Theatre/Sewanee Presents ‘Sense and Sensibility’

by Bailey Basham, Messenger Staff Writer

Fans of Jane Austen and other classic creatives are uniquely well-suited to Sewanee, particularly to the University’s theatre department. The department has premiered quite a long list of classic works in previous years, and as of this week, the fall semester is joining the ranks with “Sense & Sensibility.”

Written by Austen in 1811 and at first published anonymously, “Sense & Sensibility” is the story of the Dashwood sisters, Marianne and Elinor, as they navigate young womanhood, the loss of their father, and complex family dynamics. Austen’s work was adapted for the stage by American playwright Kate Hamill and made its Sewanee debut this week. This production is directed by Visiting Assistant Professor Sarah Lacy Hamilton and will play in the Proctor Hill Theater through Sunday, Oct. 30.

Hamilton, who is in her first year at Sewanee, has specialized in directing throughout her academic career. Most recently, she directed Sarah Ruhl’s “In the Next Room,” at River & Rail Theatre Company in Knoxville. Hamilton has also directed “Sweat” by Lynn Nottage, “HIR” by Taylor Mac and a variety of new works by writers in the prestigious Iowa Playwrights Workshop.

“I’ve always known I wanted to be a director. Some of my earliest memories are of directing my childhood friends and family members in backyard productions when I was a little girl. Before studying directing formally, I trained as an actor, and that still has a major influence on my artistic and academic work,” Hamilton said. “As a director, I am most passionate about plays with great heart that embrace all of the contradictions of life and that hold the tragic and the comic in the same breath. I specialize in actor-driven new and contemporary works that foreground the human condition and highlight the experiences of underrepresented communities.”

“In this production, I’ve worked very closely with our Movement Director, Olivia Millwood, to create a style of movement and choreography that is playful and evokes the Regency era.”

Olivia Millwood, movement director and light designer for the production, has been dancing for most of her life and began exploring choreography within the last 5 years.

“Theatre is a culmination of all my interests. It can be very political, bold, and quite philosophical, but simultaneously asks both its makers and the audience to push beyond the boundaries of reality. It’s entertaining while also challenging the mind to think creatively. It’s a field in which we are constantly learning about anything and everything,” Millwood said.

Kalia Thompson, a senior english and theatre double major, is playing Marianna Dashwood, who is referred to as the sensibility aspect of the play. Thompson has been acting since she was 5-years-old and said that she originally became interested in acting as an extension of her desire to better understand others.

“I gravitated towards acting due to the ability to step into someone’s shoes and understand their story better. I’ve always loved stories, and acting allows me to bring them to life,” Thompson said.

Hamilton added that, as with almost any production, she is most looking forward to seeing the audience experience the play.

“It is playful, goofy and very fun. I can’t wait to have the energy of the audience in the room, to hear their vocal and physical responses, and to see how that changes the experience of the play,” Hamilton said.

Sewanee Council Grapples with Bike- Lane Danger

by Leslie Lytle
Messenger Staff Writer

At the Oct. 24 meeting, the Sewanee Community Council grappled with how to address danger to cyclists, especially children biking to school, caused by frequent student parking in the University Avenue bike lanes. The council also took up questions about lease fee spending, reinstituting Lifelong Learning programs, the need for a walking path on Breakfield Road, and additional representation on the Sewanee Village Ventures board.

Residents and council members stressed the danger to University Avenue cyclists swerving out into traffic to avoid parked cars, as well as danger from car doors opening unexpectedly. “Parents fear for their children’s lives,” said council representative Marilyn Phelps. Sewanee Police Captain Dylan McClure said parking in bike lanes was illegal, and the police ticketed violators, but the verification process was time consuming. Acting Vice-Chancellor Nancy Berner speculated University Avenue bike-lane parking increased because during the pandemic students got in the habit of parking there when going to McClurg to pick up their green-box meals.

Council member Phil White proposed suspension of student violators in addition to the $50-$100 fine. Solutions proposed by residents included slowing traffic and a multimodal path on University Avenue. Others proposed eliminating the bike lanes if the no-parking law could not be enforced. One resident offered to help write tickets. Another resident observed the ultimate goal was “trying to change the behavior.”

Berner said she would make sure there was “follow up.” The new University master plan being drafted could be brought into service to address the parking-shortage problem, but Berner acknowledged the need for “something faster” and suggested a “working group” to come up with a short-term solution.

