," Willis said. Council member Michael Payne concurred citing a recent event when the Fulford Hall lot was full. "There is nowhere else to park," Payne stressed. Willis noted in Nashville curbs prevented bike-lane parking.

Acting Provost Scott Wilson said a committee chaired by Sara McIntyre and Shelley MacLaren would investigate solutions to the parking-in-bike-lanes problem. Willis will chair a committee investigating lighting concerns, both light pollution and inadequate lighting.

On behalf of University Vice President for Economic Development and Community Relations David Shipp, Wilson reported on the houses being built by SVV. Five will be offered for sale to University employees and one is being built for a faculty leaseholder according to SVV specs. To date, 17 employees have expressed an interest in the homes under construction, two of which are expected to be completed in the next month. If more than one buyer steps forward, a lottery

Monteagle: Drug Dog, Weapons Swap, Dumping Law

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the March 27 meeting, the Monteagle Town Council approved a contract establishing a canine drug-search program and the police department switching from using .357 Magnums to 9mm pistols. The council heard from Adam Hughes with Save Our Cumberland Mountains about the efficacy of adopting the Jackson Law to regulate dumping and solid waste facilities.

Police Chief William Raline stressed the drug dog was trained to alert on fentanyl, heroine, and methamphetamine, not marijuana. Money in the drug fund from confiscated cash and vehicles would pay for the program for three years, Raline said. He anticipated future drug arrests facilitated by the dog would pay for the program beyond that time, noting for the former owner dog-facilitated arrests yielded $80,000 in the first six months. Raline said the dog was a

Angel Wing Mural Contest at the Lemon Fair

by Beth Riner, Messenger Staff Writer

A large angel wing mural will soon grace the side of The Lemon Fair, and owner Andrea Woodard-Evans hopes someone local will design it.

She asks that students, local artists, and other creative folks submit designs to the Angel Wing Mural Contest called "What Does Your Sewanee Angel Look Like?" by Friday, May 19, 2023. Submissions may be emailed to info@thelemonfairsewanee.com or dropped off at the store at 60 University Avenue in downtown Sewanee.

A charming legend says that angels flocked to Sewanee when it was first created because it was so beautiful, and that everyone who sets foot on the Domain receives a guardian angel for protection.

The Lemon Fair became famous for the story of the Sewanee angels back in the 1980s when a former owner asked a songwriter friend to write about the legend and had an employee illustrate it. The simple angel story took wings, eventually resulting in the phrase "Protected by a Sewanee Angel" becoming trademarked.

Woodard-Evans stressed the importance of creativity in the mural design. Whether the design is in color or simply white is up to the submitting artist. "We want the community to decide what the Sewanee Angel looks like to them."

A panel of judges will select the winning design, which will be painted on the side of the building adjacent to the Sewanee Angel Park. "If the winner is an artist who wishes to paint the mural, that's fine," Woodard-Evans said, "or we will hire a painter to do it." Persons interested in doing the actual painting should contact her as well.

"We hope this is a mural that people will stand in front of to take pictures and tag on social media and get the name of the downtown Sewanee area out there," she added.

All contest submissions will be used to create notecards, greeting cards, coffee mugs, or tea towels, with proceeds going to the Sewanee Community Chest, a nonprofit which supports local organizations who serve the common good. Past recipients include Sewanee Elementary School, Folks at Home, Sewanee Senior Center, the Community Action Committee, and the Mountain Goat Trail Alliance.

Woodard-Evans and her husband, Scott Evans, who are both Nashville-based realtors, bought the iconic downtown store nearly two years ago. She brought her fellow realtor and friend, Dan Groover, on board as a business partner since he had retail experience.

"We bought the store in the summer of 2021 and had the idea for the mural from the start. It just took time to get approvals," Woodard-Evans said, noting that the university and the Sewanee Business Alliance are both excited about the mural.

She plans to have an unveiling event for the mural, possibly at the start of school or even Reunion Weekend.

Since buying the store, which has continuously operated for more than 50 years, Woodard-Evans has painstakingly remodeled the front interior by removing an old loft to vault the ceiling, which is now accented with wood beams and a stunning light fixture reminiscent of the Sewanee Inn.