Taking a question about spending plans for the lease fee revenue generated by increased property assessments, Superintendent of Leases and Community Relations Sallie Green explained the lease fee had two parts: ground rent and the municipal services fee. The ground rent portion helps fund University operating revenue such as benefits and salaries. The University anticipates collecting $500,000 in ground rent this academic year. The municipal service fee funds police and fire protection and

DEAR MIDWAY COMMUNITY

The Sewanee Franklin County Airport Obstruction Clearing Project began in September with a contractor hired by the University working to clear trees on three properties adjacent to the airport. The University directed the contractor to stop burning on Oct. 6 due to adverse weather conditions. Since Oct. 6, the University has been exploring alternatives to burning and has decided on a course of action that will not require additional burning.

Some members of the community have had questions about the burning that took place before Oct. 6. We hope the following information will address those questions.

—Representatives from the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) have been on site to review the burning methods utilized. Both state agencies have confirmed that the University has been compliant with all state regulations that pertain to burning methods.

—In compliance with state regulations, a small amount of diesel fuel was used to ignite the burn, but no diesel or any other fuel was used to accelerate the burning after the fire was started. No chemicals have been used in the burning process.

Thank you for your patience as we work to complete this important project. If you have questions, please submit them via email to: <directorofbusinessservices@sewanee.edu>.

Sincerely,
Jimmy Davis, Director of Business Services

STORMWATER FLOODING FROM THE RBT TRUCK STOP SITE

To the Editor:

In my Sept. 15 presentation to the Monteagle Regional Planning Commission regarding pollution of Laurel Lake by stormwater runoff from the RBT tract in Monteagle, I included photos, video sequences, and satellite photos showing silty water flowing from the RBT property into culverts, in streams, and into Laurel Lake as the result of seven separate rainstorms dating from Dec. 22, 2020 to Aug. 10, 2022. Some have publicly implied that all of the photos and video in my PowerPoint presentation showed stormwater runoff from a single unusually heavy rainstorm which occurred on July 30, 2022. The satellite photos showing the heavy silt contamination Laurel Lake were taken on Jan. 20, 2022, long before the July 30, 2022 rainstorm. I desire to clarify this issue for the public. The entire presentation is posted on Facebook in the Monteagle Bulletin Board page.

community services such as parks, lighting in commons areas, and the community funding project. In 2020-2021 the University spent $2.2 million on municipal services, with leaseholders responsible for 18 percent of the total (approximately $400,000).

Council member John Solomon asked about plans for the Lifelong Learning Academy program resuming. Berner concurred there was “a lot of enthusiasm” for the program. Although currently there was no director, the University was trying to “figure out a way forward.” Acting Provost Scott Wilson said he hoped some programming would be offered next semester.

Solomon also proposed the need for a walking path extending beyond the point where the Breakfield Road walking path ended. He cited dangers to pedestrians, cyclists, and horseback riders from motorists with poor visibility due to navigating a curve and driving directly into the sun at certain times of year. Solomon spoke with Domain Manager Nate Wilson about the University creating a gravel path in the wooded area to alleviate the problem. Acting Provost Wilson said the University was “looking into it.” Domain Manager Wilson had consulted with him about the possibility and facilities management had also joined in the discussion.

Raising a third question, Solomon asked why the community did not have “more direct representation” on the Sewanee Village Ventures board. University Vice President for Economic Development and Community Relations David Shipps acknowledged “the omission” and proposed forming an advisory committee composed of faculty, staff, business owners, council members and perhaps others. “[An advisory committee] would be a gentler, easier path than expanding board membership,” Shipps said. Affirming Solomon’s point, council member Lynn Stubblefield said, “The business community feels like they are not consulted.” Council member Eric Keen suggested also including the Roberson Project and St. Mark’s Community Center on the advisory committee.

In other business the council approved a constitution amendment clarifying the residential requirement for council membership and welcomed new Parks Committee Chair Charles Whitmer.

Mayor Barrett says that the city council is also working toward starting a community theater in the future and states, “Events like these will draw attention to the wonderful facility we have here and it is our goal to become known for producing good, wholesome family entertainment.”

Alone Again: A Conversation for Widows/Widowers

Join the Rev. Barbara Crafton for this virtual retreat held on Zoom, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 5. Participants will consider how to live and move and have our being in a new world we did not choose to enter. But we do know that others have walked the road we're walking and found hope. At the end of our time together, we'll have gotten a little closer to doing that ourselves.

Crafton is an Episcopal priest and author. She heads The Geranium Farm, an institute for the promotion of spiritual growth. The Farm published her Almost-Daily eMo, a meditation read online by tens of thousands worldwide. She has served a number of churches, including historic Trinity Church, Wall Street, St. John's-in-the-Village in Greenwich Village, St. Clement's in Manhattan's theatre district and St. James, the American church in Florence. She was a maritime chaplain on the New York waterfront, and served as a chaplain at Ground Zero after the attack on the World Trade Center. A spiritual director, Crafton has led many retreats throughout the United States and abroad. Her many books include books of essays, books of daily meditations, a book about the aftermath of the World Trade Center bombing ("Mass in Time of War") and more recently, books about depression, vocation and the ALSOLIFE.

"An Evening with Lewis & Tolkien" will be at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 2, in Guerry Auditorium.

'An Evening with Lewis & Tolkien'

Friends of the Library of Sewanee: The University of the South invites you to attend the fifth annual Tom G. Watson Memorial Event. This year, we are offering a play, "An Evening with Lewis & Tolkien," written and directed by David Payne. The play will be at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 2, in Guerry Auditorium. The public is invited to attend and there is no admission charge. This event is being co-sponsored by the Friends of the Library, Library and Information Technology Services, University Lectures Committee, School of Theology, Department of English, and Dialogue Across Difference.

The year is 1963 and J.R.R. Tolkien is at an Oxford pub waiting for his long-time friend, C.S. Lewis, to arrive. Lewis is recovering from a heart attack and Tolkien is aware that Lewis' failing health means the opportunities for them to meet up may be less than either would like. Tolkien has chosen to meet in the Eagle & Child pub where, in the early years of their friendship, they met weekly – the pub they always referred to as The Bird & Baby.

David Payne, playing the role of C.S. Lewis, is the author, actor, and director of the play. David's first time on stage was at the age of 56 at Nashville's prestigious Tennessee Performing Arts Center (TPAC). He had been in Nashville for a music project when he read a theatrical bulletin which contained seven words that would change his life – "Auditions for Shadowlands, British accents a help." He had never been on stage before but, having been born in London in 1942, he did have a British accent! He went along to the audition hoping to get a small part and to everyone's surprise — not least his own — won the lead role of C.S. Lewis. Following his Nashville debut, he has performed his much acclaimed one man show, "An Evening with C.S. Lewis," more than 1,500 times. An earlier version of that show on YouTube is nearing 2.5 million views. He has written and performed in numerous self-penned productions, including "An Evening with Lewis & Tolkien." David will return to TPAC this coming Christmas season with his latest production, "Christmas with C.S. Lewis." In 2023 David will tour with "Churchill," a show that he wrote in 2020 when most of his schedule was cancelled due to Covid. Already being hailed a master class in acting, David portrays the famous British politician as he recalls the events and people that did much to prepare him for his wartime role including the two most important women in his life, his wife, Clementine and Queen Elizabeth.

Gregory Williams Welsh will play the role of J.R.R. Tolkien. Having trained in New York, Greg is based in Nashville. He has received awards for his many portrayals including Vladimir in Samuel Becket's "Waiting for Godot"; Mitch in the Tennessee Williams classic, "A Streetcar Named Desire"; and his portrayal of 12 different characters in "The Life and Times of Lenny Bruce." Four years ago, Greg teamed up with David Payne for the premiere presentation of the production "An Evening with Lewis & Tolkien." During those four years, his portrayal of the author that gave the world "The Lord of the Rings" has thrilled audiences. Because the demand for David's production "An Evening with C.S. Lewis" was more than David himself could perform, Greg has been entrusted with the role for which he has also received much praise. This coming Christmas season he will join with David, and actor Jonathan Swenson, in portraying the renowned British author in David's "Christmas with C.S. Lewis." Three actors are required as the production will be over a four-week period and will play in 14 cities. David is delighted that Greg will be portraying C.S. Lewis for this Christmas tour and all the more so since Greg joined David in the UK for the rehearsals. "Greg's audiences are going to be enthralled by his performance which will, once again, prove what an accomplished actor he is." You can find more about the upcoming plays at <https://birdandbabyproductions.com/>.

There will be an intermission during the play and the actors will offer a brief Q&A session following the talk. Parking will be available on University Avenue.

More information about the Friends of the Library can be found at their website: <http://libguides.sewanee.edu/FOL>. If you have questions about the talk or joining the Friends of the Library, please contact Penny Cowan at (931) 598-1573 or <pcowan@sewanee.edu>.