While Woodard-Evans and Groover go to the Dallas and Atlanta markets to source merchandise, long-time employee Zory Deering handles the day-to-day operations along with a small team of part-time student workers.

"Business is going great," Woodard-Evans said. "It's been a lot of fun getting to know the locals."

She and Groover have added new merchandise to the store: clothes, jewelry, home goods, dorm room décor, and food items from Stonewall Kitchens and Bourbon Barrel.

One thing that hasn't changed is the store's large Sewanee section. The Sewanee Angels and souvenir section owes its origin to former owner, Gay Alvarez. "We're very proud to carry on her legacy. We sell local pottery and works by local artists like Bob Askew. We have lots of Protected by a Sewanee Angel merchandise. Baby clothes and onesies. We have Sewanee books," she said.

One nice perk for locals is a 15 percent discount.

"We've really loved becoming part of the community," Woodard-Evans added. "Please pop in and introduce yourself. We love meeting new people."

The Lemon Fair is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends.

Christ Church

Holy Week begins on Sunday, April 2, and Palm Sunday actually has two very different parts. It begins with remembering the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. Some of the best known hymns like "All glory, laud, and honor" are sung. After this the mood shifts as the Passion Narrative is read, and the account of the suffering and death of Jesus is read. In some churches a play is presented, but most simply have reading in the form of several parts read by clergy or laity or both. The service moves on into a solemn service of Holy Communion.

Christ Church has Palms for anyone who wishes to have one or more.

The services for Holy Week include Wednesday at noon, Maundy Thursday at noon, Good Friday at noon, and Holy Saturday at noon.

On Easter Day our service begins at 10:45 a.m. and we invite you to our Easter Feast at noon.

Cowan Fellowship Church

The various Cowan churches will gather for Maundy Thursday at 5:30 p.m., Thursday, April 6, at Cowan Fellowship Church. The speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Joe Butler, interim pastor of Goshen Church.

Maundy Thursday recalls the Last Supper that Jesus held in the Upper Room with the Disciples. The Last Supper is where Jesus gave the new commandment. (The word "maundy" is based on a Latin word that translates to "mandate" or "commandment.")

All are invited to a meaningful time that reflects on Jesus' time before he was crucified. The service is sponsored by Cowan Ministerial Association. Cowan Fellowship is located at 609 E. Cumberland St.

will determine the purchaser. Wilson said he was "fairly confident" the demand for SVV built homes would lead to future construction.

Council member Ben Tarhan will serve on the residents advisory committee to the SVV board.

Asked about University rental housing, Wilson said the contract term had been extended to seven years, and he did not anticipate anyone being asked to leave in the coming year.

Council member Marilyn Phelps asked if anything was being done to address the need for sidewalks in Woodlands and at the Child Care Center. Wilson said the soon-to-be-released Master Plan called for more sidewalks in the "core area of campus" around academic buildings and dorms. Acting Vice Chancellor Nancy Berner pointed to grant possibilities for sidewalks in underserved areas.

There will be a two-hour community cleanup Saturday, April 29. To participate, meet at the Sewanee Mountain Goat trailhead at 9 a.m.

The council announced the following meeting dates for 2022-2023: Sept. 25, Oct. 23, Jan. 22, March 25, and May 20. The following dates have been set aside as reserve dates if business needs addressed: Aug. 28, Nov. 27, Feb. 26, April 22, and June 24.

Sisters of St. Mary to Offer Lenten Quiet Morning

Join the Sisters of St. Mary for a Lenten Quiet Morning called "Walking the Liturgies of Holy Week," led by Casey Perkins. Holy Week contains some of the oldest and most symbol-rich liturgies of the Christian Church year; and yet it can be easy for us to travel Jesus's last days in the midst of our hectic lives and miss the beauty, pain, and mystery of what's happening in these liturgical milestones. The labyrinth is an ancient, archetypal tool and the perfect symbol for the type of journeying we do in keeping the seasons of the liturgical Church year. In this quiet day, we will explore the liturgies of Palm/Passion Sunday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday with time to reflect and prepare to experience these liturgies anew in the week ahead.

Casey Perkins is a Spiritual Director, Coach, and Labyrinth Facilitator who connects with people on the journey to living a life of faith rooted in Love. He is an alumnus of the School of Theology, serves as Director of Alumni, Annual Giving, and Church Relations for the School of Theology and also manages marketing and communications for the Sisters of St. Mary. Casey is a postulant for the diaconate and a CSM Oblate-in-formation!

This event will take place on Saturday, April 1, from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Donations are appreciated, and participants can learn more and register at <www.communityofstmarysouth.org>.

non-aggressive breed, "very docile," and trained for tracking to search for children.

Raline recommended the police switch from using .357 Magnums to using 9mm pistols, explaining .357s were more expensive for practice and training due to the ammunition cost. Mayor Greg Maloof said 9mm pistols "appeared to be a safer and more practical weapon and ammunition program for our city." The money to fund the weapons "swap" will come from the police Machinery and Equipment budget. The council approved an amount not to exceed $2,500.

Hughes said adopting the Jackson Law would allow the town to block or accept the creation or enlargement of landfills and solid waste processing facilities within one mile of the city limits. "There's no downside," Hughes emphasized. Maloof recommended the town "consider" adopting the law.

Turning to utilities concerns, the council approved Monteagle engineer Travis Wilson's recommendation for core sample testing of the concrete basin at the water plant, cost $33,000, before proceeding with recoating the basin. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation issued Monteagle a Notice of Violation requiring the town to address the "peeling" surface coating. "You wouldn't want to spend $60,000-$70,000 to line the basin and find out it's not going to adhere and will peel off due to degradation or a chemical process going on inside the concrete," Wilson said. The core sample will provide information on what material to use for the resurfacing. The basin was critical to the water plant's operation, Wilson insisted. If it failed, Monteagle would have no water.

Updating the council on the TV camera inspection done to identify inflow and infiltration of rainwater into the sanitary sewer, Wilson said the contractor who did the inspection reported "it was one of the worst systems they had televised." ARP grant money will pay for the repair. Asked about sewer capacity concerns with new development coming, Wilson said sewer rehabilitation could be done "within a year" once the grant funding was received.

The council also approved $500 for Tennessee Tourism Organization dues and $2,800 for the Street Department garage to increase the electric service from 100 amps to 200 amps to facilitate charging batteries for power tools.

In "new business" the council approved an ordinance governing accessory dwelling units; an ordinance allowing businesses to have side and front loading rather than a rear setback to accommodate loading; and an ordinance extending the time for site plan review to one month.

The council announced the following events: Easter Egg Hunt at 1 p.m., April 1, Hannah Picket Park; Monteagle Cemetery cleanup at 7 a.m., April 1, and 2 p.m., April 2; Fresh Mess farmers market Mondays at Harton Park, 4-6 p.m., beginning May 15; and Sparkle Week, May 15-19. The Monteagle Cemetery is taking bids for lawn maintenance. See the Monteagle website for details.

The animals the Marion Animal Resource Connection (MARC) help have continuing needs for their care. Here is a wish list for this week's items we could use: clumping cat litter, wet cat food, and paper towels. Ken Taylor has graciously offered Taylor's Merchantile in Sewanee to be a collection site for the donations to MARC. Thank you in advance for your donations. There is also an Amazon Wish List available at <<https://a.co/7119w5J>>.

Environmental Arts & Humanities Festival

The inaugural Environmental Arts & Humanities Festival will be April 4–6. The festival features guest lecturers, walks, food, and more all around Sewanee. Be sure to take in the sights and sounds in our various opportunities throughout the Sewanee campus. Schedule is as follows.

9:30 a.m., Tuesday, April 4, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, "The Other Iraq: Environmental Imaginaries of Kurdistan" with Diana Hatchett. The environmental imaginaries of "Kurdistan," a territory encompassing portions of Turkey, Iran, Iraq, and Syria, are central to claiming belonging and sovereignty in a contested landscape characterized as an "oasis" in the politically unstable Middle East.

11 a.m., Tuesday, April 4, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, "Eating in the Oil Sands: How Boreal Forest Foods Speak to Us" with Janelle Baker. The Boreal forest in what is now known as subarctic Canada is a celebrated source of food and identity for Sakawiyiniwak (Northern Bush Cree) communities, despite a rapid influx of oil and gas and logging activities in the area. This talk will tell the story of Sakawiyiniwak stewardship, reciprocity, environmental monitoring, and survivance.

12:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 4, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, Shinrin-yoku (Forest Bathing) with Karen Kuers. Lunch time half-hour talk (all welcome to listen and bring a brown bag lunch).

1:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 4, Medicine Walk with local Herbalist Jen Cline (Meet at Green's View). Sponsored by the Farm Club.

3 p.m., Tuesday, April 4, Shake Rag Walk with Jon Evans (Meet at Green's View). Have a look at the Cumberland Plateau's Spring Flora.

7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 4, in Convocation Hall, "Traditional Ecological Knowledge and Local Food Heritage" with Rick Stepp. This talk examines what localized Traditional Ecological Knowledge can teach us about global environmental issues and food systems. Case studies draw on long term research from two areas of the world with some of the highest biocultural diversity related to food: the Highland Maya Region of Southern Mexico and the Greater Mekong Region of Southeast Asia.

10 a.m., Wednesday, April 5, Medicine Walk with Thomas Powell, (meet in front of Snowden, limit 25). A chance to locate edible and medicinal plants on the domain.

11 a.m., Wednesday, April 5, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, Workshop I: Arts Based Engagement in Ethnobiology, with Janelle Baker. Participants will be invited to participate in a series of arts-based activities for engagement with ethnobiology, including relationships with more-than-humans, news sources, and reflections.

noon, Wednesday, April 5, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, "Multispecies Entanglements in Great Lakes Agricultural Landscapes" with Lindi Masur. Engaging a Posthumanist Agroethnobotany, this talk examines relationships between early farmers, their crops, weedy species, animals, and ancestors in agricultural fields to consider the agency of non-human actors in the construction of cultural landscapes and local cuisine. Lunch time half-hour talk (all welcome to listen and bring a brown bag lunch).

1 p.m., Wednesday, April 5, Herbarium Tour (Meet at Spencer Hall) with J.T. Michel.

2 p.m., Wednesday, April 5, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, "Psychoactive or Spirit?: Sociality, Shamanism, and the History of Hallucinogenic Plants in South America" with Stephen Berquist. Psychoactive plants have long played a central role in Andean and Amazonian religion and cosmology. Recently, foreign tourists seeking shamanistic experiences have begun to impact local communities and economies, prompting a debate on the ethics and politics of psychedelic tourism. What can we learn by juxtaposing these debates in the present with plant-based rituals of the past?

3 p.m., Wednesday, April 5, Herbarium Tour (Meet at Spencer Hall) with J.T. Michel.

4:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 5, in the Social Lodge, Workshop II: Tasting Biocultural Diversity: Indigenous Tea from its Center of Origin in Southeast Asia with Rick Stepp. Participants will learn about tea and biocultural diversity and sample tea from the area where it was first domesticated in the Bulang Mountains.

7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 5, in Convocation Hall. Tree listening, with David Haskell. Both literal and metaphorical listening to trees can help us to understand their lives. By using our unaided ears, recording and sonification technologies, and conversations with people whose lives are entangled with trees, we gain insights into the many ways that trees are champion ecological networkers.

10 a.m., Thursday, April 6, in the Women's Center Mary Sue Cushman Room, "Ethnobiology: The Future of the Science of Survival" with Janelle Baker and Rick Stepp. Topics will include why humanity needs ethnobiology, the continuing relevance of the field, and jobs in applied ethnobiology.

This Festival is sponsored by the University Lectures Committee, SIPE (The Sewanee Integrated Program in the Environment), the Department of Anthropology, the Department of Art, Art History, and Visual Studies, the Department of English and the Department of Religious Studies.

Spring Classes at Cumberland Folk School

The Cumberland Folk School, located at Sequatchie Cove Farm, is a place to celebrate and commune around traditional crafts and skills, offering weekend workshops taught by skilled craftspeople. The classes are built upon the inherent connection between traditional skills, sustainable land management and farming to teach self-reliance and the use of natural materials to create beautiful utilitarian objects. Go to <www.cumberlandfolkschool.com> for more information, detailed class listings, and to sign up for upcoming classes.