63rd Annual Lessons and Carols

On Christmas Eve, 1918, the Chaplain of King's College, Cambridge took a Cornish Christmas tradition and brought it to the world. Weaving together biblical readings with seasonal music, the service prepared participants to hear the announcement of the birth of Jesus Christ. For over 60 years, Sewanee has hosted its own service, and coming as it does at the end of the Advent semester, the gathering becomes, for many, the Christmas celebration of the University. In addition to the students, staff, and faculty of the University, the service is open to the broader community in Sewanee and beyond.

We look forward to welcoming the extended Sewanee family back into All Saints' Chapel in 2022. With a seats for over 1,000 guests, we anticipate being able to seat every person who comes to worship in All Saints' Chapel. Two services, Saturday, Dec. 3, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 4, at 4 p.m., feature walk-up seating, and doors will open an hour in advance of the service. The 7 p.m. service on Saturday, Dec. 3 will be live-streamed <https://vimeo.com/event/167828> for friends and family who are unable to attend in person. The service at 4 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 3, features reserved seating, and tickets for that service will become available closer to November. Please note that large bags or backpacks will not be allowed in All Saints' Chapel. Email us with questions <lessonsandcarols@sewanee.edu>.

What Tennesseans Need to Know About the Proposed Constitutional Amendments on the Nov. 8 Ballot

Secretary of State Tre Hargett wants voters to know about the four proposed Constitutional amendments on the Nov. 8 State and Federal General Election ballot and the process for amendments to pass in Tennessee.

"Our Tennessee Constitution is the foundation of our state government and this November, there will be four proposed Constitutional amendments on the ballot," said Secretary Hargett. "It's important for voters to not only know what these proposed amendments are but also understand how amendments become part of our Constitution so they can make informed voting decisions."

In Tennessee, proposed Constitutional amendments are presented as yes or no questions on the ballot. A yes vote is a vote to amend the Constitution and adopt the proposed language in the amendment. A no vote is a vote not to amend the Constitution and keep the current language in the Constitution unchanged.

Two things must happen for an amendment to pass and become part of the Constitution. The first is the amendment must get more yes votes than no votes. The second is that the number of yes votes must be a majority of the total votes in the gubernatorial election. Tennessee's longstanding process to determine the results for proposed Constitutional amendments was confirmed by a court decision following the 2014 general election.

To determine the number of votes needed to adopt a proposed Constitutional amendment, votes for all candidates for governor are added together and then divided by two. If there are more yes votes than no votes on the proposed amendment and the number of yes votes exceeds 50 percent +1 of the total votes for governor, the amendment passes and becomes part of the Constitution. The Constitutional amendment fails if the number of yes votes does not meet or exceed the threshold or if there are more no votes than yes votes.

Although the number of votes cast for governor is used to determine the threshold for a proposed Constitutional amendment to pass, it is not necessary to vote in the governor's race to vote on the Constitutional amendments. Likewise, it is not necessary to vote on any of the amendments to vote in the governor's race.

On the ballot, voters will see the candidates for governor, followed directly by the four proposed amendments. After the proposed Constitutional amendments, voters will have the opportunity to vote for candidates for the United States House of Representatives and the county's remaining offices on the general election ballot.

The four proposed amendments were approved to appear on the Nov. 8 ballot by the 111th and 112th General Assemblies.

The four proposed amendments to the Tennessee Constitution on the Nov. 8 ballot:

An amendment to Article XI, of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to the right to work.

An amendment to Article II and Article III of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to the exercise of the powers and duties of the Governor during disability.

An amendment to Article I, Section 33 of the Constitution of Tennessee, to prohibit slavery and involuntary servitude.

An amendment to Article IX, of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to disqualifications.

To see the exact language for the proposed Constitutional amendments that will appear on the ballot, including a summary of each amendment written by the Tennessee Attorney General's office, visit <sos.tn.gov/amendments>.

The Secretary of State's office and local county election commissions are Tennessee's trusted sources for accurate election information. For the latest information about the Nov. 8 State and Federal General Election, follow the Secretary of State's social media channels Twitter: @SecTreHargett, Facebook: Tennessee Secretary of State and Instagram: @tnsecofstate.

ANGEL WITH AN ATTITUDE

by Virginia Craighill

Dear Angel,

At the last home football game, we wanted to tailgate but saw signs that said "Parking $20." What the heck? I don't remember having to pay to park before.

Signed,
Frugal Fan

Dear Frugal Fan,

Now that the Tiger football team has won a couple of games (we can count Millsaps as a near-win), what do you expect? No doubt if the Sewanee Tigers keep improving in the "W" column, your tailgate prices will keep escalating to reflect their success. And be careful what you wish for in terms of a winning season – Ole Miss charges $1,500 per tailgate space.

The $20 price ticket for a place on the field might be part of the "Domain Optimization" plan. People have enjoyed a cost-free paradise on the Plateau long enough; it's time to get a little cash in exchange for your viewing pleasure. Besides charging for parking spaces during football games, there will be fees for photos taken at the Cross and Green's View ($10 extra for sunset selfies). And you can expect to see toll booths at both the Monteagle and Cowan gates.

No longer can you get complimentary heavenly protection just by tapping the roof of your car when you leave Sewanee behind. You'll receive a ticket when you leave, and when you return, you'll find your Sewanee Angel sitting in the entrance booth, with frayed wings and a cigarette dangling from her lips. They'll be charging for their time and for the mileage between visits. Keeping you safe is no easy job, and they deserve remuneration (10 percent goes to Union dues; 15 percent to the construction of an Old Angels' Home; the remainder will go to the slush fund for new Associate Vice-President salaries).

One recent former Vice-Chancellor often referred to Sewanee as a "country club." Get ready to pay up; your outstanding membership fees are due.

Sincerely,
Angel

We're glad you're reading the Messenger!

Thrifting Goes Big Time

Parade Magazine, found in the Chattanooga Times Sunday Edition, dedicated half a page to three Thrift Store shopping pointers.

Browse with a Plan. Go with something in mind. Shop one room thoroughly and then go to another or you might forget where you saw that great china teapot!

Get tactile. Touch fabrics and metal objects to get a sense of material, texture, and weight. Heavy clothes or housewares are usually made from better materials. Jewelry items that are cold are usually made from stone, metal, or glass. Plastic feels warm.

Be prepared. Bring the amount of cash you are willing to spend. Tote a cloth shopping bag and wear comfortable shoes. Carry a small tape measure and put notes on your phone about heights of shelves or lengths of draperies you are looking for.

The Hospitality Shop is eager to serve smart shoppers. We even have a tape measure if you forget yours! Hours are 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday. Halloween costumes are going fast. Come find your alter-ego.

Tennessee Craft South Promotes Empty Tables Project: Relieving Hunger Creatively

Tennessee Craft South, a local regional chapter of Tennessee Craft, welcomes artists and craftspeople to join in the effort to feed our neighbors. The initiative, Empty Tables, encourages artists to contribute works that celebrate growing, serving, and eating food. These items will be sold during the Tennessee Craft South Studio Tour in the American Legion Hall in Sewanee during the first weekend of December. All proceeds from the sale of the items will be used to combat hunger in the region.

To achieve the goals of the Empty Tables project, in addition to soliciting the help of area artists, Tennessee Craft South is partnering with Sewanee Locally Grown, a local gardeners' market group in Sewanee, Sewanee's Community Action Committee, and Monteagle's Morton Memorial Church. These groups regularly work to address food security in Grundy, Marion, and Franklin counties.

All area artists are encouraged to participate in this project. Artists who would like to contribute to the Empty Tables project or who would like more information should contact Tennessee Craft South vice-president, Claire Reishman <creishman@gmail.com>.

Finding Your Place Capstone Project Exhibition

The Carlos Gallery in the Visual Art Building at University of the South is pleased to present the Finding Your Place Capstone Project Exhibition, a multidisciplinary group exhibit of capstone projects by students in FYRP 130: The Artist as Collector and FYRP 101: Creating Place. Both courses are a part of Sewanee’s Finding Your Place first-year program, and are taught by Jessica Wohl, Associate Professor of Art and Chair of Art, Art History and Visual Studies, and Rob Bachman, F.B. Williams Professor and Chair of Chemistry and Director of the First-Year Program, respectively. The exhibition will feature the creative work of 27 first-year students. The exhibit will be on display until Nov. 12.

In The Artist as Collector, students consider why people collect and what truths can be revealed through the study of collections, from the historical and place-based to the personal and seemingly meaningless. In this exhibition, through the generation and presentation of collections, students illuminate and reveal issues, sentiments and experiences that are otherwise hidden and invisible. Through conducting research, asking questions and curating information in quantities, these students situate their personal interests and concerns in the universal, and allow their collections to visualize their experiences as they come to understand Sewanee as a new place and as their new home. The multidisciplinary collections take the form of installations, photographs, paintings, posters, garments, moving images and an interactive website.