April 16, Quiche with Mallory Grimm; Learn how to make a flaky, consistent, workable pie crust and silky custard with Mallory Grimm of Hen of the Woods and LUNCH. We will cover pie dough ratios, mixing, and how to roll, fluting a crust, and blind baking as well as quiche custard using eggs and produce from the farm. We will enjoy a farm tour and harvest eggs and vegetables for the quiches as a group.

April 30, Birding by Ear with Richard Candler; Join local birder Richard Candler on a morning bird walk around Sequatchie Cove Farm. Spring is the best time of year to find exciting migrants mixed with both winter and breeding season bird species. It is also the time of year when birds are most vocal. There will be a particular focus on listening to and learning the songs and calls of our many bird species. There will be a two-hour walk followed by discussion with coffee and snacks.

May 6, Ferments with Soirée Le-one; Explore different perspectives and approaches to fermenting foods to create new and complex flavors. We will taste a variety of ferments and start ferments to take home.

Tullahoma Named Compassus Program of the Year

The Compassus hospice and palliative program serving Tullahoma, Tenn., and surrounding counties earned the distinguished title of Program of the Year last month. The Tullahoma program outperformed more than 150 Compassus locations throughout the country in the six Pillars of Success categories, including regulatory compliance, colleagues and culture, quality care, service excellence, expanding access to service and fiscal responsibility.

Compassus established its Pillars of Success program to unite the company's nearly 200 locations across 30 states in a common service vision based on measurable goals driving each program to improve the quality of care for patients.

"Achieving the Program of the Year award recognizes the achievement of Tullahoma as the highest-performing hospice program in our organization over the past year. This recognition serves as a testament to the dedicated leadership and tireless commitment to our rigorous quality standards by all the members of this team," said Dr. Kurt Merkelz, senior vice president and chief medical officer for Compassus. "They are a shining example of our commitment to prioritizing service and quality to ensure we deliver superior hospice care to meet the medical, emotional and spiritual needs of patients and families."

"As one of the largest hospice providers in the country, Compassus is committed to excellence and aims to set the standard of care for all hospice providers. Receiving the Program of the Year award is so meaningful because it's a tangible representation of the impact we are having on patients and families in Tullahoma. I am incredibly proud of the care our teammates and volunteers provide every day to those who trust us with their care," said Tullahoma Hospice Area Executive of Clinical Operations Edie Rimas.

The local hospice and palliative program serve patients and families in Bedford, Cannon, Coffee, Franklin, Grundy and Moore counties in Tennessee. For more information about local hospice care, visit <www.compassus.com>.

Arts Inside Spring Art Show

On Saturday, April 1, from 2-3 p.m., at the Grundy County Sheriff's Office, Arts Inside will host their spring art show. For the first time since the pandemic, the artists will be present for the event to celebrate their achievements and to share more about the work. Sheriff Heath Gunter looks forward to welcoming the community to view the show.

Nick Callahan, Alvin Johnson, Charles Layne, Stevie Ray Needham, Clinton Sanders and Ashley Tate will be sharing works they created while participating in the The Narrative Portrait Project, a multidisciplinary art project intended to guide participants in exploring their identity through journaling and art-making. For incarcerated individuals, the opportunity to create their own stories can be an especially empowering experience. For the community at large, engaging with these stories can challenge the stigma around incarceration, breaking down barriers between individuals on the inside and those on the outside. The art show will be free and open to the public, with refreshments provided by the kitchen staff at the Grundy County Detention Center.

Cool Cosmos by Judy Jones.

‘Nature’s Awesome Beauty’ at In-Town Gallery

April is here bringing with it an abundance of burgeoning growth and flowering color. In keeping with the season, In-Town Gallery presents a showing of work created by artist Judy Jones that displays the world of plants and flowers in a direct and dramatic way. Her artwork utilizes both gilded plaster bas relief and resin as she celebrates the infinite variety and intricate beauty of the plant world. “Nature’s Awesome Beauty” renders permanent the glorious but ephemeral beauty of botanical life. Beginning with a reception Friday, March 7, from 5–8 p.m., “Nature’s Awesome Beauty” will run through April 30th.