Students in Creating Place explore how chemical processes generate and transform the world, and search for the hidden chemistry that brings landscapes, places, and communities to life. Artistic works resulting from these investigations take the form of cyanotypes, a historical and alternative printing process that results from exposure of a carefully-prepared chemical mixture spread on a surface to ultraviolet light. Students’ experimentation in the laboratory, discovery of chemical processes, and the development of craftsmanship ultimately transform digital images of places, memories, or dreams into a blue-tinted print that can present familiar imagery in an unfamiliar way, asking viewers to consider looking at the world with a new perspective.

Men's Soccer Beats Centre 1-0 in Regular Season Finale

On Oct. 22, the Sewanee men's soccer team took on Centre in the regular season finale. A Tyler Cozzi goal in the 16th minute was the difference, as Sewanee came away with a 1-0 win.

In the 16th minute, Tyler Cozzi finished a pass from Connor Dail to put the Tigers up 1-0.

Sewanee would take two more shots in the half, but were unable to find the back of the net.

The Sewanee defense was suffocating throughout the game, only allowing three shots to be taken by Centre.

JP Furman made his only save of the day in the 78th minute to seal the win.

Cozzi's 5th goal of the year puts him at five on the year, and with 13 total points, good enough for second on the team in both categories.

Dail's fourth assist of the year ties him with David Edge for most on the Sewanee roster.

Women's Soccer Wins SAA Regular Season Crown

On Oct. 22, the Sewanee women's soccer team wrapped up the regular season with a match against Centre, with a chance to win the SAA Regular Season Championship. After being down 2-1 at halftime, goals by Kylene Monaghan and Kate Thomson put the Tigers on top.

The match was back and forth at the beginning, with Sewanee controlling the bulk of the possession.

The Tigers got off five shots in the first half, with two of them being on frame but were unable to find the net.

Centre got on the board in the 36th minute, when Lydia Bowling capitalized on a service from up top.

Sewanee came out firing, shooting 4 times in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

In the 66th minute, Kylene Monaghan found a loose ball and fired it into the upper corner to tie the game.

Two minutes later, Kate Thomson scored the game winning goal off of a free kick.

Centre would get another look off a break away, but Leah Atkins was up to the task, recording her lone save of the day.

Thomson's free kick game winner is her second game winner in two games.

Monaghans fourth goal of the year put her atop the team in total points, with 11 on four goals and three assists.

Sewanee awaits the bracket release for the SAA Tournament. They will be the No. 1 seed, and will host all games.

Field Hockey Drops Game to Transylvania

On Oct. 22, the University of the South field hockey team took on Transylvania in an SAA game. The efficient shooting of Transylvania proved to be the difference, as they defeated Sewanee 7-0.

The Pioneers got on the board early, scoring less than two minutes into the game.

Sydney Simpson got the lone shot off for the Tigers in the first half, but was turned away by the goalkeeper.

Transylvania would score with 11 seconds left in the first to go up 2-0.

Transylvania would go up 6-0, with four goals in a six minute run to end the half.

Claire Damare had three of her six saves in the first half.

Damare would record three more saves in the third quarter, as the Tiger defense held the Pioneers scoreless.

Transylvania would add one more late goal to make it 7-0.

Annie West and Mimi Wilson would each record shots in the second half.

Volleyball Sweeps Rhodes to Complete Successful Road Trip

The University of the South volleyball team wrapped up a big weekend on the road, as the Tigers defeated the Lynx of Rhodes College in straight sets, Oct. 22, from Mallory Gymnasium in a Southern Athletic Association match. A first set that went back-and-forth, Rhodes, trailing 17-16, put together a 7-1 run, including winning five straight points on four kills and an ace, to lead, 22-18.

Sewanee responded in a big way, winning seven of the final eight points to take the opening set. Laurel Burkhardt recorded back-to-back kills for Sewanee to clinch the set.

In the second frame, the Tigers kept the momentum in their favor, winning nine of the first 11 points of the set.

Rhodes, however, would make it interesting. After the Tigers secured set point, 24-16, the Lynx won seven straight points, including four kills by Gabrielle White, to make it 24-23. The eighth set point was the charm for the Purple and White, as an Olivia Jones spike gave the Tigers the 2-0 advantage.

The third set was all Sewanee, as they used 18 kills and a .405 swing percentage (18-3-37) to complete the sweep, 25-21. Rhodes hung tough, as they posted a .268 attack mark (14-3-41).