Judy Jones obtained a BA in Fine Arts from West Georgia College. Like many artists, art took a back seat to life and work for a number of years. However, upon her retirement from the printing business she discovered a process for making plaster castings of flowers in a magazine. “A couple of years ago” she says, “I came across an article outlining the works of Rachel Dein showing her work with plaster castings of spring flowers. I saved the article and in time decided to research the technique. I sought out information wherever I could, even watching videos of a Russian artist demonstrating his work. There was no audio: only brief subtitles, but it was enough to inspire me to begin.” A period of experimentation followed as she built on what she’d seen, developing and refining her technique. More recently, she has added artwork created with flowers encased in resin. The two processes complement one another and in Jones’s hands, both present and enhance the beauty of nature.

In-Town Gallery is a cooperative gallery located on Chattanooga’s North Shore at 26A Frazier Avenue. We are open 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. (closed Tuesdays) and 1-5 p.m. on Sundays. Our artists offer a diverse range of original art and fine craft including paintings in various media, sculpture, flame-worked glass, pottery, works in wood and metal, jewelry and fine art photography. Visit us at www.intowngallery.com or follow us on Facebook and Instagram.

Five Planets and Early Spring

These last nights of March we have a chance to see five planets after sundown in the western sky. Uranus is visible near Venus, the bright Evening Star, with binoculars and a dark sky. Low in the west at the point of sunset are Jupiter and Mercury. Mars is near the Moon and still looks red, though not as bright as it was a few months ago. Of course, all this is under good viewing conditions. On the vernal equinox last week I went out back in our dry plateau-top oak woods to see if the plants were showing any signs of spring. The red maples, in fruit, were gorgeous against the blue sky, but the oaks are still wisely holding back until the weather stabilizes. Along a little seasonal stream, some vegetation was starting to show-Butterweed and Kidney-Leaf Buttercup. There was one bloom — a Common Blue Violet. My husband saw one little clump of Bluets this week. The over-wintering leaves of Crane-fly Orchid are still green, with purple undersides. The buds of Clammy Azalea are starting to swell. Around the house the Shadbush or Serviceberry was in bloom, as it was along some of the roadsides and wood edges. I haven't been down in Shakerag yet but I'm sure much more is coming along there among the spring wildflowers, hoping they weren't too badly hit by the hard freeze. Reports are always welcome to Nature Notes!

Max

Lilly

MARC's Mountain Adoptables Meet Max & Lilly

Max is a very nice boy who likes to be with his people. He gets along well with other dogs and is not very interested in the cat in the foster home although they haven't really been together. Max is housetrained and walks fairly well on a leash. He is learning some commands and is eager to please. Max is around 2 years old and mostly black with some white on his chest. Come meet Max and see if he is just who you have been looking to add to your family.

Lilly is a funny, loving, Brindle and white cutie. She has been called a little "potato" but she has been working on her physique and now has a nice trim waistline. Lilly probably had not been inside a home for her whole life of around 2.5 years. She is really liking cuddling with her people and is learning good house manners. Lilly is crate trained and gets along fine with the two other larger and three giant breed dogs in her foster home. She is ready to meet you and find her forever home.

If you would like to learn more about Max and Lilly, please fill out an Adoption Application on the MARC website <www.marc4change.org> or contact Sue Scruggs at (423) 619-3845. These pets are fostering on the Sewanee-Monteagle Mountain and are easy to meet. All MARC animals ready for adoption are spayed or neutered and up-to-date on their vaccines and preventatives. MARC - Marion Animal Resource Connection is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit animal welfare organization. It is not a shelter and relies on foster homes to save animals. MARC also provides low cost and free spay/neuter procedures for animals and is available for teaching humane care of animals in schools and to community organizations.

April Fools' Day

I Saw a Peacock, with a fiery tail,
I saw a Blazing Comet, drop down hail,
I saw a Cloud, with Ivy circled round,
I saw a sturdy Oak, creep on the ground,
I saw a Pismire [Ant], swallow up a Whale,
I saw a raging Sea, brim full of Ale,
I saw a Venice Glass, Sixteen foot deep,
I saw a well, full of men's tears that weep,
I saw their eyes, all in a flame of fire,
I saw a House, as big as the Moon and higher,
I saw the Sun, even in the midst of night,
I saw the man, that saw this wondrous sight.

--Anonymous, I Saw a Peacock (c. 1665)

And now read the poem with different line breaks:

I saw a peacock;
with a fiery tail, I saw a blazing comet;
drop down hail, I saw a cloud;...