Ashley Crosby led the Tigers with 13.5 points on 13 kills and a block assist on the afternoon. The junior tallied a .333 swing percentage with two attack errors.

Laurel Burkhardt posted nine kills, while Ellie Pedersen had nine total blocks with seven kills and four assisted blocks.

Adele Cassidy led the defense with 17 digs.

Community Bike Riding Opportunities

The Sewanee GoGirls MTB rides are regularly scheduled on the first and third Sundays of every month, starting at 3 p.m. from the Lake Cheston parking lot. Rides are accessible for anyone with basic trail experience, with adjustments for age, duration, and skill level as appropriate. Mountain bikes are recommended for all trail rides.

For families, new riders, and anyone interested in biking a short distance with social time afterwards at a local restaurant, there is a monthly Community Bike Ride on the paved Mountain Goat Trail (MGT) every first Saturday of the month starting at 3 p.m. from Hawkins Lane in Sewanee. This is a great ride for younger children and families. Riders who prefer biking on dirt trails also have the option of riding a short MGT section before exiting and riding to Lake Dimmick and back. Swimming & Diving Compete in Weekend Duals

The University of the South swimming and diving teams participated in weekend dual meets, Oct. 21 and 22. On Friday, the Tigers took on the Pioneers of Transylvania University, while on Saturday, it was a battle of conference foes, as Sewanee faced off with Centre College.

Mary Louise LeMieux took home three victories versus Transylvania, winning the 100 free (55.87), the 200 free (2:01.20) and 500 free (5:32.46).

Rachel Little posted a winning time of 2:23.13 in the 200 individual medley, while Maddy DuBois swam a 1:04.63 in the 100 butterfly to claim the gold.

On the men's side, George Mabry claimed the top spot in the 100 backstroke with a 56.59-second performance.

Naeem Mangum cruised to a 1:03.68 time to win gold in the 100 breaststroke.

LeMieux picked up two more wins in Saturday's dual with the Colonels, winning the 400 IM (4:57.92) and the 500 for a second straight day (5:26.85).

Katie Walker (141.38) and Greta Cobb (186.00) won the one-meter diving events.

George Mabry posted two silver performances with a 22.25-second sprint in the 50 free and 2:03.27 in the 200 backstroke.

Ben Jackson placed second in both one-meter diving events with scores of 111.60 and 184.88.

After spending the first month away from the Domain, the Tigers will open the home portion of the 2022-23 season this weekend with the Sewanee Invitational.

NCEA Sweeps Fences to Take Down Bridgewater

The No. 3 University of the South equestrian team hosted its first-ever home meet for the National Collegiate Equestrian Association (NCEA), and it did not disappoint. In the first event of the 2022-23 season, the Tigers defeated the Eagles of Bridgewater College, 5-3, Oct. 22, from the Howell Equestrian Center. The NCEA also made Saturday's meet the NCEA's "Meet of the Week."

Starting with the flat, Liza Shoaf, riding on Xander, defeated Emily Nuthall to give Sewanee its lone point in the event. The Eagles took three points and led, 3-1, at the halfway point.

The Tigers' domination in fences from last year rolled into the season-opening meet of 2022-23. Sewanee took the meet by winning all four points in the fences.

Riding on Carlson, Liza Shoaf earned Most Outstanding Performer (MOP) honors with an 83 score.

Ariella Gesthalter scored 78 points with City Girl, while Giselle Harmon and Marvin scored 76. Gigi Aiken wrapped up the sweep for Sewanee with her 70-point performance on Forever.

The Tigers will next host national finalist Sweet Briar College on Nov. 12 at home.

Football Downed by BSC

In the third-ever night game from historic Hardee-McGee Field at Harris Stadium, Birmingham-Southern College defeated the University of the South by a 47-3 score, Oct. 22, in a Southern Athletic Association (SAA) contest.

On Sewanee's first drive of the game, the Tigers went down the field for 59 yards. On the ninth play of the drive, Sewanee scored first on a 33-yard field goal to put the home team on the board first.

BSC responded by finding the end zone for a two-yard touchdown run by Jon Lewis.

From there, drives stalled out, as it took 30 minutes on the clock to complete one quarter of play.

As the second quarter started, BSC had a 34-yard field goal by Zach Ford to make it a one-score game, 10-3. After a Sewanee punt on its next possession, Birmingham-Southern recorded back-to-back touchdowns to lead 24-3 at the break.

In the third, the Panthers took advantage of each drive, scoring in three straight possessions to put the game out of reach.

Birmingham-Southern is receiving votes in the latest polls from <D3football.com> and the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA).

Freshman Michael Showalter had a career day in his young career on the defensive line, posting a season-best 10 tackles. Quinn Johnson had 11 total stops, including 1.5 for a loss.

Kaleb Seay also had 10 tackles, while Zion Morris, John Harbison and Will Cady each had a tackle behind the line of scrimmage.

Ethan Gillespie caught two catches for 28 yards, while Henry Arnall totaled 27 receiving yards.

High Desert Highlights

Dianna Kempfer shared their “first sighting of these adorable Green-winged Teal dabbling ducks on Lake Louisa in Cooley’s Rift. With temps below freezing this morning, Oct. 19, they were really huddled together!”

We, the Gottfrieds, have been travelling in the High Desert of Oregon, Nevada, and California — miles and miles (and miles!) of flat sagebrush, somewhat relieved by Gray Rabbitbrush still in yellow bloom, in perhaps the least populated area of the United States, on par with the population density of Alaska. Much of our travels were in the Basin and Ridge Province, or Great Basin. Precipitation drains not to the sea but internally, underground or into lakes, mostly alkaline, the Basins. The Ridges are north-south mountains caused by stretching of the earth’s crust. The tallest peak in the province (9,733 feet) is Steens Mountain, a 30-mile-long fault block. It falls a jaw-dropping 4,000 feet on the east side to the arid, alkaline Alvord Desert. We were able to drive to the top on the (relatively!) more gently sloping west side and be amazed at the glacier-carved gorges on its flanks. It was a delight to see the vegetation zones, alpine at the top above the tree line, with the characteristic cushion plants, then Quaking Aspens in glowing golden fall foliage with some Mountain Mahogany, then the ubiquitous Western juniper and, of course, sagebrush. We kept an eye out for wild horses there, and, there and elsewhere, for Pronghorn and Bighorn Sheep, but were not lucky enough to spot any. Our most frequent sightings were Black-billed Magpies along the roadside. The years-long decline in rainfall in this part of the West was very apparent in the dry flat areas designated as lakes on the maps. In Lakeview, we had hoped to see the only geyser in Oregon, but the low water table meant that it was no longer erupting.

MARC’s Mountain Adoptables

Meet Mage, Oliver & Pebbles

Mage is a sweet cuddly inquisitive young girl. She is very friendly and even likes her dog foster sibling. Mage will make a perfect companion for your family. You might even want to adopt her sister Wizard too. You will enjoy being entertained by their antics. Come meet Mage and Wizard soon.

Oliver & Pebbles are on Jasper Mountain, not far from here. They are best friends looking for a special new home where they can stay together. Oliver, 2 years old male, is merle color. Pebbles, 4 years old female is black & white. Oliver is very sweet and playful. He is still quite puppyish, likes to be greeted with low tones until he gets to know you, and likes the couch or a comfy pillow to just chill on.

Pebbles is very smart and enjoys playing with her rope toys, especially tug-of-war. She is very alert and will make good friends after a good sniff. You will win her over with a good ear rub. Pebbles loves to cuddle on the couch and to play outside on a nice day. Both Oliver and Pebbles sit on command, offer their paws to shake, and are very gentle when given a treat. If you are a Dane lover, here is your perfect pair. Check them out.

If you would like to learn more about Mage, Oliver and Pebbles, please fill out an Adoption Application on the MARC website <www.marc4change.org> or contact Sue Scruggs at (423) 619-3845. These pets are fostering on the Sewanee-Montecagle Mountain and are easy to meet. All MARC animals ready for adoption are spayed or neutered and up-to-date on their vaccines and preventatives.

MARC is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit animal welfare organization. It is not a shelter and relies on foster homes to save animals. MARC also provides low cost and free spay/neuter procedures for animals and is available for teaching humane education in schools and to community organizations.

FROM BARD TO VERSE

Halloween

One need not be a chamber to be haunted,
One need not be a house;
The brain has corridors surpassing
Material place.

Far safer, of a midnight meeting
External ghost,
Than an interior confronting
That whiter host.

Far safer through an Abbey gallop,
The stones achase,
Than, moonless, one's own self encounter
In lonesome place.

Ourself, behind ourself concealed,
Should startle most;
Assassin, hid in our apartment,
Be horror's least.

The prudent carries a revolver,
He bolts the door,
O'erlooking a superior spectre
More near.
